UK closes last Afghan base

Britain has closed its last remaining forward base to be used by UK troops in Afghanistan.

The shutdown of Observation Post Sterga means that the only UK troops still in Helmand are at Camp Bastion, which is due to close at the end of the year, and at locations in Kandahar and Kabul.

Defence Secretary Philip Hammond, who was in Afghanistan this week to mark the latest milestone in the drawdown of UK forces, spoke to soldiers from the 4th Battalion Royal Regiment of Scotland (4 SCOTS) who had been living and working at Sterga.

'sacrifice'

He said: "The closure of our last base outside Camp Bastion is another important step towards ending combat operations in Afghanistan.

"It is also an opportunity to reflect on the mission and the hard work and sacrifice of British Forces. Their efforts have helped build a credible Afghan National Security Force of and supported the erga emergence of a UK democratic Afghan and state."

vital assistance

Sterga opened in August 2013 to enable UK personnel to observe a large and strategically important area of central Helmand. Troops based there provided vital assistance in covering UK and US base closures and gave Afghan and coalition personnel a fuller understanding of insurgent activity.

Most of the personnel based at Sterga were from the 4th Battalion 4 SCOTS with specialist capabilities provided by other units such as 5 Regiment Royal Artillery, 32 Regiment Royal Artillery, 3 Royal Horse Artillery and 14 Signals Regiment. At its peak the base was home to 180 people although by its closure this had reduced to about 90 personnel.

ped build Commanding officer
Afghan Lt Col James Roddis
ity Force said: "Providing a secure environment for the redeployment of a base is vital to ensure the safety and protection of our personnel and equipment. The soldiers of the cross-coalition cap-badged multi Manoeuvre Battle Group, led by 4 SCOTS, have once again shown their ability and competence in making sure the personnel and equipment from Sterga could return safely back to Camp Bastion.

'handover'

"Alongside coalition partners we also oversaw and provided security for the closure of Laskhar Gah Durai and FOB Price in March earlier this year. As the last Scottish Infantry Battalion in Afghanistan it has been a challenging and rewarding job being part of the drawdown of British Bases Helmand and the handover of lead security responsibilities to the Afghan Security

News of the World royal editor: I hacked Kate Middleton 155 times

■ Clive Goodman tells phone-hacking trial he himself intercepted princes' voicemails, but has never been asked about it by police

Kate Middleton was hacked 155 times by a reporter on the News of the World who said he snooped on her voicemails on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, the Old Bailey has heard.

Clive Goodman, the paper's former royal editor, also revealed for the first time he directly hacked the phone of Prince William, adding that police had failed to ask him a single question about it in the eight years since he was arrested on related

He told jurors he hacked Prince William 35 times, Prince Harry nine times and the Duchess Cambridge 155 times.

'never been asked'

Goodman said he had not been asked about this by the police or any other authority when he was arrested on related charges in 2006 or any time since.

"I've never been asked before. The Metropolitan police, Crown Prosecution Service did not ask me these questions in 2006 and 2007. I've never been asked by any inquiry any time about this," he said.

Goodman also said of Glenn Mulcaire, who was also arrested in 2006 for hacking members of the royal household: "Virtually every story in the paper was revealed to have taken place at the end of January

Goodman told jurors: "I'm really not the slightest bit proud of this. I don't want anyone to think I'm not ashamed."

He said he was being as "honest and open" as he could be on the subject. "My entire life has been exposed. I've never been asked these questions ... Anyone who wants to ask me questions, they will get straight answers as indeed you are getting today."

He told jurors that Middleton, who was dating Prince William, back in 2005 was a "figure of increasing importance around the royal family. There were discussions of her and Prince William marrying, moving in, settling down. She had started receiving royal status around the royal family."

I'm really not the slightest bit proud of this. I don't want anyone to think I'm not Langdale put it to him that "one of the things you must have been worried about more than anything else in 2006" was that it would be discovered he was hacking Princes William and Harry and Kate Middleton.

