

Jagger takes refuge with kids after 'devastating' suicide of girlfriend L'Wren Scott

GIMME SHELTER!

MICK JAGGER sought refuge in the comfort of his children in Los Angeles this week following the sudden death of his longtime girlfriend L'Wren Scott.

The Rolling Stones singer reportedly headed to the home of his daughter Karis so he could mourn among his family, with daughters Elizabeth, Georgia May and Jade expected to join him imminently.

Jagger arrived in California on Thursday en route from Australia, where he had been touring with the Stones when Scott's death was announced. The fashion stylist was found hanged on Monday in her New York apartment.

A Jagger rep told reporters of his relationship with his daughters: "They adore him..... "He will stay in L.A. while the funeral arrangements are being made in New York."

While Jagger headed for the U.S., the rest of the Stones were believed to have taken off from Perth International Airport for Abu Dhabi in the band's private plane adorned with the famous lips and tongue.

Meanwhile, Scott's

body was taken to a Manhattan funeral home on Wednesday after the medical examiner confirmed that her death was a suicide.

There was no suicide note with Scott's body, but a motive for her taking her own life quickly emerged when it was revealed her company was nearly $6 million in the red – despite boasting an impressive client list including Amy Adams, Nicole Kidman and First Lady Michelle Obama.

independence

Jagger met Scott back in 2001 at a photo shoot after she had established herself as an in-demand stylist, working for the likes of Madonna, Tom Hanks and Julia Roberts. Six years later, they moved in together in a house in London, though their respective schedules often kept them apart.

Jagger and Scott were together longer than he was married to either of his ex-wives, and friends say what particularly captivated the singer was Scott's sarcastic wit, and her determination to keep her independence from him, rather than let his larger-than-life existence as the frontman of the world's greatest rock n' roll band consume her personality and work.

'many wonderful years'

"I will never forget her," Jagger wrote on his website. "I am struggling to understand how my lover and best friend could end her life in this tragic way. We spent many wonderful years together and had made a great life for ourselves. She had great presence and her talent was much admired, not least by me. I have been touched by the tributes that people have paid to her, and also the personal messages of support that I have received."

Jagger's bandmates rallied around their heartbroken front man.

"No one saw this coming," Keith Richards told reporters on Thursday.

LADY IN THE RED: L'Wren Scott's company was reportedly nearly $6m in debt

Coming in 2017: new pound coin designed to combat counterfeiting

A new £1 coin, billed by the Royal Mint as the "most secure coin in the world", is to be introduced in 2017, the Chancellor announced this week.

The move comes amid concerns about the 30-year old coin's vulnerability to counterfeiting, with an estimated 45 million forgeries in circulation.

The new coin is based on the design of the old threepenny bit, a 12-sided coin in circulation between 1937 and 1971.

A competition will be held to decide what image to put on the "tails" side of the coin.

'More resilient'

In his Budget statement to the Commons, Chancellor George Osborne said: "The prerequisite of sound money is a sound currency."

He said the £1 coin was one of the oldest coins in circulation and had become "increasingly vulnerable to forgery".

"One in 30 pound coins is counterfeit, and that costs businesses and

"So I can announce that we will move to a new, highly secure, £1 coin. It will take three years.

"Our new pound coin will blend the security features of the future with inspiration from our past.

"In honour of our Queen, the coin will take the shape of one of the first coins she appeared on - the threepenny bit.

"A more resilient pound for a more resilient economy."

'authentication'

The government said it would hold a detailed consultation on the impact of the change on businesses, which may face costs from having to change vending machines, supermarket trolleys and lockers at gyms and leisure centres.

Some commentators have raised fears the new piece will not work smoothly in vending machines but the Royal Mint said the coin "will be expressly designed to fit existing mechanisms".

It said the move would increase public confidence in the UK's currency and reduce costs for banks and other businesses.

Earlier, the chancellor tweeted this picture of the £1 coin next to the Budget box, captioned: "Today I will deliver a Budget for a resilient economy - starting with a resilient pound coin."

The current £1 coin was introduced in 1983 as part of the phasing-out of the Bank of England £1 note, which was withdrawn five years later.

Of the 1.5 billion estimated to be in circulation, as many as two million counterfeit ones are removed every year.

competition

The proposed new coin will be roughly the same size as the current one and will be based on the threepenny piece that disappeared after decimalisation in the early 1970s.

The new coin will be made in two colours and will incorporate state-of-the-art technology to ensure it

'MORE RESILIENT POUND': The Royal Mint is introducing the new coin as it believes 3% of existing £1 coins are fake can be "authenticated via high-speed automated detection at all points within the cash cycle", the government added. While the Queen's head will be on the obverse side of the coin, as it is on all legal tender in the UK, the Treasury has said there will be a public competition to decide the image on the other side.

'fitting tribute'

A silver threepence is still manufactured in very small numbers by the Royal Mint for inclusion in sets of Maundy Money.

A Treasury spokesman said the time was right to "retire" the existing £1 coin and using the threepenny bit as inspiration for its replacement was a "fitting tribute" to such an iconic design.

"With advances in technology making high-value coins like the £1 ever more vulnerable to counterfeiters, it's vital that we keep several paces ahead of the criminals to maintain the integrity of our currency," he added.

Adam Lawrence, chief executive of the Royal Mint, which is based in Llantrisant, south Wales, said the process could change the way coins were made in the future.

"It is our aim to identify and produce a pioneering new coin which helps to reduce the opportunities for counterfeiting, helping to boost public confidence in the UK's currency in the process."

