ISIS: more Tornadoes on the way, says Cameron

■ RAF squadron's tour extended to 'sustain this effort in the months ahead"

Prime Minister David Cameron has announced the deployment of two more British Tornado planes to join the fight against Islamic State.

He made the and vannouncement during a need. visit to RAF Akrotiri in "The Cyprus, where British flown operations are based."

The two Tornados join six already based in Cyprus. One will leave later and the second will fly out on Friday.

The planes have carried out air strikes on four of their missions, hitting eight targets in five locations.

'vital work'

During the unannounced visit to the RAF base, Mr Cameron said: "Less than a week into combat operations in Iraq, I wanted to come here to thank our troops for the vital work they're doing to defeat these barbaric Isil [Islamic State] terrorists who threaten security not just in Iraq, Syria and the region but on the streets of Britain too.

"It's an opportunity to hear directly from them about their operations, the challenges they face the and what support they g a need.

"They've already flown a dozen sorties and carried out strikes on four of those missions, successfully hitting eight targets and helping Iraqi forces hold territory but also push back Isil too.

'Keep up tempo'

"We want to make sure that we can keep up this tempo in the days ahead so we will deploy a further two Tornados to Akrotiri in the next 24 hours."

The prime minister also announced that a Tornado squadron expected to be stood down next April would be extended for a year.

He said this was "to ensure we can sustain this effort in the months ahead".

"Obviously, these operations are just one element of our strategy. We are also working hard to deliver a training package for Iraqi forces with advisers in Iraq now to assess their needs," he added.

daily flights

"But today is really about thanking our brave airmen and women. We should never forget the sacrifices they make and the risks they take to make Britain a safer home for all of us and our families."

Tornados began hitting IS targets on Tuesday, four days after Parliament authorized UK involvement in the military campaign.

The aircraft have been conducting daily flights over Iraq since then, and carrying out air strikes against vehicles and weapons positions to assist Kurdish ground forces.

The UK is among about 40 nations that have joined forces to tackle the militant group, which has seized large parts of Iraq and Syria.

IS has declared a so-called caliphate in the areas it has taken, and is also holding a number of hostages.

Last month, the group released a video showing the beheading of Briton David Haines, and it has threatened that Alan Henning, another Briton, who had been delivering aid to Syria when he was captured last year, will be next.

Salmond on the hook for creating 'tax dodgers' charter'

■ Fury over plans to ban councils chasing £425 million in unpaid Poll Tax.

Alex Salmond has been accused of unveiling a "tax dodgers' charter" by banning councils from chasing hundreds of millions of pounds they are owed in historic debts from unpaid Poll Tax.

The First Minister said new laws will prevent local authorities using the pre-independence referendum surge in Scots joining the electoral register to track down those who failed to pay the Community Charge.

He said the controversial levy, which was introduced by Margaret Thatcher's Government in Scotland in 1989, should be "finally consigned to the dustbin of history". It was replaced by council tax in 1993 following a large non-payment campaign.

But Scotland's councils reacted with fury after it emerged that Mr Salmond only plans to recompense them with a tiny proportion of the £425 million they are still owed.

The Convention of Scottish Local Authorities (Cosla) said councils were under "under a very strict obligation to collect every penny" to reduce their reliance on taxpayer funding and they were "very worried" about the precedent being set for the non-payment of tax.

Neither have Scottish ministers made any assessment of which of those people who did not pay the levy now have the resources to do so, the umbrella group said.

SNP ministers were also forced to deny the move would discourage payment of the council tax, which they will examine replacing with a local income tax over the next few years.

Alex Johnstone, the Scottish Tory welfare reform spokesman, said: "There is many a person in Scotland who paid this tax in good faith and they have ended up subsidising those who can afford to pay but chose not to.

"Are those hard-working people going to be reimbursed too under this initiative? If this is the Scottish Government's approach on tax collection, why should anyone bother paying any tax at all?

"This is a move geared towards winning a few extra votes and is nothing but a tax dodgers' charter."

Cameron calls William Hague 'greatest living Yorkshireman'

■ Former Tory leader to step down as MP

DAVID CAMERON reached deep into his book of superlatives at this week's Tory Party conference, describing departing MP William Hague as "the greatest living Yorkshireman".

