Britain finally gets a 'brake' from EU?

Brussels is said to be offering the Prime Minister a deal allowing him to temporarily stop migrants claiming benefits in the UK - but only if the EU says it is allowed.

David Cameron is being offered a watered down "emergency brake" by Brussels allowing him to stop EU migrants claiming benefits in the UK for four years if European leaders give him permission, it emerged on Thursday.

It has been claimed that the EU is now proposing that Britain will be allowed to deny benefits to EU migrants coming to the UK for up to four years if he is able to convince Brussels that UK public services are being put under strain because of foreigners.

'slow-motion disaster'

Mr Cameron had pledged that as part of his renegotiation with Brussels he would stop all EU migrants coming to the UK from claiming inwork benefits until they have lived in the UK for four years.

The new deal on the table, reported by Reuters, would be a significant watering down of Mr Cameron's original manifesto pledge and will be criticised by Conservative eurosceptics.

The idea of an "emergency brake" has been discussed by diplomats before. However, Downing Street had hoped that any brake would mean Britain being allowed to temporarily impose a cap on the number of foreigners coming to the UK.

Arron Banks, cofounder of the Leave.
EU campaign, said:
"People watching the
slow-motion disaster
overtaking Europe don't want an emergency
brake on immigration, they want control of the steering wheel so we can avoid the car crash up ahead."

"We know the Prime understands Minister how inadequate this new proposal is himself because he dismissed it as 'some arcane mechanism which would probably be triggered by the European Commission and not by us' two years ago. Watching him try to sell this latest wheeze as a triumph is like watching him debate against himself in front of a mirror."

Mr Cameron's renegotiation is understood to have reached an impasse in recent days, as European leaders continue to oppose Britain's demands on limiting migrants' access to benefits.

At press time the Prime Minister was travelling to Brussels to hold urgent talks with Jean Claude Juncker, the President of the European Commission.

He will then meet Donald Tusk, the President of the European Council on Sunday. Mr Tusk was next week expected to publish details of the renegotiation deal being offered to Mr Cameron. However, it is now thought that this could be delayed, leading to fears that Mr Cameron may not now be able to secure a final deal at February's European Council meeting.

That raises the prospect of the in-out referendum being delayed until the autumn, which could increase the chance of "Brexit" as the migration crisis is forecast to spike during the summer.

Officials denied Cameron's that Mr hastily-arranged to Brussels represented an "emergency dash" to save the talks, but acknowledged that crossroads had been reached in the negotiations after months of exchanging ideas.

Britain gets a dose of Jonas...

BRITAIN'S WEATHER MISERY continued this week with severe weather warnings issued for Wales, Scotland, Lancashire, Cumbria, Yorkshire and Devon and Cornwall as Storm Jonas, which blanketed much of the east coast of America in deep snow at the weekend, barrelled in from the Atlantic. The Me Office issued yellow "severe" warnings for Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, and has warned communities to prepare for some flooding over the weekend

Anti-Semitic assaults spike after WORST year on record for attacks

ATTACKS on Jewish people have risen dramatically, campaigners have warned, as Jewish people in the UK report their worst-ever year of anti-Semitic assaults.

In London alone, there was a 13 per cent leap in violence against Jewish people last year as synagogues came under attack and Neo-Nazis shouted Hitler slogans in the street.

The Metropolitan Police said 2015 was the worst on record for antisemitism in the capital, which is home to most of the UK's Jewish communities.

Recent anti-Semitic attacks include a mass assault in Tottenham Hale. Thugs hurled empty gas canister at Jewish shoppers and chanted: "Hitler is on the way to you, Heil Hitler, Heil Hitler, Heil Hitler,"

'unacceptable'

The attacks have prompted one antisemitism watchdog to warn that Europe is once again becoming a dangerous place for Jewish people.

It comes as thousands turn their backs on the continent and immigrate to Israel.

Numbers leaving the UK have remained modest. But France has seen a spike in Jewish people abandoning the nation, with almost 8,000 fleeing last year."

Many cite a rise in antisemitic incidents across the Channel, particularly an attack on a Parisian kosher supermarket not long after the Charlie Hebdo massacre.

According to figures from the Israeli government, as many as half of France's 475,000 Jews are considering leaving.

A spokesman for the Campaign Against Antisemitisim said: "On Holocaust Memorial Day, we remember the more than six million Jews murdered by the Nazis, and those saved by honourable and brave people who acted out of a sense of brotherhood and a respect for the sanctity of life.

"It is unacceptable that attacks on Jewish people are so common today and that once again, so many Jews are leaving Europe for good.

"As Europe continues to do too little, too late to protect Jewish people, Britain must take a different path and ensure that we crack down on the forces working to target Jews.

"Those forces also threaten the values and way of life of every non-Jewish citizen, by attacking our freedoms and spirit of pluralism."

'Jihadi Jack': reportedly first white British male to join Isis

■ Now a frontline fighter for the militant group, he lives with his wife and son Muhammed in Iraq

The first white British male to join Isis has been identified as Jack Letts, 20.

Letts, now known as Ibrahim or Abu Muhammed, reportedly travelled to Syria when he was 18, after converting to Islam.

He admitted to his parents he was with Isis in September 2014 and is understood to have married a woman from Fallujah, Iraq, shortly after arriving in Syria, The Times reported.

militant group

Letts reportedly comes from a secular, non-Islamic background. He studied at Cherwell school, Oxford. He is reported to have drank alcohol and occasionally smoked cannabis with his friends before converting to Islam.

His father is an organic farmer and archaeobotanist and his mother a books editor. Both are said to be extremely worried for his safety after he told them he was moving to Kuwait to study Arabic, when in fact he was travelling to Syria.

One former school friend told the paper: "At school he was very much the classroom clown and was liked by a lot of students.

"That's why this whole thing of him going to live in Syria and join Isis doesn't make any sense."

