OUTRAGE AS REPORT CLAIMS 1400 ABUSED

■ Hundreds of local girls assaulted by Pakistani gangs in Rotherham over 16 years
■ Local authorities 'avoided the issue' for fear of inflaming racial tensions

THERE WAS UPROAR in England this week after a report on accusations of widespread sexual abuse in Rotherham found that about 1,400 minors — some as young as 11 years old — were beaten, raped and trafficked from 1997 to 2013 as the local authorities ignored a series of warnings.

RINGLEADERS: Clockwise from top left: Umar Razaq , Razwan Razaq, Mohsin Khan, Adil Hussain and Zafran Ramzan, from Rotherham who were found guilty in 2010 of a series of sexually related offences against underage girls

Some of the report's language made for gruesome reading, with accounts of children doused in gasoline and threatened with being set on fire if they reported their abusers, while others were allegedly forced to watch rapes and threatened with the same fate. In more than a third of the cases, the victims appear to have been known to child protection agencies, but the police and local government officials failed to act.

'historic failings'

Hours after the report's release on Tuesday, Roger Stone, leader of the Rotherham Metropolitan Borough Council since 2003, resigned, saying: "Having considered the report, I believe it is only right that I, as leader, take responsibility on behalf of the council for the historic failings that are described so clearly in the report, and it is my intention to do so."

The report comes at a time of heightened racial tension in the country amid widespread concern about unchecked immigration, welfare fraud and militant Islamism, and the fact that the vast majority of perpetrators have been identified as South Asian and most victims were young white girls, have added to an already combustible political mix. Some officials appeared to believe that social workers pointing to a pattern of sexual exploitation were exaggerating, while others reportedly worried about being accused of racism if they spoke out. The report accused officials of ignoring "a politically inconvenient truth" in turning a blind eye to men of Pakistani heritage grooming vulnerable white girls for sex.

independent inquiry

The issue first came to light in 2010, when five men were jailed for lengthy terms after being found guilty of grooming three teenage girls for sex. That case led to an investigation from the Times of London, which published a series of articles claiming that the problem was not confined to the South Yorkshire city alone and that local authorities had been aware of the problem but had chosen not to prosecute for fear of inflaming racial tensions.

The Rotherham Council eventually commissioned an independent inquiry that led to Tuesday's report.

Alexis Jay, the author of the report and a former chief inspector of social work, said that vulnerable girls as young as 11 and largely from disadvantaged backgrounds had been brutalized by groups of men.

"They were raped by multiple perpetrators, trafficked to other towns and cities in the north of England, abducted, beaten and intimidated," she wrote.

When victims came forward, Ms. Jay said, the police often regarded them "with contempt."

LONDON MAYOR: Arrest British citizens who go to Syria or Iraq "without good reason"

"The law needs a swift and minor change so that there is a 'rebuttable presumption' that all those visiting war areas without notifying the authorities have done so for a terrorist purpose," - Boris Johnson

Boris Johnson has said that it should be assumed British citizens returning from Iraq or Syria have been involved in terrorist activities unless they can prove otherwise.

In his Daily Telegraph column this week, the Mayor of London wrote: "The law needs a swift and minor change so that there is a 'rebuttable presumption' that all those visiting war areas without notifying the authorities have done so for a terrorist purpose." He adds: "There are perhaps five or six hundred Britons currently out there – overwhelmingly, though not exclusively, young men. If and when there is a real attempt to take on Isil, they may come back in a hurry and in a group."

'Isil wackos'

Johnson also advocates the return of control orders, which were introduced in 2005 and repealed in 2011. These allowed the home secretary to restrict an individual's liberty on command, perhaps demanding a suspect surrender his passport and placing restrictions on visitors. They have been described as a "prison without bars".

On the wider question of intervention, Johnson is non-committal. He wrote:

"These Isil wackos now control an area the size of Great Britain, considerable oil reserves, a population of about six million, some industry, and a military capability said to be second in the region only to Israel. To take them on will not be easy, and I can see all the arguments for doing little or nothing – letting "history" take its course. No one could claim that previous Western operations have been crowned with success. It is now pretty obvious to everyone (except the bonkers Tony Blair) that things were made much worse, not better, by the removal of Saddam Hussein. How can we be sure of doing better this time?

"No option looks very appealing, to put it mildly; and yet doing nothing is surely the worst of all. If we let Isil get their way, then we will be acquiescing, first, in a gigantic and violent change in international borders. Next, we will be allowing a new and hideous regime to be born: a country where black-flag waving jihadis compete to show they have the most bigoted and reactionary understanding of their religion by persecuting women, Jews, Christians, gays, Yazidis and Shi'ites."

pressure

Johnson's comments will renew pressure on foreign secretary Philip Hammond to announce further measures to combat extremism in Britain and terror abroad, following the execution of journalist James Foley by a militant with a British accent. Last week, Hammond ruled out the option of co-operating with Syria's Bashar al-Assad to fight the jihadis of Islamic State (also known as Isis).

problem in Rotherham, senior managers in the local authority and South Yorkshire police ignored them. Three earlier reports, published from 2002 to 2006, detailed the abuse, and according to Ms. Jay, "could not have been clearer in the description of the situation in Rotherham." But the first one was "effectively suppressed" and the other two "ignored," she said.

The report – and its implications - have left the leader of one Muslim organisation in Rotherham furious.

"In the name of what community cohesion and political correctness what this covered up? Not in the name of my community," said Muhbeen Hussain, founder of British Muslim Youth.

"I'm truly disgusted to see such a report in my home town of Rotherham.

"The fact these guys were predominantly Pakistani heritage men should not be a reason for providing a cloak of invisibility."

His words were echoed by Shoki Adbo, a bank worker from the town, who said: "I'm a Muslim and if I saw a Muslim person doing something like that then they would not be a Muslim to me."

Prof Jay's report said that while ethnicity did not impact on the way front-line staff dealt with cases, it did affect the wider picture, with some staff in children's social care saying they were "advised by their managers to be cautious about referring to the ethnicity of the perpetrators" in reports. As a result, no contact was made with local Pakistani leaders for help in identifying gangs that continued to assault and abduct teenagers.

British Ebola patient has 'very good' chance of survival

THE ONE British subject known to be infected by the Ebola virus stands a 'very good' chance of full recovery, said the surgeon treating him in London.

