WORST SNOW FOR 30 YEARS

■ Four dead, widespread travel chaos and worse to come as Arctic storm tightens grip

FRIGID BRITAIN was left shivering by one of the worst winter storms in living memory this week as it was hit by a double whammy of a polar vortex and a huge front of moist air.

First on the scene was the so-called "Beast From The East", a polar vortex of exceptionally cold air, which originated in the Arctic before barreling into Western Europe on Monday, bringing prolonged blizzards and freezing temperatures. But as the snowfall began to ease, the misery increased with the arrival of Storm Emma, a large front of moist air arriving from the southwest. As the two fronts collided, Britain was hammered by its heaviest snowfall in years with temperatures dipping as low as -15c.

At least six people had died as a result of the weather at press time and experts predict this winter's long big freeze could cause the highest death toll for 20 years. A car crash in Lincolnshire on Tuesday caused the deaths of three people. A fourth person died after a three-car collision Peterborough, near Cambridgeshire. in There were 20 collisions within three hours on Lincolnshire's roads including one involving a school bus with 45 pupils on board, police said. The children were unharmed after the bus collided with a car and veered off an icy road near Deeping St

MEANWHILE, BACK IN GLENCOE: Overnight snowfall left the highland town coated in a blanket of white

Heavy snow affected railway services leading to delays and cancellations while British Airways cancelled dozens of flights. Southeastern cancelled train journeys to London St Pancras, London Victoria and Cannon Street, with Southern, Greater Anglia and Great Northern services all disrupted.

Forecasters warned

Storm Emma, due to hit on Thursday night, would bring misery to "millions more of us". It was expected to sweep a huge volume of moisture in from the Atlantic bringing the "worst freezing event for years".

Sara Thornton, director of digital weather service weathertrending, said: "The Beast from the East will tighten its grip as the week goes on.

"Gale-force winds and super-cooled freezing rain could turn parts of the UK into an ice rink by the weekend.

'lethal glaze'

"So far the north and east of the country have borne the brunt of the snow, but now the arrival of Storm Emma will bring the white stuff to millions more of us on Friday.

"Gales will come with the snow, bringing blizzard conditions to some southern and western parts of the UK that have so far been spared the snow.

"Some places could receive a foot of powdery snow, which could blow into much deeper drifts. Driving conditions will be cont. on page 2, col. 1 positively dangerous, with widespread transport and communication disruption expected.

"The danger will be greatest in areas that see warmer air tussling with the big freeze. Here we're likely to see super chilled water fall as rain – only to freeze instantly as it hits the ground.

"The result could be an invisible, lethal glaze on roads and pavements."

When it collided with freezing temperatures of the Arctic front, it dumped huge amounts of snow onto Britain, causing two food drifts in places.

According to Simon Clark, researcher of stratosphere-troposphere interactions in Bristol, the current cold snap was triggered by a disruption to the stratospheric polar vortex — a doughnut of air 3,800 miles across that forms high up in the atmosphere above the Arctic Circle every winter.

Now and again perhaps six times every decade - the vortex gets split in two, a phenomenon known as sudden stratospheric warming. The disruption allows icy Arctic air to spread further south, often lowering temperatures across much of the northern hemisphere.

"That big mass of Arctic air -- which is normally trapped over the poles, so it's really freezing cold -- is then able to spill further south," Clark told CNN.

Conditions are expected to improve by the end of the weekend, but average temperatures across the UK could remain lower than normal over the next month as the polar air gradually returns to the Arctic

Clark expects Europe to feel the effects of disruptions to the vortex more often as the global climate continues to warm.

"It's very difficult to say for sure whether this one event was caused by climate change," he said, "but as the climate warms, we expect the polar vortex to get weaker.... We will then see more of these sudden warmings."

Stay inside till it's over, Britons urged

BRITONS have been urged to say in their homes if possible to ride out the worst of this week's winter weather as snow and ice caused havoc with transportation networks.

Flights were cancelled London City, Glasgow and Newcastle airports with more than 100 grounded at London's Heathrow on Wednesday and most railway operators were hit leading to long delays and cancellations on Britain's train networks. More than 4,000 schools across the nation were closed Wednesday due to the bad weather closures in many areas expect to continue to the weekend.

Met Office chief forecaster Andy Page said roads blocked from Cornwall to northern Scotland with rural communities especially hard hit – some being cut off for days.

