■ Duke of Edinburgh to step down from royal engagements

The Duke of Edinburgh is retiring from royal duties this autumn, Buckingham Palace has announced.

Prince Philip, who turns 96 in June, made the decision himself and the Queen supported him, a spokesman said.

"I'm sorry to hear you're standing down", one man told him at a royal lunch on Thursday. "Well, I can't stand up much," the duke quipped.

The duke will attend already scheduled engagements between now and August but will not accept new invitations.

The Queen "will continue to carry out a full programme of official engagements", the palace said.

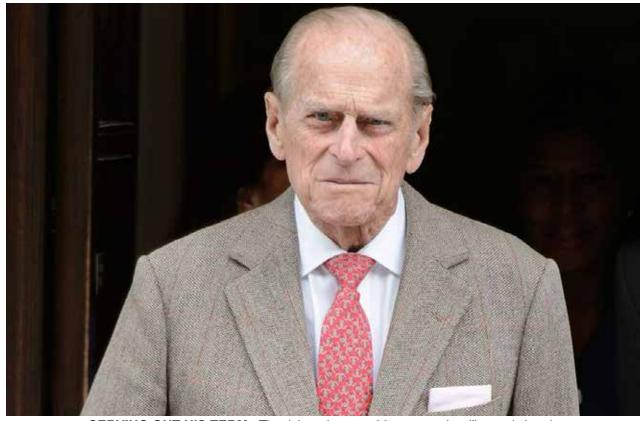

The duke carried out 110 days of engagements in 2016, making him the fifth busiest member of the royal family, according to Court Circular listings.

He is patron, president or a member of more than 780 organisations and will continue to be associated with them, but "will no longer play an active role by attending engagements", Buckingham Palace said.

In the statement, the spokesman said the duke "may still choose to attend certain public events from time to time".

Hours after the announcement, Prince Philip was at his 26th public engagement of 2017: a service and lunch cont. on page 2, col. 1

Hunt for Madeleine McCann mystery woman

DETECTIVES may be preparing to quiz a woman as the prime suspect in Madeleine McCann's disappearance, it was claimed this week.

Scotland Yard is thought to believe she could hold the key to solving the decade-long mystery.

The woman was apparently spotted near the McCanns' holiday apartment in the Portuguese resort of Praia da Luz on May 3, 2007, when the youngster vanished.

A source close to the Metropolitan Police said:

"Detectives have scoured Europe looking for this woman

"After months of tireless police work they will soon be in a position to move in and finally get some answers after a decade of dead ends. It is a hugely significant line of inquiry that officers hope could lead to an arrest."

Scotland Yard Assistant Commissioner Mark Rowley last week said his team would never give up hope of finding out what happened to Madeleine who was three when she went missing.

He said important lines of inquiry remain, including one lead which "could provide an answer".

M e a n w h i l e , Madeleine's parents Kate and Gerry McCann vowed to do "whatever it takes for as long as it takes" to find their daughter as they prepare to mark the 10th anniversary of her disappearance.

In a TV interview, former GP Mrs McCann revealed she still bought Christmas and birthday presents for Madeleine, who would now be nearly 14.

She said: "I obviously have to think about what age she is and something that, whenever we find her, will still be appropriate, so a lot of thought goes into it. "But I couldn't not, you know. She's still our daughter."

for members of the Order of Merit at St James's Palace.

It seems the Prince is acting on his own advice, albeit six years late.

When he turned 90 he told the BBC it was "better to get out before you reach your sell-by date".

From the autumn, he will follow a path into retirement which is trod by many non-royals once they are in their sixties.

A prince of Greece - with Danish, German and Russian blood - he has served the ancient institution, very publicly, for seven decades.

As an outsider - who was viewed with suspicion by the aristocracy - he struggled at first.

To his critics, he is a gaffe-prone prince.

His many supporters argue that this nonagenarian senior royal has played a crucial role sustaining the monarchy.

It's little wonder then that the Queen once called him her strength and stay.

Prime Minister Theresa May said she offered the country's "deepest gratitude and good wishes" to the duke and praised his "steadfast support" for the Queen.

Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn wished the duke "all the best in his wellearned retirement", saying: "His Duke of scheme has inspired young people for more than 60 years in over 140 nations."

Prince Philip set up the awards in 1956 and they have become one of the UK's best-known youth programmes, with young people carrying out challenges to earn bronze, silver or gold awards.

Liberal Democrat leader Tim Farron said it was a moment to "celebrate and take stock" of the duke's "enormous achievements".

Scotland's First Minister Nicola Sturgeon said the "steadfast support" the duke had given the Queen was "hugely admirable".

The duke and the Queen celebrate their platinum wedding anniversary - their 70th - in November.

May renews threat to walk away

Theresa May insisted that she was "not in a different galaxy" from her EU counterparts and declared this week that she would complete a trade deal with Brussels within two years while negotiating the Brexit divorce bill.

The prime minister dismayed Europe by resurrecting her threat to walk away if the EU offered a bad deal on Brexit. Asked by a journalist whether she stood by her remark in a speech at Lancaster House in January that no deal was better than a bad deal, Mrs May said: "Yes I do. I think it's important."

