

PUTIN'S SMIRKING ASSASSINS: Salisbury suspects identified

Novichok suspects are Kremlin spies, says May

UK AUTHORITIES have identified two Russian operatives caught on camera after their brazen bid to kill former spy Sergei Skripal.

The hitmen, calling themselves Alexander Petrov and Ruslan Boshirov, had smeared nerve agent novichok on their victim's front door and were heading back to Moscow. The attack was "almost certainly" Russian ordered by Vladimir President Putin Theresa May told MPs on Wednesdday this was not a "rogue" operation and was "approved at a senior level of the Russian state". And it left Mr Skripal, his daughter Yulia and a British detective fighting for their lives.

safe in Russia

The would-be murder weapon was a perfume bottle specially adapted to hold and deploy the nerve agent. It was faked to look like a Nina Ricci scent in a fancy pink box. After the attack the contaminated weapon was "recklessly" thrown away in the street leading to the death of motherof-three Dawn Sturgess. This week Petrov and Boshirov – whose real names are unknown

- were charged with conspiracy to murder, attempted murder, causing grievous bodily harm and possession of novichok. The pair are believed to be safe in Russia and unlikely to stand trial in a British court. The Russian constitution bars the extradition of its citizens, and Mr Putin would refuse to hand them over. The killers of ex-KGB spy Alexander Litvinenko, poisoned in London in 2006, have so far cheated justice for the same reason. Petrov and Boshirov, both around 40, are members of the GRU – the Russian intelligence military service betrayed by former Colonel Skripal in the 1990s. Former double agent Mr Skripal, 66, and Yulia, 33, were on the danger list for weeks but survived the murder bid in Salisbury in March. Detective Sergeant Nick Bailey, 38, fell ill after he touched the contaminated front door during a search of the retired spy's house. He is also making a good recovery.

Scotland Yard's counter-terrorism command has obtained a European Arrest Warrant for the two assassins. If either man slips into a country where it is valid they can be detained and extradited. Descriptions of both suspects and their aliases will also be circulated around the world via Interpol.

reconnaissance

Scotland Yard Assistant Commissioner Neil Basu issued an extraordinary global witness appeal as inquiries by 250 detectives continued in a bid to reveal the names of the senior Russian figures who sanctioned the mission. He said: "We will not stop until we get some justice for Dawn and the other victims. "We now need to hear from the public," he added.

"I am appealing to anyone who has information about the suspects named today to contact police."

The pair, who travelled on Russian passports with visas, visited Britain several times in the run-up to the attack on the Skripals. It is likely they carried out reconnaissance on their target or met with coconspirators to finalise the plan. But it is also possible they met up with other Russian men and women in the UK who may have clues to their real identities. Mr Basu said: "I am asking for the public's help worldwide. Do you recognise the suspects from the CCTV? Do you know them?

"Did you see them while they were in the UK and in particular during their time in Salisbury?" Police also want to

Hunt for Kremlin killers

Skripal poisoning was not a rogue operation, it was approved in Russia at a senior level, May tells hushed House of Commons

THERESA May was this week pressing for tougher international sanctions against Vladimir Putin's regime. To gasps in the Commons, the Prime Minister on Wednesday revealed that investigators had concluded that the two prime suspects in the novichok case were members of the Kremlin's GRU military intelligence service. She insisted evidence pointed towards a plot sanctioned by senior figures in the Russian state. And as she promised to get coordinated international action to root out the GRU from infiltrating Western nations, a senior Tory warned that Mr Putin's regime was now being run as a "gangster operation" sending "hoods and murderers to kill our citizens".

'highly disciplined'

British diplomats were expected to raise the issue at the UN Security Council on Friday as part of a renewed campaign to isolate Russia for the outrage.

MPs reacted with genuine astonishment when Mrs May revealed involvement the of the GRU, a successor to the Soviet-era KGB. She told them Britain's intelligence services had been investigating the Salisbury incident alongside the police.

"I can tell the House that, based on a body of intelligence, the Government has concluded the two individuals named by the police and Crown Prosecution Service are officers from the Russian military intelligence service, also known as the GRU," she said.