Cameron and the party were bidding adieu to their former leader, who is stepping down as an MP at the tender age of 53.

Hague prominence at the age of 16 by speaking at the Conservative Party's 1977 national conference. In his speech he told the attenders, "Half of you won't be here in 30 or 40 years' time", but that others would have to live with consequences of a Labour government if it stayed in power. At the time he was derided as a mere 'boy' both by Labour leaders and many members of a skeptical media.

Royal 'harrassment' warning to photographer over George

■ Snapper's actions amount to stalking, says palace officials

Lawyers for the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge have asked a photographer to "cease harassing" Prince George.

A Kensington Palace statement said they were prompted to take action after the man was spotted near the 14-month-old and his nanny in a central London park.

The couple are not taking legal action at this stage, but may consider it in the future, the statement said.

Lawyers for the photographer, Niraj Tanna, said he had done nothing wrong and would continue with his work.

The statement from the palace said there was "reason to suspect that the individual may have been placing Prince George under surveillance and monitoring his daily routines for a period of time."

Legal options

A leading royal expect said palace officials believed the photographer's actions amounted to "stalking" and that lawyers were seeking an assurance he would desist.

"If they do not receive these assurances that this behaviour will stop, they will then consider options of legal action," he said.

It is understood that the man had been warned off last week by royal protection officers and that he had also been spoken to "over a number of years" about his behaviour.

Sudden death of singer Lynsey de Paul

■ Singer-songwriter enjoyed a string of hits in the 1970s

Singer and songwriter Lynsey de Paul has died at the age of 64, following a suspected brain haemorrhage.

De Paul, who represented the UK in the 1977 Eurovision Song Contest with the song Rock Bottom, had five top 20 UK chart hits, including 1972's Sugar Me.

She became the first woman to win an Ivor Novello award for songwriting.

"Although she was small in stature, she was very big in positive personality," said her agent Michael Joyce. "She was always so positive about everything."

"Sad news of Lynsey De Paul, beautiful and t a l e n t e d singer/songwriter," tweeted actor John Challis, best known as Boycie in Only Fools and Horses. "Storm in a Teacup, one of my favourite songs."

Broadcaster and writer Gyles Brandeth called de Paul "gifted, funny, sparky, charming". "A lovely talent & person," he wrote on Twitter.

Her sense of humour informed her close friendship with Spike Milligan, who reportedly nicknamed the diminutive star 'Looney De Small'.

De Paul, who broke into the music scene in 1971, followed up her Sugar Me hit with Getting a Drag, reaching number 18 in the charts. Her 1973 hit Won't Somebody Dance With Me won her her first Ivor Novello award.

A second Ivor Novello Award followed a year later for No Honestly, which was also the theme tune to the ITV comedy of the same name, starring Pauline Collins and John Alderton.

She also wrote the theme to Esther Rantzen's

BBC One series Hearts Of Gold.

Paying tribute, Rantzen, who fronted the show, called her "a renaissance woman".

]"She could do everything - she could sing, she could compose, she was an immensely talented artist," she said.

"She became a huge star but she was also a loyal and generous friend. It's an absolutely tragic loss."

De Paul never married but was romantically linked to a string of well-known men including Sean Connery,

Newspaper facing probe over 'sting' on Tory MP

■ Education Secretary questions 'conduct' used by reporter in investigate operation which caught Brooks Newmark sending X-rated photo of himself to 'PR' girl

A Sunday newspaper accused of turning two unsuspecting women into 'honey traps' to ensnare sex-shame MP Brooks Newmark was attacked by a Cabinet minister on Wednesday.

Education Secretary Nicky Morgan said the Sunday Mirror should not have used 'selfie' photos from the internet of a Swedish model and a Lincolnshire mother of without their consent.

The photos were used as part of a 'sting' which operation resulted in married Mr Newmark quitting the Government after being sending caught X-rated photo himself.

Mrs Morgan said: 'It is not right that photos are taken without consent from anybody.

'The paper will have to think about their conduct.'

London Mayor Boris Johnson said: 'I have a very high regard for Brooks and a great deal of sympathy and I am sure he will be coming back very soon.'

Chaos at DVLA as tax disc is scrapped.

