Harry's Easter dash to see his Meghan

■ Engagement speculation rises as star abandons her personal blog

Prince Harry has flown to Toronto to pay a secret visit and spend Easter with his girlfriend Meghan Markle.

The 32-year-old royal was spotted by paparrazi arriving at Miss Markle's home on Wednesday evening, carrying a holdall with his face obscured by a baseball cap.

It is a few weeks since the pair last saw each other and the 35-yearold actress will no doubt be looking forward to spending a relaxing weekend together, having not seen one another since the end of March.

On that occasion the actress flew in to London at the last minute and enjoyed a late night private tour of the Natural History Museum with her royal beau, before staying for a few nights at Kensington Palace, where Harry has a cottage.

Last month they were seen together at a friend's wedding in Jamaica.

The couple have enjoyed a string of romantic holidays since announcing their relationship last summer, and rumors have intensified in recent weeks that the Prince is about to pop the question.

In a further sign of the seriousness of their relationship, the Suits actress announced on Saturday that she is to discontinue her lifestyle blog The Tig.

'you are enough'

Wrapping-up her blog, she wrote: "What began as a passion project (my little engine that could) evolved into an amazing community of inspiration, support, fun and frivolity. You've made my days brighter and filled this experience with so much joy.

"Keep finding those Tig moments of discovery, keep laughing and taking risks, and keep being "the change you wish to see in the world.

"Above all, don't ever forget your worth - as I've told you time and time again: you, my sweet friend, you are enough."

The blog was named after the time Markle tried a wine called Tignanello and experienced "unbridled joy". It chronicled her life filming in Canada, travelling the world and even seemed to include a few thinly veiled references to her new relationship.

As well as playing the role of Rachel Zane on Suits, Markle spends a lot of time doing humanitarian work. She's a global ambassador for World Vision Canada and has also worked as an advocate for the UN Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women.

She says: "I've never wanted to be a lady who lunches - I've always wanted to be a woman who works. And this type of work is what feeds my soul, and fuels my purpose."

May and Sturgeon in vote stand-off

Nicola Sturgeon has insisted her preferred timetable for a second Scottish independence referendum necessary to allow make an voters to choice" "informed between Brexit and leaving the UK.

The First Minister is in a stand-off on the issue with Prime Minister Theresa May, who has made clear she believes "now is not the time" for a fresh ballot to be held.

The SNP leader wants there to be another vote on leaving the UK between autumn 2018 and spring 2019, when the terms of the UK's Brexit deal are clear.

While the Minister has not yet set out how she intends to take the matter forward, as Scotland's devolution settlement reserves powers over the constitution to Westminster, she told an audience in Glasgow that people need to be able to "come to a considered judgment" on the issue.

She contrasted the 2014 independence referendum campaign with last year's vote for the UK to leave the European Union - a position not supported in Scotland where 62 per unacceptable."

cent of voters opted to remain part of the bloc.

But in that ballot she said "people were asked to vote for a change, without ever really being told what that change involved".

Ms Sturgeon said: "I don't pretend for one moment that the 2014 referendum was perfect. But I do think it was a far better process for debate and decision than the 2016 vote on the EU.

"And so we want to ensure that the next referendum on independence again people gives information they need to come to an informed considered judgment.

"That is why nobody wants the referendum to take place immediately. Instead, I believe it should happen once the details of the final Brexit agreement with the EU are known. Based on what the Prime Minister says currently that is likely to be in late 2018 or early 2019."

She said: "Scotland, despite the arguments that were made in 2014 and how we voted in 2016, faces being forced to leave the EU against our will.

A new blooming tribute to an English rose

■ March heatwave brings riot of color to Diana tribute garden

A NEW tribute to Princess Diana in the 20th anniversary year of her death has suddenly sprung into full bloom in the sunken garden at Kensington Palace.

Staff at the late Princess's London home were not expecting to see the magnificent White Garden, one of several special royal tributes to Diana this year, in all its glory until May. But last weekend's mini-heatwave caused the glorious carpet of flowers to fill the garden where Diana once chatted amiably to the staff gardeners.

Α spokeswoman said: "It's bloomed somewhat earlier than we were expecting because of the hot weather. "Gardens are always slightly unpredictable but it's in full bloom. It looks amazing."

Its white flowers and foliage have been inspired by memories of Diana's life, style and image, such as her white "Elvis" Catherine Walker dress, currently on display inside the palace. The garden also evokes memories of the carpet of flowers left outside the palace by thousands of shocked mourners after her death in a Paris car

SPRING HAS SPRUNG: unseasonably warm weather has produced a riot of bloom at the White Garden at Kensington Palace, a tribute to Princess Diana crash on August 31, 1997.