He denied this and said his biggest fear was that he would have to carry the can for all the activities of Mulcaire who was arrested and jailed along with Goodman in January 2007 hacking-related for offences

"I was terrified of the whole thing. I was more frightened being blamed for Glenn Mulcaire's hacking," he Jurors have previously heard that Kate Middleton and Prince Harry had been hacked.

They have also seen emails relating to alleged hacks of Prince William when he was at Sandhurst in 2006, but Goodman's evidence on Wednesday is the first time it has been admitted.

The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge have known each other since 2001 when they met at St Andrew's University and were exposed newspapers as a couple in Goodman was jailed in 2005 after admitting being involved in the hacking of three royal aides, Prince Charles's communication secretary Harverson, the prince's aide, Helen Asprey, and Jamie Lowther-Pinkerton, private secretary to Princes William and Harry.

The trial continues.

Rolf Harris trial: Woman describes 'dirty old man'

■ Alleged victim claims entertainer molested her when she was seven or eight years old

Rolf Harris's youngest alleged victim told jurors he was a "dirty old man" who assaulted her "out of nowhere".

The woman said she was seven or eight years old when the entertainer molested her while signing autographs at a community centre near Portsmouth.

She broke into tears as she told the court she was scared and wanted to scream out during the incident, which happened between 1968 and 1970.

Mr Harris, 84, denies 12 counts of indecent assault between 1968 and 1986.

His alleged victims were aged between seven or eight and 19 when the offences are said to have taken place.

'Out of body'

The woman, who cannot be named and is the earliest alleged victim, broke down as she gave evidence from behind a screen.

She told Southwark Crown Court she thought the incident might have been an accident but he touched her again "aggressively".

She told the jury of six men and six women that when she reached the front of the queue of autograph hunters, Mr Harris touched her inappropriately with his "big hairy hands".

She said: "It didn't matter if it was going to hurt me or not. It felt very aggressive and I knew that it wasn't an accident.

"There was a moment when I was out of my body and I just wanted to get away."

Mr Harris, pictured here in 1971, denies 12 counts of indecent assault between 1968 and 1986

She also described the moment she wanted to scream out "what are you doing?" but said she was unable to do so.

She said: "I didn't know how to put it into words. He scared me because he was looking at me all the time.

'embarrassed'

"His eyes were fixed and I kind of backed away, and I sat on a chair trying to process what was going on and looking at him carrying on as if nothing had happened."

Another alleged victim told the court that Mr Harris put his arm around her and squeezed her bottom several times with a "very firm" grip.

The 52-year-old, who was 13 or 14 at the time and working as a waitress at a marquee in Cambridge, said: "I was too young to understand, but it was basically like groping.

"I was completely frozen... I knew it was wrong... I couldn't move... I was extremely embarrassed."

Asked if she was sure that it was Mr Harris who groped her, the woman said in a trembling voice: "It was Rolf Harris without a doubt and I cannot bear seeing any image of him"

The woman, who stopped giving evidence at one point when a juror was thought to have fallen asleep, said she wanted to pretend the incident, in 1975 or 1976, had not happened.

She said she and her colleagues had been inside the marquee but went outside when they heard animal noises.

'Barking at dog'

Mr Harris, she said, was "on all fours" barking at a terrier-type dog.

"They were barking at each other," she said.

"There was a small semi-circle of people around him laughing and Rolf Harris was playing up to the crowd."

She said she was "awestruck" at seeing the celebrity, whom she said she recognised "instantly".

"It was quite a funny scene to behold," she said.

Describing the moment she was allegedly groped, the woman told the court: "I can't remember the exact words but he made some motion to me 'come up', and I can see it in my mind's eye as clear as if it was happening now.

"He came up and put his arm around my left shoulder. It was quite a firm hold. I just stood there. I couldn't believe what was going on, this famous person putting his arm around me.

"To start it was a very nervous but a good feeling, however his hand then moved and his hand went up and down my back and his hand went over my bottom and it was very firm."

The trial continues.

TAUNTING: this was the license plate which focused the police's attention on car theft boss Shanwaz Khan

Mastermind of car theft racket caught - after taunting police with 'S20LUN' number plate

The 'brazen' mastermind of a multi-million pound car theft gang has been jailed after he was caught taunting police with a 'S20LUN' personalized number plate.