David Mabey, Professor of Communicable Diseases at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine said that Nurse William Pooley (pictured, above) who contracted Ebola while working in Sierra Leone has a "very good" chance of survival, adding that the risk of anyone else catching it from him are "zero".

Nurse Pooley, 29, contracted the deadly disease while working around the clock to help staff at an understaffed hospital in the west African country contain the outbreak.

He was transferred to the UK's only isolation ward - at the Royal Free hospital - on Sunday, after being airlifted to RAF Northolt.

Despite catching the virus from the people he was trying to save, Mr Pooley reportedly told friends in Sierra Leone that he is determined to beat the disease, and vowed to return and help other victims after his recovery.

Speaking about the care the nurse would be receiving at the Royal Free, Mr Mabey added

Darling's debate disaster sees Scots Yes vote climbing: 'No' support slumps to 53%

■ No vote's lead narrowed to just six points after Monday night's TV debate

■ Male voters split on independence, but women still back No campaign

FIGHTING BACK: Alex Salmond (right) was in buoyant mood following Monday's debate

Alistair Darling's poor performance in Monday's TV debate has given a huge boost to Alex Salmond's campaign for Scottish independence, a poll has revealed.

The debate has been a disaster for the No campaign, which has seen its lead narrow sharply.

With only 20 days left until Scots vote, the pro-Union Better Together campaign led by Mr Darling still enjoys a six percentage point lead over the independence supporters among decided voters, according to the poll for the Scottish Daily Mail.

But this is down from the 14-point lead it had after the first debate three weeks ago.

If the shift in support towards the Nationalists continues at the same rate until polling day on September 18, it would see Scotland vote to leave the UK, ending the 300-year-old union.

However, the No campaign's six-point lead now is the same gap as recorded in a poll carried out four weeks ago before the first TV debate.

'shouty'

As postal voting gets under way, growing numbers of Scots are making up their minds, with 53 per cent of decided voters set to vote No – down from 57 per cent in the last poll by Survation for the Mail on August 9.

Although the debate was widely seen as contentious and bad-tempered – 'shouty' being the word most used on social media to describe it – Salmond put in a far more tempered and convincing performance than on his first outing last month.

Indeed, the SNP leader was in buoyant mood in the days following the debate, telling aides that his performance could prove 'the turning point' in the campaign.

Research by ICM showed 71% of people questioned thought Salmond had been the better performer in the televised clash, compared to 29% for Better Together head Darling.

A similar survey after the first head to head debate between the two men last month suggested the former chancellor had scored a narrow victory over the SNP leader.

currency union

During the debate, Salmond claimed to offer "three Plan Bs", after the First Minister was roundly criticised for his lack of clarity on the country's future currency after the first debate.

The SNP leader outlined the three options should Westminster reject a currency union - using sterling outside of the Union, the Euro and a Scottish currency.

However, Salmond insisted he was seeking a mandate from the Scottish people to call for a formal currency union with the rest of the UK. Meanwhile, Darling repeated his calls for the First Minister to come up with a Plan B.

Speaking for the Better Together campaign, Labour MP Douglas Alexander said: "I think there's a difference between performing and persuading. If these debates determined the outcome of elections in terms of performance, I expect Nick Clegg would be Prime Minister this morning.

"I think he (Alistair Darling) asked the questions we need answers to. Postal ballots drop in 48 hours' time, we're still in a position where we don't have clarity from the First Minister in relation to currency, pensions and oil and actually, I think, the Yes campaign are where they did not expect to be, they're haunted be a series of basic questions as the postal votes drop."

Tory MP Douglas Carswell defects to UKIP and forces by-election

Tory Douglas Carswell has defected to UKIP and quit as MP for Clacton, saying he will contest the subsequent by-election for Nigel Farage's party.

If he wins the support of voters he will be the first elected UK Independence Party MP in the Commons.

The maverick Eurosceptic backbencher said he did not believe Prime Minister David Cameron was "serious about the change we need" in Europe.

The PM described his defection as "regrettable" and "counterproductive".

Mr Carswell said the decision to jump ship from the Conservatives had given him "sleepless nights" but he wanted to see "fundamental change in British politics" and UKIP - a party he believed belonged to its members rather than a "little clique" of political insiders - could deliver it.

"This hasn't been an easy decision. I have been a member of the Conservative Party all my adult life. It's full of wonderful people who want the best for Britain.

"The problem is that many of those at the top of the Conservative Party are simply not on our side." - Tory MP for Clacton Douglas Carswell

"My local Conservative Association in Clacton is thriving. It brims with those I'm honoured to call my friends.

"The problem is that many of those at the top of the Conservative Party are simply not on our side. They aren't serious about the change that Britain so desperately needs.

"Of course they talk the talk before elections. They say what they feel they must say to get our support... but on so many issues - on modernising our politics, on the recall of MPs, on controlling our borders on less government, on bank reform, on cutting public debt, on an EU referendum - they never actually make it happen."

On Mr Cameron's pledge of an in/out EU referendum in 2017, after renegotiating powers back from Brussels, he said the prime minister's advisers had "made it clear that they're looking to cut a deal that gives them just enough to persuade enough voters to vote to stay in".

He added: "Once I realised that, my position in the Conservative Party became untenable."

Mr Cameron - who was not warned by Mr Carswell about his plan to defect - said: "It's obviously deeply regrettable when things happen like this, when people behave in this way.

"But it's also, in my view, counterproductive. If you want a referendum on Britain's future in the EU - whether we should stay or go - the only way to get that is to have a Conservative government."

UNSTOPPABLE FORCE? London Lord Mayor Boris Johnson

Rising Johnson targets Tory seat

LONDON Mayor Boris Johnson is to stand in the west London seat of Uxbridge and South Ruislip in next year's general election, he announced this week.

The flamboyant Mr. Johnson is widely seen as a Conservative leader in waiting, and earlier this month, he put an end to months of speculation when he revealed "in all probability" that he would stand for Parliament, although he had yet to decide which seat he would contest.

The Uxbridge and South Ruislip constituency has become available since Conservative MP John Randall - who won it at the 2010 general election with an 11,000 majority - announced he is standing down ahead of next May's vote.