ANOTHER British tradition was consigned to dustbin of history this week, with scrapping of the iconic car tax disc (right).

The round sticker affixed to the front of British windscreens has been as much a part of British motoring as the AA and the RAC for as long as most Britons can remember. But effective October 1st it has been replaced by an online service, tax administered by the British equivalent of the DMV, the DVLA.

Unsurprisingly, DVLA's website crashed Wednesday drivers rushed to use its new service.

At 9.45pm Wednesday night the agency said it "unprecedented demand" for its online with service. 6,000 requests a minute and

"around tonight".

On Thursday tweeted: currently experiencing high volumes of traffic to our online car service, please try later. Sorry for the inconvenience."

Which perhaps again proves that old adage about the more things change, they more they stay the same....

Death nears for Oxo ad star as she orders a halt to treament for bowel cancer

- Bellingham diagnosed last July with stage four colon cancer
 - Veteran TV star hoping for one last Christmas at home

Veteran actress Lynda Bellingham, who is suffering from cancer, has said she has chosen to stop chemotherapy and accept the inevitable.

Bellingham, 66, is known for shows such as All Creatures Great and Small and Loose Women, as well as the Oxo TV adverts screened in the 1980s and 90s.

She was diagnosed with colon cancer, which has since spread to her lungs and liver, in July 2013.

Writing in her a u t o b i o g r a p h y, Bellingham said she told doctors she wanted treatment to stop in November.

In the book, which is being serialised in the Mail on Sunday, she says in an entry dated 13

August 2014: "I sat down with Michael [Bellingham's husband] and Professor Stebbing [her oncologist] and announced: 'The time has come to cease and desist.

"I would love to make one more Christmas, if possible, but I want to stop taking chemo around November in order to pass away by the end of January'."

She said the chemotherapy was so strong her body was "protesting", and she was in pain and discomfort.

'devastated'

On Friday night Bellingham tweeted: "Hi guys back from my holiday... All revealed! I would appreciate your support. x" Earlier this year, the Loose Women panellist picked up an OBE from Buckingham Palace in recognition for a career that has spanned 40 years.

Up until her cancer diagnosis she was a regular on the show and was a contestant on Strictly Come Dancing four years ago.

national institution

When she made her illness publicly known she was about to embark on a UK tour of Kay Mellor's play A Passionate Woman. She said at the time she had to postpone the project in order to have treatment.

"I'm devastated not to be able to honour my commitments to the play this year," she said in a statement.

"I would love to make one more Christmas, if possible, but I want to stop taking chemo around November in order to pass away by the end of January' - Lynda Bellingham

"But having toured many times before, I'm aware of the sheer stamina needed and I need to prioritise my recovery.

"That said, nothing's going to stop me coming back next year, and I can't wait to be 'a passionate woman'."

The actress has however been unable to return and the production has not resumed.

The Oxo TV commercials, which ran from 1983 and featured Bellingham as the mother in a squabbling family, became a national institution.

Other career highlights include playing Helen Herriot in All Creatures Great and Small and Faith Grayshott in the sitcom Second Thoughts, which began on BBC

Radio 4 in 1988 before transferring to ITV. She returned for the sequel Faith in the Future in 1995

Bellingham has been a high-profile supporter of Cancer Research UK and Macmillan Cancer Support since her sister, Barbara, died from lung cancer.

Her autobiography Memoir will be published on 9 October.

Confession reported in brutal murder of two British tourists

■ Pair killed with garden hoe following sex attack on deserted beach

A Burmese man has confessed to killing two British tourists on the Thai island of Koh Tao, according to local reports.

The bodies of Hannah Witheridge, 23, and David Miller, 24, were discovered on a beach on the tiny island on September 15.

Thai newspaper The Nation reported that a Burmese man admitted carrying out the attack after he was arrested in Surat Thani on the Thai mainland.

Post-mortem examinations revealed that Ms Witheridge, from Great Yarmouth, Norfolk, died from head wounds, while Mr Miller, from Jersey, was killed by severe blows to the head and drowning.

A bloodstained garden hoe, believed to be the murder weapon, was found near the scene of the killings.

Police investigators have previously said they believe three people were involved in the attacks.

