Haggis the cure for American obesity'

■ President Obama urged to drop ban on sale of Scottish dish in the US

The United States should lift its ban on the import of haggis in an attempt to tackle the country's obesity crisis, a leading medic has said.

of McColl Lord Dulwich, a retired professor of surgery, said American Scots were being deprived of the "wholesome" food and as a result dying of obesity.

Lord Winston, a leading fertility doctor and television presenter, told the Lords that haggis was "revolting" but if it could be used to curb obesity it should be promoted in Glasgow.

Lord McColl, a Tory, urged the Government to demand the US administration lifts the ban on haggis.

The US does not recognise lung tissue as a permissible food stuff due to the risk of transmissible spongiform encephalopathy, which can cause brain disease in humans.

He told peers: "The States government is depriving Scots of this wholesome food which satisfies hunger very much more than the junk food Americans consume.

"This would help to deal with the greatest epidemic they have - the obesity epidemic, which is killing millions, costing billions of dollars and the cure is free."

'good prospects'

Lord de Mauley, the Defra (Department of the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs) minister said there were two hurdles.

"First the US restrictions on the import of lamb. We are working with the US authorities towards achieving approval to lift those restrictions with I think good prospects," he said.

"Secondly the US's unwillingness recognise animal lungs as 24 million American an acceptable food stuff. In this regard the most promising avenue in the short term is the production of haggis omitting the inclusion of lung and the Scottish government recognises this."

> He said the former environment secretary Owen Paterson had lobbied the US authorities during a visit last summer.

> Lord Winston, a Labour and leading academic, said: "I confess to being a little bit surprised that one of the most senior qualified medical practitioners in the chamber is asking this question seeing there is a questionable issue about haggis, which I find personally a revolting

The bronze statue bears a brass plaque with a quote from Baroness Thatcher on April 3, 1982:

Revealed: Finsbury Park connection to Charlie Hebdo massacre suspect

One of the two brothers wanted over the Charlie Hebdo massacre mentored by al-Qaeda lieutenant with links to a notorious north London mosque.

Cherif Kouachi, 32, is reportedly a disciple of terror plotter Djamel Beghal, who attended Finsbury Park Mosque and is alleged to have recruited shoe bomber Richard Reid.

Beghal, 49, was a key aide to hook-handed hate preacher Abu Hamza, who controlled the mosque during the burgeoning Islamist movement in London.

recruited in prison

He was later jailed in 2005 for plotting to bomb the US embassy in Paris, and admitted meeting Osama bin Laden as he recruited British jihadists to fight in Afghanistan.

Kouachi - the younger of two brothers on the run after the massacre of 12 people during the Paris attack - was apparently recruited in prison by Beghal after being jailed arranging for jihadists to travel to Iraq.

Kouachi mentor Beghal had previously been a "constant presence" at Finsbury Park Mosque in the late 1990s when it was used as a base by Abu Hamza, who is due to be sentenced in New York after being found guilty of supporting terrorist organisations.

extremist preacher

Reda Hassaine, who worked as a paid MI5 informant at the mosque, said Beghal was well known there in the late 1990s.

He said Beghal had been particularly close to extremist preacher Abu Qatada, who was deported to Jordan after a lengthy legal battle in 2013 where he was freed after a court found there "insufficient evidence" against him.

Hassaine said: "He was closer to Abu Qatada than to Abu Hamza.

"He definitely had connections with them.

"I believe he lived outside London at the time but he was regularly seen at the mosque and at the coffee shops around Finsbury Park.

Lord Purvis of Tweed, a former member of the Scottish parliament, said: "I see that the Prime Minister is with President Obama today. Can you now send an urgent message to make sure this visit is a triumph by having a private word with the President to make sure this ban is now lifted?"

Lord de Mauley told him he could not "guarantee a rapid resolution of this problem".

Lord Forsyth suggested an alternative solution to the problem.

"Given the seriousness of this matter, should the Government not consider appointing a special envoy with energy and imagination to go to the United States and stay there until this matter is resolved," he proposed. "Could I suggest that Alex Salmond is currently looking for a job."

Mother jailed for swindling £138,000 in benefits while living as an expat in Tunisia - and even blogged about it

- She claimed benefits for six years saying she still lived in Prenton, Wirral
- She denied living abroad and said blog was a 'figment of her imagination

A mother fraudulently raked in more than £138,000 from the UK taxpayer - while living in Tunisia with her two youngest children.

Susan Elaine Flanagan, 56, even set up a blog called 'A Brit making a life in Tunisia', posting about a catering business she had set up.