She hit back after a bruising week-end during which Jean-Claude Juncker, president of the European Commission, told Europe's leaders on Saturday that talks could collapse because of the gulf between Britain and EU on key issues.

Senior figures in Brussels say that the talks are at risk after Britain blocked a Brussels budget increase last week that would have cost taxpayers €800 million over the next four years.

The critical briefings came after a dinner attended by the prime minister, Mr Juncker and Michel Barnier, the lead Brexit negotiator, which Brussels figures claimed went "very badly" because of misunderstandings. This is disputed by senior Tories.

After the dinner Mr Iuncker told Angela Merkel. the German chancellor, that May was in a "different galaxy" over approach to Brexit. The prime minister responded: "No, look, I'm not in a different galaxy but I think what this shows, and what some of the other comments we've seen coming from European leaders shows, is that there are going to be times when these negotiations are going to be tough," she said.

Public transport in London 'world's most expensive'

■ Moving around the capital costs more than both New York and Tokyo, but has dropped since 2014

A monthly travelcard costs £135 ($174), according to a Deutsche Bank report - £33 ($43) more than Dublin, which was ranked second priciest city.

Monthly ticket public transport prices in 2017

- 1. London £135 ($174) 2. Dublin £102 ($132) 3. Auckland £95 ($123)
- 4. New York City £91 ($118) 5. Tokyo £86 ($111) 6. Amsterdam £84 ($109)
- 7. Sydney £83 ($108) 8. Zurich £82 ($106) 9. Melbourne £82 ($106) 10. Toronto £80 ($103) Source: Deutsche Bank

Auckland, where a ticket costs £95 ($123), came third, while New York City, at £91 ($118), came fourth, and Tokyo fifth at £86 ($111).

Transport for London (TfL) said the findings did "not show the true cost of transport in other countries".

The survey also found the cost of travel in the capital dropped since 2014, when commuters paid £165 ($213).

Its authors ranked London tenth most expensive for petrol, and the third for car hire.

Hong Kong had the priciest petrol, while Amsterdam was the most expensive for a daily car rental, the report said.

London's taxis fared slightly better, ranked 20th in a list of 47 cities, with Zurich topping the list for the most expensive fares.

For quality of life, London was ranked 33rd in the world, similar to other "mega cities" such as Tokyo, Paris and New

PRICED LIKE A PEARL?: a monthly travelcard costs $174, says the report

According to the report, these cities "rank very low" for quality of life, mostly due to "high living costs, crime, pollution and commuting time".

"This is highly subjective and one person's long commute may be another person's chance to catch up on Netflix," the report said.

"Megacity dwellers may also forsake short-term quality of life for aspirational reasons," the report added.

Wellington, in New Zealand, was ranked as the best city to live in in terms of quality of life, followed by Edinburgh, Vienna, Melbourne and Zurich.

TfL is currently planning to cut £16bn from its budget by 2020/21 as it aims to become self sufficient with its operating costs.

The Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan, has frozen fares on buses and trams until 2020, but travelcard prices are set by train operating companies and so are not under full TfL control.

A TfL spokesman said: "London also has one of the most extensive set of travel concessions in the world with free or discounted travel for children, the over-60s, students and veterans."

SIR CLIFF: seeking 'very substantial' compensation from the BBC

Sir Cliff 'spent too much on lawyers'

■ Singer sues BBC and police over coverage of the 2014 raid on his home

Sir Cliff Richard has spent "grossly unreason able" amounts on lawyers after taking legal action over coverage of a police raid on his home, the BBC claimed in court this week.

Its lawyers have told a preliminary High Court hearing that the singer has run up "disproportionate" legal costs of more than £500,000.

He is suing the BBC and South Yorkshire Police over coverage of the 2014 raid.

Lawyers for Sir Cliff previously said he had suffered "profound and long-lasting" damage from the incident.

He was investigated over historical sexual assault allegations, which he denied, and the case was dropped by the Crown Prosecution Service in June last year because of insufficient evidence.

He is seeking "very substantial" compensation because he says the coverage invaded his privacy.

If Sir Cliff's claim succeeds, and he wins damages, the BBC could be ordered to cover all of his lawyers' bills.

A spokesman for the singer said he had "incurred these costs and expenses over more than a two-year period, we say as a direct result of the actions of South Yorkshire Police and the BBC

"Ultimately it will be down to a judge to decide whether or not he should recover such costs and expenses in full or in part, or at all."

Pair killed neighbour over burst football

■ Father and daughter face long jail term for fatal attack

A father and daughter who launched a fatal attack on a neighbour punctured who child's football have convicted been manslaughter.

Kelly Machin, 34, had been fed up with balls landing in her back garden in Leicester, so she burst one before throwing it back over the fence.

The child's mother and grandfather assaulted her and she died almost two weeks later.

A jury found both Bollen William Jelly guilty of manslaughter.