Shanwaz Khan, 30, shamelessly drove his blue £55,000 Audi RS4 with the bragging registration plate after leading a car theft racket in Birmingham.

But his efforts only succeeded in getting him noticed by police who decided to track his car and found it among a convoy of stolen Mercerdes in March 2012.

On October 15, 2012 officers raided his home and lock-ups across Birmingham and found an 'Aladdin's cave' of chopped up car parts stolen from across the city.

A court heard in total police linked Khan to more than 80 vehicle thefts and violent carjackings during 2012 - valued at £1.1 million.

Khan admitted conspiracy to commit burglary and handle stolen goods and at Birmingham Crown Court on Friday and was jailed for seven years.

Along with his brother Wajid Khan, 24 cousin Seyed Khan, 32, and fellow conspirators Ross and Matthew Dunham the gang stole vehicles from driveways and car-jacked other victims.

A court heard upwards of 3,000 parts stripped from the cars were sold on to unwitting internet buyers via an eBay account operated by the Khans.

Wajid Khan and Seyed Khan, both from Birmingham, admitted conspiracy to handle stolen goods and were both sentenced to 30

Cameron to Scotland: let's stay together....

GLASGOW: Prime Minister David Cameron urged Scots on Thursday to stay in the United Kingdom during an unusual two-day visit to Scotland to counter a rise in support for secession in opinion polls and criticism of the anti-independence campaign.

Cameron has so far taken a low-profile role in the increasingly heated debate about independence that will be decided at a Sept. 18 referendum, aware he has limited appeal in Scotland where the Tories are unpopular.

But as nationalists gain ground on pro-UK supporters in polls, more heavyweight politicians are joining the cross-party fight against independence, arguing the union of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland stronger together.

A survey this week found the gap between the two sides had narrowed to a new low of 9 percentage points from 22 points last September among Scots certain to vote, and 53 percent of voters described the anti-independence campaign as negative.

Visiting Walcheren
Barracks in Glasgow,
Cameron said he was
"heartened" to see so many people find a voice in the debate over whether Scotland should end its 307-year tie to England and stressed the union was better together.

"We want Scotland to stay. We are all enriched by being together. Scotland puts the 'great' into Great Britain. Together we are a United Kingdom with a united future," Cameron said in a statement.

Cameron received scathing criticism after his last trip to Scotland in February when he flew in for a few hours to visit an oil rig and lead a cabinet meeting in Aberdeen and left.

blame

This did little to bolster the image of the Conservative party which holds only one of 59 Scottish seats at Westminister, prompting frequent jokes there are more giant pandas in Scotland - two at Edinburgh zoo - than Conservative MPs.

Aware of his status in Scotland, Cameron recently made it clear he would not quit as prime minister or Conservative leader if Scotland voted to break away, which was seen as a bid to deter Scots from voting for independence to punish him or his party.

Cameron is likely to face most of the blame if Scotland does leave the union as he approved the referendum in 2012 when there seemed no chance of a vote for independence.

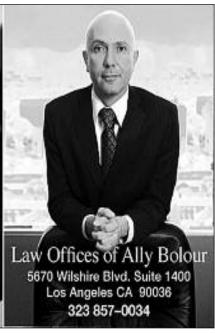

First Minister Alex Salmond, head of the Scottish National Party (SNP) that won a landslide victory in the 2011 Scottish parliament elections, said Cameron had negligible support in Scotland and his party would never represent Scots.

months behind bars.

Ross, 21, and Matthew Dunham, 24, Coventry, West Mids, were jailed for five years months 39 and respectively.

After the Detective Constable Mo from West Azir. Midlands Police, said: 'We meticulously pieced together their network of premises and, when officers raided one unit in Aston, we found an Aladdin's cave of stolen cars and parts.

'complete disregard'

'Many of these were high-value luxury cars that had been brutishly 'chopped' up, whilst another premises in the city centre was used exclusively to store engines ripped from the stolen cars.