Flanagan claimed the benefits between May 2006 and November 2012 on the basis she was living in Prenton, Wirral, even though she had moved her family to the north African country.

suspicions

She claimed Income Support, Child Benefit and Disability Living Allowance in the UK and later made additional claims for Employment Support Allowance and Child Tax Credit

After suspicions were raised in 2012 following a tip-off and her benefits were stopped, she returned to the UK and was arrested.

Investigations showed she had taken her children out of school in 2006 - but when confronted over the blog posts she initially claimed they were 'a figment of her imagination', and said the content couldn't be relied upon.

investigations

Flanagan insisted she only spent eight to 12 weeks at a time in Tunisia where she rented a property and denied doing anything wrong.

It was only after lengthy investigations, carried out by the Department of Work and Pensions, which included translating stamps on her passport from Arabic and going through her bank account transactions that she finally admitted her crimes.

Flanagan has now pleaded guilty to five offences of failing to notify a change of circumstance and failing to disclose information.

At Liverpool Crown Court on Friday, Philip Astbury, defending, said his client had not been living the 'life of Riley' in Africa.

But Kevin Slack, prosecuting, said money goes a lot further in Tunisia than in Britain, adding that her blog suggested she ate out at restaurants, had people entertaining at her home and was living 'an enjoyable lifestyle'.

fraudulent

The court heard Ms Flanagan - who arrived in a mobility scooter - began making legitimate benefit claims in 1993, including disability living allowance on the grounds she had extensive mobility restrictions.

But they became fraudulent in 2006 when she took her two children out of school and moved from her home to start a new life in Monastir, Tunisia.

Mr Slack said that over the following six-and-a-half years she continued living in Africa, with a pattern of spending several months to a year there at a time, with occasional return visits to her Prenton home, usually for a week or two before flying back out to Tunisia.

In 2009 she submitted a claim for child tax benefit, filling in a form saying she lived in the UK.

Two years later an Income Support review form was filled in to allow her to continue claiming, which the prosecution said appeared to have been completed by someone else at her request as she was in Tunisia at the time

In early 2012, Flanagan submitted a further form for Employment Support Allowance, on which she gave her Prenton address but declined to provide a mobile number - and also requested three weeks notice for any face-to-face assessment.

Mr Slack said: 'She said she would need that time for a carer to accompany her to an interview. The crown suggests that was to allow her time to come back from Tunisia.'

'remorseful'

Defending, Mr Astbury said it was an 'unusual' case as she would have been entitled to those benefits if she had been living in the UK, and said it hadn't been a cynical and calculated plan but something she fell into and let continue.

He said his client was a woman of previous good character who was

remorseful, and said that due to her chronic medical condition a custodial sentence would be difficult to deal

Sentencing, Recorder Paul Reid QC said Flanagan had chosen to abuse the system and enjoy that lifestyle choice with the assistance of benefits she was receiving in the UK, and said the picture her blog painted was of an enjoyable life in Tunisia.

Rejecting the possibility of a suspended sentence, he jailed her for 12 months, reduced from 16 for her guilty pleas. She was also ordered to pay back £4,000, the only amount available for confiscation, within two months.

A GODSEND: David Alfille's better butter dish

Inventive Briton makes toast butterly perfect

Trying to spread cold, hard butter onto soft bread can be a frustrating task.

But now there's a dish that solves the problem by heating up to keep the butter at the optimum consistency for spreading and also cools it in the summer. It plugs into the mains and can be left turned on so that the butter is ready to use at any time.

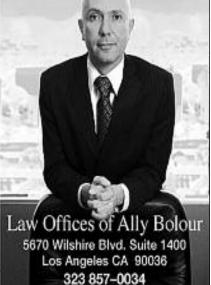

David Alfille, 54, came up with the idea after getting frustrated when he couldn't butter his bread on cold mornings without

Seaside hut enjoys that Broadchurch bounce!

- Blue chalet featured in popular ITV drama goes on sale for £275,000
- Two-bed wooden chalet sits on bank of River Brit in West Bay, Dorset

THE AMERICAN VERSION of the hit show Broadchurch may have been a dud, but that hasn't stopped the British original from enjoying huge success back home.

Devoted fans don't just watch and re-watch the show avidly, visit forums and tweet about it, many also make a pilgrimage to the Dorset Coast where the show is set.

Which has meant a nice little earner for those selling property nearby.

And nowhere is the so-called "Broadchurch Bounce" more evident than in the whopping £275,000 sale price of the tiny wooden blue hut on the banks of the River Brit in West Bay, where DI Alec Hardy (played by David Tennant), stays while solving the case.