Mr Johnson, who has vowed to complete his term as Mayor of London which lasts until 2016, submitted his name to Conservative Campaign Headquarters Tuesday morning - just 48 hours before the deadline.

He told the Evening Standard: "I'm sure there will be plenty of excellent candidates and I hope very much to make my case to the association."

A committee of five members of the Uxbridge and South Ruislip Conservative Association will now whittle down the number of candidates to three or four.

pressure

The final decision will be announced at a special meeting of the association at Ruislip High School on September 12.

Mr Johnson made the announcement after returning from a holiday in Croatia last week.

By re-entering the Commons, Mr Johnson - who was MP for Henley between 2001 and 2008 - would be in place to run for the Conservative leadership after David Cameron.

Mr Johnson's parliamentary return could also heap pressure on the Prime Minister.

In a recent poll Mr Johnson was favourite to take the Tories to outright victory in next year's general election if he were leader.

Voter support for the party surged six points to 39 per cent when people were asked how they would vote with the London Mayor in charge rather than the current Prime Minister.

Earlier this month, Mr Johnson delivered the strongest hint yet that he is planning to succeed Mr Cameron as leader of the Conservative party.

He said that he took on his current role to "show what I can do".

However, Mr Johnson is likely to face rivalry from Chancellor George Osborne and Home Secretary Theresa May in taking over the reigns of the Tory party.

Tributes flow as Dickie Attenborough dies at 90

■ National treasure enjoyed long career as actor and director, capped by scooping multiple Oscars for his passion project, Gandhi

TRIBUTES from across the world of entertainment, politics and football have flooded in for Lord Richard Attenborough, who died Sunday night at the age of 90.

Lord Attenborough was one of Britain's leading actors, before becoming a highly successful director.

In a career that spanned six decades, he appeared in films including Brighton Rock, World War Two prisoner of war thriller The Great Escape and later in dinosaur blockbuster Jurassic Park.

As a director he was perhaps best known for Gandhi, which won him two Oscars.

Jurassic Park director Steven Spielberg said Lord Attenborough was passionate about everything in his life.

"He made a gift to the world with his emotional epic Gandhi and he was the perfect ringmaster to bring the dinosaurs back to life as John Hammond in Jurassic Park," he said.

"He was a dear friend and I am standing in an endless line of those who completely adored him."

Sir Ben Kingsley, who played the title role in the Oscar-winning Gandhi, said he would "miss him dearly".

"Richard Attenborough trusted me with the crucial and central task of bringing to life a dream it took him 20 years to bring to fruition.

"When he gave me the part of Gandhi it was with great grace and joy. He placed in me an absolute trust and in turn I placed an absolute trust in him and grew to love him."

'Huge impact'

Paying tribute, Prime Minister David Cameron tweeted: "His acting in "Brighton Rock" was brilliant, his directing of "Gandhi" was stunning - Richard Attenborough was one of the greats of cinema."

And Actress Mia Farrow tweeted: "Richard Attenborough was the kindest man I have ever had the privilege of working with. A Prince. RIP 'Pa' - and thank you."

Former Channel 4 and BBC executive Lord Grade said Lord Attenborough had "phenomenal" energy and compassion.

"Dickie was essentially a man who put much more in than he ever took out of the industry," he said.

He also said Lord Attenborough had "huge authority", recalling a meeting in which he "banged the desk" and "frightened the life" out of then home secretary Douglas Hurd and a group of civil servants.

British Film Institute chief executive Amanda Nevill said Lord Attenborough was a "born communicator" both through film and in person.

"He was a man of huge warmth and integrity but always a man with a cause, I think somebody who really understood that film was such a powerful tool that could be used to influence and capture hearts and change the world," she said.

CAREER-MAKING PERFORMANCE: Attenborough was dazzling as the small time hood Pinkie Brown in the 1947 British noir classic, Brighton Rock

"Dickie was essentially a man who put much more in than he ever took out of the industry," - former BBC executive Lord Grade

'Vocal campaigner'

Chris Hewitt from Empire Magazine, a leading British film publication, said Attenborough had a "huge impact" on cinema, describing him as a "universally beloved" figure.

Tribute was also paid to the Labour peer from his party.

"Lord Attenborough made an enormous contribution to our country and to the film industry both as an actor and a director. His films will be loved for generations to come," it said.

"He believed passionately in social justice and the Labour Party and was a vocal campaigner against apartheid. He will be sadly missed. Our thoughts are with his family and friends."

Lord Attenborough was also a life president of Chelsea Football Club, which said it was "deeply saddened" to learn of his death.

"He led a long and successful life and always found time for the things in life he loved most, one of which was Chelsea FC," the club said.

"His personality was woven into the tapestry of the club over seven decades. He was a consistent force for good at the club, even in dark times.

"He will be greatly missed, and the thoughts of everyone at Chelsea FC are with his family and friends at this sad time."

chilling portrayal

Born in Cambridge in 1923, he started acting at the age of just 12, making his professional stage debut aged 18.

Along with his naturalist brother David, Lord Attenborough was one of Britain's best-known screen celebrities.

He was hailed for his 1947 chilling portrayal of teenage hoodlum and murderer Pinkie in Brighton Rock, but appeared in several other landmark films, including In Which We Serve, The Angry Silence, I'm Alright Jack, The Great Escape, Dr. Doolittle and The Sand Pebbles.

On stage he was a member of the original cast of Agatha Christie's long-running whodunnit, The Mousetrap.

He was appointed a CBE in 1967 and knighted nine years later in 1976, before being made a life peer in 1993.

He married his wife, actress Sheila Sim, in 1945. His son Michael was born in 1949, followed by two daughters, Jane and Charlotte.

Michael is a theatre director and former artistic director of the Almeida Theatre in Islington, north London, and Charlotte is an actress.

His family faced tragedy in 2004 when his elder daughter Jane Holland, her daughter, Lucy, and her mother-in-law, also named Jane, were killed in the south Asian tsunami on Boxing Day.

‘Deeply elitist UK locks out diversity at top’

The UK is “deeply elitist” according to an analysis of the backgrounds of more than 4,000 business, political, media and public sector leaders.

Small elites, educated at independent schools and Oxbridge, still dominate top roles, suggests the Social Mobility and Child Poverty Commission study.

