

Veteran entertainer dies after fall at Marbella home

SHOWBIZ LEGEND Cilla Black died of a stroke after falling over at her Spanish home on Saturday, the local coroner has confirmed.

The 72-year-old was sunbathing at her villa in Estepona when she stood up, lost her balance and fell hitting her head, which knocked her unconscious.

She subsequently died of a stroke, and would not have suffered.

The star's three sons released the information after receiving the "conclusive" results of the post-mortem examination from authorities in Spain.

They have now been given permission to return her body to the UK as soon as possible for her funeral.

"We are devastated by the sad loss of our mother, but have been deeply touched by all the kind messages of support from her friends, fans, the public and media," said Robert, Ben and Jack Willis in a statement.

"We would like to thank everyone, especially the people of Liverpool. The tributes and condolences have really helped us through these difficult times.

"The Spanish authorities have now told us we are able to bring Mum home, which we hope to do as quickly as possible.

"We would also like to thank all those involved for their assistance with this matter. We respectfully request for our continued privacy to grieve."

Veronica White, the Liverpudlian first found fame as a singer in the 1960s, with a string of top 10 hits including Anyone Who Had a Heart and You're My World.

Her career focus shifted to television in 1968, when she was given her own BBC One primetime series, and she went on to host the long-running shows Blind Date and Surprise Surprise for ITV.

Tributes to the star poured in from the world of entertainment after news of her death was announced on Sunday.

Veteran actor George Cole dead at 90

■ Former St. Trinians star created iconic Arthur Daley in long-running "Minder"

Actor George Cole, best known for playing Arthur Daley in TV's Minder, has died aged 90.

Cole played the Cockney wheeler dealer Daley for 16 years, between 1979 and 1994.

He also starred in a number of St Trinian's films as shady businessman Flash Harry.

Agent Derek Webster said Cole had died at the Royal Berkshire hospital following a short illness, surrounded by his family.

'wonderful man'

Waterman said he had "the privilege of spending Tuesday afternoon with him and Penny and, although very frail, his wit was as evident as ever".

"I am so sad to hear of George's death. His family must be devastated, and I am absolutely certain that anybody who ever knew him, will feel the same.

"I'm so grateful to have been a friend of this wonderful man. We worked together for many years and my boast is that we laughed all day every day.

"He was an amazing man, a wonderful actor and besotted with his family. Farewell old friend."

Waterman, who sang the Minder theme tune, left the show to be replaced by Gary Webster for the final two series.

Webster called Cole a "comic genius" who "made you realise there's an Arthur Daley in every family".

"He was one of those characters you never thought you are going to be without, both as an actor and a character," he added.

"He was a great guy to work with and a real genuine gentleman."

Arthur Daley became a TV legend as a small-time crook who was always dreaming of bigger things, with the series regularly drawing in audiences of 17 million.

As the cigar-smoking small-timer "Arfur", Cole bequeathed to the nation's lexicon the memorable catchphrases "Er indoors", and "a nice little earner".

Cole also played Flash Harry, a remarkably similar character, in four St Trinian's films between 1954-66, starring alongside the likes of Terry Thomas, Joyce Grenfell and Sid James in the boarding school comedies.

mentor

Cole was adopted at 10 days old and grew up in a council flat in Morden, south London. He performed music hall routines on stage as a child with his parents, both amateur musicians. At 14, after leaving school, he got a job as an understudy in a musical on Blackpool. But his big break came, ironically enough when he was evacuated from Blitz-ravaged London and moved to Oxfordshire, where he met Alistair Sim in regional theatre. The older Scottish actor quickly became his mentor, taking Cole into his home at the age of 15 alongside his adoptive mother, where they stayed until he was 27, eventually building a home next door. Cole starred in a succession of stage shows and films with Sim, including as a young Scrooge in 1951's A Christmas Carol, and two of the St Trinian's films.

Cole appeared with Lawrence Olivier in both

The Demi-Paradise and Henry V before signing up for the war effort in 1944, joining the Royal Air Force, before resuming his acting career when the conflict ended.

He found himself consistently in work, on stage, television film and radio.

As well as the St Trinian's films, he also starred opposite Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton in Cleopatra, and gothic horror The Vampire Lovers.

Cole was 70 when Minder finished but he still worked regularly, with guest roles in the likes of Midsomer Murders, Heartbeat and New Tricks, which also starred Waterman.

Now Ted Heath under suspicion as Jimmy Savile probe widens

■ Former PM's connection to serial abuser is probed amid allegations from Savile's nephew

THE fallout from the Saville Jimmy sex scandal took an unlikely turn this week when it emerged that several regional police forces are investigating claims from individuals claiming they were abused by former Prime Minister Sir Edward Heath.

Sir Edward's name was dramatically linked to historic paedophile claims on Monday with the announcement of an inquiry into allegations by a former detective that a prosecution against an individual was shelved after a threat was made to "expose" the late Prime Minister.

