British teen planned 'new Columbine' massacre

■ Michael Piggin, 18, 'planned to bomb a school, a mosque and a court'

FROM HIS swastika-adorned bedroom in a quiet Leicestershire town, a Neo-Nazi schoolboy plotted a 'new Columbine massacre', a London jury heard this week.

Michael Piggin, 18, stockpiled homemade bombs, a terrorist manual and an array of weapons as he planned attacks on targets including his former school and the college where he was studying for his A-levels, the Old Bailey was told.

The court heart that police found nine partially-assembled petrol bombs, firework powder and weapons at home Piggin's Loughborough when he was arrested on two terrorism offences.

Piggin, who denies the charges, was 17 when arrested and could not be named until the start of the trial.

'List of targets'

Prosecutor Max Hill said police made a "startling" discovery when they seized nine partially-assembled pipe bombs and ammunition at Mr Piggin's home. The trial is expected to last six to eight weeks.

Mr Piggin, Shelthorpe,

He is also alleged to have possessed petrol bombs. firework partiallypowder, constructed improvised explosive devices, a crossbow, a variety of air rifles, a gas mask and stab proof vest.

Describing him as a "would-be terrorist", Mr Hill said: "For an average young man in an average house in Loughborough or any other town... that list is startling."

'Nazi swastikas'

The court was told Mr Piggin had a notebook with a list of possible targets hometown, including a school, Loughborough Mosque and other individuals organisations he held a grudge against.

The Che Guevara The court was told he notebook, which was emblazoned with Nazi swastikas and English also discussed tactics to carry out a "new Columbine", reference to one of America's worst mass shootings.

"too many Muslims"

The Mujahideen Poisons Handbook was also found in Mr Piggin's home along with video dictaphone recordings in which he discussed an attack, the court heard.

The prosecutor said Mr Piggin claimed to be a member of an EDL branch and wrote in a letter found at his home that there were "too many Muslims" who wanted to "take over Europe and put Sharia law in place".

A voice recording allegedly made by the defendant was played to the court in which he spoke of "rising up" against the "scum, powerful and corrupt".

The jury was asked to consider whether Mr Piggin's plans were "child's play, harmless self obsession, something sinister".

A recording was played in court in which he was heard saying he wanted to test making explosives and adding: "I'm going to make a pipe bomb".

The trial continues.

Far right threats shut down UK Legoland

Legoland in Britain will close its hotel this weekend after far-right extremists made threats against the theme park for agreeing to host a Muslim family fun day.

The resort and its hotel had been hired out by a group called the Muslim Research and Development 1,000 Muslim families were due to spend the weekend there.

But Legoland cancelled the private event last week after its Facebook page was bombarded by abusive messages from "right-wing" groups.

Following talks with the organisers and police, it has now decided to shut the 150-room hotel in Windsor to the west of London this weekend.

Legoland has not confirmed which groups had sent the messages.

Before the fun day was cancelled, a blogger from the far-right British National Party said Legoland should be "ashamed of themselves for bowing to these Muslims".

Legoland had already planned to close the theme park to the general public this weekend, the spokeswoman said. It will reopen for the 2014 season on March 14.

Shell boss urges Scots to remain part of UK

Anglo-Dutch oil giant Shell has dealt a blow to the campaign for Scottish independence by saying he would like it to remain part of the UK.

Speaking at the company's annual reception in London on Wednesday, Ben van Beurden explained that a vote for independence in September referendum would introduce greater uncertainty into the North Sea oil industry, a crucial source of income for Scotland and Shell.

The chief executive of Anglo-Dutch oil giant the European Union Shell has dealt a blow during a possible to the campaign for referendum in 2017.

"We're used to operating in uncertain political and economic environments. But, given a choice, we want to know as accurately as possible what investment conditions will look like 10 or 20 years from now," he explained.

"That's the chief reason we're in favour of the UK maintaining its long-established place at the heart of the European Union: it provides greater investment stability and certainty.

"It's for similar reasons that we'd like to see Scotland remain part of the United Kingdom," he added.

"Shell has a long history of involvement in the North Sea - and therefore in Scotland - and we continue to invest more than a billion pounds there every year."

Nonsense, says Connery, now is the 'time to split'

■ Independence vote 'too good to miss' says veteran actor

JAMES Bond star Sir Sean Connery has issued a rallying cry for Scots to vote for independence, saying it is too good an opportunity to miss.

The 83-year-old actor (pictured, right) claimed a vote in favour of leaving the UK in September's referendum would "capture the world's attention".

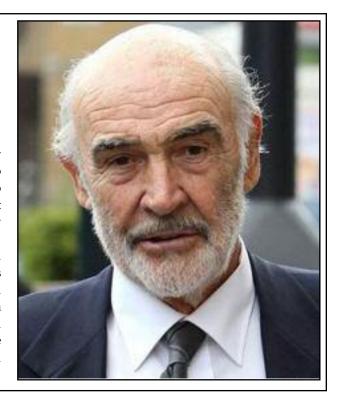

Sir Sean, who lives in the Bahamas, accepts the decision should be made by "the people who choose to live and work there".