The Bank of England, which earlier this year announced banknotes would be made out of plastic rather than cotton from 2016, said the move would "enhance the security and integrity of the currency".

Tributes flow as veteran Leftie Tony Benn dies at 88

Former cabinet minister and veteran left-wing campaigner Tony Benn has died at home, his family said on Friday.

The 88-year-old former Labour MP had been seriously ill.

Mr Benn became an MP in November 1950 and served in the cabinet under Harold Wilson and James Callaghan.

A major figure on the left of the party, he narrowly missed out on the deputy leadership in 1981 and was a popular public speaker, anti-war campaigner and political diarist.

In a statement, his children Stephen, Hilary, Melissa and Joshua said Mr Benn died peacefully early Friday this morning at his home in west London surrounded by his family.

'inspiring life'

"We will miss above all his love which has sustained us throughout our lives," the family said.

"But we are comforted by the memory of his long, full and inspiring life and so proud of his devotion to helping others as he sought to change the world for the better."

Born Anthony Neil Wedgwood Benn and entering Parliament aged just 25, Mr Benn subsequently renounced his peerage, which he inherited on his father's death, to remain in the House of Commons.

He served as an MP for more than 50 years, becoming secretary of state for industry in 1974 under Harold Wilson and going on to become secretary of state for energy, keeping his post when James Callaghan became PM in 1976.

But after the Labour government was ousted in 1979, he staged a bitterly divisive battle as the champion of the left with Denis Healey for the deputy leadership of the party.

He retired from Parliament in 2001, famously saying he wanted to "spend more time on politics".

Labour leader Ed Miliband led the tributes to an "iconic figure of our age".

"He will be remembered as a champion of the powerless, a great parliamentarian and a conviction politician," he said.

"Tony Benn spoke his mind and spoke up for his values. Whether you agreed with him or disagreed with him,

"I try to operate on two unconnected levels. One on the practical level of action in which I am extremely cautious and conservative. The second is the realm of ideas where I try to be very free" - Tony Benn, 1925-2014 everyone knew where he stood and what he stood for."

Mr Miliband revealed he paid a visit to Mr Benn in hospital recently, describing him as being "as sharp as ever in mind".

He said: "As I left he said to me 'Well, old son. Let's have a proper talk when you have more time'."

He added: "He believed in movements and mobilised people behind him for the causes he cared about, often unfashionable ones. In a world of politics that is often too small, he thought big about our country and our world.

"Above all, as I had cause to know, he was an incredibly kind man. I did work experience with him at the age of 16. I may have been just a teenager but he treated me as an equal.

"It was the nature of the man and the principle of his politics."

Prime Minister David Cameron said Mr Benn was "a magnificent writer, speaker, diarist and campaigner, with a strong record of public and political service".

"There was never a dull moment listening to him, even when you disagreed with everything he said."

Former Labour Prime Minister Tony Blair said: "Tony Benn was one of those rare things: a genuine radical for all his life. He was a fearless campaigner and a legendary figure for the Labour movement.

"Even when I disagreed with him, I always had enormous respect for his brilliance, his passion and his commitment to the people of Britain and of the world."

'Nuttiness'

But Joe Haines, who was chief press secretary to Harold Wilson in the 1970s, gave a more critical assessment of Mr Benn's political legacy.

"He did one great thing in his life: he changed the constitution of the House of Lords.

"Apart from that he symbolised the sort of left-wing nuttiness that nearly destroyed the Labour party in the late 1970s and early 1980s."

"Spring rush" propels home prices to new record high

BRITISH property prices rose to a new record high of nearly £256,000 in March amid a "spring seller rush".

The average asking price across England and Wales lifted by 1.6pc month-on-month to £255,962, surpassing a peak set last July by £2,304, according to leading UK property website Rightmove.

A new record was also set in London, where average asking prices have reached £552,530, which is £8,298 above the capital's previous high, reached last October.

Across England and Wales, sellers' asking prices are now 6.8pc or £16,251 higher than a year ago and in London they have seen annual growth of 11.3pc, according to the website, whose records go back to 2002. But Rightmove said that the South West and the South East, both affected by the recent severe flooding, "lag behind the spring seller rush".

The North was the only region where asking prices were down year-on-year, with a 0.3pc annual fall taking them to £145,861 on average, while sellers in Wales were asking 4.6pc more for their properties than a year ago, at around £171,359.

Royals plump for Spanish 'supernanny'

■ Prince George's new nanny named

■ Maria Teresa Turrion Borrallo knows martial arts AND stunt driving

■ William and Kate 'delighted' the Norland college grad has joined them

The new 'Spanish supernanny' hired by the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge to help them look after Prince George has been named as Maria Teresa Turrion Borrallo.

William and Kate are said to be 'delighted' that the full-time nanny has decided to join their royal household.

The couple's new employee will be joining them and their young son on their forthcoming tour of Australia and New Zealand - and she will have been specially trained in self defence as well as defensive and avoidance driving techniques.

A Kensington Palace spokesman said: 'Maria is a full-time nanny, who started work with us recently, and will be accompanying the Duke and Duchess and Prince George to New Zealand and Australia.

He added: 'We will not be giving further details on Maria or her employment, except to say that the Duke and Duchess are of course delighted she has chosen to join them.'

Ms Borrallo trained at the prestigious Norland College which has been producing childminders for the rich and famous since 1892.