A woman who was in charge of a brothel where the abuse allegedly took place had been due to stand trial in the late 1960s, but the prosecution collapsed after she threatened to expose him, the detective has claimed.

And another alleged victim has claimed he was preyed on by Sir Edward in 1961, as a child after he ran away from home.

The man, now 65, added he was "fobbed off" and branded a "fantasist" when he reported the accusation to social workers.

Forces in Wiltshire, Gloucester, Hampshire, Jersey and the Thames Valley have all confirmed they are looking into separate allegations against Heath.

The Jersey investigation stems from an inquiry launched last year looking into allegations of widespread abuse in the island's care homes.

Police said in June that the Jersey operation had six investigators looking at 45 suspects, some of whom are dead or as yet unidentified, with 13 "people of public prominence".

Scotland Yard became involved following this week's allegation from the nephew of Jimmy Savile that a close boyhood friend of his was sexually abused by the former Tory Prime Minister.

Guy Marsden said he and three friends were taken to flats across the capital where "horrific, unbelievable" abuse took place.

Guy Marsden said his friend was just 14 at the time and the alleged sex

> Mr Marsden, 61, said he and three mates, aged between 13 to 16, were ferried across London from flat to flat, where sexual abuse took place.

> He claimed police are aware of the allegations by his friend, who wants to remain anonymous because he is now married with two children.

The roofer, from Leeds, added: "The four of us would arrive at these parties together, then my friend would disappear.

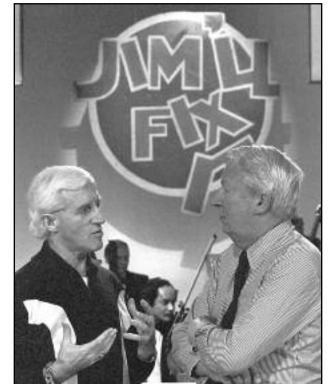

"I didn't think much of it at the time, though I knew it was weird."

Investigators from North Yorkshire police have also begun to Heath's examine relationship with Savile and the DJ's notorious friend Peter Jaconelli, a millionaire ice cream distributor in Scarborough who was known as "King Cornet" and was revealed after his death to be a serial child abuser.

The 300lb magnate was considered a pillar of the community, serving both as mayor of the seaside town and chairman of North Yorkshire's planning committee. Despite numerous rumors about his activities reaching the ears of the local police force, he was widely considered to be untouchable because of his wealth and power.

He died aged 73 in 1999 and North Yorkshire Police recently admitted that, if alive, both men would likely have faced abuse charges.

Channel Tunnel: Migrant 'almost' walked to England

A migrant came within a few miles of walking from France to England when he was stopped inside the Channel Tuesday, Tunnel on according to Eurotunnel. The Sudanese national was arrested a few kilometres from the British entrance of the 50.5 km (31-mile) tunnel.

A spokesman for Eurotunnel said the person 'almost succeeded in walking through the tunnel".

The train operator held an "unplanned" inspection on the same day, which led to four-hour delays.

A 40-year-old man, of no fixed address, has been charged with causing an obstruction to an engine or carriage using the railway and was due to appear at Magistrates' Medway Court on Thursday.

The incident came on the same night that migrants made about 600 attempts to enter the Chunnel.

'Intrusions down'

About 180 people were caught inside the site, with 20 arrested.

However, intrusions were down to about 400 a night on Tuesday and Wednesday, according to Eurotunnel.

It said additional efforts to secure the French terminal were almost complete and attempted intrusions by migrants were now being brought under control.

have There been thousands of attempts to access the terminal at Coquelles, just outside Calais in recent weeks, with nine people killed trying to get into the tunnel since June.

Foreign Secretary Philip Hammond said 100 more guards would be the deployed in Eurotunnel terminal following a meeting of the government's emergency Cobra committee on Monday.

Misery: Tube strike brings London grinding to a halt

■ 24-hour strike over new working conditions brings hours-long commutes to capital's workers ■ "I hate striking but I will continue to do so until the company listens, says one unhappy worker

THERE WAS more misery for London's commuters on Thursday as a Tube strike caused long queues and delays across the region

The 24-hour strike by four unions began on Wednesday evening and was set to continue until until Friday.

Unions are unhappy at conditions offered to drivers on a new Night Tube service due to start next month.

'amazing salary'

A long-serving LU train driver, who wished to remain anonymous, told reporters, "We get paid an amazing salary and the holidays are great too [43 days leave including eight bank but holidays] why should I be forced to work nights and more weekends when that is not what I signed up for? It's about the principle of changing our working conditions without discussions.

will continue to do so until the company listens or they make it illegal to strike.

"I feel sorry for commuters but instead of complaining to staff, they should complain to TfL and stand up for their rights too."

Commuters told the BBC they understood the reasons for the strike but they did not think "the impact on commuters was very fair".