It says key institutions do not represent the public they serve.

The Headmasters and Headmistresses Conference of top private heads called the study “unreasonable and unfair”.

HMC chairman Richard Harman, headmaster of Uppingham School, said that to suggest that a high number of people in positions of influence were there simply because they went to private schools was “lazy stereotyping and underestimates the diversity within the sector”.

‘Cosy club’

Commission chairman Alan Milburn said the UK’s top jobs remain “disproportionately held by people from a narrow range of backgrounds”.

“The institutions that matter appear to be a cosy club.”

Mr Milburn told BBC Radio 4’s Today programme the report serves as a “wake-up call” to schools, universities and government.

He said: “We want the best people in the top jobs, the concern of this is the dominance they exercise.

“If there is one thing that unlocks this huge challenge for the country about the excessive dominance at the top it is the improvements in education.”

‘Stark’ elitism

“Locking out a diversity of talents and experiences makes Britain’s leading institutions less informed, less representative and ultimately less credible than they should be,” warned Mr Milburn in his foreword to the report.

“This risks narrowing the conduct of public life to a small few who are very familiar with each other but far less familiar with the day-to-day challenges facing ordinary people in the country.

“That is not a recipe for a healthy democratic society.”

The commission says its findings are based on one of the most detailed analyses of its type ever undertaken.

It found that those who had attended fee-paying schools included:

- 71% of senior judges
- 62% of senior armed forces officers
- 55% of permanent secretaries (the most senior civil servants)
- 53% of senior diplomats.

Also privately educated were 45% of chairmen and women of public bodies, 44% of the Sunday Times Rich List, 43% of newspaper columnists and 26% of BBC executives.

In sport, 35% of the England, Scotland and Wales rugby teams and 33% of the England cricket team also went to private schools.

In politics, half the House of Lords attended independent schools, along with 36% of the cabinet, 33% of MPs and 22% of the shadow cabinet.

This compares with 7% of the UK population as a whole.

Figures for top people who went to Oxford and Cambridge paint a similar picture.

Some 75% of senior judges, 59% of the Cabinet, 57% of permanent secretaries, 50% of diplomats, 47% of newspaper columnists, 38% of the House of Lords, 33% of the shadow cabinet and 24% of MPs hold Oxbridge degrees.

In contrast, less than 1% of the whole population are Oxbridge graduates while 62% did not attend university, says the study.

The report describes the figures as “elitism so stark that it could be called social engineering”.

The authors recognise that many talented people attend independent schools and top universities, with 32% of those with AAA or better in last year’s A-level results attending private schools.

OLD BOYS CLUB? 71% of senior judges in Britain went to private school, while, at 33%, the England national cricket team seems more of a meritocracy that as there are no cures or preventive medicating available, doctors would be treating Mr Pooley’s symptoms as they currently presented.

However, he added that it was a positive sign that Mr Pooley’s symptoms had apparently been caught early.

There have so far been 2,615 confirmed cases and 1,427 deaths in the outbreak in Africa.

The virus is contracted through contact with an infected person’s bodily fluid.

Symptoms of the virus appear as a sudden onset of fever, headache, sore throat, intense weakness and muscle pain.

Flying Freddie escapes driving ban

Millionaire cricketer Andrew “Freddie” Flintoff has escaped a driving ban for speeding in his Bentley after arguing “exceptional hardship” to magistrates.

Flintoff, 36, was already on nine points for speeding and in danger of an automatic ban with another three points after admitting being behind the wheel when flashed by a camera doing 87mph on the M6, near Linstock, Cumbria on January 28 this year, Carlisle Magistrates’ Court heard.

But JPs accepted a ban would amount to exceptional hardship because of the effect on others who rely on his extensive charity work and the privacy of his three children.

FAST BOWLER: Flintoff was clocked doing 87mph

Instead, the former England cricket captain, caught speeding four times in the last three years, was given the three points on his licence and fined £330 but allowed to keep driving.

His solicitor Michael Neofytou, told the court a ban would also affect his TV work - with the defendant due to be filming a show on Friday in Northern Ireland, a “road trip” where he drives a fish and chips van powered by the van’s cooking fat.

Flintoff, of Mottram St Andrew, Cheshire, sat listening to his solicitor outline his case for most of the 45 minute hearing.

He was warned after arguing exceptional hardship he would not be able to use the same reasons again in court if he was caught speeding again in the next three years.

She's back: Kate Bush wows critics and fans alike in first show since 1979

LET ME IN-A-YOUR WINDOW: Kate Bush returned in triumph at the Hammersmith Apollo this week for the first of 22 sold-out shows

Kate Bush has performed in front of her fans for the first time in 35 years – and the fans and critics alike were dazzled.

The Before the Dawn series of 22 shows sold out in minutes when tickets went on sale in March.

And as the run kicked off in west London, fans came from around the world to see Bush take to the same Hammersmith Apollo stage she departed for the last time in 1979.

Chafik Hadjoudj, who flew from Montreal, Canada, gushed: "This was a once-in-a-lifetime chance to see her in person, and hear her voice live. I'm overwhelmed by emotions. The show was very true to Kate Bush - she took risks, she was simple, honest, and unpredictable.

"Hearing and watching her perform those songs was very moving.

"Almost as important as the show itself was the opportunity to meet and be surrounded with fellow Kate Bush fans."

IN HER POMP: Kate Bush as she was shortly after bursting onto the British music scene in 1978

Lucy Melly from Glasgow told reporters: "It was unlike anything I've ever seen. I don't think I'll ever see anything like that again. I'll be still talking about in 20 years' time.

"The welcome she got from the fans was overwhelming.

"The show was operatic almost, like no other gig I've been to. As well as being musically brilliant it was visually spectacular."

And Michael Anmuth, who flew from San Francisco said: "It's awesome - really, really great. It was worth travelling this far because I've waited forever to see her. It has cost me a lot but it's definitely worth it."

Coming from even further afield was Madeleine Swain, from Australia, who could barely contain her joy at seeing an icon of her youth:

"Saw her when I was a teenager in Birmingham and this week flew back from Australia to see her again and be there sharing that moment when she walked on the stage again for the first time.

"Would do it again in a heartbeat. Utterly sublime."