Letts, in a picture he posted on Facebook, near the Tabga Dam in Syria

Some former school friends from Oxford reportedly named him "Jihadi Jack".

Now a frontline fighter for the militant group, he lives with his wife and son Muhammed in the Iraqi city of Fallujah, having earlier lived in Raqqa, Syria, according to reports.

He is thought to have taken an interest in the Middle East during the Arab Spring of 2011. He then started learning Arabic and attended the Madina Masjid, a mosque near his home in Oxford.

There is no evidence he was radicalised at the mosque, and some of his friends believe he was radicalised in private prayer meetings.

More than 750 British men and women are thought to have joined Isis in Syria and Iraq, according to the BBC. Up to 100 of those have been killed.

Levi Bellfield finally admits rape and murder of Milly Dowler

■ Serial killer convicted in 2011 of the schoolgirl's murder but has never before admitted responsibility

Bellfield, the serial killer convicted in 2011 of the murder of schoolgirl Milly Dowler, has finally confessed to the crime. Surrey Police said the 47-year-old former bouncer had "admitted responsibility for the abduction, rape and murder".

confession, The some 14 years after Milly's death, came as police investigated claims Bellfield had an accomplice in the teenager's killing.

A 40-year-old man was arrested for rape and assisting an offender though not murder – but has since been released without charge, with police saying there was no evidence to support the allegations.

Bellfield interviewed and admitted killing the 13-year-old, who disappeared in 2002, on the way home from school in Surrey. Her body was found six months later in Hampshire woodland.

The investigation into her death was controversial: police originally considered her father as a suspect and admitted later that opportunities to catch Bellfield could have been missed because of this.

The case attracted more attention when it was involved in the News of the World phone-hacking scandal when it was revealed that journalists had hired a private detective to break into the murdered teenager's voicemail.

Bellfield was already serving life for killing Amelie Delagrange, 22, and Marsha McDonnell, 19, and for the attempted murder of Kate Sheedy, then 18, when he was tried for Milly's murder. The judge was critical of his refusal to co-operate or admit guilt, calling him a "cruel and pitiless killer" who had "not had the courage" to come to court to be sentenced.

Bellfield, who has converted to Islam while in prison and changed his name to Yusuf Rahim, is said to be "singing like a canary" about a series of other crimes he may have committed, according to reports. He will now be investigated over the death of his friend Patsy Morris, 14, who was strangled when Bellfield was 12.

Thousands evacuated after school bomb hoax

Police are investigating whether bomb threats that led to the evacuation of 18 schools across the UK this week were part of a coordinated hoax that has spread to France.

Threat calls started to be made to schools and colleges in the West Midlands just after 8am Thursday following similar phone threats to schools in the region in recent weeks

Four calls were then made to schools in Wimbledon, south-west London.

Police said they were treating the calls as "false and malicious", but nonetheless officers have carried out searches at all the premises and evacuated thousands of pupils.

A Russian Twitter group calling itself 2K16" "Evacuators appeared to claim responsibility for the previous hoaxes and had invited students to get in touch if they wanted to "get out of school".

A 14-year-old boy has been arrested on suspicion of making a copycat hoax bomb threat after dozens of similar calls were made to schools around the country.

West Midlands Police said the youth was detained by officers after a call made to a school in the Great Barr area of Birmingham on Wednesday was traced to a nearby phone box. CCTV inquiries then identified the teenager who is not being linked to other hoax calls - as a suspect.

The earlier threats elsewhere led to all day closures at many schools and schools in France were also sent threats. However, most pupils are now back in class safety and support the after today's hoaxes.

Some schools, including Oldbury Academy, have received threats on each of the three occasions.

The Twitter account claiming responsibility was removed earlier this week but the threats have continued.

Detective Inspector Colin Mattinson, from West Midlands Police, said: "At this stage there is nothing to suggest there is any credible threat to any of the schools.

"Our response officers have been sent to the locations to ensure there is no threat to anyone's schools.

"Apolice investigation is on-going to find the person responsible for these calls."

A Department for Education spokesman said: "We are aware of the ongoing incident, police are looking into it and we are monitoring the situation.

"Nothing is more important than the safety of our children, where any school is subject to such a threat, real or otherwise, there are clear emergency arrangements in place that have been agreed with police and the local

Ex-Conservative chairman Cecil Parkinson dies aged 84

■ Sex scandal derailed career of Thatcher favorite

Cecil Parkinson has died aged 84 after what his family said was "a long battle with cancer".

As Conservative Party chairman under Margaret Thatcher in the early 1980s, he played a key role in the Tories' 1983 general election victory.

Lord Parkinson quit the cabinet soon after when it emerged his exsecretary Sara Keays was carrying his child.

Prime Minister David Cameron said he was "a man of huge ability" who had helped transform the UK in the 1980s.

Paying tribute in Downing Street, Mr Cameron said he had "learnt a lot" from Lord Parkinson at the start of his political career, describing him as part of "a great political generation that really did extraordinary things for our country".

And Mark Thatcher said Lord Parkinson had been a "great personal friend" to his family.

swift rise

As they confirmed his death, family spokesman said: "We shall miss him enormously. As a family, we should like to pay tribute to him as a beloved husband to Ann and brother to Norma, and a supportive and loving father to Mary, Emma and Joanna and grandfather to their children.

"We also salute his extraordinary commitment to British public life as a member of parliament, cabinet minister and peer - together with a distinguished career in business."

Cecil Parkinson became one of Margaret Thatcher's closest political allies shortly after first being elected to Parliament in 1970.

After becoming a junior minister after Thatcher's 1979 election victory, he swiftly rose through the ranks and was named party chairman and elevated to the cabinet in 1981. He was a member of the war cabinet during the 1982 Falklands conflict.

He was tipped to be named foreign secretary after overseeing the Tories' landslide election victory in 1983. But he was given the more junior role of trade and industry secretary and it later emerged he had fathered a child with his former secretary, prompting him to resign in October 1983.