But in an article to be published on the New Statesman website, he said: "Scotland has the chance to make a step change.

"As a Scot with a lifelong love of Scotland,

I believe the opportunity of independence is too good to miss. There is no more creative an act than creating a new nation."

A yes vote would create a "renewed focus on our culture and politics, giving us an unparalleled opportunity to promote our heritage and creative excellence".

The Miracle Machine: astonishing new device can create wine from water

the reflecting From telescope to the toothbrush, from the jet engine to the ATM, the British have a long and proud tradition for producing worldchanging inventions.

But a new device from the West Country may just prove to be the greatest of them all.

The aptly-named Miracle Machine offers to make a 750ml bottle of wine, including Cabernet Sauvignon Chardonnay, within three days.

Working in vaguely-similar style to a Soda Stream, the user adds water and some ingredients and lets the device do the work.

As with most modern marvels, a smartphone app is involved to guide through the you process winemaking whilst monitoring progress. The app allows you to select from a list of pre-defined wine types, each listing the grape concentrates recommended type of yeast as well as other ingredients that are required.

industry veterans

Its makers claim the results "rival some of the best wines on the planet" and will "change the face production of wine forever".

The developers say the Miracle Machine will produce a quality wine for £1.20 that would normally cost at least £12.

Described as the world's first affordable accelerated winemaking device for the home, the £300 device is the brainchild of two wine industry veterans: Philip James, British founder and former CEO of the wine website Lot 18, and his sommelier friend Kevin Boyer.

They say the idea came building of the first 2000 "one too many after glasses of wine over dinner", and a casual remark by Philip that 'Iesus made water into wine; with all the technology we have available today why can't we do the same?' The very next day they began the process of investigating whether it could be done. They spoke to their friends in Silicon Valley and explored the possibility of accelerating winemaking process using a low amount of heat and a computer controlled environment.

They also looked at the precise chemical breakdown of some of the finest wines in the world and realised that just as the scent industry is able to simulate smells, it is possible to replicate the delicate flavours of highly sought-after vintages.

Fast forward 12 months, and many experiments, and the Miracle Machine was born.

Kevin Boyer Wine-Searcher.com: "Our Kickstarter campaign will launch in a couple of days in which we hope to secure funding the for Miracle Machines. We hope to have those completed and in market by May.

At the heart of the miracle machine lies the fermentation chamber. Philip James explains: "Obviously we're keeping the exact science under wraps, but we can tell you the chamber uses an array of electrical sensors, transducers, heaters and pumps to provide a controlled environment for the primary and, as needed, secondary fermentation stages.

"You'll be able to buy the grape concentrate, yeast, and the final sachet of ingredients through our website, and Amazon, once we launch. Each kit will make a different type of wine. We plan on creating a low cost monthly "wine" club, where for under £6 per month you receive several kits, enough to make a bottle of wine a week.

"Initially we have sourced six wine types that The Miracle Machine and its app will help you make. These are a full-bodied Cabernet Sauvignon and rich

JESUS MACHINE? the new invention from Philip James (below) allegedly can turn water into wine in just three days

Chardonnay from Napa Valley, a cool climate Pinot Noir from Oregon, an aged Tuscan blend from Italy, Sauvignon Blanc from Sonoma, and a delicate red and a steely white from Burgundy. We expect to add 5-10 more over the next 3 months."

Because the wine will be produced and bottled under air, not an inert gas, the wine will only keep for 1-2 weeks. However, the wine will be made to taste pre-aged so there's no need to age it any further.

Now that's progress.

Rolls Royce reveals corruption probe on both sides of the pond

Rolls-Royce revealed on Thursday that it is facing a corruption probe in the United States as well as Britain.

"The group is currently under investigation by law enforcement agencies, primarily the Serious Fraud Office (SFO) in the UK and the US Department of Justice (DoJ)," the company said in its annual report.

"Breaches of laws and regulations in this area can lead to fines, penalties, criminal prosecution, commercial litigation and restrictions on future business."

bribery concerns

The famed engine maker revealed late last year that Britain's SFO had launched a formal investigation into alleged bribery linked to the group's overseas operations.

The company had warned in 2012 that it might be prosecuted over alleged "malpractice" in Indonesia and China after passing on information related to bribery concerns to the office.

The London-listed

Thursday that it was cooperating with the investigations but has yet to receive official notice of a formal DoJ probe.

"Rolls-Royce has been cooperating with regulatory authorities on both sides of the Atlantic in regard to allegations of bribery and corruption," it added.

"The SFO in the UK has launched a formal investigation. The DoJ is also investigating these matters, however we have received no notification of a formal enquiry being launched in the United States."

Earlier this week, meanwhile, India's defence ministry ordered an investigation into the purchase of jet fighter engines from Rolls-Royce in a deal reportedly worth $1.6 billion, an official said on Monday.

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) will probe allegations of kickbacks over the deal for Rolls-Royce to supply engines to state-run Hindustan Aeronautics Ltd (HAL) between 2007 and 2011, a defence ministry official told wire services.

