■ 'Totally obsessed' Finsbury Park Mosque attacker found guilty of murder

A man who drove a van into a crowd of Muslims near a London mosque has been found guilty of murder.

Darren Osborne, 48, plowed into people in Finsbury Park in June last year, killing Makram Ali, 51, and injuring nine others.

Osborne, from Cardiff, was also found guilty of attempted murder and is due to be sentenced on Friday.

Prosecutors said they were "clear throughout that this was a terrorist attack".

The jury took an hour to return the verdict on Thursday at Woolwich Crown Court after a nine day trial.

Sue Hemming, from the Crown Prosecution Service, said: "Darren Osborne planned and carried out this attack because of his hatred of Muslims. He must now face the consequences of his actions."

Cdr Dean Haydon from the Metropolitan Police said: "Osborne's evil and cowardly actions meant a family has tragically lost a husband, father and grandfather."

Some of those injured "could suffer from health issues for the rest of their lives", he added.

Jurors heard the area outside the Muslim Welfare House had been busy with worshippers attending Ramadan prayers on 19 June.

'winning the lottery'

Mr Ali had collapsed at the roadside in the minutes before the attack.

Several of those who went to help him said he was alive and conscious in the moments before being struck by the van.

Police later found a letter in the van written by Osborne, referring to Muslim people as "rapists" and "feral".

He also wrote that Muslim men were "preying on our children".

The trial heard Osborne became "obsessed" with Muslims in the weeks leading up to the attack, having watched the BBC drama Three Girls, about the Rochdale grooming scandal.

Osborne told the court he had originally hired the van to kill Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn at a march he was due to attend.

He said it "would have been even better" if London Mayor Sadiq Khan had been present, adding: "It would have been like winning the lottery."

Responding to the verdict, Mr Corbyn - who is MP for the area where the attack took place - said it was "a hate-filled attack that... shocked us all".

"I was proud of how, in the wake of this terrible event, we all came together to reject hate and embrace hope, and that is the kind of country we live in," he added.

A statement from Osborne's partner Sarah Andrews, read out in court, said he seemed "brainwashed" and "totally obsessed".

Ms Andrews - who had

'EVIL AND COWARDLY': Darren Osborne is awaiting sentencing for last year's attack on the Finsbury Park Mosque, which killed one and injured nine others been in a relationship with Mr Osborne for about 20 years and with whom she had four children - described him as a "loner and a functioning alcoholic" with an "unpredictable temperament".

Osborne started following Tommy Robinson, one of the founders of the English Defence League (EDL), and other far-right leaders on social media, in the fortnight before the attack.

Mr Robinson sent him a group email saying: "There is a nation within a nation forming beneath the surface of the UK. It is a nation built on hatred, on violence and on Islam."

Cdr Haydon said the investigation had the "full weight" of the Met's Counter Terrorism Command behind it.

He warned that online material had played a "significant role" in how Osborne was radicalised and "brainwashed".

If Osborne's aim had been to "create divisions and hate between communities", then he had "failed", he said.

"The response [of those involved], and the overwhelmingly positive reaction my officers and teams have witnessed since, highlights how far from reality Osborne's sick and twisted views really are," he added.

The Muslim Council of Britain (MCB) welcomed the verdict, but added: "We cannot be complacent and regard this as a one-off terrorist incident."

Fury at Labour activist who led anti-Churchill chants at London's Blighty cafe

THE ringleader of a mob who stormed a Winston Churchill-themed cafe and branded the wartime hero a "racist" is a supporter of Jeremy Corbyn, it emerged this week.

Politics student Halimo Hussein led the charge when protesters burst into the Blighty UK cafe on Saturday. They urged shocked diners to boycott the eatery for celebrating "unashamed colonialism" and demanded the owner apologise to the local community in Finsbury Park, north London.

Police were called after Ms Hussein, a volunteer for Corbyn's Labour leadership campaign, and eight others launched into their harangue.

The group were captured on video as they berated customers before chanting: "It's our duty to fight for our freedom. It's our duty to win. We have nothing to lose but our chains."

They demanded the cafe stop serving "The Winston", a traditional full English breakfast, and shouted: "Churchill was a racist."

On Monday Foreign Secretary Boris Johnson

called on Mr Corbyn, the local MP, to condemn the activists. He wrote on Twitter: "Disgraceful attack on our finest ever wartime leader by hard-Left mob. Jeremy Corbyn should denounce the actions of these 'activists' immediately."

Ms Hussein, a student at the School of Oriental and African Studies University of London, then posted a scathing online review of the cafe that read: 'Bland breakfasts and awful watery tasting coffee, toilets filthy.'

The 24-year-old, whose family fled the civil war in Somalia, is the co-president of equality and liberation at the SOAS student union. While campaigning for that office, she wrote on her Facebook page: "I want to bring decolonial politics to the forefront in our fight for institutional change."

The cafe, where locals drink from Churchill mugs underneath model Spitfires, has previously come under attack by politically-motivated vandals. Owner Chris Evans, 40, said staff were left frightened. "These people are objecting more than anything else to Britain," he said. "What they want to do is erase history. They say we can't serve a full English and call it 'The Winston'. They walk in here saying we have to change it – and that's not on."

Labour activists are also behind an online petition targeting the cafe and its sister cafe, Blighty India, in nearby Tottenham. They claim they "insensitively evoke memory of the Empire".

Artist Michael Lightfoot condemned the protesters in a tweet to Tottenham Labour MP David Lammy. He wrote: "Will you please rebuke them for their criminality and speak up for the rights of Blighty UK cafe in a free society?"