Former Conservative cabinet minister Michael Portillo said this scandal had "definitely held back his career" but the fact that he was offered a cabinet post at all was testament to his closeness to the PM.

Former Foreign
Secretary Sir Malcolm
Rifkind said Lord
Parkinson would have been "the most natural candidate" to succeed
Margaret Thatcher had events not turned out in the way they did.

'Exceptional talent'

The former prime minister regarded Cecil Parkinson as "one of us", Sir Malcolm added: "He shared her views, thoughts and ideas. She was comfortable with him and had confidence in him, In addition, at a personal level, he was able to charm her."

PARKINSON: forced to resign in 1983 after fathering a child with his secretary

After being brought back into government by Margaret Thatcher in 1987, Cecil Parkinson served as energy and transport secretaries.

He stood down as an MP in 1992 and was elevated to the House of Lords. He briefly made a comeback as Tory Party chairman, under William Hague, after the party's general election hammering in 1997.

Lord Hague described him as "an exceptional talent and an extraordinarily nice man to work with".

Other members of the current government have also been paying tribute. Chancellor George Osborne tweeted: "Sad to hear of death of Cecil Parkinson. I worked with him when he was party chairman in 1997-8 - he was there in our hour of greatest need."

It's official: living near a pub DOES make you happier

■ Study finds that regulars with a local pub nearby are "significantly" happier, have more friends, and actually drink in more moderation

GOOD NEWS FROM THE PUB: the closer you live to one the happier you'll be.

New research from Oxford University has shown that it's good to be a regular with a small, local pub nearby.

People who enjoy a pint in a local, according to the research, are "significantly" happier, have more friends, better life satisfaction, and less likely to drink to excess.

The report, for the Campaign for Real Ale (Camra), highlighted the importance of face-to-face interaction, and noted that people were more likely to be engaged in conversations in small community pubs rather than larger establishments.

It also revealed that social skills improve after a drink, while people were more likely to be engaged in conversations in small community pubs rather than larger establishments.

The study was conducted in pubs in Oxfordshire, and it also found pubs were very important in providing a place where people could meet and make friends.

Professor Robin
Dunbar of Oxford
University, said:
"Friendship and community are probably the two most important factors influencing our health and wellbeing.

"Making and maintaining friendships, however, is something that has to be done face-to-face. The digital world is simply no substitute.

'wellbeing'

"Given the increasing tendency for our social life to be online rather than face-to-face, having relaxed accessible venues where people can meet old friends and make new ones becomes ever

LOW TECH: 'The digital world is simply no substitute' for the local pub more necessary."

Tim Page, chief executive of Camra, said: "Whilst we are delighted that such robust research highlights some of the many benefits of visiting a pub, I hardly expect the findings will be a great surprise to Camra members.

"Pubs offer a social environment to enjoy a drink with friends in a responsible, supervised community setting. Nothing is more significant for individuals, the social groupings to which they belong and the country as a whole as our personal and collective wellbeing.

"The role of community pubs in ensuring that wellbeing cannot be overstated. For that reason, we all need to do what we can to ensure that everyone has a 'local' near to where they live or work."

Pubs have long been part of the fabric of our society. The report said pubs have played a key role in British social life since the 16th century.

"Pubs came to represent the heart and soul of a community, providing both a place of entertainment and an engine for community bonding." The British Weekly, Sat. Jan. 30, 2016

WITHOUT A CLUE: Bob Weise and Steve Shapiro

Calamitous captains face rising tide of anger

■ Sailing legend weighs in as clueless pair are rescued NINE times in seven months

Two yachtsmen who have been rescued nine times in seven months have been described as a "catastrophe waiting to happen" and urged to "leave UK waters".

In the latest mishap, US citizens Bob Weise and Steve Shapiro, both 71, had to seek help in Hayle Harbour, Cornwall, when their sailing boat tipped over, causing a fire on board.

Veteran sailor Sir Robin Knox-Johnston is among those criticising the pair.

The duo previously told BBC News they were experienced enough for the trip.

'No longer a joke'

The boat, named Nora, left Norway in July and is aiming for the US state of Maine.

Sir Robin said: "This is no longer a joke.

"It costs between £6,000 and £8,000 every time a lifeboat is launched. These guys are costing the RNLI a fortune.

"They need to frankly pack it in or, I hate to say it, get the hell out of our waters."

James Instance, from Falmouth Coastguard, said he was not aware of anyone being rescued so many times in a short space of time.

The hapless duo were twice rescued by Norwegian and Danish teams, once when the propeller shaft was damaged and the second time when the battery failed. Shortly afterwards the RNLI in Scotland had to assist them after their boat – a classic Colin Archer design now in dire need of refitting and repair – ran aground after having more propeller problems. They were then assisted in Northern Ireland when the vessel ran aground – yet again – and then managed the same trick in the Republic of Ireland.

After sailing to Cornwall the pair called upon the emergency services twice more, once with a mechanical problem and once when strong tides caused them difficulty at anchor.

The ninth callout was made when the boat tipped over causing a fire on board.

Peter Haddock, Hayle harbourmaster, said he was worried about the sailors' safety and that of emergency services.

Mr Haddock said he raised the alarm on Tuesday after seeing smoke coming from the vessel's forward hatch and described the pair as a "catastrophe waiting to happen".

Fire crews extinguished a "small fire" on the 18-tonne yacht, which Mr Shapiro said was caused by a candle, and that "otherwise there was no real damage".

Mr Shapiro, a screenwriter and author from California, said he had been sailing since he was nine and "people had a right to be angry".

"But it's not justifiable, we have the right to the services as much as anybody else."

Sad end for Antarctic explorer Worsley

British explorer Henry Worsley has died at the age of 57, after falling just short in his attempt to become the first person to cross the Antarctic unaided from sea to sea.

