QUIT THE EU TO SAVE THE NHS!

■ Migrants are bleeding us dry, claims top doctor

BRITAIN should leave the EU in order to save an NHS which is being overrun by migrants, according to a top cancer specialist.

In a boost for the Out campaign Professor Angus Dalgleish warned that Britain's continued membership of the EU will put the health service under intolerable pressure and lead to it collapsing.

The Principal of the highly regarded Cancer Vaccine Institute in London has said that the NHS is being "bled dry" by European migrants arriving to use free NHS services.

The warning from one of the world's most internationally renowned medical experts was made at a conference organised by Tory MEP David Campbell Bannerman titled: "The Good Life after Brexit: How Britain will be safer leaving the EU - and what comes next."

It comes as one leading newspaper's online poll of more than 101,000 people showed that 92 per cent want Britain to leave the EU.

Professor Dalgleish said: "Our membership of the EU is putting an intolerable strain on our NHS. The NHS is on its knees and could collapse completely.

"NHS Trusts were not prepared for the millions of EU migrants who have poured into Britain because the Government estimate was nowhere near the reality.

"GP services are collapsing under the huge number of people they are having to treat and this has led to less than 20 per cent of students wanting to cont. on page 2, col. 1

100mph killer Storm Imogen wreaks havoc

SURF'S UP: huge waves crash over the headland at Sennen Cove, near Land's End in Cornwall this week as Britain was battered by Storm Imogen, which packed winds approaching 100mph and left thousands without power and disrupted transport links. The misery was set to continue into the weekend as the country braced for a snowy Valentine's Day, with a blast of frigid air from the Arctic expected to send temperatures plummeting to -10c in some areas in the north of England and throughout Scotland.

become GPs.

He added: "The health service is being bled dry - this is why our NHS faces a £3 billion deficit."

In 2014/15 250,000 migrants arrived from countries and there are thought to be 618,000 undocumented immigrants in the UK.

milestone

In 2013 the cost of health tourism to the UK was estimated by the government to be at least £2billion a year and its attempts to introduce a surcharge was aimed at recouping at least £500million but only got £100million back.

The conference in London also marked a major milestone in the efforts to win Britain's independence from the EU with the three major organisations hoping to lead the campaign - Vote Leave, Leave.EU and Grassroots Out (GO) sharing a platform for the first time.

Professor Dalgleish appeared with former Tory ministers Liam Fox, David Davis and John Redwood, Labour MP Graham Stringer, Ukip Leader Nigel Farage, DUP's Iain Paisley Jr, Vote Leave chief executive Matthew Elliott and Leave.EU head of press Brian Montieth.

David Cameron launching a charm offensive this week to sell his much-debated renegotiation of the UK's membership in time for holding the referendum on 23 June, the conference outlined the positive alternatives available with a Brexit, with Dalgleish, 65, issuing a stern warning about the consequences of staying put.

He said: "Britain is attracting thousands of health tourists from across the EU who cannot get certain drugs or treatments in their home country so come to Britain and demand them as EU citizens.

"Cancer treatment can cost £200,000 a year per patient and while we remain in the EU, Britain has to offer treatment for any EU citizen who comes here so as to not discriminate."

'bureaucracy'

He also claimed that directives have already harmed cutting edge medical research by British laboratories into major diseases.

Most worryingly medical research is now being tied up into knots by the "unfathomable amount of EU regulations and bureaucracy" which has reduced the amount carried out in the UK by a third, he claimed, adding: "Surgeons are not gaining the same experience a registrar previously had when appointed to consultant

"Other EU countries creative incorporating the Working Time Directive to ensure specialists could get the 60 hours week experience needed but the British Government adopted the Directive without thinking through the ramifications and a result, training has been hit so hard that standards have dropped and patient care has suffered."

'tough measures'

Prof Dalgleish first worked at the Institute of Cancer Research in 1984 where he helped make a major breakthrough on research into HIV.

He has also held senior positions at Northwick Park Hospital and St George's, University of London where he was Professor of Professor of Oncology.

In 1997 he set up Onyvax Ltd, a privately funded biotechnology company developing cancer vaccines, where he holds a position as Research Director.

A Department Health spokesperson said: "This Government is determined to make sure our NHS isn't abused - we were the first to introduce tough measures to clamp down on migrants accessing care and we are now focused on extending charging to other areas of healthcare, expecting to recover up to £500m a year by 2018 from visitors using the NHS."

Tory rebels mobilize to fight Cameron on 'rubbish' EU reform

Cameron facing damaging showdown with to 100 Tory rebels over his controversial compromise deal with fellow EU leaders over migrant welfare rights.

The Prime Minister toured European capitals this week to build support for the renegotiation package, and persuade other member states to endorse it at a summit next Thursday. The PM claims the draft deal, published last week, important contains concessions and is the basis for a satisfactory new settlement for Britain in Europe, but critics have dismissed its proposals as trifling and inconsequential.

Iain Duncan Smith, the Work and Pensions Secretary, reportedly told friends the deal was "a load of rubbish", predicting it would "fall apart" after the UK's in/ out referendum, expected in June.

