FREZING BRITAIN!

- Bitter polar air to bring coldest winter for more than FIVE YEARS
  - First named storm of winter season brings misery to thousands

BRITAIN is expected to freeze in the coldestwinterformore than five years with unusually low temperatures forecast until February.

Subtle atmospheric changes will open the floodgates for bitter Polar air to sweep across the country in the coming weeks, according to long range forecasters.

Weathermen have so far struggled on a definitive long-range outlook but now agree this winter could buck the trend of the past few years.

They say temperatures are largely likely to remain below-average for the next three months blaming a "weak Polar vortex" for an imminent freeze.

Arctic region

Last weekend brought the coldest night of autumn so far after thermometers plunged to -9.8C as Loch Glascarnoch, in the Scottish highlands.

The Polar vortex describes a huge region of cold air which circulates around the Arctic region usually remaining far north of the UK.

When this weakens air sinks southwards towards northern Europe triggering a cold snap or longer period of winter weather.

It can also give rise to Sudden Stratospheric Warming (SSW) which sparks a change in wind direction high up in the atmosphere driving the cold weather.

big freeze

The chilly forecasts come after a run of mild winters with Britain escaping a proper big freeze since the last one in 2010/2011, when wwathes of the country were crippled by heavy snowfall and record low temperatures with December turning out to be the coldest for a century.

Subsequent years have been unusually mild dominated by storms and floods rather than snow and ice.

The current outlooks come after an largely settled autumn shaken up only with the arrival of Storm Angus at the weekend.

The Storm unleashed near 100mph winds while torrential downpours saw inches of rain fall in a matter of hours.

The cold started to bite

WINTER IS COMING: the iconic Seaham Lighthouse in Co Durham took a battering as strong winds and floods from Storm Angus spread across Britain early this week earlier this month with heavy wintry showers leaving northern parts of the country under snow.

'exceptional cold'

Experts say this year will be the one to watch as things shape up to be exceptionally cold and snowy with even the chance of a White Christmas.

Exacta Weather forecaster James Madden said the first real taste of winter could be just a few weeks away.

He said: "There is the risk of a snow event during the final part of November and early December in some parts to the north of the country to start the meteorological winter.

"This will then pave the way for exceptional cold and snowfall in December particularly during the second half of the month.

"It is plausible on our current indications that temperatures will fall suddenly and significantly within this period."

Storm Angus leaves two dead

A woman has died after being swept out to sea as strong winds and flooding took hold in many parts of the country on Tuesday.

A rescue operation for the 39-year-old woman began in Folkestone at 6.45am but Kent police said that she had "sadly passed away despite efforts from emergency services".

The woman was the first known victim of so-called Storm Angus, the first named storm of this winter season. But another victim confirmed later after search teams failed to find Russell Sherwood, 69, from Cilfrew, South Glamorgan, who left his home on Sunday to drive to Bridgend. Police found his car in the flooded River Ogmore.

passengers and spent Monday crew night on the Irish Sea because it could not dock at Fishguard, Pembrokeshire. Several passengers said that they would never travel by boat again after 26 hours at sea.

Network Rail warned of disruption to many routes, with 16 flood warnings and 102 flood alerts across England and Wales. Flooding fully or partly shut lines running to Exeter St David's and Taunton, Shrewsbury between and Hereford, and the Vale of Glamorgan line to Cardiff airport. There was also disruption between Liskeard and Looe in the southwest and between Newcastle and Berwickupon-Tweed. The main rail line to the southwest was washed away in several places.

Parts Greater of Manchester were still under water at press time. In Stalybridge, one of the worst affected areas, two couples were rescued from their homes. Two people were rescued after seven vehicles got stuck in floods that washed 600 tonnes of gravel down a hill near Whitby, North Yorkshire.

The worst of the weather is now likely to have passed but forecasters are warning of another atrocious winter with frigid temperatures likely to be the norm until the end of February.

Life term for MP's killer

A Neo-Nazi white constituency supremacist who brutally killed MP Jo Cox while chanting "Britain First" has been jailed for the rest of his life after being found guilty of her murder.

Hitler-obsessed Thomas Mair, 53, shot the 41-year-old motherof-two three times with a sawn-off rifle and stabbed her 15 times with a British special forces-replica dagger in an ambush outside her surgery in the quiet village of Birstall, West Yorkshire. Mr Justice handed Mair a whole life sentence for the murder due to the crime's exceptional seriousness.

