BACK IN THE RED?

■ Leaked manifesto shows Labour plans to renationalize energy, transport and the Royal Mail

Labour would renationalise energy companies, railways and the Royal Mail under its most socialist policies for a generation, according to a draft of the party's manifesto which was leaked Wednesday night.

Tuition fees would be abolished and bus companies would be taken back into public ownership, it was revealed, as the entire 43-page document emerged before senior party figures had the opportunity to meet on Thursday to sign off Jeremy Corbyn's prospectus. If approved it would commit the party to a heavy emphasis on public ownership and universal benefits such as free higher education.

The draft manifesto hints at a new nuclear doctrine. It says that "any prime minister should be extremely cautious about ordering the use of weapons of mass destruction which would result in the indiscriminate killing of millions of innocent civilians".

public ownership

On the subject of Brexit, which divided the party from many of its core supporters during last year's referendum, Labour says that it accepts the result. However, a Labour government would not echo Theresa May's threat that "no deal is better than a bad deal" - a negotiating position that the Conservatives say is vital for a successful outcome but that critics believe sets Britain on the path to a hard Brexit.

"Labour recognises that leaving the EU with 'no deal' is the worst possible deal for Britain and that it would do damage to our economy and trade. We will reject 'no deal' and negotiate transitional arrangements to avoid a cliff-edge for the UK economy," the draft states. On its commitment to renationalise the railways, the draft manifesto says that routes would be taken back into public ownership "as franchises expire", adding that publicly owned bus companies would be established.

Royal Mail would also be returned to public ownership after the coalition government's "historic mistake" to sell it off in 2013, and the manifesto commits a Labour government to "take energy back into public ownership" by establishing a rival to the existing Big Six companies (British Gas, EDF, npower, E.ON UK, Scottish Power and SSE).

tax increase

"Labour will reintroduce maintenance grants for university students and we will abolish university tuition fees," it states.

To pay for the policy pledges Labour has already announced plans to increase corporation tax to 26 per cent by 2022, bringing in an extra £20 billion for the Treasury, cont. on page 2, col. 1 and indicated that people earning more than £80,000 would face tax rises.

The draft manifesto indicates a further levy on companies "with high numbers of staff on very high pay".

Labour is committed to borrowing £250 billion over the coming decade to fund infrastructure improvements.

Although the draft says that Labour supports efforts to manage migration, it does not commit to any policies to reduce the number of net arrivals.

A spokesman for Mr Corbyn said: "We do not comment on leaks. We will announce our policies in our manifesto, which is our plan to transform Britain for the many, not the few."

The Labour leader had been due to launch the party's first election poster in London Thursday morning but pulled out suddenly as the row over the leak erupted. A Labour source said that Mr Corbyn was preparing for a private meeting at which the draft was due to be discussed.

Ahead of the meeting several MPs and MEPs denied being the source of the leak.

Carwyn Jones, First Minister of Wales, Glenys Wilmot, leader of the European Parliamentary Labour Party, Christina Rees MP and Barry Gardiner MP told Channel 4 News they had not leaked the manifesto.

Asked on her way into the meeting if she was the source, Margaret Beckett MP told The Sun: "don't be ridiculous, I haven't seen the bloody thing."

'not ideal'

Addressing the leak on the BBC, Andrew Gwynne, Labour's elections co-ordinator, said: "It's not ideal, but on the plus side we're all talking about the Labour Party this morning. We're all talking about some of the visions of how the country can be better."

Describing Labour's policies as "genuinely transformational", Mr Gwynne told Radio 4's Today programme that each pledge in the final manifesto would be fully costed and have its funding explained.

A Conservative spokesman said: "This is a total shambles. Jeremy Corbyn's plans to unleash chaos on Britain have been revealed. The commitments in this dossier will rack up tens of billions of [pounds of] extra borrowing for our families and will put Brexit negotiations at risk. Jobs will be lost, families will be hit and our economic security damaged for a generation if Jeremy Corbyn and the coalition of chaos are ever let anywhere near the keys to Downing Street."

Tories sitting pretty after local election gains

Sweeping gains for the Conservatives in last week's local elections have led to predictions of a landslide victory for the party in June's general election.

The Tories won 563 extra seats – taking control of 11 more councils – and won shock victories in mayoral races in two former Labour strongholds: Tees Valley and the West Midlands (where the ex-boss of John Lewis, Andy Street, had given up his £800,000 job to run as a Conservative candidate).

Labour lost 382 council seats, and the Lib Dems 42 (despite a slight rise in their vote share). UKIP did worst of all, retaining only one councillor in the 146 seats it defended.

Tory gains were especially marked in Scotland, where they took 276 seats – more than twice their previous tally – largely at the expense of Labour. But the SNP scored a dramatic success in Glasgow, becoming the largest party on the council and denying Labour control of the city for the first time in almost 40 years.

What the editorials said

These are "portentous" results, said The Times. Labour has been trounced and UKIP has been annihilated. The biggest surprise was how successful the Tories were in attracting former Labour voters who'd defected to UKIP. "Where once UKIP was discussed as a threat to the Conservative Party, it's now clear that the party has inflicted huge damage on Labour." This could herald a "generational realignment" in British politics, said The Daily Telegraph. And the Tories have Brexit to thank for it. "After 30 years of tearing themselves apart over Europe", they have "embraced Euroscepticism and discovered it is rather popular".

