GERRY ADAMS HE OVER 1972 KILLING

- Sinn Fein leader questioned over murder of mother-of-ten
- Jean McConville abducted and murdered by Provisional IRA and secretly buried
- Witnesses claimed she had gone to the aid of a wounded British soldier

Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams was sensationally arrested this week over the murder of a widowed mother of ten who was abducted from her home during the Troubles more than 40 years ago.

The 65-year-old, who for decades has dodged difficult questions about his alleged terrorist past, was detained overnight by investigating the murder McConville of Jean McConville abducted and killed by the Provisional IRA in 1972 and later buried on a beach in the Republic of Ireland.

She is one of Northern Ireland's Disappeared who those were abducted, murdered and secretly buried by republicans during the Troubles.

'malicious allegations'

Witnesses to her abduction claimed she had gone to the aid of a wounded British soldier, shot by the IRA.

His arrest – confirmed by police and Sinn Fein – could jeopardize peace in Ulster, with hardline

Republicans said to be already plotting major atrocities.

Adams has always denied any involvement detectives in the murder of Mrs speculation is mounting House of Commons that prosecutors were considering charging him in connection with her death.

> In a statement following his arrest, Adams again rejected what he called the 'malicious allegations' that he was responsible for her murder.

'While I have never disassociated myself from the IRA and I never will, I am innocent of any part in the abduction, killing or burial of Mrs and made by IRA McConville,' he added.

Adams was first interned in 1972 - the year Mrs McConville was murdered - for being an alleged member of the IRA. He was again interned in 1973 at Long Kesh, and later, in 1976.

In 1983 he was elected President of Sinn Fein and became the first Sinn but Fein MP elected to the since the mid-1950s.

> Mrs McConville was taken from her home in December 1972 by 12 IRA gunmen, both men and women.

> She was driven across the border with southern Ireland by Dolours Price, who is now dead. It was her death last year which led the Northern Ireland Police Service recordings - so-called oral histories - stored at Boston College in the US members.

public until each interviewee had died.

But the FBI, on behalf of the Police Service of Northern Ireland (PSNI), last year applied to US courts to have the tapes handed over.

In a series of interviews, conducted at her home in Malahide, Dublin, Price readily admitted she had been the person 'ordered' to drive Mrs McConville to meet her fateful end.

Price was part of a small, select unit of IRA members within the three battalions that made up the Belfast Brigade in the 1970s.

Old Bailey

The group of eight hand-picked volunteers were nicknamed 'the Unknowns' and responsible for 'special operations', including internal investigations to weed out suspected informers. Their methods were often brutal.

Price said of her part in the abduction of Mrs McConville: 'I drove Jean McConville, a very, very unpleasant person. I know I shouldn't speak ill of the dead and I don't think she deserved to die, and at the time, I didn't know she had children.'

The IRA woman - who was also convicted of leading the bombing of the Old Bailey in 1973 - said she had received her orders from Adams, who was then her IRA commander.

secret locations

The IRA admitted in 1999 that it murdered and buried at secret locations nine of the Disappeared.

The Independent Commission for the Location of Victims' Remains was established in 1999 by a treaty between the British and Irish governments.

It lists 16 people as 'disappeared'.

Despite extensive searches, the remains of seven of them have not been found. Adams, now a Sinn Fein member of the southern Irish parliament, is an Irish MP for Louth. He has always denied being a member of the IRA.

"I know who murdered my mother, but I'm too scared to tell the police...."

The son of Jean McConville, who was murdered by the IRA, says he knows who took his mother and has seen the men in the street but will never tell anyone their names because he or his family will be shot.

Michael McConville was just 11 when his mother was dragged from their Belfast home in 1972 as he and his nine brothers and sisters fearfully clung onto her.

A week later he was taken himself, bound to a chair, had a gun held to his head and was threatened with being shot if he spoke about the IRA. He says he never did.

Mrs McConville's body was not found until 30 years later, but her son said he knew she had been killed and who some of the men who took her were but had never told anyone their identities.

"I never told anyone who I saw. I still haven't," he told BBC Radio 4's Today programme.

"I haven't told the police. If I told the police now me or one of my family members or one of my children would get shot.

"Everyone thinks this has gone away. But it hasn't."

Mr McConville said he saw who some of the men who took his mother were because some did not have masks on, and that he had seen them in the street on several occasions.

He said he and his siblings – including his

Following the arrest of Gerry Adams, Jean McConville's son Michael says he sees his mother's killers in the street but is too scared to give the police their identities twin brothers who were six at the time – had never spoken about who the people were or what happened.

He added: "It's terrible from my point of view and my family's point of view, we know these people and we can't bring them to justice."

Mrs McConville, 37, was dragged from her west Belfast home in Divis in 1972 and was known as one of the 'Disappeared', her body being found on a beach in August 2003.

"I knew my mother was dead about two weeks later when an IRA man came and left her purse and wedding rings at the house," Mr McConville added.

He said he and his siblings had clung onto their mother as the IRA gang barged into their home and abducted her, as she had previously been taken and was "in an awful state" after suffering a beating.