Meanwhile Tory backbenchers have accused the PM of "scaremongering" after No. 10 warned that the "Jungle" migrant camp in Calais would relocate to England if the UK voted to leave the EU. Critics said that was nonsense, insisting that the bilateral deal with France that allows border guards to operate in Calais had nothing to do with the

What the editorials said

The EU referendum was, from the start, simply a device to "defer civil war" in the Tory party, said The Guardian. Now the crunch point has arrived. Having happily played the "Brusselsbashing game when it suited them", Tory leaders are now alarmed by the ramifications of Brexit, leaving them in the awkward position of trying to win a campaign that much of their party "wishes to lose". Cameron only has himself to blame for this predicament, but he is doing a good job in managing it. His diplomatic efforts in Europe have "produced rewards which, in Plato's Republic rather than Daily Mail-dominated Britain, might actually be seen as quite rational and effective". And he has succeeded, so far, in keeping a lid on the Tory revolt.

He has indeed, said the Daily Mail, but only by "gagging" ministers, insisting that they keep their counsel until negotiations conclude. In the meantime, the PM and other cheerleaders for Brussels in the City, academia and the BBC, are busy scaremongering. Opposing this coalition is a "dismal ragbag" of campaign groups that seem to be more interested in feuding among themselves than putting the case for Brexit. What "a grotesque offence against British democracy".

It was a bad week for:

Hasty decisions, as Chris Hill-Scott, a 29-year-old civil servant, discovered after the company he founded with two friends – but left two months later – was sold to Microsoft for £174m. He reportedly swapped his stake in SwiftKey, a predictive texting business, for a bicycle in 2008. Swiftkey is headquartered in Southwark, south London, and employs 160 people.

And Welsh Crooner Tom Jones, after Welsh rugby fans were urged not to sing his 1968 hit Delilah at the Six Nations tournament, because of claims that it glorifies violence against women. The song – which has become an unofficial Welsh rugby anthem – is about a man who murders his cheating lover. "It is a simple fact that when there are big international rugby matches on... the number of domestic violence incidents rises dramatically," said MP Chris Bryant.

Man held for murder

The partner of Sian Blake has been arrested by UK police on suspicion of murdering the ex-EastEnders actress and her two sons.

Arthur Simpson-Kent was arrested at Heathrow Airport after arriving in the UK on a flight from Ghana.

Ms Blake and her sons Zachary and Amon, aged eight and four, disappeared on 13 December and were found buried in the garden of their home in Erith, Kent, on 5 January.

Tennis ace Andy and wife Kim serve up a baby girl

Tennis star Andy Murray's wife Kim Sears has given birth to an 8lb 10oz girl, who arrived on Sunday morning.

The couple were married in Murray's home town of Dunblane last April and announced the pregnancy in the summer.

Confirming the news, the tennis star's agent said: "Andy and Kim had a daughter in the early hours of Sunday morning and the family are doing well."

Shirley Erskine, Andy Murray's grandmother said she was delighted at her great granddaughter's arrival.

Andy's mother Judy tweeted a photograph of Andy Murray's gold post box in Dunblane which has been adorned with pink ribbons, with the words "Dunblane baby love......xxx".

The post box was painted gold when Andy won the gold medal at the London Olympics.

She later tweeted another picture of tennis balls and a dummy, with the caption "Tennis family #cute".

In the run-up to last month's Australian Open, Murray, said his family would be a "priority".

The world number two made it clear that he would have cut short his first grand slam of the year and flown home if the baby had arrived earlier than expected.

He said: "My child is more important to me, and my wife is more important to me, than a tennis match.

"It's a big change for me and my wife, but that's the current priority and I'll see after that.

"I have no idea how that will change things. I still love tennis."

'Absolutely delighted'

Speaking from her home in Dunblane, Mrs Erskine said: "I am absolutely delighted, as you can imagine. It seems a long time that we've been waiting for this but all's well now as far as I know.

"I don't have any details I just know that I've got a great granddaugher so that is just lovely.

Bowie 'knew he would be a grandad'

David Bowie found out that he would have been a grandfather just days before he died from cancer last month.

His son, film director Duncan Jones, revealed on Wednesday that he had told his father the news in a Christmas card.

"Due in June. Circle of life. Love you, granddad," Jones wrote on Twitter as he posted the drawing of a foetus in a uterus.

Bowie died on 10 January from a private battle with liver cancer two days after his 69th birthday and the release of his final album, Blackstar.

Jones, the son of the music icon and his former wife Angie Bowie, is married to the photographer Rodene Ronquillo.

A good week for a long shot...

After a worldwide search, a British student suffering from leukaemia has – against all the odds – found a stem cell donor.

Lara Casalotti, 24, (above) from London, was diagnosed with acute myeloid leukaemia last year. But her chances of finding a bone marrow donor were slim, as she needed one that matched her Thai-Italian background. With just 3% of registered donors worldwide being mixed-race, the odds of finding a match for her were estimated at one in 25 million. This week, however, following an online campaign which inspired a sharp rise in donors, including many mixed-race ones, a match was found.

■ Death rates from cancer have fallen 10% in the UK in the past decade, according to a landmark study. The report, by Cancer Research UK, found that increasingly sophisticated and precise therapies helped cut the rate from 312 in every 100,000 people in 2003 to 284 in 2013. The dramatic improvement was also credited to greater awareness of cancer symptoms and earlier detection rates. However, the death rates for some cancers, such as of the liver and pancreas, are rising.