At the palace, where her sons Prince Harry and the Duke of Cambridge, his wife Kate and their children Prince George and Princess Charlotte live, visitors can view the garden from a public walkway. The white carpet of forget-me-nots, roses, tulips and scented narcissi among others will be added to with summer planting that will include ornamental grasses, cosmos daisies, and gaura flowers that look like butterflies in a breeze.

Head gardener Sean Harkin chose the sunken garden, first planted in 1908, as the memorial site after he learned the Princess would often stop to talk to the gardeners. "Kensington Palace was the home of Princess Diana for 15 years and there's gardeners who aren't here any more but remember, and told me stories, about when they were working here in the sunken garden," he

"And they remember Princess Diana coming by and she would stop and she would admire the changing floral displays in the garden. And we change them over in springtime and in summer, so it can look quite different. She would have a chat with the gardeners and comment on all their hard work." He also told how a gardener fell over with an overweighted wheelbarrow.

He said: "Princess Diana was going by and turned around and said 'Bad luck, chaps', and kind of gave a smile. And they kind of smiled and found it really quite funny."

Later this William and Harry will unveil a statue of her at the palace as a tribute.

Tensions run high over Gib

An armed Spanish gunboat has been ordered to leave British waters off Gibraltar for a second time, officials in the territory say.

On Thursday morning, patrol boat Infanta Cristina was ordered to exit the area by the Royal Navy unit stationed in the small British overseas territory – home to just over 30,000 people.

A UK Government s p o k e s m a n told reporters: "The Royal Navy challenges all unlawful maritime incursions into British Gibraltar Territorial Waters - and did so again on this occasion."

A tweet by the government of Gibraltar added: "Another Illegal incursion into British Gibraltar Territorial Waters by Spanish Navy ship Infanta Cristina today."

The Infanta Cristina was involved in a similar incident last Tuesday, amid heightened tensions over the Rock due to Brexit.

Tensions increased after an EU document suggested that Spain would be given a veto on post-Brexit agreements governing Gibraltar.

Since then Prime Minister Theresa May has offered reassurance that the UK remains "steadfastly committed" to the Rock.

Former Tory leader Michael Howard even suggested that Mrs May would go to war to defend the sovereignty of Gibraltar, leading Spanish foreign minister Alfonso Dastis to tell the UK not to "lose tempers" over the situation.

Spain has a longstanding territorial claim on Gibraltar, which has been held by the UK since 1713.

Is stir on the menu for TV chef's father-in-law?

CELEBRITY chef Gordon Ramsay's father-in-law is facing a possible jail sentence after he admitted hacking the star's computer.

Chris Hutcheson, 68, and his two sons pleaded guilty to conspiracy to raid Ramsay's emails. His daughter Orlanda Butland, 45, who faced the same charge, walked free from the Old Bailey after Crown lawyers offered no evidence against her.

Hutcheson and his sons Adam, 46, and Chris, 37, were released on unconditional bail ahead of a sentencing hearing on June 2.

Judge Gerald Gordon said: "All options are open. It is clear, realistically, the judge is going to be considering only one other option to an immediate custodial sentence and it would be a suspended sentence."

The maximum sentence is two months in prison.

The charges stem from a legal battle between the star of Hell's Kitchen and Hutcheson in 2010 and 2011. Father-of-four Ramsay, 50, who married Hutcheson's daughter Tana, 42, in 1996, had once been close to his father-in-law and employed him as his chief executive.

But the two men fell out and Hutcheson was removed as a director and shareholder of Gordon Ramsay Holdings Ltd in 2010

At an earlier hearing, Dan Suter, prosecuting, said: "At the time Chris Hutcheson senior had been dismissed by GRHL, he had previously held a senior position with GRHL.

The prosecution said that as a result of that dismissal he was motivated to access, unlawfully, the computer system. A Scotland Yard expert later discovered almost 2,000 GRHL emails had been hacked.

Hutcheson and his son Adam used their Google Mail accounts to illegally download the messages, the court heard. Detectives discovered a 10-page document sent between the pair in which they discussed how to "crack codes" and "access passwords".

An expert hired by Ramsay, who is worth about £100million, had discovered the restaurant tycoon's computer system had been hacked, the court heard.

Police were alerted and the case was passed to the Yard's Operation Tuleta squad. Hutcheson senior, of Southfields, south London, his son Adam, of Wrotham Heath, Kent, and son Chris, of Welwyn Garden City, Herts, admitted conspiracy to unlawfully access a computer between October 23, 2010 and March 31, 2011.

Robert O'Sullivan, QC, prosecuting, told Judge

Gordon: "The Crown has been informed of these pleas in advance this morning and the pleas are acceptable to the prosecution. The Crown has concluded in light of the guilty pleas entered by the first three defendants, the public interest does not require a trial of the fourth defendant."

Judge Gordon recorded a not guilty verdict for Ms Butland, also of Southfields. As the three hackers left court, it emerged Hutcheson senior is due to go into hospital later this month for a hip replacement operation.

