Scottish Independence: the 'ayes' grow louder...

GROWING number of Scots are independence from the UK, according to a new opinion poll published on Thursday.

Yet while the number of Scots who said they would vote Yes in September's referendum is at a six month high, one analyst said it would still be an "astonishing achievement" if Scotland voted for independence.

The survey found 39.3 per cent said they would be voting Yes in September's independence referendum, compared to 47.6 per cent who said they wanted Scotland to remain part of the UK.

The remaining 13.1 per cent of those who were questioned were undecided, according to the survey, which was carried out by polling firm Survation for the Daily Record newspaper and the Five Million Questions project at Dundee University.

'excellent position'

Michael Marra, director of the Five Million Questions project, told the Daily Record: "The hill for the Yes campaign to climb remains considerable. Everyone who is currently undecided has to make the leap to independence."

Mr Marra added: "Winning from here for [First Minister] Alex Salmond would be an astonishing achievement."

executive of the pro-independence Yes Scotland campaign said: "Today's poll puts us in an excellent position with six months to go to the referendum, showing the highest level of support for Yes since last summer - and Yes at 45 per cent to 55 per cent for No once 'don't knows' are excluded."

'a better future'

poll clearly indicates is that 'Project Fear' (as the campaign to reject independence is sometimes scornfully referred to) is failing and that increasing numbers of people are realizing that Yes promises a better future for themselves, their families and for Scotland.

"An independent Scotland would be in the top 20 most prosperous countries in the world ahead of the UK - and people know that we've got what it takes to be a successful self-governing

"This poll shows support for Yes has increased to the highest Blair Jenkins, the chief level since last summer despite all the recent scaremongering over the pound and business.

'unconvinced'

"The fact is that the No campaign have played what they believe are their ace cards and have utterly failed to trump Yes."

The increase in support for an independent Scotland comes despite the three main UK He added: "What this parties ruling out a currency union between the two countries, and European Commission president Jose Manuel Barroso saying it would be "extremely difficult, if not impossible" Scotland to join the EU.

He added: "The interventions from some of Scotland's largest employers, like Standard Life and RBS, and even the SNP's own figures yesterday, show that leaving the UK would be a big risk that we simply don't need to take.

"It is great to see support for remaining in the UK up, but there can be absolutely no complacency from those of us who support Scotland remaining in the UK.

"We will be working hard every day to talk to people about why a Scottish Parliament with more powers is a better choice for Scotland than losing jobs and losing the pound by walking away from the United Kingdom."

Survation questioned 1,002 people aged 16 and over between March 6 and March 7 for the research, which also looked at how Scots could vote in the next Holyrood election.

That put the SNP ahead of Labour, with 44.6 per cent of people saying they would vote for Alex Salmond's party in the constituency section of the ballot and 34 per cent planning on supporting Johann Lamont's party.

Meanwhile the Tories had the backing of 13 per cent of those questioned, with five per cent saying they would be voting for the Liberal Democrats and 3.3 per cent planning on voting for other parties.

Hardline union boss Bob Crow dies at the age of 52

■ RMT leader described as 'a fighter and a man of character'

LEADING UNION boss Bob Crow has died at the age of 52, it has been confirmed.

He was rushed to Whipps Cross hospital in Leytonstone, east London, Tuesday morning after suffering an aneurysm and massive heart attack.

A spokesman for the union of Rail, Maritime and Transport Workers (RMT) said: "It is with the deepest regret that RMT has to confirm that our General Secretary Bob Crow sadly passed away in the early hours of this morning.

"The union's offices will be closed for the rest of the day and the union will make further announcements in due course.

"The media have been asked to respect the privacy of Bob's friends and family at this difficult and distressing time."

An RMT employee, who would not be named, said: "I heard he wasn't feeling well yesterday afternoon but he thought he maybe had the flu

"He was a good boss. My thoughts go out to his partner and family."

Mr Crow's older brother, Richard Crow, paid tribute to the "loveable little rogue". Richard, whose father was also a trade union leader, said: "It's very sad.

"He was honest, he looked after the people he was supposed to look after, and he was a great man as far as honesty and

"He was a person who believed in justice."

Richard, who is three years older than his brother, said: "People moaned that he lived in a council house, that he never drove a car - he lived a life of the average guy in the street and that's a rare thing these days.

"When people have a high office in life they fall for the big trappings of the flash cars and the big hotels and big houses. But Bob wasn't like that, he was a genuine person of cont. on page 3, Col. 1

Mr Crow was one of the high-profile, left-wing union leaders of his generation, sparking as much anger from passengers hit by rail and Tube strikes, as praise from his members for winning pay rises.

He was constantly involved in industrial disputes and campaigns and led a walkout by London Underground workers last month in a dispute over ticket office closures.

The straight-talking south Londoner was a passionate supporter of Millwall Football Club.

His death caused shockwaves in the trade union movement.

Manuel Cortes, leader of the TSSA (Transport Salaried Staff Association) rail union, who stood on picket lines with Mr Crow during last month's Tube strike, said: "Bob Crow was admired by his members and feared by employers, which is exactly how he liked it.

"It was a privilege to campaign and fight alongside him because he never gave an inch."

In a statement, London Mayor Boris Johnson said: "I'm shocked. Bob Crow was a fighter and a man of character.