The murder took place on June 16, just a week before the EU referendum following a bitterly-fought campaign in which Ms Cox had been a vocal Remain supporter.

Whitehall to DC: we'll choose our own ambassadors, thanks

DONALD TRUMP's outspoken support for Brexit campaigner Nigel Farage to be made British ambassador to Washington, has been politely batted back by Westminster, in a statement that noted pointedly that there is no vacancy for the job.

Trump, who after his election victory met Farage before any EU leaders, said on Twitter that "many people" would like to see the former metals trader turned politician as Britain's ambassador.

"Many people would like to see @ Nigel_Farage represent Great Britain as their Ambassador to the United States. He would do a great job!" Trump

'no vacancy'

Prime Minister Theresa May, who Trump congratulated on his victory, was swift to reject such an undiplomatic proposal, withaspokesmansaying Britain already had an excellent ambassador to Washington and that London would appoint its own envoys.

"We have first rate ambassador in Washington," Foreign Secretary Boris Johnson, who campaigned for Brexit, told the British parliament. "There is no vacancy for that position."

BUDDIES, BIGLY: Trump suggested Nigel Farage would make a great British Ambassador

It is highly unusual in the modern era for leaders to publicly suggest to foreign nations whom they would like to see as ambassador, though during strained relations they sometimes reject or expel envoys.

Trump's suggestion provoked anger, support and even hilarity in Britain, with Conservative MP Simon joking Burns, that perhaps Britain should suggest Hillary Clinton as its preferred choice as ambassador to London.

But the apparent public suggestion about who to appoint as ambassador by the man who will lead Britain's most powerful ally puts Prime Minister May in a difficult position just as she tries to build ties with Washington ahead of leaving the EU.

London is trying to gauge whether Trump would support a special trade deal with Britain as it negotiates the complexities of Brexit.

Farage has repeatedly angered EU leaders by predicting the collapse of the EU, which he says is run by an out-of-touch elite of "idiots".

Farage said Trump's suggestion that he serve as ambassador had come "like a bolt from the blue" but Trump understood loyalty in a way that those in the "cesspit" of career politics did not.

"I am in a good position with the President-elect's support to help. The world has changed and it's time that Downing Street did too," Farage said in an article written for the Breitbart news website.

But Trump's promotion of Farage provoked predictable anger among

"Many people think should mind your own business and talk about pussygrabbing less, but hey, life is a constant disappointment," Labour MP Jess Phillips said on Twitter in a reference to Trump's previous vulgar comments about groping

Using the NHS? Get your passports out!

■ Cash-strapped Health Service desperate to recover unreimbursed costs

■ Over £500m slated to be lost serving overseas patients in 2017

Patients may have to bring two forms of ID, including a passport, to hospitals because the NHS is failing to recover millions of pounds spent on treating people from abroad each year, the Department of Health's top civil servant said on Tuesday.

Senior health officials admitted that they were "light years away" from securing the £500 million predicted to be spent on overseas patients next year. Some hospital trusts recovered less than a sixth of what is owed.

Chris Wormald, permanent secretary at the health department, said that it was now looking to hospital trusts that had employed a more radical approach to ensuring their money was repaid.

"We have seen trusts who are looking at more radical approaches. We do have some trusts which are now, either for some services or more generally, asking for two forms of ID before treatment," Mr Wormald told the public accounts committee.

"Now that is obviously a controversial thing to do, but in terms of how do you get the numbers up, these are the kind of things we are looking at."

He added that these trusts noted an increase in the identification of foreign patients who should be charged. Mr Wormald said that passport checks were already taking place at one hospital in Peterborough that has a high number of immigrants.

"The taxpayer is being taken for a ride not by tourists but by the political correctness and non-charging culture," said one Conservative MP this week

'controversial thing'

"Individual trusts are doing that and it is making a big difference: they are saying please come with two forms of identity, your passport and your address, and they use that to check whether people are eligible.

"It's quite a controversial thing to do, to say to the entire population you've got to prove your identity," he said.

Peterborough and Stamford Hospitals NHS Trust covers an area that has received a large number of eastern European immigrants in recent years.

The move comes after plans by St George's

Hospital in south London to introduce mandatory passport checks maternity wards non-urgent patients as accounts revealed that the trust was losing £5 million each year treating overseas patients. A failure of hospital staff to identify patients means that the NHS invoices for £295 million of the £500 million owed in foreign debts next year, a National Audit Office report shows.

