Brexit could split UK, claim Major AND Blair

■ Former PMs join forces to warn of danger of "leave" vote

Sir John Major and Tony Blair warned a vote to leave the EU will "jeopardize the unity" of the UK as they campaigned together in Northern Ireland on Thursday.

Leave vote may re-open Scotland's independence issue and put Northern Ireland's "future at risk" by threatening its current stability.

But Northern Ireland Secretary Theresa Villiers said support for the peace process there was 'rock solid".

She said it would be "highly irresponsible" to suggest otherwise.

Northern Ireland first minister and DUP leader Arlene Foster said she found the intervention "rather sad".

She told journalists "I do find it rather disgraceful for two prime ministers who know full well the importance of the peace process here in Northern Ireland to come over here and suggest that a vote in a particular direction is going to undermine that".

The former Conservative and Labour prime ministers, who were instrumental

They suggested a in the Northern Ireland peace process in the 1990s, hit the campaign trail there as Remain campaigners attempted to make the future of the UK a key question in the 23 June referendum on EU membership.

It was a message echoed by former US president Bill Clinton in an article for the New Statesman, who said he worried for Northern Ireland's "future prosperity and peace" if the UK votes to leave.

Chancellor George Osborne traveled to Scotland amid warnings that if the UK voted to leave the EU, but Scotland opted to stay in, it could trigger another referendum on Scotland's future in the Leave-supporting Conservatives have attacked the claims saying they buy into the SNP's "bogus narrative" on separation.

Fury at bid to 'rig' EU vote: Uproar as Cameron backs extending voters' deadline

THE Government was this week accused of trying to rig the European Union referendum by changing the law to give people longer to make sure they can vote in it.

A controversial two-day concession was agreed after the Government website for people to register as electors for the historic vote crashed under the weight of a last-minute surge trying to beat Tuesday's midnight deadline.

The rush is thought to have been driven by interest in Tuesday's night's ITV show where Nigel Farage and David Cameron were grilled by members of the public.

Ministers said site usage hit "unprecedented" highs, possibly frustrating thousands of people's attempts to ensure they can vote in although it is not known how many were actually unsuccessful.

Emergency legislation was rushed through Parliament the following day extending the deadline to midnight Thursday.

Leave campaigners suspected a desire to ensure thousands of young pro-Remainers whose votes could be crucial in a tight result but who are most likely not to be registered, are signed up.

Senior figures were even said to think that "implausibly high" website traffic at 10.15pm on Tuesday pointed to someone deliberately crashing the system and there were warnings the law change paves the way to legal challenges to a close referendum result

The Government and Remain campaigners denied "conspiracy" and said the high volume of applications showed the success of intensive registration drives heightening awareness.

But Jayne Adye, director of the Get Britain Out campaign, stormed: "It is clear David Cameron has been spooked by the recent successes of the Leave campaign and is now resorting to dirty tactics to encourage the last straggle of Remain supporters to register to vote.

"It is deeply worrying the PM is willing to tear up our laws and conventions in order to rig the referendum."

Matthew Elliott, chief executive of the officially designated Leave campaign Vote Leave, claimed the Government was on a mission to register "as many likely Remain voters as possible".

He urged supporters to ensure pro-Brexit friends and family were registered to vote, adding: "Don't let the Government skew the result of the referendum. Make sure you and your friends are all registered today."

'banana republic'

That drew a strong response from pro-Remain Education Secretary Nicky Morgan who said it exposed Vote Leave as "a bunch of conspiracy theorists".

"Anyone who cares about British democracy, whichever side of the argument they are on, should support any attempts to get new voters registered to have their say in this referendum," said Mrs Morgan.

"Vote Leave's anger is a reflection of their paranoid, antidemocratic attitudes. They want to con the British people into voting to leave Europe on a derisory turnout. However much they talk about sovereignty, it is clear they have no respect for the democratic rights of the British people".

Cabinet Office minister Matthew Hancock used a Commons statement – also made before the new deadline of tonight was announced - to urge people not to leave it another day if they wanted to have their say on June 23, before revealing that a record total of 525,000 people successfully completed applications on Tuesday alone.

Robust testing of the online registration system had taken place but it still could not cope with "unprecedented" demand which at its peak on Tuesday at 10.15 pm measured 214,000 applications an hour, nearly three times the previous peak of 74,000 before last year's general election

"It is because of this exceptional demand that the website crashed," insisted Mr Hancock.

Leading Leave campaigner Bernard Jenkin, the Conservative chairman of the Commons' Public Administration and Constitutional Affairs Committee, warned the Government was dicing with legality by proposing to move the deadline and must avoid any lengthy extension.

The law required the electoral register to be published a set number of days before the vote with another five days to allow challenges to new names.

"We are on the cusp of legality here," Mr Jenkin said, warning that any lengthy extension would open the system to a potential judicial review in a close review.

