MAY: Trump was 'wrong' to retweet hate group videos

■ PM condemns President's Britain First Tweet but rejects calls to cancel state visit

THE GROWING RIFT between London and Washington opened a little wider this week as the Prime Minister said it was "wrong" for US President Donald Trump to retweet videos posted by far-right group Britain First.

But she stressed the "special relationship" between Britain and the US was "in both our nations' interests" and should continue.

And she rejected calls to cancel a state visit by the US president.

Speaking on a visit to Jordan, she said: "An invitation for a state visit has been extended and has been accepted. We have yet to set a date."

Quizzed about Mr Trump's tweets, she said: "The fact that we work together does not mean that we're afraid to say when we think the United States has got it wrong, and be very clear with them."

'fear and hatred'

"And I'm very clear that retweeting from Britain First was the wrong thing to do."

Scotland's First Minister Nicola Sturgeon said she agreed with Theresa May's criticism of Mr Trump, but thought she should go further and halt plans for a state visit next year.

Mr Trump's retweeting of posts by a far-right group "risks legitimising those who want to spread fear and hatred," Ms Sturgeon said, and was "completely unacceptable".

Mr Trump shared three posts by the group's deputy leader, including unverified footage purporting to show Muslims committing crimes.

Theresa May's spokesman said Britain First used "hateful narratives which peddle lies and stoke tensions".

Labour's Jeremy Corbyn called the retweets "abhorrent" and "dangerous".

Britain First was founded in 2011 by former members of the far-right British National Party (BNP).

The group has grabbed attention on social media with controversial posts about what it deems "the Islamification of the UK".

It has previously put up members to run in European elections and by-elections on antiimmigration and anti-abortion policies, but has yet to secure any seats.

The first tweet, from deputy leader Jayda Fransen, claims to show a Muslim migrant attacking a man on crutches.

This was followed by two more videos of people Ms Fransen claims to be Muslim.

Mr Trump's retweets prompted a wave of criticism from British politicians and from groups representing UK Muslims.

'extremist hate group'

Mr Corbyn tweeted: "I hope our government will condemn far-right retweets by Donald Trump. They are abhorrent, dangerous and a threat to our society."

Speaking during Prime Ministers Questions, Labour MP David Lammy, accused Mr Trump of "promoting a fascist, racist, extremist hate group".

A Downing Street spokesman said: "British people overwhelmingly reject the prejudiced

"The fact that we work together does not mean that we're afraid to say when we think the United States has got it wrong, and be very clear with them." - the PM rhetoric of the far right which is the antithesis of the values that this country represents - decency, tolerance and respect."

He added: "It is wrong for the president to have done this."

Brendan Cox - whose wife, British MP Jo Cox, was murdered by a right-wing extremist who shouted "Britain first" before committing the act - also condemned Mr Trump.

He told the BBC: "If you look at Trump this isn't a mistake, this is a strategy. He consistently does this.

"He's retweeted people on the far right in the US, he's shared anti-Semitic memes in the past and his whole campaign was based on calling Mexicans rapists and saying he'd ban Muslims from the country.

"I think we have to recognise now... that this is a president who is a purveyor of hate."

Now Trump tweets the WRONG Theresa May

■ Hasty President reprimands another Theresa May - who has just SIX followers

IF RE-TWEETING the words of a far right group were not bad enough, President Trump compounded the error by replying to the WRONG Theresa May, it emerged this week.

Trump's tweet came about 1 a.m. Thursday London time, when many Brits were fast asleep. The past 24 hours had been unusual in Britain, with the U.S. president having retweeted several videos from the far-right group Britain First on Wednesday.

Taking aim at Prime Minister Theresa May's sharp rebuke of his actions, Trump wanted May to know he was unhappy with her response. In Trump fashion, he took to Twitter to air his grievances. But he targeted the wrong Theresa May.

The Theresa May targeted by Trump turned out to be not the British prime minister but a woman named Theresa May Scrivener, who had just six Twitter followers and a protected account. Trump's schoolboy error was met with amazement and amusement, and many Brits were left wondering, "Who in the TOP: Donald Trump's initial Tweet was sent to an English housewife who is NOT the Prime Minister. Although quickly deleted, it was captured and re-tweeted - much to the delight of the President's critics world is Theresa May Scrivener?" "And did not the fact that she have only six followers indicate she might not be the British Prime Minister?"

It didn't take long for eagle-eyed Twitter users to pounce on Trump's mistake. The presidential error was captured digitally and shared within seconds. The initial tweet reads: "Theresa @theresamay, don't focus on me, focus on the destructive Radical Islamic Terrorism that is taking place within the United Kingdom. We are doing just fine!" Trump's tweet was soon deleted.

Fourteen minutes later, Trump tweeted the message again. This time he cited the correct Twitter handle and targeted the actual prime minister of Britain. Trump kept the wording of his second attempt the same.

"Theresa Scrivener is one confused lady right now," another user wrote.

East Antrim MP Sammy Wilson said the Conservatives "can't rely on our vote".

Brexit deal could end DUP support, Tories warned

DUPMP Sammy Wilson has warned that his party's deal to support the Conservative government could be jeopardised by the Brexit negotiations.

He said any attempt to "placate Dublin and the EU" could mean a withdrawal of DUP support at Westminster.

He was responding to reports of a possible strategy to deal with the Irish border after Brexit.