But don't forget that some areas – notably, London – weren't voting in these elections, said The Guardian. The BBC's projection of what the national breakdown would have been had everyone been voting gives the two main parties of the Left – Labour and the Lib Dems – a combined support of 45%, two points ahead of the total figure for the Conservatives and

"A bloody difficult woman" - which British voters appreciate, according to opinion polls

UKIP. May's "putative landslide" owes more to our first-past-the-post system than to the electoral appeal of her arguments.

What the commentators said

"What went right, then," asked Ed West in The Spectator. The Tories have achieved a 17-point lead among working-class voters, even though they've squeezed health and education spending and can't offer much by way of "optimism and charisma". The answer can hardly lie with "Mayism", said Philip Stephens in the FT. Since May arrived in Downing Street, we've learnt almost nothing about her, except the "disdain she feels for Cameron and his coterie of rich chums". The only reason she appears unbeatable, said Andrew Rawnsley in The Observer, is the "paucity of the competition provided by a Labour leadership that combines unelectable hard-leftism with utter ineptness". The Lib Dems are also less than formidable, said George Eaton in the New Statesman. Their leader, Tim Farron, had hoped that by playing the anti-Brexit card he could attract the 48% who voted Remain. But "the 48% no longer exist". Polls show that 69% of voters – more than a third of whom voted Remain – now believe the Government has a duty to leave the EU. Being anti-Brexit is not a vote winner.

But being Theresa May is, said Charles Moore in The Daily Telegraph. She may be the Oxford-educated wife of a "prosperous City man", but it's clear from the election results she "goes down big" in the West Midlands. She has persuaded voters that she's both a "bloody difficult woman" and a "decent and straight-forward" one. As a result, she's now more popular even than her own party, with approval ratings of 49%. She seems on her way to achieving her "most daring objective", the revival of working-class conservatism, said Matthew d'Ancona in The Guardian.

What next?

Despite the Tory election gains, analysts caution that a Conservative landslide in the general election is far from guaranteed. A recent analysis suggests that on the basis of last week's results, the party might emerge next month with a solid but not overwhelming 60-seat majority in the Commons. Its current working majority is 17.

Gazza TV tears over 'worst year'

■ Former England midfielder cuts pitiful figure on morning TV

TROUBLED football legend Paul Gascoigne made a tearful TV appearance this week as he talked about "probably the worst year ever".

The former England star spoke of his troubles with alcohol addiction and his devastation over the death of his nephew Jay Kerrigan, 22, last year.

"Gazza", 49, who has had several stints in rehab, was a guest on ITV's Good Morning Britain and was seen with a heavily-bandaged hand. The ex-Tottenham Hotspur and Newcastle United midfielder explained he had broken his hand fighting off burglars, adding: "I came off worse."

Gascoigne spoke just days after Everton winger Aaron Lennon was detained under the Mental Health Act.

"I let myself down"

He said: "All of a sudden, I'm in a good mood and then, all of a sudden, I wake up and I've got a bottle of gin and I think 'where's that come from?'"

"You look at the Everton player who's just been sectioned. There's a lot of people out there who have got everything but, inside, they don't share enough."

"There needs to be more done – especially with the guys. It's a macho thing. They think, 'Nah I'm not doing this because no one will like us'."

He added: "I've had a good life and I've had my ups and downs. Just

BARING HIS SOUL: Gascoigne appeared alongside Piers Morgan and Susanna Reid on the ITV show

this year hasn't been the best. It's probably the worst year ever.

"I'm working on things. This time I didn't go to treatment. I did cold turkey and that wasn't very nice."

"I'm trying to get well again. I'm doing really well. It's best I focus on me staying well."

"As long as I just keep working on myself because there's so many fans out there that I don't want to let down. I'm the worst one. I let myself down more than anything else."

"I want to be happy and sober. It's about getting the balance right."

On the loss of nephew Jay, he said: "I haven't had the best of years. I was doing really well and then, obviously, Jay, who had mental problems."

"The thing with Jay was he never talked about it. I'm upset that they wouldn't section him. He would still be alive if he had been sectioned.

"He ordered pills on the internet. They came in the post, he took them and never woke up."

Asked about his ordeal with burglars, he added:

"I saw them and went down to protect my stuff. I did what I had to but I came off worse."

May repeats migrant pledge

Theresa May has confirmed that the commitment to cut net migration to the "tens of thousands" will once again be in her party's manifesto. The Tories first made the promise in 2010, and repeated it as an "ambition" in 2015, yet remain nowhere close to delivering it. Last year, net migration was 273,000, with EU migrants making up 165,000 of that.

"I think it's important that we continue... to say that we do want to bring net migration down to sustainable levels," said the PM. "We believe that is in the tens of thousands."

Earlier, Home Secretary Amber Rudd described immigration as a huge "positive", and said that the pledge might be in the form of a five-year strategy.

Pollution proposals

The Government has issued its draft proposals for reducing the levels of pollution created by diesel engines. These include more "clean air zones", where local authorities would encourage cleaner forms of transport, but only introduce charges as a last resort; a limited scrappage scheme, aimed at poorer car owners; and funding to retrofit the dirtiest vehicles (buses and lorries) with devices to clean up their emissions.

'Catweazle' star Bayldon dead at 93

Geoffrey Bayldon, best known for his roles as the eccentric wizard Catweazle and as the Crowman in Worzel Gummidge, has died at the age of 93.