Officers have collected 200 DNA samples from people on Koh Tao and the results are expected at some point this week.

Two different semen samples collected from Ms Witheridge's body are the basis for the DNA analysis, Thai police told the Bangkok Post.

Last week police colonel Kissana Phathanacharoen said a reward of 700,000 baht roughly £13,300 - was being offered for information leading to the arrests of the killers.

Around 150 police officers were posted to Koh Tao as part of the murder investigation.

Mr Miller's father Ian has said he believes his son stepped in to help Ms Witheridge during an altercation.

He told the Daily Mail:
"It has become clearer and clearer that it is quite likely David was stepping

Michael Caine: I may have made my last film by end of year

■ I've got two Oscars and I've got some money, so I'm alright," says veteran British actor

SIR MICHAEL CAINE may have made his last movie.

The actor, who burst onto British screens more than half a century ago with iconic roles in movies including Zulu, The Ipcress File and Alfie, has told BBC's Newsnight that he has achieved all his ambitions and considering retiring.

Sir Michael, 81, said: "I have no ambitions now... all I do is, I do films that I really want to do."

"If I don't get a script which I don't have - that entices me out, I'll be done in December when I do the last picture, the last script I've got."

"I always went into every movie with an aim. It was either to get an Oscar or make money, that's the two reasons I do movies. I've got two Oscars and I've got some money so I'm alright."

Meet a Member: Paul Terry

Not all Brits in LA Members live in Los Angeles: in fact a fair number are scattered around the globe. This week's Meet a Member is Paul Terry who lives on the Isle of Wight. He is a website designer and founder www.platinumonedesigns. com

Since you don't live in Los Angeles how did you end up joining Brits in LA?

Well, it's a long story! But the short story is I had completed websites for members of Seal's band including Brits in LA member Steve Sidelnyk. Steve introduced me to Craig and Eileen, the founders of BiLA and in turn I created the Brits in LA website along with The Toscars site. I have also Do you think you could created sites for many other Brits in LA including members David Bull, Willi Patterson. Gayle Davidson to name but a few. I have now been a member for over four years.

Have you ever visited Los Angeles - if so we would love to hear your impressions of LA?

Yes, I have been a few times. Most recently I travelled over especially for the Toscars in February 2012. I had an amazing time meeting up with Craig and Eileen and met many other BiLA members. I don't remember a massive amount about the after party!! But I certainly knew about it the morning after!

ever see yourself moving to LA? If not, tell us what keeps you in England?

I'm married with two little ones aged 6 and 3 so the uprooting would be a big thing at the moment, but when they are older you never know!

Do you have a hidden gem in the town where you live you want to share with us?

Isle of Wight is a small place and as it is an island, it's nice to get off it once in a while. So I would have to pick my regular trips to London, be it for a show, concert or to meet up with friends for a night out. I recommend a great restaurant called The Mint Leaf Lounge -

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: This week ahead keep life very low key and don't make any waves as your current situation will be here for some time ahead. This month your boss Mars is in a complimentary sign, adding to your enjoyment.

TAURUS: Write a list of priorities and start with the biggest as your ruler Venus in Libra will not always cooperate this week ahead. However as the month progresses she be helping you, especially in romance and relationship.

GEMINI: Time to deal with what has been hidden so far this month from yourself or others as Uranus the trouble-maker is hanging out in the area of family or friends. Your boss Mercury is going backwards so the past will need to be fixed.

CANCER: A positive beginning and chance to make peace or amends with anyone or anything that has caused you upset as chances are you did not see the picture clearly. This Month any planned moves will not be as fast as hoped.

LEO: The good news is if you take control a thorny issue will be sorted within the week. Any trip taken before mid-month will be delayed so be prepared.

VIRGO: If any area of life is currently not going as smoothly as you expect you can let go of worry about the outcome and all will be well in the end. Please find something to change that's need the help...there is always LIBRA: The main lesson of this month is that it's time to make decisions - not something Libra is good at. However as it is the beginning of your particular New Year make at least one resolution and Venus your boss, visiting you now, is a bonus. Happy Birthday.

SCORPIO: Remember this time last month and realize that all things change and that which came to pass was not anywhere near as bad as you thought. You are also way better than you where this time last year; just cast your mind back and breathe a sigh of relief.