"We are not a banana republic. We shouldn't be making up the rules for our elections as we go along. This is a shambles."

'Now, Mr. Bessed, let's discuss the f-word...'

■ Actor spills the beans on Queen's viewing habits

Actor Brian Blessed revealed the Queen was 'in hysterics' as she talked about his swearing during a meeting at Buckingham Palace.

The 79-year-old star said the Queen had heard him exclaim 'f***' while hosting an episode of popular BBC comedy/current affairs panel show Have I Got News For You.

The monarch also revealed she and Prince Philip are fans of the cult 1980 film Flash Gordon, and asked Blessed to perform one of his catchphrases.

Mimicking the Queen's voice, Blessed said: 'That was a funny story you told about going to the toilet on Everest, Mr Blessed.

'What I would like to say to you is that the word f*** is an Anglo Saxon word. It means spreading the seed.'

The actor added: 'God praise the Queen'.

The actor said the Queen continued: 'Do you know, Mr Blessed, we watch Flash Gordon all the time!

'We watch it all the time, Mr Blessed, with the children and grandchildren, so would you mind saying "Gordon's alive?"' Blessed said he obliged with an ear-splitting cry of 'Gordon's alive!'

Ellie Goulding dating Prince Harry? Pair spotted getting cosy at the polo...

■ "I'm friends with them, so it's not like it's awkward because I don't know them." - Ellie Goulding on her relationship with the Royals ROYAL ROMANCE gossip was heating up this week after singer Ellie Goulding and Prince Harry reportedly got close at a recent polo game.

While both camps remain tight-lipped about any romance, the blonde beauty is currently single and Prince Harry is also flying solo having not had an official relationship since splitting with Cressida Bonas in 2012.

Ellie posed for a moody selfie on Instagram that showed off her tousled blonde hair but gave away nothing about her relationship status.

With her signature blonde locks falling to her shoulders and giving a pouty look, Ellie looked pretty defiant as she eye-balled the camera, perhaps bored of yet more rumours about her live life?

The Burn songstress, who previously dated fellow musician Dougie Poynter and Radio 1 DJ Greg James, is used to speculation about her private life - but a royal is a whole other level.

While others speculated about a prospective romance with Harry, Ellie instead celebrated Hillary Clinton becoming the first woman in history to become a US presidential candidate, re-tweeting a message from the potential Potus marking the moment.

Harry and Ellie have been longtime pals ever since the star sang at the 2011 wedding of Prince William and the Duchess of Cambridge, but according to reports things could have turned romantic between them.

A source said: "Harry and Ellie only had eyes for each other all night – they spent a lot of time sitting together under blankets.

They were seen having a kiss before Harry had to go because he was playing polo the next day. Ellie left about five minutes later.

"Harry was overheard on the way out telling some friends how much he liked her."

Ellie has been a favourite with the young royals for a number of years and previously said of the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge: "I'm friends with them, so it's not like it's awkward because I don't know them. So that's fine.

relationship

Ellie, 29, also supported Harry in his Invictus Games, performing at the closing ceremony of the inaugural Games in 2014 and she was reportedly asked to perform at Harry's 30th birthday last year.

Harry, 31, has recently spoken about being single and moaned that when he is seen talking to a girl: "That person is then suddenly my wife."

He was in a six-year on/off relationship with Zimbabwean-born Chelsy Davy until 2010 then started dating Cressida Bonas in 2012, but they broke up after two years.

The Love Me Like You Do singer split from McFly bassist Poynter earlier this year after two years of dating.

Asked at the time if she hoped to rekindle the relationship she said: "We have something I know is special and I think other people see it - my friends see it, my family see it..."

Neither Kensington Palacenor representatives for Ellie responded for comment.

Britain's 'worst paedophile' Richard Huckle handed 22 life sentences

"It is very rare indeed that a judge has to sentence sexual offending by one person on such a scale as this" - Judge Peter Rook QC

One of Britain's worst from poor Christian paedophiles, posted on the socalled "dark web" as he abused up to 200 Malaysian children. has been handed 22 life sentences.

Freelance photographer Richard Huckle, from Ashford in Kent, admitted an unprecedented number offences children aged between six months and 12 years from 2006 to 2014.

Judge Peter Rook QC gave the 30-year-old ordered him to serve a minimum term of 25 vears.

A stream of pictures and videos of his rapes and assaults on children shared with paedophiles worldwide through the now defunct dark website TLZ - The Love Zone.

communities in the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lumpur were identified in 71 charges, although Huckle's tally of abuse which he catalogued on a "Pedopoints ledger" was much higher.

Huckle stood in prayer as he was sentenced by Judge Rook.

The judge told him: "You have pleaded guilty to as many as 71 sexual offences. It is very rare indeed that a judge has to sentence sexual offending by one person on such a scale as this."

Huckle was consumed by and obsessed with his own sexual gratification, he said.

And his "campaign of rape" was of "deep concern", the judge said.