The institution's students are known for their distinctive uniforms and are schooled in all aspects of looking after youngsters during their three-year degree course.

The training costs £36,000 in total and the college in Bath recently added martial arts training and stunt driving to its curriculum to cater for modern Nannies are also trained in how to deal with paparazzi and are taken to Castle Combe Racing Circuit in Wiltshire to perfect their driving skills and learn how to drive at high speed in any weather condition.

Driving away from pursuing photographers being the main reason for the training.

Ms Turrion Borrallo is from Spain and started working for the Cambridges a few weeks ago.

The nanny, thought to be in her mid-thirties, is believed to have worked for high-society families for two decades.

Before news was announced of Ms Borrallo's hiring, a friend of the, then unnamed nanny, told Hello! magazine: 'She has worked with other prominent high-society families in the past. 'It was from there that the Cambridges heard of her and hired her.

'She is not married and doesn't have a boyfriend as her life is totally dedicated to the family she is working with.

'She is known for being totally professional - married to the job.'

William and Kate have made clear they intend to be hands-on parents.

They have often enlisted the help of Kate's mother Carole Middleton, as well as occasionally employing William's former nanny Jessie Webb.

However, with their upcoming tour of Australia and New Zealand signalling the start of more frequent public engagements, sources claimed the royal couple were eager to secure a full time aide.

Clarissa Dickson Wright, TV's 'other' fat lady, dies at 66

Clarissa Dickson Wright, one half of TV cooking duo Two Fat Ladies with the late Jennifer Paterson, has died in Edinburgh aged 66.

The former barrister filmed four series of the globally-popular BBC Two programme before Paterson's death in 1999.

"Her fun and laughter, extraordinary learning and intelligence, will be missed always, by so many of us," said a statement from her agent.

Dickson Wright died on Saturday at Edinburgh's Royal Infirmary.

"Loved dearly by her friends and many fans all over the world, Clarissa was utterly non-PC and fought for what she believed in, always, with no thought to her own personal cost," said agent Heather Holden-Brown.

She and Paterson were brought together for Two Fat Ladies by TV director Patricia Llewellyn in 1996, during which they were often seen travelling the UK together in their motorbike and sidecar in search of good British grub.

battle with alcohol

Speaking on Desert Island Discs in 1999, following the death of her cooking partner Paterson from cancer, she said:

"She died magnificently, she was an example to all of us, if I can die that well I should be very happy."

During the same interview Dickson Wright also explained her "pathological" hatred of the humble carrot.

"My father used to pull them out of the ground and dust them off and feed them to me with the slugs on them so I think I got put off them. Now of course I would quite readily eat the slug but I still have this thing against the carrot," she said.

Dickson Wright's former career as a young barrister at Gray's Inn was brought to "an abrupt end" by her well-documented battle with alcohol, which she wrote about in her autobiography Spilling the Beans.

Her forthcoming birthday on 24 June would have marked her 27th anniversary of abstinence, a birthday her agent said "meant much more to her than another year on the clock".

During an interview with The Guardian in 2009, she said of her AA meetings: "You'd go there and you'd know they would be pleased to see you without wanting anything from you."

'very good cellar'

"And that you could talk about the stresses in your life. To me it's very important to go to AA. It helps with the serenity levels."

She added: "I don't mind people drinking. I keep a very good cellar for my friends in my house - it's only me who doesn't drink."

After leaving law, she worked as a cook at St James's club in the capital and in private houses before managing the Books for Cooks shop in London's Notting Hill, then the Cooks Book Shop in Edinburgh.

During her cooking career, Clarissa ran her own catering business, worked on a yacht in the Caribbean and served 60 meals a day at her London luncheon club.

She also became one of only two women in England to become a guild butcher.

She recently said: "I've had a fantastic life and I've done everything I could have wanted to do and more".

campaigner

Dickson Wright was also an outspoken campaigner for rural life and a keen supporter of the Countryside Alliance and after Paterson's death, she made the controversial series Clarissa and the Countryman, which ran until 2003.

During an interview with The Telegraph in 2012, to promote her book Clarissa's England, she accused the BBC of dropping her and the show because she went too far in praise of hunting, angering then-Prime Minister Tony Blair.

"Those were glorious years," she said of the time. "There we were, fighting the war against them on the same BBC that the leader considered his own personal mouthpiece."

When asked during an interview if she wished the show that propelled her to fame had been called something other than Two Fat Ladies, she replied "no".

"If you're fat you're fat. I hate this modern-day political correctness, that you don't call things by their proper name," she told The Guardian.

'Privileged upbringing'

She was christened Clarissa Theresa Philomena Aileen Mary Josephine Agnes Elsie

BRITISH ORIGINAL: Clarissa Dickson Wright (above) enjoyed a busy career on British TV after the death of Jennifer Paterson, her co-star on the iconic BBC 2 cooking show, Two Fat Ladies (below)

Trilby Louise Esmerelda Dickson Wright.

In her autobiography, she talked of "a well-to-do, privileged upbringing", that was overshadowed by her surgeon father's drinking.

"It was like having a wild animal in the house, never knowing when it is going to roar. The only time we felt safe was when my father was abroad or, in my case, when I was at boarding school," she wrote.

She never married but while working at St James Club met Clive, "the man I was to love more than any other in my life".

"Like me, Clive was a dedicated alcoholic," she wrote. He died in 1982 after his kidneys failed.

She has been declared bankrupt several times, having spent her £2.8 million inheritance on "drinking and debauchery".

