TERROR RETURNS TO WESTMINSTER

■ Suspect is 29-year-old Briton of Sudanese origin

Terror returned to Westminster on Tuesday when a man was arrested on terror offences after a car crashed outside the Houses of Parliament.

The police named the suspect as Salih Khater, a 29 year old British citizen, originally from Sudan, who came to the UK as a refugee and was granted asylum.

His brother described him as a "normal person" with no fanatical ideas and no links to any religious group. Abdullah Khater also said his family - who are originally from Darfur in Sudan - were in "a state of shock".

Khater reportedly told fellow members of the Sudanese community he was travelling to London to obtain a visa to visit his homeland, officials at a Birmingham mosque have said.

They said that Khater, the son of sorghum farmers, had told them that he was using his own car to drive down to London a day before the appointment to avoid an early morning journey on Tuesday.

Mr Khater, allegedly spent 90 minutes driving around the streets of Westminster in his Ford Fiesta before crashing into cyclists and pedestrians outside the Houses of Parliament. He allegedly drove into commuters and towards police officers before hitting a security barrier.

It is unclear why Mr Khater needed a visa to travel to his native country, although he is thought to have been an asylum seeker and the whereabouts of his documents may have been an issue.

At a press conference, a trustee of Birmingham Central Mosque, Nassar Mahmood, said inquiries in the local Sudanese community suggested Mr Khater did not worship at the mosque and had shown no signs of radicalisation. Mr Mahmood said: "Like the rest of the community of the UK, the people of Birmingham and the Birmingham Central Mosque are surprised, shocked and saddened by the incident at Westminster. Our thoughts and prayers are with the people who have been injured and their families." He added: "We made some inquiries within the Sudanese community around the mosque and the picture we are getting is that he was on his way to the Sudanese embassy. Some of them know him personally. He wasn't known to be a fervent worshipper and as far as we know he never attended the mosque here. "Nobody knows the true picture yet. The police have not charged him so I would caution against rushing to apportion guilt." Ali Mohamed, a member of the Sudanese community, told the news conference he understood that Mr Khater had an appointment at the country's embassy, which is less than a mile from Westminster. "From what we know, he was a social person, he was a sportsman. He was trying to apply for a visa. We really don't know why he got into that incident."

■ Latest revelation adds to Labour's anti-Semitic woes

THE ALLEGATIONS of anti-semitism which have dogged Jeremy Corbyn in recent months took a damaging new turn this week when it emerged he shared a platform with a senior official from a terrorist group that murdered a British rabbi in a Synagogue attack a month later.

The Labour leader stood alongside Maher al-Taher, the leader-in-exile of the proscribed Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) at the wreath-laying ceremony in Tunisia in 2014. He and Mr Corbyn, who was elected party leader the following year, were invited to attend the event with the official Palestinian Authority delegation.

A month later Mr Taher's group claimed responsibility for an axe attack at a Jerusalem synagogue in which four rabbis were killed during morning prayers. A statement on the group's website said it was "a natural response to the ongoing racist policies and crimes of the occupation". It added: "No place in Jerusalem should be safe so long as the Palestinian people are not safe."

Among those killed was Avraham Shmuel

Goldberg, a 68-year-old British rabbi who had retired to Israel. On Tuesday night his widow, Brianna Goldberg, told reporters: "Jeremy Corbyn should absolutely not be associating with men like that. They kill to satisfy their political needs. He needs to come to Israel to see how things really are."

The PFLP had been proscribed by the European Union as a terrorist organisation for two years before the meeting between Mr Corbyn and Mr Taher. It claimed responsibility for a string of suicide attacks targeting Israeli civilians, and for roadside bombs and firing missiles from Gaza into Israel.

Three months before meeting Mr Corbyn Mr Taher was quoted on the PFLP's website warning that the "Zionist enemy will pay dearly for its ground offensive on Gaza".

Mr Corbyn was listed alongside Mr Taher by the Palestinian embassy in Tunisia as accompanying a delegation to the Hammam al-Shat cemetery in Tunis to commemorate the deaths of Palestinian leaders who were killed by an Israeli airstrike on their headquarters near the city in 1985. A picture of the two men next to each other was posted on the Facebook page of the embassy.

The visit has been the source of controversy because of allegations that Mr Corbyn also paid tribute to leading members of the Black September group who carried out the attack on Israeli athletes during the Munich Olympics. In an article for the Morning Star written a few days after the event Mr Corbyn acknowledged that he was aware of the PFLP's presence at the conference that preceded the wreath-laying ceremony.