As Huckle was sent down, a woman in the public gallery shouted out that "1,000 deaths is too good for you".

Huckle first visited Malaysia on a teaching gap year when he was 19 and went on to groom more children posing as a respectable Christian English teacher and

He was arrested by National Crime Agency officials as he arrived at Gatwick Airport en route to spend Christmas with his family in 2014.

Officers Huckle's encrypted laptop and, although he refused to hand over passwords, they managed to uncover 20,000 indecent pictures and videos.

They found Huckle's paedophile manual called Paedophiles And Poverty: Child Lover Guide and a "Pedopoints ledger" in which he awarded himself marks for the abuse of 191 girls and boys.

In online posts, Huckle bragged: "Impoverished kids are definitely much easier to seduce than middle-class Western kids."

Offering advice to other like-minded people, he wrote: "If you really want to fully embrace child love, poverty is the way to

Commenting on one of his victims, he boasted: "I'd hit the jackpot, a 3yo girl as loyal to me as my dog and nobody seemed to care "

Huckle crowd-funded the release of indecent images of the three-yearold girl in exchange for Bitcoins, achieving 105 per cent of his target.

His parents were so horrified when he confessed his crimes that they begged police to take him away and made statements to support his prosecution, the court heard.

his Ahead sentencing, Huckle claimed to a psychiatrist that he wanted to put his "madness" behind him and settle down with a south Indian woman.

But the court was shown a posting from 2013 in which he outlined his plan to marry one of his victims in order to help him abuse more children.

In a message to TMZ's 7,000 users, he described how he had "fallen in love" with South Asia and its "adorable kids".

He wrote: "I have gotten particularly close with one family whom I have known about six vears.

"I have sexual contact with four of the girls in that family and, though the family obviously does not approve it, they try to work around it as they know I can be a potentially valuable asset to them in future."

On planning to marry one of the girls when she turns 18, he wrote: "I feel my situation could strongly benefit me in that my partner is still quite young and I have known her since she was seven and I can influence her young mind to mould her into the perfect wife.

"My ambition once married would be for our family to be like foster carers for children, temporary or long term."

The prosecution argued that Huckle's crimes were "wholly exceptional" and should not fall within the usual sentencing guidelines.

Effective weight loss: can you really lose a pound a day?

Health & Fitness with Ricky Parcell

Based on my experience working at world class facilities and now at Ibiza's hottest new retreat – (www. thebodycamp.com), I have no doubt you can lose seven pounds in seven days.

I have also witnessed losses of ten pounds in ten days— it doesn't even have to take that long at the retreat (especially after people feel the benefits of not drinking alcohol).

BUT....Weight loss and fat loss are not the same thing. So let's get clear, we are talking about FAT LOSS.

So... CAN you really lose a pound of fat per day?

How about I start right out with the answer to the question:

Yes. It is possible, but not for everyone. It depends on your starting point. It is also not possible for long, as the rate of fat loss will slow with time. It is not easy...it requires hard, physical work and mental discipline. And it's even harder for women (unfair, but true)

Now let me explain my answer: If you look at the science, you'll usually hear that the maximum rate of fat loss that CAN realistically be achieved, for most people, is around 2.5 - 3lbs of fat per week. Even that will be a stretch for petite women or anyone who is short and/or small-framed.

People who are already at a lean or even average body fat levels CANNOT lose fat that quickly because they do not have a high enough basal metabolic rate or total daily energy expenditure. They simply can't create a large enough deficit without hours and hours of exercise a day, if it's possible at all. If they try to force it, they will lose lean body mass and likely suffer the effects of overtraining. (Overweight people can sustain a larger calorie deficit without any negative effects or fear of muscle loss).

Of course, in many of these cases, the distinction is not made between body fat and body weight.

A pound a day in body weight is not that difficult, but it's also not that desirable if it includes mostly water weight and other fatfree mass.

Programs that make these types of rapid fat loss claims usually have some new hook based on manipulating hormones, a "magic pill," or some superduper workout program....

But manipulation of hormones can only take you so far. Your body's endocrine systems are very tightly regulated!

Most "fat burner" supplements are a complete waste of money...

Training can only take you so far too because there are only so many hours in the day and fat loss is also a math equation involving calories in versus calories out.

The bottom line answer to the question, "How do you lose a pound of fat a day?" Simply this.....

Eat far less. Move lots more. And get a better grip on your emotions. However, this doesn't work for anyone but very overweight or obese people. So, outside of somewhere

A TRIM WAISTLINE: it's a goal for so many people. But it doesn't come quickly or easily. You need to work at it and be consistent in your lifestyle like world class retreat location – it will not be very practical or easy to achieve this.

Beyond lack of practicality, it may very well be biologically not possible to exceed a certain rate of fat loss per pound of fat mass on your body.