Health officials are accused of allowing political correctness to plunge the NHS into further debt.

"The taxpayer is being taken for a ride not by tourists but by the political correctness and non-charging culture," the Conservative MP Charlie Elphicke said. Last year Homerton University Hospital in London billed £830,000 for treatments of overseas patients but only £127,000 has been repaid, the committee heard.

Hillier, Meg committee chairman, said that she was concerned that some British residents might struggle to find the appropriate identification. This was echoed by the head of the British Medical Association, Mark Porter, who said the proposal would save relatively little money at great inconvenience.

"This is little other than a pinprick on the top of the actual problems facing the NHS," he told Today on BBC Radio 4 this morning.

"I think we have mechanisms in place that if used properly will work, rather than having to introduce new ones that apply to everybody."

Big name tax evaders facing financial ruin

■ As many as 700 of the 780 involved could be made bankrupt

Hundreds of celebrities could face 'financial ruin' after the taxman ordered them to repay up to 20 times of what they invested in a massive avoidance scheme.

Former Manchester United manager Sir Alex Ferguson and ex-England boss Sven Goran Eriksson are among the 780 investors spread across 39 partnerships.

Businessmen poured £2.2billion into the film investment schemes, with Revenues & Customs informing advisers it would be demanding sums far in excess of those invested.

The scheme enabled investors to avoid paying tax to the government through buying and renting back Hollywood blockbuster movies to film studios.

SIR ALEX FERGUSON: one of many big names facing huge tax bills

Nick Wood, an adviser for hundreds of investors in the Eclipse 35 partnership, told The Times: 'I think there will be people potentially jumping off bridges.

'My expectation is, out the 780 people involved, I'd think it highly likely that up to 600-700 would go bankrupt.'

tax avoidance scheme

An investor to the scheme who stumped up £200,000, for example, could be expected to pay back somewhere between £2million and

£4million

Revenue & Customs are expected to dish out demands to those involved in the next two months, with recipients given 90 days to pay.

Other big names to invest in the schemes are former England footballer Glenn Hoddle and Sir Peter Davis, who served as chairman of Sainsbury's.

Eclipse 35, one of the 39 partnerships, was deemed a tax avoidance scheme by the Supreme Court back in April.

In order to boost investment in the British film industry, tax breaks were introduced in 1997, leading to £500million investment in UK-based productions by 2000.

However the tax reliefs have been exploited by big money investors who were advised they could shelter their income by pouring money into the industry.

There was no suggestion that the schemes were illegal.

Low fares to no fares... airline plans free flights

It has long flown the flag for cheaper air travel, but Europe's busiest airline is planning for the day when it doesn't charge its passengers anything at all — and if it has its way, that could be in only five years' time.

Michael O'Leary, chief executive of Ryanair, said on Monday that he was considering moving from low fares to no fares for many travellers as a way of increasing passenger numbers. In return, he argued, airports should share revenues from their retail operations.

He described airports as little more than "shopping malls" and insisted that they should the greatest number of travellers.

Speaking at the Airport Operators Association conference in London, he said the increasingly attractive deals being offered to his airline by European airports, as well as the possible reduction or abolition of taxes such as air passenger duty(APD), would eventually allow his airline to give away

'big traffic growth'

He said: "The challenge for us in the future is to keep driving air fares down. I have this vision that in the next five to 10 years that the air fares on Ryanair will pay airlines that bring in be free, in which case the flights will be full, and we will be making our money out of sharing the airport revenues; of all the people who will be running through airports, and getting a share of the shopping and the retail revenues at airports."

The Irish airline expects to carry 119m passengers this year and is growing its aircraft fleet rapidly, with capacity to pass 200m by 2024. Most of that growth, O'Leary said, would come from "taking price sensitive passengers off incumbents like Air Berlin in Germany, Lot in Poland and Alitalia in Italv".

Michael O'Leary, chief executive of Ryanair said airports should pay airlines that brought in the greatest number of travellers

He added: "I think it will happen. It just won't happen at Heathrow or those big hub airports. But most of the other airports who are looking for big traffic growth, that process is already starting to happen, lowering airport fees and some of the charges."

O'Leary said: "If [air passenger duty] is gone: at many airports I'm paying more than £20 already with APD and fees, if I start getting that back, why not? I'm doing seat sales this week at £4 and I'm paying the £13 APD - I'm paying you to fly with me.

"Instead promotional tickets being £9 or £5 they will be free."