£41 per night

Previously let as a holiday chalet for as little as £41 per night, the 100 year old two-bed waterfront property has recently been swamped with interest since Broadchurch first aired in 2013.

It's one of four homes built around 1900 next to the River Brit, can only be reached by foot and has the unique position of looking out across the harbour, river and meadows behind.

Series producers reportedly hired the chalet for two separate periods of two weeks while filming the ITV drama, home to David Tennant's brooding lead character.

When asked about the proposed uplift in price thanks to the show Malcolm Gill, of estate agents Lyme Coast Holidays, said, 'It's impossible to quantify but I would say it has probably benefitted from an uplift of between £25,000 and £50,000.'

'pleasantly surprised'

'We have tried to price it fairly and sensibly without being greedy and I think the owner will be pleasantly surprised to achieve the asking price.'

He may be right to be optimistic as hotel searches to West Bay, Dorset, since the series debuted have seen an increase of 50 per cent, according to research conducted by hotel.com, and house prices in the picturesque areas have risen by the same amount.

The blue hut called Britbank is described on Lyme Coast Holiday's website as a 'very unusual Edwardian seaside home right on the riverbank of the river Brit and only a few yards from the sandy beach and the iconic hamstone cliff which also featured in the series on location in West Bay'.

It says that while the chalet has successfully been a holiday let for the past two years the artist and sculptor owner, Abbey Evans, has decided to put it up for sale.

'wonderful memories'

The property was spotted by Chris Chibnall, the creator of Broadchurch, who lives in nearby Bridport, when he was writing the first series in a local café.

At the time, Tenant's character was still being developed and it is thought that much of the second series was then created around the idea of the Jurassic Coast chalet as Tenant's base. Chibnall has said the chalet 'holds lots – if not all – of the secrets'.

Mr Evans, 60, bought the chalet in 2000 and said it held wonderful memories for both him and his

'horrible murder'

'I am sad to let it go and if my circumstances were different, I would try and keep it on,' he told a reporter this werek. 'I had a lot of good times there with my son. His surfboard is still in the roof with lots of old fishing rods.'

'I just hope the horrible murder won't put people off,' he joked.

As a warning to would-be Broadchurch tourists the estate agents note that they are happy to 'arrange a viewing for those that are genuinely interested.'

QUITE A MARKUP: the two-bedroom chalet rented for as little as £41 a night before the Broadchurch phenomenon hit tearing the slice because it hadn't softened enough

His dish, which is six inches wide, five inches long and four inches tall, plugs into the mains and has a dial on the bottom so people can adapt the temperature to suit their needs, warming the spread to between 15 and 23°C.

It also has a small fan in the base of the dish, which works like an air conditioner for the spread in hot temperatures, while the butter tray can be removed and cleaned in a dishwasher.

Mr Alfille, from Ticehurst in East Sussex worked with a design company in Wales to make his idea a reality. It is manufactured in China and the process took two years.

'It's similar to a mini-fridge but it will heat and cool, he said.

'With modern technology there's a little plate called a thermo-electric cooler one side of it gets hot and the other gets cold.

'What we have done is changed the polarity round so sometimes it heats and sometimes it cools.

'really frustrating'

'Generally you would keep the butter at about 18.5°C, or 19.5°C for unsalted butter. But the dish means in winter you can heat it up and in summer you can keep it cooler so it doesn't spread too thinly.'

He explained that he thought of the idea when he couldn't spread his butter one day.

'It was really frustrating me and I don't like spreadables, I like real butter and a lot of people do."

Mr Alfille did lots of research and conducted focus groups to get the design right.

'People don't realise how much technology goes into it. The biggest thing was trying to get all the electronics into something small enough, because we didn't want something massive and unsightly,' he explained.

'We wanted something small and pretty that could sit beside your kettle and toaster and look part of the kitchen.'

The dish is available from Mr Alfille's website, (www.alfille.co.uk)and costs £34.99, with a stainless steel version priced at £39.99.

Veteran entertainer Anita Harris declared bankrupt

Anita Harris, the singer and movie star who appeared in two Carry On films, has been declared bankrupt.

Mrs Harris and her husband, television director Mike Margolis, had a bankruptcy petition filed against them by the taxman at Kingston upon Thames County Court, according to a report in the Mail on Sunday.

The actress reportedly owes more than £14,000, while Mr Margolis has personal liabilities in excess of £25,000.