'The scale of their criminal operation was vast and they showed a complete disregard to the trail of destruction and misery left behind to victims of these offences.

'The brazen attitude of Shanwaz Khan was typified personalised number plate; this was a clear jibe at the authorities and he believed underground theft racket going unnoticed.

'The joke is on him now, though, as he starts a long prison term.'

The gang were linked to 82 vehicle thefts during 2012 all but 17 in the West Midlands with Audis and BMWs their favoured vehicles.

They included a petrol station car-jacking at a Total garage when a man dragged from behind the wheel of his £25,000 Ford Focus ST.

And in the early hours of April 27 they stole two Mercedes C-Class from a driveway in having grabbed keys during a break-in.

More than 100 billionaires living in Britain

■ UK now has more billionaires per head than any other country, with the number based in the UK tripling in the last ten years

The number billionaires living in Britain has risen to more than 100 for the first time, a study has found.

Some 104 billionaires are now based in the UK more than triple the number from a decade ago - with a combined wealth of more than £301 billion, according to the Sunday Times Rich List.

It means Britain has more billionaires per head of population than any other country, while London's total of 72 sterling billionaires is more than any other city in the world, the study found.

global conglomerate

Indian-born brothers Sri and Gopi Hinduja top the list of the UK's wealthiest billionaires with a fortune of £11.9 billion.

The London-based pair, who run the global conglomerate Hinduja Group, saw their wealth rise by £1.3 billion in the last year, the study found.

They replaced Russian business magnate Alisher Usmanov at the top after the Arsenal shareholder saw his fortune fall to £10.65 billion, the Sunday Times Rich List said.

The richest Briton, the Duke of Westminster, is ranked 10th on the list after his fortune rose to £8.5 billion.

Last year, billionaires were living in the UK, worth a total of more than £245 billion, according to the Sunday Times Rich List. In 2004, the number of billionaires in Britain was 30, with a combined wealth of £65 billion, it said.

Among the new members of the billionaire club is West producer Sir Mackintosh, Cameron who saw his fortune rise by £175 million in the last year and is now worth £1 billion, the survey found.

new entry

Plymouth-born Chris Dawson, who owns and runs The Range discount store chain, saw his fortune rise by £695 million in the past 12 months to net £1.28 billion.

Meanwhile, Jon Hunt, founder of estate agents Foxtons, has a £1.07 billion fortune, up £145 million in 2013, the Sunday Times Rich List

Sports Direct founder Mike Ashley and Sir Richard Branson are among the UK's top 25 wealthiest billionaires.

In Scotland, Sir Brian Souter and Ann Gloag, the siblings who founded the Stagecoach transport empire, share a fortune of £1 billion - an increase of £270 million on last year.

The wealthiest new entry is Carrie and Francois Perrodo and their family, who own the London-based Perenco oil and gas operation and are said to be worth £6.14 billion.

It is the first time since 2008 that the minimum wealth of the 50 richest people in the country has exceeded £1.5 billion.

A decade ago, personal fortune of £700 million was needed to be among Britain's wealthiest people. The entry point to the UK top 50 today is £1.7 billion, the Sunday Times Rich List found.

The combined wealth of the Britain's super rich is now ahead of the pre-recession levels of 2008, when the total wealth of the UK's 75 billionaires was £201 billion.

War history a mystery to many - poll

Britain's war history is a mystery to the nation's younger generations, with many unaware of the meaning of events such as D-Day or VE Day, according to a new poll.

Britain is producing a myriad of events throughout the country year the commemorate centenary of the beginning of World War I, but this latest poll suggests many young people are only aware of certain conflicts and military events due to watching programmes or films about them.

The survey, commissioned by Universal Pictures in support of the Royal British Legion, asked around 2,000 18 to 35-year-olds about their knowledge of major wars and campaigns.

It found that more than eight in 10 (80.54%) said that they did not think they knew as much as they should about the nation's war history.