"Whatever our political differences, and there were many, this is tragic news."

Cameron and Kerry meet to discuss Ukraine crisis

Prime Minister David Cameron was set to meet with US Secretary of State John Kerry in London on Friday to discuss the situation in Ukraine, a Downing Street source said.

The breakfast meeting, which took place after the British Weekly went to press, took place Kerry before and Foreign Russian Minister Sergei Lavrov hold another round of talks in the British capital to try to defuse the crisis.

The Crimean peninsular is holding a referendum on Sunday on adopting Kremlin rule, which could see Russia annex the Ukrainian territory.

Four dead in new Norfolk chopper crash

Four people have been killed after a civilian helicopter crashed in Norfolk on Thursday night, police have confirmed.

Officers were called to the scene in Gillingham, near Beccles, at around 7.30pm, and after carrying out a search the crash site was located.

spokesman for Norfolk Police said: "It's a civilian helicopter, and there were four occupants on board who are all thought to have died in the crash."

Louis Inspector Provart said emergency services were alerted after people living near the crash reported hearing a loud bang.

rapid response

"Emergency services are working together in difficult conditions to secure the scene and carry out an initial investigation into the circumstances," he said.

"Our thoughts are with the family and loved ones of those who have sadly lost their lives this evening."

The East of England Ambulance Service NHS Trust said it has sent three ambulances, a rapid response unit, two senior officers and two doctors to the scene.

A spokesperson said: "Sadly, it is believed that four people in the helicopter are believed to have died in the crash.

"Ambulance resources have now been stood down from the scene."

'very foggy'

Emergency services remained on the scene and a cordon has been put up.

Sources said a civilian helicopter made by Anglo-Italian firm AgustaWestland involved, not a military aircraft.

Senior management at Norbrook Laboratories, in Newry, Northern Ireland, were "lending assistance".

The helicopter was on the way to Northern when Ireland accident took place and Norfolk police have been in contact with the Police Service

Northern Ireland (PSNI).

It was unclear whether fog, which had affected the area earlier on Thursday, was a factor in the crash.

Roland Bronk, owner of The Swan House restaurant in Beccles, said it was "very foggy" in the area at the time of the crash.

January crash

Taxi driver Mark Murray, 22, from Beccles, said: "There is a large stately down in January at Cley next the Sea, killing four servicemen, 45 miles from Thursday's crash site nearby and you often see helicopters coming and going from there.

> "When they have a game shoot the guests often all arrive in separate helicopters. We don't know if that is linked, but that's the only helicopter activity we see in this area."

The site is just 45 miles from Cley next the Sea, where four US airmen were killed in January when their Pave Hawk military helicopter came down in a marsh.

A spokesman for Air Accidents Investigation Branch said it will be sending a team to investigate.

Diana 'leaked' information about Charles to press, court hears

Princess Diana leaked information about the Prince of Wales to "an ally" in the press in order to "take on" her estranged husband, it was claimed in court on Thursday.

Former News of the World reporter Clive Goodman told the phone hacking trial that Diana, who separated from her husband in 1992 after 11 years of marriage, passed him information relating to the royal household and staff in an envelope sent to his office in Wapping.

The now-defunct tabloid's former royal editor, of Addlestone in Surrey, said: "She was going through a very, very difficult time.

'swamped'

"She told me she wanted me to see the scale of her husband's staff and household, compared with others.

"She felt she was being swamped by people close to his household.

"She was looking for an ally to take him on - to show there were forces that would rage against him."

Goodman, 56, denies two counts of conspiracy to commit misconduct in Diana and Charles divorced in 1996. She was killed in a car crash in Paris a year later.

Goodman said he used "Green Books" and internal telephone directories (ITDs), containing contact numbers for royal staff and senior members of the household, for stories.

Asked by his counsel David Spens QC how he received them, he recalled how one Green Book was given to him in 1992 by the Princess of Wales.

He said: "That arrived at my office in Wapping with my name on it."

Goodman said that Diana had a good relationship with several journalists, including Martin Bashir, who conducted a Panorama interview with her.

Asked by Mr Spens if Diana gave a reason for leaking the details, Goodman said the royal had been going through "a very tough time" - only to be cut off by judge Mr Justice Saunders and asked to stick to what she had told him.

Goodman said he did not pay for the books.

The hearing continues.

Man held after Nottingham snooker club siege

A man has been arrested after a 10-hour armed siege at a snooker hall in Nottinghamshire.

Police spent hours negotiating with the man who was in the Spot On Snooker Club in Hucknall before entering the club at about 00:40 GMT Friday and arresting him.

Two women who were thought to be hiding in the club had emerged unharmed after about seven hours.

A 20-year-old was detained on suspicion of possessing a firearm with intent to cause fear of violence, police said.

He was being questioned in custody, they added.

Officers had first been called to the building in Vine Street at about 14:40 GMT Thursday over reports of a man said to be "acting suspiciously".

A man claiming to be the gunman told reporters who called the club during the siege: "It's none of your business why I'm here."

Answering the phone to the Nottingham Post, the man said "I'm the guy with the gun.

"I'm not sure what happened. I'm on my own in here, everyone else just ran off. I'm going to go home in a minute and chill out and watch TV and that."

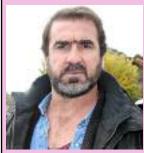

By 22:00 GMT police said they were "in direct negotiations" with the man inside the club.