Tributes have been paid by the Duke of Cambridge, his brother Prince Harry, adventurer Bear Grylls, TV presenter Ben Fogle and footballer David Beckham.

The former Army officer was attempting to complete Sir Ernest Shackleton's unfinished journey to the South Pole from the Weddell Sea, which would have made him the first person to cross the Antarctic continent unaided, with no supply drops and no dogs. He was raising money for the Endeavour Fund, a charity run by the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge and Prince

Henry Worsley with the Duke of Cambridge last year, a month before he set off

Harry

He was moving on cross-country skis, towing a sledge carrying his tent and all the supplies he needed, in temperatures as low as -44C. Completely alone, he was attempting to travel 1,110 miles across the frozen continent in around 80 days.

But last week, Worsley called for rescuers after spending two days unable to leave his tent. In his own words, he had "run out of time, physical endurance and simple sheer ability to slide one ski in front of the other". After walking 71 days, he was more than 50lbs lighter and had lost a front tooth after biting on a frozen energy bar. He was picked up and flown the six hours to Union Glacier Camp before being taken to hospital in Punta Arenas in Chile, suffering from exhaustion and extreme dehydration, where he passed away on Monday night.

Digger driver wins share of 3,339 Roman coins he found levelling a hockey pitch

■ Mark Copsey entitled to a third after coins declared treasure under the Treasure Act

A bulldozer driver who dug up 3,000 rare Roman coins which he put in a carrier bag will be able to keep the cash despite colleagues claiming it was a team find.

Mark Copsey, 44, was levelling a recreation ground for a hockey pitch when he spotted something in the soil.

He found a collection of 3,339 silver coins carrying depictions of an elephant and a hippopotamus buried around 270AD.

Mr Copsey immediately scooped them up and put them in a plastic carrier bag and an inquest has ruled he will now be entitled to a third of their value.

One of his workmates claimed it was a team find but coroner Tony Williams ruled at the hearing in Taunton in Somerset that Mr Copsey alone was the finder.

He declared the find to be treasure under the Treasure Act and Mr Copsey will now be entitled to a third of their worth.

Mr Copsey, from Clare, Suffolk, put the coins in a carrier bag and then telephoned local museums from the worksite to find out who to report the discovery

'brilliant'

In written evidence he said: "I was stripping subsoil to the rock and was on an eight by ten metres strip to clear the second-to-final strip when I looked behind me and noticed a green colour in the soil.

"I stopped my machine and got out and investigated and discovered a broken pot with some sort of coins."

Speaking after the hearing he said finding the coins was "brilliant."

He added; "When I found the hoard I did everything I could to act correctly and do everything above board.

"When I'm driving it's a health and safety rule to look behind me as well, that's how I spotted them.

"The 'dozer took the top off the pot before I knew it was there, I'm afraid it'll do that every time.

"I'm still working on archaeological digs with the 'dozers so hopefully I might find some more."

Cole signing is a masterstroke - Gerrard

Local News

Steven believes the addition of his former England teammate Ashley Cole was a "master stroke" by the LA Galaxy.

The MLS club sealed a long-awaited deal to bring Cole to Los Angeles on Wednesday, where he will be reunited on the pitch with Gerrard for the first time in two years.

Gerrard played with Cole for 14 years on England's national team, including at the 2006 and 2010 World Cups, and the former Liverpool man said he's happy to play with "a world-class defender."

"I think it is a master stroke by the club," Gerrard said of Cole's signing. "I know he looks after himself, he's very professional, he's hungry, he loves the game, and defense is one of the areas we went wrong last year.

"Ashley is a worldclass defender, and he's still got a lot to offer, so it's a very good bit of business."

The Galaxy returned to training this week with a number of new faces, including centreback Jelle Van Damme, goalkeeper Dan Kennedy forward Magee, and Gerrard said they will use the preseason to learn each other's strengths.

"Chemistry valuable. Team spirit and bonding," Gerrard said. "Good thing is we've got time. We've got a month before the first important game. We need to use these four weeks to get used to each other, welcome the new signings in, and, hopefully, they settle very quickly."

LA will try to improve on a disappointing campaign last season that saw them crash out of the playoffs after a single game.

Another hat trick for Rooney!

■ Coleen and Wayne welcome third child and reveal the name of baby brother for Kai and Klay

COLEEN and Wayne Rooney have welcomed their third son into the world.

The wife of Manchester United and England captain Wayne gave birth to their third child on Monday, the baby weighing 8lb 1oz.

Rooney announced the arrival of Kit Joseph Rooney on Twitter.

He said: "Our gorgeous little boy arrived today. Kit Joseph Rooney. 8Ib 1oz. We are over the moon."

The childhood sweethearts. who married in Italy in 2008, already have two sons - Kai, six, and two-yearold Klay.

It believed that Coleen, 29, was admitted to the Liverpool Women's Hospital yesterday ahead of the birth as Wayne, 30, captained Manchester United at Old Trafford.

The side lost to Southampton 1-0.

The couple announced that Coleen was expecting in July with simultaneous tweets on their Twitter

In a previous interview,

HAPPY FAMILIES: Wayne and Coleen with Kai and Klay

Magazine they would sex will make the labour "definitely not" find out the sex of their baby.

But she told the magazine said she would "love a girl because it would complete the family".

She added: "Hopefully the anticipation of the go a bit quicker."

On January 18 she tweeted: "No baby yet!! .... Hurry up!! ..... Too comfy."

The footballer also took to social media to post a throwback photo of the family when Klay was born.

Alongside snapshot, which shows Coleen and the couple's eldest child Kai, Wayne wrote: "TBT -Family picture after Klay was born. Not long left until the new addition is here! Family."

Fitness and Alcohol: you must know they really don't go together

Health & Fitness with Ricky Parcell

No matter what we do, it seems alcohol always pops up somewhere.... be it on business trips, vacations or after work.