Although he could never be considered a major star, Bayldon did enjoy a long acting career after graduating from the Old Vic Theatre School following a stint in the Royal Air Force. Following spells in regional theatre in the 1950s he moved into film, appearing alongside Christopher Lee in 1958's Horror of Dracula, as well as strong supporting roles in To Sir With Love (1967), Casino Royale (1967) and Born to Boogie, the T-Rex concert film (1972).

But Bayldon was more of a presence on the small screen, working continuously during the 1960s and 1970s in TV shows including Bootsie and Snudge, The Avengers, The Victorians, The Persuaders, Z Cars and The Tomorrow People, and more recently in Blott on the Landscape and Rumpole of the Bailey.

But it was as Catweazle that Bayldon found fame, entertaining a generation of children as a kooky 11th century wizard who is transported to modern day and befriends a young boy.

ICONIC ROLE: Catweazle ran for just two seasons on London Weekend Television

Catweazle would run for just two series, but Bayldon's popularity in the role would subsequently land him the part of the sinister Crowman in the iconic children's sitcom Worzel Gummidge alongside Jon Pertwee.

While Gummidge went off the air in 1981, Bayldon remained a TV regular, appearing in Casualty as five different characters over the course of two decades, and guest starring on series including Wycliffe, Last of the Summer Wine, New Tricks and Waking the Dead. His final role was in a 2010 episode of BBC sitcom My Family.

Bayldon also turned down the chance to be the very first incarnation of the Doctor in Doctor Who, with William Hartnell taking the job instead. He did eventually voice the role in two audio plays, however.

"I've never been in love with sci-fi. It doesn't terribly interest me," Bayldon told SciFiBulletin. "I turned it down simply because I'd been playing old men and I

High Court awards wife £543m divorce settlement

A Russian billionaire has been ordered to pay his estranged wife £453m in a divorce settlement at a British court.

The payment from the 61-year-old, a former oil and gas trader, to his ex-wife, 41, has been described as one of the biggest awards made by a UK court.

During a High Court hearing, a judge said the couple met and married in Moscow before moving to Surrey.

Mr Justice Haddon-Cave said he had awarded the woman 41.5% of the "total marital assets".

The judge made a ruling preventing the man, from the Caucasus, and the woman, who was born in Eastern Europe, from being identified.

Both were given indefinite leave to remain in the UK, where they have lived for a number of years.

Luxury apartments

Nearly five years ago, the court was told, the husband sold shares in a Russian company for $1.3 billion (£1bn).

He then bought both the couple's sons flats in a luxury London development - one for £29 million and the other for £7 million.

Mr Justice Haddon-Cave said the woman had been a housewife and mother to the couple's children.

The husband argued he had made a "special contribution" to the generation of wealth, but the judge concluded the man and woman had made "equal contributions to the welfare of the family".

His ex-wife claimed the "total net marital wealth" was just over £1 billion which had been built up during their marriage.

Mr Justice Haddon-Cave said the reasons for the man's "sudden decision" to no longer contest the case were "unclear", but it seemed that he had previously argued that he was wealthy before they married.

Neither party was in court for the final ruling.

How we live now....

Last year, Ikea warned that shoppers have reached "peak stuff"; now, figures have confirmed that people are indeed spending less on physical goods, such as clothes - but that the market for "experiences" is booming. Data from Barclaycard shows that there was a 20% year-on-year increase in spending in pubs last month; Brits spent 16% more in restaurants, and almost 13% more on theatre and cinema trips; by contrast, spending in department stores fell 1%.

Students aren't only using digital technologies to cheat in their exams; according to a report by the university ombudsman, a law student was recently caught using invisible ink. It seems she'd written 24 pages of invisible notes, and smuggled in a UV light to decipher them.

Cops get steamed over Thomas the Tank engine BMW on M1

A driver has received three points on his licence and a £100 fine after being stopped driving an unconvincing Thomas the Tank Engine replica down the M1.

David Scott was pulled over on his way to Dover for 'Scumrun', an annual charity rally with a mystery location only unveiled at the start of the event. Participants tend to drive heavily modified cars, though in this instance the 'tweaks' made to his BMW 5 Series were deemed to be illegal and unsafe.

On top of the fine and the points, police officers forced the car's occupants to have it towed to a local garage for the modifications to be rectified. Additions to the vehicle included a large 'boiler' fashioned from an oil drum, Thomas's face, and 'buffers' at the front and rear.

Avocado? The Brits just can't cut it

■ Doctors' warning after alarming rise in hand injuries from hapless home cooks

LIVING in sunny California we tend to take the avocado for granted, but back in Britain it's still considered something of a seasonal delicacy and its rising popularity has brought an unfortunate spate of hand injuries from Brits who just can't cut it.

Indeed a sudden spike in home cooks seeking treatment for hand gashes involving serious nerve and tendon injuries has so alarmed some medical professionals that this week the British Association of Plastic, Reconstructive and Aesthetic Surgeons (BAPRAS) called for safety labels on the fruit.

Simon Eccles, secretary of the association, told reporters: "People do not anticipate that the avocados they buy can be very ripe and there is minimal understanding of how to handle them."

"We don't want to put people off the fruit but I think warning labels are an effective way of dealing with this. It needs to be recognisable. Perhaps we could have a cartoon picture of an avocado with a knife, and a big red cross going through it."

Although there are no official figures around avocado-related injuries, multiple doctors told The Times they receive an influx of post-brunch patients in need of help at weekends.

Georgina Rechner, 31, was one such victim.