SAGITTTARIUS: Your favorite travel period is coming up so be ready to relax and take a different route as you are truly in need of a break away. You will be lucky in some ways this week, so with this in mind don't hesitate to CAPRICORN: Pluto the lord of digging up the dirt is settling down deeper into your life so the best thing is to look at what you know you can change. Let the rest will take its time in sorting out what to do and when. You could be in a romantic mood this week ahead.

AQUARIUS: You have a chance to rest or take a quick trip this week ahead and even a day away might freshen you up. As we get deeper in to October you will be too busy to take time out. Expect out-of-town visitors.

PISCES: This week ahead confront what upsets you in a meditative way. This is in a non-threatening way and let's see how much better life will be as a result of you taking action for yourself, by your self.

Made for You: Look who's stalking...

■ Exclusive interview with Melissa Marr and a review of her new Gothic novel about a woman whose life is in danger

Rating: $\star\star\star$

"When I was in my twenties, I had a stalker," says Made For You author Melissa Marr. "It wasn't a case of an ex or a friend who became obsessed. This was a stranger who was clearly unwell. attempted to enter my home several times, and there were 911 calls. The feeling of being terrified, of not being able to sleep at my apartment, of asking why me? That was the spark for this book."

A story of dark obsession with twists and turns to keep you reading, Marr's book is mostly told victim's point of view. A few chapters told from the stalker's point of view will make you squirm. There are some lighter moments with a romance reemerging for Eva. Not for the squeamish, this is a dark thriller.

Eva Tilling lives in a little town in North Carolina where nothing ever seems to happen. She gets hit by a car. Was it deliberate? If so, who would want to kill her? The accident has left her with a special ability. She can foresee people's deaths when they touch While she's recovering from the hit-and-run an boyfriend, Nate, reenters her life. They reconnect and he helps her with her new ability. As they spend time together the threat becomes more intense. Her family and friends are in danger too.

"I went from sleeping at friends' places to having friends sleep at mine to eventually moving," says Marr. "Luckily, my ability to relocate was enough to spare me from the sort of things the police listed as possibilities. So, jump forward fifteen years, and I was living in a hospital for several weeks because the baby I adopted was born addicted to several drugs. The combination of being in a hospital so long and the stalking experience in twenties formed the core of the book. Mvgraduate thesis and years of teaching Southern Literature provided the setting."

Made For You hasn't been optioned for film or television, but Marr's book Wicked Lovely has. Weta Digital and Pukeko Pictures are on the project. "My producers [from Vince Vaughn's Wild West Picture Show] have been a joy from the beginning, but when they said Weta was onboard, I expect that my whole neighborhood heard me squeal," says Marr. "They did Lord of the Rings, Avatar, and so many gorgeous films."

"Like all of my YA books, Made For You also has a lovely British editor," says Marr. "In the UK, Denwood has been my editor for years now. An editor not only helps tighten and polish a book, but she also stands in at the meetings at the publisher as the author's advocate. A bad editor is crushing, and a great one is critical to help a book reach the reader as well as be presented to its best ability. Editors at quality publishers, like all three of mv publishers: Harper, Penguin, and Little, Brown/Hachette, very thorough."

Marr's other books include Wicked Lovely,

British Saxophonist Ed Barker hits big in Tinseltown!

Meet Ed Barker a renowned saxophonist from the UK who has spent the last few years touring with some of the music world's biggest names.

Back in 2012 Barker played tenor saxophone and clarinet on tour with superstar George Michael, after which he began putting together his own material and released his debut solo sax album, Simple Truth, on January 9, 2014.

Now, Barker's outstanding album is achieving increasing recognition in London and Los Angeles.

I caught up with Ed, who began his musical studies at the age of seven after hearing Acker Bilk's "Stranger on the Shore" earlier this week in Los Angeles, check out our chat below...

SBGLA: What inspired you to choose the Saxophone over any other instrument?