Adele dethrones Taylor Swift to become world's biggest-selling artist

The "runaway global sensation" has been named IFPI Global Recording Artist of 2015

The plaudits just keep on coming for Adele - she's now been crowned the biggest-selling music artist of 2015 by the International Federation of the Phonographic Industry (IFPI).

Amassing the success of musicians over the previous year, Adele's victory follows the release of her third studio album, 25, on 20 November.

The record since went on to become the fastest-selling in British history, reaching the top of the charts and remaining there until David Bowie's final album

Blackstar knocked her off in January following the icon's death.

2014 victor Taylor Swift was knocked into third place with Ed Sheeran rising to second.

"Hello," the first single from 25, became the first song to be downloaded over a million times in one week - its music video also became the fastest to reach a billion YouTube views. Justin Bieber and One

Restored Jimi Hendrix apartment opens to public in London

LONDON: - The London apartment where Jimi Hendrix lived more than 45 years ago has opened to the public, restored to look just how the rock star used it.

Hendrix moved into the apartment on the upper floors of 23 Brook Street - next to the house composer George Frideric Handel lived in centuries earlier - in July 1968 after his girlfriend Kathy Etchingham saw it advertised in a newspaper.

Hendrix, who died in 1970 aged 27, wrote music, rehearsed and gave interviews there. He told Etchingham it was his "first real home of my own" and decorated the place himself with bright curtains, cushions and lots of ornaments.

In London's upmarket Mayfair neighbourhood, it has undergone a two-year, £2.4 million restoration and is now part of the "Handel & Hendrix in London" heritage site celebrating the two musicians.

With rugs on the floor, hangings on the walls, old records and newspapers on display as well as a guitar lying on a colourful bed spread, the apartment is a trip back in time for Etchingham.

"Well it's quite strange ... 45 years on to be sitting in the same room you were sitting in when you were 22 years old but it's very much as it was," she told Reuters during a visit to the apartment.

"I don't feel emotional about it, I just feel ... it's a job well done and it's something that people wouldn't normally have got to see, they can now see it ... For me, this is like stepping back 45 years or more."

Hendrix lived in the apartment for several periods in 1968 and 1969. In March 1969 he went to New York while Etchingham stayed on at the apartment for a while. It later served as office space before the Handel House Trust took it over in 2000.

Handel lived next door for 36 years and wrote works, including "Messiah", there. He died at his home in 1759.

"Handel & Hendrix in London" features both homes as well as a show looking at Hendrix's London life in the late 1960s

Fergie seeks to be a Swiss miss

■ Sarah Ferguson applies for Swiss residency after moving to £13m Alpine ski chalet

Sarah Ferguson has applied to become a permanent resident in tax haven Switzerland, claiming she feels "free and happy" in the country she now views as "home".

In an interview with Swiss newspaper, Duchess of York the "administrative procedures are underway" to make her move to the upmarket ski resort of Verbier official. She has already moved into £13 million ski Chalet Helora which she bought with ex-husband Prince Andrew in 2014.

'free and happy'

The purchase a "nest egg" for their daughters Beatrice, 27, and Eugenie, 25, but it now appears the Duchess of York, 56, hopes to live there long-term.

In an interview with Swiss newspaper Le Nouvelliste, Fergie said she learnt to ski at the age of three and first travelled to the canton of Valais, where Verbier is situated, when she was

She said: "Since my first visit, I have regularly returned for holidays to Verbier.

"My family has followed me over the years. We feel free and happy, we feel at home.

'Anyway, I call it 'my home'. I find here a positive energy that allows me to focus on new philanthropic activities.

"Furthermore, I have begun the process of officially becoming a resident of Valais.

Switzerland renowned as a tax haven for its low levels of income tax and generous tax breaks.

It is likely that the Duchess will be applying for a 'Class B' residence permit, which can be obtained without speaking the official languages of Switzerland and also allows the holder to buy real estate in the country.

money issues

The country also offers low tax rates including a unique lump-sum taxation regime available to foreigners who are not employed within its borders.

Duchess notoriously faced money issues in the past, and was reportedly to £5 million in debt at her lowest point, controversially accepting £15,000 from billionaire convicted paedophile Jeffrey Epstein to help clear her debts, which she later vowed to repay.

In 2010 she was filmed offering to sell access to Prince Andrew for £500,000 to "open doors". She has since set several business ventures in an attempt make money, including appearing on a US shopping channel promoting a new juicer.

A spokesman for the duchess told The Times: "It is purely residency only, because that is where her primary residence is. That is where her home is."

The spokesman added that the duchess will continue to use a room at Royal Lodge, the duke's home in Windsor, for "family occasions".

Prince Andrew's ex-wife says she feels a 'positive energy' in the Alpine town

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER: A 107-year-old Londoner has revealed the secret of her longevity: she quit smoking - aged 102. Muriel Froomberg (pictured) said she decided to kick her 40-a-day habit five years ago, so that she could have a "long life" and see her great-great grandchildren grow up. By that time, it is estimated that she had got through 1.3 million cigarettes.

Woman survives 60ft fall in John Lewis store

■ Shopper plummets over top-floor balcony – and lands on top of a display bed

A woman who fell from the top floor of a John Lewis store escaped serious injury thanks to a cartoon-style landing onto a display bed.