"Me and all my brothers and sisters were very distressed at the fact that these people had come again to do this to our mother when we saw the cuts and bruises my mother had from before," he said.

He said when he saw the people who took his mother his 'blood boils' but he hoped people understood why he could not tell anyone, even the police, their names.

He added: "I have a very young family and I do not want anything to happen to them."

A 'truly gigantic talent'

■ Stars pay tribute as actor Bob Hoskins dies at 71

ACTOR Bob Hoskins passed away this week at the age of 71.

The BAFTA and Golden Globe winning actor died "peacefully" in hospital Tuesday night surrounded by his family, his agent Clair Dobb revealed.

Mr Hoskins had retired from acting in August 2012 after being diagnosed with Parkinson's disease.

A family statement said: "We are devastated by the loss of our beloved Bob.

"Bob died peacefully at hospital last night surrounded by family, following a bout of pneumonia.

"We ask that you respect our privacy during this time and thank you for your messages of love and support."

Mr Hoskins starred in several classics of modern cinema including Who Framed Roger Rabbit, The Long Good Friday, Mona Lisa and opposite singer Cher in Mermaids.

He was also the face of the iconic BT "It's good to talk" adverts, which ran in the late Eighties and early Nineties.

He is survived by his wife Linda Banwell and his four children Alex, Sarah, Rosa and Jack.

People flocked to Twitter after the death of Mr Hoskins with 'RIP Bob Hoskins' soon trending on the site.

'terrible loss'

Actor, writer and comedian Stephen Fry was among the first to pay tribute to the actor.

He tweeted: "Oh no, Bob Hoskins. Gone? That's awful news. The Long Good Friday one of the best British movies of the modern era. A marvellous man." Hollywood actor James Woods, who starred with Hoskins in the 1995 drama Nixon, mourned his death by celebrating the Briton's acting talents.

He tweeted: "Oh man, what a terrible loss. A great guy and a superb artist."

Fellow Hollywood legend Samuel L Jackson spoke of his sadness at the news, writing: "Truly saddened by the passing of Bob Hoskins! A truly Gigantic talent & a Gentleman. R.I.P."

'darling Dad'

Actor Paddy Considine also posted: "RIP Bob Hoskins. The man made some classics".

Writing on her website, Bob Hoskins' 30-year-old actress daughter said: "My darling Dad has died. I loved him to the ends of the earth and he loved me back just the same.

Mr Hoskins, who was born in Suffolk, grew up in London and left school aged 15 with just a single O-Level before working a series of odd jobs.

As he worked as a porter, lorry driver and window cleaner he dreamed of acting and claimed he got his big break by accident.

Mr Hoskins said he was mistakenly called for a theatre audition, but proved to be a natural and stage success led him into TV and small roles on films.

His breakthrough came in 1978 when he starred in Dennis Potter's 1978 series Pennies From Heaven as lovelorn salesman Arthur Parker.

But it was his portrayal of London gangster Harold Shand in The Long Good Friday made him into a film star and garnered widespread attention in Hollywood.

He followed that up with roles in Mona Lisa, which also starred Michael Caine, and The Cotton Club.

'best job in the world'

Mr Hoskins also appeared in the 1991 hit Hook but another of his films, Super Mario Bros, was panned by critics.

He later expressed his regret for starring in the 1993 film of the Nintendo video game and described it as the "worst thing" he ever did.

His most recent film

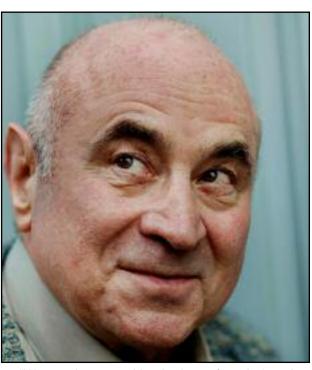

COCKNEY CAGNEY: Bob Hoskins came to Hollywood's attention in 1980 with his riveting performance as gangster Harold Shand in The Long Good Friday was Snow White and the Huntsman, which was released in 2012 and also starred Twilight actress Kristen Stewart.

Mr Hoskins announced his retirement from what he described as a "wonderful career" in August 2012 and said he was looking forward to spending time his family.

He famous said of his line of work: "Acting is the best job in the world... Look at the way they treat you when you turn up for work. They give you breakfast and a cup of tea and ask, 'Are you all right?' They tart up your face, you say somebody else's words, then pick up your cheque and go home. And you get days off! I tell you, it really is the way to live."

He was married to Linda for more than 30 years. The couple had children Jack, 28, and Rosa, 31 together.

Heroin involved in Peaches Geldof death, inquest hears

Heroin is likely to have contributed to the death of writer, model and TV presenter Peaches Geldof, an inquest has heard.

The 25-year-old was found slumped across a bed in a spare bedroom by her husband Tom Cohen on Monday, April

The musician had arrived at their home in Wrotham, Kent, with his mother, and thought Peaches was asleep.

He found their 11 - m o n t h - o l d son Phaedra, who Peaches had been looking after, and called to his mother to ring emergency services.

The inquest Gravesend, Kent, also heard Peaches' father Sir Bob Geldof formally identified her body.