It's why pre-contest bodybuilders usually aim for a weight loss of only about a pound a week – intentionally very slow fat loss. And it's why contestants on the Biggest Loser on TV, could lose 6 pounds a week of pure fat or more (add water weight loss on top of that for really dramatic double-digit weekly weight loss).

Could an obese person lose 30 pounds of fat (not just weight) in 30 days?

Probably yes, although it wouldn't be easy. Some very overweight people might not even be able to do the amount of exercise to achieve the necessary daily calorie expenditure, so even if they can biologically lose the fat, they may not be able to pull it off in the real world - However, this would be possible at www. thebodycamp.com, because of the unique support, nutrition and carefully structured workouts for all levels.

Most of the time I recommend the slow and steady approach.

I've met plenty of folks who are willing to "suffer" a bit, as some people call it ("have fun," I prefer), for several weeks to get maximum fat loss despite the discomfort and discipline it requires. So...

So, With all this said, here's my advice if you must lose THE FAT quickly:

1. 1-2 pounds per week of fat loss is typical and it's still good general advice. But it is possible for an active person with an average or larger frame and fairly size able fat reserve to realistically and practically lose 2.5 to 3.0 pounds of fat per week. Maybe 3.5 lbs. This is what I would call a rapid fat loss program, meaning that it's faster than typical. Be ready to push yourself and have monk-like discipline (most likely with a high protein, restricted carb diet and some serious training).

12. The more fat you have, the faster you can lose it; the leaner you are, the slower you must lose it in order to preserve lean tissue. Therefore, the claim that anyone and everyone can safely lose fat rapidly at a rate at or near a pound a day, regardless of their starting bodyfat, is false. If you're very overweight, fat loss is possible. Remember, fat loss depends on a caloric deficit and big people can more easily create a large deficit than small people.13. Rapid fat loss is not for everyone. Regardless of your starting body size and body fat level, if you have ANY history of binge eating or yo-yo dieting, definitely take the slow and steady road and focus on lifestyle habits and behavior changes. Forget about "diets" let alone rapid weight loss diets.

Meet a Member: Victoria Hoffman

Meet Victoria Hoffman from Kansas City who moved to LA a million years ago (ok, over twenty) to pursue this crazy dream of being a sitcom star!

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

Funny, I rather fell into it. I was doing Equity Theatre in Kansas City, and was co-starring with Eric Douglas. Yes, THAT Eric Douglas, rest his soul. He and my director, Ron Link (who LA natives will remember fondly) kept telling me New York was dead and that I needed to get to LA. That they could really help me. At that time, actually, very few television shows were shot in NYC. As it happens, my aunt and uncle lived out here, so I decided to take a two week vacation and check it out. I answered an ad for a job as a page at ABC first by the sheer size of Studios, just on a lark... and I was offered the job! So I quickly packed up my life and made the move!

What do you miss most from home?

I miss a few things. I miss how green it is. Kansas City is a beautiful, lush town. Much more cosmopolitan than you would think. The change of seasons as well -Autumn colors, the crisp Autumn air. It also has a distinct aroma that we don't get out here. And the barbeque, of course..... it's legendary. No one gets it exactly right out here.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since? If so why?

I was overwhelmed at

it. The entrance ramps on the freeways were white knuckle events every day. The size may very well be bigger now, but I certainly don't feel it as much. Oh, I detest the traffic and craziness on our roads, but I have grown accustomed to them. What I find remarkable however, is what a small town we actually are. Certainly our community of artists. When I go to the theatre or to a film, I always see someone, if not several people I know. I run into friends at the market, out at dinner, even hiking. I love that feeling, that sense of having a community, a tribe.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus

TALES OF HOFFMAN: Victoria misses her hometown barbeque

Kansas City?

Well, it's been such a long time, but here's one thing I notice often. I find that people in conversation with you in KC will make direct eye contact. They are with you. I find this odd, not unexpected darting of the eyes here... surveying the room to see who else might be in proximity. Know what? I don't get that from my adopted Brits family. Your Mums raised you right!

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

It may not be that hidden any longer, but Auntie Blvd makes THE BEST coconut cupcake on the planet.

Em's on Eagle Rock

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Anything is possible here in LA. You have the access and tools to make your life what you envision it to be. But YOU have to MAKE it. No one will do it for you. So network, find a community, surround yourself with like-minded artists, editors, grant writers, programmers, anyone with your shared interests and the skill sets you may not possess to get work out into the world. Do I sound pollyannaish? Well, I am - unabashedly

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

"If you can see yourself doing anything else, you had better go do that." It takes drive, discipline, temerity, intense passion and follow through to make your dream a reality. Stick with it. It could happen overnight, it could take ten years, it could take a lifetime.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Expect good news in a matter of your feelings in regard to another. This can personal or business, but by week's end you will just feel relieved it's over. This week ends on a better note than for some time.

TAURUS: By the end of this month you will be able to see your way to having space in your life for new people or projects - or both. What is definite this coming week is that you must lay to rest any outstanding baggage.