Average fares Ryanair last year were €46 (£39), including one checked bag, and Ryanair has said they will fall by 10% to 15% this year. About a quarter of the airlines's income is from add-ons such as car hire and inflight sales.

New deal eases Brexit fears for British expats

■ 'Reciprocal Rights' agreement allows Brits in EU to stay put

Hundreds of thousands of British expats are set to be granted the right to carry on living on the Continent after Brexit after the majority European Union signalled countries they were ready to do a "reciprocal rights" deal with the UK.

facebook.

Senior Government figures have told business leaders that only "a few" of the 27 EU member states are left to agree the outline of a reciprocal rights agreement for Britons in the EU, and EU nationals living in the UK for when Britain leaves the Government said no deals had yet been struck, but the closeness of an informal understanding is leading to speculation that any deal will be announced at a key EU summit in Brussels next month.

It came as Michel

Barnier, the EU's chief Brexit negotiator, delivered a significant rebuke to David Davis, the Secretary of State for Exiting the European Union, following their first meeting.

Mr Davis on Monday travelled to Brussels in a bid to help "lay the groundwork" for negotiations before Britain formally triggers Brexit.

However wake of the meeting, Barnier, who previously suggested that negotiations should be conducted in French, said it had been a "courtesy visit" which was "at his request".

He said: "No negotiation without notification. My work is now focused on EU27 [countries]."

There an estimated 3.3million EU nationals living in Britain, and roughly 1.2million Britons living in the 27 other EU member states.

Poland has the most EU nationals living in the UK - 883,000 followed by Germany -297,000 - and Romania -229,000

The EU countries with the most Britons living there are Spain (309,000), Ireland (255,000) and France (185,000).

Theresa May refused to say if the rights of EU nationals in Britain will be guaranteed after Brexit, because of concerns that it might damage the UK's negotiating position.

However, twice in the past week she stressed that a deal guaranteeing the rights of EU nationals to remain in the UK after Brexit will be struck quickly.

Mrs May told business leaders at the CBI on Monday: "I want an early agreement on the status of UK nationals in Europe and EU nationals here, so that you and they can plan with certainty."

Westminster sources said Mrs May had raised the issue of reciprocal rights for Britons overseas and EU nationals in this country in her talks with other leaders in recent months.

Earlier this month Lord Bridges, a minister in the Exiting the European Union department, left open the possibility that informal agreements had been struck with other EU countries.

The minister was asked by Lord Green Deddington, of chairman MigrationWatch, which other EU governments had "publicly indicated that the existing rights of British citizens resident in their territory will be preserved after the UK has left the EU".

Lord Bridges replied: 'We are not aware of any member state reaching a formal view on this issue.

"At every step of these negotiations we will work to ensure the best possible outcome for the people of the United Kingdom."

Geoffrey Clifton-Brown parliamentary adviser to Conservatives Abroad which has campaigned on voting rights for expats, said suggestions that a deal is close was "fantastic news for them, their family and friends".

He said: "It will allay a great deal of anxiety. It is only right that Europeans who are legally here and doing a good job of work for this country should also have the reassurance they can stay as well."

Rocco going to pot?

- Madonna and Ritchie's son was reportedly seen 'smoking or doing drugs' near London home
- Troubled teenager was at the center of a bitter custody dispute between his celebrity parents

Madonna's teenage son Rocco Ritchie has been arrested in a drugs bust.

Rocco was caught in possession of cannabis after neighbours reportedly called police on the troubled teen.

The 16-year-old, whose father is director Guy Ritchie, was seen 'smoking or doing drugs' near his Primrose Hill home in North London.

Sources told the Sun that Rocco was seen tossing something away as police approached him in Steeles Mews North, Camden.

When officers noticed traces of cannabis on his clothes they searched him and found a small quantity of the drug.

He was arrested on September 28, taken to a north London police station and later bailed.

A police spokesman

MADONNA AND CHILD: the pop superstar and her son fell out a year ago when he decided to stay in London with his father, Guy Ritchie said: 'A 16-year-old youth has been arrested for possession of cannabis.

'engage and educate'

'The arrest follows a stop and search by officers from Camden borough at around 5.15pm on Wednesday, September 28 at Steeles Mews North. 'The youth was taken to a north London police station. He was subsequently bailed and dealt with by Camden borough's Youth Offending Team.

'He was dealt with by way of Triage, which uses multiple strands to engage and educate young people in order to prevent re-offending.'