The grizzled and cynical critics of the nation's leading newspapers were no less enthused, with Alexis Petridis writing in The Guardian that Bush's Before The Dawn performance was "another remarkable achievement" in the musician's career.

The Mirror added that the star's stage show was "unprecedented" and "only one artist" was able to pull it off.

Bush's voice is "clearly untroubled by the passage of time", declared Andy Gill of The Independent.

He added that elements of the show were "quite stunning, undoubtedly the most ambitious, and genuinely moving, piece of theatrical pop ever seen on a British stage".

Jan Moir, reviewing the gig for the Daily Mail, touched upon the passage of time since Bush's last performance on the stage of London's Hammersmith Apollo, declaring that "age has not withered our Kate".

"Certainly, her voice still sounds terrific," Moir wrote of the 56-year-old. "It has deepened and mellowed with age, edging those famous soprano trills just out of range."

"After all this time, Kate Bush remains that rare thing, a performer who is truly original and fully realised. Hers is a large-scale spectacle, vividly realised and unlike anything else in town."

Many critics made reference to the absence of big hits in the set list, with The Telegraph's Bernadette Telegraph's McNulty writing: "Anyone hoping for a greatest hits set including the likes of Wuthering Heights would have been disappointed: Bush as ever was not going to follow in any rock comeback tradition."

Just what the Doctor ordered: new Who Capaldi sets viewing records

PETER CAPALDI: at 56, the Scottish actor is the oldest to take the iconic role on the BBC TV series

NEW Time Lord Peter Capaldi is on track to become the most popular Doctor Who of all time after pulling in over seven milion viewers for his debut on Saturday night.

As series eight kicked off, 7.3 million fans tuned in at the show's peak, with a 6.8 million average and rave reviews.

The impressive figures mean the debut episode was the most-watched opener since 2010 when viewers said goodbye to David Tennant and ushered in Matt Smith as his replacement.

Capaldi and his assistant, played by Jenna Coleman, appeared in person as the first episode was premiered at the same time in London's West End and 440 cinemas nationwide.

Later this week the viewing figures are likely to increase dramatically as ratings agency Barb reveals more numbers for those who recorded the show and watched it later.

The new Doctor marks a dramatic change from his predecessor, not least because – at 56, he is 25 years older than Matt Smith, 31, and is the oldest actor to play him.

The 12th Doctor, Capaldi is a darker, more thoughtful Time Lord and the show's chief writer, Steven Moffat, has admitted he wanted a deliberately slower pace this time around.

Capaldi, best known as foul-mouthed press secretary Malcolm Tucker in TV's The Thick Of It, was chosen because he fitted with the plan to make the Doctor more authoritative, with a surprising sense of humour.

Bookmaker William Hill has shortened the odds on the star becoming the longest-serving Time Lord from 33/1 to 25/1. "Peter Capaldi is the perfect fit for the Doctor and we can see him taking on the role for the next decade," said spokesman Rupert Adams.

The debut viewing figures are among the highest ever for the show – but some way short of last year's special Day Of The Doctor which was broadcast simultaneo usly in 94 countries.

Matt Smith made a cameo appearance, helping to usher in the new Doctor.

Moffat has admitted it was a surreal experience making an episode which included one incoming and one outgoing Doctor.

"I wondered when we sat in the cutting room, 'Does this seem strange?' And then you remember you're making Doctor Who and you go, 'Yes this does seem strange – that's absolutely fine!'" he said.

Meet A Member: Jamie Robinson

Meet Jamie Robinson from Edinburgh Scotland who moved to LA 2 years ago to pursue boxing.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?
LA is the home of boxing training, pretty much everyone that is any good trains here so you get crazy good sparring sessions - better than some fights!

What one thing do you miss from home?
Literally nothing! My wife and kid live here in LA and I have everything I need. I will never leave!

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus the UK?
The weather and people are much nicer and more positive.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?
The 35er in Pasadena is my favorite bar to hang out in! It's a great vibe

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?
Make sure you do your research on visas and work out places to stay while you get on your feet. Also have some extra money to use because you will need it. LA is expensive place! I made the mistake of doing nothing - no visa or money and jumping on a plane… I just got lucky!

Lastly, how can we find you on the Internet?
Facebook. You can keep up with my management groups "CB Boxing Management" and at www.cbboxing.club.com

Face Forward's Scottish CEO draws on her past to give victims a bright future...

WHEN Deborah Alessi was battered by her boyfriend, she decided she had to leave him - and Scotland.

He was the Glaswegian lass's first love, but that didn't stop him hitting her with a guitar, pulling her hair and kicking her down the stairs.

She said: "He got jealous one night. It's embarrassing to admit it, but it happened.

"And to get away from him was one of the reasons I left Scotland. This was not going to be my life."

Fast forward two decades and Deborah now enjoys a luxurious lifestyle at her Beverly Hills home with her husband, plastic surgeon David Alessi. But Deborah hasn't forgotten her past and devotes much of her free time to helping other victims of violence as the CEO of Face Forward, a charity which gives women disfigured by domestic or gang abuse free corrective surgery.

So far, Face Forward has performed surgery on dozens of women who, without the organisation, would have faced a lifetime of being scarred.

For Deborah, feeling beautiful is something she believes every woman is entitled to.

She said: "I started at the age of four, with my make-up and brushes and combing out the hair of my aunt and anyone who would sit still for me.

DOING GOOD: David and Deborah Alessi

"I noticed that when women feel beautiful, we feel confident and happy. But when we feel ugly, we can feel so sad."

Deborah told the British Weekly: "When I met my husband I realized that we had the talent to start a non-profit....I love marketing and he is a great plastic surgeon. Our first year we helped two patients, this year we have donated over $300,000 in pro bono surgery."

She added that the most satisfying part of her involvement with Face Forward was "watching how our patients' confidence grows, and be able to really smile again every time they look in the mirror."

Face Forward's annual fundraising gala is set for Saturday, September 13th at the Biltmore Hotel in downtown Los Angeles and the theme is Venetian Masquerade, billed as 'an evening of music, dreams and passion'. The event features a red carpet entrance and silent auction from 6pm, and entertainment from Grammy-winning British singer Estelle.

"It feels good to know that supporting our cause by donating or buying a ticket, you are making a difference in someone's life," said Deborah.