"The GRU is a highly disciplined organisation with a well-established chain of command.

"So this was not a rogue operation. It was almost certainly also approved outside the GRU at a senior level of the Russian state."

Mrs May accused regime Putin's Mr obstruction about of the attack last March. pointing out that Russian had sources even attempted to blame her for the poisoning.

"We repeatedly asked Russia to account for what happened in Salisbury in March, and they have replied with obfuscation and lies.

trying to pass the blame for this attack on to terrorists, on to our international partners, and even on to the future mother-in-law of Yulia Skripal.

"They even claimed that I, myself, invented novichok. Their attempts to hide the truth by pushing out a deluge of disinformation simply reinforces their culpability."

'collective effort'

"This She added: was a sickening and despicable act in which a devastatingly toxic nerve agent was used to attack our country. It left four people fighting for their lives and one innocent woman dead."

Whitehall insiders said the Government had ruled out an extradition request - that would be automatically denied to avoid giving Russian officials a propaganda opportunity.

Mrs May said: "We must step up our collective effort to protect ourselves in response to this threat. We will continue to show that those who attempt to undermine the international rules-based system cannot act with "This has included impunity. 171 Pier Ave. Ste. 121 · Santa Monica CA 9005 Tel: (310) 452 2621 • Fax: (310) 314-7653 editor@british-weekly.com www.british-weekly.com • Twitter/BritishWeekly

SHOWDOWN: Boris Johnson is expected to launch a full scale challenge to Theresa May's leadership within months

Tory feud erupts as May and Johnson trade barbs over Brexit negotiations

TORY feuding over Brexit deepened this week as Theresa May and Boris Johnson traded barbs in an extraordinary public spat.

On the eve of today's Commons return after the summer break, the Prime Minister's spokesman issued a scathing rebuke to her former foreign secretary for criticising her "Chequers" EU departure proposal.

The Downing Street official accused Mr Johnson - believed to be gearing up for a leadership bid - of offering "no new ideas" and lacking any "serious plan" for delivering Brexit. His withering putdown was issued after the former Tory Cabinet minister ridiculed Mrs May for allegedly heading into negotiations with "the white flag fluttering".

The confrontation between Number 10 and the leading Brexiteer was followed by a series of jibes from both Remain and Leave-backing Tory MPs. Now many fear the party is on the brink of civil war ahead of a make-orbreak autumn Commons sitting when the EU exit talks reach a climax. Mrs May's hopes of winning Commons backing for her Brexit plan appeared to diminish when pro-Brussels Tories joined the chorus of criticism.

Former education secretary Justine Greening said: "The Chequers deal is more unpopular than the poll tax."

Speaking to the BBC World At One programme, Ms Greening said the deal was "untenable" with only 15 per cent support from the public.

"Chequers is now dead and there's no point having a government spending two vital months working on that when what it needs to do is start working on an alternative route for us," she said.

Do-good Duchess turns on the charm at charity reception

"They made her feel so special" says mother of cerebral palsy sufferer

THE Duchess of Sussex this week charmed a brave little girl at an awards ceremony for sick children, plucking a rose from her own bouquet and giving it to her.

Matilda Booth, seven, had presented Meghan with the flowers to welcome her and husband Harry to the WellChild Awards.

As the Duke asked whether Matilda's mother Sharon would get emotional during the evening at The Royal Lancaster Hotel in London, Meghan, 37, reassured her, saying:

Johnson's most damning assessment yet of the Brexit plan agreed by ministers at a Cabinet away-day summit at the Prime Minister's Chequers country retreat in July. Writing in a newspaper article, Mr Johnson said: "In adopting the Chequers proposals, we have gone into battle with the white flag fluttering over our leading tank. If we continue on this basis we will throw away most of the advantages of Brexit."

Mr Johnson said the Prime Minister's plan for a "common rulebook" for the UK and EU to cover trade in goods would make it "impossible for the UK to be more competitive, to innovate, to deviate, to initiate" as well as "ruling out major free trade deals".