Harbage, William prosecuting at Leicester Crown Court, said Ms Machin had been having problems with Bollen, who lived two doors down in Waldwick Close, for several months.

She was concerned about

Bollen's children, and bothered by them regularly kicking balls into her garden.

On the day of the assault, 23 August 2016, she punctured one of the balls with a knife.

A group of women, with Bollen described as "ringleader", then gathered outside Ms Machin's home shouting "Come out Kelly", the court heard.

Bollen banged on her door, swearing and shouting: "You might not come out now Kelly, but I'm gonna kill ya."

Ms Machin called 999 and told police that she was scared for her life.

The group of women went away but Bollen about returned minutes later with her father, and her father's Natalie Bollen punched Ms Machin about three times to the head, and William Jelly punched or pushed her, causing her to fall over and crash into a coffee table, fracturing her ribs.

"When she was on the floor, the defendants then left her curled up on the floor crying, and holding her ribs," said Mr Harbage.

'alone and in pain'

Ms Machin called emergency services while the defendants were still in the house and in the 999 call she can be heard crying out in pain and saying: "They smashed my head up."

Both defendants can also be heard shouting aggressively to Machin before they leave.

experiencing severe pain and was eventually taken to hospital on 28 August, but her injuries were regarded as not requiring emergency treatment.

However, the fractures caused 1.9 litres of blood to gradually accumulate around her heart, which stopped working.

Mr Harbage said she died "alone and in pain, with significant breathing difficulties" at her home on the weekend of 3 and 4 September.

Mr Hinds found her dead on the sofa when he went to her house on 5 September.

Jelly, 48, from Impey Close in Thorpe Astley, was not in the dock for the verdicts as he collapsed in court earlier and was taken to hospital.

Both he and his daughter, who is 28, will be sentenced at Leicester Crown Court in June.

His lawyers said in October that he had suffered "profound and long-lasting" damage from the BBC's live coverage of the search at his apartment

In June, South Yorkshire Police apologised "wholeheartedly the additional anxiety caused" by the force's "initial handling of the media interest" in its investigation into the singer.

NO A-PEEL? one mans's gluten-free 'breakfast'

Man who ordered gluten-free breakfast on flight is given a single banana – and some cutlery to eat it with

An airline passenger who ordered a gluten-free breakfast on a nine-hour flight claims he was given a solitary banana while other passengers tucked into sausages and eggs.

Londoner Martin Pavelka claims the lonely banana was served to him on an All Nippon Airways flight from Tokyo to Sydney, which was the second leg of his £1,200 trip to Australia.

The banana came with a sticker on it saying "GF" – for gluten free – and was served to him with a packet containing a knife, fork and salt.

Mr Pavelka, who suffers from the digestive condition coeliac, had been served a proper meal the previous evening. However, he was expecting something more substantial for breakfast.

"All other passenge were served a full breakfast meal consisting of eggs, sausage, mushrooms, bread, and yogurt," he told the Evening Standard. "This was a nine-hour flight. Although definitely gluten-free, the banana did not keep me full for very long."

Mr Pavelka, who has put in a complaint to the airline, said other passengers were laughing as he complained to the air hostess.

An All Nippon Airways spokesman said: "ANA takes great pride in providing an exemplary customer experience for all passengers, and for this one passenger we did not meet his expectations. We have apologized to him personally and as a result of his experience we are reviewing our policy on gluten free options and how they are served."

Rescued Scottish surfer had 'prepared for death'

A rescued Scottish surfer told his family he had "made himself at peace" with not surviving after 32 hours adrift at sea.

Matthew Bryce, from Airdrie in North Lanarkshire, was found 13 miles off the Argyll coast on Monday night after going surfing on Sunday morning.

From his hospital bed in Belfast, he said he watched the sun set, believing he would not survive another night.

His parents John and Isabella described their anguish as they waited for news.

The 23-year-old told reporters his ordeal had started as "just a normal day".

He said he had driven to Westport car park in the Kintyre peninsula on Sunday morning, waxed his surfboard then gone into the sea about 11:00 to catch some waves.

The day soon turned into a nightmare and he began to panic as tides and winds carried him out to sea.

"The wind and water was just relentless," he said

At one point he got back to within about a mile of land, only for the tide to change direction.

"It got to the point

Matthew Bryce spent 32 hours adrift off the coast of Argyll where my paddling was ineffective, but I was doing it to keep myself warm."

If he had been surfing he said he might have stayed in the water for about four hours, but now the sun was setting and he was carried further out to sea.

Mr Bryce said his hopes were raised when he saw fishing boats, but his shouts went unheard and they sailed off.

He described how deep fear set in when night fell.

Shipping lane

"It was incredibly lonely and quiet because there was just nothing - just waves," he said.

"I hadn't seen any helicopters.

"I was thinking I was going to die - I was almost convinced.

"I didn't think I would see sunrise."

Mr Bryce said he then saw ships, and since he was well out of the coastguard search area, he decided to try and get into a shipping lane in the hope someone might see him.

He continued to paddle towards the ships through the night.

By daylight he was starting to pass out and fall off his board.