The unnamed shopper was on the upper floor of the department store Cheadle, Greater Manchester, when she fell over a glass balcony next to escalators. The 60ft plunge could have been fatal, but her improbable landing site broke her fall.

An air ambulance was called to the scene and the woman was taken to hip and spine injuries. Her injuries were not thought to be serious, a police spokesman told the Press Association.

John spokesman confirmed that the company was assisting police over the "distressing incident".

A statement from the store said: "Our customers' safety is of the utmost importance to us and all of our shops conform to the highest safety standards."

In September 2015, a hospital to be treated for woman was seriously injured in a fall from the fourth floor of a branch of Debenhams on Oxford Street, in London. After falling over the side of an escalator, she landed on an advertising sign in the basement level of the store. The year before, a man died after falling from an escalator in the same store. The Guardian quotes one shopper as hearing a supervisor say: "Oh no, not again," as she realized the woman had suffered a similar accident.

biggest facing the international community in 2016 is likely to be the growing humanitarian crisis of refugees and migrants. economic The Syrian Civil War alone has created over 4 million refugees and with millions fleeing brutal civil wars and violence in Iraq, Afghanistan, Libya and Sudan (to name a few) there are now estimated to be close to 60 million displaced people in the world, more than any time since the Second World War.

Two more weeks for Hay Fever...

NOEL COWARD fans, take note: there are just two weekends left to see a riotous production of the Master's classic Hay Fever at Theatre Palisades.

First performed in 1925, Hay Fever is set in an English country house and deals with the four eccentric members of the Bliss family and their outlandish behaviour when they each invite a guest to spend the weekend. The centred behaviour of the hosts finally drives their guests to flee while the Blisses are so engaged in a family row that they do not notice their guests' furtive departure.

Tickets are $20, $18 for Students & Seniors. Performances at 8pm Friday and Saturday. Sunday matinee 2pm. For tickets (310) 454-1970 or visit www.theatrepalisades. ticketleap.com/hay-fever.

Shirley Williams (above) made her final speech in the House of Lords last week, marking the end of a long career in politics and academia that saw her being tipped, at one point, as a future prime minister. Yet she could have had a very different life. As a child, she was evacuated to the US, where she was invited to audition for the part in National Velvet that made Elizabeth Taylor a star. She had several screen tests, but in the end, Taylor pipped her to the post. "All my life long, I've been so pleased about that," Williams, 85, told The Daily Telegraph. "I don't think I could have stood being in Hollywood and having to spend that much time on my clothes and make-up."

He has simply said that she is "incredibly famous" – sparking frenzied speculation online - and that she enjoys simple pleasures. "It's amazing how far a simple bunch of freshly picked flowers will go in a lady's life," he said.

Meet A Member: Samantha Fielding

Meet Samantha Fielding from London (via Sydney) who moved to LA 22 years ago to be close to her mother and sster who had moved over three years prior.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

I originally moved to San Diego but after 7 years down there I got the itch for more of a city lifestyle.

What do you miss most from home?

The British sense of humor.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

It's a big city! The freeways were daunting.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus London?

Sunshine and no public transport, oh and pie and mash shops. Cockney's in Ladbroke Grove is a favourite in West London.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

The is a great bar down the street from me called El Bar. It's dark and gritty I love it. Also love the Black Cat for great seafood and The Little Door for atmosphere.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here? LA is a great city to live in, not so good to visit, I find. It has a great music scene and nightlife, lots of bars and restaurants and you better like sushi, as we have some of the best in the world. How can we find out more about you? I am a portrait photographer. Here is my website: www. samfielding.com

More recently I have been focusing on a personal project (called Performer) that has taken me to some very interesting places and with some very interesting people. It is based on night performers. Since starting this project every second with these performers has been incredible. I have found a new outlook, one that says it is ok to be different and to follow your dreams. These artists choose life. That has been my one of my favorite things so far. Getting to learn about how they became performers and how they chose their stage names is another. I have shot 45 performers so far between London, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Most have degrees of some sort and all are extremely well travelled. Most include some sort of subliminal message about gender or politics within their acts and have some beautiful things to say. They come from a good backgrounds, one has a twin that is a politician another's father is a doctor, but once a performer there is no going back.

This project started out when I happened across a burlesque dancer and she asked me to photograph her. Having been a huge fan of dressing up myself I jumped at the chance to shoot her in all of her seguins and feathers. There started the birth for this project. It was kind of in my blood as I was raised by my mother who owned hair salons and nightclubs. Her club was next to a drag queen club and growing up I used to talk with these beauty queens and transvestites, so this is second nature to me. I set the bar high and once diving into this mysterious world and where the best night performers were the cities that kept coming up were London, Paris, Berlin, New York, Las Vegas, Los Angeles and San Francisco. So I set myself a goal to get to these seven cities in three years to capture 100 of the best. It has been 18 months since I started and what an incredible journey.

many beautiful souls. I am constantly in awe.

I am heading to Paris in March and Berlin in Sept. I have already shot in London four times. Being British it was an easy start. I do however reside in Los Angeles. I am planning another trip to San Francisco, Las Vegas and New York this year too and I am always looking for unique creative talent.