EB: Well, the saxophone actually chose me! I was auditioning for the National Youth (NYO) Orchestra of Great Britain when I was 16 on clarinet. I got to the final audition and they sent a note around to all finalists a month before the audition, saying that if you played the saxophone, to bring it along and audition on it. needed two saxophonists to play Gershwin's Rhapsody in having this guy, who has

SERENDIPITY: Ed Barker took up the saxophone quite by chance

Blue. I had no idea how to play the saxophone so I borrowed my sister's saxophone – I don't even think Annabelle knew I was borrowing it! learnt the study and the fingerings and took it along to the audition. I played Paul Desmond's solo on Dave Brubeck's Blue Rondo a la Turk and the NYO had me as principal saxophonist and not on clarinet. Four weeks of playing and I was the leading sax player for Britain's National Youth Orchestra – so I figured the saxophone had to be my instrument!

SBGLA: What was the first "Big" moment in your career as musician? EB: The hugest moment had to be being George Michael's featured saxophone soloist. He announced me to tens of thousands of people every night on the tour as I played the solo on his 1993 hit single, Cowboys And Angels. I was up on the big screen and it really helped put me on the map. And it was so exhilarating sold over 100 million albums and countless number ones, introduce me as I played that beautiful solo.

SBGLA: Jazz Music is experiencing a revival amongst the generation, why do you think that is and how does your music help that?

EB: I don't think it really needs reviving - I think there always has been and always will be a following for music which has a great groove and a strong melody. The most inspiring thing for anyone to say to me after a show is that they've never been to a jazz gig before and yet they loved what we did on stage. Jazz is a hard thing to define and can often sound inaccessible to people so I just think, when I write and perform, that I'm trying to put together 'popular music'. It's all about the audience for me: if they like it it's right, and if not it's wrong. Maybe it's that attitude that I have. combined with emphasis on groove and strong melodies, that does my little bit to help 'revive' this kind of music.

SBGLA: What is the one piece of advice you would give yourself if you could speak to a younger you?

EB: Start the saxophone at 6 rather than 16! The best advice I could give anyone is just to love music in all its forms, to become intrigued by every type of music and artist and not to become narrow-minded. There is just so much to learn and as favourite composer, Sergei Rachmaninov, said, 'Music is enough for a lifetime - but a lifetime is not enough for music.' Every day, I learn something new about harmony, orchestration, playing the sax or the piano and I love it – life is one big music lesson and it should keep being fun, otherwise there's no point doing any of it.

SBGLA: What are the best and worst parts of being a professional musician?

EB: The best part is the buzz of playing live on stage where everything could go totally wrong or magically right, every single second. And, of course, the world travel hearing different audiences react during and after the show – and then learning from that for the next day's show! The worst part....I don't think there is a worst part. Getting to play music, live, meet people in the audience and play in a different venue or country each night is a real pleasure and I feel very lucky to be able to do it.

SBGLA: Do you have any words of wisdom to give our readers?

ED: If you become obsessed about something, love enough and see yourself doing something in the future, a bit of regular hard work will take you there. Nobody in this world is born with a gift: what people do is a product of their environment, learning and opportunities. I have been very fortunate to have been surrounded by people that have inspired me at every stage of my career and without my heroes in music, I wouldn't have found the passion for it and simply wouldn't be able to play in the way I do today.

SBGLA: What's your favorite song or piece of music and why?

EB: You'd expect me to name a saxophonist and a jazz piece wouldn't you? Well, I'm going to shock you and tell you that the most moving piece of music for me is Rachmaninov's Symphony No. 2. It is one of the most beautiful pieces of music I've ever heard and every time I listen to it, I get that fuzzy feeling that music is supposed to inspire.

When music does that to you, you know it's a great piece of work. Shockingly, there are no saxophones in this piece but I get inspired by the orchestration and the harmony and, of course, the strong melodies. I hope I can write an orchestral album one day, featuring saxophone of course.

SBGLA: What is a distinctly British Quality or personality trait that you have?

EB: Us Brits apologise a lot, we like to 'queue' (I think you say 'line' - we love standing in lines whenever we can!), we adore fish and chips and real ale served at room temperature and we like our English shoes and coats. I think I follow all these traditions!

SBGLA: Would you ever relocate to Los Angeles and why or why not?

EB: I'd be very hard pushed to leave Britain behind completely. Perhaps I can live in both places simultaneously. But LA is such a beautiful place - the sun, the sea, the wonderful people (not to mention the wine). I guess that's why life is so entertaining because it can take so many unexpected turns: who knows where I'll be living in a month, let alone a year or a lifetime.