They said the two women who escaped were "extremely distressed but uninjured" and had "been guided to safety".

Vine Street was closed off and children at nearby Beardall Street Primary School were sent home with a police escort, while people were at one point told not to leave the nearby Byron Cinema because it was not safe.

Ria Cash, who was trapped inside the cinema, said: "It was exciting to start with but it is getting quite stressful in here now."

Cantona arrested for assault

Former Manchester United star Eric Cantona (above) has been arrested in London following reports of an assault.

The Metropolitan Police said a man was arrested at an address close to Chalk Farm Tube station in north London on Wednesday.

A statement said: "Police were called to Regents Park Road, NW1, at 12.55pm on Wednesday March 12, following reports of an assault.

"Officers from Camden Borough attended and a man in his mid-40s was arrested on suspicion of common assault.

"He was taken into custody and s u b s e q u e n t l y cautioned for common assault.

"The victim, a man, did not require medical assistance at the scene."

Cantona made 143 appearances for United between 1992 and 1997, scoring 64 goals.

The former French international was banned from football for nine months and ordered to do 120 hours of community service after launching a kung-fu kick at a Crystal Palace fan after being sent off in a Premiership match in January 1995.

After retiring from football he took up a career in film, with roles in Elizabeth, French Film, and Looking For Eric.

Viking legacy lives on in UK

Around one million Britons can claim direct descent from norse marauders, according to a new DNA study.

Men from the far north of Scotland were most likely to provide a direct match almost a third (29.2%) of the men from the Shetland Islands testing positive for Viking blood.

Researchers compared Y chromosome markers, which are inherited from father to son, from more than 3,500 men to six DNA patterns rarely found outside the Norse warrior's Norway and Sweden.

Other areas that scored highly included the Orkney Islands (25.2%),Caithness (17.5%) and the Isle of Man (12.3%).

The researchers found around one in 33 men across the UK, or 930,000, were a direct match.

The study, which was commissioned coincide with the launch of the new series of the US TV show Vikings, only tested men whose grandfathers had lived in the same areas.

"Despite arriving well over 1,000 years ago the Viking legacy strong remains in Britain and Ireland, said Dr Jim Wilson, chief scientist at the leading genetic search company BritainsDNA.com. which carried out the test.

"The research that suggests concentration of Norse blood is quite variable, as chromosome relates to the nation's male population and only to one ancestral lineage for each man, there is a very real chance that many more of us are related to the Vikings."

The last of the great Frost parties'

■ Royals and celebs pay tribute to the late Sir David Frost

THE GREAT and good from the worlds of Royalty and showbusiness arrived at Westminster Abbey on Thursday to remember Sir David Frost.

The star-studded guest list also included Prince Charles, Joanna Lumley, Felicity Kendall, Sir Michael Parkinson, Pippa Michael Middleton, Caine, Carol Vorderman and Stephen Fry.

Other royal guests invited to the memorial service included the Countess of Wessex, the Duke of York and his daughter Princess Beatrice.

Charles was joined by Sir David's widow, Lady Carina Fitzalan-Howard, to lay flowers on a memorial stone dedicated to the broadcaster who died last August aged 74.

'humanity'

Among the attendees who spoke to honour him BBC's were the director-general Lord Hall and Sir Michael who delivered readings.

Dean of Westminster the Very Rev Dr John Hall said Sir David was "amongst our greatest communicators".

He said: "Surely it was the warmth of his humanity, his interest in people, and what made them tick, that made his 'Hello, good evening and welcome' welcome in the world's living rooms."

Two of Sir David's sons delivered poems during the service and hymns included He Who Would Valiant Be and Jerusalem.

Ronnie Corbett, who worked with Sir David in the 1960s satire boom that launched both their careers, was among those reading prayers during the service.

The service reflected the thread of humour and satire which ran through his career with a comic tribute from Lumley called A Sonnet Of Sorts For A Star, which she co-wrote with musician Sir Richard Stilgoe.

It began: "Shall I compare thee to Sir Robin Day? Thou wert more lovely and temperate. Earth has not anything to show more fair, Hello, good evening, welcome, Frosty's there."

incisive interviews

The humorous tribute included the lines: "No more TV-am, no Al Jazeera - We end not a career, but end an era; For now he's gone, ascended into orbit, And 'I look up to him' (quoth Ronnie Corbett)." It concluded with the line: "When Frost has gone, can spring be far behind?"

Known for his incisive interviews - above all, disgraced president Richard Nixon -Sir David spent more than 50 years as a television star.

award-winning interview style was considered non-aggressive, affable and effusive - but he had a talent for extracting intriguing information and revealing reactions from his subjects.

During his series of five

Charles and Duchess of Cornwall were among those honoring Sir David Frost (inset)

interviews with Nixon in 1977, the slippery former president known "Tricky Dicky" dramatically admitted that he had "let down the country".

The encounter later formed the basis of the play Frost/Nixon, which was made into a hit film with Michael Sheen playing Sir David.

Other guests included comedian David Walliams and his wife, model Lara Stone, Julian Fellowes, Terry Wogan, Esther Rantzen, Claudia Winkleman and John Sergeant.

Sergeant said: "It was like the last of the great Frost parties. It was perfect for him, absolutely perfect."