ROCCO: reported to the police by concerned neighbors in the capital's upmarket Primrose Hill neighborhood

Earlier this year the teenage was at the centre of a bitter custody dispute between his director father and pop icon mother.

'way too permissive'

The disagreement began in December 2015 during a falling out between Rocco and his musician mother when he abandoned her Rebel Hearts tour.

He refused to travel with his mother and she launched legal action in the US and UK demanding custody of her son.

Guy Richie's lawyers argued Rocco was settled in school in London and, in September, he won the bitter nine-month battle over where their son should live.

The Sherlock Holmes director reached a settlement with the pop star hours before they were due in court in New York and it was agreed the teenager would continue to live in London.

Website TMZ claimed that Madonna thought Guy 'had poisoned her son against her' and, 'as the disciplinarian [parent], she felt Guy was way too permissive'.

The terms of the custody agreement remain confidential, but it is understood Rocco is schooled in London, with regular visits from his mother.

£369m redo for Buck House

Buckingham Palace is to undergo a 10-year refurbishment costing the taxpayer £369m, the Treasury has announced.

The Queen will remain in residence during the work, to begin next April. Ageing cables, lead pipes, wiring and boilers will be replaced, many for the first time in 60 years, amid fears about potential fire and water damage.

Tony Johnstone-Burt, Master of the Queen's Household, said phased works offered the "best value for money" while keeping the palace running.

The Royal Trustees, who include the prime minister and chancellor, recommended that the works be funded by a temporary increase in the Sovereign Grant.

Profits from the independent property business Crown Estates go to the Treasury, which in turn gives 15% of the sum to the monarch in the form of the Sovereign Grant, which this year totalled nearly £43m.

The trustees say the grant should rise to 25% of the profits for the repairs. This would require MPs' approval.

Away from the splendour of the state rooms, Buckingham Palace shows its age.

It is striking while walking through the back corridors that the overall look is a little shabby. The refurbishment is clearly long overdue and it appears the building is now at risk from electrics, plumbing and heating barely updated since the 1950s.

One royal observer commented: "Questions will be asked over why the palace has been allowed to get to such a state and whether the enormous estimated costs could have been reduced if services had been regularly updated."

Meet A Member: Victoria O'Brien

Meet Victoria O'Brien from Northern Ireland, who moved to Los Angeles two years ago to pursue a life in her beloved LA.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA? I fell in love with LA on a family holiday back when I was 17 years old. I was 39 when I finally moved here and started a business. In the years in between, I have lived in England, Sydney, Dubai and Qatar!

What do you miss most from home?

My family...and also Greggs steak bakes and sausage rolls

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since? I've lived like Dubai or If so why?

When I was 17 I fell in love with the excitement of it all, the climate, the movie buzz etc. As an adult I still love those things but it's more than that now. I love the diversity, and the 'anything is possible' attitude. I'm used to living in transient cities like Dubai and Qatar and LA can be like that in many ways. I like that. It keeps life interesting!

What do you find the difference biggest is living here versus any of the other cities you have made your home?

There are actually a lot of similarities between this gym is for you! Of LA and the other cities

Sydney. My heart lies here though.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

Yes, Beverly Hills Presbyterian Church is a hidden gem in that it's super contemporary and not at all what you would expect from Presbyterian My other church. secret gem is my gym, Happy Hour Gym, right on the corner of Santa Monica and Doheny Drive. It's a bit of a celeb spot as it's very discreet so if you can remain cool while working out next to someone famous then course, another gem is my beautiful salon. Maud's of Beverly Hills.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

If you are moving here with children and/or animals, call me LOL! I have 'been there, done that'!

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

I wasn't given any and I was so gungho about moving that I probably wouldn't have listened. My advice is, if you decide to move here anvwhere else in the US, do it all legally and not on a shoestring budget.

Lastly, how can we find out more about you?

I own a beautiful, boutique salon on North Doheny Drive, called Maud's of

BELATED HAPPY THANKSGIVING TO ALL!

ARIES: In any relationship situation please understand you can't control everything that people think, with this in mind keep an eye on how the other person is acting...that is the clue.

TAURUS: Your priority should be taking care of YOU in any area that requires attention. The rest of life is not always planned ahead. On the upside you can expect a call from an admirer either personally or at work.

GEMINI: The sun in your opposite sign of Sagittarius can bring out a cranky side of you and it also favors getting a handle on any part of life that is causing you some emotional upset. It's time for you to be peaceful.