Mr Goldberg's cousin, Michelle Hirschfield, said Mr Corbyn should not have been "condoning terrorists" and that he was unfit to be prime minister. "I think it is absolutely terrible," she said.

A spokesman for Mr Corbyn said: "Jeremy attended the conference convened by the president of Tunisia to support Palestinian rights and to bring together Palestinian factions to unite for a peaceful and just settlement of the Israel-Palestine conflict. He is, of course, completely opposed to attacks on civilians."

Gordon Brown,

Jeremy Corbyn was with Maher al-Taher (center), whose group killed four rabbis, including Avraham Shmuel Goldberg, a Briton, in Jerusalem a month later

Labour's most recent prime minister, told Mr Corbyn that he had "got to change" his approach to allegations of antisemitism. At the Edinburgh International Book Festival Mr Brown said the issue was a "running sore" and urged the Labour leader to adopt the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance's full definition and examples of antisemitism, which he predicted would happen in the next few weeks.

Alarm over £99 Botox jabs in high street stores

Experts have voiced fears over a plan to offer Botox and filler treatments in high street shops.

Leading UK high street outfit Superdrug launched the service on Monday in its flagship store in the Strand, London, amid rising demand for skin rejuvenation treatments, with prices starting at £99.

But Gerard Lambe, a top plastic surgeon and spokesman for the British Association of Aesthetic Plastic Surgeons, warned that the "serious" procedures can have horrific consequences if performed incorrectly.

He said: "While Superdrug may be hiring medically trained nurses, it is crucial members of the public do not treat having Botox and dermal fillers as casual beauty treatments.

"Administering an injection of any kind is a very serious procedure. All kinds of risks can arise, from infection, to incorrectly applied needle placement over delicate facial muscles, which can lead to paralysis.

"Just this week a

Superdrug said the treatments will be administered by nurses "trained to the highest standard" woman was permanently blinded in one eye in Australia from a dermal filler injection at a clinic where there was no doctor physically present."

Superdrug has said the treatments, available to over-25s, will be administered by nurses "trained to the highest standard" and a qualified aesthetics nurse will decide whether they are eligible.

But consultant plastic surgeon Rajiv Grover said: "Just because Botox is being done on the high street, the public should not think it is like a beauty treatment. It is still a medical treatment with benefits and also significant risks."

Superdrug prices start at £99 for a standard forehead or crow's feet Botox procedure which can cost as much as £300 elsewhere. If successful, the chain will roll out the service nationwide. Caris Newson, of Superdrug, said: "We're listening to what people are telling us they would like, which is the reassurance that if they choose to have aesthetic treatments it will be administered by highly qualified nurse practitioners in a private consultation room."

Dr Pixie McKenna, Superdrug's health and wellbeing ambassador, backed the move, saying: "We have seen an increase in the number of people claiming to be 'expert' practitioners in the field. I have seen and heard many horror stories."

Stokes walks free - and back into the England team

■ England cricketer found not guilty of affray

CRICKETER Ben Stokes walked from court after his affray trial on Wednesday – and straight back into the England team.

The Durham star, 27, was found not guilty after a fight involving several men last September. Ryan Ali, 28, whose left eye socket was fractured in the brawl, was found not guilty of the same charge. The two men shared a warm handshake before leaving the dock. It took the jury just over two-and-a-half hours to clear both men. In a statement read by his solicitor Paul Lunt, Stokes expressed no regret or remorse over the incident. "This is the end of an 11-month ordeal," said Mr Lunt.

"Ben is keen to get back to cricket being his sole focus. The past 11 months have served to highlight to Ben just how highly he values his position as an England representative, both in terms of the privilege that role entails and the responsibilities that accompany."

Shortly after the verdict was announced, Stokes was dramatically recalled to the England squad for the third Test against India at Trent Bridge, starting on Saturday. But he still faces a disciplinary inquiry by the cricket authorities, which could result in a hefty fine and a playing ban. Experts say the notoriety of the case could have a major impact on Stokes's future sponsorship deals.

Outside Bristol Crown Court, Mr Ali shook hands with his friend, former soldier Ryan Hale, who was also involved in the fight. Mr Hale, 27, was acquitted of the same charge last week on the grounds of insufficient evidence. The incident occurred close to Bristol's Mbargo night club last September, after Stokes and England team-mates, including batsman Alex Hales, spent the evening drinking to celebrate a victory over the West Indies. Jurors were told he and Hales left the club to go to another bar and were refused re-entry to Mbargo when they returned just after 2am because it was after closing time.