Essex teacher awarded £230,000 compensation after slipping on a ketchup sachet causing 'severe injury'

■ Payment was part of £1m in compensation paid out in past three years

A teacher has been awarded £230,000 after he slipped on a sachet of tomato ketchup in a school corridor.

He suffered severe injuries in the fall as he was walking out of the staff room at a secondary school in Essex.

The personal injury claim was settled outside court by council chiefs who believed they may have been forced to shell out up to £500,000 including legal fees if the case had gone ahead.

And it has emerged that the payout was one of 34 handed to injured teachers in the county between 2011 and 2013 – and who received a total of £1.05million.

Critics have now complained of a 'compensation culture' in schools after it was revealed that other staff had claimed for slipping on wet floors or being injured by a cupboard door.

The teacher in the ketchup incident was hurt

IT ALL ADDS UP: critics complain of a 'compensation culture' in schools on March 18 2008, but did not file a claim until March 10 2011 – just eight days before the three-year legal time limit for making personal injury claims.

'duty of care'

Α Freedom Information request revealed that the council agreed a final settlement of £230,000 in April last year, including £90,000 in damages for pain, suffering and loss of amenity as well as damages for losses such as those relating to earnings and pension.

The payout also included £120,000 for the teacher's legal fees and £20,000 in other costs.

Other claims to emerge include a £110,000 settlement to a member of staff who suffered a spinal injury after slipping on a wet floor on two separate occasions on the same day.

Jonathan Isaby of the TaxPayers' Alliance said: 'The compensation culture appears to be more common in the school yard than a grazed knee.

'Wasting taxpayers' money on unnecessary payouts leaves less money available for teaching and higher tax bills for everyone else.

'It's time schools resisted unscrupulous claims before teachers are unable to leave the staff room for fear of the school being sued.'

However, Jerry Glazier, the National Union of Teachers representative for Essex, said there is no compensation culture in schools.

He said: 'We need to see these claims in context.

'As a union we will support members who pursue claims for personal injury when we feel they have been poorly treated by management in schools.

'Schools are generally very safe environments but employers have a duty of care to protect both teachers and pupils.'

Royal Couple in Maldives sunshine getaway

■ Kate and William make surprise visit to Indian Ocean paradise

Last month the Duchess of Cambridge nipped off for a Middleton family holiday on the Caribbean island of Mustique. Now she and Prince William are on holiday in the Maldives.

It is not yet known whether the royal couple has been joined by baby George, who at seven months is already becoming quite the jet-setter. They have recently hired a new nanny for the royal baby.

Local Maldivian newspaper Hareevu Daily reported that the couple arrived at 9.45 Wednesday morning and are holidaying on the Noonu Atoll, home to the five-star Sun Siyam Iru Fushi resort, for one week.

In January this year, Kate was photographed playing with Prince George on the beach as they visited the island of Mustique, part of St Vincent and the Grenadines.

The trip coincided with the 59th birthday of Carole Middleton, Kate's mother. and the Middleton clan celebrated in lavish style with a Caribbean break in a villa which was previously a favourite holiday haunt Princess Margaret and is said to be worth £5 million.

For Prince William, the holiday will doubtless come as a welcome break. The heir to the throne has been taking a 10-week agriculture course in wet and windy Cambridge designed to help him manage the royal estates.

Don't feel too worried for Will, though - he still managed to slip in a cheeky getaway to Spain last month, for a shooting holiday which saw him come under fire for going hunting after speaking as an advocate for protecting wildlife.

The couple will likely be keen to relax and take it easy in the Indian Ocean islands - famous for their turquoise waters and white, sandy beaches - ahead of their upcoming royal tour of Australia and New Zealand, which begins next month and will last for three weeks

Peace at last for the Queen's cousin

Katharine Bowes Lyon, the mentally handicapped niece of the late Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother, has been laid to rest. She died peacefully last month at the age of 87.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman declined to make any comment on the matter. Miss Bowes Lyon's death took place on February 23, but her relatives and courtiers made no announcement at the time because of the sensitivities involved. Katharine and her sister Nerissa, who died in 1986 and was also mentally handicapped, had often been subjected to intrusion from both media outlets and obsessive royal watchers.

Two years ago, Channel 4 in Britain broadcast documentary, emotively entitled The Queen's Hidden Cousins, that suggested the Royal family had behaved uncaringly towards the daughters of the late John and Fenella Bowes Lyon, who were the older brother and sister-in-law of Queen Elizabeth. In a rare insight into the Queen's feelings, Lady Elizabeth Anson, her cousin, told a leading royal reporter that the programme had "hurt" the monarch.

Lady Elizabeth considered it to be "an intrusion of privacy" and accused its makers of "capitalising on the royal connection and ignoring the facts, as the sisters have always been looked after by that family". Of Katharine she said that, contrary to what was claimed, the Queen's cousin was well looked after in a care home that was suited to her needs. "She has regular visits, too," she added.