"[It was] my own stupid fault. I've always been bad with finance," she told The Telegraph.

"It's from not having to worry about it. If you grow up with money, you never really learn that it doesn't grow on trees."

I'll be rich tomorrow, £108m lottery winner had told family

A LONDON car mechanic revealed on Tuesday he had predicted he would be a multi-millionaire "this time tomorrow" just hours before he won a £107.9 million lottery jackpot.

Neil Trotter, 41, (pictured, right) from Coulsdon in south London, said he had told staff at his father's office on the day of the Euromillions draw Friday that he was feeling lucky.

At around 10:30 pm that night, he went "white as a sheet" when he learned he was the single ticket holder to scoop the massive jackpot worth 128.8 million euros or $179.2 million.

'good feeling'

After becoming the fourth-biggest lottery winners in British history, Trotter and his partner Nicky Ottaway, 33, celebrated modestly with two bottles of beer.

Trotter now plans to give up work and indulge his passion for touring car racing. Ottaway resigned from her job on Tuesday.

At a press conference with her, Trotter said: "I've always thought I'd win big and I'd had a good feeling all week.

"On Friday evening we were sitting at home when I checked the time and thought the draw must have taken place by now.

"I took out my ticket to check the winning numbers and amazingly one by one they matched. I told Nicky, 'I've done it, I've won the lottery'.

"But she told me to shut up and to stop being an idiot.

"Apparently I turned white as a sheet and couldn't sit still, I kept walking round the house - I didn't know what to do with myself.

"I got her to check the numbers with me and she started screaming!"

He said his father initially accused him of being drunk when he told him.

uncomfortable

Trotter said the couple intended to start splashing their cash on a new house and cars.

They have been to look at new cars since the win, but their first foray into the world of the super-rich left them feeling uncomfortable.

"People give you the look as if you haven't got the money to buy them," he said.

His girlfriend said she had a similar experience when she enquired about a handbag.

"I just asked the sales guy how much it was. He said '£1,100' but he'd already turned his back and was walking away from us."

Asked if she thought the salesman regretted his actions now, Ottaway said: "I hope so, yeah!"

The mechanic, a keen amateur racing driver, said he now had the financial means to indulge in his hobby.

"I'm taking time off and going to really enjoy following the British Touring Car Championships," he said.

"It's my passion and I wouldn't mind a guest driver slot if I can find the right car," he said.

'I thought I was dreaming!' British Game of Thrones actress tells of Madonna asking to borrow her costume Emilia Clarke's Game Of Thrones impressive costume has been much replicated by fans.

But when Madonna decided to dress up as her character Daenerys Targaryen, she wanted the real deal.

The pop star contacted HBO, and asked to borrow Emilia's fantastic black leather corset and long dress.

'I thought I was dreaming,' the British actress told Jimmy Fallon on The Tonight Show.

And she explained: 'I got an email [from HBO's publicity department] asking "Madonna wants to borrow the costume is that ok?"

'I was like 'I must be dreaming.'

But she was not dreaming, and Madonna borrowed the outfit to wear over the Jewish festival of Purim.

Emilia was surprised when Fallon then revealed that he too was a Game Of Thrones fan - and jokingly shared a photo of himself dressed as Daenerys.

During their chat the Berkshire beauty also revealed that she had been in LA during this week's 4.4 earthquake.

Flash Gordon! Top chef cooks up local mini fun-run for Sport Relief

With the help of British Airways, Chef Gordon Ramsay brought Sport Relief to the tens of thousands of expats living in LA on Thursday when he led a 'Flash Gordon Mob' and combined it with a 'mini fun-run'.

Ramsay completed a 100-metre run in Santa Monica, alongside 35 volunteers - some dressed in chef whites, others in 'Flash Gordon' costumes for comedy value.

The event was hosted by British Airways to bring Sport Relief to the 350,000 Brits living in Los Angeles. The airline has raised more than £6.5 million through its 'Flying Start' partnership with Comic Relief.

Gordon Ramsay said: "There's so many British people living and working in LA, so it's great to be able to cook up some awareness for Flying Start and Sport Relief! I'm currently working here too, so it was nice to see so many Brits, as well as locals, coming along to show their support."

Fun runners included British Airways staff, as well as expats and 'Angelenos' invited through the 'Brits in LA' community, which the airline works closely with.

Volunteer runner Lizzie Herring, 26 from Surrey, said; "It was good fun and very much in keeping with the British and Sport Relief sense of humour, with some runners even dressed as Chef Ramsay! Gordon also took the time to give us some really useful running tips, which is rather handy since many of us are in marathon training."

As one of the UK's biggest fundraising events, Sport Relief encourages the public to get active and raise money to change lives. The airline's Flying Start partnership contributes towards this, helping children leading unimaginably difficult lives in the UK and around the world.

As well as collecting donations from customers on board British Airways flights, staff will also be volunteering at Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park for the Sport Relief weekend March 21-23, taking part in a 28-mile cycle ride around Loch Ness in Scotland and taking on the Three Peaks challenge in 24 hours, to name a few.

Classic British noirs coming to Egyptian Theatre

Two classic British black and white crime dramas can be seen this month in a double feature at the Egyptian Theatre in Hollywood on Wed. March 26th as part of the American Cinematheque's 16th Annual Festival of Film Noir.

It Always Rains on Sunday (1947), directed by Robert Hamer, stars Googie Withers (above, with real-life husband John McCallum) as a former barmaid and now overworked mum trying to make ends meet in London's depressed postwar East End. Her life turns upside down when he shelters a jailbird on the lam who just happens to be an old flame.