He added: "We will remain in the EU taxi, but this time locked in the boot with no say on the destination. We won't have taken back control – we will have lost control."

Asked about the article at a regular briefing for Westminster lobby journalists, Mrs May's spokesman said: "Boris Johnson resigned over Chequers. There's no new ideas in this article to respond to.

"What we need is serious leadership with a serious plan and that's what the country has with this Prime Minister and this Brexit plan."

He added: "The Chequers proposals are the only credible and negotiable plan which has been put forward and which will deliver on the will of the British people."

In a sign that the PM's allies are launching a co-ordinated attack in an attempt to paint Mr Johnson as devoid of ideas, Home Secretary Sajid Javid then intervened, saying: "For those who think there is a different way then they need to properly set out what alternatives there might be." Mr Javid's predecessor, Amber Rudd, who clashed with Mr Johnson during the EU referendum campaign, dismissed her old adversary'slatest intervention as "ridiculous".

She added: "This isn't a strategy, it is not a plan." But Mr Johnson was praised by fellow Eurosceptic Tories for speaking out. Former environment secretary Owen Paterson described his comments as a "clear articulation" of the "myths" surrounding the issue of the future of the Irish border in the Brexit negotiations. Steve Baker, who quit as Brexit minister in protest at Chequers, called Mr Johnson's article "superb". And Jacob Rees-Mogg, chairman of the 60-strong European Research Group of Tory MPs, Msaid there were "hundreds of suggestions" for the basis of a deal with the EU and "it's a question of choosing which of the many is the best".

He added: "It is certainly not Chequers."

PRINCE OF HEARTS: the Duke and Duchess of Sussex with 7-year-old Matilda

"By the way, me too. I won't be able to hold back."

Matilda, of Sowerby Bridge, West Yorkshire, who has cerebral palsy, revealed that Harry, 33, made her "pinky promise" to never stop smiling. Sharon said that the royal couple had made her daughter's day.

practical ways

"They were just so lovely," she said. "It was very exciting. Matilda had watched the royal wedding and was very nervous about meeting them but they completely put us at ease.

"They got down to Matilda's level and she gave Meghan a posy. But she took one out and handed it back to Matilda and told her to keep it in her memory box. She made her feel so special."

It was Meghan's first time at the ceremony for the charity, which Harry has supported since 2007. It finds practical ways to help seriously ill children and their families.

Meghan wore a chic black trouser suit by New York fashion brand Altuzarra, with simple pearl and diamond earrings thought to be a gift from the Queen. Other winners at the gala included four-year-old McKenzie Brackley, from Fife, who was paralysed following a virus. He shared the Inspirational Child Award (four to six) with Matilda. His mother Amy said of their meeting with the royals: "It was amazing. They were so lovely. They knew he [McKenzie] was scared of the cameras and they said they didn't like the cameras either so they turned around.

"He's never going to forget this, even though he's only four," she added. The couple also met Jake Stacey, 12, who has spinal muscular atrophy and Evie Toombes, 16, who gave Harry and Meghan a copy of her book, Lucy Goes To School, which is aimed at teaching children about hidden illnesses using the adventures of dog Lucy. And Chloe Henderson, 10, got the scoop of the evening, turning hotshot reporter to quiz Harry and Meghan on their favourite Disney film. The exclusive answer was The Lion King, for Harry and The Little Mermaid for the Duchess. Meghan also recommended the 2016 film Ballerina, revealing: "Harry likes it because she [the main character] has got red hair."

Guestsincluded former England rugby coach Sir Clive Woodward, magician Dynamo and Strictly Come Dancing contestant Katie Piper. The evening was hosted by Gaby Roslin and Matt Allwright.

Veteran: Windsor's careeer has spanned six decades

Barbara Windsor recovering after emergency heart op

EASTENDERS and Carry On films star Dame Barbara Windsor was recovering this week after undergoing a heart operation following a fall at her home.