On 2nd January 2017, two days into her "new year, new you" healthy eating pledge, she cut herself while preparing brunch.

Rechner, who works in advertising, told HuffPost UK: "I was using a new, super sharp knife to cut the avocado. It skimmed straight off the stone and into my hand, severing two nerves."

"I required immediate surgery to reattach them and have permanently damaged the feeling in my thumb and index

UNHEALTHY CHOICE? a spokesman blamed the spate of injuries from avocados on a 'minimal understanding of how to handle them' among British consumers finger.

"The pain was so intense, very different to a normal cut. Shortly after I became very faint and had to sit down."

Despite the ordeal, Rechner is still a devout avocado-eater.

"I'm a big fan of the avocado, so nothing could keep me away very long. We had it in our dinner the next day - although my husband prepared it this time," she said.

"I have about five different avo de-stoning gadgets to help me prepare them as friends and family have bought me serious/ironic gifts."

According to Jamie Oliver, the majority of hand injuries occur when people attempt to remove the stone from the avocado.

The chef released a video warning amateur cooks not to copy professional chefs in stabbing the stone with a sharp knife while holding the avocado in the palm of your hand.

Instead, Oliver recommended placing the avocado on the counter top while preparing it and removing the creamy fruit with a spoon, instead of a knife.

If you are going to use a knife, he said a sharp one is actually more safe than a blunt one, as you'll struggle less and are less likely to slip.

Tearful TOWIE star faces the cameras following boyfriend's arrest

A reality television star said she hoped to be the "best mother she could be" during her first interview since the father of her unborn baby was charged following an acid attack at a London nightclub.

The Only Way Is Essex's Ferne McCann appeared on the popular British morning TV show This Morning after her ex-boyfriend Arthur Collins was charged with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

Speaking of the charge, Ms McCann, who is 12 weeks pregnant with their child, held back tears.

"It's been very stressful", she said.

The 26-year-old added: "This isn't how I imagined my first pregnancy to be, but this isn't about me, or the situation, my main priority is the baby".

Arthur Collins, 25, from Hertfordshire, is accused of 14 counts of grievous bodily harm with intent and one of throwing corrosive fluid on a person at the Mangle E8 club in Hackney on 17 April.

But despite the "surreal situation", the star said her pregnancy had kept her "feeling positive".

She told the ITV show hosts Phillip Schofield and Holly Willoughby: "It had been such a stressful, surreal situation to be in, but I'm actually feeling good, feeling positive, because I'm pregnant.

"The future for me, I'm not going to say it's going to be easy, but I'm excited and I just want to be the best possible mum I can be."

The TV personality had kept out of the public eye since her former boyfriend's arrest. She added the public had been "so supportive" and had helped her get through the "tough time".

"Everyone's words, everyone has been so supportive, that's what gets me the most, people's kindness, it has been lovely", she said.

Excess proceeds are the amounts in excess of the highest bid after the liens and costs of the sale are paid from the final sale price. If excess proceeds result from the sale, notice will be given to parties of interest, pursuant to law.

All information concerning redemption, provided the right to redeem has not previously been terminated, will, upon request, be furnished by the undersigned.

If redemption of the property is not made according to the law before 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, May 16, 2017, which is the last business day prior to the date of the auction, the right of redemption will terminate.

Panto Camp this summer? Oh yes you can!

STUCK for something to do with the kids this summer?

Well those clever folks at the Lythgoe Family may have just the solution: their Panto Camp in Pasadena, which returns to the Pasadena Civic Theatre. Choose one week, or do all.

Week one runs from July 17-22, week two is July 24-29 and week three is July 31-August 5th. The camp runs from 9am-3pm and offers campers aged 8 to 14 the chance to learn the songs, rehearse the moves, polish the jokes, get into costume, and perform in a Panto of their very own! The week is capped off by an exclusive Saturday morning showcase starring Panto Camp participants for family and friends, followed by a short reception. Meet A Member: Damien Shields

Meet Damien Shields from Dublin, who moved to LA almost 9 years ago to pursue a new life in LA.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

Yes, I had been visiting here since 1994, to visit my two sisters and older brother who left in the late 1980s when the mass exodus was happening in Ireland. They settled here in the Valley and have been here ever since. So the expat community that they found and made their family away from home, became mine by default as the years passed. When I decided to come here in 2008, I just wanted to see how the other half lived, and I was fed up with the rain in Ireland- it wasn't helping my golf game at all!

Being that I'm from Ireland, I am so happy to be accepted as part of the Brits in LA community. I have many relatives in the UK and worked for many UK companies in my time, so I know a thing or two about the British folk....and I know we all share a similar sense of humor, considering that Only Fools And Horses' is probably the best sitcom ever produced and it was written by an Irishman, John Sullivan. I prefer rugby over Soccer when it comes to our international sporting events.

What do you miss most from home?

My parents are still alive and in their mid 80s, so not seeing them on a daily basis is hard. And my core friends from my school days who have become my life friends. I miss all the conversations I had with them over a few pints of good Guinness. The traditional breakfast is another one I miss just because it's so great. And roaming around the streets of Dublin late at night, wandering from bar to bar, knowing you can meet anyone and everyone you know without planning it. That sense of community is really the big thing I miss.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since? If so why?