Chief Detective Inspector Fotheringham said post-mortem examination was inconclusive, prompting further tests.

But he told the 10-minute hearing: "Forensic samples have been examined and results concluded there was recent use of heroin and that the levels identified were likely to have played a role in her death."

He said Mr Cohen, 23, went with his two sons to spend the weekend at his parents' house south-east London.

"This is a normal which occurrence enables Peaches and Thomas to complete work in their respective careers," he said.

"Peaches maintained contact with family and friends throughout Sunday and at 5pm Thomas's father Keith Cohen took the youngest child, Phaedra, back to Wrotham and spent half an hour with Peaches before leaving the child with her."

The last contact with Peaches is believed to have been at 7.45pm on the Sunday when she telephone had a conversation with a friend.

"There was no cause for concern."

Mr Cohen tried to contact his wife on Monday morning and then drove to the family home with his mother, Sue, and 23-month-old son Astala, arriving at around 1.30pm.

"Thomas entered the property and located Peaches in the spare bedroom, DCI Fotheringham said.

The hearing was adjourned until July 23, when a fuller inquest will take place.

Teacher stabbed in classroom: 15-year-old charged with murder

A 15-year-old boy has appeared in court charged with murder of a teacher who was stabbed to death in front of her pupils at a school in Leeds.

Ann Maguire, 61, was attacked in a classroom Corpus Christi Catholic College, Halton Moor, on Monday.

Members of her family were in court to see the boy, who cannot be named, remanded in custody to appear by video-link at Leeds Crown Court on Friday.

In a statement, Mrs Maguire's family described her as "a shining light".

'devastated'

Every seat was taken in Court 20 at Leeds Youth Court.

In court were the of parents 15-year-old boy accused of Ann Maguire's murder, to whom he nodded as he walked in.

Also in court was Mrs Maguire's husband who stared intently at the youth - and her daughters and a nephew.

The boy said, "yeah" four times in reply to questions asked.

'SHINING LIGHT": Mrs Maguire had taught Spanish at at Corpus Christi Catholic College for more than 40 years

Leeds Crown Court on Friday.

Mrs Maguire, who taught Spanish, had worked at Corpus Christi Catholic College for more than 40 years and was due to retire September.

In a statement issued by West Yorkshire Police, her family said they were devastated at the death of "a loving wife, the best mother, a treasured sister, a true friend".

"She brightened the world for so many of us. Her selfless, genuine, caring nature will remain with us eternally."

Family members said they were overwhelmed by the support, sympathy and tributes they had received, which were "a source of great comfort at this dark time".

The statement added: "Ann, we will love you always, your loving family."

She joined Corpus Christi, a 950-pupil college in the Halton Moor area of Leeds, as a student teacher and last the school celebrated her 40th year of service.

Mrs Maguire lived in Moortown, Leeds, with her husband, Donald. The couple had two daughters, Emma and Kerry.

She also raised her nephews Andrew and Daniel following the death from cancer of her sister, Eileen Poole, when the boys were young.

Hundreds of floral tributes have been laid outside the school by current and former pupils since Monday.

A book of condolence was also opened at the church that adjoins the school.

The Pope, Prime Minister David Cameron and opposition leader Ed Miliband have each paid tribute to Mrs Maguire.

Prince Harry and Cressida Bonas split in 'row over £650 air fare'

■ Cressida Bonas did not want to spend so much money if her troubled relationship with Prince Harry was doomed, close friends disclose

BRITONS hoping for a second royal marriage anytime soon had their hopes dashed this week with the news that Prince Harry had split from longtime girlfriend Cressida Bonas.

The pair called it quits quite suddenly on Sunday after a heated argument prompted by, of all things, concerns over money, close friends have disclosed.

The couple had been due to fly to America together to attend the wedding of the Prince's friend Guy Pelly on Saturday, but Miss Bonas had to pay for her own £650 air fare and did not want to spend so much money if their troubled relationship was doomed. She chose to grasp the nettle and confront the Prince over their future, which resulted in a "bit of a bust-up" and the decision to go their separate ways.

Friends suggested that the pair "might both regret it" and could get back together at a later date. However, Miss Bonas, 25, was said to have been unhappy for some time, partly because of the strain of being in the public eye and partly because the dance graduate was feeling "frustrated and unfulfilled" at her inability to pursue a career on the stage while dating the Prince.

While the Prince can look forward drowning his sorrows in Memphis, Miss Bonas went straight back to the grind Wednesday, heading off to work in Soho. Miss Bonas, who works in marketing, trudged along the pavement with her hands in her pockets and with her bootlaces undone.

A friend said

SPLITSVILLE: Before Sunday's bust--up, Cressida and Harry had been scheduled to fly to Memphis for the wedding of Harry's close friend Guy Pelly

"Cressida was due to go to the wedding but she was paying for her own ticket, and she could only just afford it. She has never complained about paying her own way, though she has been hard pushed to do so.