This is not the first time Mrs Harris, who released several Top 40 singles, has fallen on hard times. In 1985 she and her husband lost all of their savings thanks to the collapse of a Swiss-based bank. More recently, in 2007, the couple sold their home in the affluent London suburb of Barnes for £913,000 to pay off debts.

ITV's "reboot" of the 1960s show, called Thunderbirds Are Go, is a mix of CGI and live action, and will air this spring – 50 years after the first show was broadcast.

The new version will be broadcast in 26 half-hour episodes and has been made by Peter Jackson's Weta Workshop, responsible for special effects in The Lord of the Rings.

Graham, the only original voice cast member to feature in the remake, said Anderson

Greys and Glory saddle up for Waterloo anniversary

HIS YEAR marks 200th anniversary the Battle of Waterloo, the epic climax to the Napoleonic war on Belgian soil that finally banished the spectre of French domination of Continent and enshrined The Duke of Wellington's place in history. Waterloo also ushered in a period of relative peace and prosperity among the major European nations that was not completely until broken outbreak of World War One almost a century later.

Not surprisingly there are countless events planned to mark the anniversary of this pivotal battle during the week of June 15-22nd. But one group with a local connection hoping to participate is the charity Greys & Glory, which is composed of active and former members of the Royal Scots Dragoon Guards and civilian members of War Horse Foundation from Los Angeles.

famous chapters

The organizers of the charity hope to recreate the troupe of the Royal Scots Greys, a cavalry brigade sadly now defunct but whose name will be forever linked with many of the most famous chapters in British military history. The troupe was finally disbanded in 1971 after an illustrious history spanning almost three hundred years. It was the Greys who led a pivotal cavalry charge in support of the infantry during Waterloo and captured the French eagle standard from the

The War Horse Foundation has been presenting the 1815 Royal Scots Greys since 2002 at numerous events, Scottish Festivals and the Tournament of Roses Parade. And this summer the Greys and Glory troupe will be at Waterloo presenting to an anticipated 300,000 spectators and countless millions more watching around the world.

Crowd funding venture

During the ceremonies they plan to hold a separate event for the veterans and active service and public to attend, commemorating the Scots Greys by reading the names of the fallen riders.

But the organization need to equip, refit, manufacture uniforms, gear and accoutrements for rider and horse. They also have to procure proper grey horses, suitable for presentation and the stimulus of guns and cannon fire. Getting the horses to Waterloo and maintaining their care is the biggest expense. They need help and donations. They are launching crowfunding venture this month and will hold fundraising several events during the spring. To see how you help, visit greysandglory.org or at their partner website warhorsefoundation.com. They can also be found on Facebook and can be reached at: 818 694-9277.

Fritz Bronner, the Director of the War Militaria Horse & Heritage Foundation told the British Weekly this week: "As an American, Scottish, English and Welsh heritage).... it is a great opportunity for all Americans to recognize the heritage of the Greys as well as say thank you to the current British Regiment and say "thank-you" to our closest, ally and friends; Great Britain. For the many British Scottish ex-pats, it is a chance to share their heritage and patriotism remember commemorate British Soldiers past present."

'SHOCKING': Joanne Froggatt won the Globe for her portrayal of Anna Bates in Downtown Abbey

Emotional Froggatt clinches Globe win

Joanne Froggatt won the Golden Globe Award on Sunday for Best Supporting Actress on TV for her work on the costume drama Downton Abbey.

"Wow! Oh, my goodness! This is the most shocking moment of my life," Froggatt declared before giving a shout-out to actress Kathy Bates for being so gracious when she approached her as a fan earlier in the evening.

She then thanked the show's creator and writer Julian Fellowes for giving her "the responsibility of this storyline," referring to how her married, 1920s-era housemaid character Anna Bates was raped in Season 4 of the series.

"After this storyline aired, I received a small number of letters from survivors of rape and one woman summed up the thoughts of many by saying she wasn't sure why she had written, but she just felt in some way she wanted to be heard," Froggatt said. "And I'd just like to say I heard you and I hope saying this so publicly means in some way you feel the world hears you."

THE OTHER big British winner at the Globes on Sunday night was Eddie Redmayne. The rising star got the nod for his performance as Stephen Hawking in The Theory of Everything, and is now considered a front-runner for the Best Actor Oscar following his nomination on Thursday.

The 33-year-old has dazzled both the critics and the general public with his portrayal of the world's most famous living scientist crippled by an advanced form of motor neurone disease.

He is also nominated for a BAFTA award next month.

Redmayne has won plaudits for his theatre work over the past decade, and has had parts in a number of big films, but this was his first leading man role - and it has propelled him into the big league.