The second part of this absorbing double bill is Brighton Rock (1947, 92 minutes), directed by John Boulting, and starring Richard Attenborough in one of his most memorable performances as Pinkie, the young racetrack gangster whose murder of a gangland rival is complicated by a possible witness – a naïve young waitress named Rose who Pinkie then courts and marries. From the classic novel by Graham Greene.

It Always Rains on Sunday starts at 7.30, with Brighton Rock following immediately afterwards. The Egyptian Theatre is located at 6712 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, CA 90028. For details, visit www.americancinematheque.com

Busy month for British artists gigging in LA

SPRINGTIME is blooming in the City of the Angels and bringing with it some excellent live music from up-and-coming (and established) musicians, with a bumper crop of talent from across the pond playing locally over the next few weeks.

British trip-hop trio London Grammar come to the El Rey Theatre on March 25th. Comprising Hannah Reid, Dan Rothman and Dominic 'Dot' Major, who met at Nottingham University, London Grammar's music has been described as "a blend of ambient, ethereal and classical sounds" with "melancholy guitar, soaring vocals and plaintive lyrics."

Also in town next week are the young Irish four-piece rock & roll band The Strypes, who hail from Cavan. The band's music owes much to 60s blues and 70s pub rock bands with more than a hint of The Stones, Dr Feelgood and Eddie and Hot Rods in their music. The Strypes perform Monday, March 31st at the El Rey Theatre.

Four days later (April 4th) the same venue hosts Dan Croll, the Newcastle-born singer-songwriter who moved to Liverpool when he was 18 to attend the Liverpool Institute for Performing Arts (LIPA). While at LIPA, he won the national Songwriter of the Year award from the Musicians Benevolent Fund.

If Indie/alternative music is your thing, check out the London-based Fanfarlo at the Troubadour in West Hollywood on March 25th. And finally for die-hard rockers, there's always those icons of heavy metal, Motorhead, performing at Club Nokia on April 11th.

Not quite music but definitely in the category of interesting British performance artist, Stephen Merchant, longtime collaborator with Ricky Gervais and recently creator and star of his own HBO Show, Hello Ladies, will be in conversation with Jeff Karlin (best known for playing Larry David's hapless agent in Curb Your Enthusiasm) at the Largo at the Coronet on Wed. March 26th. Tickets priced at $30.

Ireland's Masters of Tradition hit Royce Hall Sunday, March 30

LOCAL IRISH music fans wanting to keep the St. Patrick's Day craic going a little longer will not want to miss the Masters of Tradition performances scheduled for March 30th at UCLA's Royce Hall.

Masters of Tradition is the brainchild of artistic director and fiddler Martin Hayes, who has gathered seven of the best modern exponents of Irish folk music and named their ensemble after the music festival he devised of the same name held each August in the Irish coastal town of Bantry, in County Cork.

This Royce Hall debut will include performances of solos, duets, trios, and full-group collaborations, offering insight into the musical journeys that these performers—and the masterful, iconic music they play—have taken over the years.

Starting off the evening performance is local Irish Set Dancing (Céilí Dance) teacher Caitríona Weafer, in a free, come-one-come-all workshop starting at 5:45 p.m. on the Royce Terrace. Céilí or Set Dancing is Irish Folk Dancing for social enjoyment that is usually structured around facing pairs of lines.

General tickets ($15-$45) are available at cap.ucla.edu, all Ticketmaster outlets, by phone at 310.825.2101 or in person at the UCLA Central Ticket Office located in the southwest corner of the James West Alumni Center.

Meet a Member: Jake Thornton

Meet Brits in LA member Jake Thornton from London who moved to LA seven years ago to pursue the bright lights of Hollywood. He just sold his feature script Winters Knight for ONE MILLION DOLLARS!

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?
I had been touring the world as an actor in the Tom Waits/William Burroughs Musical The Black Rider. In 2006 the show played at the Ahmanson Theater in LA, and I just got the LA bug. I loved the lifestyle, the sun, the sea and the dangling carrot that is the film industry. It feels like the creative hub for the world, and one that has big dollar signs attached to it if you succeed. While I moved out here to become an actor, I found my writing eventually becoming more important and that is what has ultimately given me success.

What one thing do you miss from home?

Walks in Richmond Park on a warm summer's evening.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus the UK?
In the entertainment industry in the UK, people always say no. But no doesn't always mean no. In LA, people always say yes. But yes doesn't always mean yes....

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?
Sweet Lady Jane on Melrose and La Cienega for tea and cake. It's divine.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?
Don't move here just for the entertainment industry. It can take a long time to get things going here. Move here because you love LA. That way, if your career doesn't

LOOKING LIKE A MILLION DOLLARS: Brits in LA member Jake Thornton

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: In any relationship situation please keep a handle on that famous Ram temper as it will cause more problems especially since your boss Mars is strolling backwards and could rebound on you. Happy Birthday!

TAURUS: Your priority should be taking care of you in any area that requires attention and start with what you know is well overdue. On the upside you can expect a call from a past interesting source so be ready.

GEMINI: The sun in Aries can bring out a very creative side of you and it also favors getting a handle on any unfinished business that is causing you some emotional upset. If you feel you need to make a move in this direction, it will be easier as the week proceeds.

CANCER: You will have to be aware this next week to not speak out of turn or harshly to anyone. The consequences are long reaching for you, especially if it's a close friend or family. It's best to say nothing at all right now.