CANCER: You will have to be aware this next week not to speak out of turn or harshly to anyone. The consequences could be long-reaching, especially if it's a close friend or family. It's better all round for you to figure it out yourself.

LEO: This is a time for the inner artist to show itself for some of you who are not participating in life as you know you can. If you have any sort of issue make sure you are not stressing out over this.

VIRGO: It's time for a change of scenery; this can be as simple as a coat of paint on the walls to a trip out of town. Either way it's best to take some action rather then brood as this is the worst thing to do at the best of times.

LIBRA: If you have things you need to be working on in the home area get moving and you can be finished by next week. If you waste time you will have much less time to get things accomplished overall.

SCORPIO: This has been a difficult week emotionally for some of you. This is a legacy from the recent new / full moon. The feelings that are current are very likely old baggage and it's up to you how to process this.

SAGITTARIUS: You will probably be feeling pressured regarding finances this week. This should improve by week's end. Saturn visiting you is keeping you in line in this area. It will be a good lesson learnt in the end. Happy Birthday. CAPRICORN: At last you are seeing the wood for the trees. This can be in any area or indeed in all areas of your life currently. You have waited a long time to feel this secure. Just be sure you know that everything is a lesson in life. AQUARIUS: You have been somewhat distant from situations in your life for a few weeks now. Whatever has been occupying you will slow down this next week. Be ready to catch up with your other parts of life. They have been waiting

PISCES: You have some decisions to make currently. Do not procrastinate with anything this next week. You are being assisted by powerful planets and you can achieve a lot in a short time.

Ecology and your Environment - choose wisely for a longer life!

HEALTH & FITNESS with Ricky Parcell

In todays blog we will be looking at two areas in life that can effect our well being.

At www.thebodycamp. com in ibiza, we encourage guests to do an ecology check and an environmental check, before they leave us after spending seven days at our luxury villa in the hills overlooking the Mediterranean.

Here I will explain they both mean and how they effect us all - if we choose to let them.....

Ecology check: In our world, we have to understand that we are surrounded by various barriers to our health goals. These barriers can be self-created or come from friends, work colleagues and even family. So it is vital to check your own ecology to consider how things outside your life can affect you.

Here are a few things to consider: who do you spend time with? Are these people influencing your daily choices alcohol or food choices? Do the opinons of others, be they friends, family or workmates, matter to you. Who is influencing you in your life - are friends and family doing this in a positive way? Who is supporting you in your health goals every day? Do you have a personal supporting trainer you? Do you have a life coach supporting you? What about a workout buddy? And what books are you reading to improve your daily habits and behaviors?

Small details can add up to make a big difference. You can be lifted up or dragged down. So consider your ecology and make changes if you need to. Enviromental check: Where we live and the location in the world has a massive impact on our lives - take someone living in London compared to someone living in L.A. - the options in L.A. are very different! The weather is very good here for an all-year-round outdoor lifestyle. Not only can you almost always go hiking, running, biking, surfing, skiing whatever you choose, but you also have a huge choice of healthy places to eat and a culture based on the body beautiful!

Living in London think pubs, restaurants and cloudy weather – can make it hard to for an unmotivated person to reach their goals, due to their surroundings or the cold sometimes experienced there.

Its critical to think about your future lifestyle as much as possible and the enviroment you are in, when settling into an area and going for a job.

So next time you consider a move, consider this: what will your environment lead to - healthy choices or comfort food choices? Are there fresh fruit and veg shops nearby? Will your lifestyle environment by driven by socializing with friends at pubs or local restaurants in the area? Will your lifestyle be based around food and alcohol? What's the weather like in your environment? How far is the nearest park or gym for exercise? How far are your supporting friends or family living from you?

On saying all the above, most cities now have plenty of gyms, healthy choices of food and parks to exercise in - therefore we all need to look at the pros and cons of our future environment for a healthy lifestyle and ensure decisions are driven from an environmental factor, whilst ensuring our ecology is good too.

Still plenty to be Thankful for...

BY THE time you read this the turkey will have been cleared away, the guests will have gone and the hangover (hopefully) will be receding.

Chez nous there is a pile of turkey sandwiches waiting to be, erm, gobbled up, the turkey soup has been frozen in the largest Tupperware containers I can find and the turkey curry is steaming on the hob. It's truly amazing how much meat can be gleaned from this humble bird, and my Labrador for one is in hog heaven what with all the table scraps.