Originally from Staplehurst (a small village in Kent whose biggest claim to fame was it nearly saw the untimely demise of Charles Dickens in a train wreck), Nigel moved to Los Angeles via Tampa (a large tropical metropolis that nearly saw the untimely demise of his will to live). He settled here three years ago to make autobiographical documentary about his retirement tour from pro wrestling and whatever the next exciting chapter of his life turned out to be....the exciting six-episode TV series he's written and is currently funding at LAFights.com.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

I'd always wanted to live here but never thought I could afford to. Funding the documentary on Kickstarter allowed me to take the jump and I discovered I actually couldn't have afforded not to.

What one thing do you miss from home? My Mum and Dad.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus

Tampa/Staplehurst?

A variety of things to do, and median age range (Tampa) The color of people's teeth, other than that's it's near identical (Staplehurst.)

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

Priscilla's Coffee in Toluca Lake. Tito's Tacos in Culver City. No so hidden, but gem-like nonetheless.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here? Like I learned in Scouts - be prepared. If you have neither a lot of money or friends here get good at making either, but preferably both, or be prepared to steal or beg.

If your life was a TV show what song would be the theme tune?
Why Does It Always

Rain On Me? - Travis.

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you on the Internet?

Twitter @McGuinnessNi gel. Also at facebook.com/nigel. mcguinness.7. You can also find me at www. NigelWrestling.com, where you can see my documentary and read blog. Finally check out LAFights.com where you can hear more about the TV show and get on board.

Ruth Rendell 'critical' after a stroke

Crime writer Ruth Rendell is in a critical but stable condition after suffering a stroke, her publisher has announced.

The author (pictured, right), who also has a seat in the House Of Lords as a Labour peer, is known for her series of novels featuring Chief Inspector Wexford among the dozens she has written.

She had what has been described as a "serious stroke" last week and is being looked after in hospital.

A statement from her publisher, Hutchinson - Penguin Random House, said: "Ruth Rendell (Baroness Rendell of Babergh), the renowned crime writer and author of over 60 best-selling novels, suffered a serious stroke on Wednesday, 7 January.

"She is in hospital under expert care in a critical but stable condition. Her son, Simon Rendell, is with her and thanks everyone for their concern. The family request privacy while the doctors assess the best course of treatment.

"Our thoughts are with Ruth and her family at this difficult time."

Rendell had recently completed a new novel for the company and plans remain in place to publish it in the autumn.

The 84-year-old's most recent publication was

The Girl Next Door, which came out last year along with a 50th anniversary edition of her debut novel, From Doon With Death.

Her Wexford books were dramatised for TV for more than a decade as The Ruth Rendell Mysteries, with George Baker in the lead role.

She has also published a number of books under the pen name Barbara Vine, as well as many psychological crime thrillers.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: If life is not all it could be look at the positive side of things as we move into mid-month. Your boss Mars is moving into Pisces and can make you somewhat moody or on edge. Bear this in mind all next week and hold back in any communications.

TAURUS: Your emotions are probably in a mess in regards to some area of life. It is more than likely a past situation that has brought things up and this should to be resolved once and for all. GEMINI: It's not the best time in your life but that's because you are not looking at the truth of things. Take time out - maybe with a trusted friend - and figure out what you are not dealing with. You cannot be at peace until you know your own truth.

CANCER: There is an old saying "Karma will catch you if nothing else does". Remember this when you are letting go of what you consider the past...it will come up again until it is resolved.

LEO: You may be in the mood to get away for a few days or even hours and you will as soon as what take care of any outstanding issues. Mars in Pisces can make you somewhat nit picky, remember this when dealing with others.

VIRGO: Since the year began life has not been as easy as you would like, however everything is a lesson and you would be wise to remember this and make a mental note for the rest of the year.

LIBRA: Your lovely boss Venus is sitting in Aquarius, which is a compatible sign for you as well as Mercury. This week ahead on the 21st Mercury goes backwards for three weeks. Get anything that is time-sensitive finished before including travel plans.

SCORPIO: Work that you enjoy is slowly but surely becoming more available to you than for some years past. As you at last free yourself from Saturn living with you and restricting life in some ways, you will be rewarded for any positive changes you made now.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss Jupiter is snoozing in Leo until April, so get all your ducks in a row by that time. In the meantime do not let that famous foot in your mouth get you into trouble.

CAPRICORN: The sun in the last few days of your sign brings more action for your attention this weekend.

Pluto visiting you is raking up anything that is not for your best good. He will push you to change things eventually. Happy Birthday! AQUARIUS: You are probably feeling a little on edge or even stressed this week.