He continued to drift through the day and as night approached again he said he was resigned for death.

"I knew I wasn't going to make another night, so I was watching the sunset," he said.

"Then a helicopter flew over me."

'Beautiful sight'

Terrified that he wouldn't be spotted he jumped off his board and held it above him and started waving it.

After thinking they had missed him, he described the moment his luck changed.

"But then they turned round and when I saw them turn it was indescribable," he said.

"I can't describe it at all. "These guys were the

"These guys were the most beautiful sight I had ever seen.

"I owe them my life."

He was winched from the North Channel by the search and rescue helicopter at about 19:30 on Monday.

Police Scotland and the coastguard had launched a large-scale search earlier that day, including rescue teams from Campbeltown, Southend, Gigha, Tarbert and Port Ellen.

During the day of the coastguard search, his parents John and Isabella, who are both nurses, were with their eldest son at their caravan near Campbeltown.

Mrs Bryce said she spent the day looking at the water praying her son would be found alive.

Mr Bryce said while he had

Mr Bryce said while he had tried not to give up hope, he had started discussing with his brother-in-law, the process of who would go to identify his son's body when it was found.

He said: "We tried to keep strong, but it was just getting harder and harder."

Describing the moment his phone rang, he said: "I walked outside the caravan because I think it's the worst news possible.

"It was the police inspector and all he said was 'he was found alive'.

"I was outside crying my eyes out and obviously Isabella and my son thought we'd received the worst possible news.

"So I had to run in and tell them 'he's alive, he's talking to the coastguard'."

About half an hour later they were able to speak to their son on the phone.

Matthew said he owed his life to the coastguard, RNLI, the police and the staff at Ulster Hospital.

"They are all heroes," he said.

Liam Neeson taken with free food?

Actor Liam Neeson has paid a surprise visit to a restaurant in the city of Vancouver after it put up a sign saying he could eat there for free.

Staff at the shop made the offer after hearing that the Ulster-born star was working nearby to shoot his latest film.

They told local media they were completely taken by surprise when he appeared in person to claim his prize. The actor used lines from one of his best know films, Taken, to collect his free meal, they said.

Using his famously intimidating voice, he inquired: "Where is my free sandwich?", TMZ reported.

But he refrained from adapting another famous line in his film and did not say: "I will find you and I will eat you," staff at the Big Star Sandwich Company joked.

The actor's demanding schedule meant that he did not stay long enough to eat his prize, although he did pose alongside staff for photographs.

His 30-year career includes high-profile roles in films such as Schindler's List and Michael Collins. He also starred alongside Jeremy Irons and Robert De Niro in The Mission.

Got a brainwave? Know which kind?

Health & Fitness with Ricky Parcell

Our brain is an incredible computer which can achieve many things when used in the correct fashion! Becoming aware of the mind can lead to a new understanding of how to tap into its power and unleash its potential. In this week's column we will find out what it's like to ride each of the brain waves and breakdown what they mean to us when we surf them....

GAMMA WAVES - "The Zone"

Gamma: concentration, exceptionally high levels of cognitive functioning and feeling like everything you touch (for example when playing a sport) is simply called being "in the zone". People with high levels of Gamma tend to exhibit extraordinary intelligence, compassion, strong memory and incredible self-control. Seasoned meditators, like monks and nuns, often have elevated gamma brain wave activity. Compassion and lovingkindness practices appear to yield the highest level of Gamma waves....

BETA WAVES - "The busy, monkey mind"

Beta: Beta is associated with over-thinking, alertness, high arousal, being busy, cognition and over-concentration. Beta waves represent our normal waking consiousness and logic. At higher levels, Beta waves can trigger stress, anxiety and restlessness. Most guests who attend our retreat and many people operate on Beta waves throughout the day.

ALPHA WAVES - "The Meditate state"

Alpha: This wave is one of deep relaxation and the twilight state between sleep and waking. Alpha waves also encourage increased production. serotonin Meditation and access to the unconscious mind fall within the Alpha realm. The higher end of Alpha results in a relaxed, yet focused state with increased intuition, reduced stress levels and improved clarity of thought.

WAVES THETA "Nodding off and light sleeping"

Theta: Dreaming (REM sleep), increased creativity, relaxation, super-learning and heightened memory

HEAD SPACE: understanding the mind and its states can unleash your potential encourages memory and learning skills. Trance, deep meditation, access to the unconscious mind and a feeling of deep spiritual connection all belong to theta waves. Theta also

sleep"

Delta: Delta is a dreamless, deep sleep state with loss of body awareness. The brain in this zone can trigger large quantities of healing and help create growth hormone within the body.

We hope you have enjoyed surfing and understanding these waves. Which one do you need to catch more often,

Meet A Member: Tony Gibbons

Meet Tony Gibbons from Wolverhampton who moved to LA two and a half years ago to further his acting career.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

The sunshine! I had always had this feeling that one day I would live in America at some point, but never really knew where. When I started acting in my twenties I realized I wanted to move with acting in mind, so it was really between LA and New York...and we all know LA has the better weather!