The programme claimed that John Bowes Lyon never visited his daughters as they grew up, but failed to mention that he had died in 1930.

Maori ruler refuses to meet Wills and Kate

■ King "not some carnival act to be rolled out...."

The king of the Maori people has refused to meet the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge during their tour of New Zealand next month.

King Tuheitia said the 90 minutes he was allocated with the royals was not enough to do justice to their status.

His office also said the king was "not some carnival act to be rolled out at the beck and call of anyone".

Kensington Palace said the tour would include several events "to recognise the significance of Maori culture".

William and Catherine were due to meet King Tuheitia who ascended to the Maori throne in 2006 - at his official residence, Turangawaewae, on the country's North Island.

But a statement from his office said that while he had "agonised" over the decision, the monarch was not prepared to meet the royal couple for only 90 minutes.

'No negotiation'

It blamed "faceless bureaucrats" for "a grave error of judgement", and said the full reasons for the refusal were "conveyed to the royal couple in a personal letter... several weeks ago".

"The governmentappointed committee overseeing the visit never met with any officials from this office and when we did seek to contact them, they were not willing to be negotiable or flexible in their approaches to the king," the statement continued.

"A senior rangatira [official] noted that the king and the kiingitanga [the royal line] are not some carnival act to be rolled out at the beck and call of anyone, and nor should we be prepared to compromise our tikanga [customs] to fit into a pre-determined

It added: "The king wanted to give his best to this couple to reflect their status, he was being prevented from doing that."

Army commander bans sandwiches in attack on 'barbaric habits'

Sandwiches have been banned from an officers' mess after a commander noticed many soldiers were eating them with their hands as he insisted "a gentleman or a lady uses a knife and fork."

Major General James Cowan issued the note after he noticed officers were eating sandwiches with their hands and failing to stand when commanders entered the room.

His three-page letter criticized standards at Bulford Camp in Wiltshire where he said he had seen many "frankly barbaric" techniques and habits displayed by soldiers and officers.

The note, addressed to 'Chaps', said: "Quite a few officers in the divisional mess seem to be under the impression that they can eat their food with their hands. The practice of serving rolls and sandwiches must stop," the Sun reported.

The letter penned by Maj Gen Cowan, who is in charge of 20,000 soldiers and 2,500 officers in 3 UK Division, mostly based at Bulford, also criticised poor grammar and writing, advising against the "wanton use of capitals, abbreviations and acronyms" because they can leave the reader exhausted.

Maj Gen Cowan advises on the correct way to use a knife and fork, saying "holding either

On the subject of marriage he is equally direct, advising officers never to sit next to their spouse at dinner or risk showing insecurity. He also clearly outlines that he expects a junior officer to "make an effort at conversation" with one of their superiors.

A spokesman for the Army insisted the three page note, where Maj Gen Cowan also suggested soldiers should stand up when commanders enter the room, was meant to be taken as fun.

They said: "This note was part of a light-hearted correspondence between a commander and his officers about an expected code of behaviour."

"A good party relies on good conversation. This requires you to come prepared to be free, funny and entertaining. Thank you letters are an art form not a chore. It is generally considered better manners if the spouse is the person who writes."

■ KNIFE AND FORK

"The fork always goes in the left hand and the knife in the right. Holding either like a pen is unacceptable, as are stabbing techniques. The knife and fork should remain in the bottom third of the plate and never be laid down in the top half."

A British schoolboy has become the youngest person in the world to build a nuclear fusion reactor.

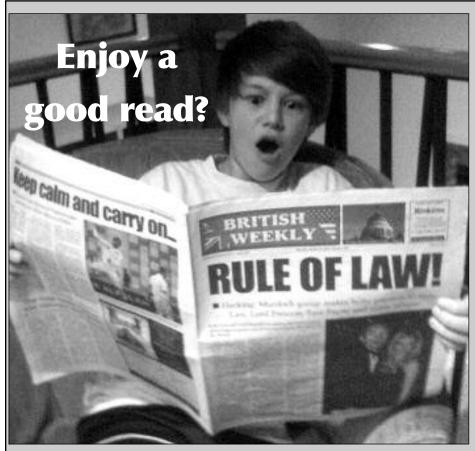

Jamie Edwards, 13, built the reactor from scratch – taking the world record off American Taylor Wilson, who was 14 when he became the youngest "fusioneer" in 2008.

Jamie, who is 14 on Sunday, started building the reactor in October in an underused science laboratory at his school and five months later has successfully made two atoms smash together to create helium – a nuclear

Meet a Member: David Minkin

Meet David Minkin from Northridge, California who stayed in LA to pursue magic for television. David recently starred on Travel Channel's "Magic Outlaws" as well as MTV's "Room 401".

Was there a particular reason you chose to move back to LA?

I've lived elsewhere, but LA is an ideal place for a magician. Between the Magic Castle in Hollywood and the TV industry, the city draws a lot of magicians from around the world. It would be hard for me to live somewhere else at this point, since I have an ongoing show in Hollywood.