Welsh enact ban on tongue and intimate piercings for under 18s

Wales has become the first UK nation to ban intimate piercing for under 18s in a bid to prevent potential related health problems.

The new law makes it an offence to pierce or arrange to pierce the tongue, genitals and nipples of those under 18.

It follows concerns they can cause medical complications as well as worries over child protection issues.

But young people have had mixed reactions to the ban.

Speaking outside a piercing studio in Cardiff, Lauren, 19, agreed with the move, saying: "Once you've got something you can't take it back, it's on you forever."

But Joseph, 17, said: "Whatever makes everybody else happy, I don't mind either way."

Wales' chief medical officer Dr Frank Atherton said the move would better protect young people.

The change, under the Public Health (Wales) Act 2017, calls on piercers to ask customers to prove their age and get signed consent for procedures to avoid prosecution and a fine.

Council enforcement

OPEN WIDE: Wales' chief medical officer said the move would better protect young people officers and police have been trained on how to enforce the new law.

A study in England found complications were reported by a third of all 16-24 who had all types of piercings.

Of those, 50% of people with a tongue piercing reported a problem, followed by 45% with genital piercings and 35% with nipple piercings.

The Welsh Government said young people were particularly at risk of further complications because their bodies were still developing.

It also said young people may be less likely to have the experience or knowledge of how to clean or maintain an intimate piercing, leading to a higher risk of infection.

Dr Atherton said: "It's concerning that a third of young people with intimate piercings have reported complications following a procedure.

"The child protection issues that could also arise from this scenario highlight even further, the importance of implementing such a law.

"I hope this piece of legislation will help to reduce these issues, and that practitioners understand the importance of obtaining proof of age beforehand."

The move was also backed by Chief Dental Officer for Wales, Dr Colette Bridgman, who said tongue piercings could damage teeth and gums, and cause serious swelling in the mouth that could affect breathing.

Wales is the first UK country to issue a nationwide ban but some councils in London and Scotland have imposed restrictions.

QUICKLY PULLED: Birds Eye's offending ad

Frozen food giant feels the heat over 'cold water' ad

Frozen food giant Birds Eye has pulled a fish finger advert over concerns raised by County Durham safety campaigners.

The TV advert featured a man and boy jumping into the sea with a voiceover declaring: "Captain Birds Eye loves the simple things, like jumping into cold water on a hot day with his grandson."

A campaign group set up after the death of a 14-year-old boy from cold water shock called the advert inappropriate.

The firm agreed to amend it.

Cameron Gosling, from Crook, died after going swimming with friends in the River Wear in July 2015. It later emerged he had not acclimatised to the cold temperature of the water.

The teenager's family and Durham County Council subsequently launched the Dying to be Cool campaign to raise awareness of the dangers of swimming in cold water.

Cameron's mother Fiona contacted the company to say she was "shocked" when she saw the advert.

She added: "There are so many families and organisations that work so hard on water safety education. It seemed as though Birds Eye hadn't done its research before making it."

The council wrote to Birds Eye expressing concern that the advert suggested jumping into cold water on a hot day was safe.

A spokesman for Birds Eye said: "We take our advertising responsibilities very seriously and we were grateful to be made aware of this issue."

"We have taken the current advert off air. We are now amending the voiceover to remove references to the temperature of the water and weather."

"As a family brand, we decided to take swift action and wish campaigners every success in highlighting this important issue."

Meghan to break protocol by delivering wedding speech

MEGHAN Markle will go against royal tradition to give a speech at her wedding to Prince Harry, it was claimed this week.

The US actress's speech, thought to have Harry's backing, will include an affectionate tribute to her Prince, along with thanks to the Queen, family and friends. It may even include some jokes. The couple will marry at St George's Chapel at Windsor Castle on May 19. The 800-capacity church is a more intimate setting than Westminster Abbey, where the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge married.

Ms Markle, 36, who is expected to be gifted the title of Duchess on her wedding day, is no stranger to public speaking. In 2015 she addressed the United Nations in her capacity as women's advocate for participation and leadership and, without notes, gave an inspiring speech on gender inequality.

Ms Markle's father Thomas, 73, a former Hollywood lighting director and intensely

The guest list is not expected to include President Donald Trump, who said in an interview that he was not aware of receiving an invitation.

Outrage goes up as naked nymphs come down

■ Manchester gallery removes famed 1896 painting of nude girls 'to encourage debate'

A gallery has temporarily removed a Victorian painting of naked adolescent girls in a move to "encourage debate" about how such images should be displayed in the modern age.

Manchester Art Gallery has taken down Hylas and the Nymphs by JW Waterhouse.

Curator Clare Gannaway said there were "tricky issues about gender, race and representation" in the gallery. "But we want to talk about that with people."

She denied accusations that the gallery was censoring the 1896 picture.

The decision has already sparked a heated reaction, however, with many on social media accusing the gallery of being puritanical and too politically correct.

The painting was one of a number of similar pictures in a gallery area titled In Pursuit of Beauty, which Gannaway described as "very old-fashioned" because it depicts women as "either as passive beautiful objects or femmes fatales".

A blog on the gallery website says: "Let's challenge this Victorian fantasy!"

'feminism gone mad'

Speaking to the BBC, Gannaway said: "Views of history, views of art history and views about representation have moved on and the gallery probably hasn't in the way that it should have done."

"And it's not about saying these things can't exist in a public gallery - it's about saying, maybe we just need to challenge the way these paintings have been read and enable them to speak in a different way."

The decision was influenced by recent movements against

HIDING TO NOTHING: the gallery encourages visitors to comment on the painting's removal by leaving post-it notes on the blank wall the objectification and exploitation of women, Gannaway said.

