Paul Daniels dead at 77

Magician was fixture on British television for three decades

Magician Paul Daniels has died aged 77, after being diagnosed with a brain tumour.

He was at his Berkshire home with wife Debbie McGee when he died in the early hours of Thursday.

"Debbie and the family would like to thank everyone for their support and asks that their privacy be respected at this sad time," his publicist said.

Daniels was born Newton Edward Daniels in Middlesbrough and developed his magic skills in working men's clubs, making his TV debut on talent series Opportunity Knocks.

He then took over the primetime Saturday night slot with his BBC show, which started in

difficult

Daniels was known for a string of catchphrases, including the line: "You'll like this... not a lot, but you'll like it."

Although Daniels had a reputation for being difficult behind the scenes and fell out with BBC managers who dropped his show in the 1990s, there was no doubting his popularity - or his talent.

He had recently returned from hospital to his Berkshire home, having been diagnosed in February. It was initially suspected he had suffered a stroke after he fell at home, but it was then discovered he had an inoperable tumour.

His son, Martin Daniels, said at the time: "He has said before, 'When it's your time it's your time' and that's how he is trying to face up to things."

special effects

As well as McGee, who had been his on-stage assistant, Daniels leaves his three sons from a previous marriage - Martin, Paul and Gary.

Gary Daniels tweeted a picture of a rabbit in a magician's hat with a tear in its eye, by friend and artist Helen Martin, and wrote: "It is with incredible sadness that I can confirm that Dad, Paul Daniels, passed away overnight."

In addition to his magic, Daniels presented game shows in the 1980s and '90s, including Wipeout, Every Second Counts and Odd One Out.

He also designed special effects for the stage productions of Cats and Phantom Of The Opera, and was commissioned by the English National Ballet to create magical effects for The Nutcracker.

Daniels had continued touring with his magic show and was booked to perform at venues across the UK this year, according to his website, before news of his illness emerged.

He supported a number of charities during his life, taking part in fundraising events and entertaining children at Great Ormond Street Hospital.

A fundraising website has been set up by his family to raise money for charities, including a brain tumour charity and the Royal Berks charity, based at the Reading hospital which treated Daniels.

'Outstanding showman'

The Magic Circle said Daniels had "been an inspiration to many magicians" and is of "legendary status" in the world of magic.

In a statement, it said: "At the height of his career The Paul Daniels Magic Show on BBC One pulled more than 20 million viewers - that was more than one third of the British population regularly tuning in on a Saturday night to watch a magician make them laugh and witness feats of wonder such as his famous Chop Cup routine.

"In this day and age of fragmented media platforms, no other magician is likely to be able to achieve such a TV ratings record."

PM summoned before MPs to answer for Libya

■ Fallout continues from Obama's 'distracted' claim

David Cameron has been summoned to appear before MPs over Libya, amid controversy about UK involvement in the war-torn country.

The move comes after US President Barack Obama criticised the Prime Minister for his actions over Libya.

The American leader said European nations, including the UK, had joined the US military action to prevent a massacre in the north African state back in 2011, but then failed to prevent the country becoming a "mess" following the overthrow Colonel Muammar Gaddafi.

Mr Obama put some of the blame for chaos in Libya on Mr Cameron becoming "distracted" by other priorities

There have also been claims - denied by the Government-that the UK could send 1,000 ground troops to the conflict-hit north African state as part of an international force of 6,000.

'conventional forces'

The Commons Foreign Affairs Committee said it had been told, during a visit to the region, that the force would train the Libyan army and provide security for the newlyappointed national unity government.

Libya's UN-backed Government of National Accord, currently based in Tunisia's capital Tunis, is also set to request airstrikes against Islamic State targets, according to the MPs.

Α Government spokesman said what the committee had been told was "wrong on a number of counts".

Mr Cameron has also told MPs any plans to send "conventional forces" for training in Libya would be put before Parliament for debate.

Appearing before the committee in February, Foreign Office Minister Tobias Ellwood said the UK was prepared to "advise, assist, support and train" a national unity government in taking on IS, adding: "We are not going in there to hold and take ground."

Even split on Brexit

LONDON (Reuters) -Support for Britain to stay in the European Union was level with that for a withdrawal from the 28-member bloc at 36 percent, an online TNS opinion poll suggested on Thursday.

Support for the "in" campaign was unchanged from a month ago while the "out" campaign fell from 39 percent, the poll showed.

TNS said 28 percent of those who intended to vote did not know whether to back or oppose membership, up from 25 percent a month ago.