The smell of warm air was always the first thing I remember about landing in LAX and coming out into the thick hot air during the summer. The palm trees everywhere, the fast food options on every corner, the billboards at every junction. It was so different from Dublin and it was exciting to be able to buy 20 Budweiser in the supermarket for less than $20! The six lanes of the 405, so much traffic. I loved going out to eat as I found it so cheap after changing money from punts to dollars! The constant sunshine and the days seemed to last for weeks while first here. The novelty of the good weather has never waned for me, I still never take a jacket anywhere, no matter how cold everyone thinks it is. The main change for me is that it doesn't feel new to me anymore which I used to love that feeling of waking up and saying "I live in LA"! I suppose familiarity has set in and life here is now moving as fast as it did back in Ireland before I left.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus Dublin?

LA is so much more diverse in every way compared to Dublin, and it's harder to connect with people here in a simple way. I could walk around Dublin, and if I could not get a taxi, I could walk home if I had to. The local fish & chip shop, doner kebabs, chicken curry, Cadburys chocolate. Among other things. I know LA is a melting pot and I have gotten used to the way of life here, it's just I think I had so much more of a social life at home that I never replaced here.

'TIS HIMSELF: Damien enjoying a pint of plain in his favorite Dublin hostelry

For me it's all about the conversations I had while enjoying time with family and friends!

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

Well, up till last December my hidden gem would have been either the Sagebrush Cantina for a Saturday afternoon session with live music all day and night, then close out with Karaoke in Paolis on Ventura – next to the Pickwick! Another great watering hole. But recently my wife and I opened an Italian Restaurant in Woodland Hills called Tuccio's. Tuccio is her family name as she is Italian, and me being Irish we thought we could bring the best of both our worlds to a family owned – non corporate-establishment here in the valley - providing a warm and friendly place where people could come, sit and relax, have dinner with friends, catch some live music, and feel welcome and appreciated. While having a great menu of authentic dishes to choose from and a bar stocked with strong premium brands of beers/wines and liquors. So if you're looking for a new gem. We would like to think we can be that place.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Come here with a plan and a time frame to achieve that plan. Respect the differences you find here, and try add to the community by being open/ honest and friendly. People react to authenticity everywhere. Call in on your neighbours and be open to making a real connection with people you meet.

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

"Today is yesterday's tomorrow". Don't wait on making your move or trying new things, today is the day for that-not tomorrow. Also: WB Yeats said once. 'there are no strangers here, only friends we have not yet met'. I have always thought this was something a lot of people do not get. Yet it's the truth.

Brits In LA

It's time to stop complaining and start organizing...

Strange times we are living in here in 'murica. Our political system is being exposed for the sham that it is. I mean seriously you cannot write this stuff. I'm sure Oliver Stone is waiting for that call to direct '45. aafter Nixon, JFK, and the lesser known W.

As most of you probably know, President Trump fired the head of the FBI, James Comey this week just days before he was due to testify about Russia's interference in our 2016 election.

This comes just days after the also fired former acting attorney general Sally Yates testified to senators about her role in warning the incoming Trump administration that General Michael Flynn was compromised because of false statements he had given about speaking to the Russians.

Now I'm no conspiracy theorist, but something tells me this is all very convenient for the Flump and current attorney general, Jeff Sessions, who recused himself from any questioning regarding Russia's alleged interference into our elections. (Yes they can do that).

From my perspective, Trump is concerned that the public and the press are getting dangerously close to finding out what exactly happened, (often called the truth). And the best way to stop them, in the President's mind, is to fire the man who is leading the investigation and replace him with somebody more compliant.

The White House did give some excuse about what a poor job Comey did regarding Hillary Clinton's emails. Which admittedly he did. But that was back in July of last year. So why fire him now?

And the spineless orange one didn't even have the respect to tell Comey to his face (I guess he's not on The Apprentice anymore) Comey found out like the rest of us, via the media while he was leading an FBI recruitment drive in Los Angeles. You can't make this stuff up!

Needless to say, the Cheezit-in-Chief can, by law do all of this we are straying close to Nixonian territory, where the President thought he was above the law. We all know how THAT turned out.

Now more than ever we the public deserve a transparent government and an honest leader. So we must demonstrate and protest and take to the streets and bombard both the House and the Senate's phone lines and emails, demanding an independent investigation into the Russia ties and bring the truth out once and for all. Sorry to say it but we have a battle on our hands because some (if not most) of the republicans are putting party before country. And as they have the majority in both the house and the senate, we the people have a tough job on our hands. We don't have the luxury of fast forwarding through this part of the movie to find out the ending. We must be in this picture, stand up, rise up and be the supporting cast in order to secure a happy ending for the people.

But what we do have is our voices, our minds, our dazzling keyboard warrior skills and our right to vote. Come 2018 we have the mid-term elections, when we have the chance to overturn this corrupt government and make the Cheetoking accountable for all of his vile behaviour and actions.

On Sunday, June 11th at 9am there is a tremendous (yes I used THAT word) march at Hollywood and Highland. I invite you to join me and thousands of others to march peacefully but loudly and send a clear message around the nation that this new norm is not okay.

Okay, rant over and by the way you don't have to agree with me politically, but you must admit that this country looks like its engaged in some grotesque panto rather than getting on with the serious job of being leader of the free world.

Breathe, everyone!

Cheers to Karen Gillan's Golden Can!

I've said it time and time again, that ever since her first appearance as Amy Pond in Doctor Who back in 2010, Karen Gillan is a girl going places!

Not content with starring in just one Hollywood blockbuster, the Scots lass currently has TWO movies running at the same time on the silver screen. The Circle, featuring Emma Watson, and Tom Hanks as well as playing Nebula in Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2 alongside Chris Pratt.