LEO: Yes this is a time for the inner crank to show itself for some of you who are not participating in life as you know you can. The sun in your cousin sign of Aries, added with unpredictable Uranus, can set things in motion.

VIRGO: It's time for a trip as you will benefit from the change of scenery. Just when you think you are about over something up it pops again. This is called unfinished business and it won't leave until it is done.

LIBRA: The sun is your opposite sign of Aries will be ready to help you spring clean these next couple of weeks. Also affecting you is Uranus, he is in a feisty mood and this along with Mars can set your temper off. Best to get to the spring cleaning to use up the energy.

SCORPIO: Life is about to heat up as the sun and Mars your boss in Libra strolling backwards start the spring off in a cheeky way. If you are looking for love it's nearer to you than you think so don't be seen out looking less than your best.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss Jupiter is sitting in your area of emotions so be good as he will be watching you and hoping you won't let that temper take over your mind set. However all is not totally lost as the sun in your cousin sign Aries smiles at you.

CAPRICORN: Mercury moving in a positive way this week will assist you to get the job done. This month there is a great opportunity to decide on a long overdue decision in any area. In the meantime be seen out and about looking your best.

AQUARIUS: You are probably feeling like a break away even though it seems impossible to make the decision now. A walk on the beach or in nature can even out your mood. This does not have to be so overwhelming. You have to be able to ask for assistance.

PISCES: Your recent birthday has made you more aware on what is not accomplished or unfinished in your life. Therefore if you are feeling blue be ready and willing to reach out to someone who needs your help .This is a good time for you to look at what is good in your life.

Everything I ever needed to know...Pythons' legacy continues

■ Exclusive interview with authors Brian Cogan and Jeff Massey, a review of their new book about the broad social impact of the Pythons

Rating: ★★★

“As I recall, I was walking past a fruit stand and had just come off a binge watching Python and was thinking, hmmm, I’m getting a lot more of the jokes than I did when I was 13,” says Everything I Ever Needed to Know About co-author Brian Cogan, Ph.D.

“I actually discovered some new Python, including the German episodes, which I somehow had never actually seen...although I somehow knew many of the sketches,” says co-author Jeff Massey, Ph.D. “I also found out that my wife, Kristin, had never seen much Python...and yet she seems to understand me. No idea how that works, really.”

Monty Python’s Flying Circus ran on the BBC from 1969 to 1974, producing just forty-five episodes. The Pythons often linked different sketches together, juxtaposing them like thoughts in someone’s brain. They would take on history, sports and other subjects and by taking them too seriously make them into something that would make people laugh. Forty-five years later the popularity of their humor is in no danger of abating, is multi-generational and worldwide. The hit play Spamalot is based on a Monty Python sketch.

Authors Brian Cogan and Jeff Massey wanted to explore the impact of Monty Python in the areas of art, history, literature politic and religion that made up almost every sketch. They challenged what people thought, yet made them laugh at the same time. Cogan and Massey share lessons they learned and pose a theory of the Pythons. There were many inside jokes to the show. This book is a treat for fans and an introduction for those new to Monty Python.

Cogan says they did much of their writing and research took place at Massey’s home under the eye of his pregnant wife Kristen. “I never knew how tolerant Kristen was until we spent a whole day watching Python, taking notes, drinking beer and eating pizza,” says Cogan. “Kristen came home to find us sitting on the floor - in the TV room, mind you - she was great with child at that point, and asked us, ‘Have you two spent all day watching Python, eating pizza and drinking beer?’ We looked at each other, nodded the affirmative in our stupor, and she said, ‘Well, okay then, carry on.’”

Massey is a professor of English at Molloy College. He’s the vice president of Mearstapa (the society for the scholarly study of Medieval monsters), the co-editor of Heads Will Roll!: Decapitation in the Medieval and Early Modern Imagination, and the author of many academic articles about Thomas Hardy, Chaucer and Beowulf. He has a book chapter on Star Trek and Neo-medievalism to be published later this year. He’s currently scripting for Zenescope Entertainment a few comic books, what he describes as weird takes on L. Frank Baum’s Land of Oz.

Cogan is an associate professor and chair of the Department of Communication at Molloy College. He’s the author of The Encyclopedia of Punk (Sterling 2008) and has written numerous articles on punk rock, comic books, and the intersection of politics and popular culture. He’s written, co-written or edited eight books including his first novel Our Beloved Revolutionary Sweetheart

LL and Orlando: Leg-over-Lass?

Earlier this month a list of famous names that scandal-struck star Lindsay Lohan had allegedly bedded was revealed.... And now it looks as if poor old British actor Orlando Bloom is being dragged into this sleazy tabloid scoop... Cheers, Lindz!

The handwritten account was blurred on some of the names for legal reasons, mainly because many of them were not single at that time of courtship with the lovely (messy) Miss Lohan... Oo-er!

Would you believe, that some of the 36 names were immediately released, however, Daily News' Confidential column found out about the censored ones and have just made them public...

And it seems that the slip of paper that made global headlines exposing Lindsay's lovers isn't going away anytime soon - now, more A-list names are being exposed. Stars including Ashton Kutcher and Ryan Phillippe are among the newly-heard names in addition to actor Benicio Del Toro and Greek shipping heir Stavros Niarchos (that'll piss off Paris) and Maggio Cipriani were named.

Bloom wasn't the only Brit being named either, former rugby player Danny Cipriani (Kelly Brook's ex) is also on the list...