The actress, 81, needed to have a pacemaker fitted after complications with her Alzheimer's medication left her feeling dizzy and breathless, according to husband Scott Mitchell. Mitchell, 55, revealed that Babs is recovering well and is eager to return to her normal day-to-day life.

'low heart rate'

"She's looking forward to getting out on the town again soon," he said. He has been caring for his wife of 25 years since she was discharged from hospital last month.

"Barbara was suffering from a low heart rate which doctors thought was being caused by some of her medication," he added. She was getting very dizzy and short of breath and fainted one day at home, so she had an eight-day hospital spell four weeks ago and they've put in a pacemaker."

Her close friend, actor Christopher Biggins, 69, added that she could be well enough to begin socialising again as early as next week. He said: "I spoke to her last week and I'm going to see her next week. We're going to go out. She likes to go out as she spends a lot of time indoors.

"She loves The Ivy restaurant. She lives in Marylebone, so there are lots of lovely restaurants there."

'lovely messages'

Her acting career spanned nearly six decades before she was forced to retire three years ago after being diagnosed with Alzheimer's. She broke her silence over her diagnosis this year, saying: "Thank you to everyone for the lovely messages of support I've been receiving, it really means such a lot to me, it truly does."

She made her final appearance as Peggy Mitchell on EastEnders in 2016. She has continued to work but her husband made the decision to speak out about her diagnosis earlier this year after her symptoms worsened. He said earlier this year: "In recent days, her conversation has turned to, 'I just think it's wonderful that you come here to look after me' – and she keeps thanking me. "I say, 'Barbara I'm not here to look after you, I'm here because I love you'."

Wedding bells again? UK's most married man heading for wedding number nine

BRITAIN'S most famous monogamist Ron Sheppard may have found wife number nine — who he met online earlier this week.

After having his heart ripped out by his latest fiancee, Ron, 70, feels hopeful about the 32-year-old who messaged him on a naughty online dating site, reported The Sun.

Ron, who was dumped by his ninth fiancee, 28-year-old Cristel Lalec, in November, said he was flooded with messages from hundreds of women who wanted to marry him.

But he was immediately drawn to a 32-year-old Somerset woman.

He said: "She messaged me on Friday and we've spoken loads since and she said she doesn't want to speak to anyone else.

"She's had a bit of turmoil in her life and wanted some of her confidence brought back. I just gave her a bit of advice to start off with."

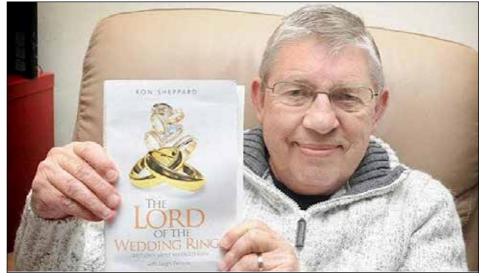

"I have been lonely over the last 10 months and I just want to be with someone who I can love and trust."

When asked if she could be 'the one', Ron said: "I mean, I'm too old to marry any more now and we'll see how it goes but hopefully this is it."

"It's been incredible. I've got 60 pages of notifications from women of all ages, including married ones who want to have a fling.

"People have said if I keep going I'll end up with a football team. I think it's a case of just wait and see."

Ron has been married eight times over the course of more than 50 years, with his longest

Bad Photoshop! Fake Lampard used to promote New York park

Did they really think no one would notice?

New York Governor Andrew Cuomo has released a series of pictures imagining what the upcoming Shirley Chisholm State Park will look like.

The images have been mocked online for their jarring combinations of computer-generated backdrops and real people, but one particular portrayal has caught the attention of football fans on social media. It features a waterfront, a bridge, and Derby County manager Frank Lampard on a jog. It did not take long for people to notice the former England and Chelsea midfielder clad in his old training kit for New York City FC. The original photo of Lampard was taken in 2015, when he was on a jog in New York's Central Park accompanied by a trainer, during his spell

BOOZY TREAT: Gavin and Sally Murray opened their ice cream shop in Derby four months ago

It's a rum affair as ice cream offering is deemed too boozy

AN ICE cream parlour thought it had its rum and raisin recipe licked... until it was floated past council chiefs.