News From Britain

VLADIMIR Putin must choose between staying loyal to the "toxic tyrant" Bashar al-Assad, or working with the rest of the world to find a political solution in Syria, Boris Johnson made clear this week.

The Foreign Secretary also warned that Russian military officers who help the Syrian president's bloody campaign against his own people could face international sanctions as part of US-led pressure on Moscow to change course.

Mr Johnson, who was in Italy to meet fellow foreign ministers from the G7 group of nations, said last week's cruise missile strike by America against a Syrian air base had "changed the game".

US President Donald Trump ordered the strike to punish the Assad regime for killing more than 80 people in a rebel- held town using the banned chemical weapon sarin.

'political solution'

Mr Johnson said Russia must now decide whether to keep supporting its ally Assad or join international efforts to end the sixyear conflict.

"They have a choice. That choice is to stick like glue to the Assad regime – that toxic regime which poisons its own people and is indeed poisoning the reputation of Russia

- or to work with the rest of the world to find a political solution," said Mr Johnson.

The government's support for the US response was also confirmed in a phone conversation between Theresa May and the President last night.

A Downing Street spokesperson said: "The President thanked the Prime Minister for her support in the wake of last week's action against Assad.

"The Prime Minister and the President agreed that a window of opportunity now exists to persuade Russia that its alliance with Assad is no longer in its strategic interest.

"They also discussed the broader Middle East, including the threat posed by Iran throughout the region.

"And they also stressed the importance of the international community, including China, putting pressure on North Korea to constrain its threat."

The Prime Minister, who is on a walking holiday in Wales had already discussed developments in a telephone call with Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau on Sunday.

The G7 gathering in Lucca, Tuscany, aimed to arm US Secretary of State Rex Tillerson with a strong message

UNFERTILE GROUND: Boris Johnson urged Russia to work with the international community to deliver when he flew to Moscow later in the week for talks.

'appalling behaviour'

Mr Johnson said the G7 wanted to give Mr Tillerson a clear mandate to tell Russia: "This is your choice – stick with that tyrant or work with us to find a better solution."

He said the G7 meeting would discuss "the possibility of further sanctions on some of the Syrian military figures and indeed on some of the Russian military figures who have been involved in co-ordinating the Syrian military efforts and are thereby contaminated by the appalling behaviour of the Assad regime".

Senior Russian figures are already subject to international sanctions in retaliation for Moscow's previous annexation of Crimea from Ukraine, but not yet in regard to Syria.

Critics dispute Mr Putin's claim that his forces are focused on defeating Islamic State. Ahead of Mr Johnson's recent comments, Theresa May's spokesman said the UK refused to be drawn on whether it would support further US action if Syria used chemical weapons again, saying it was a "hypothetical question".

Tesco has apologised for any offence from a beer advertisement that claimed "Good Friday just got better".

The ad ran in some newspapers to promote "great offers on beer and cider" in the run-up to Easter.

The supermarket said it would not run the ad again after it attracted criticism from some religious figures.

Vicar and broadcaster, the Reverend Richard Coles, said the advert was "extraordinarily and unnecessarily ignorant". Good Friday is when Christians commemorate the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. Some choose to mark the day by fasting, which can include abstaining from eating meat or drinking alcohol.

There is some dispute about why it is called "good", with some suggesting the day is "good" in that it is holy, and others that the phrase is a corruption of "God's Friday".

A Tesco spokesperson told the BBC: "We know that Easter is an important time of the year for our customers.

"It is never our intention to offend and we are sorry if any has been caused by this advert."

Tesco "got it badly wrong" with the "crass" advert, Michael Wakelin, from the faculty of divinity at Cambridge University said on Wednesday.

It was also a "decidedly poor way of treating such a holy day", said Mr Wakelin, a former head of BBC religious programmes.

Stacey Giggs seeks quick divorce from straying husband

THE estranged wife of former Manchester United star Ryan Giggs wants their divorce fight over money to end as "swiftly and amicably as possible", it was revealed this week.

Stacey Giggs, 38, said she was "disappointed" to have needed the "assistance" of a judge to find a settlement. Mr Justice Cobb looked at the latest stage of the dispute at a private hearing in the High Court in London.

James Brown, part of Mrs Giggs's legal team, said she wanted to avoid "upset and distress to her family".

Mr Brown said: "Mrs Giggs's primary focus is wanting to bring this sensitive and difficult process to a close as swiftly and amicably as possible and enable her family to move on.

"She's disappointed that she has needed the assistance of the court but hopes that outstanding matters can be concluded soon."

Wales international Giggs, 43, said to be worth £48million, was not in court.

Shameless mum jailed at last after let-offs for 11 attacks on the police

A SHAMELESS mother who dodged a jail sentence despite 11 attacks on police officers has finally gone to prison after stabbing her boyfriend.