STOKES: 'This is the end of an 11-month ordeal,' said his solicitor

beer bottle

In the street, Stokes and Hales spotted Mr Ali and Mr Hale exchanging banter with two young gay men, the court heard. But Stokes was convinced they were abusing Kai Barry and William O'Connor with "nasty" homophobic language, it was said. The Durham all-rounder claimed Mr Ali threatened him and Hales with a beer bottle, prompting him to defend himself, Hales and the gay couple. But Mr Ali insisted he only wielded the bottle in self defence. He and Mr Hale vehemently denied using homophobic words. Film student Max Wilson, 21, captured most of the fighting on his mobile phone from his bedroom window. His sensational footage was the centrepiece of the trial and was played to the jury several times. It appeared to show Stokes hitting Afghanistan veteran Mr Hale with a powerful right hook punch. Stokes, Hales and several other England players had gone on the town to celebrate a 124-run victory over the West Indies in a one-day international. Team-mate Jake Ball said Stokes was "happy and chilled out" as he downed up to six vodka and lemonades at Mbargo. He also drank some "Jager bombs", a mix of herbal liqueur and Red Bull energy drink. Stokes, who also had a bottle of beer in the dressing room and three pints of lager with dinner, insisted he was not drunk.

Rugby star Cipriani fined £2k for assault

ENGLAND rugby star Danny Cipriani's international future lies in the balance after he was fined £2,000 following an assault in a Jersey nightclub.

The Gloucester player pleaded guilty to common assault on Tuesday and resisting arrest and was ordered to pay £250 compensation to a woman police officer.

She has been named in reports as former Welsh international footballer Jodie Botterill.

Three other charges - assault on police, larceny and being disorderly on licensed premises - were dropped. Cipriani tweeted he was "truly sorry... most importantly [to] the police" and was "mortified" by his actions.

The 30-year-old fly-half has seven days to pay the fine and compensation or face 10 weeks in prison.

Defence advocate Mike Preston told Jersey Magistrates' Court Cipriani was sorry for the "confusing situation" and was "mortified if he harmed the police officer in any way".

Mr Preston said Cipriani "had too many drinks" at Drift nightclub in The Royal Yacht Hotel, St Helier, and police were called when he tried to grab a body camera off a doorman.

Mr Preston argued his client did this because fame had made him more sensitive to being filmed and he was confused by the situation.

He was later picked up by police but managed to escape from his cuffs and a second officer was needed to restrain him.

Cipriani is said to have sworn at the officer, telling her to get off him.

The court heard she was left with bruises on her bicep and red marks on her neck.

The former Wasps and Sale stand-off did not think he had done anything wrong at the time and did not understand why the police had been called, the court was told.

He was in Jersey with his club as part of a pre-season tour and was supported in court by Gloucester team captain Willi Heinz.

Cipriani, who moved to Kingsholm in the summer, is due to make his debut in a friendly against Ulster on Saturday.

In response to his player's guilty plea, Gloucester chief executive Stephen Vaughan commented: "We will deal with it in a robust but balanced way but based purely on the facts."

"As a high-profile sportsperson there is often a large degree of public and media scrutiny involved, which Danny is well aware of."

Sign of the times: Study of Chinese overtakes German in UK

Chinese has overtaken German for the first time as teenagers prepare for life after Brexit.

Some 3,334 teenagers took an A level in Chinese, up 8.6 per cent on 2017, compared with 3,058 in German, down 17 per cent.

Russian and Japanese entries were also up, although the numbers are still in the hundreds.

However, the number of children taking modern languages overall has plummeted for another year, falling by 8 per cent. More youngsters now take an A level in PE or law than in French.

As A level results were released this week, official figures showed that 26.4 per cent of A levels taken were awarded an A* or A, the top two grades, the highest proportion since 2012.

However, Britain's declining languages skills are a growing source of concern, not just in the education world but in business too.

Mark Herbert, director of schools and skills at the British Council, said that with the UK forging new relationships around the world, it had never been more important for young people to develop the knowledge and skills they need to live and work in a global economy.

"Learning a foreign language doesn't just boost job prospects by providing vital skills that employers are looking for, it also helps us understand other cultures and work internationally. We all need to encourage our young people to see the value of languages and embrace them as important subjects to study at A level and beyond."