Guests from political sphere included Cherie Blair and Sarah Brown.

Electric car deal for London finalized

A French billionaire has announced plans to introduce 3,000 electric hire cars in London, in a scheme similar to the 'Boris bikes' introduced in 2010.

 $V \quad i \quad n \quad c \quad e \quad n \quad t$ Bollore confirmed the proposals after subsidiary of his Bollore Group, IER, was selected by Transport for London take over management of the existing Source London scheme from June this year.

Under that agreement, said Bollore would quadruple the number of electric car charging points in Britain to 6,000 in a £100m investment aimed at cutting pollution and congestion.

The separate electric car hire project would be based on Autolib in Paris, which was launched in 2011 and currently has more than 45,000 active subscribers making between 9,000 and 13,000 car journeys each day.

"We'll have Blue Cars in London within the next 12 months," Bollore said at news conference.

He aims to have 100 cars available by the year's end, with the total hitting 3,000 by 2016.

Drivers would have to pay £10 per hour via a smartphone app to hire a vehicle.

The Autolib business model has also been rolled out to the French cities of Lyon and Bordeaux and will soon go into operation in the US city of Indianapolis.

Woman who microwaved kitten jailed for 14 weeks

■ Culprit thought moggy had eaten her goldfish

A woman who cooked her pet kitten in a microwave as a punishment for eating her goldfish has been jailed for 14 weeks.

Jobless Laura Cunliffe, 23, put four-month-old Mowgli in the microwave, set the controls for five minutes and left it.

Incredibly the cat, which was nearly a year old and Cunliffe had kept from a few weeks old, was still alive when it came out but she died shortly afterwards.

Jailing her at Barnsley Magistrates Court this week, district judge John Foster told her: "The utterly barbaric nature of the act you carried out does demand a deterrent sentence."

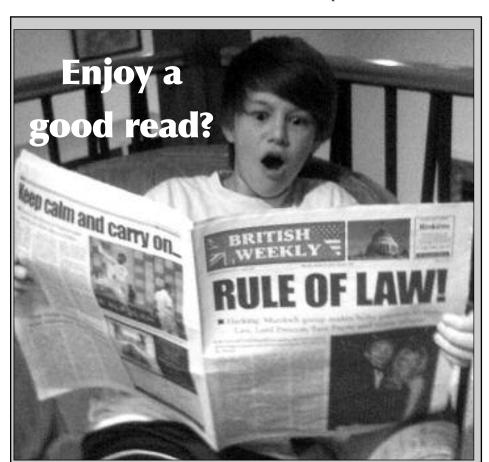

The black-and-white pet suffered a slow and painful death 90 minutes later and was buried by a friend, the court heard.

Brian Orsborn, prosecuting for the RSPCA said the kitten was in a distressed state when Miss Cunliffe took it out of the oven.

She wrapped it in a towel and took it to her step-sister's house and later said: "It was laid out and proper screeching."

Cunliffe, of Northumberland Avenue, Hoyland, South Yorkshire disclosed what had happened to Mowgli when she visited hospital for a mental health assessment three days later.

She admitted causing unnecessary suffering to a protected animal.

Laura Cunliffe admitted causing unnecessary suffering to a protected animal.

Mr Orsborn said Cunliffe told a nurse at Barnsley Hospital that the cat had woken her by jumping on the bed.

When she went downstairs she found the goldfish in four pieces on the floor. "She was angry at the cat and put it in the microwave," he said.

Realising what she had done was wrong she stopped the oven and the cat was still breathing when she took her to her step-sister's.

'extremely painful'

The court heard she was "crying and shaking and had the kitten in a towel."

The step-sister said Cunliffe told her she had put the cat in the oven for five minutes then realised what she had done and took it out after a minute.

Cunliffe later confessed to a nurse that she had not taken her medication and "the kitten had got hold of the goldfish."

A vet who examined Mowgli said it would have "suffered immensely" and her death must have been "extremely painful."

Alan Greaves, defending, said Cunliffe was suffering from psychosis and depression and had been sectioned several times under mental health legislation.

She described herself as "happy" but became "extremely distressed" at times. She had cared for the cat carrying it around inside her jacket and even took it out to be with her.

She had become angry with the cat and it was too late to repair the damage. "It was something done in temper on the spur of the moment," he said.

The district judge said:

"This was a shocking and distressing case."

He went on: "I have concluded that you were entirely aware of what you were doing at the time you committed this shocking act.

"By taking the inexplicable action you did this animal was caused immense suffering."

As well as being jailed Cunliffe was banned from keeping animals for life.

RSPCA Insp Paula Clemence welcomed the sentence and said afterwards: "We hope that this means that other animals will not have to suffer this way in the future.

"It is clearly a sad case and the poor kitten would have suffered terribly over a long period of time." Page 7

One wouldn't miss a day at the races....

- New mum Zara puts on her glad rags for day out at Cheltenham
 - Top toffs banish the chill with champagne tailgate parties

SHE MAY be a new mum, but that was no reason for Zara Phillips to miss the Cheltenham Festival, one of THE social highlights of the year for Britain's upper crust.

The daughter of Princess Anne and Captain Mark Phillips gave birth two months ago to a healthy baby girl, Mia, but looked the essence of post-natal chic with her glamorous feathered hat and classic coat as she enjoyed a day at the races with husband Mike Tindall on Monday.