"We've talked a lot about the #MeToo campaigns and it's a credit to those campaigns that they've had such an impact," she said. "I would like to think however that even if those things hadn't existed in the wider world that we would have been still encouraging this debate and discussion."

Visitors have been invited to write their views about the decision on sticky notes and post them in the vacant space.

Comments on the notes ranged from "Feminism gone mad!" to "Create or display art that reflects current ideologies alongside classical pieces. There is room for both."

Clare Gannaway said: "We want to see this as the start of a process, not an end point. But what we're not doing is censoring."

"This is killing any debate"

There were strong reactions on social media. "Removing art due to political concerns is exactly censorship", wrote

Gary Brooks on Twitter.

"I think you can spark a debate without removing the painting," said Ben Perkins.

'prudish'

Professor Liz Prettejohn, who curated a Waterhouse exhibition at the Royal Academy in London in 2009, said: "This is a painting that people love and the most ridiculous thing is the claim that somehow it's going to start a debate to take it out of public view."

"Taking it off display is killing any kind of debate that you might be able to have about it in relation to some of the really interesting issues that it might raise about sexuality and gender relationships."

"The Victorians are always getting criticised because they're supposed to be prudish. But here it would seem it's us who are taking the roles of what we think of as the very moralistic Victorians."

Postcards of the painting have also been taken out of the gallery shop.

EYE OF THE BEHOLDER: the removal of JW Waterhouse's 1896 work Hylas and the Nymphs from the Manchester Art Gallery has sparked spirited debate

Victoria slashes prices as fashion label losses mount

FORMER Spice Girl Victoria Beckham (right), has hacked back the prices of her designer clothes as losses at her fashion label rise.

A slew of high-end items have been reduced by up to 70 per cent as Posh Spice battles to sell unsold stock. Money has been taken off some 200 lines on the Victoria Beckham website, with a £3,250 black corset dress now priced at £975. A red, ribbed polo neck is down from £745 to £224 while a pair of designer flared trousers can be yours for £140 - down from £465. Many of the items in the Autumn/Winter 2017 collection are available in a range of sizes, suggesting they have not been flying off the shelves.

One industry analyst said that no business would want to "discount by this amount" as it affected the credibility of the brand and "upsets" loyal customers who have paid full price. The sale comes after figures posted at Companies House show the Victoria Beckham fashion label made a loss of £8.4million in the past financial year - up 78 per cent on the previous year's £4.7million deficit. Revenue at the brand also dipped by 1.4 per cent to £36.4million. Last year it emerged that husband David's company DB Ventures, which handles earnings from his image rights, pumped £25million into Victoria's fashion business.

Scotland passes landmark domestic abuse law

A bill to criminalise psychological domestic abuse is has been passed, with some campaigners saying it "could change Scotland forever".

The Domestic Abuse bill, which has wide backing, creates a specific offence of "abusive behaviour in relation to a partner or ex-partner".

This includes psychological abuse such as coercive and controlling behaviour as well as violence.

Critics claimed it could be difficult to gather sufficient evidence.

However MSPs voted by 118 to one to pass the legislation, with every member speaking in favour during the final debate.

It later emerged that Conservative Margaret Mitchell - who had spoken of the "total consensus" behind the bill - had recorded the only vote against.

She said she pressed the wrong button during the vote and blamed the mistake on not wearing her glasses.

Members stood to applaud domestic abuse survivors in the public gallery after the result was announced.

Justice Secretary Michael Matheson said it was a "momentous day", saying laws would now "reflect the experience all to many women have suffered".

He said: "Attitudes towards domestic abuse have changed considerably since this Parliament was established in 1999. Back then, some were of the mindset that domestic abuse - especially where it did not involve physical violence - was a private matter. Attitudes have rightly changed - albeit further work is needed to challenge lingering outdated or dismissive attitudes."

Number of British millionaires rises sharply

■ 3.6m households in UK have assets in excess of £1m, new figures show

The number of British households that could consider themselves as millionaires rose by nearly a third in two years, official figures show.

A total of 3.6 million households in Britain held wealth of more than £1m by June 2016, up 29% in two years, the Office for National Statistics said on Monday.

Wealth includes pension savings, investments, belongings, and property values less any outstanding mortgage.

Campaigners argue that the figures expose wealth inequality.

The median wealth per British household, after borrowing is taken into account, was £259,400 by July 2016.

This was 15% higher compared with two years earlier, the official figures show. The figures do not account for the rising cost of living over that time.

The figures show the amount of wealth held by each of Britain's 26 million households as a whole, irrespective of whether there is one or several occupants.

While the wealth of those at the top end of the scale has risen, driven by the growth of private pensions and property values, those at the other end have suffered a fall over the same period.

wealth inequality

The poorest fifth of households, less likely to own a home or a private pension, saw their wealth diminish. For the bottom one in 10 households, that meant a typical fall of £3,000 to £32,000.

Conor D'Arcy, senior policy analyst at the Resolution Foundation, which lobbies for low-income groups, said: "Britain is very good at generating wealth, but terrible at spreading it around the country and even worse at taxing it properly. As a result, we have unacceptably high levels of wealth inequality.

"Young people in particular are feeling the effects of Britain's wealth divide. Our large millennial generation own just 2% of the nation's wealth. This stems from their struggle get on the housing ladder, boosting other's people wealth in the private rented sector, rather than build assets of their own."

The data does show that there was little change in the proportion of wealth held by those at the top and those at the bottom over the period covered by the figures.