The planet Venus now moving in your life will bring some peace of mind regarding love and financial areas. Anything else is up to you, so with this in mind keep calm and carry on!

PISCES: Mars in your life will assist you all the way for a few weeks. With this knowledge and in order to experience happier days it's time to be honest about any feelings much on your mind and if you learn to live in the moment things will work out quicker.

Oscar nominations...another big year for British talent!

It's a big week in film as the Academy Awards nominations were announced with a host of British stars earning nods in the major categories!

And it not just British stars that are riding high, but the industry as a whole looks healthy, especially following last year's Oscar success for 12 Years a Slave and Gravity.

Golden Globe winner Eddie Redmayne is facing fellow British screen favorite Benedict Cumberbatch in the race to be named best actor, Eddie for The Theory of Everything and Benedict for the Imitation Game.

The pair are up against Hollywood heavyweights Michael Keaton, Steve Carell and Bradley Cooper for the award.

Cumberbatch, who plays codebreaker Alan Turing in the film, said he was "knocked for six" by the nomination.

"So excited and honoured to receive this recognition," he said.

"It's wonderful to be included the by Academy in this exceptional year of performances. To ring my parents, who are both actors, and tell them that their only son has been nominated for an Oscar is one of the proudest moments of my life."

Eddie's co-star in the Stephen Hawking biopic, Felicity Jones, and Rosamund Pike (Gone Girl) were both nominated for the leading actress gong, while Keira Knightley is in the running for best supporting actress.

Eddie's portrayal of Hawking has already won him a Golden Globe and he will be among the favorites to win the Oscar statuette.

The actor said on Thursday: "It's the crack of dawn and I've gone from being in a deep dark sleep to hearing this news. I can't quite articulate what I'm feeling but I feel pretty good".

He played down any rivalry with his "old friend" Benedict Cumberbatch, calling him a "lovely, wondrous, human being".

"We've been texting this morning and there have been a lot of exclamation marks of euphoria so there's definitely no competition there," he said.

Redmayne revealed he would stay up to watch the Oscars as a child but would "never ever dream I'd get to go. Frankly being invited to the party is an extraordinary thing".

Best actress hopefuls Jones and Pike face stiff competition from Reese Witherspoon, Julianne Moore and Marion Cotillard.

Jones admitted she was too nervous to watch the nominations live.

"It's so nerve-wracking I couldn't watch it", she told the BBC. "I was just waiting and I got a phone call from my brother. He was very sweet, he just said: "you've done it, you've got it.

"I was just so excited. It's one of those things you never quite expect. It's just fantastic news".

Knightley, who stars alongside Cumberbatch in The Imitation Game, nominated for the best supporting actress award alongside Oscar's Meryl veteran making Streep it nineteenth Academy Award nomination. Oo-er!

Neil Patrick Harris will host the 87th annual Academy Awards on Sunday, Feb. 22. Although Harris has hosted the Tony Awards four times and the Emmy Awards twice, this will is his first time hosting the Oscars.

Can't wait!

Jamie Dornan: no actor can live up to Christian Grey!

Irish actor Jamie
Dornan is well aware that many-a-fan were disappointed when he was cast to play
Christian Grey in the upcoming movie
adaptation of Fifty Shades of Grey.

The 32-year-old star (pictured, right) said some fans are so discontent with him playing the part, that he was once yelled at by one of them.

"The other day, this woman came up and started shouting at me, 'Matt Bomer's the real Christian Grey," he said. "And I was like, 'Um, OK.""

Bomer, along with several other Hollywood hunks, was among the fan-favorites for the part, but Dornan had some hash words for his detractors, "Christian Grey....isn't a real person."

"I mean, even if you cast Matt Bomer, or Alexander Skarsgard, or Charlie Hunnam, or any of those other guys - we'd all just be doing our best, you know?" said Dornan, who received the part only after Hunnam decided to pull out from the film.

"He's a superhero - a myth. He's like Bigfoot!"
Dornan added of the thirty-something millionaire who secretly practices s BDSM. "[Christian] is unbelievable. He's unattainable, there's no actor in the world who could live up to that."

Despite some fan's discontent, Dornan will bring Grey to the big screen on Feb. 13, and according to his film-mom, actress Marcia Gay Harden, he will "satisfy quite a few [women.]"

Fifty Shades is based on the first of three erotic novels about the love affairs between a sadistic billionaire and a college student. Dakota Johnson stars as Anastasia Steele.

I'm kind of looking forward to this film... I did say, kind of...