"Against this overall downward trend, the increasing popularity of Chinese proves that our young people can be enthused to study languages."

the men presented to her as matches.

She told the High Court that she signed up in search of a wealthy partner who would want to have a child with her and that she had been misled by the agency over the number of suitable men on its books.

The dating company, which provides a personal matchmaking service, argued that it had found "excellent" matches for Ms Burki and countersued her for defamation.

A judge ruled on Wednesday that the company's former managing director, Lemarc Thomas, "falsely represented the size of the active membership" to Ms Burki and "induced her to pay a substantial fee on the strength of his deceit". Mr Thomas told Ms Burki that the agency had a "substantial number" of men on its books who would make suitable matches, the court was told.

Seventy Thirty's lawyers said during the hearing that the company had about 1,500 "current members" on its books, while its founder said it had about 800 active members.

Judge Richard Parkes, QC, found that "the actual figure for active current members would have been substantially lower than 800", estimating there to be "a maximum of around 100 active male members". He ordered that Seventy Thirty must repay the £12,600 fee to Ms Burki and pay her £500 in damages for her "disappointment and sadness".

The judge added, however, that the agency's overall operation was reputable and ordered Ms Burki to pay £5,000 in libel damages. Susie Ambrose, Seventy Thirty's founder and director, welcomed the finding that the company was reputable.

Show of support for battered Boris

BELEAGUERED Boris Johnson received a show of support this week – after a letter box was "dressed" with a makeshift niqab.

The controversial Conservative MP faces a disciplinary investigation after saying women in burkas looked like "letter boxes" or "bank robbers". The traditional red pillarbox in Hadleigh, Essex, was draped in a bin bag with a "Free Boris" sign at its foot. Mr Johnson is yet to respond to the row, prompted by an article he wrote in a newspaper last week.

Number of OAPS in UK soaring

THERE will be an extra 20 million pensioners in the UK by 2066, official figures have forecast.

That is more than a quarter of the current population and the increase will be driven by a rise in the number of those aged 85-plus, according to the Office for National Statistics.

Ed Monk, associate director for personal investing at Fidelity International, said: "Longer living will be very much the norm."

"Fidelity's own research, conducted with the Oxford Institute of Population Ageing, showed that those people who are 45 now and go on to reach 65, will have an average life expectancy almost three years longer than today's 65-year-olds.

"That's three years longer in retirement to plan and to pay for. "Saving more during working life, making the most of the tax-efficient savings system and taking smart risks with investments will all help. "Most important of all is to start the whole process as early as possible."

Off the rails; UK commuters pay 10 times as much as the French

BELEAGUERED rail passengers are paying up to 10 times more than French commuters for similar journeys, shock figures showed this week. They were released ahead of Wednesday's announcement that fares are expected to rise in January by another 3.5 per cent.