The key factors behind the rise in wealth has been more people seeing their pension pots expand, as well as the rise in property values.

There was a 20% rise in private pension wealth by July 2016 compared with two years earlier, to £5.3 trillion, primarily the result of workplace final-salary pensions growing in value, or amid pensions already being paid to those who are retired.

This total was slightly ahead of the 17% rise in property wealth, which grew to £4.6 trillion over the same period.

This increase in

CAPITAL GAINS: median household total wealth in the south east tops the UK average at £381,000 property wealth was reflected in the regional breakdown of wealth. Median net property wealth in London was £351,000 by June 2016 - a third higher than two years earlier.

There were signs of Londoners choosing to put money into a deposit for a home, rather than into savings or shares. The amount of financial wealth in London fell the sharpest compared with other areas of Britain.

Median household total wealth, which includes everything from cars to cash, was highest in the South East of England at £381,000 by June 2016, followed by the South West of England (£336,000).

The lowest was in the North East of England, with median household wealth of £163,000.

In case you missed it....

Treasure hunters were left disappointed this week after a trove of Roman gold unearthed by two metal detectorists in a field in Suffolk turned out to be nothing more than a prop left over from the filming of a BBC comedy about two metal detectorists.

Andy Sampson and Paul Adams reckoned they were in for a £250,000 windfall, until an expert pronounced the coins replicas - and Sampson's wife reminded him that Detectorists had been filmed in the area.

Bake Off judge Paul Hollywood was feeling the heat this week after he was alleged to have bought thousands of fake followers on Twitter from a firm in the US. Devumi charges about $29 per 2,500 followers. Rower James Cracknell was also named in a New York Times report. He said he bought 50,000 followers in 2016 and that he regretted it.

Black cats are struggling to find new homes because they don't look good in selfies, the founder of a Bristol rescue shelter has claimed. All 40 of the felines at The Moggery are black - and Christine Bayka says that prospective owners refuse to take them because they show up badly in photos, making them harder to show off on Instagram and the like. "It's an increasing problem," she said.

Teenager rows into history books

TEENAGER Oliver Crane has sailed into the record books as the youngest person to row single-handedly across the Atlantic.

After 3,000 miles of hard slog Oliver, 19, (pictured, right) celebrated in style on Sunday when he crossed the line in Antigua by waving flares in the early morning gloom. Now the American can't wait to get back to his "training ground" - Brixham harbour in Devon.

Oliver, who lives near New York, came to Devon last August to buy his 23ft custom-built rowing boat and to train. His boat has solar panels that power a desalinator (for water), a VHF radio and navigational systems. Brixham Marina manager Andrew Millar said he was happy to offer Oliver a free berth while he put the boat through its paces. He described him as "remarkable and inspiring".

From Devon, Oliver went to the starting line off the Canary Islands. He rowed across in 44 days, 16 hours and nine minutes - after capsizing six times as he battled massive waves in the Talisker Whisky Atlantic Challenge. Before the journey Oliver - who has four outward-bounding siblings who have climbed Mount Everest, cycled across Africa and hiked from Mexico to Canada - said: "After the race I'll come back and have a reunion."

Brits in LA

Meet a Member: Amy Pickard

Meet Amy Pickard originally from Dayton, Ohio who lived in London for 7 years and moved to LA in 2000 to pursue a career in radio and television.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

My English friend was about to go on tour with Elvis Costello and asked me to housesit for him in the Valley. I had just moved back to America from living in the UK, I was crashing at my mom's in Chicago in winter and thought sunny LA sounded like a dream! Once I got here, I loved it so much, I haven't left for 17 years!

What do you miss most from the UK?

I have deep, soul connections to my UK friends and miss them terribly. I also miss prawn crackers and the British sense of humour! (I put in the 'u' just for Brits in LA.)

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

My first impression was that people drive like maniacs here and no, it hasn't changed, I've just become one of them! Left on red? No problem! I also couldn't believe that it was sunny the majority of the time. I still can't believe it! I'm definitely solar powered.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus London?

An ease of spirit. There is an open, relaxing, optimistic, chilled vibe here and I find it quite the opposite in London.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

When my Brit pals arrive, I always take them out to Joshua Tree (two hours outside of LA) to visit the Mojave desert. It always blows their minds that something so desolate and peaceful can exist so close to LA. It's one of my favorite things about living here!

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

One of my favorite British expressions is 'Suck it and see.' I encourage everyone to give LA a try! I would say that whatever you are looking for, you will be able to find it in LA. Whether it's the showbiz culture, an indie music scene, creative communities or jobs behind the scenes in entertainment, you will be able to find it. LA isn't just Rodeo Drive and movie stars.

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

I can't pinpoint anything specific, but on the whole, Brits in LA has been an incredibly helpful resource! The information about visas, jobs, insurance, rental cars, sublets, airfare deals to London, etc... has been invaluable. I was a member from the early days (before Facebook!) and I loved (and used) all the information on Brit-centric cultural events around LA. Whenever a British pal of mine is thinking of coming over to LA, I always refer them to Brits in LA!

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you working on anything at the moment?

I changed careers from freelancing for TV and Radio (worked for the BBC) to creating an unconventional advance planning company called Good To Go! I'm trying to change the cultural narrative on how we view death preparedness, dying and the aftermath, by having a party! I guide people through their advance planning paperwork with a sense of humor and a rock and roll death themed soundtrack while they are young and healthy! (and for Brits living away from their families in the UK, advance planning is crucial if something should happen to you. Would your family know information about your apartment, bills and online accounts, banking info, etc...?) I'd love to get some Brits in LA Good To Go! It's important to leave behind love rather than logistics.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: This week keep it very low key and don't make any waves over anything, as a current unresolved situation will be here for at least a week ahead. Then it's time to enjoy and relax what your ruler Mars in sassy Sagittarius brings for you.