Just Ice owner Gavin Murray has been told he can only sell the classic flavour if he applies for an alcohol license because his frozen treat contains more than 0.5 per cent rum. Gavin now faces either paying £1,000 for the correct paperwork Licensing under the Act or modifying the production process to burn off the alcohol.

The ice cream parlour, which is based in Derby's Market Hall, has been open just four months but has seen a surge in sales, including for rum and raisin, thanks to the summer heatwave.

Gavin, 47, said: "Rum and raisin is an old classic and has always been there. "They are two flavours that go together really well and the people of Derby definitely love it. We get people asking for it every week."

He added: "Our first step would be to run a trial on putting rum in at the start of the pasteurisation process and hopefully that'll burn off the alcohol content, but leave the delicious, real rum flavour.

"Once we have done our trial, we will send it off to the lab for testing and hopefully we can get rum and raisin back for the Derby public who love it so much. " playing in the city.

The image used by Governor Cuomo's website has been flipped, causing the New York City FC crest appear on the opposite side of the shirt.

Arielle Castillo, who worked for Major League Soccer when Lampard played for the Pigeons, was one of the first to point out the surprise appearance.

e jokes came quickly as people online highlighted the "really bad" editing of the images.

One Twitter user labelled the person responsible for the manipulations "my new hero", while another wondered why Governor Cuomo did not employ more talented staff.

But some people found another reason to cast aspersions on the legitimacy of this image joking that Lampard was not known for moving quickly during his time in New York.

However, Lampard is not the first public figure to have their image appropriated.

In December 2016, US broadcaster NBC used an image of Ed Miliband, former leader of the UK Labour Party, blowing his nose to illustrate a news story about flu.

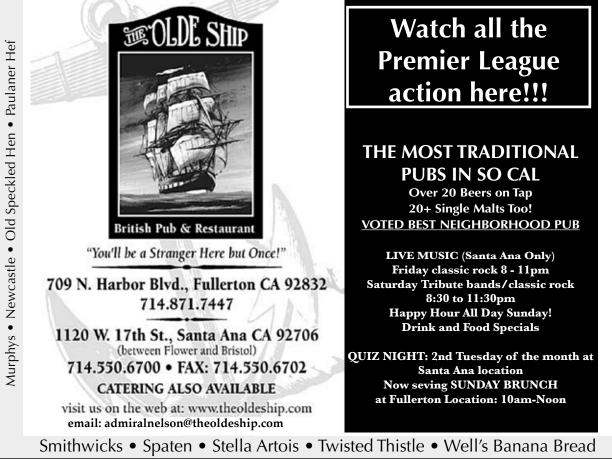

In August 2017, news website Vox published a story about US healthcare, using an image of Scottish First Minister Nicola Sturgeon during a visit to a Glasgow laboratory.

And in 2014, a BBC article about male obesity featured an image of a man's waistline, which turned out to be of then-Schools Secretary Ed Balls from 2008.

I truly believe the quality of life that you gain by living in LA is like no other place in the world. The outdoor lifestyle in Southern California and busy atmosphere with entrepreneurial many attitudes of individuals who live here, not only inspires me but matches with my own entrepreneurial mindset to change the world and better other peoples' lives. Therefore when I was headhunted and given the opportunity to live in the USA again, it certainly was something that I couldn't let pass me by. I then began working on my visa to make it happen.

ARIES: Your planetary guest Uranus is no stranger to drama, as his job is to stir up situations. With this in mind keep a cool head at all times and in all situations. Remember that nothing lasts forever and you could do with a little quiet time.

TAURUS: You need to listen to wiser heads who can direct you to a better direction to move in. Uranus visiting you recently could have stirred you up to boiling point. However, if you have the sense to act on good advice, follow the path of least resistance for a while.

GEMINI: Its very possible you have made (or are about to make) the changes that have been on the back burner for too long. Keep some time these next couple of weeks to have time with longtime good friends. If you act in haste you could have a long time to repent.