The British Weekly, Sat. January 17, 2015

Hello Everyone!

Hope 2015 is treating you well so far? January has always been a particularly reflective time for me. Obviously being the start of New Year but also because it is my anniversary of arriving in LA. I will be celebrating 18 years this week!

Do I get a key to the city now??

I truly had no idea I would still be here almost two decades later. Clichés like "time flies when you are having fun" suddenly start to have a real meaning.

My love affair with Los Angeles started long before I had the opportunity to move here. I read David Niven's 'The Moons A Balloon' at a very young age, and I think that may have been what planted the first seed

On a side note, if you have access to BBC iPlayer I recommend you watch Niven being interviewed by Michael Parkinson. It is truly lovely.

Kale and hearty

I have definitely become more 'LA' than UK, or hopefully a happy medium - just today I was reading a post on Facebook. A friend had written 'Back in the land of mental thin people and kale.'

I laughed, mainly because I was drinking a Kale smoothie at the time but took sanctuary in the fact that I am not (completely) mental....or thin!

I've come to realize one of the the main factors why it is fairly easy to be a Brit living in LA. If you stay here long enough, everyone you know (or even know of) eventually stops by. So it is hard to get homesick. As a teen I used to be fascinated with that theory when put in conjunction with Piccadilly Circus.

To prove my point, Jamie Oliver was in town just last week and popped in to one of our favorite haunts 'The Pikey' to visit his protege Chef Ralph Johnson. It seems it's only in LA (or London) that you can see a bloke off the telly in your local the next day.....in fact if often seems as though our weekly Brits Breakfast could easily be mistaken for an Eastenders reunion!

In honour of Mr Oliver's visit and to take complete advantage of this cold spell, I decided to cook up one of my favourite Jamie Oliver recipes, a totally delish beef and ale stew. Since we are also in the land of food substitutions I changed it up a little and added tumeric, cumin and mustard powder to the flour before tossing my meat... I also added mushrooms and Worcestershire Sauce....perfect for a cold winter's night in LA!

Between my Nutribullet smoothie and my delicious stew I managed to get more than the recommended five a day veggie servings (or even seven a day for the Daily Mail readers amongst you!)

I am certainly in the cooking mood this month - so if you have any tasty but suprisingly healthy recipes please share with us at Britsinla@gmail.com or on via Facebook or Twitter @BritsInLA

A CLASSIC: not only is David Niven's autobiography hiarious, it paints an irresistible picture of California life

January is also the month we have the honor of celebrating the birthday of our Mayor of Breakfast, Mr. Bernard Skibben. Thank you so much Bernard for making the effort to share your special day with us!!

As most of you may have heard the 8th Annual Toscars has been cancelled. However, it doesn't mean you can't still make a five-minute parody of an Oscar nominated film. Thanks to enthusiastic Toscar committee member Nadia Wit, the show will go on.

Email Nadia for more details at ToscarSpirit @gmail.com

She will also be hosting a SAG seminar on January 21st , vital for those amongst you who are not members yet - check the Toscars Facebook page for further details or email her at address above.

I have so far managed to keep all my new years resolutions - how are you all doing? Hope to see or hear from some of you soon.

Cheers! Eileen

Bony makes big City move

Manchester City have could potentially have to completed the signing of Swansea City striker Wilfried Bony in a deal that could be worth up to £28m.

Bony (pictured, above) has agreed four-and-a-half-year deal at Etihad Stadium through to 2019 and will wear the number 14 shirt.

"It's a great feeling for me, it's a big honour to be here and it's a great challenge," 26-year-old said.

He joined Swansea for £12m from Vitesse Arnhem in 2013 and was Premier League top scorer in 2014 with 20 goals.

The two clubs agreed the terms of the transfer at the weekend, with £25m cash up front and a £3m further performance-related add-ons.

The deal makes Bony of one the most expensive African footballers in history.

Bony is on international duty with Ivory Coast at the Africa Cup of Nations and now have four top-class

"As a player it's always good to be part of one of the biggest clubs in the world and it's a good opportunity for me to be in that situation now - I'm really proud," Bony told Manchester City's

"I felt excited to wait for this moment and now it's come, it's fantastic.

'skill and power'

"I think it's a great decision for me Manchester City are in the Champions League. It's a motivation for me to give my maximum to be in that place."

City boss Manuel Pellegrini added: "He is an intelligent footballer who has skill and power. His goals record has been excellent since he came to England.

"He adapted very quickly to the game here and I think he will settle in at City quickly. We strikers and I am looking forward to seeing them work together."

earlier Swansea criticised the Ivory Coast Football Federation for claiming the deal had gone through before either club had announced it.