Solution to Puzzle #129

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: This is the time of year when you feel like taking off or not working. Either way it is not advised until next month's end. Life has a way have showing us the way, so wait for a sign, which in the end will be better all round.
TAURUS: You are ready for a change in pace and with the sun in Virgo your cousin sign you are more than ready to move life forward a bit faster. Expect good results!
GEMINI: Time to slow your pace this week and prepare for what you want to do for yourself. Since the last couple of weeks you have felt ready for a break and this weekend is the perfect time to kick back with no timetable.
CANCER: If you are traveling be sure you have a tight hold on your cash as either by design or accident money could be scarce. Keep an eye on what others are spending close to you also.
LEO: If you take that leap of faith be sure you are ready. This is not the time in the year to go where angels fear to tread. So be in control of your destiny - not at the mercy of it.
VIRGO: Any frustrations you have in any area of life, (most likely work) will not get better by complaining about things. Bite the bullet and get going on what needs to be done soon.
LIBRA: If all is not well in your general life, you will find you can deal with things much better when you feel fit. So this will be the best time of the year to start the plan and to not procrastinate about following it up. Relax this weekend and start next month.
SCORPIO: You could have been in search of the right health regime these past few weeks and as you are determined to achieve a good outcome let nothing stop you. Do not take others' problems on your own shoulders, it's time to let go of this tendency.
SAGITTARIUS: You could be feeling a bit moody or out of sorts due to Jupiter moving in your area of deep feelings. Know that what you reap is what you sow and this would be a good time to start thinking about what is not working well in your world...
CAPRICORN: Your financial situation is still not what you want, however in order to achieve a positive flow of money you have to assume it is already here. This means to not act or think in lack of anything in life….Be a positive force in your own life.
AQUARIUS: A family member will likely ask for help soon. How you handle this situation will decide if it can happen again. If you have any travel scheduled these next few days, set out early and enjoy the time away.
PISCES: Stop feeling sorry for yourself or another close to you as this will not change any time soon and if you waste time nothing can get it back. Life is to short enough, you may as well have fun on the journey. Keep an eye on your health this coming month.

The Victorian City: everyday life in Dickens' London

■ Exclusive interview with author Judith Flanders and a review of her new book about surviving in Victorian London

Rating: ★★★

"First rule of writing, nothing ever happens to writers in real life that is half as interesting as what happens in our heads," says The Victorian City author Judith Flanders. "My second book, The Victorian House, was a look at how people used their houses in the 19th century... what they did all day, how they did all the routine things we take for granted, cooked, did laundry, who used what rooms and so on. Once I'd done that, The Victorian City really was the obvious next step, even if it took me a while to get to it. This let me spread out from what did people do in their houses, to what did they do when they were out of their houses, how did they move around the city, how did they use the streets, surprisingly differently to us, as it turns out, and what happened outside."

The Victorian City is about the darker side of Victorian London….or Dickensian London. Dickens was about 25 when the Victorian Age started. In 1830 the upper class went to the theater, shopped at fine stores, and the men had their private clubs and courtesans. At this time men still had all the power and even after Victoria became Queen it was thought that she was ruled by the men in her life. Upper class and wealthy women didn't go out without a maid or servants with them for protection. In Flanders' book the lower classes barely survive. The streets are choked with people...vendors, newspaper boys, the homeless, tinkers, chimney sweeps, prostitutes, pickpockets, and shoppers. Smog hangs over the city and the Thames is a sewer.

"The British Library has, don't tell my mother, an amazing collection of 19th-century pornography," says Flanders. "Which was key to my chapter on street-prostitution. The downside of that is that the material is very, very rare, and it all has to be read at a special desk where the librarians can watch to make sure it isn't stolen. I felt like everyone in the building knew I was reading guides to 19th century brothels."

"For The Victorian City I also relied on the memoirs of tourists," says Flanders. "People who live in a place often don't notice things, because they're used to them, whereas strangers find them odd and interesting. So I read dozens and dozens of accounts of trips by American visitors, who remarked on novelties like omnibuses. One of them told me how you got up onto the driver's seat of a bus, which I'd never been able to work out."

Flanders' previous book The Invention of Murder was used as the basis for a BBC series called A Very British Murder. Flanders was shortlisted for the Guardian First Book Award, and The Victorian House was shortlisted for the British Book Awards History Book of the Year.

Flanders' first book was A Circle of Sisters, a biography of four Victorian women. She has mostly written about social history, with books on domestic life, leisure industries, and on how murder became the basis for entertainment in the 19th century. She's written a crime novel, set in a publishing house in contemporary London to be published in the U.S. next spring.

Our Charlie 'in talks' to play King Arthur in Ritchie flick...

British director Guy Ritchie has his eyes set on hottie Charlie Hunnam for the lead role in Warner Bros.' upcoming 'King Arthur' saga.

Newcastle-born Hunnam is going into his seventh and final season as the prince of the motorcycle club in TV's Sons Of Anarchy, and will next have the opportunity to 'rise to king', being Ritchie's top choice and is in final negotiations to play the medieval warrior.

The epic Warner Bros project was hatched by Joby Harold and is intended to span six films, sources say. The studio had recently tried to get the film off the ground with Colin Farrell as Arthur and Gary Oldman as Merlin.

Hunnam's recent film projects have included Guillermo del Toro's robot-versus-monster film Pacific Rim and the upcoming Crimson Peak. He's also known as the guy to sign on for and then promptly drop out of the big-screen adaptation of Fifty Shades of Grey.

'Sons of Anarchy' starts up its seventh and final season on Sept. 9 on the FX Network.

Mel B wows at America's Got Talent event in NYC!

The ex-Spice Girl walked the red carpet in a striking, form-fitting white top and trousers decorated with an elaborate black graffiti print, teamed with black heels, smoky eye make-up and slicked back hair.

The reality talent show, which is currently in its ninth season, is at the semifinal stage of the competition and saw Ariana Grande perform on Wednesday. The finale will take place on September 17.

Brit in a Hurry: Houdini star Tom Benedict Knight escapes the real estate business.....

NOW BUILDING A CAREER: Tom Benedict Knight.