GEMINI: Take a deep breath and understand that it's up to you how you want your life to be now. Take time to really smell the roses and spend quality time with people or family who are good for you. Happy Birthday!

CANCER: Well now comes the anticlimax, but what happens now after the whirlwind of the last month? You have to face up to what is not finished and deal with it this week, otherwise it WILL pass you by.

LEO: If you look at what the current situation unresolved means to you then the faster you will change it. You can be forgiving in all areas of your life, not just part of it, provided you bite the bullet of your ego.

VIRGO: This month coming up expect a lot of past unresolved issues to arise in your dreams. If you acknowledge them they can end up being resolved...if only to give you peace of mind. You will have a busy few days next week.

LIBRA: You are ready to clear away all the past dead wood which can mean many things to you, keeping healthy and feeling fit being the most important. Take action to mke this a priority for yourself. You will be celebrating this week ahead.

SCORPIO: This is the time of year for you to make some decisions regarding home situations. Whether this be moving or repairs things are moving in the right direction providing you continue to put aside the worries of earlier this year. Your boss Mars is in your sign to help you along.

SAGITTARIUS: Problems in your work situation will prove just a storm in a teacup, so lighten up - especially this weekend when you can relax with family or friends. Your recent visitor Saturn has been stirring things up, however he has moved out for a few weeks ahead

CAPRICORN: This week get rid of any stuff in your life - and this means all areas - and start afresh. Next month will bring some kind of closure and also an opportunity to spend a few days away with family or friends.

AQUARIUS: You have learned a lot of new ways to make life more peaceful these last few weeks. One being keeping yourself busy and occupied doing what makes you happy. While you have enjoyed the down time be sure to be ready when you get itchy feet. PISCES: This week ahead will bring back what was going on in your life late last year; perhaps a decision not made or a conversation left incomplete for all those involved. The next few days are quiet - so enjoy the timeout, it won't last forever!

Love romance? there's more from Miss Bridgerton

Exclusive interview with author Julia Quinn and a review of her latest romance novel, a Bridgerton
spin-off series

Rating: ★★★★

"I originally set out to write a trilogy," says Because of Miss Bridgerton author Julia Quinn. "Somehow it turned into eight books. Because of Miss Bridgerton is actually the first in a new series. It takes place a generation before the Bridgerton series, so it's set in Georgian times rather than the Regency."

Because of Miss Bridgerton is the story of the Rokesbys, who live within three miles from the Bridgerton family. The families are very close. Quinn's books are character driven. This is a story is about family told with humor and witty repartee. Billie is an independent modern woman who helps her father with the estate. Not typical of that time especially when there is a son. A great fast read.

Billie Everyone, Bridgerton included, expects her to marry one of the Rokesby brothers. The two families are very close. As children she ran wild with Edward Andrew and sister Mary. She knows them so well. The older brother Billie can't George, stand. A future earl, he's always been annoying and arrogant. Compelled to work together, they begin to see each other in a new light.

"Because this was a new time period for me, I spent a fair amount time researching fashion," says Quinn. "I don't tend to do a great deal of description in my books, but when I do, I want to get it right. I also did a lot of research on the American Revolutionary War, which is ironic, considering that the takes entirely in England. But, the hero's brother is a soldier in New York and Connecticut, and as he will be the hero of my next book. I needed to make sure I had his details correct."

What advice does Quinn have for anyone who wants to start writing historical romance novels? "Read! You have to understand the genre before you can write it. Which brings me to the second piece of advice... write. Unfortunately, the only way to finish writing a novel is to actually finish it. Believe me, if there was another way, I would have figured it out by now."

Quinn is one of 16 members of the Romance Writers of America Hall of Fame. Authors are inducted if they win three RITA Awards in the same category. For Quinn, that was Historical Romance, for On the Way to the Wedding, The Secret Diaries of Miss Miranda Cheever, and What Happens in London. Because of Miss Bridgerton has yet to be optioned for film or television.

Lyssa Keusch at HarperCollins is Quinn's editor. "There's a reason I've been with the same publishing house and the same editor for the entirety of my career," says Quinn. "We work very well together. I send a rough outline of what I want to do before starting the actual manuscript, as much a character exploration as it is a plot-line."

Steve Axelrod of The Axelrod Agency is Quinn's agent. "I was already published when we started working together," says Quinn. "I spoke with a number of my colleagues and got their recommendations before meeting with agents in person."

Bridgerton Quinn's being is series republished with new covers and a second epilogue that goes with each book: The Duke and I,The Viscount Who Loved Me, An Offer From A Gentleman, Romancing Mister Bridgerton, To Sir Phillip With Love, When He Was Wicked, It's In His Kiss, On the Way To the Wedding, The Bridgertons: Happily Ever After. The last book has eight second epilogues and a bonus story about matriarch Violet Bridgerton.