CANCER: Venus the love planet visiting your cousin Scorpio will move you to make some changes that have been long overdue. You might feel like you have been spinning around without any direction to focus on. This is about to change soon.

LEO: As the new month begins you could find yourself less restricted in several ways. Your priority should be your own highest good overall. You have been holding on to outdated thoughts and ways for too long. It is time to trust that you are doing better than you think now.

VIRGO: Be on the safe side if someone is resisting in any area; do not get upset, just let it go for now. It will all come together by mid-month. This would be an excellent time to clean out any thing old or outdated in your overall life. Happy Birthday!

LIBRA: Saturn is finally going forward in your area of communications and learning. This means in your overall life that you will be assisted in making any changes r plans in general. Your new year is coming up soon, so clear out and clear up.

SCORPIO: If you have not already had unexpected news then you likely will in your personal relationships. Do not look at this in any way but positive. Now Venus is in your life you can expect within a few days to be back in a better mood.

SAGITTARIUS: Whatever way you look at your life it's a bit of a balancing act currently. The good news is now your boss Jupiter is moving in a positive movement and is going to balance out your life sooner rather than later for you. However do not take any short cuts.

CAPRICORN: It is time to tell the people in your life to back off and give you some space. Whatever is lurking in the shadows of your mind will not come to light to be healed or changed if you continue in denial. Seek out positive people and situations.

AQUARIUS: There will be the much on your agenda these next few days or so. Be open to what you hear from others' feedback, it will be much to your advantage to listen and not react. Work situations may not be moving as fast as you wish, however often no news is good news.

PISCES: This next week or so ahead be ready to make a change of heart or mind. It may bring the change you have asked for and if nothing else you will feel much more in control and ready for anything. Venus in your sights brings pleasure and a little lucky streak.

Celeb spotting and the culture of shaming

We all love celeb spotting but crossing paths with them when they are doing something normal is even more exciting. Random chats with both Marianne Faithful and Vidal Sassoon come to mind, but that was at the Chateau Marmont so I don't feel it really counts. However when I stood behind Sidney Poitier at my local Bristol Farms I did feel like I had a glimpse of a star being 'normal'.

With Los Angles being a bit of a mecca to many celebrities it is not surprising that barely a day passes without stumbling upon someone who has been on the telly at some point or another. One of my all time favorite moments of this pastime happened many years ago. Please forgive me if you've heard it before...I was idling at the traffic lights on Sunset Boulevard very early one Sunday morning, when all of a sudden the door swung open of the car ahead of me and out hopped Dustin Hoffman. Holding a camera, anxiously trying to take a picture before the signal changed. I looked up to see what he was capturing and laughed when I realized it was a massive billboard of his latest movie plastered in prime position on the west facing wall of 9000 Sunset Blvd. For a second I wished I too had a camera handy to record the moment, but was immediately glad that I had let him keep this one for himself.

When you actually think about it, celebrities don't get to have much privacy in public spaces. Think of all the things you get to do privately as a non celebrity – like taking out the trash in your dressing gown without having to put a full face of make up on, or going for a hike up Runyon Canyon and getting red faced and sweaty without a care in the world, or going to work without a photograph of you doing your job being shared with a tabloid.....

The third one is exactly what happened to actor Geoffrey Owens this week. He appeared on the Cosby show (from 1985 - 1992) and has had several cameos on successful shows since then. But to make ends meet he took a job as a cashier at the supermarket Trader Joe's. One of his customers took it upon herself to take a covert snap of Mr Owens whilst he was ringing up her groceries. But that wasn't enough for this amateur paparazzo (the ironically name Karma Lawrence). She then took said photographs and offered them to several tabloids, not surprisingly the notorious Daily Mail snapped them up and published them with the accompanying headline 'From Learning Lines to serving the long line'.