IT TAKES years to become a successful actor…right? Well don't tell that to Tom Benedict Knight. The rising British actor decided just a few short years ago to make the change from property developer to thespian and judging by the speed his star is rising in Hollywood, real estate's loss is Tinseltown's gain…

According to his social media profile, Tom enjoyed a successful career in property in his twenties before deciding on a drastic career change when he was 33. Determined to become an actor, Tom enrolled in the famous Lee Strasberg Film and Theatre Institute in New York and in three short years has built an impressive resume of film and television roles. He can been seen over Labor Day weekend in the miniseries Houdini, airing on the History Channel at 9pm on Monday, September 1st, starring as Dash Houdini, younger brother of Harry, the famous escapologist and illusionist.

This four-hour biopic is directed by Uli Edel and follows Houdini (Adrien Brody) from his humble beginnings as an Eastern European immigrant trying to become a stage magician under his birth name, Erich Weiss, to his role as the world's first superstar as The Great Harry Houdini. The show looks closely at the man behind the tricks, particularly his campaign to debunk spiritualism, which involved him attending séances in disguise and using his training as a stage magician to expose the frauds.

Upcoming roles

The series examines Houdini's personal life too, notably his encounters with the likes of Rasputin and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and his relationship with his wife Bess (Kristen Connolly).

Other upcoming roles for Knight include the forthcoming Universal Studios motion picture Dracula Untold alongside Luke Evans and Dominic Cooper. Knight also stars in the role of Michael Franzese in God The Father, the life story biopic of 'La Cosa Nostra' boss Michael Franzese, the Mob boss who became a Minister of the Church, directed by Simon Fellows. God The Father is due for its US theatrical release later this year.

For a glimpse of Knight's remarkable accent versatility, visit YouTube to see him perform 31 accents in a nine-minute monolog that has become something of a calling card for the actor.

Houdini the two-part, four hour miniseries by the History Channel will premiere on Labor Day, Monday September 1, 2014, at 9 pm EST.

Fun at the Emmys, Americanization and inverted holidays...

Congratulations to all the Brits who won big at the Emmys this past week including that talented trio from Sherlock, Martin Freeman, Benedict Cumberbatch and Stephen Moffatt.

I went to a few events last week including Heifer International's A Place at the Table honoring Diane Lane and my good friend Ian Somerhalder at the stunning Montage Hotel in Beverly Hills. I was seated with the beautiful pop star Nikki Lund and Fitness expert Sharon Yates, The British Weekly's Sean Borg, Station Film's Michael Di Girolamo who won the signed photograph of Diane Lane in the live auction, (pictured, right), as well as the UKares Foundation's CEO Fiona Harden and John Scott from Heifer International. The star-studded event raised close to $100,000 for this fantastic charity that provides women in third world countries the gift of livestock and teaches them how to be sustainable and grow a business. Visit their website at www.heifer.org to see how you can get involved.

Bafta's Emmy Tea...

I was also fortunate enough to be invited to the pre-Emmy award BAFTA Los Angeles Emmy TV Tea party, celebrating all the nominees, co-hosted by Jaguar and BBC America. It was held at the SLS hotel garden in Beverly Hills. It was so nice to see so many Brits in LA members there, including our very own Sandro Monetti, Don Haber, Bryan Bowen and actor John Mawson drinking tea and all looking very dapper.

Brit actresses Tehmina Sunny, Nadia Jordan, Hayley J. Williams and Joanna Hawkins were spotted drinking champagne with celebrity fitness expert Sharon Yates, and the lovely Shirley Greene, Julia Verdin, Christine Peake, Louise Hart and Louisa Spring all looked beautiful and summery. I enjoyed the great food and cocktails but best of all the gorgeous ride loaned by Jaguar - the new XJS supercharged SWB from the R-Series….a villain has to arrive in style, right?

When in Rome...

Holidays! That's a funny word isn't it? Even after 15 years of being here, the language barrier still sometimes throws me for a loop. Sometimes I unconsciously find myself Americanizing (is that even a word?) things, for example "Can I get…" instead of "Please may I have…" Put it in the trash", "turn on the faucet," "open the trunk", "use the correct flatware" instead of cutlery, I've even started adapting the accent in certain cases. In restaurants… Water has become "WAR-DERRR" and Route has becoming "ROW-T".

This was never more obvious than during a recent trip back home. Family members ribbing me about how many times I used 'like' in a sentence. I think this all started when I adopted my dog a few years back. She wouldn't respond to commands unless I said them with a twang. My best Barbara Woodhouse "Walkies" had no impact, but as soon as I said "Shall we go for a WARK" her ears would prick up and she headed straight for the door. So I'd put on her 'leash' (see what I did there?) and off we'd go for our hike (again!).

Anyway this got me thinking about the word Holidays. To us back home, it's that glorious two weeks of summer we get off during the kids' school hols. A fortnight in Majorca, a caravan in Skegness, Sticky Vicky in Benidorm. (okay, I'll stop now, you're probably eating breakfast.) While in the American vernacular, it simply means that period between Thanksgiving and New Year's Day. To me, that seems more like 'work' than a holiday. Christmas shopping, decorating, family obligations, office parties, (I know, I know, bah-humbug.) I need a holiday after all that. Or as the locals say 'a vacation'.

So now that kids here are back to school and summer is coming to an end…though you'd never know it from the weather…make sure you make the most of it…..visit the beach, catch a late summer concert or outdoor screening, have a picnic at the beach, or take a hike in the local mountains in the early morning cool, discover all that California has to offer…..you are truly spoilt for choice.

Cheers!
Craig

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF HOWARD EISEN

Case No. BP154725

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of HOWARD EISEN

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Lois Kathleen Beall Weisman Eisen in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Lois Kathleen Beall Weisman Eisen be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Sept. 9, 2014 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 5 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of BARBARA PRITZ HARLEY.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by STEPHEN J. MICHAELS in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that STEPHEN J. MICHAELS be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act with limited authority. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 09/23/14 at 8:30AM in Dept. 11 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Celtic: 'we threw it away'

Stefan Johansen said this week that Celtic "threw away" their chance of reaching the Champions League group stage.

A 1-0 win for NK Maribor in Glasgow on Tuesday gave the Slovenian side a 2-1 aggregate win and consigned Celtic to the Europa League group stage.

"It's sad, tough and very disappointing," said 23-year-old Norway international Johansen.