And if that weren't enough, the actress recently finished her directorial debut, The Party's Just Beginning, and now joins the 'who's who' of Scottish cultural legends by scooping a Golden Can Award.

Oo-er!

The hand-crafted Golden Cans, specially created by Tennent's acknowledge those who have had an outstanding impact on Scottish life and culture.

Karen, joins author Irvine Welsh, bands Biffy Clyro, Franz Ferdinand and Mogwai, Glasgow DJ Jackmaster, and producer/composer Hudson Mohawke in the Golden Can hall of fame.

The actress said: "Big thanks to Tennent's Lager for choosing me as the next recipient of the Golden Can. I'm proud to join such a prestigious list of Scots, and can't wait to see who's next. Cheers!"

Alan McGarrie, Head of UK Brand Marketing at Tennent's, said: "We created the Tennent's Golden Can Award to recognised Scottish cultural legends and nobody would argue the Karen is a worthy recipient."

"Whether she's travelling through time saving the galaxy (or just trying to take it over!) she's always flying the flag for Scotland and helping prove we've got all bases covered when it comes to big screen talent.

"Our Golden Can hall of fame is filling up nicely, and we'll be handing out more awards over the coming weeks and months. Let us know on social media who you think should be next."

As I said, I have always been a big fan of Karen's... Well done missy!

Hunnam praises Beckham's Arthur 'assist'

There's nothing like being complimented by a star...

After receiving some flack already for his role on the big screen – not least from frenemy Piers Morgan, David Beckham has finally been given the thumbs up on his acting skills for his short cameo in the new movie King Arthur: Legend Of The Sword.

The film, directed by his mate Guy Ritchie, was only a few seconds of footage, but Becks he still managed to pick up a fair dose of criticism.

But now star of the movie Charlie Hunnam has defended the football legend's skills, saying David worked hard for the role, having even had training beforehand.

Charlie even suggested the 42-year-old was good enough to give acting a real go if he wanted.

Speaking to ITV on the red carpet for the premiere of the film, Charlie said: 'He'd worked with an acting coach, he was only there as a friend of Guy's but it became very clear how he's enjoyed so much success in his life. He's a perfectionist.'

"I wa really impressed." Asked if he thought David could take things further, Charlie added: 'He has the talent to back it up. He has the work ethic, the discipline to do it.'

His pal Guy added his thoughts on Becks' acting career too: 'He was fantastic, I love old Becksy.'

'He is a fabulous actor and a real pleasure to be with.'

David is pretty proud of the role, and took to Instagram to give fans a look at what went on behind the scenes to transform him into the gruesome Trigger. A lot of make up and some dodgy teeth, by the looks of things.

He wrote: 'It was a pleasure to work with the @kingarthurmovie team on such an amazing film #KingArthur.'

King Arthur hits cinemas worldwide on May 12 2017.

Murderous Mayhem at Honeychurch Hall

■ Exclusive interview with author Hannah Dennison; in her latest mystery novel a woman and her mother leave London for country life on a crumbling estate

"The theme of reinvention has always intrigued me," says Murderous Mayhem at Honeychurch Hall author Hannah Dennison. "Probably because I reinvented myself when I moved from England to America with my ten-year-old daughter and two cats in tow to start a new life. In the Honeychurch Hall Mysteries, I wanted to explore the relationship between Kat Stanford, a former TV celebrity and antique dealer, leaving her London life behind to move in, albeit reluctantly, with her newly widowed mother on a crumbling country estate miles from the life both of them knew."

Kat Stanford and her mother Iris live in the tiny hamlet of Honeychurch, which is preparing for its annual re-enactment of the Royalist Honeychurches versus the Carew Roundheads on the grounds of the Honeychurch Hall estate. In a shocking discovery, the remains of a woman thought to have vanished during the English Civil War are found. Thus the game is afoot.

When Iris's manuscript goes missing Kat tracks it back to their own post office, run by local busybody Muriel Jarviswho has her own problems. She may be evicted by Lord Rupert Honeychurch from her cottage - the family home for generations. Kat needs to figure out where the missing manuscript is, who's blackmailing who, and a murder.

After her father passed away in 2002, Dennison's mother had bought the wing of an old country house near Totnes in Devon. "On three floors and with lots of stairs, a long drive and in the middle of nowhere, it was hugely impractical for someone who had just turned 73," says Dennison. "My mother completely reinvented her life and now at 88, is in robust health, working as a docent at Greenway, Agatha Christie's summer home, and has never been happier."

Having invented the town of Honeychurch, Dennison was surprised to discover in her research that it's a real place, a tiny hamlet in Devon. "Of course, my mother and I had to go and find it. Tucked in a remote part of north Devon, there are just five farms and a little church called St. Mary's. Honeychurch is mentioned in the Domesday Book of 1086. In the 11th century, the population of Honeychurch was around thirty. And one thousand years later, it's around the same number. The last time the church was remodeled was in the 15th century. There is no electricity or heating. There are still three medieval bells in their original cage and a complete set of late medieval benches."

Dennison also writes The Vicky Hill Mysteries series, based on her experience as a young obituary reporter on a weekly newspaper in a small market town in Devon. There are five books in the series: A Vicky Hill Exclusive, Scoop, Expose, Thieves and Accused. Each book highlights a peculiar British custom from hedge jumping, snail racing to Morris dancing and worm charming.