Former DUP leader and first minister Peter Robinson also responded, saying "the south needs to wind its neck in".

'significant harm'

He said Dublin politicians had taken to "lecturing the UK," doing "significant harm to north/south relations".

"Sensible solutions can be found and positive outcomes are more likely to be reached if a spirit of friendship and mutual understanding exists," he said.

A story, published earlier in the Times newspaper, reported that British and EU officials could be about to seek separate customs measures for Northern Ireland after the UK leaves the European Union.

This could avoid any divergence in trade rules between Northern Ireland and the Republic.

Mr Wilson said that the UK government would "have to recognise that if this is about treating Northern Ireland differently, or leaving us half in the EU, dragging along behind regulations which change in Dublin, it's not on".

Earlier on Thursday, DUP leader Arlene Foster said that the government had a "clear understanding that the DUP will not countenance any arrangement that could lead to a new border being created in the Irish Sea".

Mr Wilson said the proposal mooted in The Times report was unworkable, and revealed the DUP would be seeking clarification from the government on its accuracy.

'Half in the EU'

The DUP struck a deal with the Conservative government in June, agreeing to support Tory policies at Westminster, in return for an extra £1bn in government spending for Northern Ireland.

Mr Wilson said his party will be "making clear to the government we have a confidence and supply arrangement with them".

The East Antrim MP added that "if there is any hint that in order to placate Dublin and the EU, they're prepared to have Northern Ireland treated differently than the rest of the UK, then they can't rely on our vote".

'No special status'

Mr Wilson was speaking in a BBC interview in his East Antrim constituency on Thursday afternoon.

The DUP has consistently opposed calls for Northern Ireland to be granted "special status" within the EU, in a bid to resolve border issues.

The party has accused Irish nationalists of using the special status campaign as "an opportunity separate Northern Ireland from the rest of the United Kingdom, with a border in the Irish Sea".

Under the type of plan mooted in The Times report, regulations relating to customs would be harmonised on both sides of the Irish border.

It would allow a freer flow of traffic and goods, in line with the UK's aim of making the crossing as "frictionless" as possible.

Harry and Meghan surprise nobody with plans to marry

■ Queen and Prince Philip wish the couple 'every happiness'

With congratulations pouring in from around the globe following the announcement of Prince Harry's engagement to Meghan Markle, the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh led the way, wishing the couple "every happiness".

The Queen and Philip, who celebrated their platinum wedding anniversary earlier this month, spoke of their delight for the couple. A Buckingham Palace spokesman said: "The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh are delighted for the couple and wish them every happiness."

Harry and Meghan's long-anticipated engagement was officially announced by the Prince of Wales at 10am Monday morning with a statement saying the couple, who have been dating for 16 months, will marry next spring. Sources said the wedding is likely to take place in March with the Duchess of Cambridge due to give birth to her third child in April.

The Clarence House statement announcing their engagement read: "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is delighted to announce the engagement of Prince Harry to Ms Meghan Markle."

"His Royal Highness and Ms Markle became engaged in London earlier this month."

"Prince Harry has informed Her Majesty the Queen and other close members of his family. Prince Harry has also sought and received the blessing of Ms Markle's parents."

"The couple will live in Nottingham Cottage at Kensington Palace."

The Palace later

revealed that the wedding will take place in May at St. George's Chapel in Windsor Castle.

blind date

Harry, 33, has been dating the American actress, 36, who found fame in the US legal drama Suits since July 2016. Their 16-month romance blossomed when they met through a mutual female friend in London and went on a blind date. They fell in love spending time together at her home in Toronto and his at Kensington Palace during breaks in her filming schedule and his royal duties. In a revealing television interview the pair admitted neither knew who the other was when they went on their first date. Meghan has moved into Harry's two-bedroom cottage at the palace where he proposed a few weeks ago.

UNLIKELY START: the pair met on a blind date arranged by a mutual friend

Visiting Poundbury in Dorset, the Prince of Wales said he was "thrilled" and "very happy indeed" for his younger son and Meghan. In a statement, the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge said: "We are very excited for Harry and Meghan."

"It has been wonderful getting to know Meghan and to see how happy she and Harry are together."

Meghan's parents Thomas Markle and Doria Ragland issued a statement through Kensington Palace saying: "We are incredibly happy for Meghan and Harry. We wish them a lifetime of happiness and are very excited for their future together."

Harry's uncle Earl Spencer, Diana's brother, also sent his congratulations. "The best of news. Nothing better than seeing a thoroughly lovely man truly happy," he said on Twitter.

Meghan will become an HRH and a senior royal after marrying Harry and joining the Windsors. She is expected to become a Duchess – just like Kate Middleton did when she became the Duchess of Cambridge after saying her vows in 2011. But unlike Kate, Meghan is not a future Queen. With the arrival of the Cambridges' children, Harry is too far down the line of succession to have a realistic prospect of being monarch. Ms Markle will most probably become HRH the Duchess of Sussex, if, as expected, Harry is made the Duke of Sussex by the Queen on the day of his marriage.

Speculation that a wedding was imminent stepped up a gear a few weeks ago when Harry took Ms Markle to meet his grandmother the Queen for tea at Buckingham Palace. The Prince had to obtain the monarch's permission to wed Ms Markle, thanks to the Succession to the Crown Act 2013, which requires the first six people in line to the throne to seek the monarch's consent. A church wedding beckons for the couple after the Archbishop of Canterbury said the pair had "chosen to make their vows before God".