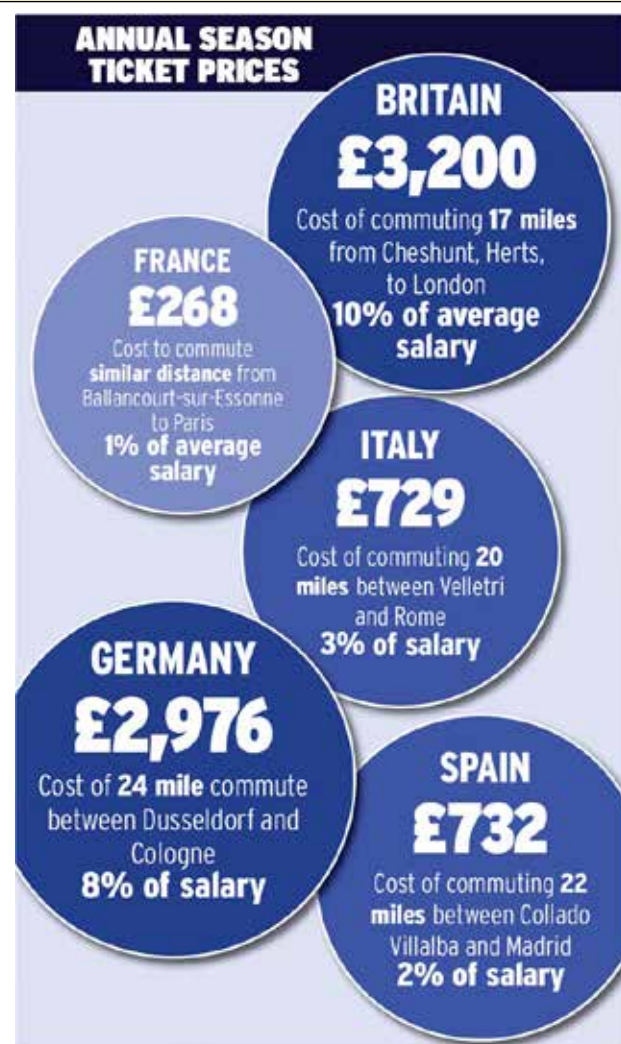

The Rail, Maritime and Transport (RMT) union said a commuter in Cheshunt, Herts, going to London pays £3,200 for an annual season ticket – 10 per cent of the UK average salary. In contrast, a French commuter pays £268, one per cent of the average salary, for a season ticket from Ballancourt-sur-Essonne to Paris. A trip from Bristol to London will cost £99 compared with £34 from Bologna to Milan, Italy. And in Germany a commuter on a high-speed ICE service from Dusseldorf to Cologne pays £2,976 for a season ticket, while their counterpart in Gravesend, Kent, travelling to London on the high-speed Javelin service, will pay £5,828.

Last year UK fares rose by 3.4 per cent – the biggest rise in five years – but pressure is growing for a freeze after months of chaos for passengers. Transport Secretary Chris Grayling this week bowed to pressure and said he favoured the fare increase being linked to the Consumer Price Index (CPI) official rate of inflation, which is usually lower than the Retail Price Index (RPI), on which the January fare rises are based. He said: "I have already taken steps to ask the Office of Rail and Road to move away from the use of RPI in the contractual and regulatory structures that the industry uses. This will be part of the next regulatory period, which starts next year."

Meanwhile RMT demonstrated against the fare rises in cities including London, Birmingham, Cardiff, Leeds and Edinburgh this week. In recent months passengers have faced delays and mass cancellations after the botched introduction of new timetables. RMT general secretary Mick Cash said: "Despite all the timetable chaos and service and staff cuts our rail fares are up to five times more than fares in Europe and are rising twice as fast as wages. That is nothing short of a scandal."

Meet a Member: Letticia Bissondut

Meet Letticia Bissondut who moved to Los Angeles from Johannesburg, South Africa to pursue acting/storytelling.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

I feel like LA is one of those places that chooses you. It's just full of so many artists and creatives, that it makes it easy to feel that magnetic pull to this city.

What do you miss most from home?

My family and friends. South African culture, I think that South Africans are really inviting, so there's this immediate feeling like you're family. I miss that a lot.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

It's hasn't really changed. It's still a city full of dreamers and creatives. Two of my favorite things.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus South Africa?

Here in LA there's this incredible permission to dream and create, no matter how crazy it may seem to anyone else. It is definitely something that has proven to fuel my resilience. I spent some of my childhood in a time in South Africa before Nelson Mandela was released from prison so there wasn't much talk of being encouraged to pursue creativity and your dreams. It's all changed so much now thankfully but when I was a kid I was never told I could be an actress, tell stories or anything like that. It's something that I had to fight for. I'm grateful that it's changing and that kids are now being encouraged to live in their creativity.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

Oooh so many! Haha! I love food and photography, so all my gems will be somewhere because there's something next level yummy or it has an insane view. My staples are Gjusta in Venice, EP.LP in West Hollywood - Louis Tikaraam the head chef is a food genius and I love Jon & Vinnys on Fairfax. I love the skate park in Venice, I spend so much time shooting out there. Best people watching in the city too. And magic hour at El Matador beach is always a treat.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Do it! This city is incredible! Life is short, just run towards your dreams every single chance you get...

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

"Be daringly empathetic." We live in a world that often tells us to look out for just ourselves, I mean practise self-love because it's so important but also share your talents and experiences. You never know who you can help along the way and always be kind!

Lastly, how can we find out more about you?

I just finished working on a rad little short film called "Never odd or even" with an amazing team, that will make its debut at Sundance.

I also just got back from a goodwill/volunteer trip to Malawi, Africa, which was incredible, and life-changing in so many ways. Find out how you can get involved and help this amazing community by visiting my Instagram feed @LetticiaBissondut or my blog at LetticiaBissondut.com

ARIES: If life is not all it could be it is likely you are filling up your time with stuff that should not be top of your list. Mars your boss in Aquarius is going to bring you a wakeup call. Pay attention!