You have spent time in the UK, what is the one thing you could bring back to LA?

Los Angeles is my home, but after spending time in London, I miss the public transit and the architecture.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus the UK?

The average person in the U.K. is born with an innate sense of humor, and they tend to use it often. That's why I love hanging with Brits. As for people in Los Angeles, they are unique, even in comparison with rest America. People tend to come here to live out their aspirations television or film. There is an unusually high number of actors, who tend to be highly creative, yet at times, they can be immersed in their artistic paths and often flakey. Still, there are plenty of decent, kind, and considerate people in LA. Collect as many as you can, like a squirrel gathering nuts for the winter...which, by the way, will never come. It's always sunny here.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

I know of many hidden gems in LA. The Magic Castle in Hollywood is one of them. It's a private invitation-only magic club inside an old Victorian mansion. If you can get an invite, I highly recommend it. I also enjoy Foundation Room located inside the House Blues with its tapestries hand-carved statues. Downtown, I would recommend Perch

LA or the rooftop of the Ace Hotel. In the valley, Firefly is my favorite. And, in Hollywood, I love the Roosevelt Hotel and Bardot Hollywood where I host my Magic & Wine events. The club is located inside the historic Avalon Theater (yes, we have some buildings in LA that would qualify as historic.) The Magic & Wine events at Bardot combine an hour of wine and hors d'oeuvres followed by a 90-minute show. It's a good date night.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Please come! We need

Please come! We need all the Brits we can get. LA is a dynamic city with a myriad of opportunities. Dream big, but also be ready to work to make a dream come true.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Please keep a low profile this month as the planets are in turmoil and moving swiftly. They will start benefiting you after this month. The smart plan is to avoid starting anything new before the end of this month.

TAURUS: What a change in pace you are due for and in order to prepare for this second wind you have to clear all unfinished tasks to make space for the new. By the end of this month you will be able to chill out a little.

GEMINI: Time to plan a trip – one long or several shorter ones. All of this is happening in the second part of the month. Until then make time to rest as after mid-month your boss Mercury will be moving swiftly forward.

CANCER: To not bend in the wind when it's stormy weather can damage the tree and you are not remotely like the tree. Time to eat humble pie or you will be in worse shape if you are not pliant in some emotional situation you are dragging along behind!

LEO: Mars the fire planet going backwards in Libra will bring a situation to a head, most likely in your finances of those of someone close to you. The good news is if you take control now you will be in good shape by April.

VIRGO: Any frustrations you have in any area of life (most likely the work arena) will not get better by taking your frustrations out on others. Your unpredictable boss Mercury is demanding you stay cool and calm.

LIBRA: You are ready for a very new and much healthier life style and it's right on time for the Spring arriving. Once decided (which is the hardest part) you will be raring to go forward. You can reach out to a close friend who may not be saying too much but is not doing too well.

SCORPIO: Some good energy planets are gathered in your cousin sign of Pisces. As these are complimentary to you in several ways expect a person of interest to you romantically to enter your life just when you least expect.

SAGITTARIUS: Just watch that temper if things don't always go the way you planned...life is an adventure and you need to remember that child-like quality which is so unique to you. You will be doing much better come end of March.

CAPRICORN:

This could be the month that it all comes together or you let it go. You started this year with a solar eclipse in your sign which signals endings. Remember; when one door closes another will open. By now you could be ready for very positive changes.

AQUARIUS: The middle of the month brings a new opportunity to travel and change your life in a different way to what you expected but none the less good. You are ready for those changes in a good way career or personally...

PISCES: You are reputed to be the most romantic soul and also the most sensitive and there are a lot of positive planets in your sign now. This means different things to each Pisces and overall it is a most creative time. So get started creating what you desire.

Warm hearts glow In Falling Snow

■ Exclusive interview with author Mary-Rose MacColl about her novel set in a hospital in WWI France

Rating: ★★★

"I was in the wrong aisle of a university library when I came upon a book, Women Royaumont: A Scottish Women's Hospital on the Western Front," says In Falling Snow author Mary-Rose MacColl. "I sat down and started reading Eileen Crofton's history of the sixteen women who took a hospital to France from England in 1914. Their story really intrigued me. The hospital, in Royaumont staffed Abbey, was entirely by women. Oh, I thought to myself, wouldn't this make a great setting for a novel? And how come no one's ever heard this story?"

heard this story?"

In Falling Snow takes us back and forth through the life of Iris Crane as she moves from wartime to marriage, motherhood, then onto being a widow and grandmother. What she remembers brings her joy and immense pain. This novel will may make you cry, so have some tissues handy. I do wish the story didn't hop around so much though – in particular the character of Iris' granddaughter Grace seems so well developed, that it distracts from the story of Iris herself.

When we first meet Iris she is 81, and in failing health. She receives an invitation to a ceremony honoring Les Dames Ecossais de Royaumont (The Scottish Ladies of Royaumont) the hospital in which she worked during the Great War. We see her travel to France at 21, following her brother from Australia to front lines in Europe determined to get him home. Instead she stays in France and becomes a nurse at the field hospital on the outskirts of Paris in an old abbey. The staff is entirely women. The ceremony marks first time Iris has returned in 60 Iris' years. Grace. granddaughter is asked by Iris to do something for her as her last wish.