"The widespread opinion that she is a wealthy heiress is complete rubbish, so it was quite a stretch to go to Guy Pelly's wedding. Guy is not a close friend of hers so there would have been no point in going if she and Harry were splitting up."

financial support

The Prince and Miss Bonas would both have flown economy class - as they did when they visited Africa together last year and when they flew easyJet to go skiing - because the Prince has to keep down the cost of air fares for his bodyguards when he travels privately.

Miss Bonas, who earns around £20,000 and prefers not to rely on financial support from her parents, does not have the sort of money at her disposal to keep up with her boyfriend. A friend said: "The media has frequently commented on her dress style but it's very difficult to turn up at so many occasions when you are expected to wear something different each time."

'frustrated'

Friends made clear that while the timing of the row may have been prompted by the imminent trip to the US, the row itself was not about the air fare, but was about the couple's long-term future and Miss Bonas's increasing unhappiness.

Miss Bonas, who studied dance at Leeds University and at the Laban Conservatoire in London, has never been able to reconcile the knowledge that she would have to choose between Prince Harry and her aspirations of a career on the stage.

She felt "frustrated and unfulfilled", friends said, "but she never got cross about it". Even more problematic was her inability to go anywhere without being photographed by members of the public with camera phones.

"The mobile camera phone menace has become a nightmare for her," said a friend. "Everyone has a mobile phone – imagine how you would feel if every time you stepped out of your door ordinary people started pointing mobile phone cameras at you."

Friends said the couple have "paused for a breather", suggesting that they could yet get back together. Before they met in 2012 the Prince, 29, spoke about the difficulty of finding anyone willing to take on the role of being his princess-in-waiting.

"He will miss her and I think she will miss him," said a friend. "But if it is going to end then it is better that it ends now rather than after a marriage. I am sure Cressida will be OK, but Harry may have problems. Cressida has calmed him down a lot over the last two years."

Clarkson begs forgiveness in racism row

Jeremy Clarkson has said he was "horrified" that it sounded as though he used racist language while filming a Top Gear episode.

The presenter this week appeared in a video posted on Twitter where he responded to claims he used the n-word while reciting a nursery rhyme "a couple of years ago".

A solemn-looking Clarkson said he had made every effort to make sure he did not use the slur, but realised it might have sounded as though he had.

He said when reciting the rhyme Eeny, Meeny, Miny Moe..., he "mumbled where the offensive word would normally occur" in two takes, and used the word "teacher" in its place in a third.

He said he had seen the footage several weeks later.

And, referring to one of the "mumbled versions", he added: "If you listen very carefully with the sound turned right up, it did appear I actually used the word I was trying to obscure."

Clarkson went on: "I was mortified by this, horrified. It is a word I loathe.

"I did everything in my power to make sure that that version did not appear in the programme that was transmitted."

Clarkson said he sent a note to the production office at the time, asking if there was another take that could be used.

He told his Twitter followers: "Please be assured I did everything in my power to not use that word."

The presenter continued: "And as I'm sitting here begging your forgiveness for the fact that obviously my efforts weren't quite good enough."

The segment was later edited out of the BBC broadcast.

Earlier on Thursday, Clarkson tweeted: "I did not use the n-word. Never use it. The Mirror has gone way too far this time", referring to allegations in the newspaper.

His co-host, James May, came to his defence on Twitter, saying: "Jeremy Clarkson is not a racist.

"He is a monumental bellend and many other things, but not a racist."

News from Britain Camilla weeps at brother's funeral

Comforted by her husband Prince Charles, Camilla, the Duchess of Cornwall, led mourners Thursday at the funeral of her brother Mark Shand.

The 62-year-old conservationist and travel writer died after falling and hitting his head on the pavement outside the Gramercy Park Hotel in New York on April 22, after attending a charity auction.

His death left Camilla, wife of the heir to the British throne, "utterly devastated", spokesman for Clarence House said.

Around 180 people attended Shand's funeral at the Holy Trinity Church in Stourpaine, a village Dorset, southwest England, where the family live.

Mourners included Conservative MPs Nicholas Soames and Zac Goldsmith.

The duchess's younger brother was known for dedication protecting the endangered Asian elephant. He founded the conservation charity Elephant Family.

Shand leaves behind a 19-year-old daughter, Ayesha, by his former wife Clio Goldsmith, the French former actress. The teenager paid a personal tribute at the funeral service.

Shand's nephew Ben Elliot read from his uncle's book, "Travels On My Elephant".

The musician Yusuf Islam, formerly Cat Stevens, flew in from the United States to perform an acoustic version of his hit "Wild World".

The conservationist's wicker coffin, garlanded by flowers, was carried out of the church to "Colonel Hathi's March (The Elephant Song)" from the 1967 animated film "The Jungle Book".

25 years on; Paxman to quit Newsnight

WHAT A SWELL PARTY: John Hiscock and Phil Elwell downed a pint and shared some memories

Friends old and new gather to toast 40 glorious years of Ye Olde King's Head

Old friends and Kings Head regulars gathered in Santa Monica last Wednesday to celebrate the 40th birthday of Ye Olde King's Head.