Many people struggle with alcohol....and once they start, some people continue to have 2-3 glasses for relaxation or to change their mental state and mood.

It's the quick way to feel better and easier for some people to do, rather than go out for a walk or meditate.

Below are 6 points which need to be considered when drinking alcohol:

1) If you must drink: Make it one glass of red wine a day (shown to decrease the risk of stroke, heart disease and cancer, by elevating good cholesterol, and is rich in polyphenol antioxidants for cell health). Alternatively, a straight spirit (vodka, gin or scotch) is fine, but avoid mixers which are bursting with simple sugars, and are quickly metabolized into fat!

2) Consider this: Every 1 gram of fat is 9 calories, 1g of protein is 4 calories, and 1g of alcohol is 7 calories. Alcohol is almost as calorific as fat, but has 'empty' calories no nutritional with value, and only speeds up fat storage. A double gin & tonic is 175 calories (c.10% of a girl's RDA calorie intake, alot for something that doesn't fill you up!)

3) The Scores: Single G&T: 75 calories. Glass of champagne: 91 calories. C an of Stella Artois: 247 calories. Shot of straight vodka: 55 calories . Glass of Baileys: 133 calories

4) Alcohol's effect on training: It can stop you reaching your goals by

WORKING BACKWARDS: Alcohol will inhibit your body's ability to burn fat dampening performance, recovery and focus. Although it's absorbed quickly, it metabolizes slowly and can still affect the system up to 48 hours after consumption. It decreases strength, dehydrates (damaging to the kidney), exhausts the body (impairs liver function, as it metabolizes alcohol at the expense of glycogen), disturbs sleep (crucial for muscle recovery), slows down reaction time, disrupts the body's balance and coordination, impedes cardio exercise (raises blood pressure so the heart works harder to pump blood through the body) etc...

5) After effects: A typical night out likely involves 3 drinks and some bad food at the end. That could easily amount to 1250-1500 calories in itself, which is 60% of your daily calorie allowance on top of what you've already had that day! No wonder next day you'll feel bloated and tired - so perhaps try to avoid the hangover fry-up, as you won't need the calories!!!

6) Your choices: When we drink, the brain begins to make poor choices in many different ways. Choices around food are particularly affected and this can lead to a loss of food discipline. Therefore be mindful of what you have in the fridge at home when drinking, or when you go out make a rule to consume only healthy food and stick to it.

Ricky Parcell www.thebodycamp.com

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since? If so, why?

My first impression biggest that everyone sus What do you find the difference is living here ver-Leicestershire? I'd say the politics in America are the biggest difference for me personally. I'm talking healthcare, gun laws etc. Americans often think the U.K. and the U.S. are very similar, but there are quite a few big differences of that nature. (Plus, you know, the fact that I can go to the beach any day of the week and grab a yummy, healthy juice whilst I'm at it - can't do that in Leicestershire!)

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us? Greystone Mansion. Stunning place and you almost never bump into anyone else there.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here? Be prepared to work very hard and strive to make two or three close friends that you can trust and have fun with! Find your own car as soon as you can or at least position yourself close to one of the metro stations as a temporary means of transport.

If your your life was TV show what would be the theme tune and why? Flagpole Sitta (the theme tune from 'Peep Show') because...well, the lyrics explain it all.

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Check out the new Coen Brothers' new film 'Hail, Caesar!' that I was lucky enough to be a part of!

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Please be kind to another who may be feeling sorry for themselves this week. This person is really not having a good experience in life and needs your support, and their gratitude will be the reward.

TAURUS: You need to look long and hard this week ahead at where you are heading. Is it the right direction or do you need to make a detour? Only you can figure this out and now is the perfect time to find out.

GEMINI: What you can achieve this week is up to how willing you are to make the right moves. If your life taking a different course due to circumstances beyond your control remember that old saying about the greatest plans of mice and men....

CANCER: This is a month of makeovers either for you or your home or (if you can afford it) both. Either way get moving as it's the right time to let the winds of change move swiftly through the old and worn out.

LEO: As this month begins you could find yourself stretched beyond your limits in a couple of areas of life; one is work (or the lack of it) and of course following on is cash flow. However you should be in the best of spirits, regardless.

VIRGO: Any task you take on will be easier to deal with and this will last until the end of this month, so make it a priority to complete anything outstanding because new ideas and opportunities will come up next month. LIBRA: Travel has been much on your mind and this can make you stressed or feel limited. The clue is to make an effort to keep busy and as is your nature be kind to those in need of it right now

SCORPIO: Saturn going forward now will bring all sorts of unfinished things to your attention and even a recent disappointment can turn around in a positive and uplifting way. It's time to enjoy life. You can look forward to more than happy times ahead.

SAGITTARIUS: Just watch that temper if things don't always go the way you planned. Try to remember that life is like that and this too shall pass. You may not be doing what you previously planned, however you are in the right place so make hay while the sun shines.

CAPRICORN: This could be the month that all your hopes begin to transpire, it is entirely up to you how you make it work, so patience should be your key word currently and going forward into February life will be gentler.

AQUARIUS: You will always get back what you put out and just be careful you don't say too much to another that can upset your long-term plans. Keep your life stress-free this year and see the seeds of a better life grow. Happy Birthday!

PISCES: You are reputed to be the most romantic soul of all the signs so this year prove it, if not to another then to yourself. Jupiter sitting in your money house for the year ahead brings financial rewards.

Rebel Queen: a very tasty Indian

Exclusive interview with author Michelle Moran and a review of her new novel about the palace guard of one of the last queens of India

Rating: 3 Stars

"The most surprising thing about writing on Indian culture was probably the concept Janam Kundlis," Rebel Oueen savs author Michelle Moran. "Particularly since Janam Kundlis very nearly played a role in my own life and my marriage to my husband, who is Indian." A Janam Kundli is an astrological chart intended to predict the future success of a marriage.