TAURUS: Write a list of priorities and start with the biggest, as your ruler Venus just might be helping you as the month progresses, especially in romance and relationships. You need to be open to new ideas and not fixate on anything remotely negative going forward.

GEMINI: Jupiter in your house of relationships and creativity has had you dancing to his will these past few weeks. You are being prepared to make decisions in several areas. Mercury your boss is also revving up for some kind of action and is ready to act.

CANCER: Time to make peace or amends with anyone or anything that has caused you upset. Chances are you did not see the picture clearly. Getting anything achieved without that will not be as fast as you would wish due to the recent very powerful eclipse on your Moon ruler.

LEO: The good news is that whatever has been dragging on for a while in your overall life is getting ready for changes. The good vibes from Jupiter will accelerate for you to take positive action. Your family events will be much in the limelight soon.

VIRGO: If you find yourself feeling less than stellar these next few days relax; it's Mars stirring up old emotions. So be kind to yourself and try very hard not to worry. By mid-month all will be resolved and you will be ready for new adventures. It's a good time to start a healthier lifestyle.

LIBRA: The main lesson for all Libras is to make a decision and stick with it. This does not mean be stubborn just so you can prove your point. If this does not ring true for you this week it will be coming as your boss Venus is visiting Aquarius, your cousin sign.

SCORPIO: The year so far has been better than last although not as settled as you would wish. The recent very powerful eclipse in your house of power will soon get you back on track. This time it will be for the long haul. Jupiter has your back all this year, no telling what goodies he will bring.

SAGITTARIUS: We all need to be reassured at times and as of this past week you are right on target to get good news in some life situation. This next week ahead be ready to make plans at short notice and do not overspend on anything not needed right now.

CAPRICORN: New beginnings may be much on your mind next week or so, even if it is a new slant on something already in motion. Better be ready and willing to move on it immediately. By the end of this month you will reap the rewards.

AQUARIUS: Travel is highlighted for you these coming weeks. You may be going to a couple of distant places; if so prepare well. This is also the best time to plan ahead for a family or friends reunion. Enjoy the downtime and have a small gamble for luck. Happy Birthday!

PISCES: You are maybe a bit weary of the day-to-day routine. Best take a step back now and take time for YOU. Money that is due to come to your pocket will take a while longer than expected but will arrive before month's end.

How to Haiku Jane Austen

■ Exclusive interview with author Jim Gaynor discussing his poetry translation of an Austen classic

"In my work as a poet, I've long been fascinated by memorable opening and closing lines in classic novels," says Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice in 61 Haiku author Jim Gaynor. "I believe that the sentences we often know by heart are, in fact, short, unacknowledged poems that get lost in the sentences, paragraphs and chapters that follow. It is my hope that readers will find themselves smiling knowingly from time to time as they travel in this redesigned Japanese vehicle across Austen's familiar English landscape."

The opening line of Austen's Pride and Prejudice is, "It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife." Jane Austen starts each of her chapters with a provocative line. There are 61 of them. Classic Japanese haiku, a type of poetry, is 17 syllables. Can Gaynor reveal the hidden poet in Jane Austen?

"I soon realized that the first line's fame has, in a way, cast a shadow over all the other chapters' first lines," says Gaynor. "I began to wonder if the 61 chapter-opening lines of Pride and Prejudice could, in fact, be the basis for a series of haiku. If each sentence was a kind of short poem, why couldn't it be translated into that short, classic form of Japanese poetry? There is something wonderful and powerful in the format."

"In the book, I replaced the haiku's traditional duality of emotion with an ironic twist conveyed by the narrator, challenging the usual seriousness of literary criticism," says Gaynor.

Thus the opening of Chapter 1 (Hunting Season): "It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife," becomes the following haiku:

Everyone knows — all rich unmarried men need wives — It's universal.

"It wasn't until I looked at all the 'when' answers throughout the novel that I understood that the book begins and ends in hunting season," says Gaynor. "Mr. Bingley arrives at Michaelmas [September 29th] in search of birds to shoot, but he and Mr. Darcy are the real game. And the book ends, once again at the start of hunting season, with three of the sisters married."

"When I started analyzing the beginning of Chapter 56, I saw something I had never before seen," says Gaynor. "Until I paid attention to the 'where' of the chapter's opening line, I had never fully appreciated that Lady Catherine's enormous carriage, powered by four horses carrying a groom, a driver, Lady Catherine and probably her daughter, arrives at Longbourn and drives up the lawn. Not the drive, but the lawn. The damage to the turf must have been extensive, and more than likely took out a Bennet chicken or two, but of no concern to Lady C."

Gaynor also wrote Everything Becomes a Poem. He won the 2017 American Graphic Design Award. He was an editor at Grosset & Dunlap, Cuisine magazine, Scriptwriter News and Forbes Publications. His book reviews, poems and essays have appeared in The New York Observer, OTVmagazine.com, The Gay and Lesbian Review Worldwide, and Peeking Cat Poetry Magazine.

He lived in Paris for years, teaching a course on Emily Dickinson at the University of Paris. He studied the development of the psychological novel in 17th century France. He graduated from Kenyon College. Gaynor recently retired as the Global Verbal Identity Leader for Ernst & Young LLP.

Gaynor publishes a daily haiku (#HabitualHaiku), drawn from current newspaper headlines. He's the creator of Can You Haiku? a corporate communications workshop based on using 17th-century Japanese poetry techniques to improve effective use of today's digital platforms.