You can see more of my work on the websites www.samfielding.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Please keep a low profile this month as the planets are preparing to move forward swiftly. They will start benefiting you by month's end, so best thing all round is to not start whatever you cannot finish by then.

TAURUS: What a change in pace you are due for and in order to prepare for this second wind you have to clear all unfinished tasks to make space for the new. By the end of this month you will be able to chill out a little.

GEMINI: Time to plan a trip, long or several shorter ones. As all of this is happening in the first part of the year make a space for catching up with old friends who may be near or far. Jupiter is in a good place starting this month for a little romance.

CANCER: To not bend in the wind when it's stormy can damage the tree and since you are not remotely like the tree, so you will be in worse shape if you are not pliant in some emotional situation you are dragging along behind!

LEO: Mars the fire planet in Scorpio will bring a situation to a head in your life – possibly in your bank account or that of someone close to you. The good news is if you take control now you will be in good shape by end of February

VIRGO: Any frustrations you have in any area of life (most likely work) will not get better by taking your frustrations out on others around you. It is always best to treat others as you would like to be treated yourself. LIBRA: You are ready for a very new and healthier lifestyle and that is not all. This can bring a healthy new relationship of any kind, with this in mind be ready and looking your best at all times.

SCORPIO: Jupiter the luck bringer will bless you in the coming weeks as he sits in your friend sign of Virgo. Expect interesting situations in your life of a positive nature. A person of interest to you romantically could make some bold statement.

SAGITTARIUS: This week ahead it's best to make sure you are around people who understand your need for space. You may be worried about another close to you. You will have likely tried before to help and now it's probably time for a little tough love.

CAPRICORN: This week be sure you don't let anybody talk you out of something that can be very beneficial for you. It's always best to listen to your own inner voice and good to have a friend you trust also to weigh in on this situation.

AQUARIUS: You will always get back what you put out and just be careful you don't say too much to another that can really blow your plans. Keep your thoughts or judgments to yourself. If you can take time of out of town to relax.

PISCES: Jupiter sitting in your money area for a few months ahead brings financial rewards. The fact that your boss Neptune has moved into your life for the first time since the mid 18th century is sure to bring change for the better.

James Sherwood's Discriminating Guide to London: quite indispensable

I LOVE this book.

How could I adore a guide to the best restaurants, hotels and attractions in my hometown of London that begins its review of St. John's restaurant near the Farringdon tube stop thus? "the smug marrieds and consciously coupled in Clerkenwell would have one's balls for sweetbreads if one dared to classify St. John's 'nose to tail' menu loaded with dishes involving offal, too visceral for all but the alpha male."

In one effortless sentence author James Sherwood references three London's biggest literal, musical and culinary touchstones for the past decades: Bridget Jones, Chris Martin and Gwyneth Paltrow and of course, Fergus Henderson, whose nose to tail concept of fine dining can be found at St. John's and points elsewhere in the capital.

If you are visiting London any time soon and you want to breakfast like a king, drink cocktails in the company of sophisticated British personalities, or shop for antique jewelry, this handy volume will take you there. Small of size and outsized of content, once read, Sherwood's book will doubtless become indispensable for all those visiting what the author lovingly calls 'the world's most cosmopolitan city'.

Or consider this review, the book's first, of Caravan Exmouth Market: "Breakfast is not so much served as art-directed to appeal to healthy urban trendies. The 'eggs any style' fry up is served on a rustic doorstep of sourdough bread with layers of brittle streaky bacon....Caravan is a local treasure for serving robust, Dickensian breakfast fare such as baked eggs and smoky black pudding with maple roast apples."

I'm a sucker for this type of review. As a resident of London for 20 years prior to moving to California and a keen reader of lifestyle guides to the capital during my teenage years, I find James Sherwood's latest book (to be released March 16th) echoes much of the best writing on the subject from the 1970s and 1980s while adding plenty of contemporary detail. The book, like the city, is both timeless and of the moment. Packed with Sherwood's sardonic wit, this marvelous guide celebrates traditional London, yet finds much to enjoy in the ephemera too.

The book takes its cue from a 1970s publication of the same name by another James Sherwood (no relation) who is today the owner of the Orient-Simplon Express and luxury hotels and restaurants around the world and who contributes a foreword to this new guide.

The chapter titles give the reader an appetizer of what is to come: the Where to Eat section includes subchapters including... 'like a king', 'with amorous intent', 'when you've come into an inheritance', 'with a thirsty best friend', and perhaps most usefully, 'when entertaining a dowager'.

In the hotel section the book includes suitable choices if you are with your lover, are seeking old school elegance, the company of beautiful people or where to simply stay for business, and similarly the drinks section will advise you on your best choice of where to drink in the company of beautiful people, in historic interiors, in evening dress, after hours or, if you feel like slumming it, there's even recommendations of hostelries that offer a touch of camp cabaret (the Café de Paris, the Cellar Door and the Crazy Coqs, since you asked).

There are also invaluable sections on furniture stores, book stores, the best clock and watch retailers, advice on museums and art galleries, plus a wonderful 'exceptional streets' section highlighting such unique places for a stroll as Saville Row, Lamb's Conduit Street, Burlington Arcade and Cecil Court.

James Sherwood is the archivist at the venerable Savile Row tailors Henry Poole & Co (founded 1806), editor-at-large for The Rake magazine and contributor to the New York Times, Daily Telegraph and World of Interiors.