Several of those in attendance dated their patronage of the pub back to 1974, when founders Phil and Ruth Elwell transformed a dive bar called the Brass Bell in what was then a seedy stretch of Santa Monica, into what was to become perhaps the most famous British pub in the USA.

Phil and Ruth were on hand, visiting from their home in Palm Springs to help celebrate landmark date, and they were joined by longtime patrons including John and Linda Hiscock, Steve and Beverly Mills, Michael Reidy, Nicola Bryan, the BW's own Anne Shaw and the Union indefatigable columnist Leo Lewis, who told us all about his "BritWeekend" extravaganza in the Channel Islands Harbor as part of the BritWeek celebrations. Many pints were sunk, many old memories revisited, many absent friends toasted.

THE WAY THEY WERE: Phil and Ruth Elwell shortly after opening Ye Olde King's Head in 1974

"Nothing's changed," marvelled Phil. "Tonight it's just the same as it always was. But Santa Monica - that's really changed. Now it's a big, busy city. It used to be a village."

All in all a great night in a great British LA institution.

■ Ex-United boss flees the fallout following sacking

FOR DAVID MOYES, the outlook has been rather gloomy of late.

The storm clouds which hung over his tenure at Manchester United for much of the season broke to devastating effect late last month, when he was fired amid a deluge of criticism from public and press alike.

So it was no surprise when the Scotsman bagged his bags and jetted off to a sunny locale for some much needed R&R, arriving at Miami international airport this week after reportedly finalizing a £7m pay-off from the Premier league club.

A statement for the

'A settlement agreement is in the process of being finalised. No further comment will be made in relation to this issue.'

Moyes was later spotted having a relaxed al fresco dinner with his wife, Pamela and spent several days relaxing on the beach and taking the occasional dip in the Atlantic.

But whether Moyes will be quite so keen to dip his toe back in managerial waters remains to be seen...

Meet Brits in LA Lizzie Worsdell from Oxfordshire who moved to LA 6 years ago to pursue acting.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

I always wanted to study in America after being obsessed with

BABC to host event on Global Technology Transactions

THE BABC Transatlantic Law Council Program will host a new event on Thursday, May 22nd at the Law Offices of Polsinelli in Century City entitled: Technology Transactions: International Landscape, Maximizing Your Global Technology Transactions.

This event will review how businesses in the global economy protect, commercialize maximize the value of their IP assets. Also discussed with be issues including technology transfers, software development agreements, joint development joint agreements, ventures, outsourcing and patent, technology and brand licensing. The event kicks off at 6-6.30pm with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, followed by the program 6.30-7.30pm. from Networking reception to follow until 8.30pm.

The Law Offices of Polsinelli are located at 2049 Century Park East, Suite 2300. Hosted valet self-parking available at 2049 Century Park East.

Then when I visited LA I fell in love with it and decided to research drama schools here. Auditioned and got in.

What one thing do you miss from home?

Can I have more than one? Going to Old Trafford! Robinson's squash and a good roast!

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus the UK?

The biggest thing obviously is the weather. You really take for granted the fact that it is sunny and warm here every day. But after that it's the lifestyle, I think LA living is just so much easier than London. The laid-back attitude and driving in the sunshine to work rather than sitting under the armpit an overweight businessman on the tube

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us? There's this amazing little sushi place on living here as a kid. Vermont called Starfish and also a great Thai place on Hollywood/La Brea called Pink Pepper.

> What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here? I think it's very different now from when I first moved over but I think you should definitely make sure you're prepared both financially and emotionally. It truly can be the city of dreams at times but there can also be difficult moments. Make sure you're prepared for the highs and lows. And make sure you get all your visa stuff sorted early because that can be a bit of a nightmare! I personally recommend Next Stop LAX. I am mates with the guys who run it but would recommend them anyway!

Lastly, how can we find you on the Internet?

Solution to Puzzle #112

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: In any relationship situation please keep a handle on that famous Ram temper as it will cause more problems, especially since your boss Mars is going backwards in the partnership area and any aggravation will rebound on you! TAURUS: Your priority should be taking care of YOU in any area that requires attention and start with what you know is well overdue. On the upside you can expect a call from a love interest so be ready. Happy Birthday

GEMINI: If you feel you need to, make more strides in life in whatever area you have been neglecting. You are not moving too fast no matter how hard you try, until mid-June so take everything in life as it comes and stay cool.

CANCER: You are always the sign that holds onto feelings good and bad and also material things. This is the time to clear out unwanted stuff in both areas and move forward lighter.

LEO: Yes, this is a time for the inner crank to show itself for some of you who are not participating in life as you know you can. The sun in Taurus the bull will help you slow down and take life a bit slower and discover peace.

VIRGO: It's time for a trip, and short or long, near or far matters not as you benefit from the change of scenery. Just make sure you have caught up with whatever is unfinished and not everything does!

LIBRA: Mars, the planet of fire, has been sitting in your life recently but soon he will be stirring things up more than ever by May 15th. So if you have something thing you need to be working on, get going now.

SCORPIO: Jupiter the luck bringer will be blessing you lots in the coming weeks as he sits in your cousin sign of Cancer. This is your house of good luck financially so let's get ready to receive. A person of interest romantically could turn up.