Despite the title Rebel Queen, the book is about her female warrior-guard Sita. Born into a country where daughters are not valued, her father trains Sita for the Durga Dal, the bodyguard of Queen Lakshmi, the wife of Jhanbsi's last maharaja. Sita, who trains for years and has an advantage that her father taught her to speak English, which comes in handy when the territory falls to the British.

Moran's wonderful descriptions of life in 19th century India is full of details about spices, food, celebrations, fabrics, clothing and rituals. Oddly, at times the story is told in the third person, as though there's a narrator. The story brings to life the charm of India, but it doesn't connect the reader to the heroine of the book.

"I came across the life of Queen Lakshmi while getting married in India," says Moran. "After the wedding, my husband and his family knew about my interest in her and they took me to see her palace and the place where she died. After visiting these sites and hearing the details about her life, and the lives of her female warriors, I knew it was something I had to write about."

"Even though it didn't end up affecting me, a person's Janam Kundli can alter their destiny," says Moran. "Just as I describe in the beginning of Rebel Queen. No one is sure when the concept of a Janam Kundli came to be, but as Vedic astrology is several thousand years old, it's not surprising that my protagonist's Janam Kundli would have looked similar to my husband's, even though they were born more than a hundred years apart. A person's Janam Kundli includes the details of their birth... time, date, planetary alignments. It also includes other things which aren't so common in the West, such as that person's probable future career and who they were in their most recent past life...in my husband's case, a yogi."

A Janam Kundli is made by a priest for each child in India. Once a person's Janam Kundli is created, they keep that document with them for life. Janam Kundlis are used to make prospective matches between brides and grooms throughout India, where the majority of marriages are arranged.

If a Janam Kundli declares a person to be bad luck, a manglik. He or she may either marry another manglik, thus canceling out their badluck status. Or, if the non-manglik person's family finds the risk acceptable, hire a priest to conduct a variety of ceremonies. Bollywood star Aishwarya Rai, a manglik, in 2007 married a tree before she married her husband, thereby canceling her bad-luck.

"In the end, it was decided that my husband should take the risk and go for it," says Moran. "I never had to marry a tree or even choose among a variety of clay urns for my groom. Either option, apparently, is acceptable, as it's believed that a person's manglik dosh can be canceled out if the manglik person's bad luck is spent on the first marriage. Thus, the bride first marries a clay urn or a tree, then either breaks the clay urn or chops down her tree-husband in order to become a widow." In some places, the tree is allowed to survive. The second marriage can then proceed without complication.

Visit California - its a gas!

week has been a stream constant of stories from Sundance and Oscar backlash.

people But are batting barely an eyelid about the massive gas leak out in Porter Ranch, which is a little over 20 miles away from the Dolby Theatre (current home of the Academy Awards).

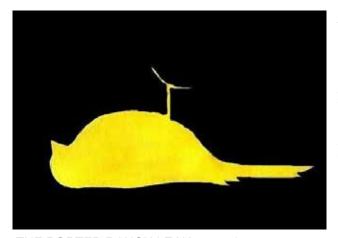

If canaries were still used as gas detectors, Los Angeles would probably be without a flock! The leak started at the end of October and but it wasn't until this month that California Governor Jerry Brown finally declared a state of emergency over this disaster. Since the Aliso Canvon leak sprung, 87,000 metric tons of methane gas have entered the atmosphere, causing thousands of people to relocate as they are suffering from problems health including nosebleeds, lethargy vomiting, headaches. and Independent testers have announced it is has spread up to eight miles away (so far), affecting people right across the San Fernando Valley. The awful part is this could have been prevented! If only the Southern California Gas Company had

My newsfeed this replaced a safety valve that stopped working in 1979! The fact that fracking has been going on in the vicinity of these aging wells may very well have a lot to do with it too. Fortunately not everyone is so complacent, as this South week the Coast Air Quality Management are SoCal suing Gas negligence. If successful they could be fined $250,000 a day until this leak is stopped. If you want to get more involved in the fight for cleaner air for ALL of Los Angeles, you can visit facebook.com/ saveporterranch. They have a petition link on there that you can sign. I think it is time to tell them to #FrackOff also has its first official case of the Zika virus! Thankfully the young girl in question, who contracted the disease in El Salvador, has recovered. The mosquito born virus affecting is pregnant woman and babies in particular; starting last year in Brazil where there was an unusually high number (in the thousands) born with abnormally small heads. What a world we live in!

It makes me realize why no one is talking about all this doom and gloom, as it is far more pleasing to bury

One direction for Liam - straight to the top with J-Lo!

So Liam Payne is not just a pretty face after all... Who knew he co-wrote no fewer than 35 songs for One Direction?

Now ľm told British the hottie is turning his musical talents to a completely different kind of artist. #gobsmacked I am...

The wonder from Wolverhampton has reportedly been asked to go into the studio with Jennifer Lopez to work on music together. Don't be fooled by the rocks that he's got, he's still he's still Liam from the block.

An insider with loose lips revealed that the 1D star was asked that Liam is a budding to talk about music and they decided that their styles could come together nicely.

They added that Liam is "determined to be the best songwriter he can be," according to sources.

We already know that Liam has been in the studio with American rapper Juicy J, and is thought to feature on one of his upcoming tracks.

Furthermore, the 22-year-old singer has already given one of his songs - titled 'The Night We Met' - to Louis Walsh's new Irish boyband HomeTown.

And lest we forget to go and meet J-Lo producer too. He's already released Big Payno remixes singles by Cheryl and One Direction.

Meanwhile, Lopez started her All I Have residency in Las Vegas last week, with an incredibly sparkly ensemble.

However, superstar was left redfaced earlier this week when her costume seam split while she was on stage, flashing her famous behind to the front row. Oo-er!

I can't to hear which "direction" takes his pen when songwriting for JLO...

Tyson Fury warned over controversial comments

heavyweight champion Tyson Fury has been told by the sport's authorities not to make "controversial boxing comments".