Whether you are a newcomer to the world's greatest city or, like me, a former denizen who loves to wander around reliving old amusements - and finding some new ones - there is simply something for everyone in this book. Flying to and staying in London can be eyewateringly expensive. This wonderful publication will help you get your money's worth.

Brits in LA

Still separated by a common language....

This week we celebrated Pancake Day at our weekly Breakfast Club and then marked the start of Lent - aka Ash Wednesday - by not eating pancakes!

I remember thinking as a child that it was a time to give up chocolate as we were going to (hopefully) eat so much at Easter. I also vaguely associated it with lending or borrowing, obviously getting my Lent & lent confused. I have always had a fascination with words that have multiple meanings. I like to think that it is a cultural thing and the same can be said about most Brits; who love a good doubleentendre at the very least.

Just look at the very clever headlines that are continuously plastered over the tabloids in the UK. And hats off to the British Weekly who have brought the amusing redtradition top California. Freddie Star Ate My Hamster is possibly the most memorable for my generation. Not mention the wit brought to us by William Shakespeare, or the blundering banter from Prince Phillip to the popular and naughty Carry On series of films.

So I am sure you can all appreciate the great pleasure I got when I moved to Los Angeles. The common ones like fanny, pants, and gas still make me snigger, but I think one of my favorite wordplay stories was when an American friend visited Britain and was very impressed that there was a reading train available, not realizing we have a town in

The word 'fancy' is a funny one (as in odd not haha!), as it means so many things - from 'fancy a pint?' to 'taking a fancy', or 'fancypants'. Even one of our favorite British grocers is called 'Oh Fancy That!" (over on Ventura Blvd if you didn't already know!).

England called Reading.

I actually won a 'Fancy Hat' competition at the tender age of three. But I was a bit disappointed when at Trader Joe's I bought some very plain, unroasted, unsalted assorted nuts, and they had the cheek to label them "Fancy Raw Mixed Nuts' not sure what is fancy about them although I did still fancy them...

FANCY DRESS TO US: English schoolboy and schoolgirl to everyone else...(photo: Peter Randolph)

Some of you may recall we hosted a Kids Fancy Dress competition a few years ago at our Queen's Jubilee celebration. The British kids all arrived in costumes, dressed as their favorite fictional characters whereas the American kids all showed up in evening attire! So if you get an invitation to an Oscar or Toscar party this month and the dress code is 'fancy' please don't show up as Darth Vader or Wonderwoman, or perhaps do.....

One word(s) that cannot find American translation for is 'washing-up bowl'. Where I'm from to 'wash up' means to do the dishes but over here it means to give yourself a wash! Hence the difficulty I've had locating a new bowl - I've searched for sink bowl, dish bowl, kitchen bowl but had little success. I even texted a friend for the name and she replied "Tupperware? I have no clue" - I did learn along my unfruitful search (via The Guardian) that a washing-up bowl is like Marmite - you either love it or you hate it. I am in the love camp. So if anyone out there can tell me what to call it I will be really grateful. For once I am completed stumped, and it seems Google is too; unless I want to order one for $26 from England!

We have lots of opportunities to meet some of the Brits in LA group in person, rather than virtually. From our weekly Breakfast Club to Pub Quiz at The Pikey (both on Tuesday) the glamorous then affair that is The Toscars on February 24th. All details can be found on our Facebook page or by visiting www.britsin.la

Feel free to show up as Batman or Snow White if you – ahem - fancy it;)

If you have any questions or comments or can help me on my quest drop us a line at britsinla@gmail.com. We always enjoy hearing from you always nice to fellow Brits making it big in the States...and former Eastenders star Rob Kazinsky has done just that!

Cheers! Eileen

Rob Kazinsky's Soap Hell...

Kazinsky, who made his name starring as Sean Slater in the hit BBC soap revealed on top U.S talk show Conan that he became a recluse and stayed at home playing video games.

Speaking to Conan O'Brien, he said: "This show made me a particular agoraphobe. I couldn't walk down a street or look anyone in the eve.

"It made me afraid to see people and there is an ugly side to fame. People would walk up and punch me in the head.

They'd walk up to me and hit me or they'd throw stones when I was in the street, or I'd be having dinner with my parents and they were either hurling insults or bread rolls. It was a fun time."

Rob is set to star in the forthcoming adaption of World of Warcraft the game that he turned to when he became a recluse.

when "That was found World of Warcraft, 18 hours a day, just sat there in my pants ordering Chinese food. I put on about 50 pounds," he added.

Rob is one of the few British soap stars who have made the transition from the small screen to the big.

He starred in the TV show True Blood and films including Pacific Rim and Hot Pursuit.

He admitted: "I have a wonderful life now."

I would agree with that Robert, my son!

Redmayne reveals 'extraordinary' Oscar ride

British actor Eddie Redmayne has revealed he is trying to enjoy the "extraordinary ride" of his second best actor nod in as many years as he joined his fellow Oscar nominees for a celebratory lunch this week.

Eddie, who the Academy Award last year for his role as Professor Stephen Hawking in "The Theory Everything", is nominated for his portrayal of transgender artist Lili Elbe.