"The major problem the 'Remain' campaign at present is that their support draws significantly on younger people who are traditionally less likely to turn out in elections," said Luke Taylor, head of social and political attitudes at TNS UK.

TNS interviewed a sample of 1,216 adults between March 10 and March 14.

ANOTHER Top Gear uproar after Cenotaph 'donut' stunt

■ New host Evans issues apology after shocking display at nation's most sacred monument to war dead

TOP GEAR found itself at the center of yet ANOTHER controversy this week after a high-powered Ford Mustang carrying Matt LeBlanc performed a controversial stunt near the famed Cenotaph war memorial.

In a segment which has provoked fury from the Armed forces and beyond, the Mustang shattered Sunday's early morning calm as it drove at high speed past the Whitehall landmark, THEN performed a series of 'donut' turns next to the memorial, wreathing the sacred site in acrid smoke and scarring the road with rubber burns.

Despite an immediate stunt driver Ken Block, apology from Top Gear host Chris Evans – who recently replaced the controversial Jeremy Clarkson – the backlash continued to unfold during the week, with growing calls for the resignation of Katie the Taylor, BBC's £188,000-a-year head of entertainment.

soldiers Senior that the suggested should executive consider her position and criticised the Ministry of Defence for allowing Top Gear to film on its property in the first place.

The corporation has now repeated Mr Evans' apology but also said that who was behind the wheel with Mr LeBlanc in the passenger seat, stayed a fair distance from the monument to Britain's war dead.

A spokesman said: 'The driver of the car was briefed by production prior to filming as to where to drive and to not do any manoeuvres close to the monument, an instruction to which he fully adhered'.

'disrepectful'

The BBC also blamed the 'angle' of long lens photographs for making the stunt look closer to the monument, although images and video show tyre marks just a few feet from the Cenotaph and also the neighbouring Woman of World War Two monument.

It was sculpted by artist John W Mills and unveiled by the Queen in 2005, and Mr Mills, 83, said the stunt shows 'a disregard for what the public think. It's totally self-aggrandising. It's not only disrespectful, it's stupid.'

Eans, 49, who took over presenting after Jeremy Clarkson was sacked for hitting a producer, said it had been 'unwise to be anywhere near the Cenotaph' and told Radio 2 breakfast show listeners: 'I would like to apologise unreservedly'.

He also admitted he did 'completely understand all this furore' but added: This isn't a shoot I'm particularly involved in.  $\bar{I}$  was away with family over the weekend'.

Mr Evans said: 'If it was my decision, then I would say, that particular scene

shouldn't be shown and I think everyone will agree.

'The images on the front page of the papers today - it doesn't matter what actually happened, it doesn't matter what the circumstances were that could explain this away; what is important about this is what these images look like.

'They look entirely disrespectful, of course was not, and would never be, the intention of the Top Gear team or Matt.

'So, on behalf of the Top Gear team and Matt I would like to apologise unreservedly for what these images seem to portray.

'There's been some incendiary verv comments involved and written alongside these pictures and I completely understand all this furore.

'But the Top Gear team would never, ever do that. Retrospectively, it was unwise to be anywhere near the cenotaph with this motorcar. Again, we would like unreservedly apologise for what these pictures seem to portray, which was never the intention of the Top Gear team.'

EVANS: "I completely understand all this furore."

'MY BEAUTIFUL FAMILY': Jerry Hall, 59, posts photo of her and new husband Rupert Murdoch, 85, surrounded by their children on their wedding day

■ Supermodel Hall tweets a photo of the couple together with their 10 children from previous marriages

■ Couple married in small ceremony before celebration at 'spiritual home' of British journalism earlier this month

Arm-in-arm with her new husband Rupert Murdoch, Jerry Hall beams out of the centre of this photo of the newly-wedded couple with their 10 children from previous marriages.

News from Britain

The couple marked their marriage with a celebration at St Bride's church near Fleet Street, known as 'the journalists' church', earlier this month.

It came the day after they officially wed at Spencer House, a palace built by ancestors of the late Princess Diana, on March 4. Australian-born Mr Murdoch, 85, tweeted he was 'the luckiest and happiest man in world' on the day they tied the knot.

Both were said to have seen the hour-long blessing at St Bride's, the spiritual home of Britain's media, as their 'big day'.

Tthe photo which was tweeted by Hall today was taken during the latter celebration.

Murdoch has four daughters from three marriages; Prudence, 57, Elisabeth, 47, Grace, 14, and Chloe 12. Hall has two daughters, Lizzie, 32, and Georgia, 24, from her relationship to Sir Mick Jagger.