Gaynor's next book, Insert Poem Here: A Memoir with Poetry, releases in September 2018. He's currently working on a haiku translation of The Maxims of La Rochefoucauld and a Gilded Age murder mystery.

James W. Gaynor is a native New Yorker. His website is jameswgaynor.com. He's active on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram.

BRITS IN LA

NFL or Six Nations? We're spoilt for choice this weekend

'Real men don't wear shoulder pads' is said by many a Brit when referring to American Football.

Well this week you have a chance to see for yourself and compare it fairly. As not only does the Six Nations Rugby Tournament begin but it is also Superbowl Sunday this weekend!

This is a huge event for the U.S., I think it is partially due to the fact that it is a good excuse to eat your bodyweight in hot dogs, nachos and fried chicken. This year it's the New England Patriots vs. Philadelphia Eagles, kick off is at 3.30pm (LA time). Justin Timberlake has the coveted halftime slot and has promised there will be no wardrobe malfunctions during this performance. Even if you are not a football fan you may as well join in the festivities as it will probably be quite difficult to avoid it. There will be plenty of BBQ's and viewing parties at bars all over town. I have picked out a few that I think most of you will enjoy. If you are in Studio City you can go to British pub The Fox & Hounds, West Hollywood residents can head over to Rock & Reillys (and also at their DTLA location). A little further east the Cat & Fiddle will also be showing the game, and for those closer to the beach there is always the upscale option of The Bungalow, located inside the grounds of the Fairmont Miramar Hotel in Santa Monica, which has a big screen set up on the patio and will be serving the requisite chili dogs and hot wings. And of course longtime British haunt Ye Olde Kings Head is also a good bet - they'll be serving drinks at Happy Hour Prices throughout the game. For those with children who are down in Westchester or Playa Vista consider The Proud Bird Food Bazaar over by the airport - they are offering an 'All You Can Eat Food Bazaar' which includes Bludso's BBQ, Pizza, Burgers, Salads, Chicken & Waffles, Chicken Wings, Hot Dogs and Nachos! Adults: $29.95 | Children (5-12): $19.95

For those of you on the Eastside; Highland Park Bowl on Figueroa. Reservations recommended.

If you want to watch the Rugby amongst fellow fans, you also have plenty of places to choose from. A lot of our members like the Springbok Bar in Van Nuys which claims to be the number one bar for Rugby in the USA.

8 reasons rugby is infinitely more hardcore than American football

Share on Facebook Share on Twitter +

Ye Olde Kings Head will also be showing all of the matches and have just posted the viewing schedule on their Facebook page. I had a quick look on Yelp for you and their top pick is the Red Lion Tavern - a German bar in Silverlake.

If, like me you would rather skip it you might find you are better off staying at home, as I think football fever will flood the city on Sunday. Or make yourself useful and offer you baby-sitting services to an American parent.

On second thoughts, it might be a great day to go to the beach as I imagine it will be fairly quiet, as there is no place to plug in a tv....

There is still time to enter our competition to win a pair of tickets to see Dave Davies of the Kinks at the Roxy (show is on February 14th), so email us at britsinla@gmail.com if you fancy your chances.

If you want to come along and meet some of the Brits in LA community in person we have both our Breakfast Club and Pub Quiz every Tuesday. We usually have at least 40 people attend so it is a great chance to meet new people. Everyone is welcome and lots of people come along alone, so don't let 'having no one to go with' be your excuse!

Liam and Rita turn up the... heater?

Cheryl if you're reading this (and we know you are) LOOK AWAY NOW!

Former Girls Aloud star Cheryl Tweedy's long-term partner Liam Payne and sexy singer Rita Ora could be in HOT water after they got a bit too close for the first live performance of their new Fifty Shades soundtrack.

The pair could have been mistaken for a loved-up couple as they took to the stage and performed For You on The Tonight Show and it's fair to say they turned up the heat.

Oo-la-la, Ri-ta!

Dressed in a patterned lime green and black skirt and matching jacket, Rita belted out the lyrics to the duet alongside the former One Direction singer.

Liam then approached Rita on the stage, before placing his hand on her arm and moving in behind her.

Temperatures shot up as the pair got closer, with it almost looking as they were about to kiss towards the end of the duet.

"For You" is the lead song on the soundtrack to Fifty Shades Freed, which will hit cinemas in the around the world next month.

Rita, who stars in the erotic movie as Christian

Grey's younger sister Mia, has headed to America with Liam to promote it.

Before their appearance on The Tonight Show, she tweeted: "About to be on @FallonTonight!! Tune in!!! 11:35 on @nbc watch me and @LiamPayne perform #ForYou for the first time!!"

Liam, meanwhile, told his fans: "Don't forget to watch @fallontonight! I'm performing #ForYou with @Rita Ora for the first time!!"

He also shared a black and white photograph, taken during rehearsals before the live show was broadcast.

Rita and Liam unveiled the steamy video for For You last week and it sees the pair serenading each other in the grounds of New York's Oheka Castle.

Rita kicks off the video by running around the palace's idyllic gardens in a gorgeous red gown, before we're introduced to a lovesick Liam moping around his castle bedroom.

"Breathe me in, feeling your kiss on me. Lips are made of ecstasy, I'll be yours for a thousand lives," he sings as he sits with his head in his hands.

Rita can also be seen lying in a bed of roses.

While Liam and Rita have been given the honor of creating Fifty Shades Freed's lead track, the soundtrack boasts an impressive 22 songs.