What do you miss most from home?

Apart from the obvious answer of family and friends, there's not really too much that I miss to "can't live without it" levels, but if I visit home my first couple of days are very much filled with fish and chips, full English breakfasts, and curry! I'm also lucky to have friends willing to bring mini 'care packages' when they visit

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

How relaxed it was here. The first time I came to LA was just on holiday - but with half an eye on things for the future, acting/work/living wise - and I just found it a very relaxing and chilled place. I know a lot of people have a very different opinion, but I still think of it very much like that. For me, its a big city without the big city feel, and I think that's why I like it

What do you find is the biggest difference living here Wolverhampton?

Not the traffic! Everyone in LA complains so much about the traffic, but I don't think its even as bad as back home. If anyone's tried to get from Wolverhampton to Birmingham in rush hour, they'll know what I mean! A big difference I see in the people though is positivity. We're a city full of dreamers, so I think the people here are more hopeful, and supportive of people's pursuits.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

I was going to say 'Salsa & Beer' Mexican

It's Time For Tea...

Traditional Afternoon Tea is now served Mon-Sat 11.30am-4.00pm in our Tea Room (also available privately for baby showers, bridal showers and special occasions). King's Head Pies now available in our bakery. Sausage rolls, pastries and delicious cakes, baked daily all that hidden! I recently discovered Brand Park Library in Glendale, which is located right in the peaceful and scenic Brand Park. I've found it a great distraction-free place to get freelancer work done when you don't want to be cooped up at home or working from a Starbucks. There's also a good hike there with a great view!

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

If you haven't already, then come and visit! You can never know for sure before making a move like this, but I think coming and spending some time here before investing all that time and money in a visa essential, and you'll probably fall in love with

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

I wasn't given this advice personally - its a Richard Branson quote - "If somebody offers you an amazing opportunity but you are not sure you can do it, say yes then learn how to do it later!". Obviously there are limits to how far you should push this one, but I think its a great attitude for business. I'm a photographer as well as an actor. I specialize in actor headshots, and back home I only took headshots and behind the scenes stuff, but since moving to LA I have taken on some weird and wonderful jobs - all initially out of my comfort zone - just because I had the confidence to say yes to the opportunity, and then figure it out - I've also become a better photographer as a result!

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are

The upcoming election: can I vote?

General Election coming up in the UK we've been getting inquiries from readers about their eligibility to

Thanks to the magic of the internet the process is actually simpler than you might think, but Brits who have been on American shores for 15 years or more are out of luck, you are excluded under the socalled 15 Year Exclusion

For the rest, you can still vote provided you apply to be an overseas voter by the May 22nd deadline. The criteria is simple, you must have been registered to vote in the UK in the last 15 years. If you were too young to register when you left the UK, you can still register as an overseas voter. You can do this if your parent or guardian was registered to vote in the UK, as long as you left the UK no more than 15 years ago.

An overseas registration lasts 12 months and you must renew your registration each year, and will be reminded to do so by your local Electoral Registration office.

If you have renewed your registration and it will last until after 8 June 2017, you are registered as an overseas voter. You do not need to register to vote

If you voted as an overseas voter in last summer's EU referendum and your registration has not expired (and will not expire by 8 June 2017) you will be able to vote as an overseas voter on 8 June. You do not need to register to vote again. If your registration will expire before 8 June and you have not renewed it, you should do so as soon as possible. Otherwise you may not be able to vote.

If your registration has expired, you will need to register to vote again, which you can do by visiting gov.uk/registerto-vote, but time is short, you must register by Monday, May 22nd. If you have other questions or need clarification, you can find useful information at the following website: www.yourvotematters. co.uk/can-i-vote/

Where's John Craven when we need him?

Breaking News: A 95 Year Old Plans to Retire (but not until he is 96)!

Speculation and scaremongering appear to be terribly fashionable at the moment.

This past Wednesday evening the British Weekly office in Santa Monica received several calls from local news organizations asking for comment on Prince Philip's 'death'. Turns out a lone French rag had reported the death of a certain outspoken nonagenarian and the local hacks were jumping on the story, hoping to splash it on the 11 o'clock news with some local perspective. One even asked our editor if Brits felt Prince Charles was 'ready' to ascend to the throne!

So the story vanished like a damp squib when it turned out Philip was simply retiring from public engagements, but it remains astonishing to me how many journalists manage to spin a story using this technique. Whether the topic is Brexit aftermath, Buckingham Palace announcements or what Johnny Depp might do next (or possibly did already), it usually turns out to be a just a load of waffling codswallop. What has happened to good old fashioned reporting of facts? Or waiting for a moment to get the actual story? I am having great difficulty finding 'just news'.

I usually rely on LBC radio but it seems they too have caught the 'sensationalism sells' bug. So if any of you out there have good resources please do send them my way. If not we might have to start a petition to bring back John Craven as presenter of Newsround, or perhaps my memories of his 'fair and balanced' reporting are overshadowed by childhood nostalgia...