We at Brits In LA are (almost) always thankful to live in Los Angeles, California, USA, in that order, usually, and we do hope you feel the same, although it's been a very trying few months for those of us on the left side of the political spectrum. So what better way to celebrate our life, liberty and pursuit of happiness than getting out this weekend, away from the computer, the social media and the TV and into the glorious wilderness that surrounds us? This time of year I always take the opportunity to hike the arduous MishE Mokwa trail to Sandstone Peak, the highest point in the Santa Monica mountains. The air is always clear and the views simply sublime all the way to Catalina and the Channel Islands. The trailhead is just across the Ventura County Line so it's an easy 30-minute drive from Santa Monica.

For those not so close to the beach there's plenty of great trails near Griffith Park, Runyon Canyon the Hollywood and Reservoir, and those in the Valley can take advantage of Trippet Ranch in Topanga or Westridge Canyonback Park near Tarzana, just for starters. And with the cooler temperatures, you don't have to be up at first light or wait till sunset to enjoy it. Just remember to always take plenty of water with you!

For those of you who like to get out ON the water, it's still warm enough to try Stand Up Paddleboarding - not only is this an awesome workout but you get to enjoy the Pacific and see some wildlife too - on calm days there's plenty of sea lions to commune with, even if you stay within the calm confines of Marina del Rey and Mother's Beach, which is about as easy a place to learn as you will ever find. Try the Pro SUP Shop at www.prosupshop.com.

Another great way to enjoy the water is by sailing. If you don't have a friend with a boat you can always try a rental with an instructor, and we've heard really good things about Marina Sailing (www.marinasailing. com) as a great place to start at a reasonable price. Get a couple of friends together and the price can be super affordable.

If you are looking to make new friends and have a couple of interests we've found hands-down the best way (apart from Brits in LA, of course) is MeetUp.com. Visit their website, enter whatever you are interested in into the search bar (happy hours, cycling, book clubs, yoga, running, hiking, appreciation,

Monica mountians is a glorious place to hike this time of year

Asian food, etc) and you will be astonished at how many choices of meetups vou have with likeminded folks. I often feel that MeetUp is the perfect antidote for those feeling a little blue or in need of new company and new energy in their lives. Or if you are new to town, or just feel you need to broaden your horizons, MeetUp is the perfect place to start.

Christmas and New Year are closing in fast and we are celebrating (of course). The Brits In LA Christmas Party is set for Wed. Dec 7th from 7.30pm at Birch, 1636 Cahuenga Boulevard in Hollywood. Regular readers know this fab eaterie is owned by British chef and all-around good bloke Brendan Collins, a James Beard nominee and former head chef at Melisse, the double Michelin-starred French restaurant in Santa Monica. Brendan has developed Birch into one of the most talked-about restaurants in town, and it's certainly a favorite with local Brits – not least for their superb take on a traditional roast. Tickets are priced at $60 and we'd LOVE to have you join the party, so please visit us at britsin.la for details.

That's all for now. Thanks for indulging me, an anonymous BiLA member. Craig (or Eileen) will be back next week.

Bubbly Lady Vic and THAT Palm Springs 'trip'!!

It was all going SO well for Lady Victoria Hervey and her BFF – fashion designer Julia Clancey when the girls hit the town to celebrate a successful night on the runway in trendy Palm Springs, California.

Hervey had been in the desert doing magazine shoots and modeling for Julia Clancey's new 'Resort' collection at Palm Springs Fashion Week.

Just hours earlier, the daughter of the late 6th Marquess of Bristol was dressed in an elegant gown as she sauntered perfectly along the catwalk.

But it was a different story later as the aristocrat was spotted leaving Clancey's Fashion Show after party held at Eight4Nine restaurant.

Clearly, 'Lady V' did far better walking in Clancey's fashion show than she did walking out of the trendy uptown eatery after getting her highheel stiletto caught on the stairs outside as she departed the high-end eatery.

Being the 'Lady' she is, however, Victoria quickly bounced back and the two girls giggled as pal Julia helped Hervey back on her feet.

In the past, the bubbly Ms Hervey has made no secret of her love for champagne, she recently told The Telegraph, "Unless it's champagne, I can't handle it".

Perhaps one glass too many?

Oo-er!

If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

Note: Because the Beneficiary reserves the right to bid less than the total debt owed, it is possible that at the time of the sale the opening bid may be less than the total debt

Vaughan: England blighted by 'little disease'

England must eradicate the "little disease" in the dressing room if they are to avoid the collapses that cost them this week's second Test defeat by India, says ex-captain Michael Vaughan.