Freezing conditions and blizzards have also knocked out power supplies in several areas with disruption to mobile phone signals also possible, he said.

Britain is facing the longest cold snap in decades with freezing temperatures set to hold out until mid-March in parts, the Met Office said. The severe weather is being driven by a "sudden stratospheric warming" of air over the North Pole. Met Office meteorologist Frank Saunders, said: "Parts of England and Wales are likely to see their coldest spell of weather since at least 2013, and possibly since 1991."

Health officials have reiterated warnings to take extra care with the weather likely to cause a surge in winter deaths. Exacta Weather forecaster James Madden said: "We are experiencing a severe snow event with further downpours forecast through the rest of the week. "Nowhere is going to escape the very heavy showers, it is not unreasonable to expect a couple of feet of snow to settle, there could be even more with drifting. "We are looking at one of the worst snow events in South certainly since 2010 but we could have to go as far back as 1991 to see something on a similar scale."

Malcolm Booth, chief executive of the National Federation of Occupational Pensioners, said: "We would urge people to stock up now before the weather gets too bad and it becomes dangerous to get out and about."

Temperatures plunged to -8.9C (16F) in Hampshire on Monday night and lows of -15C were recorded in several locations during the week.

Farage wants job linking up with 'friendly' Trump

■ Former UKiP leader revels in hero's welcome at CPAC

NIGEL Farage has called on Theresa May to give him a role in helping to build relations with the US after he rekindled his friendship with Donald Trump.

The former Ukip leader has just completed a three-day trip to Washington where he and the US President traded political gossip and discussed Brexit. The two met at the Conservative Political Action conference where they were snapped together having a drink after Mr Trump's big speech.

Mr Farage said: "He just came off stage and said, 'Hey!' It was very friendly and jolly. He's a very loyal man. "In public you're now seeing the Donald Trump I know in private.

"It was the first time he made a self-deprecating remark about his hair.

"My impression is he's really enjoying the presidency."

'fantastic connections'

Mr Farage said that the US President is "very curious" about British politics.

"He's very interested in Brexit, he believed in Brexit. He's watching the Brexit process very carefully." Two concerns were apparently raised over the proposed UK/ US trade deal and Mr Trump's State visit.

"The basic question is, how long is this all going to take?" said Mr Farage. He also discussed freetrade deals with US Commercial Secretary Wilbur Ross and met Education Secretary Betsy DeVos. And he held talks with three influential White House advisers - John Kelly, Kellyanne Conway and Stephen Miller.

Previously, Mr Trump has suggested that the former Ukip leader should be Britain's ambassador to the US. In

Asthma girl, 5, died after GP sent her away for being five minutes late

A CORONER has slammed a GPs' surgery for the "unacceptable" treatment of a girl who died after being refused an emergency appointment because she was five minutes late.

Five-year-old asthma sufferer EllieMay Clark was given the appointment after being carried home from school wheezing. Ellie-May was rushed to hospital in an ambulance later that night after an asthma attack but died shortly after, an inquest heard on Monday.

GP Dr Joanne Rowe had previously received a letter from a consultant warning that the youngster was at risk of "an episode of severe or life-threatening asthma", the hearing at Newport, South Wales was told. Despite the letter, Dr Rowe did not ask the reason behind her emergency appointment or look into her medical notes before refusing to see her.

On Monday, Gwent senior coroner Wendy James recorded a narrative

TRAGIC CASE: EllieMay Clark

conclusion and said it was "not acceptable" for Ellie-May to have been turned away without any clinical assessment or advice for what to do if her condition worsened. She added: "Ellie-May Clark died of natural causes where the opportunity to provide potentially life-saving treatment was missed."

After the ruling, grieving mother Shanice Clark, of Newport, hit out at the inquest findings. She said: "I'm disappointed that the coroner ruled out neglect. "I will have to live with the fact that my little girl was sent home to die by a doctor who refused to see her because we were a few minutes late.

"I want justice for Ellie-May and I want to make sure this doesn't happen to another child somewhere else. "I'm glad the doctor has apologised – it was nice of her – but I've waited three years for that."