Anyway, enough of my babbling...let's get to the facts! The Laugh Factory in Hollywood are hosting a benefit for fellow Brit in LA Jim Tavaré, who recently suffered horrific injuries in a near fatal car accident. They have announced an impressive line-up for this May 10th show, so show your support and grab your tickets asap. Visit laughfactory.com or use this link https://goo.gl/ gie9B9.

Ramsay expands Vegas empire with project at the 'Palace'

Las Vegas just got a little more sinful and a lot hotter ... and that's not because I was just there gracing it with my presence...

it's No, because notoriously foulmouthed celebrity chef Gordon Ramsay is set to open the first ever "Hell's Kitchen" themed eatery based on his long high-stakes running cooking competition series.

My spies inform me that the restaurant is set to make its debut this winter at Caesars Palace on the Las Vegas Strip.

Oo-er!

"Fans of the show have been asking us to bring a Hell's Kitchen restaurant to life since day one, so I'm thrilled to finally be doing it here at Caesars Palace," Ramsay announced in a Facebook video.

"A key element of the show's success has always been the diners' experience, so we are excited for guests in Las Vegas to feel like they too are part of the show - flames and all."

According to Food & Wine, the team from

EMPIRE BUILDING: British chef Gordon Ramsay

Caesars Palace's team says the restaurant design will be created by Jeffrey Beers International.

Diners are promised "an experiential and immersive destination restaurant" and "will feel transported to the studio set, as if they are participating in the globally popular television show."

The large venue is expected to sit 300 people. It will serve brunch, dinner and boast a full bar menu as well as offer indoor and outdoor patio dining.

The Los Angeles based Brit is no stranger to the Vegas food scene. He already owns four restaurants in Sin City Gordon Ramsay Steak at Paris Las Vegas, Gordon Ramsay Pub & Grill and Gordon Ramsay Burger at Planet Hollywood Resort, and Gordon Ramsay Fish & Chips, which recently debuted at The Ling Promenade.

The 17th season of Ramsay's hit show kicks off later this year. On May 31, the celebrity chef will debut a brand new show - "The 'F' Word"a cooking competition show that pits families against each other in a fast paced cook-off.

Beckham dinner plate has fans calling foul!

I'm not one to question the ways of David Beckham. He's a legend, no doubt about it, so I say this with the utmost respect:

What's going on 'ere then?

While it's nice to see even celebrities get to eat whatever they want on their big day, this meal looks like a real dog's dinner.

Ooo-Urgh!

The man nicknamed GoldenBalls celebrated his 43rd birthday on Tuesday, and it looked like a rather joyous affair.

But then on his Instagram feed, former England captain revealed his celebratory birthday feast. By the looks of this picture, it included eggs, pineapple, coleslaw, mushy peas, baked beans, bacon and french fries all cosied up next to each other into a big sloppy, (albeit colourful)

Yuck!

Even worse, he then captioned the snap: Dinner of choice", accompanied by a heart emoji.

Meanwhile, wife Victoria posted an image herself, this time slightly more traditional, with David contently looking into the camera with a slice of cake in front of him.

She captioned the image: "Happy birthday @davidbeckham all love u so much x #specialday! X VB"

Beckham's dinner certainly set tongues wagging online.

One social media user wrote: "How random was David Beckham's birthday tea? He could have eaten any meal in included; coleslaw, mushy the entire world and this is what he chose!"

Another said: 'Thought David Beckham could do no wrong. His birthday meal of choice

HOT MESS: David Beckham's bizarre fusion feast, and (below) a more conventional dessert for the footy legend peas AND beans."

One user claimed: "I love David Beckham but my god that dinner he put up on Instagram today...

"@GordonRamsay tell your mate to stop it. So many problems."

Really, really gross if you ask me. Come on, Becks. You deserve better than that ol' mess of a meal!

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Mercury is finally moving forward in your sign and although the week ahead could be slow don't worry, by the weekend you will feel energetic again. Nothing much can be achieved before then so relax and catch up on anything unfinished.

TAURUS: You can look forward to a slower (or casual) week ahead. Mercury is reviving himself in your life and is ready to start doing good things in your money area soon. Expect things to really turn around by late May. Take time to have a Happy Birthday.

GEMINI: Now that your boss planet Mercury has moved forward life will get more settled and at the same time more productive. Your emotions are prone to be on a rollercoaster of late and now it's time to make decisions with your overall future in mind.

CANCER: Stay flexible these next few days as Mercury in Taurus going forward and can jump start something in your life you did not expect. That old saying about the greatest plans of mice and men comes to mind for you water crab people. Be open to spontaneous change.

LEO: Cruising through life will be the normal for you this coming week or so. Gardening or spring cleaning will be the best way to spend your time. Do not get involved in anything that can make you emotional or upset. That will be better handled later in the month.

VIRGO: Do keep a watch on the way you speak to others in your life close to you this week ahead. Mercury your boss moving forward now can bring up some past situations that can be misconstrued by you. It's best to bite your tongue and may be best to say nothing right now.