TAURUS: Your boss Venus sitting still is bringing up past unresolved emotional feelings. But this time it's best to forgive, not just forget. On the positive side your social life is beaming.

GEMINI: Your boss planet Mercury is going backwards and you would be wise to use this time to resolve several unfinished situations. While you are paying attention to these a home-related area will be resolved at last.

CANCER: As you are usually reluctant to let go of things and feelings this is a time to really change and be more fluid. Take an inventory of what is still not at peace in your life and it will be to your overall benefit to act on this knowledge.

LEO: If you have felt out of sorts or worried recently this is about to change. Anything that should go is going, confusion could hold you back but not for long. With this in mind make a plan to start next month on a positive note.

VIRGO: Mercury is currently going backwards and as he is your boss planet you can expect to get somewhat bogged down with minor details. Small things can look enormous and you can feel they are more important. Nothing lasts forever so have a Happy Birthday.

LIBRA: Your boss Venus is biding his time right now, which can cause you to waste time looking at what could have been, not what is. Make sure you are getting the appreciation you deserve and enjoying the journey your life is now taking.

SCORPIO: Before anything else on your agenda gets too much to handle take some time to stop beating yourself up and look at all you have achieved in your life. You are on the verge of good positive changes and nothing is as bad it seems.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss planet Jupiter going merrily forward now will ease your everyday life, if not now this next week or so. Nostalgia is a good word to explain your current mindset, just go with the flow. Life is a journey, enjoy the scenery.

CAPRICORN: Pluto and your boss Saturn both in your life are currently resting and not so active. This does not mean you cannot be in control of what transpires in your life. You can look forward to a period of calm this next week ahead. Wait until mid-September to start anything new.

AQUARIUS: Take the time to enjoy the influence of the recent eclipse in your sign. It can bring benefits that currently you are not aware of. Be aware that any decisions you make now will take a couple of months to come to fruition.

PISCES: With some journey planned you can expect family gatherings and meetings. It's best to remain detached, however, in any deep discussion, as sometimes they can throw you a curve ball. Remember there is always a lesson behind it!

This Week's Pub Quiz Winners...

What a night of pulse-pounding drama it was on Tuesday at the Brits in LA Pub Quiz as two teams tied for the win, sending the contest into trivia's version of a penalty shootout decider.

The battle between returning champs God Save The Team and challengers Keep Ruth Bader Ginsburg Alive went to the second sudden death question at the packed Cat and Fiddle.

That's when God Save The Team pulled out the victory - correctly identifying song lyrics as those to Jeremy by Pearl Jam - to stretch their winning run to a record sixth straight week by the narrowest of margins.

The champs, pictured here with quizmaster Sandro Monetti, won $75 and a special kings and queens of the castle trophy.

BRITS IN LA

American Citizenship: not quite a happy ending, after all?

The hot topic amongst Brits in LA Members this week is regarding a rumored proposal to deny citizenship to legal immigrants who have received ObamaCare, children's health insurance, food stamps and various other benefits.

The information was leaked earlier this month to NBC News and has obviously caused quite the panic. The awful thing is, that even the speculation will stop many who need benefits the most from applying for them. Living in fear that it could affect their citizenship application down the line. The Trump administration have also floated the idea of limiting "chain migration". The US currently allow a number of ways for US citizens and legal permanent residents to sponsor family members to come to the US permanently, including categories for parents, adult siblings and adult children, married and unmarried. They are looking to slash this dramatically, limiting sponsorship to spouses and minor children, which is ironic considering that only last week Melania Trump used this process to sponsor her parents' green cards. I guess she thought she better do it quick before her husband changes the law.

It may be a coincidence, but I have also noticed a flurry of questions regarding moving back to the UK, although the political environment is not much better there. If you are considering moving back and bringing your non-British family members, you will first need to apply for a settlement visa for them. It can be found on www.gov.uk then just search 'settlement visa'. The procedure is fairly similar to moving to the USA; you will need to prove you can support your family and will have to pay lots of money in filing fees. There are also lots of tax issues to sort out, especially if you are making a clean break with no intention of returning. All of these questions have been discussed and have multiple opinions and answers over on our Brits in LA community page which can be found on Facebook @BritsLoveLA.

We would love to hear from you if you have made the move back to the UK. Perhaps you would like to participate in our weekly Meet a Member feature and tell us all about it? Drop us a line at BritsinLA@gmail.com for details.