SAGITTARIUS: Just watch that temper if things don't always go the way you planned, life is an adventure and you need to remember that child-like quality which is so unique to you. You may be going slower than you like as your boss Jupiter is swimming in water now.

CAPRICORN: This could be the month that it all comes together or goes out the window...it is entirely up to you how you make it work. Oh, and listening to your inner voice is the clue. You have the sun in an Earth sign, Taurus, which will benefit you overall.

AQUARIUS: You will always get back what you put out and just be careful you don't say too much to another that can really blow your plans. It's best to keep your thoughts or judgments to yourself. You have many good points that others seem not to notice, but they will soon.

PISCES: You are reputed to be the most romantic soul of all the signs and this week proves it, if not to another, then to yourself. Your ruler Neptune can bring up a lot of dormant stuff in your life while he is in your life so be ready.

Unleashing Mr. Darcy: Must Love Dogs meets Pride and Prejudice

■ Exclusive interview with Teri Wilson and a review of her new novel, another Austen reboot....

Rating: ★★★

"For over a year, I wrote the book in my head," says Unleashing Mr author Darcy Teri Wilson. "I would imagine snippets of conversations between Elizabeth and Mr. Darcy and dream up all sorts of trouble for them to get into. I went on a trip to London and the idea for the book simply sprang to life. I found I couldn't let the concept go. I had to get it down on paper."

Unleashing Mr. Darcy is Pride and Prejudice with dogs. If you appreciate reboots of Austen classics, such as

The Jane Austen Book Club, you'll Unleashing Mr. Darcy. Some of the dialog from both the book and the Jane Austen movies is in Wilson's novel, which follows the original's plot points pretty closely. This novel is a light and easy reading, but the conflict is not as strong as die-hard Austen readers may expect. Fun, but no surprises. The show dog world gives a unique setting to the story.

Darcy, Elizabeth Scott is a teacher. She sees no need of a husband. She only needs her work as teacher at a private school in New York and her dog Bliss. A crisis at school makes her want to do something new and since she's always wanted to work with dogs she gets a job in England caring for show dogs. Elizabeth even hopes to enter her own dog Bliss into the shows. Donovan Darcy is a wealthy breeder and a show judge. dog Elizabeth and Donovan clash, but a difference of opinion leads attraction on both sides.

"I am a big Jane Austen fan," says Wilson. "I love her books, as well as all the modern adaptations of her novels. I also love dogs. When my dogs were a bit younger, I showed them

In Unleashing Mr. in dog shows, and that's when I first had the idea for Unleashing Mr. Darcy. I used to be so nervous when I stepped into the dog show ring. I could just imagine myself as liss. A crisis at school lakes her want to do omething new and since in dog shows, and that's when I first had the idea for Unleashing Mr. Darcy. I used to be so nervous when I stepped into the dog show ring. I could just imagine myself as Elizabeth showing under an intimidating judge like Mr. Darcy."

"I read Pride & Prejudice dozens of times...One of the fun things about writing retellings of classics is sneaking in bits and pieces of the original language. Reading the book will be like an Easter egg hunt for those familiar with Austen's original."

Wilson wrote a series of Alaskan romances for Harlequin's Love Inspired line: Alaskan Hearts (June 2012), Alaskan Hero (May 2013) and Sleigh Bell Sweethearts (November 2013). She's won the San Antonio Romance Authors Merritt Contest Grand Prize, the EPIC E book award for Excellence in Inspirational Romance and the Pet Sitters International Humor Writing Award. "The first writing award I ever won was the Westminster Kennel Club Angel on a Leash Writing Award in 2006," says Wilson, "which was great fun because I traveled to New York to accept the award and attend the famed Westminster Kennel Club dog show."

Unleashing Mr. Darcy is the first in a three-book series of trade paperbacks for HQN that are fun, modern retellings of classic romances. The second, Unmasking Juliet, will be released in May 2014. Wilson is currently working on the third book, Unschooling

BY Gabrielle Pantera

Professor Higgins, a retelling of Pygmalion with an artsy twist.

Wilson has lived in Texas since childhood. She was born in Phoenix, Arizona.

Mel B's Spiced Up for £1million X Factor (UK) Judge Spot!

Ex-Spice Girl Mel B, aka Scary Spice is back in the X Factor (UK) rumor mill today, with reports suggesting she's to a sign a big-money deal worth up $1.5 million to become the elusive fourth judge on the hit telly talent show.

Show boss Simon Cowell, is willing to break the bank to secure Mel's place on the panel in time for auditions starting in June. Singer Mel had in-depth talks with execs at ITV last week and last-minute details about her contract are now being agreed.

The move will see her join Simon, Louis Walsh, and Cheryl Cole on the talent show, which returns to British screens in the summer.

A source close to Louis has revealed that Mel is due to sign on the dotted line any day now. The insider added: "It's pretty much a done deal. And Simon thinks Mel will be perfect for the show

"Fine details such as her expenses budget and filming dates need to be agreed. Other than that, she's ready to go."