LIBRA: Don't engage in any drama unless you are being paid to be dramatic. Mercury turning forward this week can bring out the best and the worst of Libra. Let there be peace and let it begin with you as only the lovely Libra can do when needed.

SCORPIO: The Sun is visiting your opposite sign of Taurus this month and soon will be assisting you to make better choices. Mostly your thoughts turn to financial and creative matters. Be positive even though all may seem gloomy and know now that Mercury has now turned in a positive direction for you.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss Jupiter is sitting in Libra and moving backwards for a few weeks until mid-June, so be good as he will be watching you and hoping you will not let anything (or one) get you into trouble. This can mean a lot of positive energy coming into your life in general. CAPRICORN: The Sun in your cousin earth sign Taurus will assist you to get the job done as this month is a great opportunity to move past anything or one that has been around or hanging about since last year. Saturn your boss however is moving backwards and can bring a slowdown in general.

AQUARIUS: You are probably feeling like a break away, so if you feel you have to get out of town, go for it. If you can wait until next month life will be better overall. You will be ready to take the world on now that Mercury has moved out of the

PISCES: Neptune is assisting you all the way through mid-month, helping you get your life in order and to experience happier days. Your financial picture is much on your mind and you should learn to live in the moment and things will work out quicker and with less stress.

Between the Devil and the Duke

Exclusive interview: author Kelly Bowen talks about her 'gaming hell' romance novel

"The hero in this book, Alexandre Lavoie, is introduced in Duke of My Heart, the first story in this series," says Between the Devil and the Duke author Kelly Bowen.

"The original idea came from the TV series Scandal, of which I am a huge fan. I loved the idea of clever, strong women who could think on their feet, and who don't hesitate to look for solutions outside the box. Additionally, I love to write characters who don't quite fit any particular mold, and the unconventional that they bring to the table are always fun to work with."

In Between the Devil and the Duke, Angelique Archer is desperate. She thinks Alexander Lavoie's gambling club offers the perfect way to make some money....

until she gets caught counting cards by Lavoie. He offers her a job, to work for him at the club. Angelique is intrigued, but wary. What is he after?

"This book is the third in my Season for Scandal series," says Bowen. "Which features the fictional firm of Chegarre & Associates. When the rich and famous of Regency-era London find themselves embroiled in scandal they need to manage or make disappear, they hire the proprietor, Ivory Moore, or one of her two partners, Elise DeVries and Alexander Lavoie."

"Alexandre Lavoie is a rumored assassin and spy," says Bowen. "And, aside from being a partner in Chegarre & Associates, he is the owner of the most notorious and exclusive gaming hell in London. Where everything has its price. There is very little he hasn't seen or heard. He's a little cynical, a lot jaded. I wanted to give him a heroine that would knock his proverbial socks off. And who better than Lady Angelique Archer...she's concealed her identity while she covertly controls Lavoie's vingt-et-un tables, counting cards and pocketing the substantial winnings."

Bowen says research is one of her favorite parts of writing. "It's like an eclectic and fascinating course on history, peppered with random lessons in medicine, sport, biology, law, crime, travel, language, and agriculture, just to name a few."

"I learned about the different systems people use to count cards when playing twenty-one," says Bowen. "I read about criminal law as it pertained to titled peers and the prison system. I revisited my old school lessons on the War of 1812, and dug into individual battles and the uniforms and weapons used in each. I unearthed blueprints of the Tower of London and read old Chancery records. I read up on the oldest schools of England and the individuals who attended each. And the best part of all of that is aside from the information that you actually use in your story, there are countless, captivating tidbits of history that emerge to inspire something else entirely."

Bowen has written two Regency-era romance series and is working on a third series. Her The Lord of Worth series won Publishers Weekly Best Book of 2015 and Amazon Books Best Romance of the Year Selection 2016. Duke of My Heart won Publishers Weekly Best Book of 2016 and Kobo Books Best of the Year in Romance 2016.

Alex Logan, Forever, Grand Central, Hachette, is Bowen's editor. Bowen's agent introduced her to her editor and arranged the sale of her first book to

BOOK CORNER with Gabrielle Pantera

Forever. "My editor likes to read the first draft on paper where she can get a sense of pacing and make notes directly on the pages," says Bowen. "Every round of edits after that, including copy edits, is done electronically via email."

Bowen was born and still lives in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada.

'We all feel very sorry. He's a person that was here for nearly 10 years and Tottenham care a lot about his situation, the players, the staff, all the people are very concerned about his situation."

Also at Spurs, rumors continue to grow that right back Kyle Walker will leave the club for Manchester City in the summer. The England defender is reportedly seeking an improvement on his £70,000-a-week deal and has become unsettled after Pochettino opted to play Kieran Trippier ahead of him in recent crunch matches against Chelsea and Arsenal.

Pochettino confirmed that Walker is available to face West Ham on Friday, as Spurs seek a 10th Premier League win in a Fury, who has not fought since beating Klitschko, replied: "Let's dance."

Joshua is now unbeaten in 19 fights, with all his victories coming inside the distance. The 27-yearold's win in front of a post-war British record 90,000 fans at the national stadium added the WBA belt to his IBF strap.