Other guests included artist Tracey Emin, playwright Tom Stoppard, former Rolling Stone Bill Wyman, as well as newspaper editors and executives, including Rebekah Brooks, chief of Murdoch's British Wyman said after the ceremony: 'Jerry has simply not stopped smiling. She was ecstatic – they both were – it was a fantastic service.'

It is the fourth marriage for Murdoch, who owns Fox News Channel, movie studio Twenty-First Century Fox, publisher HarperCollins and newspapers The Sun and The Times in Britain.

It is the first official marriage for Texas-born Hall. She and Jagger had a private Hindu marriage ceremony in Bali, Indonesia, in 1990. During divorce proceedings in 1999 a British court declared the marriage invalid.

Murdoch and Hall reaffirmed their marriage vows at an hour-long church service, which included music by Wagner, Schubert and Vivaldi and the hymns 'Jerusalem' and 'Amazing Grace.'

Harris denies new assault charges

Rolf Harris has denied seven charges of indecent assault - including some against children - as he appeared in court via video link from prison.

The allegations, dating from 1971 to 2004, relate to seven females who were aged between 12 and 27.

One of the alleged victims was disabled.

Harris (pictured, above) is alleged to have molested a girl under the age of 14 at BBC Television Centre in 1983 - and then indecently assaulted a woman in the same building 21 years later.

The Australian-born artist wore a grey suit, white shirt and multicoloured tie as he pleaded not guilty to all charges at Westminster Magistrates' Court.

He gave his address as "HMP Stafford".

Harris' family issued a statement which was read outside court.

In it, they said: "We are disappointed and saddened that the CPS have decided to take Rolf, who will be 86 years old at the end of March, on another trial."

"Nevertheless he has, as he has always done, cooperated with the authorities.

"We, for our part, will do all we can as a family to assist him in proving his innocence."

The defendant was told to appear at London's Southwark Crown Court on 14 April.

Thunderbirds pioneer Sylvia Anderson passes away at 88

Sylvia Anderson, best known as the voice of Lady Penelope in the TV show Thunderbirds, has died after a short illness, her family has confirmed.

Anderson co-created the hit science-fiction puppet series, which ran from 1965, with her late husband Gerry.

In a career spanning five decades, she also worked on shows Joe 90 and Captain Scarlet, and for US TV network HBO.

She died at her Berkshire home, aged 88. Her daughter described her as "a mother and a legend".

"Her intelligence was phenomenal but her creativity and tenacity unchallenged. She was a force in every way," Dee Anderson said.

Her former husband Gerry Anderson died in 2012 after suffering from Alzheimer's.

Nick Williams, Chairman of Fanderson - a fan club dedicated to the work of Gerry and Sylvia Anderson - said she was a "huge influence" on the entertainment industry.

"She was one of the first really prominent women in the film and TV industry," he said, adding that Anderson leaves behind "an amazing legacy of fantastic television, really groundbreaking entertainment."

Puppet pioneers

Born in south London to a boxing promoter and a dressmaker, Sylvia Anderson graduated from the London School of Economics with a degree in sociology and political science.

She spent several years in the US and worked as a journalist before returning to the UK and joining a TV production company, where she met her future husband.

When he started his own company, AP Films, she joined him, and the couple began making puppet shows.

They developed a production technique using electronic marionette puppets, called Supermarionation, in which the voices were recorded first, and when the puppets were filmed, the electric signal from the taped dialogue was hooked up to sensors in the puppets' heads.

That made the puppets' lips move perfectly in time with the soundtrack.

In 1963, the couple came up with the idea for Thunderbirds, which told the story of the Tracy family who form a secret organisation dedicated to saving human life, set in the future as well as co-creating and writing the series, Anderson worked on character development and costume design.

The character of Lady Penelope, a glamorous agent, was modelled on Anderson's own appearance, and she also provided her characteristic aristocratic voice.

The success of Thunderbirds led to two feature films and a toy and merchandise empire.

Three new programmes were made last year to mark the 50th anniversary of the series.

Charity work

Other shows which the couple worked on include Stingray, Fireball XL5 and Secret Service.

However, the partnership ended when they divorced in 1981.

Sylvia went on to work as head of programming for HBO in the UK, and write several books.

Her last public interview was on the Graham Norton Show

GOODBYE, M'LADY: Sylvia Anderson with the iconic Lady Penelope

PIONEERS AND VISIONARIES: Sylvia and Gerry Anderson

on BBC Radio 2 with actor David Graham, who also provided voices for Thunderbirds, in December.