The returning judges are after all bound to give a chunk of airtime to their public falling out over Cole's sharp shift from the X Factor (US). Mel has a reputation for being a "feisty spice" that has insiders banking on her being good TV.

A no-nonsense referee on the panel could be just what the show needs. One well-placed source told me, "Mel could easily steal Simon's 'Mr. Nasty' crown... She'll be known as Mrs. Nasty the minute she hit the screens."

An X Factor spokesman said final decisions on the judging line-up were still being made.

Good luck Mel... You were excellent on America's Got Talent... This job has your "Scary" name stamped all over it!

Meet Kimberley Garner, Hollywood's new Br-It-Girl!

What was meant to be a brief holiday to the US with her BFF has turned out to be a fun-filled tour of the Hollywood's red carpet scene for Made In Chelsea star Kimberley Garner.

For those not in the know, Made in Chelsea is a popular British reality TV show featuring the lives and loves of well-heeled young things gadding about on the King's Road, Sloane Square and other Chelsea locales, as well as filming their exotic jaunts to Dubai, Paris, and St. Tropez to name just three.

The Chelsea girl channeled her inner LA fashionista while hitting the celeb-zone in Hollywood last week when she attended the opening night for Britweek, where she rubbed shoulders with some of LA's elite Brits.

The fun didn't stop there though, since then, sexy Kimberley has pretty much launched a campaign to make a name for herself in Tinseltown and so far, she's doing a pretty good job, I reckon.

This week, the vivacious blonde – who runs her own swimwear company in England, attended the screening of Amanda Eliasch's film The Gun the Cake and the Butterfly at the Arclight in Hollywood on Monday night.

Kimberley seemed to have a lot of energy as she posed alongside the docudrama's writer and director Eliasch, who uses various actresses, including Justine Glenton, as her alter egos to tell the story, which is a glimpse of her remarkable life.

Garner gave the stylish experimental portrait of Eliasch – who is a successful f a s h i o n editor/poet/writer/ artist - a big thumbs up at the event's after-party.

The screening was put on as part of BritWeek, a non-profit organisation co-founded by former Pop Idol judge Nigel Lythgoe to highlight the creative fusion between the UK and LA.

POSH FROCKS: Kimberley Garner and Amanda Eliasch

It looks as if Garner's publicity crusade is working in her favor; the young blonde is currently putting together plans to launch her already popular swimwear collection, Stateside...

Kimberley told British Weekly: "I've wanted to design swimwear since I was young girl, this has always been my dream.

"I brought my collection out last year and I was amazed by the reception, so about 8 months ago, I started designing the new collection. I wanted it be more intricately designed, more detailed."

Just what Hollywood needed...another successful Brit in LA!

A different kind of 'sterling' welcome

Los Angeles has many facets; some amazing, some mediocre and some ever so horrid.

However a whole new side was revealed to me this week with the revelations about LA Clippers' owner. Donald Sterling's ignorant and hurtful comments really upset me. I am aware racism exists, and - believe it or not - I have been on the receiving end of it several times, but this story made me very sad. Mainly because Sterling chose to work with people he obviously detests, plus the fact he lives only a few miles away from us.

I do remember moving to LA (in 1997) and being a confused and uncomfortable even, at how segregated it is. Especially compared to my hometown of London. As time has gone by I have started to understand how places like Little Armenia Koreatown have evolved. LA is definitely an immigrant city, and when you are far away from home one does get an urge to be around people of the same ilk.

Some might suppose that Brits in LA has created a similar kind environment, however, they would be wrong! We are fortunate enough to be of the most multicultural social Southern groups in California; we are a great mix of colours and nationalities, ranging from British (obviously!) Irish, Swedish to Australian to Indian to West Indian, to French, German, African, Vietnamese, Chinese, Americans and lots of others in-between. I think the group's common bond is that we are all seeking out like-minded (and open-minded) people. We don't discriminate on age or sexuality either - after a while one starts to think this is the general consensus. This can be quite a dangerous bubble, as when you step outside and see what's going on in the rest of the town, or in fact the entire country, you get a bit of a shock. Hence my surprise at Mr vulgar Sterling's comments.

Moz and Hollywood

I had a whole different column written out for this week, but these headlines in the news compelled me to express my disgust on this topic. I wanted to make it clear that at Brits in LA we welcome and embrace Just everyone. morning I received an email asking "is it ok to bring an American to breakfast", and in case you were wondering, my reply was "Yes of course, bring two if you like"!

Which leads me on to the straw that caused my sudden theme change for this week. I attended Kevin Cummins' photo exhibit on Wednesday. Kevin (we are on first name terms since meeting at the Glenfiddich tasting hails Manchester and is known for his rock photography; he spent 10 years as the chief photographer at NME and has shot everyone from Mick Jagger to Ian Curtis and David Bowie. His current show is entitled 'Moz Goes to Hollywood: Photographs of The Smiths and Morrissey by Kevin Cummins', available for your viewing pleasure at Mr Musichead (7511 Sunset Blvd) from May 3rd - May 14th. Pictures of Morrissey are what prompted me to speak my mind. The former Smiths frontman is probably one of the most controversial British people living in LA and he speaks out on any issue that disturbs him, like it or lump it. At the same time he appears to me to be one of the most open-minded and accepting role models I have come across. I attended a concert of his not so long ago, and was surprised at his huge Latino fan base Morrissey wasn't. He had gone out of his way to learn a bit of Spanish so he could communicate with his adoring fans! I don't always agree with his opinions and occasionally find them ridiculous, but the positive side is that, in America we are still allowed freedom of speech - which may be Donald Sterling's lucky break. I say never trust a man named after a duck!