Transport for London (TfL) have said that buses were being delayed by up to an hour, especially those travelling in zones one and two.

During the evening rush hour, there were 894 separate traffic jams around the city causing a combined 500 miles (804km) of tailbacks, traffic analysts TomTom said.

That was double the congestion of the morning rush hour, but it was not as bad as during the previous Tube strike in July when there were 1,445 jams and 761 miles (1,224km) of delays.

THE TOWIE EFFECT: UK men spend £400 on TAN and new clothes BEFORE holiday over in the But sun-starved motherland, they consider it vitally important to hit the ground running and be tanned and fit right from their first night in Spain, Portugal or Greece.

IT'S CERTAINLY not news that we Brits take holidays our verv seriously.

And nowhere is this truer than with one particular brand of man he who favors Marbella in Spain as his ideal destination and considers the men of the popular TV show The Only Way is Essex to be his role models - and now spends an average of £400 on beauty treatments before they he even hails the taxi to Heathrow

New research has revealed a staggering 19 per cent of Costa Del Sol-bound males admit to spending over £400 on beauty treatments and clothing before jetting off.

In comparison, only 8 per cent of British women who have long been vilified for spending too much on clothes and grooming - spent the same amount.

Online gaming giant Gala Bingo commissioned the independent survey to celebrate its search for the most 'Marbs' person in the UK.

The survey found over a quarter of people who have been to the popular Spanish city of Marbella spent £200-£300 on beach prep alone.

When that figure is compared people who holiday in France, Italy and Portugal, it is gobsmacking.

Those who dodged Marbella spent a modest £50 or less on their pre-tan and holiday wardrobe.

Alison Digges, Brand Director at GalaBingo. com, said: "It's interesting that our research has TOWIE shown has influenced manv holiday-goers, and made them want to enjoy the

Is this a peak for metro-sexual men, finally out-spending the women when it comes to looking good?

Or is it yet another sign of the endless deterioration and disintegration of British culture and sophistication? Yes and yes.

British pair become youngest to row across Atlantic Ocean

Two British men have become the world's voungest to row across the Atlantic Ocean from the US to the UK.

Tom Rainey and Lawrence Walters, both aged 23, left New York on 3 May in their boat Yves, bound for Britain.

They landed in Salcombe, Devon, after rowing for about 3,800 and miles were welcomed by hundreds of well-wishers.

Meet a Member: Anna Sambrooks and Adam Blake

Meet Anna and Adam from Merseyside and Hampshire who moved to LA to further their acting careers and have an adventure!

Was there a particular reason you chose LA? Adam: To be the best, you need to work amongst the best. The pool of talent in LA is immense and it is a genuine source of excitement to be a part of such a hugely talented city. The talent we were able to pull together at very short notice for our short Blast From The Past, which we created for the BAFTA LA Newcomers showcase, was amazing and a real testament as to what is possible in this city! The weather also was a massive draw!

Anna: I'd dreamed of moving here since I was young and seeing it on screen so many times and after seeing other industry friends make the move I realized it was something that I could make happen. There's so much amazing work happening in the TV and film industry here that it just made sense as the next step. We'd been over a few times before we moved and gotten a great reception from the industry people that we'd met with so it just felt like the right thing to do. Also the constant sunshine might have played a little part too!

What do you miss most from home?

Anna: My family and friends are the things I miss most without a doubt. My parents send over amazing care packages with teabags and British food so I don't miss out on any of that except I sometimes crave proper chip shop chips!

Adam: My friends and family, though Skype has been a huge blessing! My mum's partner Chris makes amazing Indian food, I miss that too.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since? If so why?

Adam: It felt immense and very disjointed when we first came here, but as time has gone on it has begun to feel much smaller and much more homely and connected. As work has taken us all over the city you begun to realise just how it all fits together, I love how random LA is, how you can literally cross a street and the feel of the neighbourhood is totally different. It's very cool.

Anna: I've always loved LA! Adam proposed to me here. He took me up in a helicopter the night that he asked me and I saw how vast the city really is. It didn't seem to have any centre to it. The more time I'm here the smaller it seems to get and I've realized you create that centre through your own networks and communities. Now that enormity just seems like endless opportunities of awesome people to work with!

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus back home?

Anna: I love the positive attitude and the absolute confidence. People aren't afraid to go after what they want here and make things happen. I also find that there's never a shortage of people making amazing projects that want to collaborate and that's led to some great opportunities. Like appearing in my first LA based feature WTF!, which I'm very much looking forward to had such an amazing team on it that I loved working with including an amazing producer and director team in Kyle Zingler and Peter Herro. Adam's also in it although our characters don't meet. We tend to get cast together a lot! Aside from work the weather creates such an outdoor lifestyle and being able to be at the beach within minutes is also very cool.