Dawn Walker, 35, of Bacup, Lancashire, knifed Damien Taylor in a near- fatal attack after drinking as many as three bottles of white wine.

'good role model'

Jobless Walker has repeatedly avoided prison for attacking officers – beating four PCs last year alone – after convincing judges she was trying to be a "good role model" to her children.

But now Walker, who has a criminal record of 17 offences, has finally been jailed for five years and seven months for wounding.

Burnley Crown Court heard her boyfriend Mr Taylor was found last November lying in a pool of blood with Walker cradling his head pretending to be confused and asking: "What happened?"

The short-fused, two fisted Dawn Walker

She claimed a mystery delivery man had knifed him and fled. But the jury heard after the attack she washed the blade before going to his aid.

Drunken stupor

Jailing her, Judge Ian Leeming pointed out Walker had committed the knifing while serving a suspended sentence for her 11th assault on a police officer.

Last year Walker sank her teeth into a policeman's face as she was being restrained on her car bonnet by several officers.

In a different incident she tried to bite and headbutt an officer's face as she was quizzed for crashing her car in a drunken stupor.

Last October, Police Federation officials were furious when a court suspended her eight-week jail term despite her headbutting an officer and calling him a "fat ****".

Prosecutor Nigel Booth said of her knife attack: "It was carried out with coldness and callousness. She tried to wash the knife and the blood away and then returned to her victim and pretended to comfort him."

Despite stabbing her boyfriend, the pair are still in a relationship, the court heard.

Arrested Foxes fans find pain in Spain

Spanish police have said eight Leicester City fans were arrested for "causing a mess" ahead of their Champions League tie against Atletico Madrid.

The fans remain in custody following clashes with police on Tuesday evening and were scheduled to appear in court on Thursday.

Police said six officers were also attacked in the disturbances.

But one local BBC journalist said he witnessed what appeared to be an unprovoked attack from officers.

Phil Mackie said he met supporters who had been left bruised after being hit on the head, arms and knees.

The correspondent told 5 live the trouble happened in the Plaza Mayor, where Foxes fans had been told they could gather.

He said he found a number of young Leicester fans with bruises, who had been hit on the head, arms and knees and while some were drunk, they seemed dazed as well.

He witnessed police charging a group of Leicester fans who seemed to be just walking past and three were pushed to the ground, hit with batons and bundled into the back of vans.

PAGE 8 THE BRITISH WEEKLY, SAT. APRIL 15, 2017

Good Week/ Bad Week

Good Week For:

Edward Enninful (pictured right), who was named as the new editor-in-chief of British Vogue. The Ghanaian-British stylist is the first man to take the job in the magazine's 100-year history. He will replace Alexandra Shulman, who is due to step down in June.

UKIP, which lost one of its more prominent members. Mark Reckless, who sits in the Welsh Assembly, quit the party to rejoin the Tories. Last month, UKIP lost its only MP at Westminster, Douglas Carswell. He now sits as an independent.

Jaeger, which went into administration, putting 680 jobs at risk. Founded as Dr Jaeger's Sanitary Woollen System Co. in 1884, Jaeger sold clothes to Marilyn Monroe and Audrey Hepburn in its heyday, but had struggled in the modern fashion market.

The first person in the UK to receive a double hand transplant has written his surgeon a letter – by hand – thanking him for changing his life.

It wasn't all bad...

Chris King, 57, from Rossington in Yorkshire, lost both his hands, except his thumbs, in a workplace accident four years ago, and was left close to death. But nine months since having his new hands attached, by Professor Simon Kay at Leeds General Infirmary, he says he can do almost everything he could before the accident. "It's been going fantastically," he said. "I can make a fist, I can hold a pen, I can do more or less the same functions as I could do with my original hands."

King (pictured) still can't tie his shoelaces, but says he is "not far off".

Populations of a sea duck that were devastated by one of the worst oil spills in shipping history have staged a remarkable recovery. When the Sea

Empress tanker ran aground in 1996, off the Pembrokeshire coast, it spilled 72,000 tonnes of crude oil and hundreds of tonnes of fuel – killing 1,700 common scooters. But recent surveys for Natural Resources Wales show that there were 36,000 of the ducks last winter, more than triple the number found before the spill.

Over the past 25 years, Britain has cut its carbon dioxide emissions more successfully than any other G7 nation, according to a new report. The study said the average British person's carbon footprint is now 33% smaller than it was in 1992. Among the explanations given for the fall are Britain's embrace of gas and energy efficiency schemes, and efforts to reduce methane emissions from landfill sites. However, experts warned that the UK has shifted some of its emissions overseas by importing products from polluters such as China.