Huge stars including Sia, Ellie Goulding and Dua Lipa also feature on the compilation album.

Fifty Shades Freed will be released in time for Valentine's Day - on February 9.

Can't say I'm that excited about this one...

Wild about Harry? Star tipped as future Bond!

This is probably one of the most ridiculous news stories of the week... But I couldn't let it pass me by as One Direction singer Harry Styles has been pegged to take over from Daniel Craig!

Errrrrrm!

Singing star Styles has been tipped to be the next James Bond by Spectre film editor Lee Smith ... (Who paid him to say that?!?!?)

Smith backed the Sign of the Times singer to take over the role from current 007 Craig when he steps down from the franchise after the next film.

007-er!

Christopher Nolan, who gave Styles his acting break in Dunkirk, is rumored to be directing the next film, which could leave the door open for the star. Speaking to the Daily Star, Smith said: "Harry could do it. If they wanted a younger Bond then why not? He has got it."

"Harry is really good and he can go all the way. He is an exceptional talent and a complete natural on camera.

Speaking of Styles's turn in Dunkirk, Smith continued: "You would have thought you were dealing with a guy with many years of experience. You would never know that was his first film. I didn't know who Harry was."

He added: "Of course my daughter explained to me that you don't get any more famous than Harry Styles. But he was really good and a genuinely charismatic fellow."

"If he wants to act, I cannot imagine he would not have a great future."

The speculation follows news that Craig will return for the fifth installment of the iconic franchise in 2019 before leaving the role for good.

Speaking about his exit, Craig said: "I think this is it. I just want to go out on a high note and I can't wait."

Other stars thought to be in the running include James Norton, Idris Elba, Aidan Turner and Tom Hardy.

Styles as Bond? I would imagine this news would have Cubby Broccoli is rolling in his grave!

You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Regina M. Wendell in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Regina M. Wendell be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Feb. 22, 2018 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 67 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Sturridge moves to Baggies

Daniel Sturridge has joined West Bromwich Albion on loan until the end of the season after rejecting the chance to sign for Newcastle United. The out-of-favour Liverpool striker attracted interest from several clubs in this window, including Internazionale, Sevilla and Newcastle, but had a successful medical at West Brom on Monday. Liverpool's FA Cup conquerors agreed a loan fee of around £1.5m for Sturridge, who has not featured for Jürgen Klopp since the Champions League rout of Spartak Moscow in early December and has made only five starts all season. They will also cover the striker's wages for the duration of his stay at The Hawthorns. Sturridge is believed to earn around £120,000 a week at Anfield with bonuses taking that figure towards £150,000 a week.

Internazionale had a loan offer accepted by Liverpool but the England international hoped for a move to Sevilla, who were unable to agree terms with the Anfield club.

West Brom had been close to sealing a £16m deal for Watford's Troy Deeney, only for them to cool their interest when it became clear that Sturridge was open to the move. Alan Pardew's side have also signed the Egyptian centre-back Ali Gabr on loan from Zamalek until the end of the season with a view to a permanent deal.

The Baggies' manager, Alan Pardew, said the 28-year-old will boost the club's survival hopes. "I hope our fans can understand that we are fighting to stay in the Premier League, not just on the pitch but in the market place as well," Pardew said. "This is a big coup for us and I speak for my staff and my players and say 'thank you' to Daniel for agreeing to assist us in league and Cup."

Chelsea victory 'best result' - Howe

Bournemouth's three-goal victory at defending champions Chelsea is their "best result" in the Premier League, says manager Eddie Howe.

Second-half goals from Callum Wilson, Junior Stanislas and Nathan Ake secured the Cherries' first away win in seven league matches as Chelsea suffered their joint-heaviest loss of the season on Wednesday night.

This is Bournemouth's third top-flight campaign - they beat Chelsea and Manchester United in 2015-16, Liverpool and Leicester in 2016-17 and Arsenal earlier this month.

Howe has been managing the club since October 2012, his second spell in charge after a stint from 2009-2011 during which they were in the third and fourth tiers.

"That has to be our best result and the best performance in getting the result," said the 40-year-old Englishman. "We were very aggressive and everyone was magnificent. Our aggressiveness, work-rate and endeavour - it all came together.

"Although it was a game of few chances, we deserved the victory and scored some great goals. We had to be at our best."

Wilson put the visitors ahead when he benefited from Tiemoue Bakayoko losing possession and exchanged passes with Jordon Ibe before finishing past Thibaut Courtois.

Wilson set up Stanislas for the second goal, before Stanislas' shot was turned in by Ake from close range as Bournemouth gained only their third win over Chelsea.

The Cherries move up to 10th while Antonio Conte's side, who signed striker Oliver Giroud from Arsenal for £18m earlier on Wednesday, drop to fourth.

Bournemouth, who had not won away since a 1-0 victory at Newcastle on 4 November, deserved their win, punishing a Chelsea side that were unusually poor in defence to pull off one of the shock results of the season.

A mistake from Bakayoko enabled Wilson to score his seventh Premier League goal of the season, and the Cherries nearly doubled their lead two minutes later when Lewis Cook shot just wide.

Chelsea had kept clean sheets in five of their past seven games, but there was no sign of that organisation when Wilson slid a pass through the middle of the home defence - with both Cesar Azpilicueta and Gary Cahill out of position - and Stanislas doubled the lead.

Just three minutes later it was 3-0 as Stanislas was given space to shoot and Ake reacted fastest to divert the ball into the net.

The result matched Chelsea's defeat at Roma in the Champions League on 31 October, and was also the joint-heaviest defeat of Conte's two-and-a-half-year spell in charge.