The vast majority had heard of the First and Second World Wars (82.78% and 84.98% respectively), but many were unsure about more recent conflicts, with 38.77% saying they were aware of the conflict in Bosnia, 36.93% aware of the conflict in Kosovo and 34.33% saying they had heard of the Troubles in Northern Ireland.

Just over half (52.45%) knew that D-Day marks the day of the Normandy landings, with over a fifth (21.66%) suggesting that it marks the end of the Great War.

And half (50.10%) correctly said that VE - Victory in Europe - Day, marks the end of the Second World War in Europe.

Kenyan MPs demand seizure of British-owned farms over khat ban

Furious Kenyan lawmakers have submitted a parliamentary motion to seize British-owned land, if the former colonial power does not rescind its ban on multi-million dollar exports of the "herbal high" khat, reports said Thursday.

MPs from Kenya's cental Meru region, the country's key khat-growing area, urged the government to consider repossessing farms owned by British farmers.

The motion read in parliament Wednesday called for "compulsorily acquiring all land owned or acquired by the British," The Standard newspaper reported.

Khat - called miraa in Kenya - is the leaves and shoots of the shrub Catha edulis, which are chewed to obtain a mild stimulant effect.

'other alternatives'

Last year Britain classified khat as a drug, effectively closing Kenya's last khat market in Europe, after the Netherlands also banned the stimulant.

MP Mithika Linturi called on President Uhuru Kenyatta to take action.

"It is either Uhuru buys off the British farms, or we seek other alternatives to drive the farmers out," he said, according to The Standard.

Lawmakers from the region have made a

PLENTY TO CHEW ON: Last year Britain classified khat as a drug, effectively closing Kenya's last khat market in Europe string of demands to keep the khat business going. Farmers last year called for British army training bases in Kenya be shut down, a demand that has been ignored by government.

Kenya won independence from Britain in 1963, but British farmers continue to own vast tracts of the East African nation.

While khat is grown across the Horn of Africa and Yemen largely for domestic and regional use, most of Kenya's crop is cultivated for export.

Expats face losing Cyprus homes to pay builders' debts

THOUSANDS of Britons face losing their holiday or retirement homes in Cyprus to pay off the debts of bankrupt property developers.

Archaic laws on the Mediterranean island allow banks to snatch properties built on land with outstanding mortgages taken out by builders – even if the homeowners are debt free.

The country's plunging economy has forced scores of developers to go bust – leaving retired Britons and hard-working families at the mercy of cash-strapped banks.

Marc Capaldi, 64, who owns a mortgage-free apartment in Pervolia, near Larnaca, with his wife Liz, 66, is fighting to hold on to their £50,000 bolthole since the developer they bought it from went under.

GETTING DARK? Brits in several Mediterranean countries have seen their dreams of a sun-soaked retirement turn sour since the financial crisis

Mr Capaldi, a retired BA pilot from Esher, Surrey, has been told he and the owners of 31 other flats will have to pay.

They must cover the debts, complete roads into the complex and cover the developer's capital gains tax bill before the bank will release title deeds to their apartments.

The total bill has not been calculated but the Capaldis believe it will be £1million.

Mr Capaldi said: "We are in a very insecure position. We get depressed at the idea that someone has taken £50,000 from us.

"We are waiting for the receiver to tell us how much we've to pay. I'm convinced I will never get the title deeds because there will not be enough money to pay for the roads and taxes.

"This is happening because the EU is lending money to prop up the banks and demanding they cut debts. The property market has collapsed."

Under local law, if a developer fails to repay a mortgage taken out on an empty plot, the lender has rights to all the buildings later built on the land.

There are an estimated 100,000 Cyprus homes without title deeds in the names of the rightful owners – and around 30,000 of these belong to foreigners, many British.

Mortgages owed by developers stand at nearly £5billion.

Details of the Capaldis' plight come after it emerged British expats in Portugal face losing their properties under a draconian new law which lets the government take back land originally owned by the state.

European countries such as Cyprus, Spain and Portugal used to be an attractive option for retiring Britons. But now many are fleeing.

Nearly 90,000 Britons abandoned their Mediterranean dream last year and moved back to the UK.