He joined his fellow nominees - including co-star his Alicia Vikander, who is nominated for the "Best Supporting Actress " for playing Elbe's wife Gerda in "The Danish Girl" – for the annual Oscar luncheon and "class photo" at the

REDMAYNE: nominated again for The Danish Girl

Beverly Hilton hotel in Los Angeles.

He said: "It's such an extraordinary ride. Last year was like being hit by a bulldozer and it's such a frenzy of emotions that you try to remain open enough to enjoy it and remember

Eddie will attend the Oscar ceremony with his wife Hannah Bagshawe, who is pregnant with their first child, and he said the pair would try to take it easy beforehand.

"You think of it as an evening event but it takes such a long time, I will have a calm day," he said.

"I promise Hannah whenever we come to LA that the sun will be shining, but it rained last year. We will have a gentle day and relax and enjoy it. Last year I was such a frenzy of nerves." Asked if he would have a glass of champagne, he replied with a sly grin: "Ha, yes... Several!"

Well, what did you expect?...He's a Brit, we certainly know how to party!

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

Note: Because the Beneficiary reserves the right to bid less than the total debt owed, it is possible that at the time of the sale the opening bid may be less than the total debt

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of salmay be postponed one or more time: by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee or a court, pursuant to Section 2924 of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about tr of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site http://www.altisource.com/MortgageServices/DefaultManagement/TrusteeServices.aspx using the file number assigned to this case 2015-02718-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

Rugby Union: a new England?

■ Pundits cautiously optimistic as England bounce back from World Cup debacle with victory in Six Nations opener

Have England turned a corner, asked Stephen Jones in The Sunday Times this week. Last autumn, in the Rugby World Cup, they were truly "dreadful". They crashed out after just three matches, becoming the first hosts to exit at the group stage. That was simply unacceptable, and after the tournament the Rugby Football Union brought in Eddie Jones, an outspoken Australian, as head coach. His first test finally came last Saturday, when England travelled to Murrayfield for a Six Nations tie. The 15-9 win over Scotland was, admittedly, no classic. Yet there was "just enough that was different, enough that was better", to see them over the finish line.

Let's not kid ourselves, said Oliver Holt in The Mail on Sunday. This was the same old England: "dour", mediocre. Jones has actually made few alterations to the side; the core is the same. What has changed, however, is the team's philosophy. Jones's predecessor, the "schoolmasterly" Stuart believed Lancaster, ardently in "teamwork and respect". But Jones, a fierce man who "exudes the need for control", has little time for that sort of thing. He doesn't care how England play, win. they provided Jones's most controversial move has been picking Dylan Hartley as captain, said Chris Foy in the Daily Mail. The Northampton hooker is something of a "pantomime villain", with one of the longest rap sheets in the land:

VUNIPOLA: England's "huge, amiable bear"

he has been banned this for headbutting, biting and eye-gouging. On Saturday, however, Hartley kept his cool, commanding the side with "intensity". But the true star of the match was Billy Vunipola, said Matt Dickinson in The Times. The Saracens No. 8 was tremendous. Weighing in at some 20 stone,

"huge, amiable bear" made "tank-like" carries and "singlehandedly gave England momentum". Vunipola long struggled to make good on his prodigious talent. But now, at just 23, he has been promoted to vice-captain - and he is starting to look like England's "standardbearer".

FSG back down over Anfield prices

■ Owners hailed for gesture on price hike, but new ticketing structure means some fans will still pay as much as £10 more

FC have been hailed their decision to abandon plans to increase tickets prices at Anfield to £77 following protests from fans.

The announcement came in a statement from the Fenway Sports Group on Wednesday that declared: "Message received," and contained an apology to fans, four days after 10,000 people walked out of the stadium midway through a match to register their anger.

The result of their protest "represents a remarkable triumph for supporters who decided enough was enough", said the Liverpool Echo, while BBC football pundit Phil McNulty claimed it was a "victory for fan power." "To the credit of their owners, [Liverpool]

The owners of Liverpool admitted they got it wrong, have decisively and moved quickly to appease the growing tide of discontent among their loyal fanbase."

"In their willingness to admit their own mistakes and put them right, they have also done the Premier League as a whole a great service," said Tony Barrett of The Times.

"A standard has been set for others to aspire to. Yes, owners have a right to run their businesses as they see fit but they also have a moral obligation, not to mention a need for self-preservation, which means they should, whenever possible, understand recognise, and empathise with the traditions of football culture in this country."

The "Battle of Anfield" has been won, but there are plenty more to fight, says Brian Reade of the Daily Mirror. "When Premier League CEOs can share £8.3bn in TV revenues over the next three years, yet still refuse to cut ticket prices for away fans to £30, the war is far from won."

But is all as it seems? Have the club's owners pulled off a brilliant political coup that could see supporters pay more for some games than they do at present?

In its statement, Fenway Sports Group announced that match categorisation would be abandoned next season and tickets to all games would cost the same. "Regardless of the opposition fans will pay the same price for matchday tickets," said the club.

Black Cats sack Johnson

■ Former England winger unlikely unlikely to play in England again following guilty plea to sex charge sacked by Sunderland after pleading guilty to one count of sexual activity with a child and one charge of grooming.

The 28-year-old footballer's contract was terminated hours after he was dropped for Saturday's Premier League match against Manchester United.

He will stand trial on Friday on two further

Adam Johnson has been counts of sexual activity with a child, which he denies.