Giroud seals Blues switch

■ Three way deal on final day of transfer window sends Batshuayi to Dortmund and Aubameyang to Arsenal

Chelsea have signed Arsenal striker Olivier Giroud on an 18-month deal for about £18m.

France international Giroud, 31, leaves Arsenal having scored 105 goals in 253 games since signing from Montpellier for a reported £12m in June 2012.

Borussia Dortmund have also confirmed a deal to sign Chelsea forward Michy Batshuayi until the end of the season.

Earlier on the closing day of the winter transfer window, Dortmund sold Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang to Arsenal.

"Chelsea is one of the biggest teams in the Premier League - they have won maybe the most trophies in the last six or seven years," Giroud (pictured, above right) said in a statement.

"It's a massive club and I am proud to sign for Chelsea, and I'm looking forward to playing." Giroud's final appearance for Arsenal was as a substitute in Tuesday's 3-1 defeat by Swansea.

After his move to Chelsea was confirmed, Giroud thanked Gunners

GIROUD: spoke of 'five and a half amazing years' at Arsenal fans for their part in a "beautiful story" after "five and a half amazing years within the Arsenal family".

"I would like to especially thank the fans for their unconditional support upon my arrival," he wrote on Twitter.

Arsenal manager Arsene Wenger paid tribute to Giroud's "great service" to the club.

"He never let us down on the commitment front and he saved us many times," the Frenchman said.

"We signed him from Montpellier and he became a strong, regular international player for France, and we have gone together through good and bad. But always I believe that his behaviour has been top, top class.

"He always had his heart 100% in the team and he was committed." Belgium international Batshuayi, 23, has made 32 league appearances for Chelsea since joining the club from Marseille in July 2016, scoring seven goals.

Chelsea also held talks with Tottenham over a possible swap deal involving Spurs' Spanish forward Fernando Llorente - but Batshuayi rejected the move as he wanted to be a first-choice striker.

In a statement Batshuayi said he was moving to the German club to help achieve his "big goal" of playing at the 2018 World Cup in Russia.

"In order to reach my big goal, I want to play as much as I can and score many goals," he said.

Dortmund travel to Cologne for their next Bundesliga match on 2 February.

Spurs:

kept six straight clean sheets.

But, in front of a Premier League record attendance of 81,978, they wilted at the key moments and were outrun by their hosts, who clocked 116km to the visitors' 108km.

In a frantic game, moments of poise came from Eriksen and teammate Mousa Dembele - the pair offering the best pass completion rates of any starting midfielder with 93% and 95% respectively.

United had their chances, notably when Paul Pogba headed over before the break and Lukaku was denied by a Lloris save on 56 minutes.

Marouane Fellaini was then substituted just seven minutes after coming on, the Belgian walking straight down the tunnel with a knee problem on a night of frustration for those in red.

Their advantage over

Spurs is now down to five points as the fight for the top-four places heats up.

Spurs signed winger Lucas Moura from Paris St-Germain two hours before kick-off - and he was presented to the fans at half-time, walking to the centre circle before pointing to the sky with his eyes closed.

Manager Mauricio Pochettino called it a "perfect night" as business off the pitch complemented a complete display on it.

It is hard to see where Moura fits in, with Eriksen sublime on the right flank and Son Heung-Min a constant threat on the left. The Brazilian will know he faces a fight for a starting role as Spurs stepped up their level considerably from consecutive draws with Southampton and Newport County.

But this was a timely success, taking their points haul to six points from a possible 18 against the league's so-called 'big six' before matches against Liverpool and Arsenal.

ERIKSEN FAST, JOSE FURIOUS

CHRISTIAN ERIKSEN scored one of the fastest-ever Premier League goals Wednesday night as Spurs dominated Manchester United a comfortable 2-0 home win.

Spurs boss Mauricio Pochettino praised his team's "aggressive" opening as the Danish playmaker latched on to flicks from Harry Kane and Dele Alli to side-foot home the joint-third fastest goal scored in the Premier League.

"You can win a game if you're ready to fight," said Pochettino. "It was massive to be up early in the game."

But United manager Jose Mourinho was left fuming after the match by what he described as 'two ridiculous goals'.

United responded to the early setback well - with Jesse Lingard almost levelling - only for Phil Jones to turn Kieran Trippier's cross into his own net to double Spurs' lead midway through the first half.

Manager Jose Mourinho described the first goal as "ridiculous", and added: "The second goal mentally kills the team.

"To win matches a team needs to score goals and also defend well - on this occasion we were very bad."

Spurs looked sharper in a stretched game, and after goalkeeper Hugo Lloris maintained their advantage by denying Romelu Lukaku, Kane and Eriksen both went close.

Defeat ended United's eight-game unbeaten run in the league and left them 15 points adrift of leaders Manchester City in second.

Alexis Sanchez proved peripheral on his first league start for the Red Devils, failing to register a shot and touching the ball just twice in the Tottenham area as the home side, Eriksen's goal ignited a game packed with attacking intent and littered with chances. His calm, placed finish was also controversial, as replays showed Kane - who flicked the ball on to Alli in the build-up - was two yards inside the United half when kickoff was taken.

Neither side paused for such controversy as each set about testing the opposing defence, with Lingard unable to fully gather the ball when well placed and unmarked, before Anthony Martial was only denied by a fine Ben Davies tackle.

Kane, seeking a 100th Premier League goal, twice fired tamely at David de Gea, and the relentless pace ultimately proved too much for Jones as he miscued a Trippier cross into the net.

This was a United defence that arrived in north London having cont. on page 19, col 3