"I found out that not only is Royaumont, the abbey which was made into a hospital, a real place that still exists, it's a cultural centre for France where I was able to spend two weeks researching the novel," says MacColl. "It really is extraordinary what they achieved, establishing a first-class hospital in a rundown abbey at a time when women weren't allowed even to vote. When they arrived, there was no power, no heating, junk in all the rooms and within two months, they had a working hospital."

"I write by hand, filling notebook after notebook with little scenes and character sketches until I feel ready to pull the novel together. For In Falling Snow, I did most of this work on a long residency at the Banff Centre in Canada," says MacColl.

"I'm a write first, ask questions later kind of writer," says MacColl. "Having said that, I read everything I could about Royaumont as a hospital, the published books, accounts from the women who worked there. I read other war novels and memoirs of war, as well as diaries of nurses, doctors and soldiers. Visiting Royaumont abbey as a guest Fondation of Royaumont was really helpful. I also had access the Royaumont archives, which are held in several UK libraries."

MacColl has written three novels and one non-fiction book, The Birth Wars, about the state of maternity care in Australia. MacColl was runner-up in the 1995 Australian Vogel Literary Award for her first novel No Safe Place. The Birth Wars was shortlisted for a Walkley Award and two Queensland Premier's Literary Awards. MacCol won the Griffith Review Novella competition last year.

MacColl travels between Brisbane, Australia and Banff, Canada. She was born in Australia.

Vanity Fair bash gets the gong for best Oscar Party - again!

Vanity Fair Takes the Award as Best Party on Oscar Night, Yet Again!

The hot invite of last Sunday night was the Vanity Fair Oscar after-party hosted by Graydon Carter - this do is the place where even Elton and David leave their lavish bash and head straight for its doors the minute they get a chance

While the location of Carter's famous gathering changed this year for the first time in five years, the abundance of A-listers attending the bash did not. The location was the perfect place for such an event to be held, too. It may not sound too glamorous when put into words – a parking lot on the south side of West Hollywood's Sunset Plaza... But once inside the beautifully decked-out tent offering sweeping views of the city from one side and a wall lined with portraits of past Oscar winners on another, one is in five-star Hollywood heaven!

I spotted my fellow Brit-buddies Rosie Huntington-Whiteley and handsome boyfriend Jason Statham arriving looking every inch the loved-up couple. Rosie was rocking a sheer baby blue dress and Jason in a tuxedo. Rising Hollywood celeb, British filmmaker and artist Amanda Eliasch (pictured top right) was wearing a full-length gorgeous Roberto Cavalli creation topped with her unmistakable trademark "Peggy Guggenheim"-style dark glasses – you couldn't miss her for toffee in those!

Another standout from the party was supermodel Poppy Delevingne, who wowed in one of the night's most revealing dresses, a long sheer black floor-length gown that featured a dangerously deep neckline and bum-baring cutouts at the back.

Once inside, a hungry crowd lined up to order In-N-Out burgers from a truck serving regular and no-meat treats. With chips! Boy, did I gorge on them... By the time I left the exclusive bash my white Dior shirt was covered in tomato sauce – messy... Shame on me, so much for the glamour! Uber-time was-a-calling...

My highlight of the night? Meeting the well-deserved Oscar winner Jared Leto, who won for "Best Supporting Actor" for his role in Dallas Buyers Club... Ahh, and so I went home a happy man indeed.

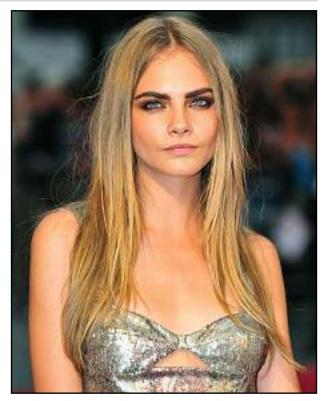

British Consul General Chris O'Connor (left) was on hand at the LA Opera Wednesday night to present Maestro James Conlon with a BritWeek commendation ahead of the evening performance of Benjamin Britten's Billy Budd. Mr. Conlon has been at the forefront of the city's Britten 100/LA celebrations to mark the centenary of the birth of the man widely considered to be Britain's greatest 20th Century composer (photo: Dan Steinberg Photography).

Supermodel Cara lands first acting gig.....

And speaking of the D e l e v i n g n e family, Poppy's little sis' Cara Delevingne (right) is to make her television debut alongside veteran actress Sylvia Syms in Tim Frith's drama Timeless as part of Sky Arts' comedy and drama series Playhouse Presents.

The 21-year-old supermodel will star as Chloe, a young woman who is looking after her great-grandmother Alice, played by Syms, while her mother and grandmother are away on a cruise.

The unlikely pair bond across the generation gap after Chloe is given devastating news about her fiancé, a soldier serving in Afghanistan. The story is described as an "engaging tale of love, loss and hope."