Sportswear firm Adidas has cancelled its contract with the midfielder.

After Johnson's arrest in March 2015, club suspended the him, but then lifted the ban following talks with his representatives and the Professional Footballers' Association.

In his last appearance for the Black Cats, international England Johnson - who played while on bail - scored in a 2-2 draw against Liverpool at Anfield.

Johnson, who was born in Sunderland, began his career at Middlesbrough before moving Manchester City and then to Sunderland for £10m in 2012.

When asked about the winger's future at a news conference earlier on Thursday, Sunderland manager Sam Allardyce "He'll not be available for weekend. We will see how it goes after that."

Johnson's trial, to be held at Bradford Crown Court, is expected to last two weeks.

good chances as the visitors had 20 attempts on goal - one more than West Ham.

"It's hard. We were the better team, created chances and played good football, but we didn't use them," said Klopp.

"There were lots of decisions that on a better day I'd say were funny decisions.

"It's not easy because we were only here to win. You don't have to show your best, you just have to go to the next

"The door was wide open for us because we did well, but it was not enough. We have to carry on and fight to the next game."

And there was more good news for the Hammers on Thursday as star midfielder Dimitri Payet signed a new fiveand-a-half year contract.

The 28-year-old joined the club in the summer French from side Marseille in a deal worth more than £10m.

Spurs players 'starting to believe', says Pochettino

Tottenham's players are starting to believe they can win the Premier League title this season, says manager Mauricio Pochettino.

Spurs' 1-0 home win over Watford at the weekend moved them up to second, five points behind surprise leaders Leicester City, who beat

The best manager in the league? Fergie thinks so

Manchester City away.

"You can see in their eyes, the feeling, the energy, that they believe," Pochettino said.

"Belief is the most important word. If we believe, anything can happen."

Spurs have not been so high up in the table after 25 games played since 2012, when they finished fourth, and they have not won the league title since 1961.

"It's real, we are in a very good position but we need to keep working and not think too much about the future." Pochettino added.

"For me, historically Tottenham is one of the biggest clubs in England. It is not a surprise we are in a good position. But it is better not to speak too much, only to work hard."

And the Argentine got a boost from an unlikely source when it was claimed that he is considered the best manager in the league by none other than Sir Alex Ferguson.

Labour MP for Tottenham, David Lammy made the surprising claim on a popular Spurs podcast on Monday, saying that he met with Ferguson at a charity function recently where the legendary United boss spoke of his admiration for Pocchetino's work.

This weekend sees a top of the table clash that may well decide the fate of the title. Leicester travel to the Emirates to face third-placed Arsenal, while Spurs visit the Etihad to take on fourth placed City.

Mou 'closing in' on Old Trafford deal

Jose Mourinho and Manchester United have reportedly 'agreed in principle' a three-year £15 million-a-season deal to replace current manager Louis van Gaal.

The Independent on Sunday revealed that the Portuguese coach, who left Chelsea in December, was 'confident' of taking over at Old Trafford.

Now, according to report by the Daily Mirror, the two parties have settled on personal terms, with Mourinho keen to make some major changes.

The two-time Champions League-winning head coach apparently wishes to work alongside a director of football with Atletico Madrid sporting director Andrea Berta earmarked to join him in Manchester.

Berta, who is believed to be connected to Mourinho's agent Jorge Mendes, would take responsibility for negotiating the recruitment of players, which is currently the remit of executive vicechairman Ed Woodward.

Speculation linking Mourinho with the position at Old Trafford has intensified over recent weeks, particularly since the confirmation of Pep Guardiola's impending arrival at Manchester City.

While doubts over former Chelsea the manager's style play and antagonistic behaviour persist members among United's boardroom, there is a growing sense that the club's hand has been forced by the appointment at the Etihad Stadium.

Van Gaal, whose side currently sits fifth in the Premier League table, six points behind fourthplaced City, has been repeatedly condemned the speculation surrounding his future.

After Sunday's 1-1 draw with Chelsea, the 64-year-old Dutchman criticized a journalist for broaching the subject, asking: "Why do the club have to deny it when you are creating stories?

"You haven't spoken to Ed Woodward or the Glazers, so you are inventing this story. I don't have to answer this question."

One of our best nights ever, says Hammers boss

West Ham's extra-time victory over Liverpool was "a classic FA Cuptie" and one of the club's best, according to manager Slaven Bilic.

Tuesday's fourthround replay was seconds away from a penalty shootout when Angelo Ogbonna's header made it 2-1.

"It will go into the history of West Ham's greatest games," said Bilic. "Against Liverpool, the last season at Upton Park, night kick-off, a goal in the last minute.

The Hammers had never beaten the Reds in the FA Cup and have not won the trophy for 36 years. They will face Championship side Blackburn in the fifth round on Sunday, 21 February.

Bilic, 47, said earlier this

year he would rather win the cup than finish in the top four of the Premier League and qualify for the Champions League, saying "the proof is silverware".

After Italy defender Ogbonna's added-time winner, the Croatian boss said: "I'm a down-to-earth guy, but tonight was a big, big match and I was a bit emotional at the end of the game, I'll admit it.

"The players made the fans proud of them and we want to progress even further. If we produce a performance like this then we are capable of beating any team in England."