It is obvious that the purpose of this was to shame Mr Owens, who in their eyes had fallen from grace. However, the plan backfired and Owens, who was initially embarrassed, managed to pick himself up again after receiving a huge flood of on line support. Many fellow actors were tweeting the long list of day jobs they had worked along with the hashtag #GeoffreyOwens . Tyler Perry also offered him a role in his new television series. He was even invited on the national breakfast show Good Morning America to discuss the story. He embraced the attention wholeheartedly whilst cheekily wearing his Trader Joe's name badge!

I know lots of you take on side jobs whilst you are between your main gigs. We all know you didn't travel thousands of miles to be a bartender/waiter/ uber driver/dogwalker/ personal trainer etc but we admire you for pursing your dreams and doing whatever it takes to get there. Many of you feel terribly embarrassed by the fact that your chosen career path doesn't yet pay the rent and do your best to keep it on the down low, but please remind yourself that there is no shame in doing an honest day's work. No job makes you a better person than another. It is just daft and delusional to look down on someone who doesn't have a fancy job; in some ways I think that was Geoffrey Owens thinking as his first response after reading the story was devastation but fortunately he soon realized he had nothing to be ashamed off.

Sadly, he still chose to leave his cashier position at Trader Joes, as couldn't bear to face the unwanted attention. However that is great news for those of you who are still looking for a job as I hear they are a fantastic company to work for. dental and vision plans. Visit traderjoes.com/ careers to see if they have a position for you.

We would love to hear your thoughts on this subject - you can contact us on our social media platforms@BritsinLA or via email at info@britsin.la

Lastly there is no Breakfast Club next Tuesday (September 11th) but we will be back as usual on September 18th. So hopefully see some of you then.

Cheers! Eileen

Oscar after-party proves far from a 'Horror Story' for ageless Dame Joan!

Good things come to those who wait apparently - and to those who also have hottest tickets to the Academy Awards afterparties!

At least in Joan Collins' case, as the actress landed her role on the coming season of "American Horror Story" just by being in the right place at the right time.

Oo-er!

"When I first saw it, I went to my agent and said, 'I love this show. Can you get me a role in it?' Nothing," the ageless diva told Town & Country in an interview published in the September issue. "Then I met Ryan Murphy at the Vanity Fair Oscar party, and we had a lovely conversation, but I really didn't think much more of it.

"Two weeks later we go to see Barbra Streisand at the PaleyFest, and I didn't know Ryan was going to be interviewing her. We go backstage afterward to see Barbra, and Ryan says, 'I just made an offer to you!""

"That was how I got

'Dynasty' too: meeting Aaron Spelling at a party," she added. "A lot of things happen when you go to those parties!"

And after weeks of creepy teasers and with just a week until the premiere, the first actual footage of American Horror Story: Apocalypse has arrived!

While this 30 second trailer appears to be a trailer for the longer trailer, there's already plenty here to get us excited. Crashing airplanes! Joan Collins! Jessica Lange will reprise her Season 1 character, Constance, for one episode! And... The return of the latex suit!

No details have been given about Collins's role as yet but Murphy did announce the returns of AHS alums Taissa Farmiga, Gabourey Sidibe, Lily Rabe, Frances Conroy and Stevie Nicks for Season 8 of the franchise, via Twitter on Tuesday.

AHS has already been renewed for a 10th season.... Yup, Season 10, because the Murphy series was previously renewed by FX for eight and nine at the same time...

"American Horror Story: Apocalypse" will premiere Wednesday, September 12 at 10/9c on FX.

Wales sparkle in Giggs debut

produced an Wales exhibition of sparkling attacking football as they thrashed the Republic of Ireland 4-1 in their Nations League opener to give manager Ryan Giggs a handsome victory in his first competitive match in charge on Thursday.

Tom Lawrence set the tone with an emphatic sixth-minute finish from Allen's through Ioe ball, and Gareth Bale whipped in an even better second goal from the edge of the area after a raking cross-field pass from Ben Davies.

Giggs' rampant young side were 3-0 up before half-time as 17-year-old Ethan Ampadu set up Aaron Ramsey, whose low finish left the Irish looking bewildered at Cardiff City Stadium - a ground where they won a vital World Cup qualifying match less than a year ago.