Fury, 28, is also unbeaten as a professional, with 18 knockouts in 25 fights, but surrendered his world heavyweight titles in an effort to focus on his mental health problems and is currently without a boxing licence and out of condition.

However, he remains active on social media and indicated he wants to return, judging by his reply on Twitter to Joshua's calls from the "Challenge accepted," Fury wrote. "We will give the world the biggest fight in 500 years. I will play with you. You are a boxer's dream.

Meanwhile, American Deontay Wilder, who holds the WBC title, wants a unification fight against Joshua, should he take the WBO belt off New Zealand's Joseph Parker.

Speaking on BBC Radio 5 live's Sportsweek programme on Sunday morning, Wilder said: "My plans are to get the WBO belt and once I get that, if I'm given a mandatory challenger, get that out of the way and set up a mega fight early in 2018.

"I'd be prepared to go anywhere. I don't fear anybody and I'm not scared to go to anybody's house. England is like a second home to me."

Joshua told reporters he was happy his clash with Klitschko was a great fight, adding: "There was a lot of hype and I'm glad it lived up to expectations.

"I learnt that I can knock out anyone. If I can keep on improving on the things I do well, I can definitely knock out any opponent.

"To get knocked down, hurt someone, get hurt, take someone out in the championship rounds where I've never been before, it's testament to what training's about."

"I can only improve from this - if I don't then I'm a silly man. It'll be interesting to see what the next two to three years hold in my career.

After suffering a fifth defeat, and a second in succession. Klitschko said he would take time to consider his options but would only fight again for a rematch with Ioshua.

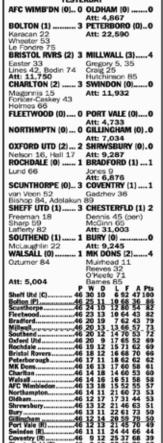

"I'm not going to make any statements right now," said the 41-yearold, who was floored in the fifth round but responded by knocking Joshua down in the sixth.

"It's too early; I actually feel pretty good, considering I lost," he added.

"I will take my time. I have a rematch clause in the contract, which I can execute at certain times, and right now will not be making any decisions. If I'm going to fight it'll be a rematch, of course."

United edge closer to final

EUROPA LEAGUE SEMI FINAL, 1ST LEG CELTA VIGO......0 MANCHESTER U....1

Rashford's Marcus superb free-kick gave Manchester United control of their Europa League semi-final against Celta Vigo on Thursday night.

19-year-old The striker's curling effort not only gave United the lead, but also a precious away goal going into next Thursday's second leg at Old Trafford.

With United outside the Premier League's top four - a point behind Manchester City and four off third-placed Liverpool - the Europa League perhaps represents their best chance of earning a place in next season's Champions League.

They looked to have spurned their chances in northern Spain - three times they were denied in the first half by home goalkeeper Sergio Alvarez.

As Celta improved, United's wastefulness seemed increasingly important, only Rashford to produce the sort of quality needed to beat the excellent Alvarez.

Returning home with a lead, Jose Mourinho's side will be strong favourites to progress to face Ajax or Lyon in Stockholm on 24 May in the final of a competition they have never won.

Rashford was one of the three United players thwarted by Alvarez in a first period the visitors had the better of.

His arcing strike was heading for the top corner before Alvarez leapt to his left, with the Spaniard also stopping a surging Henrikh Mkhitaryan and diving to push away a Jesse Lingard prod from eight yards out.

With United seeing less of the ball in the second period, Rashford - who scored the extra-time winner in the quarterfinal against Anderlecht - stood over a free-kick to the right of the Celta penalty area.

After Daley Blind's decoy run, the England international lofted the ball over the wall, past the outstretched right hand of Alvarez and just inside the far post.

By then, Celta could have been out of the tie, having been kept on level terms by the brilliance of their goalkeeper.

In their first European semi-final, the hosts did not look to be any better than their current domestic position - 11th in La Liga and on the back of three successive defeats. United should have every confidence of progressing from their first European semi in six years.

Celta did have chances both Daniel Wass and former Liverpool player Iago Aspas headed wide when they should have done better, while Pione Sisto's deflected shot forced Sergio Romero to save in the second half.

But United's front three of Rashford, Lingard and Mkhitaryan were more lively, while Paul Pogba and Marouane Fellaini dominated midfield.

This was United's 58th game of a season that promises six more matches if they make it to Stockholm.

When Eric Bailly limped off in the draw against Swansea Sunday, Mourinho's squad looked to be further stretched, especially at the back. Luke Shaw had already been injured in that game, while Chris Smalling, Phil Jones and Marcus Rojo were on the sidelines.

However, Bailly was fit enough to start in Spain, alongside midfielder Pogba, who has recovered from a muscle strain.

Centre-back Smalling, who had not played for United since 19 March because of a knee injury, was on the bench.

Still, it was not all positive news Mourinho. Ashley Young, himself a substitute, lasted only 11 minutes before suffering what appeared to a hamstring problem, paving the way for Smalling's return.