Ukip spokesman Gawain Towler said: "It's outrageous these people should be left facing possible destitution due to the failures of the euro. The EU yet again offers no protection."

Nigel Howarth, a property expert based in Cyprus, said: "The most common mistake people make when buying property in Cyprus is to use a lawyer introduced or recommended by a developer. Buyers must be careful purchasing a property if its title deed is not immediately available."

CLASH OF THE TITANS: Ian Buchanan and Mariette Hartley star as Henry and Eleanor in the local production of The Lion In Winter at the Colony Theatre lawyers to take property, income, access to children, but in this family Eleanor was so hurt she went to war with Henry, tried to kill him, and used his sons against him. For this he imprisoned her and only lets her out for holidays. Yet somehow, they continue to love each other, and that is what really stops them succeeding in killing the other. I think Dorothy Parker said it well, "They sicken of calm who know the storm".

Don't be fooled, The Lion in Winter is a comedy. Director Stephanie Vlahos has succeeded in creating a production with many laugh-out-loud moments, although, my European sensibilities were expecting something a bit darker. Vlahos has chosen to keep the mood light, shying away from exploring the deeper, more violent sentiments of the characters.

Mariette Hartley and Ian Buchanan have created an interesting and likeable Eleanor and Henry. They are enjoyable to watch though their exchanges somehow lack the viciousness and pain of embattled spouses. Rather, they seem to be engaged in verbal badminton, unusual for two used to waging real wars.

Overall the experienced cast succeeds in doing justice to Goldman's acerbic writing. Their English accents are good, as is their comic timing and they create many a poignant moment.

They are helped by an excellent award-winning design team. David Potts has created a versatile stage design of Gothic arches, which is quite beautiful. At times warm and welcoming, at times forbidding, thanks to Jared A. Sayeg's lighting design. Drew Dalzell has used medieval and contemporary songs in his sound design to evocative effect, and the costumes of Katie Bergh really denote the opulence of courtly life

This production is more Blackadder then Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe, but it makes for an entertaining evening.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Expect a boost to your financial situation by midweek. A massive joining of planets in your sign can also bring up a lot of unfinished business, so best to keep a low profile.

TAURUS: The sun is moving out from under you and into your money area and could bring several issues to the forefront. If any situation is unresolved take note: it's best to deal with this promptly. Happy Birthday.

GEMINI: You will be travelling (emotionally or otherwise) to a place where you can put things in order wherever needed. Be sure to follow through on any promises. Now is the time to plan forward. CANCER: Movement is good for you and this week it's all around you and in the air. You crabs don't like to be confronted without warning, so it's best to keep those famous verbal nips under control. Especially next week! LEO: Health and diet is much on your mind as the summer months approach, so hats off to you if you make it your priority to spend time relaxing, not stressing. You should be feeling ready for change.

VIRGO: The middle of the month is the best time to get anything accomplished, but make sure you prioritize what best to finish up first. You will likely have a list - as is often your habit, but taking action is the key.

LIBRA: All is not as it seems this coming week; you may be confronted by another who has issues of their own, so with this in mind stay cool under pressure. Make sure to surround yourself with only positive people this month. SCORPIO: Ok it's all too much sometimes! Saturn in your life is moving backwards and like a farm plough raking up all the stuff lying beneath the surface. You have also had to deal with last week' full moon in Scorpio. It's definitely better by midweek.

SAGITTARIUS: Be sure you pay attention to anything or person who you perceive is acting strange or not as normal. It may or may not be your problem in the end, however a friendly chat can help them and make you both

CAPRICORN: The massive meeting of two large planets affecting you directly can rock the earth and you next week. The only thing you can do is to fix what you know is not working in any area of life. Best to lie low for a few

AQUARIUS: You are likely in a funky mood these past few days, this is especially true of those of you who are intuitive. This is likely due to the planets stirring up old memories for you. It will be good for you to exercise a little PISCES: As Neptune makes his way through your life he is bringing to the surface the parts of life that are unfinished business. If you can take a trip away from the madding crowd so much the better for you.