The royal, 32, looked happy and full of smiles as she watched the action on the first day of Cheltenham Festival with friends.

And she looked anything but frumpy as she completed the look with oversized sunglasses and a pair of diamond studs to round out a very fashionable picture.

Since becoming a mother, equestrienne Zara has become a regular fixture at the races, including a recent outing to the point-to-point at Barbury in Wiltshire with baby Mia in tow.

And the famous pair weren't the only A-list names to descend on the course. Also spotted enjoying the event was Katie Price, - the glamor model formerly known as Jordan, with her third husband, Kieran Hayler in tow, and double Olympic Gold medallist Dame Kelly Holmes.

Ms Price appeared particularly excited about events on the track and, at one point, was photographed jumping for joy as a horse she'd had a flutter on romped home to victory.

Looking equally thrilled was former Barclay's boss, the aptly named Rich Ricci, who was spotted whooping with delight and throwing up his arms after watching his horse Vautour triumph in the Sky Bet Supreme Novices Hurdle.

Elsewhere at the famous old racecourse there was plenty of evidence that the nation's economic recovery was taking a firm hold. The car park was packed with expensive automobiles, but the vehicle of choice, as it always is at such events - was the top-of-the-line Range Rover complete with fully stocked hamper serving smoked salmon and (of course) champagne to the most civilized tailgate parties imaginable.

After such a miserable winter, it's just the thing to welcome spring, what?

POST-NATAL CHIC: Zara Phillips with husband Mike Tindall at Cheltenham this week

REVEALED: Liam Neeson almost played James Bond, but Natasha Richardson wanted to get married instead.....

Liam Neeson seems like an obvious choice to play James Bond: He's tough but likable, rugged but dapper everything we associate with the likes of Sean Connery and Daniel Craig.

So why didn't he ever portray 007? Because Natasha Richardson wanted to get married.

Neeson (pictured, right) told the Daily Mail this week that the late actress, to whom he was married for 15 years before her untimely death in 2009, told him he could either take the role as Bond or they could get hitched. It must have been true love, because Neeson chose the latter.

"It was about 18 or 19 years ago and my wife-to-be said, 'If you play James Bond we're not getting married!' And I had to take that on board, because I did want to marry her," he said.

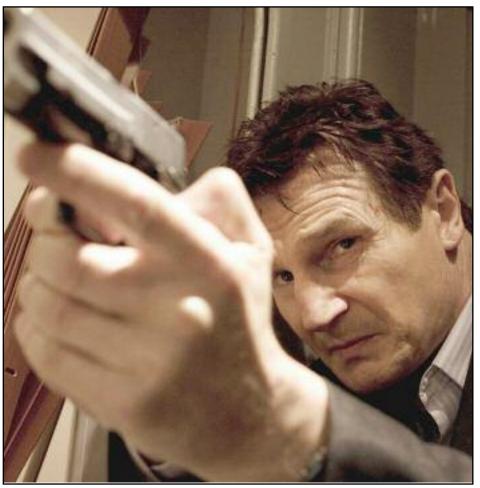

Bond fans will doubtless be intrigued by the news, which suggests that Pierce Brosnan, who debuted as Bond in 1995's "GoldenEye,", may have been second choice behind the rugged man from Ballymena.

And given Neeson's persuasively muscular performances in the Taken movies and his latest release, Non Stop, there's no reason to believe he wouldn't have made a very compelling Bond indeed.

Catalina was the star from the TV show TGI-Friday! and more recently I'm A Celebrity, Get Me Out Of Here. But these days this Southern California transplant can be seen cruising PCH or riding her horses on the ranch. Catalina works as the Creative Director of Guirado Design, an art licensing company that uses the art work of her late father, acclaimed Spanish abstract artist Juan Antonio Guirado, to design stunning textiles and scarves by her manipulation of original art work using repeat techniques and seasonal color trends to create Wearable Art. Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

When I first set foot at LAX I felt I was home. California reminds me very much of Andalusia in Spain (where I am originally from) with its weather, mountains and deserts, but it has the extra brownie points that everyone speaks English and Los Angeles is the epicenter of all things creative so I could work. I had a music publishing deal with Universal Music, and at the time I been a very successful model and TV personality in the UK. I felt to be taken seriously (and to save my sanity) I needed to get out of England and be myself, so I made LA my home, avoided anything to do with 'celebrity' and wrote songs, painted and lived the perfect boho life in Venice Beach

What things do you miss most from home?

I miss my best friends and course family. Museums, style and country pubs!

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus the UK?

I find the attitude here a breath of fresh air. I like the fact that people say 'have a nice day' and I don't care if they mean it or not, at least they are upbeat and polite! The service in restaurants is fantastic, people are friendly and laid back (most of the time), everyone is creative and most of all you are allowed to be who you want to be. Nobody cares if you want to walk down the street in a ball gown or superman outfit! And I love the creativity I have here. Some people find that in London or cities but I definitely need mountains, sun, deserts and beaches to get the creative energy flowing. If vou dream hard enough, LA allows you to fulfill your dreams, encourages you to reach for the stars rather than suppressing you. And even if you don't make it, it's much nicer to live here.

go to the beach and work in a bar than in London!