Dennison currently has a proposal out for a fifth Honeychurch Hall, a sixth Vicky Hill and a new series featuring two sisters. All are set in the West Country.

Dennison lives in Portland, Oregon, with her husband and two Vizsla dogs. She was born in Old Basing, Hampshire, near the ruins of Old Basing House, a location of one of the decisive battles in the English Civil War. She is an avid supporter of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings, the Historic Houses Association, and the National Trust.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF ANNETTE GREEN

Case No. 17STPB03629

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of ANNETTE GREEN

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Jason Howard in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Jason Howard be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 1, 2017 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 11 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

STANDARD FAMILY LAW RESTRAINING ORDERS

Starting immediately, you and your spouse or domestic partner are restrained from:

1. removing the minor children of the parties from the state or applying for a new or replacement passport for those minor children without the prior written consent of the other party or an order of the court;

2. Cashing, borrowing against, canceling, transferring, disposing of, or changing the beneficiaries of any insurance or other coverage, including life, health, automobile, and disability, held for the benefit of the parties and their minor children;

3. transferring, encumbering, hypothecating, concealing, or in any way disposing of any property, real or personal, whether community, quasi-community, or separate, without the written consent of the other party or an order of the court, except in the usual course of business or for the necessities of life; and

4. creating a nonprobate transfer or modifying a nonprobate transfer in a manner that affects the disposition of property subject to the transfer, without the written consent of the other party or an order of the court. Before revocation of a nonprobate transfer can take effect or a right of survivorship to property can be eliminated, notice of the change must be filed and served on the other party.

You must notify each other of any proposed extraordinary expenditures at least five business days prior to incurring these extraordinary expenditures and account to the court for all extraordinary expenditures made after these restraining orders are effective. However, you may use community property, quasi-community property, or your own separate property to pay an attorney to help you or to pay court costs.

ÓRDENES DE RESTRICCIÓN ESTÁNDAR DE DERECHO FAMILIAR

En forma inmediata, usted y su cónyuge o pareja de hecho tienen prohibido:

1. llevarse del estado de California a los hijos menores de las partes, o solicitar un pasaporte nuevo o de repuesto para los hijos menores, sin el consentimiento previo por escrito de la otra parte o sin una orden de la corte;

4. crear o modificar una transferencia no testamentaria de manera que afecte la asignación de una propiedad sujeta a transferencia, sin el consentimiento por escrito de la otra parte o una orden de la corte. Antes de que se pueda eliminar la revocación de una transferencia no testamentaria, se debe presentar ante la corte un aviso del cambio y hacer una entrega legal de dicho aviso a la otra parte.

WARNING—IMPORTANT INFORMATION

WARNING—IMPORTANT INFORMATION
California law provides that, for purposes of division of property upon dissolution of a marriage or domestic partnership or upon legal separation, property acquired by the parties during marriage or domestic partnership in joint form is presumed to be community property. If either party to this action should die before the jointly held community property is divided, the language in the deed that characterizes how title is held (i.e., joint tenancy, tenants in common, or community property) will be controlling, and not the community property presumption. You should consult your attorney if you want the community property presumption to be written into the recorded title to the property.

ADVERTENCIA—IMFORMACIÓN IMPORTANTE

De acuerdo a la ley de California, las propiedades adquiridas por las partes durante su matrimonio o pareja de hecho en forma conjunta se consideran propiedad comunitaria para fines de la división de bienes que ocurre cuando se produce una disolución o separación legal del matrimonio o pareja de hecho. Si cualquiera de las partes de este caso llega a fallecer antes de que se divida la propiedad comunitaria de tenencia conjunta, el destino de la misma quedará determinado por las cláusulas de la escritura correspondiente que describen su tenencia (por ej., tenencia conjunta, tenencia en común o propiedad comunitaria) y no por la presunción de propiedad comunitaria. Si quiere que la presunción comunitaria quede registrada en la escritura de la propiedad, debería consultar con un abogado.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF CLAYTON L. THOMAS

Case No. 17STPB03850
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of CLAYTON L. THOMAS

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Richard Trutanic in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Richard Trutanic be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 5, 2017 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 67 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Koeman to Barclay: sign new deal or leave

Everton midfielder Ross Barkley has until the end of the Premier League season next weekend to sign a new contract or he will be sold, says manager

Ronald Koeman. Koeman last month warned the England international, 23, that with a year left on his deal he could be sold.

Everton face Watford on Friday before finishing their Premier League campaign at Arsenal on Sunday, 21 May.

"Either he accepts the contract or we sell the player," said Koeman.

"But if you need so much time then you have doubts - I like to work with players who like to stay."

The Dutchman said the Everton board had tried "for a long time" to get Barkley to sign and were already looking at replacements in attacking positions.

He added: "We don't wait till August - next weekend we need an answer."

Barkley has scored four goals and provided eight assists in 34 Premier League appearances this season.

My players deserve title - Conte

Manager Antonio Conte says his Chelsea players are worthy of winning the Premier League title.

The Blues are now one win away from securing their fifth league trophy after beating Middlesbrough 3-0 at Stamford Bridge on Monday.

Conte, 47, told BBC Match of the Day: "This is my first season in England in a tough championship.

"I'm delighted for my players, they deserve this. We are showing that we deserve to win the league."

Chelsea face West Brom on Friday with a seven-point advantage over Tottenham, who play Manchester United on Sunday.

The Blues finish their league season with games against Watford and relegated Sunderland.