Marcos Tavares struck with 15 minutes of the second leg to play, cancelling out Celtic's away goal from the first leg and forcing Ronny Deila's side to chase a goal to level the tie and force extra-time.

Callum McGregor, who scored in last week's draw in Slovenia, fired against the crossbar before the Tavares goal and Efe Ambrose headed a chance to equalise wide of the Maribor goal before Virgil van Dijk drew a save from visiting goalkeeper Jasmin Handanovic.

Afterwards, Deila admitted Celtic had not been good enough but Johansen insists his manager and countryman is not to blame for Celtic's play-off defeat.

"Ronny has made it clear what he wants but of course it will take time," explained the midfielder.

Van Gaal shrugs off latest United setback

Manchester United boss Louis van Gaal insisted he was "not shocked" by his side's 4-0 thrashing by MK Dons in the Capital One Cup.

United crashed out against the League One side Tuesday night to leave Van Gaal winless after his first three games in charge.

"I am not shocked because I know what can happen," he said. "A new team is not built in one month.

"I also think Milton Keynes played very well, very aggressively and they had a little bit of luck with the goals."

A Jonny Evans error gifted Will Grigg a first-half opener and the MK Dons striker chested in a second after the hour mark. Arsenal loanee Benik Afobe then hit his own double to compound United's misery as the away side managed just two shots on target all match.

Van Gaal said he wanted to look at "the second team and youth education" after Sunday's 1-1 draw with Sunderland and would analyse the mistakes which "gave the match away".

He said: "We made too many errors. I have no regrets about my selection but the changes were risky."

CAPITAL ONE CUP THIRD-ROUND DRAW

MK DONS, conquerors of Manchester United, will face one of last night's giant-killers in the third round of the Capital One Cup.

Karl Robinson's side were handed a home draw with fellow League One side Bradford, who knocked out Championship Leeds 2-1. Holders Manchester City face Sheffield Wednesday and more than half the Premier League teams will be out of the competition after this stage. Six have already gone and, with five all-Premier League ties in the third round - including Arsenal v Southampton and Swansea v Everton - the competition could become wide open.

Chelsea v Bolton	Man City v Sheff Wed
Arsenal v Southampton	Burton v Brighton
West Brom v Hull	Swansea v Everton
Crystal Palace v Newcastle	Shrewsbury v Norwich
Leyton Orient v Sheff Utd	Fulham v Doncaster
Cardiff v Bournemouth	Tottenham v Nottm Forest
Sunderland v Stoke	Ties to be played on September 23-24.
Derby v Reading
Liverpool v Middlesbrough
MK Dons v Bradford

Sanchez sees Arsenal through

■ Chilean's strike keeps Gunners' 17-year run intact

Alexis Sanchez's first goal for Arsenal since his £35m move from Barcelona claimed the prize of a place in the Champions League group stage for the 17th successive season on a tense Wednesday night at Emirates Stadium.

The Chilean struck the goal that edged out Besiktas but Arsenal had to survive nervous moments - including playing the last 14 minutes with 10 men after Mathieu Debuchy was sent off - before winning this qualifier.

Besiktas were furious when Jack Wilshere's first-half tackle on Ramon Motta in the area went unpunished while Arsenal missed chances of their own to ease the anxiety sweeping around the stadium in the closing stages.

With Aaron Ramsey suspended, Wilshere was at the heart of Arsenal's best work with an energetic display that put recent poor form behind him, while Sanchez demonstrated the work-rate and quality up front that has Wenger believing he will be central to their season.

It was always going to be tense after a goalless first leg and even though this qualifier was decided on fine margins, Arsenal will ultimately have no complaints because this was all about ensuring they did not slip out at this hurdle.

Besiktas were determined in defence and carried a threat going forward that led to an air of frustration as their first half progressed.

Just as Arsenal looked certain to get to half-time on level terms, Wilshere forced the issue with run into the area to play in Sanchez for an angled finish.

The pair linked up again early in the second half as Wilshere's vision gave Sanchez another opportunity inside the area but his snapshot was deflected off target.

Former Chelsea striker Demba Ba gave Arsenal a worrying moment with a shot into the side-netting on the turn - but the Gunners had moments of their own to settle it, with Debuchy heading wide and Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain seeing a shot blocked by Zengin from only eight yards.

The concerns increased for Arsenal and Wenger when they were reduced to 10 men with 14 minutes left after Debuchy received a second yellow card for tangling with Pektemek. He clearly got the ball but referee Proenca felt he had dragged the player back first.

Besiktas attempted to press home their numerical advantage, Ba almost getting on the end of one cross, but Arsenal held out and the Emirates was able to look forward to more Champions League football.

FIREWORKS AHEAD: Crystal Palace have appointed former boss Neil Warnock (above) as their new manager. The 65-year-old, who was at Palace between 2007 and 2010, has signed a two-year deal after being chosen ahead of ex-West Brom boss Steve Clarke.

Reds drawn with Real

■ Champions League Draw: Liverpool book date with holders

Five-time winners Liverpool will face defending champions Real Madrid on their return to the Champions League.

Liverpool, back after a five-year absence, have also been drawn alongside Basel and Ludogorets of Bulgaria.

Manchester City have yet another tough draw with German and Italian opposition. The English champions will face Bayern Munich for the third time in four seasons, as well as CSKA Moscow and Roma.

Arsenal face Borussia Dortmund for the second season running, and face tricky awaydays trips to Galatasaray and Anderlecht, while Chelsea look to have a kinder draw against Schalke, Sporting Lisbon and Maribor.

Liverpool manager Rodgers said of the draw: "To be back in it again, no matter who we were going to play, it was always going to be exciting. But to have Real Madrid in your group, the champions last season, is going to be special."

Mauricio Pochettino's winning start as Tottenham manager continued as they brushed aside AEL Limassol 3-0 on Thursday to clinch their place in the Europa League group stage, 5-1 on aggregate.

Leading 2-1 from the first leg, a much-changed Spurs side were always in control as Pochettino earned his fourth win since replacing Tim Sherwood.

Harry Kane missed an early penalty but later calmly stroked in the opener.

Paulinho fired low across goal for the second and Andros Townsend confidently converted a penalty as Spurs advanced.