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

I love the Malibu Cafe. One day I want to have a small ranch and will model it on the grounds there. It's like Alice in Wonderland, just magical.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Make sure you do your research first. example, get the right visa, learn to drive if you can't (I did 5 lessons is the UK then came out here and got my license straight away!) Brits in LA is really helpful, I didn't have that and it would have really helped me. Also, be prepared to go through a lot of friends. It's not like home where vou make real friends straight away. I don't know anyone I first met out here anymore. It took a good two years and to be honest most of my friends now are from England or Europe AND I married an Englishman I met here. It's just the way it ends up working. Lastly, if you are in entertainment don't expect to work straight away, if at all. You can come here as a big star in the UK and end up working in a boutique here! I was told when I first arrived by my A&R guy it would take at least two years, even though I was already signed. It did!

I got bored and moved back to London for a while to do TV again before feeling the calling of the Pacific coast!

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: In any relationship situation please keep a handle on that famous Ram temper as it will cause more problems, especially since your boss Mars is moving backwards in the opposite sign of relationships, Libra.

TAURUS: Your priority should be taking care of YOU in any area that requires attention. Start with what you know is well overdue. On the upside you can expect a call from a career interest or new friend.

GEMINI: The sun in Pisces can bring out a very creative side of you and it also favors getting a handle on any part of life that you are neglecting. Health issues will be resolved if you take the time to figure out what the real underlying emotional problem is.

CANCER: The consequences will be far-reaching for you if you ignore hurt feelings of another - especially with close friends or family. It's time for you to reach out that motherly hand. The lovely planet Jupiter will be bringing you rewards soon

LEO: Happy days to all you loving Leos and to get your charming way, this is a time for you to get ready for spring and with the sun shining next week positive energy from Aries will warm your heart.

VIRGO: It's time for a trip and short or long, near or far, matters not as you benefit from the change of scenery. Just make sure you have caught up with what ever is unfinished before you leave.

LIBRA: The planet of Karma has been sitting in your house of money for over a year, however he will finish stirring things up soon and it will be up to you to sort out what is what.

SCORPIO: A person of interest to you romantically will be more prominent than expected. It is on the cards that this would happen, and just when you had given up!

SAGITTARIUS: Just watch that temper if things don't always go the way you planned, life is an adventure and you need to remember that child-like quality which is so unique to you. You may be struggling with a family member or friend...let it work itself out!

CAPRICORN: This could be the break you have waited for and you alone can decide what the priority is of events happening. Be sure that you have a clear idea about what that is before you make any decision. AQUARIUS: You will always get back what you put out and just be careful you don't say too much....it's best to keep your thoughts or judgments to yourself. The fact that Venus the love planet is benefitting you for a month can brighten things up.

PISCES: Although Jupiter sitting in your money area brings financial rewards a family upset will take up much of your life this month so stay cool. You have the ability to take charge and help others to get though. This next month many things will come to a head.

My Life in Middlemarch: Eliot as touchstone

■ Exclusive interview with author Rebecca Mead and a review of her new book
about living her life through the pages of George Eliot's literary classic
Middlemarch

Rating: ★★★

"I had always loved George Eliot and Middlemarch: A Study of Provincial Life, which I first read at 17 and have read about every five years since," says My Life in Middlemarch author Rebecca Mead. "When I reached my early forties I wanted to explore more closely what this book had meant to me over those many years, and what it still had to say to

Mead's analysis of Middlemarch is insightful and will inspire you to reread (or perhaps read for the first time) Eliot's Middlemarch. If you love literature and Middlemarch in particular, this book is for you.

Part biography, part reporting, this book reveals Mead learning about Eliot and her own life. Mead's book mirrors Middlemarch in theme and feeling. Her book started as an article for The New Yorker, for which she is a staff writer.

As a teen Rebecca

Mead was studying for her O-levels to get to Oxford when she first the book, regarded by many as the greatest English novel. Virginia Woolf described Middlemarch as "the magnificent book that, with all its imperfections, is one of the few English novels written for grown-up people."

We see Mead as she moves to America and becomes a journalist, dates, marries and has children. There are some similarities between Mead's and Eliot's life. Through all that she rereads Middlemarch many times, which proves something of a compass in life.

While Mead's research is thorough, what's missing is how the characters and book impacted Mead. There is lots of correspondence and visits to places where Eliot spent time but it would have been instructive to know why she reread that book at those times in her life and how precisely it changed (or did not change) who she is. It would have been great to hear Mead's thoughts and motives after rereading Middlemarch with real life examples of the effect the book had on her.

George Eliot was not the author's real name. Nor was the author even a man. Mary Anne Evans, later Marian Evans, wrote Middlemarch as her seventh novel. She started writing it in 1869. Life intruded and she stopped writing to help care for the dying son of her companion George Henry Lewes. She started writing again in 1871–72 and the novel was serialized. In 1874 the first one-volume edition published. The themes in Eliot's book are largely about education and self-delusion.

"The Penguin paperback Middlemarch was back order on Amazon because demand had risen," says Mead. "That's very gratifying to see. Its been fascinating to me that so many readers have gone back to read Middlemarch, either after reading my book or in preparation for reading Mead says she was surprised that her book was featured on the front page of the New York Times book review and was reviewed there by Joyce Carole Oates. As is well documented in the book, Mead did extensive research. "I read letters, journals, notebooks of George Eliot, books about her, and I traveled to the places she had lived and written. And I traveled back to my own childhood home, too. The manuscript Middlemarch is in the British library and I was fortunate enough to be given access to it. Amazing. I also went in the archives of Yale university and the New York public library."