Quinn's public appearances are listed on her website. "I'm especially excited to be the inaugural instructor in Romance Writing at the Yale Summer Writers' Conference in June," says Quinn.

Quinn lives in Washington state. She was born in New York City.

It's never too early to start helping others

be 29 weekends away (yikes!) but that hasn't stopped Kimberly Moore from Adopt-A-Letter (www. adoptaletter.org), our annual toy drive recipient from working.

She is currently in the process of building a school in Panchilmalco, El Salvador and needs our help with dollar donations and school supplies. You can learn more about her latest mission via social media: facebook.com/KimberlyMooreFoundation.

I did my bit and went on a shopping trip to the 99 cents store earlier in the week and was able to get a big box of stationery for $30 - then went back to get more as my lovely mum wanted to help too.

Please donate if you can, even if you can only afford to spare $5. They are in particular need of notebooks and pencils. Her facebook page is also the right place if you'd like to reach her directly or you can always email us at britsinla@gmail. com and we will put you in touch. One of the most rewarding things about helping Kimberly is that you get to see where your donation ends up - the looks on the children's faces when they receive our gifts are truly heartwarming.

I see a lot of you are getting excited about Euro 2016 (www.uefa. com) which starts on June 10th, if you want to watch the matches with like-minded people it seems you have plenty of places to choose from, as everyone will be showing it from Ye Olde Kings Head in Santa Monica to the Fox & Hounds in Studio City My local The Pikey in Hollywood will be showing the noon matches and so will The Lost Knight in Echo Park - let us know where you will be watching it. Or visit us on Facebook @BritsInLA for venue

Our talented friends at Cochran Shoals (facebook. com / Cochran-Shoals) have marked the occasion with these unique coasters (see picture). Available to purchase via email at cochranshoals@gmail. com or at Ye Olde Kings Head in Santa Monica.

Do you want to be part of the LA Pride Parade on Sunday June 12th? We have an invitation to extend from our friends at Allied. They have teamed up with the British Consulate and Fox Searchlight Pictures for an Absolutely Fabulous float to mark the July 22nd release of the movie, and of course honor, acknowledge and support the struggles and achievements of the LGBT community.

All participants must dress up as an Ab Fab character and will get tickets to an advanced screening of the movie. Email Katie for full details and to secure your spot -AbFabLAPride@gmail. com . If you would rather not dress up you can go along and show your support on Santa Monica Blvd in West Hollywood and cheer the floats as they go by. Visit www. lapride.org for details.

We also have our weekly Brits in LA Breakfast Club with Air New Zealand this Tuesday and Pub Quiz at the Pikey with Craig Young on June 21st . Visit us on Facebook @ BritsinLA for full details. Don't be apprehensive to come along to any of our events alone as everyone is very welcoming and you will make new friends in no time!

For those of you who were asking, poor Johny Pach is recovering from his awful ordeal and should be back in LA before you know it.

Craig will be back next week to regale you with his latest travel adventures, I think he is the male equivalent of Judith Chalmers (that's one for the kids!)

Finally huge congratulations to fellow Brit in LA and gossip column staple Lady Victoria Hervey, who has just published her first book 'Lady in Waiting'! This is the first in a series of novels that are apparently based on true events, all names have been changed of course!

'Yoo-hoo, sweetie darling, over here!"

Celebs can't resist a good photobomb these days!

Kourtney Kardashian might be one of the biggest reality stars in the world, but she was still upstaged by a Brit on Tuesday night.

Absolutely Fabulous Iennifer Saunders rose to fame as a comedian – but she failed to make Kourtney crack a smile at the Glamour Women of the Year Awards.

Saunders couldn't resist photobombing the American star as they joined a host of famous faces on the red carpet at London's Berkley Square Gardens.

As Kourtnev showcased her curves in a very daring red number, Saunders crept up behind and snuck into her photo as the motherof-three worked a sultry pose.

Α po-faced Kardashian looked unimpressed as she caught sight of Britain's biggest television funnywoman as the stunt unfolded.

Remaining smile free, it was only when Jennifer appeared to whisper a little something in her ear that she giggled a little as Jennifer quickly made her way into the venue.

Saunders won Outstanding Contribution for her comedic works the night, dedicating the gong to her close friend Victoria Wood, who sadly passed away from cancer in April.

Lighten up, Kourts, you don't know how lucky you are!

Mic drop: Mel B dishes on Victoria's 'vocals' during Spice Girls heyday

Wow, was it really that long ago? Next month, the Spice Girls' debut single "Wannabe" turns 20 years old.

But as rumors about an anniversary reunion tour continue to swirl, certain members of the all-girl singing group can't seem to agree on a key point from Girl Power history: Was Victoria Beckham's (AKA Posh Spice) microphone switched on, or not?

Speaking at the Vogue 100 exhibition launch in London in May, Beckham is quoted as saying: "They used to turn it off and just let the others sing. I got the last laugh – and now my mic is well and truly on, finally."