It's not all about immigration at Brits in LA. We have lots of social events, including our

Hurley still girlie in stunning swimwear pix!

British superstar Elizabeth Hurley has teased fans with another stunning shot as she showed off her jaw-dropping curves in bright blue swimsuit.

The 53-year-old, who is still one of the world's most beautiful women, even has her own swimwear label, as she showed off her famous figure posing in a one-piece from her new collection, admitting it "counts as work".

Oo-er!

Standing effortlessly at the rear of a yacht, the mum-of-one showcased the garment with its plunging halterneck neckline and flattering high leg cut.

The age-defying actress finished her look with a pair of chic sunglasses and minimal make-up while her loose tousled locks bobbed in the breeze.

Posting the pic on Instagram for her one million followers, she wrote: "Test driving the new @elizabethhurleybeach samples (yes, it counts as work)."

Last month she did something similar, grabbing the opportunity to flaunt some of her range on International Bikini Day, posing on a beach in a teeny weeny blue number from her own line, Elizabeth Hurley Beach, showing off her enviable physique.

She captioned the snap #internationalbikiniaday @elizabethhurleybeach #elizabethhurleybeach.

The star, who has a son Damian, 16, with former partner Steve Bing, recently admitted the teenager is responsible for some of the raunchy snaps she posts on her Instagram page.

Liz said: "He definitely takes some, but I do have other friends that I can torture for some too.

She added: "I've been in the business for a really long time so my body is something I have to take care of and think about all the time."

"I use as much cream as possible on it."

Damian often accompanies Liz to showbiz parties and is a fledgling actor himself, with a role in Liz's 2015 cable TV series The Royals.

We at the British Weekly LOVE a bit of Liz!

Mel B's new book likely to put the kibosh on Spice Girl reunion!

She's going all-out in a bid to make her upcoming autobiography a worldwide best seller...and what looks like the final nail in the Spice Girls reunion coffin is set to be hammered in; Mel B (aka Scary Spice), may just have a hit on her hands as she dishes the dirt!

(Oo-er!) ...

Publishing insiders are staggered at the intimate rows she discusses in her upcoming tome, including bust-ups with Geri Horner and Victoria Beckham.

Earlier this year, it was heavily rumoured that the group would return. Numerous reports suggested that the 'Wannabe' stars would embark on a tour and record new music. While Posh debunked the claims, Mel said the band were in fact reforming.

A source said: "After the book comes out, there'll be no hope of the Spice Girls getting back together. It's going to dig up a lot of old dirt."

It's claimed that Brown will discuss the time she tried to get free clothes from Beckham's clothing line.

The source added: "Mel talks about how Victoria wouldn't lend her anything from her fashion range when it launched and told her to pay for dresses, which went down like a lead balloon."

Mel also faces being quizzed in court over allegations of her cocaine use and heavy drinking.

Former nanny Lorraine Gilles' lawyers intend to put Mel on the stand as her libel case rumbles on.

In September, The Sun revealed Mel's ex-husband Stephen Belafonte has footage showing her with drugs.

Meanwhile, a new Spice Girls exhibition is currently being held in London. SPICEUP is running at Angel's Business Design Centre until August 20. It will then visit Manchester Central until September 4. The collection is being described as "the biggest touring exhibition of Spice Girls memorabilia in the world."

Can't wait to get my hands on a copy!

"Soft" Celtic crash out in Athens

Champions League

BRENDAN RODGERS has hit out at Celtic's defending after his side crashed out of the Champions League. After a 1-1 draw at Celtic

Park in the first leg of this qualifying tie, Rodgers' side were trailing within six minutes Tuesday night, with Rodrigo Galo's opener followed five minutes after the break by a header from Croatian striker Marko Livaja.

Celtic substitute Scott

Sinclair pulled back a goal in the 78th minute but, despite a frantic finale, the visitors could not fashion a second to put them through on away goals.

"We have got to stop the cross for the first and the second is poor defending," said Rodgers.

"I thought a lot of our build-up play was worth something from the game but you can't defend that softly.

"I still felt this was a game in which we had more than enough to win but you have to defend better than we did. We gave AEK a lot of problems but you have to defend properly and we didn't do that."

Dropping down to the Europa League, Celtic will now play Suduva of Lithuania in a qualifier.