Lottery Time Again!

Our Facebook page has been aflutter this week with talk about the USA Green-card lottery with many asking why the UK is never allowed to play? Well, it's due to the amount of applicants they get from diverse countries. Apparently there are already a plenty of applicants from the UK every year and they're looking for a bit more ethnic diversity.

However there is good news if you are from Northern Ireland; you are actually eligible this year. So Good luck!

Lottery Requirement #1

You must be from an eligible country. The following countries are NOT eligible: Bangladesh, Brazil, Canada, (mainland-born), China Colombia. Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Haiti, India, Jamaica, Mexico, Nigeria, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, United South Korea. Kingdom (*except Northern Ireland) and its dependent territories, and Vietnam.

Lottery Requirement #2

You must meet the following educational requirements: 1. A high school education or its equivalent, defined as successful completion of a 12-year course of formal elementary and secondary education: OR Two years of work experience within the past five years in an occupation requiring at least two years of training or experience to perform.

1. Don't Cheat The System:

The State Department uses advanced software to detect multiple lottery entries, and you will be automatically disqualified if you enter more

2. Double-Check Your Entry: Even minor typos on critical information, such as the spelling of your name, can result in disqualification. Make sure you enter everything completely and correctly.

3. Consider Your Nationality Options: If you do not reside in a qualifying country, you may be eligible based on your country of birth, your spouse's nationality, or your parents' nationality. Read the full instructions for more information.

4. Don't Forget to Follow Up: The 2016 lottery winners will be published in May of 2015. The only way to see if you won is to check your entrant status here. You will not be contacted bv government.

5. Don't Get Scammed: You should not be paying anyone to help you enter the lottery. Be wary of any "expert" who isn't a qualified immigration attorney—especially if it sounds too good to be true.

SUM OF IT

After a bit of research I found the 'official' reason the UK was not chosen as one of the countries this year: courtesy of the USA.gov website: "The Diversity Visa program makes up to 55,000 visas available to people who meet strict eligibility requirements from countries with low rates of immigration to the United States." The online registration period for the 2014 program should open in fall 2012.

We're very pressed for space this week. For the full version of this column, visit us online at www. british-weekly.com - where you'll have a chance to win one of our coveted Key Memberships, bringing you great discounts all over town.

Till next time... Cheers!

playing on the wing has helped develop him as a team player.

"It always helps to know that you have a good chance to play in the next game," added Wenger, 64.

"What's good for me is that his link play is good as well. His teamwork and his work rate is at the level of the team.

"His attitude is very positive - he's a team player, not just a finisher. He has learned that on the flank and he wants to help the team."

The one negative for Arsenal on Wednesday was the dismissal of goalkeeper Woiciech Szczesny, who was sent off for a foul on Burak Yilmaz with the Gunners 4-0 ahead.

Substitute goalkeeper David Ospina replaced Szczesny, but could not out Yilmaz's keep penalty.

Commons the difference for Hoops

EUROPA LEAGUE: KRIS Commons was again the hero for Celtic as he plundered the only goal after just six minutes against Dinamo Zagreb on Thursday night.

The playmaker, on his return from injury, proved the difference on what proved to be a fraught Europa League tie for the Scottish champions.

They had to survive a series of nervy moments, mostly in the second half, and were again indebted to the rejuvenated figure of goalkeeper Craig Gordon as they preserved all three points and claimed the initiative at the top of Group D.

At White Hart Lane Demba Ba's late penalty for Besiktas denied Tottenham their first win in Group C.

It was no more than the visitors deserved as the ex-Chelsea man converted after Vlad Chiriches handled in the area having let the ball slip through his legs.

Harry Kane gave Spurs the lead in the 27th minute when he surged forward before firing a low shot past keeper Tolga Zengin from the edge of the area.

Both Besiktas frontmen were a constant menace for Tottenham, who were lucky not to lose to Slaven Bilic's Turkish side.

And Samuel Eto'o's late goal salvaged a point for a lacklustre Everton in their Europa League group-stage game at FK Krasnodar.

The Cameroon striker was perfectly placed to tap in a cross from Leighton Baines with eight minutes remaining.