The Most Rev Justin Welby, who is expected to perform the ceremony, said he was "absolutely delighted" to hear the news of the royal wedding. Theresa May's official spokesman said: "There isn't a precedent in this area."

When news of their relationship first broke in the Sunday Express in October 2016, Prince Harry was described as being 'happier than he's been in years'.

With diamonds from Botswana, via Diana, Harry's design proves a sparkling success

AS THE LOVED-up and slightly giggly couple posed for photographers at the Sunken Garden at Kensington Palace, this week, Meghan rubbed Harry's back affectionately as if to say well done - not just for proposing, but for also designing such a sparkling engagement ring.

Beaming, she showed off her sparkling bauble – estimated to be worth at least £200,000 – with the large diamond from Botswana demonstrating the country's significance for Harry. The band is made of yellow gold and the ring was made by Cleave and Company, court jewellers and medallists to the Queen.

Harry was following in the footsteps of his grandfather Prince Philip in designing the engagement ring, using jewels that belonged to his mother. The Duke of Edinburgh designed an engagement ring for the Queen, then Princess Elizabeth, in 1947. One leading London jeweler was impressed by Harry's choice. "It resonates with me that Harry chose to design and made his own ring," he said. "It's a truly personal ring – a handwritten love note – from him to Meghan incorporating diamonds from his mother's jewellery."

Kate's uncle branded 'a nasty drunk' for punching wife in row

■ But Gary Goldsmith is spared jail time by London judge

KATE Middleton's millionaire uncle Gary Goldsmith was branded a "nasty drunk" in court on Monday.

But he was spared jail despite having publicly punched his wife Julie-Anne to the ground.

Senior district judge Emma Arbuthnot instead gave Goldsmith a one-year community order and fined him £5,000 for the vicious left hook. Sentencing him at Westminster magistrates' court, she said: "You were acting like a nasty drunk, not the happy drunk your friends or you describe."

"Your wife slapped you. You responded not by pushing her away but by one strike to the face which was so hard you knocked her to the floor."

Goldsmith, 52, is the younger brother of the Duchess of Cambridge's mother Carole. He called his fourth wife a "nothing" and a "whore" as they rowed on their way to their home near Oxford Street last month. The pair had been arguing so ferociously that taxi driver Daniel Shepherd felt it unsafe to leave the scene after dropping them off. He witnessed Goldsmith – who made a fortune setting up a computer firm then selling it for £17million – respond to a slap from his wife with the punch. It sent her flying to the ground where she hit her head and was briefly knocked unconscious. He did not rush to her aid and she had to pull herself up using railings, the court heard.

Mrs Goldsmith, 47, said in a victim impact statement that the attack has left her feeling a "prisoner in my own home". She was particularly distressed by being unable to see Goldsmith's 15-year-old daughter from a previous relationship.

"I haven't been able to talk to or see my step-daughter which has been very difficult and very upsetting as we are very close," she said. "I am not going out. I find it hard to face people. This whole incident has caused me a lot of stress and anxiety."

"I don't know how

GOLDEMITH: 'devoted' to his wife

much more upset and hurt I can take."

However, the court heard the couple are trying for a reconciliation and the prosecution did not seek a restraining order. Besides community service, Judge Arbuthnot ordered Goldsmith to attend 20 rehabilitation sessions to tackle his "loutish behaviour". He was also ordered to pay a £170 victim surcharge and £85 costs as well as the fine.

Goldsmith admitted assault by beating at an early hearing. Jane Humphries QC, defending, said "He momentarily lost his self-control when he struck out, much to his great shame. "He is exceedingly remorseful. He is devastated by the events. And all the more because it involved his wife, to whom he is devoted."

State pension shock: Fury as ex-pats living outside Europe have money pots FROZEN

EX-PATS retiring outside of Europe are furious as their pensions are "frozen" while Brits living in Europe look set to benefit from the so-called 'triple lock' system.

A deal has already been passed to assure British state pensions are paid to ex-pats who will benefit from the triple lock system in Europe, which was confirmed in September.

Triple lock pension refers to adding the largest amount to your pension from three different variables. It could be the growth in national average earnings, the growth in retail prices as measured by the Consumer Price Index or a minimum of 2.5 per cent.

This agreement also covers countries in the European Economic Area and Switzerland.

But no help has been given to ex-pats in other parts of the world. Half a million ex-pats are suffering from "frozen" pensions.

Nigel Nelson 65, moved to Canada in 2008 taking early retirement. He told the Daily Telegraph: "If I were to live south of the Niagara Falls, in the US, I would receive the annual increase. But because I live on the other side of the Falls I don't." British ex-pats in Commonwealth countries are not seeing any increases.

Lobby groups in Australia and Canada, have been requesting a change in the law for years.

They claim the Government is randomly discriminating certain ex-pats and claim Britain is the only developed country that pays pensioners on where they live.

Since Brexit the pound has been dropping which has made their situation worse. Despite the pound recovering, sterling is still down by 16 per cent against the South African rand and 11 per cent against the Australian dollar.

Nigeria being the only country out of ten most populated by "frozen" ex-pat pensioners where the pound has strengthened.

As the former chair of the International Consortium of British Pensioners, the global organisation representing frozen pensioners, Mr Nelson has seen plenty of examples of ex-pats loosing out on their pensions.