Spirit of the Age

British "kidults" are buying children's toys in record numbers, giving the toy industry a welcome boost. Last year, one in every 11 toy purchases was made by an adult for his or her own use. Retailers report that they mainly buy building sets and action figures (accounting for 20% of that market) and shop disproportionately online - perhaps to avoid the embarrassment of buying their toys in person.

British people now live an average of 100 miles from where they were born. Although almost half of Britons do still live in their home town or village, the survey of British-born adults suggests a huge shift has taken place in a generation: 25 years ago, people lived only five miles, on average, from their birthplace.

Meet A Member: Elliott Lester

Meet Elliott Lester from London, who moved to LA 23 years ago to pursue filmmaking.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

I came straight from university so I've been here a long time. LA had always been on my radar as I felt there were more opportunities here for where I wanted to take my career. There are no limits to any of my dreams in LA.

What do you miss most from home?

Malt loaf

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

I felt like I was in every movie I'd ever seen when I was in Los Angeles. I couldn't believe I was hereit just took my breath away. Now it is far more densely populated and feels more corporate. And of course traffic is a lot worse. LA has become more diverse and food has got a lot better here. There are some really good ethnic restaurants now and a bubbling art scene.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus London?

Physically it's a lot more spread out than London. The industry is much bigger here and the opportunities are far greater. There's that famous Dorothy Parker quote which I think particularly rings true for here and not necessarily for the UK: 'Hollywood is the one place on earth where you could die of encouragement'.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

I love Temescal Canyon, which is a beautiful area to hike in. Koreatown is one of my favourite places to be. It's like a city within a city - there's almost something completely unique about it.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Don't think - just do it. Just go for it.

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

Treat LA like your office; don't get too seduced by the lifestyle. If you are here for a reason - to pursue an ambition - there are lots of things to distract you here, but you have to stay on track.

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you working on anything at the moment?

A movie I directed starring Arnold Schwarzenegger has just been released. It's called Aftermath and is based on a true story.

ON MOVING TO LA: "Don't think - just do it. Just go for it."

Brits In LA

It's worrying times for us all

Welcome to California, USA.

San Bernadino to be precise, where yet again another unfortunate gun violence tragedy has occurred. Cedric Johnson, 53, flipped the switch and decided he was going to kill his wife, Karen Smith, also 53, a special needs teacher at a nearby elementary school. Two innocent children wer also among the victims before he before he turned the gun on himself.

I don't have kids, but if I did I'd like to think when I dropped them at school that it would be a worry-free, safe place for them. And of course this is not the first schoolreported incident, I hate to remind you of Sandy Hook where not only did dozens of parents suffer the most horrific losses possible but they must now contend with Sandy Hook deniers who claim the whole thing was a fake designed to whip up a gun-control fervor and who abuse the bereaved in public and on social media.

But living here for close to 20 years I've noticed people becoming more and more desensitized to these violent crimes. almost become expected and like a bad action movie you've seen before but can't change the channel. During her campaign for the presidency, Hillary Clinton spoke a lot about this and about taking down the gun lobbyists, one of the most powerful special interests groups in the country. As we know, she lost the race, I don't see anyone picking up the torch. There is the odd article here and there to share on social media. But mixed in with the new filter apps, and the latest Coachella fashion faux-pas it's easy to get lost. We have sort of become a scroll-by society. If you don't like something just swipe up and it's gone. Hey presto! No more pain. You turn on the TV and we are horrified with the images of the children gassed chemically by their own leader (apparently) but wait, stay tuned long enough and you can find out what Kim Kardashian is wearing and who's top of the billboard charts.

I know it's not healthy to dwell on all the darkness and that we all need some light relief, but I am personally worried that the more detached we become from global issues the more we are living in an alt-universe and I am Mr. Simms.

Then there's gay rights. According to media and human rights organizations across the globe, police in the Russian republic of Chechnya have been rounding up dozens of men on the suspicion of being gay. These men have been placed in detention. Some have been tortured. And at least three are reported to have been killed. It makes you thankful for the freedoms we have here – but it was only two years ago that the Supreme Court ruled that gay marriage was allowed in all 50 states.

REAL BRITISH PINTS: The Yorkshire Square Brewery in Torrance

But given the way the country is going I'm not complacent about the future.

And how could I be? With Sean Spicer (the White House press secretary) and his latest blunder regarding Adolph Hitler and chemical weapons the atmosphere in this country for minorities and marginalized communities has turned poisonous. A lot of Los Angeles just can't wait for this administration to tumble like a deck of cards and I'm right there with them. After 100 days all I see is a cabinet full of crooks, a rude president who refuses to shake hands with the leader of one of biggest Allies (Angela Merkel). And let's not forget a failed attempted at eradicating the Affordable Care Act,

From celebrity names to industry insiders, join local Brits Caroline Feraday and Claire Bullivant as they discover what it takes to live the dream and make it in LA by talking to those that have done just that.