Brazilian forward Ari had fired the home side ahead after capitalising on a mistake from Phil Jagielka.

Liverpool captain Steven Gerrard questioned his team-mates' desire and determination after their midweek 1-0 Champions League defeat at Basel

"They wanted it more, which is very disappointing," he told Sky Sports.

"We didn't deserve anything. We were too soft al over the pitch and conceding again from a set piece isn' good enough."

Liverpool slipped to third in Group B and play holders Real Madrid in their next two games in the competition.

Hodgson denies Sturridge rift

■ Roy/Rodgers still in tune over striker following lingering international injury?

England manager Roy Hodgson has rejected talk of a rift with Liverpool over injured striker Daniel Sturridge.

Sturridge, 25, is not in Hodgson's latest squad after suffering a thigh strain on England duty last month.

Reds boss Brendan Rodgers criticised England's handling of the player, and did not want him to be called up for games against San Marino and Estonia.

"It's simply a fact, an unfortunate fact, that he's not recovered," Hodgson said of Sturridge's absence.

"There's no problems or conflict there at all."

Sturridge has missed Liverpool's last six games but there is a chance he could return on Saturday, against West Brom in the Premier League.

But Rodgers said he would not be able to play in the Euro 2016 qualifiers with San Marino on Thursday, 9

"There's no problems or conflict there at all," said Hodgson of his relationship with Brendan Rodgers

October and three days later against Estonia.

"I've had good communication with Roy and we spoke at length on the situation," said Rodgers, whose side were beaten 1-0 by Basel in the Champions League on Wednesday. "It was amicable. There is no issue.

"We had agreed it was probably too soon for Daniel to meet up with England irrespective of whether he was involved this weekend or not.

"Every individual player is different. I respect he (Hodgson) had work to do internationally but my thoughts are with Liverpool players and what their needs are.

"Daniel hasn't trained with the team at all since the injury with them and it was probably not the right time to go with them.

"I've not spoken to Daniel. My focus is on Liverpool, it is not on England. I spoke to him about being available for Liverpool but I can't think about England when he is not ready to play for Liverpool."

Hodgson said there had been "no question" of selecting Sturridge for the double-header.

STURRIDGE: the Liverpool striker has still not recovered after suffering a thigh strain on international duty for England last month

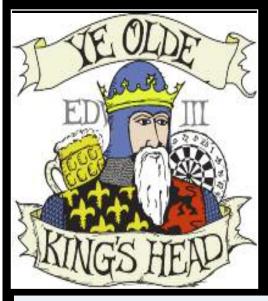

"He's not played for Liverpool at all since picking up the injury with us. As I understand it he's still got some work to do before he's fully fit," Hodgson said.

"It's a great blow to us,

Liverpool and the player, because he was anxious to be a part of these two games."

Sturridge has made 16 appearances for England since making his debut almost three years ago, scoring five goals - his most recent coming in the 2-1 defeat by Italy at the World Cup in June. England won their opening Euro 2016 qualifier 2-0 against Switzerland last month.

Welbeck: Arsenal striker was electric, says Wenger

■ Champions league hat-trick leaves Gunners boss purring

Arsenal boss Arsene
Wenger described Danny Welbeck as "electric" after the striker scored his first professional hat-trick in Wednesday's 4-1
Champions League
win over Galatasaray.

The England international, 23, netted twice in the first half at the Emirates before getting a third after the break.

Welbeck has now scored four goals in three games, and Wenger said: "I knew he was quick but he's electric.

"Hopefully that hat-trick will help him gain confidence.

Welbeck played as the main striker against Galatasaray, with Alexis Sanchez, Mesut Ozil and Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain behind him.

The quartet combined to great effect, with Welbeck twice making intelligent runs to finish off passes from Sanchez and Oxlade-Chamberlain.

He also used his pace and power to score

Arsenal's second after a poor header by Galatasaray's Aurelien Chedjou.

Welbeck scored 10 goals in 35 games last season for United, but often played in a wider position.

He has been employed as a central striker since joining Arsenal on transfer deadline day and, although Wenger believes Welbeck is benefitting from a run in his favoured position, he feels his experience of cont. on page 19, col. 3