He was warned over his conduct by the British Boxing Board of Control after a meeting Tuesday.

apologised after making comments about women and gay people.

Almost 140,000 people signed a petition calling for Fury to be removed from the BBC Sports Personality of the Year shortlist before December's event.

Manchester fighter, who outpointed Wladimir Klitschko to become heavyweight champion in November, caused controversy over derogatory remarks he made about women, and criticising for homosexuality and abortion.

A BBBC statement said Fury's comments had "caused offence" but that he had not broken the law by "exercising his right to freedom of expression" and it could not "interfere with his basic human rights".

It added: "The stewards of the board have made it clear to him [Fury] that as world heavyweight champion, arguably the holder of the most title prestigious sport, there are heavy responsibilities upon him to avoid making controversial, non-boxing comments.

"He has assured the stewards that understands responsibilities upon him and has expressed regret that he has caused offence to others, which was never his intention."

A rematch between Klitschko, 39, and Fury will take place this summer.

Vaughan blasts England after 'dead rubber' loss

England "threw in the towel" as they collapsed to defeat in the fourth Test in South Africa, says former captain Michael Vaughan.

The tourists lost their last seven wickets for 43 runs on the final morning, bowled out for 101 to lose by 280 runs in Centurion.

England, who were dismissed inside 35 overs, won the series 2-1.

"It was a really feeble way to finish the tour. They've shown no heart," Vaughan told BBC Test Match Special.

"I thought this would be a day where England would graft. I thought they'd last until tea. That's not good enough."

England won the first Test in Durban by 241 runs and the third in Johannesburg by seven wickets to establish an unassailable 2-0 lead in the series.

But dropped catches allowed South Africa to establish a first-innings lead of 133 in Centurion. before Kagiso Rabada hurried South Africa to a consolation victory with 6-32 in the second innings and 13-144 in the match.

"There are no dead rubbers in Test cricket," said Vaughan, who captained England in 51 of his 82 Tests.

"They haven't been on it. Whether you're winning the series or not, if you're a good team you don't relax."

Joe Root, Chris Woakes and Stuart Broad edged drives and Ben Stokes pulled to deep squareleg as England's hopes of saving the game disappeared amid a flurry of reckless shots.

Former England batsman Geoffrey Boycott said: "Get your head down and save the match. There was no effort this morning.

"Coming out and playing shots - does that excuse you after winning the series? No. There's no excuse for that. You have to be professional."

Vaughan added: "Some of those shots this morning were not the shots of a team that was thinking we can really win this Test match."

South Africa captain AB de Villiers said: "To take seven wickets in the time that we did was not part of the thinking. We were ready to go to 5.30 today."

Robert Lewandowski to reject United, City AND Chelsea for Real

Robert Lewandowski is likely to reject interest from Manchester United, Manchester City and Chelsea to hold out for a move to Real Madrid this summer.

growing There is expectation at Bayern Munich that the Polish star will seek to leave this summer if Real can overturn or delay their transfer ban. Even if the embargo is upheld it is understood that Lewandowski is prepared to stay another year rather than accept an offer from a Premier League club.

Lewandowski, 27, is believed to have set his heart on joining Real, who have identified the striker as one of their next big-name signings. With Zinedine Zidane installed as coach at least until the end of this season Real remain in a state of flux with questions over a number of their leading players.

Cristiano Ronaldo is wanted by United and Paris St-Germain, who are poised for a squad overhaul with Zlatan Ibrahimovic expected to leave at the end of his contract. Premier League clubs would jump at the chance to sign Gareth Bale, who will take stock at the end of this campaign but who wants to remain at Real. PSG and Bayern would also be interested in him.

With Pep Guardiola leaving Bayern at the end of this season and City his most likely destination the club insist that no deal has been agreed - then Lewandowski would be an obvious target. United and Chelsea are also in the market for a top-class striker.

Lewandowski joined Bayern in 2014 from Borussia Dortmund and would command a transfer fee in excess of £60million as he is contracted until 2019 and entering the prime of his career.

Whether it is possible for him to move to Real this summer remains to be seen. The club are subject to a transfer ban for the next two windows - this summer and January 2017 - having been found guilty by Fifa of breaking the rules governing the signing of under-18s. Real have appealed - though precedent suggests they are unlikely to succeed - but can still go to the Court of Arbitration in Sport and ask for a period of grace, effectively suspending the ban for one window, while their case is considered.

Australian Open: Konta joins the tennis elite despite loss

BRITISH tennis has a end as she lost to number new star. And her name is Iohanna Konta.

Born in Australia to Hungarian parents but a British citizen since 1912, the Surrey-based Konta made an extraordinary run at the Australian Open which came to an seven seed Angelique Kerber in Thursday's semi-final.

Konta had seen off experienced seeds including Venus Williams and Ekaterina Makarova to became the first British woman to make the final four of a Grand Slam since 1983, but her luck ran out against the German, who triumphed 7-5 6-2 in Melbourne.

Konta's performances have "undeniably earned her a position of respect amongst the world's leading players", says

Barry Flatman, in The Times, but she was found wanting in the biggest game of her career to date.

The 24-year-old Briton hit more winners than her opponent but lost five service games and finished with 36 unforced errors to Makarova's 11.

Martinez:

You feel so hurt because there have been a few big decisions that have not gone in our favour.

"You have to respect the referees and they have the toughest job in football but certain decisions are clear cut, away from the judgment of the referee.

"When the ball is out of play in the modern game, you don't expect that to be missed. When it ends up as the second goal, you can imagine the major blow it has to our feelings, our performance and our chances to get through."

Martinezalso dismissed talk of the introduction of technology when he said: "My question to the referees' chief is do we need technology or should we expect the linesman and the referee to get these calls right? For me that action is so clear. I would expect international or Premier League linesmen to get that call right. I would expect a top referee to get his angle and his position right."