Earlier, the inquest heard Ms Clark made a 5pm appointment on January 25, 2015 after her daughter was carried home from school wheezing. They arrived at the Grange Clinic in Newport five minutes late then waited in a queue at the reception desk for at least another five minutes. After a brief conversation with Dr Rowe, a receptionist told Ms Clark she had breached the surgery's 10-minute rule for lateness and should return the next day. Miss Clark said she checked on her daughter frequently that evening and when she found her in the throes of an attack rang 999 immediately. She tried to give Ellie-May her inhaler but the child couldn't take it. The inquest heard Dr Rowe could have asked another doctor to see Ellie-May, or have seen her after her patient had left and could have spoken to the doctor who arranged the emergency appointment for her. When asked why she had not done so, she replied: "I don't know. I was busy seeing to the other patient that I had with me."

She said she would have acted differently if she had seen Ellie-May's notes or known the reason for the appointment. Dr Rowe received a warning from the General Medical Council.

Charles will have to fly solo on tour of Oz

■ Aides admitted that Camilla, 70, refused because join Prince onn Tour because 'she'does not like flying'

The Duchess of Cornwall will not accompany Prince Charles on a royal tour around Australia to avoid internal flights because she is scared of flying.

She will travel to Brisbane with her husband for the Commonwealth Games opening on April 4 but will leave three days later - dodging a fourday trip that would have involved several flights between Vanuatu, Cairns, Gove and Darwin.

Clarence House denied the decision by Camilla, who turned 70 last year, is a snub to the Queen's subjects in Australia.

A spokesman said: 'It's quite a gruelling tour, with some fantastic places for the prince to visit. Her last tour there was in 2013.

Asked whether she should only go for two days, the spokesman added: 'Better than not. She decided a few weeks ago to firm up her plans. We were always looking at the Duchess coming.

'There are no health reasons [for her pulling out after two days]. She is as fit as a flea. The Duchess does not like flying but I think she sometimes has to embrace that fear and get on with it.'

Charles will continue the tour alone for a further four days on a schedule that will require lots of internal flights.

He will travel on to the Pacific nation of Vanuatu, before returning to Australia - where his mother is head of state to visit Cairns, Gove and Darwin, and making his own way back to the UK.

A spokeswoman for the duchess admitted vesterday that she had only recently decided to attend the Games after weeks of speculation in Australia, but insisted that she should be applauded for going despite her wellknown fear of flying.

The couple's trip will be paid for by the Australia Government.

Charles and Camilla will travel out on commercial flights to Singapore, where they will be picked by up an Australian Royal Air Force plane.

Camilla will then travel back to London from Australia on another commercial flight.

Younger girlfriend dumps two-timing McGregor

EWAN McGREGOR's love life has been much reported on in the British press this week amid reports the actor has been dumped by his much younger girlfriend and the star is now desperate to reconcile with his wife.

But that's the first the former Mrs. McGregor has heard of it.

Reacting supposed split, McGregor's wife of 22 years, Eve Mavrakis, took to social media to say: "No, I hadn't heard. I really don't know," suggesting it's news to her and quite possibly the four daughters they share together too.

It comes on the back of Ewan leaving her for his Fargo co-star Mary with rumours of a relationship surfacing after the pair were seen kissing. Then came bizarre acceptance speech at last month's Golden Globes when the 46-year-old thanked both Mary and Eve individually as he took to the stage to pick up his Best Actor In A Mini Series gong. According to a US publication the 33-year-old decided to call time on the relationship because "Mary hated being labelled a home wrecker and the embarrassment it caused her.

"It's sad because a year ago Ewan and his wife were in great shape and then he decided to throw it all away for

Film veteran Lewis Gilbert dead at 97

■ British director best known for helming Alfie and a trio of Bond flicks

Lewis Gilbert, the British director of a string of celebrated films including the 1966 Michael Caine hit Alfie and The Spy Who Loved Me, arguably the high point of the Roger Moore James Bond era, has died aged 97.

producers Bond G <sup>1</sup> Michael Wilson and Barbara Broccoli confirmed Gilbert's death in a statement. "It is with great sadness that we learn of the passing of our dear friend Lewis Gilbert," they said. "Lewis was a true gentleman. He made an enormous contribution to the British film industry as well as the Bond films, directing You Only Live Twice, The Spy Who Loved Me and Moonraker. His films are not only loved by us but are considered classics within the series. He will be sorely missed."

documentaries

Gilbert was born in Hackney in 1920 into a family of music hall artistes, and became a child actor in the 1930s, appearing in Dick Turpin and two Alexander Korda produced films, Over the Moon and The Divorce of Lady X. However his interest lay more in behind the camera roles, and while he was appearing with Laurence Olivier in The Divorce of Lady X (1938) Korda, the producer, offered to send him to Rada. Gilbert replied that he would rather direct and so was sent to Korda's Denham studios in Buckinghamshire as a third assistant director. He graduated up the scale, working with Alfred Hitchcock on Jamaica Inn (1939) – "He was the man I learned the most from" - and with a variety of studios, eventually becoming a first assistant.