Adam: I love the positivity and the can do attitude of the city. If vou are not doing something to further your career, why not? It's so easy to get some friends together and create content, now more so than ever. I also love that it is an industry town and setup in such a way to support actors.

Do you have any hidden gems in LA that you want to share with us?

Adam: Not so much a hidden gem, as it is a little macabre but it is a piece fabulous of Hollywood history and that's Westwood Cemetery, which is the final resting place of Marilvn Monroe. amongst many others. Outlaw Burger on Van Nuys Blvd in The Valley, is probably one of the biggest and best burgers I have eaten.

Anna: I love The Last Bookstore in downtown LA. We stumbled on it during the edit for a short film we produced recently called 'Blast From The Past' and it's a gem if you like old bookstores. It also has art some beautiful installations upstairs.

A lot of people have misconceptions about LA - did you?

Anna: I was warned that it would be verv cutthroat and coming out in 2016. It competitive. It's been the absolute opposite. People have been so helpful and opened countless doors and welcomed us into their lives. I've had nothing but good industry experiences so far. Being plugged into great communities of like minded people like the BAFTA Newcomers, headed by the wonderful and dedicated Sandro Monetti, makes a big difference to that sense of family too.

Adam: That it is really fake and flakey. You don't put out as much high quality product without A LOT of really talented highly committed people. LA is brimming positively with them. As part of the BAFTA LA Newcomers scheme my mentor Mary Anne McGarry has been an invaluable source of information and support, for which I am extremely grateful.

would What you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here? Adam: Do your research, moving countries is hard, so knowing the lay of the land is invaluable. Visiting helps, but living here is very different to visiting. Plug in to as many communities as possible and experience as much of life here as possible, it is such an amazing place with so much to offer, also the support you will get from these communities as you transition will be of incredible help.

Anna: Save lots of money before you move! It's easv to underestimate how much it costs to start over in a different country. Make sure you have at least one person to call for a coffee as soon as you get here as LA can be overwhelming at first and a friendly face can really help with that. to this song, it changed our worlds.

ACTING DUO: Adam Blake and Anna Sambrooks

Then dive in and go for it but don't forget to enjoy the ride!

If your life was a TV show what would be the theme tune and why?

> Anna: It's hard picking just one as music has always been such a major part of our lives. Our wedding was a mini music festival! But I'd say these lyrics from 'Mirrorball' sum up our life and our LA journey perfectly: "You make the moon our mirrorball The street's an empty stage. Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: In any relationship situation please keep a handle on that famous Ram temper as it will cause more problems especially since your boss Mars is in powerful Leo and it will rebound on you if you don't!

TAURUS: Your priority should be taking care of YOU in any area that requires attention and you should start with what you know is overdue. Your boss Venus is currently moving backwards and can bring up any unfinished business.

GEMINI: The sun in Leo favors getting a handle on any part of life or person that is considered unfinished by you. If you feel you need or should make changes you need to make a move in this direction. If you not able to right now it should be done by mid-month.

CANCER: You will have to be aware this next week not to speak out of turn or harshly to anyone The consequences are long reaching for you especially if it's a close friend or family. It's best to say nothing and keep your own counsel. LEO: Yes, it is your new year currently, however if you have anything to complain about this is a time for the inner crank to show itself for some of you who are not participating in life as you know you can. Happy Birthday!

VIRGO: It's time for a trip and short or long near or far matters not as you benefit from the change of scenery. Just be aware that you should make haste to finish anything pending in any area by the end of the month.

LIBRA: Your lovely boss Venus is moving backwards now and she will be stirring things up in your life generally for you, more than likely by mid-month. So if you have things you have to work on get to it, she will not let you slack. SCORPIO: While the sun is in Leo do be careful to keep a handle on any upset feelings that can come from deep inside and may come from dealing with another person. With this in mind this next couple of weeks can resolve things and life can be easier.

SAGITTARIUS: If you are worried about finances and are not doing anything to change the situation then it will make you crazy. This month is a perfect time to take this area in hand with your sunny cousin sign Leo shining his beam of light on you CAPRICORN: You may be feeling a bit restless or not in balance this due to your "boss" Saturn in the sign of powerful Scorpio travelling backwards . He is letting you know something in your life is out of alignment. However it will last only until mid month.

AQUARIUS: Your judgment in a long-term situation is way out and this week if you allow yourself to go the same route as before it will all be a waste of time. So be cool, wait and see if you can change your mind and change the outcome.

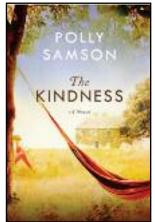

PISCES: You are currently doing some self-searching or going through a difficult time and some of you feel like you are drowning, while others feel like they are already under water; however you are fish so you will surface. Either way you don't have to worry all will be resolved in a few days.