However, bandmate Mel B now suggests Beckham may have been joking, saying playfully: "She wishes it was turned off!"

Oo-er!

Mel added, thoughtfully, more during her interview Entertainment on Tonight: "We sung live, and we wrote and recorded all our music together live and we performed it live. It wasn't turned down. Not that I know of. Maybe she secretly asked for that - I don't know about that."

One thing I know for sure is Beckham's mic was definitely switched ON when she recorded the long lost solo album that leaked last week. I have inside info on this... Victoria Beckham CAN sing!

And I will definitely be a VIP guest at the 20th anniversary reunion tour, IF it actually happens... (Won't I Mel B!!)

Pogba to United? Rivals plan world record transfer bid

REAL MADRID are claim, of £78million. determined to sign Paul Pogba this summer and will beat Manchester United to land the international France with a world record transfer offer, according to reports in Spain.

But The Daily Mirror Guardian claim and United are in pole position to sign their former academy player this summer.

Pogba quit United for Juventus back in 2012 and has developed into one of the most soughtafter players in Europe.

Barcelona and Chelsea were linked with him summer, while Manchester City are also thought to have considered a bid.

United are now down as frontrunners to sign him for a fee, the Mirror

Spanish newspaper AS believe a world record swoop could see the 23-yearold head to the Bernabeu after Euro 2016.

According to the report, former Juve manager Marcelo Lippi has warned Real that the Serie A champions have no need to sell Pogba and they can financially compete with the big boys in Spain and England.

"Juve having economic growth," Lippi

"They can reject offers of €80-€100m for him."

Italian newspaper Gazzetta dello Sport claim a €120m (£94m) bid is being prepared in Madrid and that United will struggle to meet that valuation.

Real believe they hold the greater hand when it comes to negotiations, with AS claiming they could use Juve target Isco as part of a deal.

Real considering triggering Alvaro Morata's £23m buy-back clause and could use that advantage during Pogba negotiations.

Gazzetta Pogba's agent Mino Raiola will push to secure the midfielder a £150,000-a-week contract in Madrid - a salary both Real and United could easily afford for a marquee signing.

United manager Jose Mourinho is said to have given club bosses the green light to approach Iuve over a deal but a bid to match Real's valuation appears unlikely.

Murray misses Ivan's touch, says McEnroe

John McEnroe believes Andy Murray should team up with Ivan Lendl again as he begins his preparations for Wimbledon.

Murray was coached by Lendl for a three-year spell - ending in March 2014 - during which he won the 2012 US Open, 2012 Olympic gold and the 2013 Wimbledon title.

The British 1, who suffered more final heartbreak Sunday, losing in four sets to Novak Djokovic in the French Open, has been coached by Amelie Mauresmo since parting company with Lendl but split with the Frenchwoman last month.

"I think clearly my old rival Ivan Lendl made a positive difference with Andy," seven-times Grand Slam champion McEnroe told the Daily Telegraph.

"I am not sure if the baggage that took place when they broke up... I don't know if that was really mutual or if it was Andy or Ivan. I don't know if it is like going back out with your exwife or ex-girlfriend.

"But it would not surprise me and it might even make sense. It might not work. But it is an interesting thought."

Murray currently has former British player Jamie Delgado in his entourage and appears to be in no hurry to recruit a new coach, but McEnroe suggested he would be interested in working with the Scot.

"Andy is extremely professional. He won a couple of majors. So you're talking about the cream of the crop," added the American.

"When you look at someone who's that good, you're always interested [but] I don't recall ever getting a call. There was never any discussion."

James the first target for Mou?

MANCHESTER United are considering a £62.5million swoop for Real Madrid striker James Rodriguez.

That is according to Spanish sports paper AS, who claim the Red Devils are on the brink of making an offer.

It was claimed at weekend that Rodriguez's agent, Jorge Mendes, had settled on a fee with Real for the Colombia international. whom United see as a backup marquee signing as their hopes of signing Cristiano Ronaldo fade.

Rodriguez earns £6m a season at the Bernabeu roughly £115,000 a week and United would likely have to match or better that offer to convince him to leave.

Meanwhile, Arsenal are said to be stalling on a deal to sign Granit Xhaka because of a dispute over £1.6m.

The Gunners have opened negotiations with Borussia Monchengladbach over a swoop for Switzerland's Xhaka this summer and both parties want the deal concluded before Euro 2016.

But German newspaper Bild claim Monchengladbach want £35.2m (€45m) for their star midfielder, while Arsenal manager Arsene Wenger will only go as high as £33.6m (€43m).

Were Arsenal to miss out on Xhaka, he would join a growing list of players the Gunners could have signed had they forked out a little extra on transfer fees.

Luis Suarez, Juan Mata and Gonzalo Higuain all supposedly came close to joining Arsenal before the deals collapsed over transfer fees.