KEY MEMBER BENEFITS: some of the Brits in LA family enjoying an advance screening of Their Finest the fiasco of the Travel Ban, and Tomahawk missiles launched at Syria. Then there is the unfolding scandal of a compromised election involving Russia interference don't get me started on Mike Flynn. But hey, what about Hillary's emails?

But I try to be an optimist so I was happy to see Facebook is finally introducing methods to curb Fake News. Not a moment too soon.

OTHER NEWS....

This week I visited the newly opened Yorkshire Square Brewery in Torrance, where I met

(a true Yorkshireman from Leeds) and Charles his California-born son. who were proud to be opening the doors to their new pub/craft beer brewery.) This place is a welcome addition to the South Bay food and drink scene and I enjoyed seeing they serve their amber nectars in real pint and 1/2 pint glasses at a very reasonable price. I also met their onsite brewer Andy, an American, but with an over-the-top British sensibility. They are still working out the kicks in the menu but I'm sure it will make a fine place for an afternoon out for us members over the summer to enjoy their beer garden. The Yorkshire Square Brewery is located at 1109 Van Ness Avenue in Torrance.

Also this week Brits in LA Key Members got to see a special advance screening of "Their Finest" and/ or "The Lost World of Z" and some caught a glimpse of Brad Pitt in the parking garage, sans security. To get in on the action, email us to become a Key Member today: info@britsinla@ gmail.com

Rosie is blooming lovely...

SUPERMODEL Rosie Huntington-Whiteley was every inch the elegant mother-to-be as she showed off her baby bump this week.

The 29-year-old radiated glamour in a long black dress slashed to the thigh.

Devon-born Rosie took to the red carpet with her fiance, Jason Statham, 49, at the New York premiere of his latest film in the Fast

The couple revealed in February that they were expecting a baby, with Rosie now thought to be about six months pregnant.

Announcing the media post which showed off her bump in a bikini, Rosie said she was "very happy".

She and Derbyshireborn Jason have been together for six years.

Pam: The Big Yin still surprises me

CONNOLLY'S BILLY psychologist wife Pamela Stephenson says she continues to learn new things about him.

The Scottish comedian, 74, who has been battling cancer and Parkinson's disease is the subject of ITV1 tribute Billy Connolly & Me: A Celebration to be screened on April 18. In the documentary, Pamela, 67, says: "Having been with Billy for 36 years or something, he still surprises me. He continues to tell me things

I never knew about him. He's a crazy, hilarious beast."

She also admitted that despite 28 years of marriage and three children together, she is still not allowed to accompany him on tour. He recently went on a stand-up tour and Pamela said: "He still has this kind of rock'n'roll mentality about touring. Wives don't go on tour!"

As well as a new interview with Billy, the programme, which celebrates his 50 years as an entertainer, includes tributes from Dame Iudi Dench, Sir Elton John, Andy Murray and Peter

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: If life at work is not all it could be please look at the positive side of things; as we move into mid-month the planets will open new doors. With a lot of planets of action in your sign life is looking busy now. Happy Birthday!

TAURUS: Your emotions are probably in a mess in regards to some area of life. It is more than likely a past situation that has brought things up and this should be resolved with Mercury going backwards in your sign, bringing the opportunity to deal with any unfinished business

GEMINI: Your boss planet Mercury is going backwards in Taurus . You would be wise to not use up all your energy before the middle of next week as then life gets hectic. Lately it all work and no play so leave time to relax.

CANCER: You may be letting go of what you consider the past; it may be for you but not for others, so be cool when asked to explain something. It won't go away by ignoring it. You are however in a better place than last month.

LEO: You may be somewhat confused recently at the behavior towards you from someone else you consider close. Before you think it is personal you would be wise to check in with them and ask what the problem is. It is more than likely nothing to do with you.

VIRGO: This past week or so for you has not been as easy going as you would like or need. This is because your boss Mercury is currently going backwards. Starting with what you know how to handle, next week starts out better.

LIBRA: Your boss Venus is going backwards in Aries currently. This can bring up subconscious thoughts from the past, possibly in dreams. This could be good as it is for clearing up anything that is not working. This is spring cleaning time for you.

SCORPIO: With Mars and Venus in Aries you will be feeling a little frazzled. Before this gets too much to handle take some time to relax with good friends. You are in the midst of being prepared for much better days now. You will soon look back on this time and wonder why you were worried.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss planet Jupiter going backwards in Libra can cause you to feel not quite in balance in some area. This is only a temporary feeling. You could be offered some new work or some other opportunity mid-month.

CAPRICORN: The sun in Aries currently will assist you to get the job done. This week is a hectic one overall so leave any new plans until May. The planets will be able to assist you move forward quickly then. You will have a busy social week or too also.

AQUARIUS: You are probably feeling like a break away from life and routine now. Take that time...just be sure to go somewhere other than your familiar haunts. If you can leave for a few days even better. Late month will be busier than for some time.