The Kindness: love, betrayal and forgiveness

Exclusive interview with author Polly Sampson and a review of her new novel about love risked, lost and forgiven

Rating: $\star \star$

"I was clearing out a trunk of notebooks and diaries and was astonished to find an outline plot that I had written almost thirty years ago," says The Kindness author Polly Sampson. "I knew I had been ruminating on writing this story of paternity for a long time, but had no idea of for how long. The original idea comes from the life of my great uncle Henry Elkan who was a photographer living in Paris."

family torn apart by secrets is a story of romance sprinkled with explicit sex. An exploration of human relationships, а cautionary tale whether to leave yourself open to being hurt by others. The Kindness is a journey through love, betrayal and forgiveness. However, no matter how much you may try to like the characters, they're just too flawed to connect with. As the story jumps back and Samson's portrait of a forth in time, it's not are chronologically.

Julian is a 20-year-old university student. Julia a twenty-eight-year old wife unhappy in her marriage. The two fall in love. Julia leaves her marriage and an abusive husband. Julian gives up school. The two are happy. They feel the only thing missing is a child. Eight years later they have a daughter, Mira. When she becomes terrifyingly ill, a secret that Julia's been keeping will come out.

The story was inspired by an incident in the life of Sampson's great uncle Henry Elkan. "When I was eleven he committed suicide," says Sampson.

Sampson says one of her favorite bits of research was to do a falconry course. "Although like Julia in the book I had feelings always clear where you that moved between pleasure and disgust. I also researched at Great Ormond Street children's hospital in London, getting to know a family whose child had survived being treated for leukemia. They were incredibly generous with their recollections of an extremely anxious time."

Sampson has written two collections of short stories, Lying in Bed and Perfect Lives. She wrote the novel Out of the Picture. Some of her stories and her first novel have been optioned for film or TV. She has written an introduction to a collection of Daphne du Maurier's stories The Doll. Her works have been shortlisted a couple of times.

In the 1990s, Sampson wrote a column in The Sunday Times and worked as a feature writer and reviewer for many newspapers and magazines. She has written lyrics for four albums: Pink Floyd's The Division Bell, Floyd's The Endless River, David Gilmour's solo work On An Island and а forthcoming new one. In the 1980s, Sampson worked in publishing at Jonathan Cape, run by publisher Tom Maschler in London. "He was the man who discovered, among others, the enfant lit-triangle of Martin Amis, Ian McEwan and Julian Barnes," says Sampson. "He published Doris Lessing, Marquez, Roth, Gordimer, the list of the great and the good could go on forever. He invented the Booker Prize and was the most irascible man to work for but always forgiven because he had such incredible taste. We have remained friends."

Oh, I do like to be beside the seaside....

Hello from England!

This week I've mainly been in the Brighton area – specifically a beautiful picturesque village called Rottingdean. I've been focusing on writing my one-man show in the hopes of taking it to Edinburgh Fringe Festival next year. And although the South Coast is lovely I have had quite a few very drunken nights in London town. Thanks to my friends (who shall remain nameless) let's just say, the famous Groucho Club won't forget us in a hurry!

like stepping back in time. You could confuse the pier for the one in Santa Monica except the tourists here are all wearing heavy jackets and carrying umbrellas, Yes ladies and gentleman welcome to a British Summer! Along the pier you can see a few restaurants and bars, and the boardwalk jammed with people eating candy floss, toffee apples or sticks of rock. Although I was quite disappointed not to see any 'kiss me quick' hats, I was surprised on this cold and

In a bit of a spur of the moment visit my BILA partner Eileen joined me and my host, Mel Brown for an evening where we took in a local pub crawl at three of the four pubs in Rottingdean. We had a bite in the first one, The Black Horse, a quaint old world pub with very low ceilings and a tiny stage for the local crooners to perform the hits of Perry

Como and Andv Williams. Eileen and Mel both had the steak and ale pie with chips and I opted for the classic fish and chips. As for the second pub - The White Horse (yes, really) we were the only ones in the place, it's truly a wonder they can afford to stay open! We swiftly moved on to the last one to play an old-fashioned game of scrabble, but not before passing the charity shop, the dressmaker, Ye Olde Tea Shoppe and of course the very busy funeral arrangements store. It was really great to spend some quality time with Eileen, as when we're back in LA it's very easy to get so busy that you are constantly running out of time, and easy to take friendships for granted.

RIP Cilla and George

Britain lost two legends this past week. The great Cilla Black, a young starlet back in the Sixties who went on to reinvent herself in later life as host of the wildly successful TV dating show Blind and Date. the hankies-at-the-ready show Surprise, Surprise. From cheeky Liver Bird to national institution, Cilla will be missed. Check out a great three part mini series on Netflix called Cilla starring Sheridan Smith. Just days later we also lost our beloved George Cole, the actor who starred in the St. Trinian's films and the classic 1951 version of A Christmas Carol before gaining small screen immortality for his portrayal of Arthur Daley in Minder. Our thoughts and prayers go out to their families at this time. May they both rest in peace.