The Ivory Coast Football Federation said: "Bony with signed Manchester City this Wednesday, 14 January." But a Swansea spokesman said the Ivory Coast "have no right to comment".

Swansea later confirmed the deal in statement that thanked Bony "for his superb service to the club".

Bony scored 25 goals in all competitions in his first season at the Welsh side and has scored nine goals so far this term.

The fee for Bony, who has also scored 11 goals in 32 games for the Ivory Coast, is almost double previous Swansea's record sale of Joe Allen to Liverpool in August

Andros Townsend caused Burnley plenty of problems in the first half and he helped get the home team back into the match.

Hammers win a thriller

■ Big Sam's men prove nerveless in shootout; will face Bristol City in round four

FA Cup 3rd Round Replay West Ham.....2 Everton (aet. 90 mins: 1-1) West Ham win on pens, 9-8

British Weekly Sport

West Ham goalkeeper Adrian scored the winning penalty as his side beat Everton in a thrilling FA Cup tie on Tuesday night.

Enner Valencia put the hosts ahead when he collected Andy Carroll's pass and shot past Toffees keeper Joel Robles.

Everton had Aiden McGeady sent off for two bookable offences, but equalised with Kevin Mirallas's fine free-kick.

Romelu Lukaku put the visitors in front after Mirallas's run, before Carlton Cole's close-range finish took the game to penalties, where West Ham won 9-8.

The third-round replay had gone to a shootout after it had finished 2-2 at the end of extra time in an amazing match.

But the drama had not finished as Everton's Steven Naismith had his saved Stewart Downing had a saves to deny Noble and chance to win it for the hosts, but Robles blocked his tame effort.

However, Robles then hit the crossbar with his powerful attempt before Adrian threw off his goalkeeping gloves and calmly converted the 20th penalty to set up a fourth-round tie at League One side Bristol City.

It looked like being a routine win for the Hammers when they were leading 1-0 and Everton were reduced to 10 men with McGeady needlessly sent off after only 56 minutes.

The midfielder had been booked in the first half for a foul on Matt Jarvis before a rash sliding challenge on Mark Noble saw a second caution.

However, Roberto Martinez's side fought back and grabbed a deserved equaliser through substitute Mirallas's powerful free-kick, which curled around the wall and past Adrian.

substitute Kevin Nolan to take the game into extra time and Lukaku put Everton ahead with a close-range finish after more excellent work from Mirallas.

It was a poignant moment for Lukaku as he raised both arms and pointed to the sky, as a tribute to his friend Junior Malanda, the Belgium Under-21 international and Wolfsburg midfielder who died in a car crash in Germany on Sunday aged 20.

There was then controversy as Everton thought they should have had a penalty when Mirallas was fouled, but the referee gave a free-kick on the edge of the penalty area, despite the offence appearing to take place in it.

But there was still time for another twist as substitute Cole, who had only been on the pitch for two minutes, prodded in James Tomkins's header to take it to penalties.

Adrian proved to be the Robles made excellent hero as he saved one spot-kick and scored the decisive one.

West Ham's victory was their first win in the competition February 2011 and they will now play League One side Bristol City on Sunday, 25 January.

West Ham manager Sam Allardyce said after the final whistle: "It was an unbelievable match, wasn't it? You can't say the FA Cup has died after that, not with that entertainment value.

"I thought today had absolutely everything a cup tie should have - a little bit of controversy, some great play, chances missed, some great goalkeeping and some very good goals."

Spurs stun Burnley with four goal comeback

FA Cup 3rd Round Replay Tottenham H.....4 Burnley.....2

Tottenham fought back from 2-0 down to beat Burnley and set up an FA Cup fourth-round tie with Leicester City.

The magic of the FA was felt in abundance in a thrilling game which sw Marvin Sordell's first-time strike Ross Wallace's deflected free-kick gave the Clarets an early advantage.

But Paulinho pulled a goal back for the hosts from close range before Etienne Capoue equalised with a firm strike from 20 vards before half-time.

Vlad Chiriches forced in Paulinho's corner and Danny Rose converted Roberto Soldado's low cross to make it 4-2.

Manager Mauricio Pochettino made seven changes to the Spurs team whowere beaten 2-1 by Crystal Palace in the Premier League Saturday and it looked to have backfired as Burnley took advantage of some poor defending to take a third-minute lead.

Captain Younes Kaboul started only his second match since November and he and central defensive partner Jan Vertonghen were guilty of poor positioning when