Arsenal are also on the lookout for a left-back and have reportedly zoned in on Celtic youngster Kieran Tierney.

The Daily Record claim the Gunners will test Celtic's resolve with a £10m bid for the 18-year-appearance October.

Wales manager Chris Coleman opted against starting the 26-year-old after he had appeared to struggle with cramp as he played the full 120 minutes of Real Madrid's Champions League final win against rivals Atletico the previous weekend.

The listless nature of Wales' performance in Sweden before Bale's introduction prompted the likes of former captain Kevin Ratcliffe to raise concerns about the team's over-reliance on the former Tottenham forward.

However, Bale refutes any suggestions he is the only attacking threat in the Welsh side.

"It's never a one-man team. There's 11 men on the pitch for a start," he

"For us, it's a squad 'Together thing. Stronger' [Wales' motto] is there for a reason. We don't just say it for no reason.

"We all work hard as one unit. We attack as one, we defend as one. When we lose the ball, we all fight back together.

"People write stories, they can write what they want, but we all know we work very hard on the training pitch every day and, come matchday, we work even harder."

Hart: we must be ruthless

Goalkeeper Joe Hart says England must be "ruthless" to succeed at Euro 2016, where he hopes to give a new generation of fans their own Euro '96 moment.

Roy Hodgson's side, who won every game in qualifying, start their campaign on Saturday against Russia in Marseille.

"If we can be on the right end of key moments we will go far," said Hart, 29.

The Manchester City keeper also said he "fully believes" in England's defensive options, despite criticism over a perceived lack of strength in depth.

Hodgson's party - the youngest England squad for 58 years - features three central defenders in Gary Cahill, Chris Smalling and John Stones, with defensive midfielder Eric Dier as a backup option.

I feel it's very balanced and very comfortable," said Hart. "Maybe because the numbers aren't there, but the seven potential defenders picked that are in the squad, and obviously with Eric as well able to slot in, are really high-level

Vardy to Arsenal? not likely, says Leicester striker

Jamie Vardy is leaning towards rejecting a move to Arsenal in favour of staying at Leicester City.

Sources close to the England camp here have told Standard Sport that the 29-year-old has discussed the situation with several players and is "80 per cent" likely to turn down the Gunners.

Arsenal boss Arsene Wenger is aware of Vardy's deep affinity with Leicester and has indicated the club are prepared to wait for a decision even though a delay risks complicating their transfer plans.

The Gunners have met Vardy's £20million clause and verbally agreed a three-year contract — with the option of a fourth season — worth £120,000 a week. Vardy is genuinely torn by the situation and has indicated he will not make his decision public until after England's involvement at Euro 2016 is over.

However, it is believed that as things stand, he is more likely to stay at King Power Stadium and sign a new contract with Leicester worth around £100,000 a week, which still represents a £20,000-per-week rise on the deal he signed in

VARDY: '80 per cent' likely to stay at the Foxes

February.

Wenger has not given up hope of luring Vardy to north London but is fearful that despite acting quickly in an attempt to tie up a deal, the prospect of continuing Leicester's fairytale in the Champions League next season is too great to resist.

It is also understood that Vardy may have doubts as to whether he would be a first-team regular at Arsenal given the presence of Olivier Giroud and Theo Walcott, while Danny Welbeck will return in the New Year.

Vardy would continue to start every game at Leicester, which also carries the additional benefit of giving him maximum game time to help prolong his international career, but he is still tempted by the obvious step up to one of Europe's biggest clubs. The ongoing uncertainty over Vardy leaves Walcott's position in limbo. West Ham are interested in the 27-year-old, who would be reluctant to leave Arsenal but is frustrated at a lack of first-team opportunities.

The Gunners are unlikely to allow Walcott to leave until they have signed another striker and should their pursuit of Vardy fail, they will turn to other alternatives with Alvaro Morata among the names on their shortlist.

Chelsea and Manchester United are two of several clubs interested in the Spaniard, who is expected to be sold to the highest bidder after Real Madrid trigger a buy-back clause in his contract with Juventus and so there is no guarantee Arsenal would be successful with an offer.

Walcott is not believed to be actively seeking a move but if Arsenal agree a fee with West Ham — mooted to be in the region of £25m — then he may be forced to move

Bale: we're no one-man team...

Gareth Bale has dismissed the notion Wales are a one-man team as he prepares to spearhead their Euro 2016 campaign.

Wales face Slovakia on Saturday in what will be their first match at a major tournament since the 1958 World Cup.

Although Bale scored seven of Wales' 11 goals in qualifying for Euro 2016, the Real Madrid forward does not feel under more pressure than his teammates.

"I want to enjoy myself on the football pitch, like you do when you're a kid," he said.

"The Welsh side here now, we're all like brothers. We're friends, we joke around and play together but, when it comes down to serious business, we all fight for each other.

"We have fun at the same time. We want to come here and enjoy it and, when you enjoy your football, you play your best."