PISCES: With Venus going backwards in your sign now it's time to learn to live more in the moment. Anything will work out quicker and furthermore will benefit you overall. A situation much on your mind is not as bad as you think.

Maud: a novel inspired by the life of LM Montgomery

Interview with author Melanie J. Fishbane on her new novel

"I've always wanted to write historical fiction, particularly for young people," says Maud author Melanie J. Fishbane. "It is what I studied when I did my M.A. in History. I've also been reading and studying the life and work of L.M. Montgomery since I was in grade six, when I first read Anne of Green Gables. When the opportunity to write a young adult novel based on Maud's teen years (arose), it was the perfect symmetry of my favorite things. This part of her life has also rarely been explored, so it felt like I was stepping into new territory, which for me is very exciting."

Fourteen-year-old Lucy Maud Montgomery lives with her grandparents on Prince Edward Island in Canada. She has a dream to go to college. She wants to become a writer just like her idol, Louisa May Alcott. But she worries that her dream will never come true. Her grandfather believes women should not go to college. Bt Maud has an a teacher who believes in her, as do her friends, including Nate, the local Baptist minister's stepson. Maud's father sends for her to go out West to join him and her new stepmother and stepsister. At her new school, Lucy meets another boy who she could love.

"Once I embraced my interest in Montgomery, opportunities presented themselves," Fishbane. meet a community who studies and reads her... to give talks for a variety of organizations and at conferences." She also visited the set of Anne of Green Gables and interviewed the actors. She went to the world premiere of the CBC/ Netflix ANNE TV show. Fishbane says she couldn't be happier to feel like the world is embracing Montgomery right now.

Montgomery has published over 20 novels, 530 short stories, 500 poems, and 30 essays. She's best known for her Anne Of Green Gables series. The series centers on Anne Shirley, an orphan girl mistakenly sent to siblings Matthew and Marilla Cuthbert to help on their farm. Matthew likes having the effervescent Anne around and convinces Marilla to keep the girl.

Fishbane visited the L.M. Montgomery Collection Archives and Special Collection at the University of Guelph in Ontario. She read Montgomery's journals, perused her photographs personal library and artifacts, including Maud's mother's Commonplace Book and a photocopy of Maud's copy of Little Women.

"I traveled to the where places Maud (as Montgomery was commonly known) lived," says Fishbane. "Such as Prince Edward Island, Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, and the three places she lived in Ontario: Leaskdale, Norval, Toronto In Cavendish and Park Corner, PEI. I interviewed Maud's relatives and explored the sites of the places where she once lived."

She also went to the L.M. Montgomery Institute where she read the original letters Maud had written to her best friend growing up, Pensie MacNeill.

"In Prince Albert, by using old homestead records at the University Archives Special Collection, University of Saskatchewan, a colleague and I found the original location of where Maud's friends, Laura and Will, had lived," says Fishbane. "We also drove around with a local historian who volunteers with the Prince Albert Historical Society, who pointed out the old parts of the town, such as where Maud lived with her father. Many of the houses are no longer standing, but it gave me a sense of the town. I read every book I could find on Maud and her times, including a history of PEI, a local history of Prince Albert, and Saskatchewan, as well as a book on Indigenous peoples in Saskatchewan."

Book Corner with Gabrielle Pantera

Fishbane will be at the book launch in Toronto on May 2nd at Ben McNally Books. For more on the author, visit www.melaniefishbane. com or facebook.com/ MelanieJFishbane.

Kane and Lukaku among PFA nominees

Harry Kane and Romelu Lukaku (pictured, right) have been nominated for both the Professional Footballers' Association player of the year and young player awards.

Thev join Zlatan Ibrahimovic, Alexis Sanchez, Eden Hazard and N'Golo Kante on the shortlist for the main prize.

Michael Keane. Leroy Sane and Jordan Pickford are up for the young player of the year award, alongside 2016 winner Dele Alli.

The winners, voted for by PFA members, will be announced on 23 April.

To be eligible for the young player of the year award, players must be 23 or under at the beginning of the season.

At 24, Burnley defender Keane is the oldest player nominated, obvious quality Atletico the earned opener as his searing pace spread panic in the Leicester defence and Albrighton bundled him over.

Referee Jonas Eriksson pointed to the spot despite Leicester's protests and Schmeichel could not produce a third penalty save after his two in the tie against Sevilla.

Almost as important might be the yellow card that Huth received in attempting to contain Griezmann.

The German will be suspended for the second leg and, with captain Wes Morgan not yet back from injury, boss Craig Shakespeare will have to make do and mend in the centre of defence on the biggest night in the club's history.

followed by 23-yearold forwards Kane and Lukaku, of Tottenham Everton, and Sunderland goalkeeper Pickford. Spurs and midfielder Alli Manchester City winger Sane are both 21.