They slipped to 80-5 while conceding a crucial first-innings deficit of 200 in Visakhapatnam, and lost their last eight wickets for 66 runs on the final day as India won by 246 runs.

"When they lose one wicket, a panic sets in. They can't stop it. It is a common trend," Vaughan told BBC Test Match Special.

"Somewhere the mentality has to change and someone has to do something about it."

England narrowly failed to force victory in the first Test of the fivematch series in Rajkot after posting 537 and 260-3 declared.

However, the drawn Test series in Bangladesh that preceded the India tour was marked by batting collapses.

They were 21-3 and 62-5 in the first and second innings respectively Chittagong, in then slumped to 69-5 in the first innings in Dhaka, where they subsided from 100-0 to 164 all out in the second innings as Bangladesh claimed a maiden Test win over England.

"They have a habit collapsing," former England batsman Geoffrey Boycott on TMS. "They go down like a pack of cards, like dominoes.

"This pitch is not a minefield. As soon as a wicket went, they're fraught."

The 29-year-old, who beat Novak Djokovic in the ATP World Tour Finals on Sunday, has been tipped to be named in the New Year honours list.

However, Wimbledon champion and successive Olympic gold winner said he could 'still mess up" and "make

SPURS: Monte Carlo and bust

■ Spurs dumped out of Champions League as classy Monaco end their dreams

Champions League AS Monaco.....2 Tottenham H.....1

Tottenham were knocked out of the Champions League as they were comprehensively outclassed by Monaco at Stade Louis II on Tuesday night.

The narrowness of the result belied the superiority of the hosts, who missed an early penalty before Djibril Sidibe's header early in the second half sparked a stunning sequence of three goals in just five minutes.

Harry Kane's penalty, awarded when Dele Alli was pulled back, put Spurs on level terms but, just 39 seconds later, Monaco had the ball in the net again through Thomas Lemar.

Spurs, who have won just one of their five group matches, are three points behind Leverkusen with one game to play, against CSKA on 7 December, but cannot overhaul the German side because of an inferior head-to-head record.

Lloris saved a Radamel Falcao penalty in the first half, produced a truly world-class stop to keep out Kamil Glik's thumping first-time effort from a free-kick, and thwarted Falcao a second time after the break.

Spurs spurned the first clear chance of the match when Son Heung-min broke clear only to overrun the ball as he tried to round the goalkeeper, but from that moment there was only one team in it - and

The Ligue 1 title hopefuls cut through the Spurs midfield with ease, with full-backs Sidibe and Benjamin Mendy in particular a threat, peppering the visitors' area with crosses that tested the unfamiliar centre-back pairing of Kevin Wimmer and Eric Dier.

Lloris had saved heroically from both Mendy and Germain in the first half, but was left with no chance when the deadlock was broken just after the break, Monaco again working the ball with ease to the left flank, from where Mendy crossed for Sidibe to head in unmarked six yards out, although Wimmer should have stepped in to clear.

HUGE SETBACK: Pochettino must regroup for this weekend's clash with Chelsea was unceremoniously hauled down in the area after latching on to Kieran Trippier's hopeful long ball forward.

But Spurs could not defend their barely merited equaliser and straight from kick-off Monaco were ahead once more, just four passes required as they worked the ball seamlessly into the area, where Lemar drilled low past Lloris.

Only a quite incredible save from Lloris to keep out Glik's thunderous strike kept Monaco within touching distance, but a third goal - or indeed a fourth - would not have flattered Leonardo Jardim's hosts.

Second again for Gunners?

Arsenal face a struggle to finish top of their Champions League group after they were held to a draw by Paris St-Germain at Emirates Stadium Wednesday night.

The Gunners were seeking the win that would put them in pole position in Group A after years of finishing second and six consecutive eliminations in the last 16 in the knockout phase.

And it looked like Arsenal were on their way despite going behind early on to Edinson Cavani's sliding finish from Blaise Matuidi's cross.

Olivier Giroud scored from a penalty just before half-time after Grzegorz Krychowiak fouled Alexis Sanchez. And Arsenal were ahead on the hour when a penalty-box rebound struck Marco Verratti and flew in.

PSG were always dangerous and Lucas' header, which took a touch off Alex Iwobi, gave them a fully-deserved equaliser 13 minutes from time.