He said: "One colleague of mine retired to Canada in 1998 and received a state pension of £64.70 a week and nearly 20 years later he is still getting £64.70."

"As a result he's received £27,945 less than his peers in Britain even though he has made the same level of National Insurance Contributions. This is just not right, it is immoral and discriminatory."

A spokesman for the Department for Work and Pensions said: "The Government has a very clear position, which has remained consistent for around 70 years: the UK state pension is payable worldwide but is only uprated abroad where we have a legal requirement to do so or a reciprocal agreement is in place."

Viagra to be sold over the counter

BRITISH PHARMACIES will begin selling Viagra over the counter for the first time, following a ruling by health chiefs. Currently, men wanting pills to boost their sex lives have to get a prescription from a GP. But this will no longer be necessary after Viagra was reclassified by the Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency (MHRA).

The decision to change the status of Viagra Connect, which contains 50mg of the drug sildenafil, was taken after a public consultation. It is hoped the move will encourage more men with erectile dysfunction to seek medical help – and deter a huge multi-million pound criminal trade in counterfeit drugs online. The ruling is due to take effect from next spring.

Dr Berkeley Phillips, UK medical director of manufacturer Pfizer, said: "We understand some men may avoid seeking support and treatment for this condition, so we believe giving them the option to talk to a pharmacist could be a real step forward."

Mick Foy of the MHRA, which has seized more than £50million-worth of unlicensed and fake erectile dysfunction medicines in five years, said: "This is good news for men's health."

Sir Daniel reveals why he called it a day...

HAVING made the shock announcement he was quitting acting this summer, five months later Sir Daniel Day-Lewis has shed some light on his reasons why.

Despite a phenomenally successful 40-year career the three-time recipient of the Best Actor Oscar released a statement in June saying that he was giving up acting and that Phantom Thread would be his last film. But he didn't elaborate further – until now.

"All my life I've mouthed off about how I should stop acting and I don't know why it was different this time," the 60-year-old tells W Magazine.

"But I did want to draw a line. I didn't want to get sucked back into another project. The impulse to quit took root and that became a compulsion. It was something I had to do."

But it seems the man whose breakthrough role was playing Irish artist Christie Brown in My Left Foot, which won him his first Oscar in 1989, is only too aware it will take time to adjust now he's stepping away from the limelight.

"Do I feel better? Not yet. I have great sadness. And that's the right way to feel. How strange would it be if this was just a gleeful step into a brand-new life. I've been interested in acting since I was 12 years old. When I began it was a question of salvation. [Now] I want to explore the world in a different way."

Anthony Newley was not a paedophile insists furious ex-wife Joan Collins

■ Veteran actress dismisses claims by late actor's son Sacha

ACTRESS Joan Collins has hit back at a claim that singer Anthony Newley – her ex-husband – was a paedophile.

The actress's daughter Tara has also spoken out against the claim by her brother Sacha Newley, and said she is "deeply upset" by his allegations against their late father.

Artist Sacha said: "He was a paedophile. My father was drawn to youthfulness. He thought innocence was an aphrodisiac."

Dame Joan, 84, said: "This is absolutely untrue. I have nothing further to add."

Tara, 54, said: "I was shocked by my brother's comments."

"From my end, I don't recognise the man he is describing. I had an incredibly close relationship with my father and am deeply upset by these false allegations."

Actor and singer-songwriter Newley, who died aged 67 in 1999 following a battle with cancer, was Dame Joan's second husband. They were married in 1963 but divorced seven years later. Sacha, 52, said that his father's 1969 film Can Heironymus Merkin Ever Forget

NOEL EDMONDS: seeking £300m in damages

Noel Edmonds seeks huge payout from Lloyds TSB for alleged loan fraud

TV host Noel Edmonds was in court this week to hear the former chairman of Lloyds defend his decision to buy the failing HBOS bank.

Lloyds TSB shareholders are suing Sir Victor Blank, claiming they were "mugged" after losing £550million when the Lloyds board recommended the 2009 deal without disclosing the true financial state of HBOS.

Mr Edmonds, 68, pictured outside the High Court in London, is also taking legal action against Lloyds Banking Group for up to £300million compensation for an alleged loan fraud which he claims destroyed his Unique Group business.

'bitter disappointment'

Sir Victor was being questioned by lawyers for a group of 5,803 former Lloyds TSB shareholders who are also suing the bank's former chief executive Eric Daniels, former chief financial officer Tim Tookey, one-time director of retail banking Helen Weir and George Truett Tate, ex-director of wholesale banking.

Asked if the acquisition had not proved to be a "bitter disappointment", Sir Victor said: "I can understand shareholders would be very disappointed that shares went down and not up."

He also said that if Lloyds had not proceeded, the Government would have had to nationalise HBOS. The hearing continues.

'King Stanley's throne' sold at auction

A WOODEN tribal throne presented to football great Sir Stanley Matthews when he was hailed unofficial "King of Ghana" has sold at auction for £850.

The carved ceremonial seat was made for Matthews when he played in Africa in 1956. As the first European Footballer of the Year, he starred in a series of exhibition matches to celebrate the country's independence – and was mobbed by 80,000 fans. The man known as the wizard of dribble was named a "soccer chief" and ceremonially crowned.

The throne went under the hammer as part of a collection owned by the star's daughter Jean Matthews-Gough. An

Born in Hanley, Stoke-on-Trent, Sir Stanley gained legendary status with Stoke City and Blackpool, playing almost 700 games for them, and won 54 England

Meet A Member: Emma Patterson

Meet Emma Patterson from Chorley in Lancashire, who moved to L.A seven years ago to be an entertainment journalist.