Hope you are having a fun summer in LA - miss you all - not to mention some real summer weather!

Cheers Craig

Idris Elba graces a Maxim cover...and not a bra in sight!

Maxim U.S. magazine is generally known to feature scantily clad hot babes on its cover, however, for the first time in the history of the sexy-glossy - a male has appeared solo on its cover...and it just happens to be a Brit!

That's right folks...hunky British star Idris Elba is the first man to be featured on the cover of the magazine, for its upcoming September issue and not a bra or pair of knickers in sight!

Oo-errrrrr...

And advertisers are responding too... according to Maxim, the September issue marks a 143% increase in ad pages from last year, featuring ads from the likes of Prada, Versace, Hugo Boss, Bally, Salvatore Ferragamo, and Calvin Klein.

In the past year, Maxim's new editor-in-chief Kate Lanphear has already completely reinvented the magazine's "lad mag" image, crowned Taylor Swift at the top of the reimagined "Hot List," and now her September issue is making history for the publication.

"We've never in US Maxim history had a man on the cover solo," Lanphear said, noting that there have been male stars on Maxim flip covers and men have been featured on the cover alongside women before.

"This is the very first time, and there was no one else in the world more badass than Idris,"she added, explaining that actor Elba was the perfect choice to cover the fashion-focused September issue.

Lanphear's decision was guided by the fact that Elba the perfect was embodiment of the new "Maxim man." She added he that was multi-dimensional, complex, sophisticated, but all the same down to earth.

"He is not only an award-winning actor, but also a DJ, owns a clothing line, and, a father to two beautiful children. Elba also recently broke the land speed British record, "which has not been touched since like 1928, and he is also a living, breathing superhero," Lanphear said.

How will Maxim readers react? Lanphear thinks they're ready for the change. "I think he's grown along with the up magazine. I'm as focused as I can be on the reader," she said.

Rhys Meyers back in the pink!

I am happy to be writing that Irish star Jonathan Rhys Meyers has has brushed off his widely reported shocking relapse and looks happy and health again...

The actor cut a stylish figure as he arrived hand-in-hand stepping out with his with fiancée Mara Lane at the Apollo Theatre in London earlier this week.

Looking more like his usual suave self, the androgynous heartthrob rocked an edgy double denim ensemble with an unbuttoned shirt and distressed jeans which displayed his muscular physique and vast array of inkings.

Jonathan, who has been open about his struggles with alcohol addiction throughout his career, celebrated his birthday with friends in London days earlier.

The actor worried fans back in May when he was pictured suffering a shock relapse, having battled with alcoholism for years.

He was seen walking down the street looking dishevelled while swigging from a bottle of vodka sparking concern.

Previously talking about his relapse, the 38-year-old said: "I apologise to fans and colleagues.

"I am on the mend and thank well wishers and sorry for my disheveled appearance as I was on my way home from a friends and had not changed I feel I made a mistake and feel quite embarrassed but this was just a blip in my recovery otherwise I'm living a healthy life."

Salah to Roma; Benzema to Arsenal?

winger Mohamed Salah has joined Roma on a season-long loan, with the Italian club given an option to buy the player at any point in the Egypt

The international (pictured, above) joined Chelsea from Swiss side Basel for £11m in January 2014. However, he has played only 19 times for the Blues, scoring two goals.

The 23-year-old spent the second half of last season on loan at Roma's Serie A rivals Fiorentina, where he scored nine times in 26 games.

"Salah is regarded by many as the best Egyptian player in the world right now," Roma said in a statement on their website.

ARSENAL are said to be moving closer to making a big money bid for Karim Benzema, despite Rafael Benítez insisting the Frenchman will remain Real Madrid.

Benzema is currently injured and he was not part of the Real squad at the four-team Audi Cup in Munich this week. The 27-year-old hurt his thigh in training on Monday and there are doubts as to whether he will be fit for the start of the Spanish league season on 23

August.

The forward's starting prospects under Benítez, though, are unclear, with the new Real manager having promised Gareth Bale a run in the team in a central striking position alongside Cristiano Ronaldo, who is also injured at present and not at the Audi Cup.

Wenger, Arsène the Arsenal manager, has sought to cool the speculation regarding his interest in Benzema but he has said he is ready to take advantage of any opportunity that may arise on the market, much as he did on deadline day in September 2013, when he signed Mesut Özil from Real for £42.5m.

Charlie Austin has been tipped for a move to Spurs with the North London club reportedly willing to meet QPR's £15m valuation for a player who boasted an impressive scoring record last term with a team mired in a relegation struggle.

Despite Harry Kane's stellar performances after winning a first team place last October, Spurs boss Mauricio Pochettino is desperate to sign a backup for the England forward with Emmanuel Adebayor and Roberto Soldado both headed out the exit door.