Mead was born in London and is now based in Brooklyn, New York.

Stath' steps out with Rosie in WeHo!

They've been dating for just over three years but seems movie hunk Jason and Statham his supermodel girlfriend Huntington-Rosie Whiteley still love a night out romantic together as they headed for a dinner date in West Hollywood this week.

The "Homefront" hottie led his lovely lady into the Crossroads Kitchen restaurant while fans and photogs clamoured nearby.

while Rosie usually gets gussied up for her outings, this time she opted for a casual ensemble composed of loose-fitting distressed jeans and a cream ribbed

Coming up in May 2015, Rosie will be starring alongside Tom Hardy and Nicholas Hoult in "Mad Max: Fury Road," while Jason has his sights set on "The Expendables 3."

There has been much speculation recently that "Jace" and "Rose" had been having problems in their relationship, some of which is true... However, I can tell that the couple have now ironed out the creases and it's all now systems go! The pair might not be ready to walk down the aisle anytime soon due to their busy schedules, but love is definitely in the air!

Back-on-X: Chezza Eyes 'Monster' Hit!

Singer Cheryl Cole has secretly been locked away working on a new track with Eminem songwriter Jon Bellion, I can reveal...

It is thought the newly-reinstated judge Factor recorded a hip-hop-type track co-written by Bellion, who recently helped pen the Eminem Rihanna and collaboration Monster'.

Producer Shatkin confirmed the studio hook-up during an interview with MuuMuse and also revealed that Cheryl has worked on a new ballad.

strong, it's powerful and really from the heart. She loved it," he said. "She sounds awesome."

Shatkin has cut several songs for Cheryl's upcoming fourth studio album, which expected to be released later this year.

Cheryl was forced to shelve the third single from the record to commit to the Girls Aloud 10th anniversary reunion before taking a break from music when the band split.

She said: "I just took this time and partied and have just been me and normal for the past six months.

started "Then recording the new album and that's almost done. There's no delay on the album. I've got things in the pipeline."

Meanwhile, Cheryl joked that one of the reasons she decided to return to the UK version of X Factor is because there was only so much "begging" she could take from Simon Cowell.

She giggled: "There's only so much begging one can take. It's not nice to see a grown man cry, so I finally succumbed."

Oo-er... Cowell, desperate? I doubt that very much!!!

Leilani and Lisa: both luscious at local Hero Dog awards....

The American Humane Association (AHA) held its official reception for its annual Hero Dog Awards at swanky bar and restaurant SUR in Hollywood Wednesday night.

Transplanted Brits Lisa Vanderpump and hubby Ken Todd were all smiles as they celebrated with abundance champagne cocktails and some of finest canapés at the reception hosted by the Real Housewives of Beverly Hills star Lisa and her adorable little fluffy dog Giggy.

SUR Lounge is also the home for Lisa's popular spin-off Vanderpump Rules, and boy did Lisa "rule" at the party!

It's quite amazing to see how Lisa has risen up the ranks to become one of Tinseltown's most prominent British expats; people were literally lining up to have their picture taken with the beautiful star. At one point it felt like I was in Madame Tussauds! Even I got to pose with Ken, and West Hollywood's most famous Giggy!

One obvious face on hand was ex-Miss Great Britain turned fashion designer Leilani Dowding, who is well known for her love for animals with her three dogs, Di-Oh-Gi, Milo and Norman, not to mention her Warmblood horse Elante.

The former Page 3 beauty told me that she couldn't think of a worthier event than this to attend, with its subject so dear to her heart. She personally thanked the CEO AHA Robin Ganzert and Chief Innovation Officer Paul Raybould for inviting her to support such a worthy cause.

AwardsTM were created in 2010 to celebrate the remarkable bond between dogs and people. The awards starts off as an annual national competition to search out and recognize America's Hero Dogs, unconditionally avail themselves to us in so many important ways, whether it's saving lives on the battlefield, lending sight or hearing to a human companion, providing therapeutic support to children suffering from cancer, or just greeting us with a wagging tail at the end of a hard day.

Heroic hounds may be nominated by anyone at least 18 years of age in one of eight categories: Law Enforcement Dogs; Arson Dogs; Service Dogs; Therapy Dogs; Military Dogs; Guide & Hearing Dogs; Search and Rescue Dogs; and Emerging Hero Dogs (for ordinary dogs who do extraordinary things or are just heroes to us).

Lisa Vanderpump told the British Weekly: "It's all about the dogs tonight, not Hollywood or its celebrities, these dogs are true heroes.

"When you meet these dogs it's hard to understand for instance how these amazing creatures can predict seizures ten minutes before they occur when the owners didn't have an inkling. Or how they can sense there is a body under the water. It's truly incredible and I am honored to be involved in this amazing event."

And opening this week at the Pasadena Playhouse is A Song At Twilight, Coward's late-life meditation on success and failure, joy and regret. The show stars Bruce Davison (a Best Supporting Actor Oscar nominee a few years back for his devastating performance in Longtime Companion),

SIX NATIONS: Robshaw exults as England clinch Triple Crown

England rugby captain Chris Robshaw has hailed his team after a superb 29-18 victory at Twickenham against Six Nations holders Wales on Sunday secured England's first Triple Crown since 2003. They now face Italy this weekend with their eyes firmly fixed on the Six Nations title.