Her family said she had many famous friends, "but would always find time to take care of people who were suffering or in need of support", and worked with many charities, including Breast Cancer Care.

ELP keyboardist Keith Emerson shoots himself in Santa Monica

THE BRITISH COMMUNITY in Santa Monica lost one of its more famous members last week, with the death of musician Keith Emerson, keyboardist of the English supergroup Emerson, Lake & Palmer and one of the key figures of the progressive-rock era in the 1970s.

Local News/Entertainment

Emerson was found dead on Friday at his home on Fifth Street in Ocean Park, the apparent victim of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. Emerson's death was confirmed by Martin Darvill, an associate of Mr. Emerson's longtime manager, Stewart Young.

"We're all pretty stunned," a female neighbor who lives across the street from Emerson's condominium, told the British Weekly this week. "Keith was a really easy-going guy but he kept himself to himself. He really kept 'British musicians' hours', because we hardly ever saw him during the day."

The neighbor added that it was 'common knowledge' Emerson was suffering from some kind of ailment to his hands which made playing difficult for him. "That may have contributed to his mental state, but we'll never know now," she added.

psychedelic rock

Another neighbor and fellow British expat added: "I've lived here for twenty years and I've only seem him a handful of times, which was when his beloved parrot, Smokey, went missing. He'd walk round the neighborhood calling the parrot's name, which was how I got to know him. About six months later I saw him walking down the street with the parrot on his shoulder. Keith was overjoyed, he told me the parrot had been missing for months then one day flew through his open window."

Keith Noel Emerson was born in Todmorden, Yorkshire, on Nov. 2, 1944, while his father, an amateur musician, was serving with the British Army. He took piano lessons from an early age and joined a blues band, Gary Farr and the T-Bones, before helping to form the Nice, which combined psychedelic rock, jazz and symphonic music. The band lasted from 1967 to 1970, and toured with Jimi Hendrix and Pink Flovd.

He left the Nice in 1970 and joined forces with guitarist Greg Lake, who had played in King Crimson, and drummer Carl Palmer, who had played with the Crazy World of Arthur Brown and Atomic Rooster. With the advance from the band's first album, Mr. Emerson bought his first Moog synthesizer, and he became one of the instrument's most enthusiastic promoters.

EMERSON: longtime resident of the Ocean Park neighborhood

Emerson, Lake & Palmer lasted from 1970 to 1979, making seven albums, then reformed in 1991 and stayed together until 1998. The band played a single reunion concert at the High Voltage Festival in London in 2010.

Emerson, Lake & Palmer's tours were complicated and expensive, often using quadraphonic sound: According to an article in New Musical Express in 1974, the group traveled with 40 tons of equipment. In some mid-'70s performances, Mr. Emerson rose above the stage on a wire while seated at the bench of a grand piano, which was strapped in place and spinning end over end as he appeared to keep playing. (Mr. Lake later explained that the piano had no insides.)

In more recent years Emerson he had been leading the Keith Emerson Band, which was preparing to tour Japan next month.

Mr. Emerson lived in Santa Monica with his companion, Mari Kawaguchi. She survives him, as do two sons, Aaron Ole Emerson and Damon Keith Emerson, both from his marriage to Elinor Emerson.

Meet Paul Holowaty from Bolton (Manchester to Americans as they've usually not heard of Bolton) who moved to LA two and a half years ago to pursue a career in the dark arts.

What made you choose LA?

I chose LA because I'm a big fan of yoga and kale...as well as a lover of film and television so there's no better place for those things than the city of angels.

What do you miss most from home?

The things I miss most from home are (in particular order): Hugs from Mum, boll*ckings from Dad, Soccer Saturday, good public transport. British theatre, Drivers using their indicators down the road and life in Australia... to change lanes

What was your first impression of LA? And has it changed?

My first impression of LA was that it was the best place on earth and that hasn't changed at all...the weather, the lifestyle, the possibilities. The biggest difference between living here and living in England is that it's easier to give up drinking.

Do you have a hidden gem to recommend?

My hidden gem in LA is no longer a hidden gem...but it used to be. When I first arrived in LA I had an apartment on Laurel/Fountain. That first night I stumbled saw a sign that read Laurel Hardware and was intrigued, so I meandered in and ever since then I've recommended the place to everyone. The ribs are top notch!

What advice would you give to someone thinking of making the move here?