The role marks the fulfillment of a long-held ambition for Delevingne, who has said in the past that acting is her real passion.

Speaking in January on the set of new film The Face Of An Angel, due out next year, she admitted acting was her main love whilst modeling paid the rent: "Modelling is a great job, and I appreciate everything it has brought me, but it's not my passion. As far back as I can remember I have wanted to act."

The Playhouse Presents series starts on May 1, with Cara's episode Timeless airing on Sky Arts in the UK on June 19.

FERGIE TIME: Craig and Eileen catch up with Sir Alex Ferguson at the British Consul-General's residence ow, what a whirlwind of a week it has been! I am sure most of you saw last week's British Weekly Toscar coverage (if not, its available online www.british-weekly.com). We had a fantastic turn out and a very successful event. Thank you so much to everyone who came together to make it the best one yet! To view all the five-minute parody films, including this year's winner 'Terminate HER', please visit our website TheToscars.com

British grub

Our Oscar parody week was launched with a Toscar Participants Luncheon for 100 people over at Palihouse in West Hollywood. We feasted on their newly-launched Sunday menu designed by fellow Brit, Matthew Woolf, Chef Woolf started cooking at the age of 16 at Claridges in London and his talent took him on an amazing journey, which included a stop at the Ritz, then on to the Trump Hotel and also the Fig in Santa Monica. More recently, his path returned him back under the helm of Gordon Ramsay, as Executive Chef at The Fat Cow (The Grove Shopping Mall at Third & Fairfax). The Palihouse certainly knows how to pick 'em! Their Sunday lunch menu is absolutely delicious and quite unique - especially in the Los Angeles area - I tried the treacle-cured roast beef and also shared a Scotch Egg with curry mayo. I am definitely going back to try the Guinness flavored Welsh Rarebit and save some room this time for dessert. I have my eye on the Apple & Toffee Crumble Pie (with Rum Ice Cream!). Sunday lunch menu serves from 11-3pm. Visit palihouse.com for full details.

Fergie in the House

On pre-Oscar Friday we had the pleasure of being invited to The GREAT British Film Reception hosted at the British Consul-General's Residence, in honor of winner (then nominee) Steve McQueen, for '12 Years A Slave'. There were plenty of notable guests in attendance, including Dame Helen Mirren and Chesney Hawkes but the one that seemed to cause the most excitement was Sir Alex Ferguson! I think partially because it was so out of context to see him away from a football match. I asked him if he was here football reasons (wondered if he was dabbling with managing the LA Galaxy), but no, he told me his friend was hosting a little party for Vanity Fair, so he thought it was a good excuse to pop over. Virgin Atlantic had a fun photo booth set up with a First Class Cabin back drop, complete with real live flight attendants. Jaguar USA's patriotic Union Jack-wrapped F-Type was the other star of the show, featured prominently at the event check in and coveted by pretty much every guest.

Hold the traffic

One of the downsides of the Oscars is the horrid traffic it causes for those of us living in Hollywood - I read an unsurprising statistic this week which informed me that Los Angelenos spend 47 hours a year sitting in traffic! I think I have done that in the past week thanks to the storms, the Oscars, and Benjamin Netanyahu's current visit and we still have the LA Marathon to get through on March 9th!

We have lots of other fun events going on this month and would love you to come and join us at one or all. Visit our website Britsin.LA for all the details

And if you happen to be running in the LA Marathon this weekend tweet us @BritsinLA so we can follow your progress and share with our other members.

Cheers! Eileen

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF TINA LALVANI LAUTO aka TINA LAUTO Case No. BP147441

Case No. BF147441

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of TINA LALVANI LAUTO aka TINA LAUTO

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Miranda Lauto in has been filed by Mirando Lauto in the Superior Court of California.

County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Mirando Lauto be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court

PETITION requests THE authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.)
The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good course when the court should not cause why the court should grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will

A HEARING on the petition will be held on March 27, 2014 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 9 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012. IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either four months from the date of first (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code Probate Code

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

Pellegrini eyes treble

Pellegrini hopes Manchester City's Capital One Cup final victory over Sunderland can inspire his players to complete a historic domestic treble.

City won 3-1 at Wembley on Sunday to give Pellegrini his first trophy in England.

They face Wigan in the Cup quarter-finals and are also in the thick of a battle for the Premier League title.

"To win the first trophy is important for us all. For the players, for me and for the staff," Pellegrini, who replaced Roberto Mancini in the summer.

"We are the only club with the chance to try to win all the competitions. We are going to try although we know it is not easy."

City face Wigan in a repeat of last season's FA Cup final, which the Latics won 1-0, in the quarter-finals of this year's competition at Etihad Stadium next Sunday.

They are fourth in the Premier League and six points behind leaders Chelsea, but have two games in hand on Jose Mourinho's team plus Liverpool and Arsenal in second and third respectively.

No club has ever won three domestic trophies in one season, and Pellegrini thinks winning the Capital One Cup will give his "a lot confidence".