"The hype's been building for two weeks," said Robshaw. "For the players to go out and deliver when all that's going on, I think is a sign of a huge amount of maturity and experience among the squad. They have not been drawn into it and have stayed focused."

"We said in the week that our next step is to win a bit of silverware and we've done that. More importantly we've put ourselves in a good position going into next week. We need a bit of luck in Paris but we'll look after what we can and get our own performance right."

A win against Italy would put England in contention for the Six Nations title but the bit of luck required in Paris is for France to beat the championship favourites, Ireland. without doing so by 30 points more than whatever winning margin England can muster against Italy. England should be safe on the latter front but it is the first part of the equation France beating Ireland - that, on current form, seems more of a long shot. But far from out of the question.

"Ireland are a quality side." said Stuart Lancaster, England's head coach, "but France on their day at home with something to play for - who knows? We can't control that. First up we've got a proud Italian side to play against who gave us a hard time two years ago and a hard time last year at Twickenham. If we can get past that challenge, then to cheer on France is pretty much all we can do."

More misery for hapless Spurs...

EUROPA LEAGUE LAST 16
TOTTENHAM H.....1
BENFICA.......3

Tottenham's miserable week was compounded on Thursday night after a heavy home defeat to Benfica that leaves them with a mountain to climb if they are to reach the Europa League quarter-finals.

If Spurs boss Tim Sherwood had hoped for a response from his side following his very public criticism of their character after their 4-0 loss to Chelsea at the weekend, he was out of luck, as the visitors were superior in almost every department.

Former Bolton forward Rodrigo scored the opener for the Portuguese side with a neat finish low past Hugo Lloris.

Emmanuel Adebayor dragged an effort wide in the second half.

But Luisao struck twice for Benfica, either side of a superb Christian Eriksen free-kick.

Benfica, who lost 2-1 to Chelsea in last season's final, will now be favourites to progress as they head into the second leg in Lisbon next Thursday with three away goals to their name.

The Portuguese league leaders went into the tie in superb form, unbeaten in all competitions since November after a run of 21 wins in 23 games, and showcased an expert European away performance.

Spurs manager Tim Sherwood had warned that a lot of his players were playing for their futures, having been thrashed 4-0 by Chelsea in the Premier League on Saturday, and they responded with hard work and endeavour.

However, they were undone by the visiting side's organised approach, and by two goals from set-pieces.

The north London side

Christian had started the match on the front foot, applying early pressure on the opposition backline that had conceded just one goal in 16 previous matches. Sandro struck an effort over the bar from outside the box as they threatened their visitors.

But it was Benfica who broke the deadlock with their first meaningful attack of the match. Ruben Amorim slid a ball through to Rodrigo, who kept his composure to tuck in a low side-footed finish.

Tottenham, who were unbeaten in their last 11 European games at home, came out in the second half and almost restored parity as Dane Eriksen's neat through ball found Adebayor, but the former Arsenal man was unable to find the target.

The away side grabbed their second when young striker Harry Kane was caught in possession before Lloris spared further punishment by tipping Amorim's shot over the bar.

From the resulting corner, though, Luisao found himself free in the six-yard box and powered home a header.

Eriksen curled in a wonderful free-kick from the edge of the area to reduce the arrears.

However, Luisao smashed home his second late on following a free-kick to leave Jorge Jesus' men in-charge of the tie.

The Benfica boss waved three fingers in celebration to the Tottenham bench after the last goal, with the two managers failing to shake hands at the final whistle.

Nasri: Barca loss will boost us

Samir Nasri believes Manchester City will emerge a stronger team from their disappointment in Barcelona.

City bowed out of the Champions League Wednesday night as they slipped to a 4-1 aggregate defeat to the Spanish champions with a 2-1 loss at the Nou Camp.

City did rise to the occasion and applied pressure as they sought to overturn a 2-0 first-leg deficit, but a 67th-minute strike from the brilliant Lionel Messi effectively ended their challenge.

They battled on, even after the sending off of Pablo Zabaleta in the 78th minute, but Vincent Kompany's late equaliser proved mere consolation and was immediately cancelled out by Dani Alves in the last minute.

Barca were the better side but City can take encouragement from their performance and, after premature exits at the group stage in the past two seasons, progress is being made.

France playmaker Nasri said: "I think we played a good game. I think we did everything we could.

"We can have regrets about the first leg - it is in the first leg we lost it - but here we did everything.

"I think this defeat is going to be good for us in the future.

"This is where you get experience and get much stronger as a team and a group. Next year our target is to be up there with the best."

• There was more bad new for Arsenal as it emerged Mesut Ozil's hamstring strain will keep him sidelined for at least four weeks.

The midfielder, 25, was injured in the second minute of Tuesday's Champions League exit at Bayern Munich but played on until half-time.

The club's £42.4m record signing will miss Sunday's trip to Tottenham, as well as games against Chelsea, Swansea, Manchester City and Everton.

He is also doubtful for the FA Cup semi-final against Wigan on 12 April. Sat 3/15 Six Nations Rugby