Leicester City's Riyad Mahrez won the 2016 player of the year award.

Ozil to wait on contract talks

Arsenal playmaker Mesut Ozil says he will put talks over his future at the club on hold until the summer.

Ozil, 28, has just under a year left on his contract after joining the Gunners from Real Madrid in 2013.

However the German wants to help sixthplaced Arsenal finish in the top four and secure a Champions League place before discussing his future.

"At the moment what is important is Arsenal, not me or any other players," Ozil told Sky Sports.

"The team are having a more difficult spell and at this stage I am not important, no other

United rue missed chances

Anderlecht.. Manchester Utd......1

Manchester United were left ruing missed chances as Anderlecht salvaged a late draw Thursday night to change the complexion of their Europa League quarter-final tie.

Leander Dendoncker got in front of Matteo Darmian to head an equaliser with the Belgian side's first effort on goal four minutes from time.

Until that moment United had subdued the hosts, and deservedly led when Henrikh Mkhitaryan tapped in from a tight angle after Marcus Rashford's shot was spilled in the first half.

But the Armenian sidefooted wide when well placed after the break and Paul Pogba fired into the shins of goalkeeper Ruben to leave Jose Mourinho's side vulnerable to the sucker punch landed by 21-year-old Dendoncker.

United's Europa League odyssey this has taken in term disappointing evenings to Feyenoord, Fenerbahce and Rostov, and Mourinho's frustration in Brussels will centre on a decent performance undermined by lax finishing and a late defensive lapse.

Since his last foray into second-tier European competition in 2003, Portuguese the has become accustomed to the bright lights of the Champions League, winning it twice and disparaging predecessor Rafael Benitez's Europa League success after taking over at Chelsea in most of the For match, his team seemed focused on the task. Just five games away from booking a return to the Champions League Uefa's sweetener for winning the competition - they looked solid in defence and slick in attack.

But United's position in the Premier League - four points off the top four with games running out - has forced him to revise his attitude.

their For part, Anderlecht's enterprising young team offered little, deprived of possession and restricted to efforts from distance - but all that changed with Dendoncker's late goal.

United will still fancy their chances of finishing the job back at Old Trafford, but with more dangerous opponents lurking elsewhere in the draw - notably Lyon and Schalke - similar mistakes could easily see their progress to the 24 May final derailed.

Mourinho claimed that his attackers let down their defensive colleagues in his postmatch interview, but it seemed harsh to burden Rashford with a share of the blame after one of his brightest performances of the season.

DISAPPOINTMENT: Pogba ponders the draw at the final whistle

The 19-year-old - whose goal return was recently questioned by Mourinhowas heavily involved before being replaced by Marouane Fellaini in the 75th minute.

Heroamed dangerously from the left, tormenting full-back Dennis Appiah and threatening with a dipping shot from distance before creating the opener as Ruben failed to grasp his sweetly struck shot.

His industry in the opposite direction also caught the eye as he diligently tracked Anderlecht's runners.

It was the sort of allaround performance that Mourinho usually demands of his attacking players but, publicly at least, the boss seemed nonplussed.

pen costs Foxes

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE Quarter Final, First Leg Atletico Madrid......1 Leicester City.....0

LEICESTER City were left cursing their luck after a poor referee decision cost them a draw against Atletico Madrid in their Champions League quarter-final first leg.

had Koke already hit the visitors' post in the first half when the referee judged Marc Albrighton's foul on Antoine Griezmann had been inside the penalty area.

Replays showed contact was made outside the box but Griezmann duly stepped up to send Kasper Schmeichel the wrong way.

Fernando Torres slipped as the goal beckoned in the second half but, that chance apart, Atletico struggled carve out clearcut openings against stubborn Leicester defence.

Robert Huth - who will be banned for the second leg after being booked saw a shot blocked and Shinji Okazaki narrowly failed to make contact with a low cross in the best of Leicester's rare raids forward.

Despite giving up 68% of possession and failing to register a shot on target, Leicester will take heart from their previous encounter with La Liga opposition.

They were similarly dominated by Sevilla in the first leg of their last-16 tie, but turned round the visitors' 2-1 lead on a tumultuous night at the King Power Stadium.

Having reached the final in two of the last three years, however, Atletico are a team of greater pedigree expectations than their compatriots.

With the meanest defence in La Liga and Griezmann poised to counter, Atletico are also ideally suited to withstand whatever atmosphere the Foxes fans whip up next Tuesday.

The technical quality of Atletico's players was matched by a shrewd tactical plan from manager Diego Simeone that sought out the space Leicester tried to deny them.

Griezmann reputedly a summer target for Manchester United popped up between the lines, with midfield anchorman Wilfred Ndidi and the two centre-backs uncertain who was best placed to pick him up.