Was there a particular reason you chose L.A?
The weather! After eleven years of commuting across London in the wet and cold I leapt at the chance to go freelance in the SoCal sunshine!

What do you miss most from home?
Sunday roasts, British bacon and cosy nights in front of a fire.

What was your first impression of L.A and has it changed since?
My first impression was the incredible optimism of the people I met here. I'd come from a hard-nosed newspaper background, so being surrounded by high-energy people with a 'we can do anything' attitude really helped boost my confidence.

The change was seeing how quickly people can lose momentum and enthusiasm for what they set out to do. That said, I've learnt many great lessons because of this.

What do you find the biggest difference living here versus London and Lancashire?
There's less need to explain your self in L.A. Here you can be a chef, a poet, a Reiki master and a dog walker and nobody would blink an eyelid. In fact, the more jobs you have the more interesting people think you are. In England, we prefer to choose one career, stick to it and get as good as we can at it.

Do you have a hidden gem in L.A that you want to share with us?
My favourite hidden gem is Mart Collective on Lincoln Blvd in Venice. A huge warehouse stuffed full of vintage and collectors pieces from every era and all around the world – and at great prices!

Also, taco trucks! They're delicious, cheap, and usually knock spots off restaurant tacos.

What would you suggest to others who

EMMA PATTERSON: the host of the Drinky Fun Time podcast advises those thinking of making the move to Los Angeles to 'be brave and take the leap'.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Be very low key this week and make no waves over anything as the situation will be here for at least a week ahead. Then it will be time to enjoy and relax what your ruler Mars brings to you as he moves into Scorpio. You are a natural leader. Let the ones who matter see you take charge now.

TAURUS: Write a list of priorities and start with the biggest as your ruler Venus just might be helping you as the month progresses - especially in romance and relationships. You need to slow down and get ready for the best month ahead.

GEMINI: Jupiter in your house of relationships and creativity has had you under his thumb recently. You should prepare to make decisions or change your mind about a past choice. Mercury your boss starts trekking backwards this weekend.

CANCER: Time to make peace or amends with anyone or anything that has caused you upset as chances are you did not see the picture clearly. Getting anything achieved otherwise will not happen as fast as you would wish.

LEO: The good news is that whatever has been dragging for a while in your overall life is getting ready for changes. The good vibes from Jupiter will accelerate for you to take positive action. Your family events will be much in the limelight now.

VIRGO: If you find yourself feeling less than stellar these next few days it's Mars stirring up your emotions. So be kind to yourself and try very hard not to worry. By mid-month when your boss Mercury goes forward all will be resolved and you will be ready for new adventures.

LIBRA: The main lesson for all Libra people is to make a decision and stick with it. This does not mean be stubborn just so you can prove your point. If this does not ring true for you this week it will be from someone else in your life. Jupiter in your money house will bring better cash flow.

SCORPIO: Life has been far from easy for several months now, however the time for change is this week. It is not the easy achievements in life that form your character, so no one can say you are not willing to fight for what you desire, however do not make any swift decisions; be patient as all is not as it appears.

SAGITTARIUS: We all need to be reassured at times even if we are pretty sure of the outcome. Next few days ahead be ready to change plans at short notice. You are nearly done with a three-year cycle and you will be tested on what you need to let go of or embrace new. Happy Birthday.

CAPRICORN: New beginnings may be much on your mind this next week or so, even if it is only a new slant on something already in motion. Better be ready and willing to move on it immediately. By the end of the new month you will reap the rewards.

AQUARIUS: Travel is highlighted for you this month. You may be going to a couple of distant places; if so prepare well. This is also the best time to plan ahead for a family or friends reunion. Communication with others should be short and sweet.

PISCES: You are maybe a bit weary of the day-to-day routine and maybe a bit fed up. Best take note now and take time for yourself. Finances could be involved by New Year and then no more worries.

Queens of Georgian Britain: far from mannequins

■ Exclusive interview with author Catherine Curzon about her new book on the queens of kings named George

"I think Georgian Britain is the most fascinating time in the nation's history," says Queens of Georgian Britain author Catherine Curzon.

"The dawning of the Age of Enlightenment, of celebrity culture, of a new way of governing and a new ruling House from another land. When I wrote Kings of Georgian Britain, there was never any question in my mind that it would end there. The queens led such fascinating lives and are all too often eclipsed by their husbands, so it was important to me that I tell their stories."

Queens of Georgian Britain covers over a century of British history, but not in chronological order. It's about the women who ruled alongside four different kings named George. All the kings had quirks and their crowned queens did too. There are scandals, drama, arranged marriages, illness, affairs and political disputes that affect both Britain and Europe. Explore the lives of Sophia Dorothea of Celle, Caroline of Ansbach, Charlotte of Mecklenburg-Strelitz and Caroline of Brunswick.

"They weren't mannequins at the side of powerful men," says Curzon. "But important figures in their own right. Some, like Charlotte of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, chose to step into the background. Others, like Caroline of Ansbach, were determined to be just as political as their kings, if sometimes a little more subtle than the men in their lives."