Make a change...

If you want to make a change in our society you can start off by registering to vote (then actually voting!) as long as you are a citizen! Deadlines for the Primary Elections are: to register to vote: May 19th; Last day to apply to vote by mail: May 27th; Election Day: June 3rd. So go on, make a difference!

That's all for this week, but make sure to visit our website for all upcoming Brits in LA events. Including our World Cup Viewing Party Schedule! We also have a weekly Breakfast Club, Bingo Pub Quiz and a Sunday Roast! Come one, come all, whoever you are!

Cheers! Eileen

decision over current caretaker manager Ryan Giggs.

The former Ajax, Barcelona and Bayern Munich boss will have up to £150million to spend this summer on re-establishing United as title contenders and guiding them back into the Champions League.

Former Holland striker Kluivert, whose previous clubs include Ajax, Barcelona, AC Milan and Newcastle, turned down a move to United in 1998, with Sir Alex Ferguson accusing him of underestimating the size of the club.

Ferguson instead signed Dwight Yorke, who helped United to the Treble that season. Kluivert joined Barcelona, where he spent six years, winning one league title.

Wayne Rooney missed training on Thursday with a stomach bug and could be out when Sunderland visit United on Saturday.

The England striker felt unwell and Giggs told him to stay away to avoid passing it on to his team-mates.

Everton boss Roberto Martinez says his side want to beat Manchester City to strengthen their European hopes rather than do Liverpool a title favour.

City will secure the Premier League if they win their remaining three

But a slip at Goodison Park on Saturday will hand the initiative back to Everton's city rivals Liverpool, who play at Crystal Palace Monday.

"Helping other teams is not the way we do things," added Martinez. "We focus on trying to win for ourselves."

Everton, who start the penultimate weekend of the season fifth in the table, still have mathematical chance of securing a top-four finish and a qualifying spot in next season's Champions League.

Arsenal are currently fourth, four points above the Toffees, who still need points to be certain of a Europa League spot.

Liverpool lead the table but need a favour from their neighbours as City, three points behind and with a superior goal difference, have a game in hand.

Terry: tears before bedtime

■ Simeone looks special as Atletico end Blues' Champions League dream

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE CHELSEA.....1 ATLETICO MAD.....3 (agg: 1-3)

Chelsea captain John Terry was reduced to tears as he suffered more Champions League heartache on Wednesday.

Atletico Madrid set up a final mouthwatering against city rivals Real with an excellent 3-1 win at Stamford Bridge.

At 1-1, Atletico keeper Thibaut Courtois — on loan from Chelsea made a fine save to deny Terry's powerful header and with the visitors' next attack, Samuel Eto'o fouled Diego Costa to concede a penalty which the striker converted.

Chelsea boss Jose Mourinho said the game hinged on that whirlwind passage of play.

'The difference was one minute in the second half. Atletico's where goalkeeper makes impossible save instead of 2-1 to Chelsea a few seconds later a penalty, which I'm happy people tell me was a penalty.

'And they scored to go 2-1 up. In one minute, two actions decided the game. After that, there was only one team on the pitch. My team played with pride, honour professionalism, but after that moment the game was controlled by Atletico. Complete control.'

Terry was crying after the final whistle, moments that echoed his tears Chelsea's following penalty shoot-out defeat against Manchester United in the 2008 Champions League final in which the defender missed from the spot. He also missed Chelsea's 2012 triumph through suspension.

At the age of 33, it was

TERRY: the Chelsea and England stalwart was comforted by Atletico players following the final whistle perhaps the last chance the skipper will have to in another Champions League final.

The result means Chelsea are likely to finish the season without a trophy. But Mourinho defended the campaign, Louis van Gaal is set to confirmed Manchester United boss next week – with Patrick Kluivert his No.2.

The Holland coach (pictured, right) will succeed David Moyes, who was axed 10 days ago by the Old Trafford giants, and understood to have agreed a two-year deal with the option of a further 12 months.

Several news sources have reported that United chiefs sounded out Van Gaal about taking the reins at Old Trafford back on April 12th when they lost faith in Moyes.

The Reds are poised announce his appointment after their final home game of the season against Hull on Tuesday, leaving Van Gaal free to focus on Holland's World Cup campaign.

The squad meets for its first training camp on Wednesday and he wanted his future resolved by then to ensure there were no distractions in Brazil.

Unconfirmed reports from Holland suggest Kluivert, Van Gaal's assistant in international team, had agreed to join him at Old Trafford.

Van Gaal is also expected to bring a backroom staff, including goalkeeping coach Frans Hoek, physio Jos van Dijk and video analyst Max Reckers.