To anybody who is thinking of making the move, I would highly encourage it. What's the worst that can happen! You only get one go at this thing called life so why not take some risks, try something new, make the move. # Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: If life at work is not all it could be look at the positive side of things. As we move towards April the pace will pick and Uranus will keep you productive.

TAURUS: Your emotions are probably in a mess with someone you care about disappointing you – again. Try to not let past emotions cloud your judgment – keep a clear mind you may yet come out spelling like roses.

GEMINI: This can be the best time in your life because you are looking at the truth of what you really want. Hopefully this will stir you to make the much needed changes in your general life. You have in the past been accused of being a workaholic - but not this year. Hopefully!

CANCER: There is an old saying "you can run but you cannot hide". This next couple of weeks will bring back a situation you had thought was passed. It's to your best good to deal with it head on; but expect that this may bring some legal issues.

LEO: You may be in the mood to get far from the madding crown and you will, as soon as you give yourself permission to do so. But don't worry, you're never far away from the next party...

VIRGO: The past few months have not been as relaxing as you would like but remember that everything in life is a lesson and when you stop beating yourself up you will be able to relax and know that this is a time to move serenely through all situations.

LIBRA: Saturn, the planet of Karma, is sitting in your area of communications and with the explosive Uranus in the opposite sign of Aries this means you will have to be aware of how you communicate or what is communicated to you.

SCORPIO: Life is going to be busy for the next couple of weeks, especially in the relationship area. You may be feeling a little nervous or out of sorts...don't! All will fine.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss Jupiter is sitting in Virgo now, encouraging you to take a leap of faith in some part of life. Be sure to look before you leap as he will be watching you and then expect life to take a better direction than for some time.

CAPRICORN: The sun in Aries along with Uranus can rattle more than a few bones for you. This may be a sign in time to take care of what is not finished or things will take on a life of their own and all is not as it appears right now.

AQUARIUS: If you can swing a weekend away this is the time as next month will be busier. Your unpredictable ruler Uranus sitting in fiery Aries means you must keep a handle on your impulsive tendencies.

PISCES: The family is much on your mind and if you learn to live in the moment things will work out better. You may be daydreaming of a holiday or a long trip. Now is not the right time...wait until later in the spring. Happy Birthday!

The Madwoman Upstairs: to Brontë and back

Exclusive interview with author
Catherine Lowell
and a review of her book about a girl
studying at Oxford who must solve a Brontë family
mystery

Rating: ★★★

"It's been fun seeing just how fiercely the Brontës are loved, and how alive their legacy is," says The Madwoman Upstairs author Catherine Lowell. "During conversations about this book, I've learned that people seem to relate to one Brontë in particular. It's as if identifying your inner Brontë is a form of personality test...I'm an Emily."

The Brontë sisters, Charlotte, Emily, and Anne, were a nineteenthcentury literary family associated with the village of Haworth in the West Riding of Yorkshire, England. Charlotte's Jane Eyre, Emily's Wuthering Heights, and Anne's The Tenant of Wildfell Hall, all became recognized as literary masterpieces. For their passion, their stories attracted attention and even censure when published, in particular Wuthering Heights, which explored the hypocrisy of Victorian morals. One Victorian critic described the book as, "vulgar depravity and unnatural horrors."

The Madwoman Upstairs is a modern story with an intriguing Gothic twist. Set in Oxford, Lowell's story mixes romance, history and mystery in a wonderful tale. A girl, the last descendant of the Brontë family, encounters all the twists and turns that life can throw at her while seeking the legacy that her father left. Sometimes Lowell gives too much information. instead of letting the reader figure it out. If you are a fan of the Brontës you will enjoy this romp through their lives.

Samantha Whipple, the last Brontë descendant, was home-taught by her late eccentric father. There is speculation that there is a hidden manuscript. She receives a box with a bookmark. It reminds her of a game her father played with her as a child, leaving her clues. Books she thought lost in a fire start appearing in her room. She has no time for games, she has classes to attend. Her professor at Oxford, James Oliver, is younger than other professors and constantly challenging her about literature. Can Sam finish her first year and solve the family mystery?

"The idea first took root in college, when I was trying to internally justify choosing to study English," says Lowell. "I remember thinking though all the practical uses of an English degree. Books generally teach extremely valuable but vague life skills...like empathy. But what are the real-world problemsolving skills you can learn from literature? This became a fun thought experiment. How would an engineer, for example, analyze a novel? Then, I studied at Oxford for a term, where I had terrible insomnia. The chapter was borne out of hours bored and awake."