"It was her personal conquest list," the source, who reportedly watched Lohan write it, told In Touch. "Lindsay loves being linked to good-looking, famous, successful men."

La Lohan allegedly penned the list while hanging out with girlfriends in late January at the Beverly Hills Hotel and then tossed the paper aside. "They were giggling and (trash talking) about people in the industry," the source said.

Of course we have no idea if there's any truth behind this list of romps... Or if Orlando was WITH his baby-mom, supermodel Miranda Kerr at the time of the alleged rendezvous. But, I will definitely keep you updated if more Brit celebs appear!

Step on it! Victoria works out in high heels

I'm sure Mel C aka "Sporty Spice" is shaking her head after seeing this picture of her former band-mate Victoria Beckham strutting her stuff on a treadmill, in, ahem, a pair of sky-high stilettos!

Oh dear, that girl will do anything for a bit of attention...

"Every office should have one of these," the ex-Spice Girl tweeted. "Work out and work at the same time!! Genius!!"

She didn't however, share tips on how she kept her balance in those insanely high heels, but Beckham did look every the fashion icon she has become wearing a head-to-toe black outfit...

The British fashion designer then lifts her hands in a typing motion on the "desk" portion of the treadmill-desk as she thanked Conde Nast College head Susie Forbes for allowing her to test it out.

Hmm, this just might catch on...

The mom of four was at the school on Wednesday to speak to design students and tweeted about her "inspiring afternoon". Just last month, the power player visited Parsons School of Design in NYC and told the crowd that the next step in her design career was to start a shoe line.

"If anybody here is a shoe designer, please do come and see me!" she told Parsons students.

Indeed, Beckham loves her high heels! Back in 2008, Beckham gave an interview to Elle magazine, who witnessed the designer deliberating over which pair to pick from her extensive collection. "I don't want anything middle-of-the-road," she told the mag as she chose a pair of crazy heels.

Even son, Romeo Beckham thinks his mom has gone a bit to far in those shoes... "What d'you think, Romeo?" Mrs. B asked her son. "Mummy," he said. "Those shoes are crazy!"

Out of the mouth of babes...I am inclined to agree with the little tyke!

New pounds, Mother's Day, and the importance of numbers...

The British budget was announced this week, making it rather apt that this month seems to be all about numbers. 4.4 being the one us locals were talking about at 6.25 am last Monday morning!

Fortunately the earthquake caused no major damage, but served as a not-so-gentle reminder to be prepared. I recently stocked up on a few emergency supplies - water purifying tablets being at the top of my list. Check out website ready.gov which will help you get a little organized for the big one.

And speaking of numbers: MH370 is the number that is on the whole world's mind. Here's hoping that by the time this newspaper goes to print the missing plane has been found. I find it so hard to fathom that a 777 can just vanish - let's hope for the worried families' sakes that this gets resolved quickly, one way or another.

On a lighter note, March 30th is Mothers Day in the UK - we have partnered up with Dean Morris Cards who are offering 15% off for Brits in LA members. Visit us on Facebook for all the details. We will be marking the occasion with a Sunday Roast at Palihouse, so feel free to join us! moonpig.com is another great card site, especially last minute - you can even design your own and have it shipped directly to your Mum. They start at about $5, which is a great deal when you factor in the price of postage. Moonpig has certainly helped get me brownie points with my Mum in the past!

Now for a bigger number....$1 million dollars is the sum of the deal Jake Thornton and his writing partner Ben Lustig managed to negotiate with Sony for their Winter's Knight script. Jake has been a Brits in LA member almost since we started, so we are all particularly proud and pleased for his 'overnight' success (which took seven years!). Make sure to pop over to our "Meet A Member" section as he is this week's participant. Drop us a line at info@britsin.la if you want to nominate someone to be our featured 'Meet A Member' or maybe you fancy having a go yourself?

Tax time

April 15th is the deadline for individual tax returns - if you aren't ready don't forget to file an extension, this gives you an extra six months to prepare.

6800 is the number of Brits in LA members we have reached this week! Thank you all for making our group such a bustling and useful community for so many. Don't forget, you don't have to be British you just have to like us! If you find your request to join is taking a long time to process, please drop us a line and give us a nudge.

Back to the budget that George Osborne announced this week; thankfully he had the sense not to raise fuel tax this year as it already seems rather extortionate. It seems they are scrapping the £1 coin (which has been in circulation since 1983!) and introducing a 12-sided replacement (see Osborne's tweet, pictured above), So make sure you spend all those loose pounds before 2017, or perhaps send them all to your mother?

My lucky number is 8, although I am quite partial to 13 too - what's yours and why? Tweet us at @BritsinLA or get in touch with me directly @Eileenies!

Cheers!
Eileen

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF TINA LALVANI LAUTO aka TINA LAUTO
Case No. BP147441
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of TINA LALVANI LAUTO aka TINA LAUTO
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Mirando Lauto in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Mirando Lauto be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on March 27, 2014 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 9 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF GAYLE A. LUCKY
Case No. BP149770
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of GAYLE A. LUCKY

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Colleen M. Evers in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Colleen M. Evers be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on April 3, 2014 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 9 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site <http://altisource.com/resware/TrusteeServicesSearch.aspx> using the file number assigned to this case 2013-27162. Spurs crash out despite late rally

Tottenham exited the Europa League on Thursday despite staging a second-half fightback against Benfica that put them close to taking the tie to extra time.