Chloe

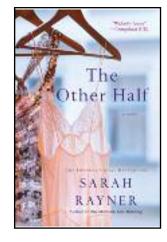

■ Exclusive interview with author Sarah Rayner and a review of her novel about how an affair affects two women

Rating: ★★★

"Telling the story of an from perspectives of the wife and the mistress in alternating chapters, the novel is also about another affair...my love affair with New York," says The Other Half author Sarah Rayner.

"The Other Half was first published in the UK in 2001. But it wasn't until a while after my third novel, One Moment, One Morning, became an international bestseller that I found an American publisher for The Other Half."

> between cross

women's fiction and chick-lit, The Other Half is a story of loss and betrayal. The story is told from both women's points of view. Chloe has the excitement of an affair, then starts to fall in love with James, whose wife Maggie is having issues with her family life and feels separated husband. Chloe has no morals about having an affair with a married man. so the emotional stakes are not there for the reader. It's Maggie who has emotional and personal growth in the book. meet Appleton as an ambitious magazine writer out to start her own magazine. James Slater, the publisher of the magazine she currently works for, is intrested in her new magazine...and in her. Chloe knows he's married, and that's fine as she fears commitment. Maggie is a respected food writer and suburban housewife who doesn't see her husband very much as he works late. James doesn't want a second child.

"The origins of The Other Half can be traced back to the day I won the lottery," says Rayner. "Years ago I won what would now be at least $5,000 in a charity raffle, and I used the money to go on holiday to New York. I went with a gay friend of mine, Ron, and we painted the Big Apple red, if that's not mixing metaphors too much. I fell in love with New York and it was quite simply, the best holiday I have ever had...with apologies to my husband, our honeymoon does come close second. When I was there I kept a journal.

"A while later, when I felt drawn to write my first novel, I got back in touch with the people I'd met on that first trip, and told them I planned to write a story that spanned both New York and London," says Rayner. "I had a yen to spend some time in Manhattan writing it. Through a home-swap website we found a woman not only keen to exchange her New York apartment for my London one, but who also ran a writers' cooperative in the East Village. Her name was Donna Brodie, and she arranged for me to have desk space at The Writers' Room. It was here, using my original journal as a basis, much of The Other Half was drafted."

"Between writing The Other Half 15 years ago and now I've learned a lot," says Rayner. "So The Other Half that's now being published by St. Martin's Press is very different from the original. I've not just updated it. I've also cut and crafted it using all I've discovered since....a pithier, punchier writing style. Certainly I think my love for New York still shines through."

"I am someone who likes instant gratification," says Raynor. "I will freely admit this 15 year wait has been a streeeeeeeetch for me. Each novel has its own journey to make. A bit like children, some are high achievers and get published relatively quickly and easily, others need nurturing and take longer to find their way onto the shelves."

Rayner has a new book coming out in the UK. Rayner was born in London and lives Brighton.

LA heatwave: have fun but stay safe....

Summertime and the living is easy....I don't know where George Gershwin had the pleasure of spending his summer months, but it isn't so easy when summer hits LA! The drought is the first thing we have to deal with. Anyone remember the British message in 1976 -'Save Water, Bath with a Friend'? I am not sure I am up for that, but I have been looking at ways to conserve. I tried showering with a bucket next to me to catch the excess to water my plants, but I nearly kicked the bucket - literally! I've resorted to watering my pots late at night instead. I don't have the tap running when I brush my teeth and use my dish water to water the garden. If you have any good tips we would love to hear them.

Ants are a right bugger in the summer, as they are too in search of a drink. I've tried natural remedies like talcum powder, vinegar and even coffee grounds which all make a right mess, and serve as no deterrent for my uninvited guests. Luckily, I came across ant hotels at the supermarket and they seem to do the best job for me. Be careful if you have pets though as I don't think the two mix well.