Strachan plays down Poland victor

Scotland manager Gordon Strachan said his side's 1-0 friendly victory over Poland will have no effect on either team's Euro 2016 qualifying campaign.

Captain Scott Brown scored the only goal in qualifier.

nothing, because there will be changes," said

Warsaw's Stadion Narodowy, where the two sides will meet again in October in a European

"It meant absolutely Strachan. "These two teams won't be the same.

"But what it does, for the next couple of months, is give us confidence."

Scotland's next friendly is likely to be at Fulham's Craven Cottage in May, with Nigeria having invited Strachan's side to play them in London.

Wednesday was Scotland's third successive away win, and they have gone five matches unbeaten, the four without past conceding a goal.

"That's good and it's not easy to do that," Strachan told BBC Scotland, though he is not getting carried away with his improvement.

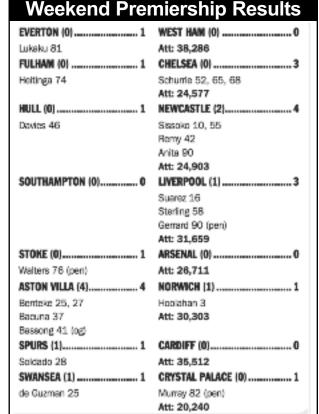

"It wasn't a great game. I don't think you could expect anything other than that at this time of the season in a friendly."

Daniel lifts the Lions

ENGLAND.....1 DENMARK......0

Daniel Sturridge scored a late winner as England marked their final match before Rov Hodgson names his provisional World Cup squad with a deserved victory over Denmark Wednesday night.

Sturridge was one of five Liverpool players named in Hodgson's starting line-up and the striker carried his rich vein of club form on to the international scene, heading in Adam Lallana's cross for his 12th goal in as many games to give England a first win in three matches.

This was a last chance for Hodgson's players to impress their manager at international level if they are to be included in his travelling party for Brazil, and Sturridge will have done his chances no harm.

His Reds team-mate Raheem Sterling was named man of the match for an encouraging display, while Lallana again pressed his case for selection after coming off the bench.

It was only the Southampton captain's third cap, but he looks comfortable on the big stage.

Saints colleague Luke Shaw, 18, replaced Ashley Cole at half-time and justified suggestions he will be England's future first-choice left-back, showing ambition and composure on his debut.

For

encouragement, however, there was also cause for concern in the way England struggled convert their possession into chances and looked vulnerable to the counter-attack.

There was a general lack urgency and Denmark, who failed to qualify for the World Cup and lacked genuine quality, still came close to opening the scoring on more than one occasion.

Hodgson will select a 23-man squad and seven standby names on 13 May ahead of a friendly against Peru at Wembley on 30 May. England then travel to Miami for a warm-weather training camp, where they will play Ecuador and Honduras, before flying to Brazil.

The early signs were positive as Glen Johnson and Sterling combined well on the right, Gerrard and Jordan Henderson orchestrated proceedings from central midfield, and Sturridge probed for an opening alongside Manchester United's Wayne Rooney in attack.

But too often a touch was poor, passing was slow and movement was disjointed.

Rooney was agonisingly close to connecting with a low cross from Sturridge and then combined with Cole to tee up Sterling, only for his effort to rebound off a post.

Between those however, chances, England's defence was sliced open by a Krohn-Dehli pass that the Jakob Poulsen failed to finish.

England ended the half well to at least raise the flat atmosphere inside a stadium some way short of its 90,000 capacity, Sturridge thwarted by Kasper Schmeichel from close range after Rooney's corner.

As expected, Shaw came on for Cole, allowing Hodgson to assess his back-up options to Leighton Baines, and Lallana soon followed in place of Wilshere.

A third substitution saw Welbeck replace Rooney and England now showed greater hunger and urgency, Lallana's first touch an outstanding Cruyff turn that set the tone.

There was another defensive lapse when indecisiveness from Smalling and Henderson enabled Morten Rasmussen to race clear, only for Joe Hart to burst off his line and save well. However, the rest of the night belonged to England.

Schmeichel was twice called upon to prevent Welbeck breaking the deadlock - the second time after superb link-up play with Henderson and the Leicester City goalkeeper displayed fine reactions from a spectacular Sturridge strike.

The pressure told when Lallana found Sturridge with a perfectly weighted cross and the 24-year-old controlled his header back across Schmeichel to send England's fans home happy.

Wilshere out for six weeks

Jack Wilshere suffered a broken foot in England's friendly win over Denmark and has been ruled out for around six weeks.

In a devastating blow to Arsenal's hopes of ending their nine-year trophy drought, Wilshere was diagnosed with a left foot by the club's medical team.

midfielder The appeared to sustain the injury following a crunching early tackle by Daniel Agger Wembley on Wednesday but despite night, hobbling off hairline fracture of the treatment, he returned to play until just before the hour mark.

> A six-week lay-off would rule him out of all but Arsenal's last four Premier League games of the season and would see him miss a crucial run of fixtures in league and cup.