He cut his teeth making documentaries during the war, attached to the US Air Corps Film Unit, and broke into low-budget features after he was demobbed. Emergency Call, from 1952, was considered his breakthrough, allowing him to command bigger budgets and more expensive material. Reach for the Sky, the biopic of double amputee air ace Douglas Bader made a particular impact, as Gilbert profited from the burgeoning interest in heroic stories about the second world war. Carve Her Name With Pride (1958) and Sink the Bismarck! (1960) followed in a similar vein.

Gilbert's career stepped up another level in 1966 with the release of Alfie, adapted from a play by Bill Naughton about a working-class romeo. Not only did Alfie make a star of Michael Caine as well as a box-office success, but it was a critical and awards darling (winning the Jury prize at Cannes and receiving five Oscar nominations) as well as being at the cutting edge of the swinging 60s. As Gilbert later wrote in the Guardian, Alfie "had a big effect on my career. I was offered everything; I was flavour of the month in Hollywood."

'a decent fellow'

progressed Gilbert straight on to the James Bond franchise, hired to direct You Only Live Twice in 1967, with scriptwriter Roald Dahl praising him as "a decent fellow" and for not interfering too much in the writing process. "What I admired so much about Lewis Gilbert was that he just took the screenplay and shot it. That's the way to direct: You either trust your writer or you don't."

Gilbert returned to Bond with The Spy Who Loved Me, in 1977 and Moonraker in 1979, which capitalised on the recent

LONG CAREER: Gilbert began his career working under Alfred Hitchcock in 1939 and enjoyed a long career, of which one of the later highlights was Educating Rita (below) which starred Julie Walters and Michael Caine publicity for the newly developed space shuttle, and sent Bond into orbit. Gilbert's highlights in the 1980s were both based on plays by Willy Russell: Educating Rita, for which Gilbert reunited with Caine alongside successful TV comic Julie Walters in her feature film debut, and Shirley Valentine, starring Pauline Collins as the housewife who has a mid-life rejuvenation.

Gilbert continued to work into his 80s, with Walters also featuring in Gilbert's final directorial credit: Before You Go in 2002, about three sisters who reunite after their mother's death.

Jaguar reveals first all-electric SUV

Jaguar has revealed the production version of its first all-electric SUV as luxury carmakers race to go green.

The I-Pace can reach 60mph in 4.5 seconds and has a range of almost 300 miles on a fully charged battery.

The vehicle is set to reach showrooms by July, potentially beating rival Audi's all-electric e-tron that is expected to be released "in the summer".

The I-Pace was designed in the UK but will be built in Austria.

It will go on display at the Geneva motor show later this month and cost £63,495 in the UK.

The I-Pace can charge up to 85% of its battery from a public power point in 85 minutes and takes about two hours for a full charge.

The car is the first allelectric SUV since Tesla unveiled its Model X in 2015.

Luxury carmakers are keen to make inroads into the market for clean energy vehicles as demand for fossil-fuel powered models wanes.

Last year, the government announced that new diesel and petrol cars and vans will be banned in the UK from 2040 in a bid to tackle air pollution.

Jaguar Land Rover said that every vehicle line it launches from 2020 will have an all-electric or hybrid version.

Germany's BMW is also planning all-electric models and hybrid vehicles and its first electric Mini will be released next year.

Jaguar said that its new I-Pace was inspired by its C-X75 supercar driven by the villainous Mr Hinx during a car chase in the James Bond film Spectre.

From Craggy Island to Paradise Island

By Sandro Monetti

Television viewers first fell in love with Ardal O'Hanlon in 90's sitcom "Father Ted," where he played dimwit priest Father Dougal on cold Irish outpost Craggy Island. Now the popular actor is back on a rather sunnier island as the new star of sun-kissed detective series "Death in Paradise."