"There was the ill-fated Sophia Dorothea of Celle," says Curzon. "Locked away for thirty years by her husband, George I, after she had a romance with a dashing nobleman. My favorite has to be Caroline of Brunswick though. Caroline was married to George IV, and was a real good-time girl. She left him and toured Europe kicking up her heels and getting into all sorts of entanglements with a strapping Italian soldier. George and Caroline hated each other, spent more than twenty years being very sharp thorns in each other's increasingly corpulent sides."

For research, Curzon read diaries and papers of the era in her spare time. Her research for the book Kings also informed Queens. It included trips to Windsor Castle and Bath, as well as long hours reading the letters of Queen Charlotte, and reports from Dr Willis, George III's fearsome physician.

"One of the joys of writing nowadays is the wealth of documents that are available online, particularly now the Georgian Papers project is digitizing papers from the era for general use," says Curzon. "The electronic newspaper archives available to researchers these days save hours and hours too, not to mention my eyesight. The collections of the British Library have been utterly invaluable in all of my writing, as well as field trips to Chatsworth and Brighton Pavilion, among others."

Queens of Georgian Britain is Curzon's third non-fiction book, after Life in the Georgian Court (2016) and Kings of Georgian Britain (2017). Both were named Book of the Month by Majesty magazine. Curzon has written three novels and a short story, The Angel on the Northern Line, about a superhero in 1950s London who retires to teach Latin. Her first novel was The Crown Spire, a tale of Edinburgh highwaymen. Followed by a French Revolutionary gay romance, The Star of Versailles. Her third novel is The Mistress of Blackstairs, about a brothel madam in 18th century Covent Garden.

BOOK CORNER with Gabrielle Pantera

Curzon lives on a very steep hill in West Yorkshire, near Brontë country. She was born and raised in Nottinghamshire, near Lord Byron's neighborhood at Newstead Abbey.

Christmas Party news....plus the nuts and bolts of THAT interview from one of our members....

GREETINGS BREEPS!

We are SO excited about this year's holiday party in collaboration with Bordo at NYLA on Melrose. Bordo is a chic made-to-order men's brand and this year's theme is a Warholian Factory Party in their 1960's art space celebrating art in Los Angeles. Renowned British artist Katie Brightside will be creating an in-house instillation in collaboration with our guests. We will also have some fantastic photographers milling around and ample photo opportunities.

The fun kicks off at 8pm on Wednesday, December 6th. Tickets are available on eventbrite.com but because the url is too long for a print just search for Brits in LA Holiday Party. We thankfully will have some wonderful British food and beer from those fine folks at Yorkshire Square Brewery on tap as well as wine and cocktails provided by Jonathan Ratter of Cocktails for Cures. And thanks to our kind friends at Air New Zealand we will be auctioning off two round-trip economy tickets to London on the night (Certain restrictions and blackout dates may apply). All of this is made possible courtesy of our wonderful sponsor Beltran Brito Immigration Attorneys.

Speaking of...

Have you ever wondered the interview is like to become a U.S. citizen? More and more Brits in LA members are biting the bullet and going for it. Quiz master Sandro Monetti become one last week and Eileen and I have been fully-fledged Americans for five or six years now. But we wondered with the current administration what it's like today, so we asked one of wonderful longtime members to tell us about his experience.

Marc Conneely has been a member of Brits in LA since he moved from London back in 2010. Marc is an entrepreneur; he launched MTV worldwide, becoming President, MTV China and now runs Maroxx Luxury Lifestyle Products, which is perfect for Christmas gifts (www.maroxx.com).

Here is his story:

"Under US immigration rules a green card holder can apply for US citizenship after five years of living in the States. I knew it would once again require a 'bowling ball' of paperwork, references, background checks and biometrics. It would also call for face-to-face interviews, culminating in a US Nationalisation interview where the applicant would be grilled on US history, politics, etc. I almost gave up - I love California and the US, but under the Trump administration and his obtuse views on immigration, I would feel a whole lot better if I was a citizen, so I stayed with it.

I was also relieved to discover, if successful,

I would not have to surrender my UK or Irish passports.

I got the date for the Nationalization interview two months ago; it was to take place at Noon, Tuesday, Nov 7, 2017, at the Federal Building, downtown, Los Angeles.

Over the nine weeks leading up to the interview, I went to bed with Thomas Jefferson, Susan B. Anthony, Woodrow Wilson, Alexander Hamilton, Franklin Roosevelt and dozens more.

I was very nervous on the day and felt quite a bit of 'Irish immigrant history.' Of course, it was nowhere near as horrifying as Ellis Island, in Upper New York Bay, when over 12 million immigrants moved to the United States for sixty years between, 1892 until 1954. I certainly thought of the times when my six siblings and I joked with my dad that he should never have got off that boat at Hull to spend 'one night with his cousin' in Huddersfield, but ending up staying 50 years; he should have sailed all the way to Massachusetts.

I took a local attorney with me who turned out to be much more anxious than me. Although American born, she was of Korean descent and seen far too many people fail the final hurdle - the nationalization interview. The grey Federal Building is next to an over-night/short stay prison, full of armed sub-machine gun carrying guards, just an unpleasant, scary place; you'd never see it recommended as a rendezvous for a match. com first date.

We had to sit in a large waiting room for over two hours with what seemed like a 'representative' of every nation under the sun. Many left in tears and told to re-apply, one poor soul was hand-cuffed, and no doubt detained, 'next door.' I was hot, sticky and needed a shower.