Spurs are not alone in their interest in Austin, with Newcastle United, West Ham and Leicester City all monitoring the situation, but White Hart Lane is the player's preferred destination and the clubs enjoy good relations at boardroom level.

Genoa's French central defender Sebastian De Maio is expected to sign for Everton within the next week or so, subject to the Merseyside team meeing the Serie A club's valuation of £6.9m. According to Gazzetta dello Sport, Roberto Martínez has made inquiries about the 28-year-old, who could provide а ready replacement if John Stones does depart to Chelsea either Manchester United.

Barcelona winger Pedro continues to be linked with a £30m move to Manchester United, and if deal does go through, out of favor youngster Adnan Januzaj will likely go on loan to Sunderland.

And Arsenal's 20-year-old German striker Serge Gnabry could find himself on loan at West Bromwich Albion in time for the opener against Manchester City next Monday night.

ASHES: Gunners just 'one player away' says Usmanov cont. from back page Broad had Shaun Marsh held by Ian Bell at second slip in his second over and Adam Voges spectacularly taken one-handed by a diving Ben Stokes at fifth slip in his third.

Australia captain Michael Clarke became Broad's fifth victim, slashing to Cook at first slip from Broad's 19th ball, equalling the number of deliveries needed by Australia's Ernie Toshack to claim five wickets against India at Brisbane in 1947 although Toshack did not open the bowling.

Steven Finn then bowled Peter Nevill to reduce Australia to 33-7 after 9.2 overs, before Broad took the last three wickets as Mitchell Starc and Mitchell Johnson edged to Root at third slip and Nathan Lyon was held by Stokes at sixth slip.

There were still 20 minutes until lunch.

Australian commentator Iim Maxwell described the morning's cricket as " one of the most embarrassing batting performances in Test history," while former England batsman Geoffrey Boycott said: "Australia are just poor at batting when the ball moves - they play so hard at the ball in front of the pad. You can do that in Australia, but not here. This hasn't moved as much as it did at Edgbaston. Some of the shots have been pathetic. Stuart Broad has just won the game - it's over."

And former Australia bowler Glenn McGrath, for so long the destroyer of England's Ashes hopes, lamented: "At lunch you thought it couldn't get any worse for Australia, but it has. It's been the tale of this series for Australia - they haven't adapted to English conditions with bat or ball." And the Gunners are one player short of being able to challenge for European success, according to major shareholder Alisher Usmanov.

"Except for one position, I think Arsenal are ready to successfully fight for European cups," Usmanov told CNN.

Arsenal beat defending Premier League champions Chelsea in the Community Shield on Sunday, with Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain sec uring a 1-0 win.

Jose Mourinho's side are favourites to retain the title, but Arsenal - who finished 12 points behind Chelsea last season in third - have been tippedto pose a stronger challenge this time.

But the Gunners will have to be without Jack Wilshere for up to two months after the injury-prone midfielder suffered a hairline fracture to his right ankle.

The 23-year-old was injured by a heavy tackle in training on Saturday, a day before Sunday's 1-0 win over Chelsea in the Community Shield.

He will not require surgery on the small bone crack, but is expected to miss up to two months of the season.

Wilshere missed five months of last season after injuring his left ankle.

He required two operations after suffering ligament damage in November and returned for the Gunners' final six games of the campaign, including the FA Cup final success against Aston Villa.

In June he played in England's friendly draw with the Republic of Ireland and their victory over Slovenia in a European Championship qualifier.

Wilshere's career has been plagued with injury problems, particularly in his ankles.

Both ankles have required surgery since he first sustained a stress fracture in his right ankle during pre-season in 2011 and was ruled out for 15 months.

In May, Arsenal boss Arsene Wenger said Wilshere needed "one or two years without problems" to get his "full confidence and belief back".

Manchester City striker EDIN DZEKO is poised to join Serie A side Roma after the clubs agreed a £14m fee.

The 29-year-old Bosnia-Hercegovina international joined City from Wolfsburg in January 2011 for £27m.

He signed a new four-year contract at Etihad Stadium last summer.

However, manager leave following the £49m capture of Liverpool forward Raheem Sterling. Dzeko was City's leading scorer with 15 goals in 2012-13 and hit 26 more in all competitions as they won the Premier League the following season, but he managed only six goals in 32 appearances last season.

West Brom striker SAIDO BERAHINO is not ready for a move to Tottenham, says his former boss Alan Irvine.

The England Under-21 international, 21, scored 14 Premier League goals last season and has been linked with Spurs.

"Is he ready to play a huge part at a club like Tottenham who want to be challenging for the top four? Probably not yet," Irvine told BBC Radio 5 live.

"I always said to Saido that as long as he kept focus and did the right thing then he would continue to develop."

Irvine managed the Baggies for the first half of last season and Berahino made 22 appearances under the Scot, scoring eight goals.

His successor, Tony Pulis, said he put Berahino "on the naughty step"last season after the forward said he "hoped to move on to bigger things".