The wildly popular British show returns to US screens for a seventh series on KCET from March 5th with Ardal as Detective Inspector Jack Mooney, the latest police chief on the fictional Caribbean island of Saint Marie.

Despite frequent cast changes - Ben Miller and Kris Marshall previously had the lead role - the crime series has become one of the BBC's biggest global hits. Here Ardal, 51, talks about filming Guadeloupe and what makes the show so popular"

The scripts for each episode are full of twists. Do you ever guess correctly who the murderer is?

I'm a little bit rubbish at that; I'll be honest with you. The scripts are so ingenious and they're designed to dumbfound you so I've never quite guessed correctly. Just when I think I know who it is, the rug is always pulled out from under my feet at the last minute!

The 'whodunnit' element is a big part of the show. It's definitely one of the attractions of the show. I'd like to tell you that I know who the murderer is from page one but it's not

Why else do you think Death in Paradise has Paradise puzzles. For example, in one episode, a murder is committed at an international poker tournament. How does my character solve a case when the suspects are all professional bluffers? Jack, who claims he's never played poker in his life and he doesn't know the first thing about it, which may or may not be true, has to get into the mind of a poker player. That's always his style. He tries to put himself in the suspects' shoes so has to learn the rudimental poker rules. Then that way he can figures out whose bluffing and who isn't.

What's it like filming in Guadeloupe? Do you ever get bored of the sunshine?

I've really grown to love the island; I've got to know it quite well. I absolutely treasure the weekend because that's when you can get out and explore. You can enjoy the sun and the sea and the rainforest. I'm really drawn to the rainforest there, the damp clammy rainforest that I go to week after week and stumble across beautiful waterfalls. They have natural pools at the end of them where you can cool down. It really is a magical place in so many ways. You never get bored of it! It's a long time to be away but it's an experience that I'll always treasure.

ARIES: Please keep a low profile this month as the planets are in turmoil and moving swiftly. They will start benefiting you in April. Best thing all round is start nothing till then unless you have to.

TAURUS: What a change in pace you are due for and in order to prepare for this second wind you have to clear all unfinished tasks to make space for the new. By the end of this month you will be able to chill out a little.

GEMINI: Time to plan a trip, either one long or several shorter ones. All of this is happening in the second part of the month. Until then make time to rest as after mid-month your life will be moving swiftly forward.

CANCER: Trees that don't bend in the wind soon come tumbling down. With this in mind it is time you ate some humble pie with someone close to you. If you are not flexible you will be heading for a fall.

LEO: Mars the fire planet in your cousin sign of Aries will bring a seething situation to a head, possibly concerning the finances of someone close to you. The good news is if you take control now of what you can you will be in good shape by April.

VIRGO: Any frustrations you have in any area of life (most likely at work) will not get better by taking your frustrations out on others around you. Mercury your unpredictable boss going forward now is demanding you stay cool and calm.

LIBRA: You are ready to for a very new and much healthier lifestyle and it's right on time for Spring. Once decided, (which is the hardest part) you will be raring to go forward. You can reach out to a close friend who may not be saying much but is not doing too good.

SCORPIO: Some good energy planets are gathered in your cousin sign of Pisces. As these are complimentary to you in several ways expect a person of interest to you romantically to contact you just when you least expect it.

SAGITTARIUS: Just watch that temper if things don't always go the way you planned; life is an adventure and you need to remember that child-like quality which is unique to you. You will be doing much better come the end of March. Love is in the air!

CAPRICORN: This could be the month that it all comes together or you let it go. You started this year with a solar eclipse in your sign which signals endings. Remember when one door closes another will swing open. By now you could be ready for very positive changes.

AQUARIUS: Mid-March starts a new opportunity to travel and change your life in a different way to what you expected but none the less good. You are ready for those changes in a good way career or personally. Keep it all low key in any work situation.

PISCES: You are reputed to be the most romantic soul and also the most sensitive and there are a lot of positive planets in your sign now. This means different things to each Pisces and overall it is a most creative time.

world! There's nothing you can do, I've tried everything - bite cream, lotion but after a while you stop putting it on. It's a minor distraction in the big scheme of things. You get used to everything, it's amazing! I amaze myself as to how I acclimatize to everything. I never thought I'd be able to survive the heat, humidity or the insects but it's all fine. I miss scratching now...