Protect yourself

Sunscreen is a must even when you are in the car. Have you seen the photo that has been all over the internet this week? Bill McElligott (pictured, right) is a truck driver who has severe sun damage on half of his face. The lack of sun protection over the course of his 28 years of driving aged his left side by about 20 years! Make sure you cover up ALL of the time - protect your kids too - make sunscreen part of their morning routine along with brushing their teeth! Only the other day a parent told me she didn't think she had to apply sunscreen during term time as her kid was in school! She had only recently moved here from the UK so I forgive her ignorance as in Britain they call it 'suntan lotion' not 'sunblock'!

It goes without saying to leave your pets at home, not in your cars! I issue this reminder every year as not a summer goes by without a news story of a dog being left in a car for 'only a few minutes' then the owner returns to find them suffering from extreme heat exhaustion or even dead. Cut out the "How Long Does It Take for A Car To Get Hot' chart below and stick it on your fridge for all to see. If you see a dog left in a car, even with the windows open, don't ignore it, do something!

Hit the waves

After my little safe summer lecture, you may be dreading it now! Don't despair, as there are lots of great aspects to summer in LA too - not least is that we are driving distance to fantastic beaches! My favorite is El Matador, so secluded and peaceful - if you have a favorite beach and want to share with us, you can tweet us @BritsinLA. Strawberry season is also here and that means the California Strawberry Festival is happening! It's this weekend, May 17th-18th up in Oxnard featuring lots of entertainment and strawberry treats. And local favorites The Young Dubliners are even playing! Visit strawberry-fest.org for all the details.

Thats all for this week, I hope my tips will help you have a fabulous summer!

Cheers! Eileen

I'm staying put, insists Suarez

Liverpool striker Luis Suarez has dismissed speculation linking him with a move away from Anfield this summer.

The 27-year-old Uruguay international signed a new four-and-a-half year contract in December and denied that a clause allows him to join Real Madrid or Barcelona this summer

"There is no clause that suggests a priority for a specific team," he said.

"My head now is focused on the World Cup. My agent tells me what's there. It's more speculation than reality."

Suarez, who joined Liverpool from Ajax for £22m in 2011, wanted to leave the club last summer, with Arsenal making an offer of £40m plus £1 in the belief it would trigger a clause in his contract which they thought existed for any Champions League club.

Suarez stayed and had a superb season after missing the first six matches of the campaign to complete his ban for biting Chelsea's Branislav Ivanovic.

Hodgson opts for young guns

■ Dawn of a new age as Barkley, Shaw, Sterling and Lallana head to World Cup

Roy Hodgson signalled the dawn of a new era by going for youth in his World Cup squad.

The England manager has put his faith in rising stars including Everton's Ross Barkley, Liverpool's Raheem Sterling and the Southampton duo of Adam Lallana and Luke Shaw.

Meanwhile England veterans Michael Carrick and Ashley Cole have been left out of the squad

"There were a number of decisions which were not easy to make," said Hodgson, announcing his squad on Monday.

"I hope the squad will give a good account of itself and they won't let the country down.

"Do I believe the squad can win the World Cup? Yes, otherwise what is the point of taking a squad to the World Cup. But they are empty words as, if you ask other coaches, they will say the same."

England begin their World Cup campaign against Italy in Manaus on 14 June, before further group matches against Uruguay and Costa Rica.

West Brom goalkeeper Ben Foster has been selected alongside Celtic's Fraser Forster as cover for number one Joe Hart. Foster, who made himself unavailable international football between May 2011 and February 2013. has not started for his country since 2010.

Hodgson has also included Liverpool winger Raheem Sterling, 19, Reds midfielder Jordan Henderson, 23, Manchester United defender Jones, 22, Arsenal's Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain, 20, and Jack Wilshere, 22, in a relatively inexp- erienced squad.

Chelsea's veteran midfielder Frank Lampard, 35, has been included, with captain Steven Gerrard, 33, Phil Jagielka, 31, Lambert, 32, and Foster, 31, the only other over-30s in the squad. Only six of the squad have been to a World Cup before.

'We are not thinking about Euro 2016. That is a long way off. This tournament means everything to us. We want to do very well in it so our focus is on this tournament.

"I refute any claims that some of these players have been selected because of 2016. They are selected because of 2014 and I think that they can do well."