"While I had always loved the Brontë novels, my research left me with a deep respect for the authors," says "They Lowell. were extraordinarily brave women, who wrote their novels during a time when writing as a woman was a form of social suicide. My research also showed me a very human portrait of three now largerthan-life authors. I had always loved their books as a kid, and became increasingly interested in the underdog, Anne, a bit of whom I believe lives in all of us."

This is Lowell's first novel. "Growing up, I wrote fractured fairy tales featuring burly princesses and a hungry chipmunk named Francine," says Lowell.

Lowell says she reread all her old copies of Brontë novels. She researched lives of the Brontës at libraries. The original home of the Brontës, the parsonage at Haworth in Yorkshire, is now the Brontë Parsonage Museum with hundreds of thousands of visitors yearly.

Lowell is currently writing her second novel. She is based in New York City and was born in California. She doesn't have a website yet, but says it's coming soon. She has upcoming book events on the East and West Coasts.

The Madwoman Upstairs: A Novel by Catherine Lowell. Hardcover: 352 pages, Publisher: Touchstone (March 1, 2016), Language: English, ISBN-13: 978-1501124211 $ 25.99.

Keeping an eye out for one cool cat this Saint Paddy's Day...

Greetings Britlings! ...and Happy Paddy's (Day) Weekend!

Did you know that in March we celebrate quite a few saints birthdays? St. David, patron saint of Wales, of course. But, probably most famous celebrated worldwide is St. Patrick's Day, and as my good friend (and Irishman) Marc says it's "St. Paddy's Day". He gets very upset if you dare to call it St. Patty's

But did you know that St. Patrick was actually British? Yikes, I know, shocker According to right? Wikipedia and Patrick's own 5th century Confession of tome. Saint Patrick, when he was about 16 he was captured by Irish pirates from his home in Britain and taken as a slave to Ireland, looking after animals, where he lived for six years before escaping and returning to his family. After as a bishop, but little is becoming a cleric, he returned to northern and western Ireland. In later life, he served known about the places where he worked. By the seventh century, he had already come to be revered as the patron saint of Ireland.

Saint Patrick's Day is observed on 17 March, which is said to be the date of his death. So now with that knowledge, I can drink comfortably with my good Irish mates and raise a glass to all of us. United we stand, and united we fall, especially if those green jello shots have anything to do with it!

The Cat's whiskers...

Did you know we have a mountain lion roaming the Griffith Park Hills? His name is P-22 and he has been through quite the journey, suffering from mange apparently ingesting some rat poison not so long back, although wildlife experts managed to get him some medicine in time and have reported he is on the mend.

However P-22 is suspected of killing a koala bear in the LA Zoo. The killing gave the zoo the right to call for P22 to be removed or euthanized, but in a very reasonable turn of events, instead of asking for his termination they plan to move their animals inside at night, for their safety and protection. In a town full of hungry cougars, this particular fourlegged one has become somewhat of a legend. It seems so strange that we have a variety of wildlife in what seems mostly a gridlocked jungle of cars. But within the past few days, I've been living in a scene out of Disney's Cinderella. I've seen deer, raccoon, rabbits, squirrels, stinky skunks and of course, bad boy coyotes. (Unfortunately in my neighborhood, there are a lot of missing small dog signs) When the coyotes are hungry they are formidable, gathering in packs they have been known to circle humans and literally snatch their little dogs off their leashes. So be very vigilant in the canyons. But back to my point, P22 will remain safe and continue to be the king of the Griffith park jungle and a part of our growing wildlife.

What a lovely papa!

■ Doting Dad David gets 'physically ill' when he has to leave his kids!

David Beckham is DEFINITELY a dad on duty!

The former soccer ace opened up about toward his feelings in fatherhood the upcoming April issue of GQ, and the Brit hottie hubby of fashion Victoria designer Beckham made it clear that being a parent is his No. 1 priority these days. Oo-er!

"I get physically ill when I have to leave the kids now," he said, adding that he often spends his time watching Frozen over and over again with his four-year-old daughter Harper.

"I'm secure as a person, as a husband, as a dad," the 40-year-old athlete continued, referring to how he's settled into life at home since retiring from professional soccer in May 2013. "I've gone past the point of really worrying, caring."

Beckham and his wife, are also parents to three boys - Brooklyn, 17, Romeo, 13, and Cruz, 11.