I was interviewed for one hour by an efficient but friendly looking woman; the most ruthless assassins, are always 'efficient but friendly looking women.'

She had a big file on me and asked over 100 questions on work, my dates of travel, speeding tickets, tax, last ten years of addresses, etc. Amazingly the old favorite, 'Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist party' - yep, long after 1947 and McCarthyism, is still in there.

The trick I was informed about the nationalisation interview; they have all the information and answers and are looking for a lie, just one lie - then, you're out.

She then asked random questions about American history, geography, politics, etc. Here are the ten questions I got. Answers at the bottom in red; have a go before you look at the answers, no peeking!

- 1) When was the Constitution written?
- 2) What did Susan B. Anthony do?
- 3) What do we call the first ten amendments to the Constitution?
- 4) Who said 'give me liberty or give me death'?
- 5) Name the two largest rivers in America?
- 6) What did the Emancipation Proclamation do?

- 7) Why does the US flag have 13 stripes?
- 8) What is the State capital of California?
- 9) What territory did the US buy from France in 1803?
- 10) House of Representatives has how many voting members?

She informed me I had answered all the questions correctly, got up and said she would be right back.

After five minutes she came back with a copy of The Declaration of Independence, handed it to me and said five words, I will treasure:

"Mr. Conneely, welcome to America".

Beauty and the Beast Premiere to benefit Give Kids Panto

Lythgoe Family's latest production in limited engagement at Pasadena Civic • 14 performances only from Dec.13 - Christmas Eve

The Pasadena Playhouse and Lythgoe Family Panto have announced that the world premiere of Beauty and the Beast – A Christmas Rose at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium will benefit Give Kids Panto, a non-profit educational program, serving yearly over 5,000 Title 1 students across America, many of whom will see theatre for the first time through this program.

The event is scheduled for Wednesday, December 13th will coincide with the opening night of the panto, which stars Kelli Berglund as Belle, Jonah Platt as The Beast; James Snyder as Gus and Gedde Watanabe as Marcel. The production also stars John Tartaglia as Louis Vuitton, Jared Gertner as Pierre and Harrison White as Dame Chanel. The show will run through December 24th.

All funds raised at the premiere will go to support panto student matinees for LAUSD and PUSD students. The Give Kids Panto program raises funds so that theatre production companies can add a student matinee to their performance schedule. Give Kids Panto supply the bus, organize the bus and buy the tickets to the performance for these shows.

The benefit includes a VIP pre-show reception at Noor, located in Paseo Colorado, including hors d'oeuvres, desserts and beverages.

Kris and Becky Lythgoe, producers of the event, said: "We are so excited to be able to offer over 5000 students across America the opportunity to see live theatre, many for the very first time. With the help of our generous sponsors and passionate board, we are afforded the opportunity to introduce kids from underserved communities and beyond to experience the arts."

Previously Lythgoe Family Panto productions include A Cinderella Christmas, Peter Pan and Tinker Bell – A Pirates Christmas, Sleeping Beauty and Her Winter Knight, and A Snow White Christmas. And the success of the Lythgoes in introducing this quintessentially British entertainment to Americans is demonstrated by the fact that this is their largest season yet, with four different productions playing concurrently in Laguna, Pasadena, San Diego and Houston.

The pre-show reception begins at 6pm at Noor, located in Paseo Colorado. Curtain is 7.30pm. Tickets are priced at $100.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by MARIAN KLEBANOFF AKA MARIAN LOUISE DAL PIAZ in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that MARIAN

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act . (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.)
The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 12/13/17 at 8:30AM in Dept. 9 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. Aussie antics will motivate us for Second Test - Root England will use Australia’s behaviour after winning the first Ashes Test as motivation for the second match in Adelaide on Saturday, says Joe Root.

Following the England’s ten wicket loss on Monday, Aussie captain Steve Smith was captured laughing in the news conference as opener Cameron Bancroft described being ‘headbutted’ by England’s Jonny Bairstow in a bar.

“You are disappointed to see a reaction like that in a press conference,” said England skipper Root, 26.

“If that’s not motivation to the players, I don’t know what is.”

Both Bairstow and Bancroft described the incident in Perth in October as without “malice”, but Root and coach Trevor Bayliss had to defend England’s players following the defeat in Brisbane.

The second Test of the five-match series begins at 04:00 GMT on Saturday at the Adelaide Oval, with England desperate to get back on track after a first Test lost that did not accurately reflect the closeness of the contest.

And Root’s men will also be eager to show they are not intimidated by the short Australian bowling which caused the tail to collapse in both England innings. The pitch at Adelaide is known for being faster than Brisbane’s, meaning more of the same – and possibly worse – lies ahead.

And in midweek it emerged that England seamer James Anderson had asked the umpire if Australia’s bowling was dangerous during the first Test.

Anderson, England’s number 11, was batting when number 10 Jake Ball received five successive bouncers in the second innings.

Under the laws of the game, umpires are allowed to intervene if they deem bowling to be dangerous.

“I mentioned it to umpire Marais Erasmus, but he didn’t think it was too bad,” Anderson, 35, told BBC Sport.

“We have to plan to get a barrage, which we are doing.”

Nathan Redmond has insisted that Pep Guardiola had only praise for him in a bizarre confrontation between the pair after Manchester City's 2-1 win over Southampton Wednesday night at the Etihad.