England romp to innings win

*Second Specsavers Test, at Lords: India 107 & 130: Ashwin 33*, Anderson 4-23, Broad 4-44. England 396-7 dec: Woakes 137, Birstow 93, Hardik 3-66. England won by an innings & 159 runs* completed a crushing innings and 159-run victory over India at Lord's to take a 2-0 series lead.

Veteran paceman James Anderson was the star of the show, taking 4-23 to finish with nine wickets in the match and Stuart Broad shone with 4-44 as India were bowled out for 130.

The hosts had declared on 396-7, with Chris Woakes finishing on 137 not out, before Anderson reduced India to 17-2.

Rain delayed play twice but India lost wickets regularly and Woakes took the final scalp to secure an emphatic win. England enjoyed the better of the bowling conditions in the match but India produced two poor batting performances.

Ravichandran Ashwin and Hardik Pandya's 55-run partnership for the seventh wicket was India's only real stand of the innings and the tourists never looked comfortable under grey skies at Lord's.

Only once has a team come back to overturn a 2-0 deficit to win a Test series - and that was an Australia side that contained Donald Bradman in the 1936-37 Ashes.

The third Test of the five-match series begins at Trent Bridge on Saturday.

Almost nothing went right for India in this Test.

They lost the toss and were dismissed for 107 after being inserted in the first innings in conditions made for swing bowling, before England batted in the best weather of the match.

After the competitiveness of Edgbaston this was a let-down for India, with their batsmen unable to resist England's bowlers, and the decision to play wrist-spinner Kuldeep Yadav over seamer Umesh Yadav not working out.

There are also concerns for India over the fitness of captain Virat Kohli, who received treatment on the field for a sore back after missing much of the morning session.

Questions still remain over England's top order - they were struggling at 89-4 on Saturday - but Woakes' all-round performance is a promising sign for the hosts.

They will also take confidence from effectively winning the Test in two days of play, after the first day was washed out and two of the final three days were interrupted by rain.

Anderson leaves Lord's having taken the most wickets against India in Tests, with 99 wickets in 24 matches.

Delays at the Lane!

■ Waiting game goes on for Spurs as 'safety systems' cause postponement of grand opening

Tottenham have delayed the opening of their new stadium because of "issues with the critical safety systems".

Spurs had been expected to play their first game at the new ground on 15 September against Liverpool but that match has now been switched to Wembley.

Tottenham's following home game against Cardiff on 6 October has also been moved to Wembley.

A venue for their Premier League game against Manchester City on 28 October is currently 'to be confirmed'.

An NFL fixture between Seattle Seahawks and Oakland Raiders, scheduled to be hosted on 14 October, will also now take place at Wembley instead of Spurs' new 62,062-seat arena, built on the site of their old White Hart Lane ground.

Spurs had already agreed with the Premier League to play their first home game of the season, which is against Fulham on Saturday, at Wembley.

A club statement read: "Recent testing and commissioning has now shown issues with the critical safety systems.

"We are reviewing the situation and planned timetable to rectify and re-test, after which we shall be in a better position to outline a revised timetable.

"The delays created by these difficulties mean that we can no longer hold the necessary test events on 27 August and 1 September.

These will need to be rescheduled to take place ahead of any first official match at the new stadium in order to achieve the safety licence."

Tottenham chairman Daniel Levy said: "We know this will be disappointing for all our season tickets holders,

Spurs' planned debut at the new White Hart Lane has been switched to Wembley premium members and our fans worldwide.

"At the start of the project we asked for your support during what we knew would be a complex and challenging build and now we ask for your continued patience and forbearance."

Hodgson Palace's 'best signing'

CRYSTAL PALACE chairman Steve Parish says that manager Roy Hodgson penning a new contract at the club is the "signing of the summer".

Hodgson (pictured, right) has agreed to a new one-year deal, which means he will still be at Selhurst Park in 2020 when he will reach his 73rd birthday. The former England manager last season steered Palace away from relegation after taking over in September with the side having lost their first four games without scoring a goal. On Saturday Hodgson helped Palace get the new campaign off to a much better start with a 2-0 win at promoted Fulham, and Parish believes handing the veteran a new deal was the best bit of business Palace did in pre-season.

"It is a great signature for us, arguably the signing of the summer," said Parish. "Roy is an incredible asset to have at your club. It is wonderful to work with him.

"He is a really nice chap, very knowledgeable about football, has huge experience, is very grounded, very sensible and he has that attachment to the club, having stood on the terraces watching Palace when he was young."