What do you get up to is swimming with turtles.

in your spare time when you're not filming? Does everyone hang out together?

It's very sociable and there's a big bunch of people, a mixture of British, French and local Guadeloupian so it's a great mix of people and you get to know them really well. On a lot of jobs, you only get to know them superficially but because you're together day after day, you build quite a close relationship. We tend to go on adventures together or sometimes we just rent a boat and muck about. One of the big attractions Seeing them up close is an amazing experience. We also go for hikes in the rainforest. When the guest cast come over we always like to show them a good time.

Where do we find DI Jack Mooney, at the beginning of series 7?

In this series, Jack's firmly established as the lead detective in Honore Police team. He's been on the island for a while and he's acclimatised but he's hit with the bombshell that his daughter, Siobhan, is leaving. She's going back to the UK to attend university. Jack is on his own in a way that he's never been before in his life. His wife has recently died and now his daughter is leaving him on the other side of the world, alone. He kind of has to grow up which is an odd thing for a middle aged man to do but I think he has to grow up emotionally. He depends quite a lot on his team and as a result gets to know them quite well." • New episodes of Death in Paradise will be screened on KCET each Monday at 8pm PT from March 5 with a second showing each Thursday at 9 pm PT.

It's always a lot of fun but it also means a ton of hard work. Approximately 100 Brits in LA members have just under a month and a budget of $250 to make five minute parodies of this year's Best Picture nominees. ## No matter what we really, really want....Spice Girls reunion plans have hit the buffers....!

Just thought "girl power" was making its comeback... The Spice Girls reunion could be in doubt after all, as talks on how to get them all together at the same time have hit the mega buffers.

Oo-er!

Ginger Spice Geri Horner admits the group - Posh, Scary, Sporty and Baby are struggling to agree on all the details for a return.

The band had been expected to get back together for a string of tour dates following a "successful" meeting at Geri's house in London earlier this month.

But Geri said on Monday: "Twenty years on, people move in different directions and have different priorities.

"I adore them but our commonality is different now.

"We all have a common ground of wanting to please our fans, focusing on the future and sharing our knowledge with the next generation.

"We are still working at how we are going to do it... so watch this space!"

power fans were ecstatic following the news of their first comeback since the London Olympics in 2012

But Geri's words warning come Victoria after Beckham also knocked down chances of them

Poshsaid: "Everybody got very excited, but there is no tour, there is no recording.

performing again.

"I think, for us, it's about protecting the legacy, and asking how we continue the girl power message.

that and pass it on to future generations?"

Instead it is thought the 90s chart-toppers may now focus on business opportunities including a TV series and a film about their rise to fame.

Reports suggest each member of the band could be in line for a £10million payday as they look to capitalize on the band's name and entertainment duo Ant McPartlin and Declan Donnelly are desperate to revive their acting careers and star in a blockbuster Hollywood movie together.

A source told the British Weekly's SBGLA column that, "It's very likely that the girls'll figure things out and the tour will still go ahead, these glitches often happen.'

And breathe...

Ant & Dec reveal secret Hollywood movie plans!

Oo-er!

The inseparable telly hosts known as Ant Dec admit would love a thev return to their Byker acting Grove roots.

The 42-year-old duo found fame after meeting as PJ and Duncan on Newcastle-based the children's television series in the late 80s.

They now plan to beef up one of their Saturday Night Takeaway "film" plot-lines to impress Tinseltown's bosses after seeing the rise of fellow Brit stars such as James Corden.

On a return to acting, Ant said: "We love it. That's where we started. It is a slightly different discipline for us and it reminds us of being back on Byker Grove."

The move back into acting comes as Ant continues to throw himself work into following his stint in rehab for drug addiction last year.

He added: "Let's not run before we can walk!

"Look, we'd love to do a movie but let's see..."

In the new Saturday Night Takeaway series starting on ITV this weekend, Ant and Dec will feature in a follow up to last year's The Missing Crown Jewels spoof drama, starring a host of celebs.

In 2006, they starred in their first feature film, Alien Autopsy, a funny reconstruction of the 1995 scandal which saw two British men fake footage of an alien

News of their acting return comes after it was revealed that Simon Cowell has asked the comedy couple to rerecord their former hit Let's Get Ready to Rhumble to mark 25 years since its release...

Hmmm, I'm not sure that's a very good idea... Hollywood is one thing... But as for a pop chart comeback, best leave well enough alone, boys!