Martinez's complaints cut no ice with City counterpart Manuel Pellegrini, who pointed out that Everton had been the beneficiaries of refereeing decisions against his side recently.

"It was maybe a mistake but I think the one thing Everton cannot complain about is the referee," said Pellegrini. "We lost at Goodison when their first goal from Ramiro Funes Mori was clearly offside and there was also a clear penalty when Jesus Navas was fouled.

"We also had a clear penalty not given when Raheem Sterling was fouled against Everton recently and there was also a foul on one of our players before Everton's goal in this game."

Tomorrow I could be gone, admits LVG

Manchester United manager Louis van Gaal says an FA Cup defeat at Derby on Friday could get him sacked - for the fourth time this season.

The Dutchman, 64, said speculation he offered to resign after the 1-0 loss to Southampton was "awful and horrible".

In a swipe at the media, he claimed journalists had "sacked" him three times already this season, and would do so again if United lose at Derby.

"Maybe then you have written the truth because sometimes it happens," he said.

United are 10 points behind Premier League leaders Leicester, five points adrift of Tottenham in fourth place and out of the Champions League.

Speaking before Friday's fourth-round match with the side fifth in the Championship, Van Gaal said questions about his future were being asked in a "disrespectful way".

"You make your stories and people believe it," he said at a news conference. "I am concerned they are believing it. You can write what you do.

"It is the third time I am sacked and I am still sitting here. Now I cannot lose any more - then for the fourth time I have been sacked."

Van Gaal praised the "fantastic" support of executive vice-chairman Ed Woodward and said an FA Cup win could be his saviour - as it proved for former United boss Sir Alex Ferguson in January 1990.

Chelsea's Ramires has joined Chinese side Jiangsu Suning in a deal believed to be worth about £25m.

The 28-year-old Brazil midfielder agreed a new four-year deal in October but has only started seven Premier League games this season.

Newcastle have completed the signing of England winger Andros Townsend from Tottenham for a fee of about £12m.

The 24-year-old has signed a five-year deal with the Magpies.

Sparky: Reds 'incredibly fortunate'

■ Stoke boss Hughes laments loss as Liverpool book Carling Cup final berth

Stoke City boss Mark Hughes says Liverpool were "incredibly fortunate" to reach the League Cup final.

The Potters bowed out on penalties Tuesday night after finishing 1-1 on aggregate in the twoleg semi-final, following their first win at Anfield since March 1959.

Stoke's goal in first-half injury time by forward Marko Arnautovic owed a lot to good fortune.

"It was offside, but we deserved it. We got the goal that won us the game, but not the tie," Hughes told reporters.

"We always thought we had a chance even if others didn't, but we just couldn't get that second goal even though we looked the likelier side to score.

"You can see by the reaction of their fans and their players that they have been incredibly fortunate to progress to the final.

"Obviously once it goes to penalties it can go either way and heartbreakingly for us it has gone their way. These sort of things happen in sport, but that still doesn't make it any easier to take."

Stoke, who lie ninth in the Premier League table, just a point behind Jurgen Klopp's seventh-placed Liverpool, were up against it after a disappointing performance in the first leg at the Britannia Stadium three weeks earlier.

However, despite being without skipper Ryan Shawcross at the back, with Marc Muniesa coming in, the Potters prevented Liverpool managing a single effort on target.

And a return to old Tony Pulis tactics with the selection of big men Jon Walters and Peter Crouch up front made them more of an attacking threat than the home side.

"To a man I can't fault any of them," said Hughes. "They all put in fantastic performances. I'd highlight Peter Crouch who, along with Marc Muniesa, hadn't played for a long time.

"We will hopefully get the credit we deserve. We came in difficult circumstances after losing the home leg, but were very positive and made a few changes, and on the night we were by far the better team.

"I'm really proud of what the players produced, but unfortunately we aren't the ones going to Wembley."

Stoke boss Hughes now has concerns about Arnautovic and Charlie Adam ahead of Saturday's fourth round FA Cup tie at Crystal Palace.

Arnautovic suffered a back injury after twice falling heavily following challenges from Liverpool defender Jon Flanagan, while secondhalf substitute Adam lasted barely half an hour before going off in the first half of extra time with calf trouble.

Adam was one of three players on the pitch from the last time Liverpool won a trophy, the League Cup final, also on penalties, when he missed in the shootout against Cardiff City in 2012.

SPOT ON: Joe Allen scored the vital penalty for Liverpool Tuesday night

Stoke right-back Glen Johnson was also in the Liverpool team that day, scoring one of their three penalties.

The only survivor from Kenny Dalglish's Reds team from 2012 still out there was Jordan Henderson, now the captain. Lucas Leiva, one of the Reds' penalty shootout heroes on Tuesday night, missed that Wembley final because of injury.

Martinez rages as Toffees come unstuck

Everton manager Roberto Martinez was left fuming at what he said was a "hurtful and unfair" exit at the hands of Manchester City in the Capital One Cup Wednesday night.

City will meet Liverpool in the final at Wembley on 28 February after a 3-1 victory at the Etihad Stadium gave them a 4-3 aggregate win against the Toffees.

Martinez, however, was upset that the match officials failed to spot Raheem Sterling had run the ball out of play before crossing for Kevin de Bruyne to score City's second with a thrilling game poised at 1-1. That scoreline would have sent Everton to Wembley to face their arch-rivals. Sergio Aguero added a third goal that secured City's place in the final, but an inconsolable believed Martinez Everton's hopes had been wrecked in that 70th-minute crucial moment when referee Martin Atkinson and assistant Scott Ledger allowed play to continue.

"You don't mind if Manchester City find a way of being outstanding and scoring three goals but it is very difficult to find an explanation in the dressing room for the players to find a reason we have been knocked out," he said. "That is hurtful and unfair."

Martinez added: "It was a clear decision. The ball is out of play and the second goal affected the outcome too much.