The City head coach pushed Redmond in the chest and shouted angrily at the Southampton winger after the home side's dramatic win at the Etihad Stadium on Wednesday. But Redmond denied one lip-reader's claim that he had sworn at Guardiola.

The 23-year-old said on Twitter: "He [Guardiola] was very passionate, intense and aggressive but he was only very complimentary and positive to me."

TEMPER TEMPER: Antonio Conte was sent to the stands Wednesday night

Conte facing FA charge

Chelsea manager Antonio Conte has been charged by the Football Association with misconduct following his dismissal against Swansea City.

The Blues boss was sent to the stands in the 43rd minute of his side's 1-0 Premier League victory on Wednesday. Conte watched the entire second half on a dressing-room TV after disputing the referee's decision not to award a corner when the game was goalless.

He has until 18:00 GMT on Tuesday to respond to the charge, the FA says. The Italian apologised for his behaviour after the match at Stamford Bridge. He said: "I was frustrated. I made a mistake. During the game I suffer. With my players I suffer. It's a pity. I apologise for this."

Pep praises Sterling self belief

Manchester City manager Pep Guardiola says Raheem Sterling's new self-belief is behind his brilliant form after seeing him sink Southampton with a 96th-minute winner.

Sterling's 13th goal of the season gave City a club-record 12th successive Premier League victory which restores their eight-point lead at the top of the table.

Sterling had scored decisive late goals in City's previous two wins, over Feyenoord and Huddersfield, but his third strike of the week was his most dramatic of the lot, and sparked wild celebrations from City boss Pep Guardiola and his bench.

"Raheem is a match-winner, it was a fantastic goal, I am so happy for him," Guardiola said.

"As I have said many times, he is making steps. Before he was a little bit more shy and he did not believe, but now he can do that. "I think his team-mates give him the confidence and say 'we trust in you' but then you have to have the personality to do what he did in the last minute." The referee Paul Tierney spoke to Guardiola to calm him down before play restarted and the City boss admitted he lost control of his emotions.

"I apologised, I could not control it," he added. "I was so happy like all the fans and all the players. I wanted to run behind 'Ras', but I am not fast enough. We are so happy."

City had taken the lead at the start of the second half when Saints defender Virgil van Dijk got the final touch on Kevin de Bruyne's free-kick.

But it appeared Saints got their reward for a determined display when Oriol Romeu swept home Sofiane Boufal's pull-back with 15 minutes remaining.

Sterling, who is enjoying the most prolific season of his career, had other ideas. He had already seen a goal disallowed for a foul on Saints keeper Fraser Forster moments earlier, but was not to be denied - cutting in from the left, exchanging passes with De Bruyne and bending the ball past Fraser Forster.

in the quarter-finals by Portugal during Sven-Goran Eriksson's reign. "Our last two tournaments have been a disappointment," said Southgate, who took over following Sam Allardyce's short-lived spell in charge last year.

"We've got to remember where we are starting from with this group of young players. But equally they're fiercely ambitious, everything is ahead of them and it's not for me to put a limit on their expectations."

Southgate confirmed England will be based in Repino, which is about 50km from St Petersburg, no matter what happens in Friday's draw.

"The longest flight is three hours, we do that on a bus journey from St George's Park for our games at Wembley, for us that's neither here nor there," said Southgate.

Southgate earned 57 caps for his country between 1995 and 2004, and said he is able to draw on his experiences of playing at three major tournaments.

"There is enough tension around tournaments anyway without the manager adding to that. It's important for the players to feel relaxed on

Roo's blue heaven!

■ Hat trick capped by wonder strike gives new manager Allardyce a golden start

Wayne Rooney gave new manager Sam Allardyce the best possible start to life at Goodison with a hat trick as Everton thrashed West Ham 4-0.

And the former Manchester United star capped his scoring with possibly the goal of the season, hammering the ball home from inside his own half following Joe Hart's scrambled clearance. The win moves the Merseysiders up four places to 13th in the table.

"It was one of the best goals I've ever scored," he said. "I hit it as well as I've ever hit a football. To make it my first Everton hat-trick was special. It was a perfect moment."

Hammers manager David Moyes, who saw midfielder Manuel Lanzini's penalty saved by Jordan Pickford when West Ham trailed 2-0, was left to rue a terrible first half from the Londoners at his former club.

Rooney headed in the rebound after Hart saved his penalty for the game's opener, and swept in his second 10 minutes later after good build-up from youngsters Jonjoe Kenny and Tom Davies.

Defender Ashley Williams added the fourth late on, powering a header beyond Hart from a corner as West Ham remain in 18th position.

Everton had to withstand sustained pressure after the break when the introduction of Diafra Sakho helped West Ham rally.

But caretaker manager David Unsworth - who will return to coaching the club's under-23s - signed off his eight-game spell since Ronald Koeman's sacking in October with a deserved

Southgate: I won't write off World Cup

England manager Gareth Southgate says his side "cannot go to a World Cup and not try to win it".

The draw for next summer's tournament in Russia took place after press time, with the Three Lions in the second pot of seeded teams.

It will be Southgate's first major finals in charge of the national team.

"We've got to attempt to win each game, be as prepared as we can be, and see how far we can go," the 47-year-old told reporters.

"Of course, a lot of these players are going to peak in two to four years' time, but we can't just write off the tournament. I don't think anyone in England would accept that.

"We can't go to a World Cup and not try to win it."

England have not won a knockout game at a major tournament since the 2006 World Cup in Germany, when they were beaten