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. ## England coach Jones finds Battle of Hastings tough to tolerate

EDDIE JONES says physically was and verbally abused following England's Calcutta Cup defeat at the weekend.

Scotland upset a strong English team in the Six Nations tournament amid a fervent nationalist atmosphere and the England coach appeared Scotland blame legend Gavin Hastings for sparking the trouble.

Jones was booed by Scotland fans post-match but that was nothing, he said, compared to the treatment he received on a train south from Edinburgh the day after.

Travelling standard class, Jones said he was jostled and baited and feared for his safety.

He referred to an interview Hastings had given in which the former Scotland fullback had said how much he would enjoy seeing Jones's face "rubbed in the dirt" after an England loss.

also There was a reference to 'everyone hates the English' comment of Scotland prop Simon Berghan.

"If you're in a position of responsibility you've got to be careful what you say because if you talk about hate and you talk about rubbing people's noses in the dirt, and all those sorts of things, it incites certain behaviours, and are they the sorts of behaviours we want to see?" said Iones.

"I'm a human being. I don't consider myself different from to travel on public okay. But I'll make sure I won't in future. It's as simple as that. I can't because it was shown on Sunday what happens when I do.

It wasn't comfortable. "I never knock back

When pressed whether the abuse had been verbal or physical, Jones replied: "A bit of both."

Weekend Football

Alan Pardew will remain in charge of West Brom for Saturday's Premier League trip to Watford despite being on the verge of losing his job.

Owner Guochuan Lai and chief executive Mark Jenkins agree they should continue to support Pardew despite Saturday's 2-1 home defeat by Huddersfield.

Nevertheless, there is serious concern at The Hawthorns over the Baggies' perilous position in the table.

Pardew's side are bottom of the Premier League, sever points from safety with 10 games remaining.

They have lost four league games in succession and have taken just eight points - and one win - from 14 Premier League matches since Pardew succeeded Tony Pulis.

JONES

No complaint was made to police. It was a sour end to a bad weekend for Jones, who was on his way to watch Manchester United play Chelsea in the company of another great Scot, Sir Alex Ferguson. He was able to help Jones rake over the coals of the shock loss. "He mentioned a lot of matches where things went wrong and a lot of the times you don't have a solution to it and that's the reality," said Jones.

"We all think we're clever but we're not so clever because our game's an inexact science. We don't have robots, we have human beings and on the day things can happen to people and we don't know why."

Back in camp in Oxford on Tuesday, Jones insisted there would be no wholesale changes, nor a redrawing of the power-based tactical template which has taken England to No2 in the world.

"The question is whether I'm going to go away from the type of rugby we're playing and the answer is no," he said. "We don't have the athletic ability to do it.

"I'm not a magician, mate. I have them for 13 weeks a year. I can't suddenly make them more athletic. All I can do is work with them as well as we can and try to maximize the rugby out of the players we have."

He did acknowledge England had to be smarter against France. "We got caught at the breakdown area," he said. "We play a little differently to what the players are used to playing. We don't play a formation or a pattern. It involves more decisionmaking for them.

"That means it is more difficult to do. Sometimes we are not as attentive to the decisionmaking as we need to be. "The problems we've got, I know we've got, and sometimes you can't fix them straight away, but there's no lack of attitude."

"We were (focused) and so far we make an amazing Premier League season."

Guardiola's side are now 30 points clear of Arsenal and, with their 16-point lead over Manchester United restored, could win the title in a little over a month when they face their city rivals on 7 April.

If they were to win the title that weekend it would be the earliest the Premier League title has ever been won.

"Mentally we were strong. We were clinical. We scored three outstanding goals," Guardiola said.

Spurs win in VAR-cical style

A TOUGH JOB MADE WORSE: Wednesday was a difficult night for Paul Tierney

THE VAR system was slammed as an "absolute shambles" on Wednesday night as Tottenham's FA Cup fi th-round replay with Rochdale fell into farce and controversy before Spurs won 6-1.

Erik Lamela had a sixth-minute goal ruled out following a foul by Fernando Llorente, after referee Paul Tierney consulted the video assistant. Then, after Son HeungMin put Spurs in front, Tierney gave them a 26th-minute penalty when VAR was used - but disallowed Son's spot-kick, and booked the South Korean after he stopped in his run-up – a move now outlawed by football authorities.