"Now, we have taken another step to the title. We have to rest well and prepare for West Brom," Conte said after Monday's victory, which relegated Boro back to the Championship.

"We must try in the next game to become champions. West Brom will want to play a good game against us, but we are ready."

Cesc Fabregas was brought into Chelsea's starting line-up after N'Golo Kante was ruled out through injury, and the Spaniard was Chelsea's stand-out player.

He provided the pass for Diego Costa's opener and Nemanja Matic's third, and has now claimed 10 assists and four goals in 26 games. Marcos Alonso scored Chelsea's second.

"It's been a difficult year for me. I'm used to playing a lot but I feel I have matured a lot," former Arsenal midfielder Fabregas told Sky Sports.

"Many people told me I am not the type of player for Antonio Conte and I should leave but I like challenges.

"I hadn't played every game but I think I have played in the last 20 games. When I have been on the pitch maybe my contribution is better than a full season."

Football bids farewell to Ehiogu

THE footballing world paid tribute to Ugo Ehiogu Wednesday at his funeral in London.

Ehiogu died aged 44 last month after suffering a cardiac arrest at Tottenham's training ground, where he worked as coach with their Under-23 side.

His former Aston Villa team-mate Dwight Yorke helped carry his coffin into the church, where England manager Gareth Southgate spoke about the "fussiness" for which Ehiogu was fondly remembered.

Dion Dublin, who also played alongside him at Villa, fought back tears as he said: "On and off the field he did everything right. As a father, as a parent, he did it right.

"The service was beautiful, as I expected. Ugo's way. Done right, everything was on time, all the people he wanted there were there. I'll miss him."

Nervy United edge into final

EUROPA LEAGUE
SEMI FINAL, 2ND LEG
MANCHESTER U.....1
CELTA VIGO.....1
(agg: 2-1)

Manchester United survived a huge late scare Thursday night to edge past Spanish visitors Celta Vigo and set up a Europa League final against Dutch giants Ajax.

Leading 1-0 from the first leg, United took control as Marouane Fellaini headed home Marcus Rashford's cross.

But Celta, needing two goals, levelled on the night through Facundo Roncaglia to set up a tense final few minutes.

United's Eric Bailly and Roncaglia were sent off after a mass brawl, and the hosts hung on to reach the final.

Indeed they could only celebrate after Celta striker John Guidetti scuffed a golden chance to put the visitors through to their first major European final with the final kick of the game.

The aggregate victory took the Red Devils a step closer to their first Europa League triumph and a return to the Champions League.

They will meet Ajax, who beat Lyon in the other semi-final, in Stockholm on 24 May.

United had never lost a two-legged European tie after winning the first leg away from home, and knew they would reach the final by keeping a clean sheet at an expectant Old Trafford.

The hosts looked nervy as Celta made an attacking start, before Fellaini settled the tension by converting his side's first effort on target.

The Belgium midfielder sneaked in at the far post to powerfully head in Rashford's clipped right-wing cross.

Jose Mourinho's

side created few other chances as they aimed to frustrate the visitors with an organised and largely defensive approach.

Although Henrikh Mkhitaryan, Rashford and Fellaini all drew saves from Celta keeper Sergio Alvarez after the break, it was a functional - not flashy - performance.

Celta, who had lost their previous five matches and are 12th in La Liga, had more possession than the home side, and forced United keeper Sergio Romero into instinctive saves at the start of each half.

They then ignited the tie with Roncaglia's glancing header following a corner.

The away goal, which left them needing one more to eliminate United, increased the tension inside Old Trafford, leading to a scuffle involving almost all 22 players on the field.

Bailly was sent off for a swipe at former Manchester City striker Guidetti, with Roncaglia dismissed for retaliating.

With six minutes of added time, there was still opportunity for Celta to create one final chance - but Guidetti blew it.

While United's players greeted the final whistle with a mixture of relief and jubilation, the visitors slumped to the turf with Guidetti in tears.

"You cannot win a semi-final easily, or be calm. We are in the final, that's what counts," said United midfielder Ander Herrera.

Winning the Europa League has become Mourinho's priority as he looks to secure a return to the Champions League in his debut season at Old Trafford.

And the campaign will be deemed a disappointing one if his team lose to Ajax, who edged out Lyon 5-4 on aggregate.

Expectations were high that Mourinho's arrival would bring an end to the malaise that has surrounded the Red Devils since Sir Alex Ferguson's retirement.

United have finished seventh, fourth and fifth in the three Premier League seasons since the Scot's departure - and Mourinho arrived with loftier ambitions than simply scraping into the top four.

Ten months later, the Portuguese has been forced to drastically reassess his ambitions.

He appears to have conceded defeat in the top-four race, with his team sixth, four points adrift of Manchester City going into their final three matches.

With the return leg against Celta at the forefront of his mind, Mourinho made eight changes for Sunday's 2-0 defeat at Arsenal - a clear admission he felt winning the Europa League was more attainable than breaking into the top four.

However, his decision will only be justified if they are successful in beating Ajax and claiming their sixth European trophy.

The Red Devils have won 65 trophies in their illustrious 115-year history, a figure including 20 English league titles and three European Cup/Champions League victories.

However, there is one piece of silverware missing from the Old Trafford trophy room.

Winning the Europa League, or its predecessor the Uefa Cup, may have been considered an unwanted honour in previous Red Devils eras.

Now it is considered a must-win as the club looks to complete a clean sweep of the major competitions at home and abroad.