EDGING CLOSER? Arsenal celebrate their 1-0 victory over Chelsea in the Community Shield on Sunday

"He is a player who certainly has the potential to become a very good striker," said Irvine.

"It's important that he plays. He's at the stage of his career where he needs to play regular games. He's got a talent. His movement is very good." Ex-Everton striker WAYNE ROONEY was given a standing ovation by the club's fans when he came on as a substitute for the Blues in Duncan Ferguson's testimonial at Goodison Park on Monday.

Rooney, 29, made 77 appearances for Everton before joining Manchester United for $\pounds 25m$ in 2004.

In front of 34,718 fans, he came on for the last 15 minutes against Villarreal.

"I didn't know what to expect with the reception, but the fans were great,"Rooney told Everton TV.

Meanwhile Everton defender JOHN STONES should join Manchester

United instead of Chelsea, according to former Red Devils defender Rio Ferdinand.

TheToffeeshave rejected at least one $\pounds 20m$ bid from Chelseafor 21-year-old Englandinternational Stones, withUnited also thought to beinterested.

"If he goes to Chelsea, he's not playing every week," said Ferdinand.

"If you tell any young footballer to leave a club to sit on the bench, you've got to be a lunatic."

Since joining Everton from Barnsley in 2013, Stones has made 44 Premier League appearances and earned four England caps.

Toffees boss Roberto Martinez has said he is determined to keep hold of the centre-half.

Ferdinand added: "He's at that stage of his development where he wants to play every week.

"If he goes to Manchester United, he plays every week so that's the right club for him."

Di Maria inks PSG switch

Paris St-Germain have completed the signing of Manchester United midfielder Angel Di Maria for a fee of £44.3m.

The Argentina international leaves United just a year after they paid Real Madrid a British record £59.7m for him.

Di Maria, 27, has signed a four-year deal with the French champions after undergoing a medical in Qatar on Tuesday.

"I am very proud and I can't wait to wear the colours of Paris St-Germain," he said.

Di Maria failed to join United on their pre-season tour of America last month, and manager Louis van Gaal had said he "did not know why".

The former Benfica winger made a strong start to his Old Trafford career, with a goal and an assist in three of his first four games.

But after being played in six different positions, including central midfield and striker, a pelvic injury kept him out for the whole of December 2014. Reports that he was unsettled in Manchester followed an attempted break-in at Di Maria's home in Cheshire, in January.

He was then sent off in the FA Cup quarter-final defeat by Arsenal on 9 March and did not start another game until the final match of the campaign at Hull, only to limp off with a Community Shield ARSENAL (1) 1 CHELSEA (0).....0 Cduca-Chartonkin 24 All: 88,437 Women's FA Cup Final SATURDW CHELSER (1) 1 HOTTS CNTY (0).0 Att: 30,710 Ladbrokes Scottish Premiership DUNDEE UTD (0)...0 ABERDEEN (0)...1 Lean 82 10,706 HEARTS (U)-4 ST JOHNSTNE (0)3 Lappin 35 Suton 75 Cummins 78 Att: 16,334 SATURDAY Deligado 4 Waliker 63 Ratereon 62 Nicholace 80 filhs 4 (gen) O PWRTICK IDI ... BROAD GOES DEEP: England's Stuart Broad took an astonishing 8-15 for England on Thursday as Australia capitulated in their first innings at Trent Bridge

93 minutes • 18.3 overs 60 runs • 10 wickets

ENGLAND were on the brink of an historic Ashes triumph following an incredible day's action in the Fourth Test on Thursday.

In an encounter which will go down in the annals of cricket's most amazing days, England paceman Stuart Broad took an astonishing 8-15 as Australia were bowled out for just 60 runs and Joe Root then hit a century as England put themselves in a strong position to clinch the series with their third victory in four Tests.

Broad passed 300 wickets and equalled the fastest Test five-wicket haul - 19 deliveries - as the tourists were dismissed in 111 balls at Trent Bridge.

It was the shortest first innings in Test history. Root's unbeaten 124 helped England to 274-4 at the close, a lead of 214.

Alastair Cook scored 43 and Jonny Bairstow made 74, sharing a fourth-wicket stand of 173 at more than five runs an overs with Yorkshire team-mate Root.

Victory will give England an unassailable 3-1 lead in the five-match series and see them regain the urn they lost courtesy of a 5-0 whitewash in Australia in 2013-14. Broad, bowling the first over, had Chris Rogers caught at first slip by Alastair Cook with his second ball - claiming his 300th wicket and inflicting a first duck in 46 Test innings on the Australia opener - before Steve Smith edged his sixth delivery to Joe Root at third slip.

Australia scored 10 runs in that first over, a sixth of their eventual total.

Mark Wood, returning to the England side after missing the third Test win at Edgbaston, struck in the following over when David Warner was caught behind off an inside edge. cont. on page 19, col. 1