Bemused fans booed at half-time and Spurs boss Mauricio Pochettino was left shaking his head.

Former Spurs player and BT Sport pundit Jermaine Jenas said: "It's an absolute shambles. "They have taken something that could be so good for the game and it's actually comical at times with the amount of time that it's taking and the fact that nobody knows what is going on. And today I actually think they have got something wrong, which is the worst part of it."

Five minutes were added on at the end of the first half and Mark Schwarzer, the ex-Chelsea keeper and BBC Radio 5 Live pundit, said: "There is utter bemusement around the stadium. And it's just to do with the lack of clarity. With the penalty decision, we got the gist of that. That they were seeing if it was in the box or not.

"But we need some sort of indication. The decision not to give the penalty when the ball was in the net...a lot of people in the stadium wouldn't have known why."

Former Spurs and England star Gary Lineker, tweeted sarcastically: "VAR's going well."

Stephen Humphreys scored Rochdale's shock 31st -minute equaliser. But Spurs shook off the controversy to pull away after the break. Llorente hit a hat-trick, Son added his second and Kyle Walker-Peters completed the rout

Winter break decision edges closer

Plans are expected to be announced soon confirming a two-week winter break in February 2020 following discussions between The Football Association, English Football League and Premier League.

The first annual twoweek interval would be scheduled from the 2019-20 season and take place in the early part of the month, it has been proposed.

As a consequence, the fifth round of the FA Cup would take place in midweek and there would be no replays.

Premier League clubs would have at least 13 days without a match.

The break would be staggered, with five Premier League matches taking place on one weekend and five on another.

Winter breaks are already factored into schedules of the top leagues in Germany, France, Italy and Spain. However, they all take place between December and January, which is the busiest period for Premier League teams.

Manchester City manager Pep Guardiola said in January that the festive schedule was "killing" the players. Earlier in the season, his Manchester United counterpart Jose Mourinho said the lack of a break was hampering English clubs' hopes in the Champions League.

But Newport County manager Michael Flynn, whose side earned a lucrative FA Cup replay at Tottenham this season, is wary of the impact removing replays could have on smaller teams.

"With the FA Cup games being played midweek and with no replays it's going to hit the smaller clubs a little bit harder," said Flynn. "If we couldn't have had that replay at Wembley, then it takes a lot of the romance out of football."

■ Front runners ease to 3-0 win at Emirates to heap more pressure on embattled Arsene Wenger

Manchester City produced a scintillating performance to comprehensively beat Arsenal for the second time in five days on Thursday night and extend their lead at the top of the Premier League to 16 points.

With just 10 games remaining, City need five victories to clinch the title.

"We are close. It's in our hands, we can't deny it," manager Pep Guardiola said.

"These are the last steps to be champions, you keep going until the end."

After beating Gunners 3-0 in the Carabao Cup final on Sunday, City dominated in a toxic atmosphere at a half-full Emirates Stadium.

Bernardo Silva opened the scoring in the 15th beautifully minute. curling in a left-footed strike into the far corner after Leroy Sane's mazy run.

David Silva finished off a fine team move in the 28th minute for City's second before Sane did the same five minutes later.

Arsenal had the opportunity to cut the deficit shortly after half-time but Ederson saved Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang's penalty.

"We played with low confidence, you could see that at the start of the game and we paid for it," Arsenal boss Arsene Wenger said.

"We lost to a team that is the best in the country at the moment."

The result sees City pull further away from Manchester United at the top of the table and marks Guardiola's 100th game at the club with a Arsenal, meanwhile, stay sixth, 10 points off the top four.

City were clinical on Sunday in securing Guardiola's first trophy at the club, although Wenger suggested the game was closer than the 3-0 scoreline suggested.

At the Emirates, particularly in the first half, the City were at their free-flowing best and Wenger could have no complaints.

Sane dribbled past four defenders for the opening goal before Bernardo Silva's accurate finish and the hosts looked helpless in attempting to prevent the following two goals.

For the second, Sane, Sergio Aguero and David Silva combined brilliantly and the Spaniard calmly fired past Petr Cech.

The third then came at the end of a flowing move with Kyle Walker squaring to German Sane from in behind the left side of Arsenal's defence.

"Mentally we were We strong. were clinical. We scored three outstanding goals," Guardiola said.