Though he's enjoying the domestic life, the soccer star did note that he misses being on the field

"I miss soccer every day," he said. "I don't know whether it's the athlete in me, or the passion I have for the game: I always think that I can step back on the field and play. ... You know, maybe I could play another year in the U.S. If I was still living in L.A., I'd probably really seriously think about coming back for a year. But we're living in London, and the kids are happy in the school." As for what he apparently can be found doing when he's not "out and about," well, he's watching apparently the movie Frozen for the hundredth time Harper cutie or, get this, he loves watching Friends reruns. Yes, seriously. Beckham just proved that he is exciting since he is the only one of his kind in Griffith Park. It's believed he crossed the 101 and 405 freeways heading east from the Santa Monica Mountains. National Park Service biologists have determined he is feeding primarily on a diet of deer, but he has also preyed on at least two coyotes and one raccoon, which is not uncommon. Despite being in on of our urban parks, he is not recorded to have killed any domestic animals (phew!) and is largely unseen by people that visit Griffith literally all of us, and it's refreshingly sweet.

He seems pretty nonchalant about this admission, but I have so many questions. First of all, does Victoria watch it with him? I can't imagine the two of them curling up on the couch after a long day, turning on "The One With The Mugging" and laughing hysterically as if they've never seen the episode even though they have seen it no less than 12 times (is this anyone else, or just me?) but apparently the Beckhams are just like every other couple who still watch Friends on the regular.

This nugget of information further proves why David and Victoria are so amazing. After all, they first started dating when Friends was still on the air, so it's safe to say that they are the second greatest thing to still exist from the '90s. Our Central Perk gang tops them by a slight inch!

Nice to know that away from all the celebrity camera-flashing hysteria the Beckhams attract, behind the scenes they are just your average East End couple... Lovely Jubbly!

Wildlife experts have said that a compact urban green space like Griffith Park could never be big enough for a mountain lion – either in terms of habitat or finding a mate. So we'll watch with interest as the narrative of this most fascinating Hollywood resident continues to unfold. I for one love nature and sharing this weird and wonderfully wacky town with the wildlife - which includes the hot messes trolling Hollywood Boulevard this past St. Parick's Day...or indeed any given Saturday!

Get Choo! Gwynie and Rosie turn heads at fashion bash!

Gal-pals Gwyneth
Paltrow and Rosie
H u n t i n g t o n Whiteley stood out from the crowd as they were spotted chatting and giggling
at Jimmy Choo 'Power
Stylists Dinner' in West
Hollywood earlier this week.

Actress Gwyneth, 43, and supermodel Rosie, 28, put their best assets on show for the event, which saw A-listers band together in support of legendary designers.

Cutting a svelte figure, Gwyneth attended the dinner wearing a seventies-style pink and white powder cat suit by Emilia Wickstead, complete with flared trousers and turtle neck, showing off her natural beauty by paring her makeup back and opting to wear her long blonde hair out in loose waves.

Meanwhile, leggy Rosie stunned in a dark blue off-the-shoulder bandeau jumpsuit, showcasing her taut stomach and incredible complexion.

The Brit complemented the look with fresh red lipstick and simple but classic gold jewelry, proving the age-old adage that less is more.

Our Rosie, who recently turned her hand to acting and made quite a splash in last year's Mad Max, also showed off the dazzling engagement ring given to her by long-time boyfriend Jason Stratham.

Rosie has been extremely busy over the last few weeks, jetting across the world to strut down catwalks in various Fashion Week shows.

Meanwhile Gwyneth looked relaxed and easy-going at the event, sipping on a martini and giggling with other stars before sitting down to enjoy dinner.

The mum-of-two proved her laid-back attitude hasn't been swayed by the internet trolls publicly criticising her latest post on lifestyle website Goop.

Gwyneth had been slammed for uploading the recipe for the £158 breakfast smoothie she regularly consumes, which includes dubious ingredients such as Moon Dust and a sex-drive boosting herb.

Ooo-er! Talk about conscious coupling!

Brits in LA:

You can actually follow his adventures online - thanks a camera setup. The first evidence of this mountain lion was recorded on remote cameras in early 2012 as part of the Griffith Connectivity study. At the time he was humanely captured and fitted with a GPS tracking collar, which will allows biologists to study his activity patterns, diet, and monitor his health.

A mountain lion taking up residence in this part of Los Angeles is very unusual and PAGE 12 THE BRITISH WEEKLY, SAT. MARCH 19, 2016

Barcelona.

The La Liga side's front three of Lionel Messi, Neymar and Luis Suarez were all on target.

"In the final third, Barcelona's passing accuracy and creativity is exceptional," said Wenger.

Arsenal missed numerous chances in the game, with Danny hitting Welbeck the woodwork and Alexis Sanchez twice coming close.