Manager Jose Mourinho said last month he "couldn't be happier" with Pogba.

The France World Cup winner told Sky Germany: "My future is currently in Manchester."

Speaking before the Uefa Nations League match against Germany, Pogba added: "I still have a contract, I am playing there at the moment, but who knows what will happen in the next few months."

Former Juventus midfielder Pogba was dropped to the bench by Mourinho for both legs of United's Champions League last-16 defeat by Sevilla last term.

But he was made captain for the opening two games of the Premier League season in the absence of Antonio Valencia and has scored twice so far.

Reports on Thursday said Pogba will not agitate for a move away from United in January and will remain at the club until at least next summer.

about Asked his relationship with Mourinho, Pogba replied: "We have a pure coachplayer relationship, that's right."

SCOREBOARD THE AGEAS BOWL: England beat

Cook set to leave the stage

I've lost my mental edge, says England's record Test runs scorer

ENGLAND'S all-time leading run scorer Alastair Cook is to step down from international cricket following this weekend's Fifth Test against India.

The former captain said he cried as he told England team-mates he was to a decision he had been considering for six months.

Cook, who averages 18.62 in 2018, said he had lost his "mental edge".

"I was a couple of beers in, otherwise I would have cried more than I actually did," said Cook, who told the team after the fourth-Test win on Sunday.

"At the end of the game I said, 'It might be good news, it might be sad for some, it might be happy for others, but it's time and I have done my bit. I will play one more game'. "There was a little bit of silence, then Mo [Ali] said something, everybody laughed and it was forgotten about."

Cook told captain Joe Root before the fourth Test at Southampton which England won to take an unassailable 3-1 lead in the series - and informed head coach

Trevor Bayliss during the game. "Over the last six months there have been signs in my mind this was going to happen," said Cook, who is England's highest Test run-scorer.

"I had always been mentally tough and had that edge to everything I've done - and that edge had kind of gone."

Cook has scored 12,254 runs and made 32 centuries in 160 Tests - all England records.

He said the highlights of his 12-year career were being named man of the series in Australia in 2010-11 and India in 2012.

Cook scored 766 runs England's Ashes in triumph in Australia in 2010- $\overline{11}$ , and made three successive centuries to help England win in India for the first time in 27 years.

"I can look back and say I became the best player I could have become and that means a lot to me," said Cook, who is sixth on the all-time list of Test run-scorers.

"I was never the most talented cricketer, but I definitely got everything out of my ability."

Cook said the fallout from Kevin Pietersen's sacking in 2014 after the 5-0 Ashes defeat was among the lowest periods of his England career.

Pietersen later made allegations of a bullying culture in the England squad.

CAPTAIN FANTASTIC: "When it was tough I didn't throw the towel in," Cook said.

In 2015, England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) director of cricket Andrew Strauss said Pietersen would not be considered for selection.

"The KP affair was a tough year," said Cook, who was captain at the time.

"I was involved in a decision without being the bloke who made the final decision. It could heen handled have differently.

"The moment when Strauss came on board and said he made the decision was the best thing that happened. There is regret over it - it wasn't great for English cricket."

Cook struggled for form during 2014 and survived calls for him to be replaced as captain before leading England to a home Ashes win the following summer.

"When it was tough I didn't throw the towel in," Cook said. "I was the best man for the job."

Buoyant Root has 'clear vision'

JOE ROOT says sealing series victory against the No1 team in Test cricket can kick-start a charge back to the top for his England side. The England captain said beating India - the 3-1 series win confirmed with a 60-run victory in Southampton on Sunday – was his best series as captain, but he insisted that his side must use it to make real progress as they look ahead to the #### Ashes.

"It is a really exciting time for me and for this team," said Root. "I've got a clear vision of how I see us improving long term as a group and we've got some guys who are very willing to buy into that.

"They are also very realistic, understanding where we currently are and where we could get to. I hope it is a big step in the right direction for us and we can go from strength to strength."

England, who will move from fi fth to fourth in the ICC Test rankings, bowled India out for 184 after setting a target of 245 for victory.