Leading 3-1 from the first leg at White Hart Lane, Benfica star Ezequiel Garay headed in to put the hosts 4-1 up on aggregate and they looked to be cruising until Nacer Chadli scored twice in a minute late on.

Spurs almost grabbed another as Gylfi Sigurdsson’s injury-time header was saved, but Benfica made it 2-2 on the night and 5-3 overall when Lima scored from the penalty spot.

Having been outclassed in the first leg of the last-16 tie and looking weary in Lisbon, Tottenham’s late surge almost inflicted Benfica’s first defeat in 23 games in all competitions.

But Sandro’s barge on Lima gifted the hosts a chance to level the scores and the Brazilian substitute sent Brad Friedel the wrong way with the last kick of the game.

Despite the aggregate defeat, Tottenham at least showed the character that boss Tim Sherwood desired prior to kick-off.

With late chances for Sigurdsson and substitute Harry Kane, who also had a penalty appeal turned down, Spurs could have taken victory but they will look back on their 3-1 first-leg defeat as the reason for their exit.

British number one Andy Murray says he will find it “very hard” to find a new coach who is as talented as Ivan Lendl.

The defending Wimbledon champion and his Czech mentor announced their mutual decision on Wednesday to end their partnership after more than two years.

“Ivan’s a very hard person to replace,” said the 26-year-old Scot. “You don’t replace his sort of experience easily.”

Under eight-time Grand Slam champion Lendl, Murray won the 2012 US Open, an Olympic gold and Wimbledon last year.

Blues:

Mourinho said: “All the big candidates to win the competition. Welcome to any one of them. We wait for the draw. It doesn’t matter who.”

The Portuguese boss, who is seeking a third Champions League with a different club having won the title with Porto and Inter Milan, said prior to the game at Stamford Bridge that Drogba was still world class.

But the 36-year-old struggled on his return to west London as Eto’o eclipsed the Ivorian.

Mourinho blamed Drogba’s low-key display on the rest of the team.

“I think the most difficult thing him was the way his team played,” said the Blues boss.

“If you are a striker and the team is not there playing behind you, then you are a lonely man. It has happened to every striker in the world and tonight it happened to Didier.”

Chelsea boss Jose Mourinho has been charged with improper conduct after being sent off during his side’s 1-0 defeat by Aston Villa last Saturday.

Mourinho walked onto the pitch to speak to referee Chris Foy after Chelsea midfielder Ramires was shown a red card late in the game.

Another Blues player, Willian, had also been dismissed earlier in the match.

Mourinho has until 18:00 GMT on Monday, 24 March, to respond to the Football Association charge.

United back from the dead!

■ Olympiakos win can be turning point, says Moyes after pulsating European night at Old Trafford

Manchester United boss David Moyes hopes his side's dramatic Champions League win over Olympiakos can be a turning point in their disappointing season.

Robin van Persie's hat-trick Wednesday night overturned a 2-0 deficit from the first leg to send United into the quarter-finals.

"I don't want to come out and say: 'This is the moment'," said Moyes. "But I hope it is."

Defender Patrice Evra added: "Everyone thought we were out, but we showed Manchester United are still alive."

Moyes, who has been under growing pressure following Sunday's 3-0 home defeat by Liverpool, said he still needed time to make his mark on the club.

"This is a work in progress and it will take time to get it as we really want it," said the Scot, whose team lie seventh in the Premier League table.

"It is a big job. I have got a lot of things I want to do, but the players gave the crowd something after we lost to Liverpool and we are delighted to see Manchester United in the last eight of the Champions League."

Moyes also insisted he was not feeling any pressure from inside the club, claiming it was all coming from the media.

"There are stories of this player falling out, or that one falling out, but it is rubbish," he said.

"People are looking for reasons why we are not doing well and it is only because we have not been playing well."

Although Van Persie scored the goals before going off on a stretcher with a knee injury, Moyes praised the contribution of recalled 40-year-old Ryan Giggs, who had a hand in the first two goals.

"Ryan's passing was fantastic," said Moyes. "His overall play was really good and he defies his age."

"He has not played much recently, but I felt, tactically, I needed him to play a certain role. He carried it out perfectly." Moyes does not think

HERO: Robin Van Persie scored a hat-trick for United Wednesday night

Van Persie's injury is serious and was the Champions League who are capable of it and Robin van Persie is one of them. "To score a hat-trick in is a big thing," he said. "There are only certain of them."

Mourinho: Blues are back where we belong

Chelsea boss Jose Mourinho said his team returned to their rightful place in Europe after reaching the Champions League quarter-finals.

The Blues beat Galatasaray 2-0 at Stamford Bridge on Tuesday night to win the tie 3-1.

But they became the first side to crash out at the group stage last season, having won the title the previous term.

"We are a Champions League club and now we are among the best eight, the best clubs in the world," said Mourinho. "The players deserve to be there."

After dropping out of last season's Champions League, Chelsea went on to win the Europa League and are now on course to win their third consecutive European trophy after first-half goals from Samuel Eto'o and Gary Cahill helped them cruise past a lacklustre Galatasaray side.

Mourinho added: "To come from the Europa League to the quarter-finals of the Champions League is important for the club, important for the players."

Prior to the last-16 draw, Mourinho expressed a desire to play Galatasaray so he could come up against former Blues striker Didier Drogba, but he has no preferences for Friday's quarter-final draw.

Chelsea could face Barcelona, Real Madrid, Pep Guardiola's Bayern Munich and Atletico Madrid, while Mourinho has not yet ruled Manchester United out of contention.