Having also gone out of the FA Cup in a shock defeat against Watford last weekend, the Premier League is Arsenal's only hope of a trophy this season. They are currently 11 points behind leaders Leicester with a game in hand.

Wenger feels the result could have been different if they managed to add to Mohamed Elneny's crisp effort in the second half.

Wales almost pulled off a remarkable comeback against England, though, fighting back from 16-0 down at half-time to within four points.

It was reminiscent of the sides' World Cup meeting last Wales when vear. overturned a 10-point deficit to effectively knock England out at the group stage, but this time the hosts hung on.

Manchester City will be without captain Vincent Kompany for at least a month after he injured a calf against Champions League opponents Dynamo Kiev. The Belgium defender, 29, has started just 13 games in the Premier League this season and has had 14 calf injuries since signing in 2008.

Brazilian leaves Reds in the pink

Europa League Man. Utd......1 Liverpool......1 (agg: 1-3)

Philippe Coutinho's brilliant solo goal killed Manchester United's hopes of a Europa League comeback and sent Liverpool into the last eight in comfort at Old Trafford on Thursday night.

Jurgen Klopp's side were protecting a twogoal lead from the first leg at Anfield but Anthony Martial's 32ndminute penalty offered United brief hope after he was fouled by Nathaniel Clyne.

Jesse Lingard and Juan Mata had missed clear opportunities for United but Liverpool were also a threat as David de Gea saved superbly from Coutinho while Daniel Sturridge hit the bar with a free-kick and Jordan Henderson missed an open goal.

The away goal Liverpool threatened, and which left United needing four on the night, came right on halftime when Coutinho beat Guillermo Varela with ease before lifting a nearpost finish past De Gea.

It ended the game as a contest with United unable to rouse themselves again as Liverpool completed the formalities to win the first European meeting between the two clubs.

Sadly, the final stages of the match were marred by clashes between supporters near the Liverpool corner of the ground - and it remains to be seen if Uefa take any action.

brilliant dribble

Manchester United, in the first half at least, played with a pace, and showed a spirit and endeavour, that has rarely been displayed at Old Trafford this season - but the task was too much.

And that was down to the lamentable performance at Anfield last Thursday when Liverpool dominated every facet of the first leg

INSTANT LEGEND? Philippe Coutinho's moment of magic put Liverpool into the last eight Thursday night to secure a two-goal lead that could actually have been much more.

It left United vulnerable to one goal from Liverpool that would leave them needing four, and so it proved when Coutinho's brilliant dribble provided that crucial away strike.

United, from that point on, looked like the team they have been for most of this season pedestrian, uninspired and struggling to illuminate an Old Trafford stage that has suffered much this season.

And there was suffering in hearing songs of celebration from 3,000 Liverpool fans tucked away in one corner of the stadium as their arch-rivals celebrated victory in the first European meeting between the two sides and a place in the last eight of the Europa League.

Dortmund complete Spurs demolition

EUROPA LEAGUE Tottenham H......1 Borussia Dortmund...2 (agg: 1-5)

Tottenham Hotspur were unable to produce a shock second-leg comeback as Borussia Dortmund cruised into the Europa League quarter-finals on Thursday.

Trailing 3-0 from the first leg, Spurs needed to score at least five times when Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang's swerving shot flew into the far corner.

And the Gabon striker fired in the German side's second after a swift counter.

Son Heung-min reduced the arrears as toothless Spurs failed to make the last-eight for a third successive year.

Few would have backed Tottenham to turn around this last-16 tie at White Hart Lane against the inform Bundesliga giants.

The damage was done seven days earlier in Germany when Spurs manager Mauricio Pochettino decided to play a weakened and inexperienced team against one of the favourites to win the Europa League.

But the reasoning behind the Argentine's decision was clear - his main priority this season is leading the north London club to the English league title for the first time since

Second-placed Tottenham are five points behind Premier League leaders Leicester and, with another important top-flight game looming against Bournemouth on Sunday, Pochettino again decided to leave top scorer Harry Kane on the bench.

the home side never

Without their talisman, looked like troubling a Dortmund team which had not been beaten in their 13 previous matches. Spurs had 61% possession, without dominating the territory inside the Dortmund third, and only managed one shot on target - Son's second-half consolation goal. But that only came because of a defensive mistake from away centreback Neven Subotic, whose weak backpass was pounced on and punished by the South Korea international. And he enhanced his burgeoning reputation with clinical finishes at White Hart Lane, taking his tally to 35 goals in all competitions this season.
