Crowds flock to Great War tribute at the Tower

TEN thousand flaming torches illuminated the Tower of London this week in a tribute marking the centenary of the end of the First World War.

The first candle was lit by one of the Yeoman Warders of the Tower before three guest lighters representing each of the Armed Forces ignited their own flames. A team of around 100 volunteers dressed in grey overalls then lit the rest of the torches to create a blazing moat.

Guest lighter Corporal Scott Sutherland, of the RAF's Queen's Colour Squadron, said taking part in the ceremony on his 34th birthday was "an honour and a privilege".

He said: "It has been amazing to be able to do this for people who have served in the First World War particularly, but not forgetting the sacrifices others have made as well.

"It was a fitting way to do it. The flames were a really nice touch, especially the number of them, to create that ambiance.

"It's important that we remember the sacrifices people made for the freedoms we enjoy today."

It took around 40 minutes to light all the flames, which burned for four hours accompanied by choral music and words from war poet Mary Borden's Sonnets to a Soldier.

Onlooker Tim Page, 58, from Bath, said the display was "a beautiful way to commemorate" the centenary. He said: "It's hugely important for us all to remember our heritage.

"We all take it for granted but there are thousands of people who lost their lives in the last century to ensure that this country had some freedom. We need to be reminded."

Titled Beyond the Deepening Shadow, the tribute will be repeated each night between 5pm and 9pm until Remembrance Sunday. The display was planned by Tom Piper, the theatre designer who oversaw Blood Swept Lands and Seas of Red – the Tower's 2014 poppy installation.

He said: "We want the flames to spread in 'fingers' of light until the whole moat is ablaze. There is something particularly moving about the processional feel of it all."

Dick Harrold, governor of the Tower of London, said: "What is so special about it is it means many different things. The message with the sound is not focused so much on those that were lost, but those that were left behind, the bereaved and others who were affected by war."

General the Lord Houghton, Constable of HM Tower of London, said: "The First World War claimed the lives of over 18 million people across the globe.

"We remembered them at the Tower on the anniversary of the start of the war, and it feels equally appropriate that we should again commemorate their sacrifice 100 years after hostilities came to an end."

Five men arrested over Grenfell Tower model bonfire video

■ Officers say the men handed themselves in to a south London police station after the "vile" video footage emerged on Monday

Five men have been arrested on suspicion of a public order offence after a video showed a model of Grenfell Tower being burned.

Officers said they arrested two 49-year-olds, a 55-year-old, another man aged 46 and a 19-year-old after they handed themselves in to a south London police station on Monday night.

It comes after Theresa May condemned the video, which emerged online, calling it "utterly unacceptable".

The footage, which was part of a bonfire night celebration, prompted an outcry on Monday, showed a large flammable model marked "Grenfell Tower", complete with paper figures of people at their windows, before it was set on fire.

The blaze at the west London block of flats in June last year killed 72 people.

Responding to the clip, the prime minister tweeted: "To disrespect those who lost their lives at Grenfell Tower, as well as their families and loved ones, is utterly unacceptable."

Home Secretary Sajid Javid also condemned the video, calling it "disgusting, shameful, behaviour".

In the video, members of the group can be heard laughing and shouting "help me, help me".

As the fire climbs up the model building, one of the people question whether they should have put the tower on upside down, because the fire started on the 10th floor.

One person shouts "jump out the window" while another offers the original fire brigade advice before the scale of the tragedy was understood, saying "stay in your flats".

Another voice can be heard saying "that's what happens when they don't pay their rent".

Earlier, Scotland Yard said its Grenfell Tower investigation team was "taking this matter very seriously", adding: "Any offences that have been committed will be fully investigated."

Commander Stuart Cundy said: "I am frankly appalled by the callous nature of the video posted online.

"So many people lost so many loved ones, and many more have been deeply affected. To mock that disaster in such a crude way is vile."

London Fire Commissioner Dany Cotton described the footage as "appalling and disturbing", adding it "cannot be justified on any level".

Two of the men were identified as Bobbi Connell, 19, and his father, Cliff Smith, 49. Aerial footage of the garden belonging to Smith showed signs of a recent fire and a St George's flag, visible in the video, now lying on the grass.

One of the other men in custody is Paul Bussetti, 46, who lives just streets away from the party house. A woman who answered the door at his home, where visitors are greeted by a sign describing the family as "party animals", confirmed Bussetti had handed himself in to police. A family member sobbed as they told reporters: "We're in so much danger now. They didn't want it to go this far. They are not racist. It has been blown out of proportion.

"It was horrible what they've done. Let them try and forget it."

Metropolitan Police Commander Stuart Cundy also described the video as "vile".

He said: "So many people lost so many loved ones, and many more have been deeply affected. "To mock that disaster in such a crude way is vile. I can't imagine the distress this video will undoubtedly cause to bereaved families and survivors."

Flight from hell!

Multiple delays of BA flight leaves hundreds of holidaymakers stranded for three days amid airport chaos

Hundreds of British Airways passengers endured a 'flight from hell' at the weekend when a flight from Orlando to Gatwick took THREE DAYS to reach its destination.

Mechanical problems caused initial delays, but the problem was then exacerbated by what passengers described as a 'shocking lack of communication' from the airline.

Passengers said their frustrations started on Thursday evening when they were shuttled to a hotel in Orlando after their flight was delayed for mechanical issues. But once they arrived found no airline representative or guidance of any kind - they said they were simply given a print out letter.

Customers said they were confused as the departure time kept changing, and the hotel - Rosen Shingle Creek - failed to update them on the time changes.

Many customers took to Twitter to search for answers amid the confusing delays and diversions.

Passenger John Chapman tweeted on Friday: 'What's happening with flight BA 2036, it's nice having extra time in Orlando BA, but you lack of information is appalling, apparently we are not flying till gone midnight, info please, my family and I would like to get home.'

On Friday evening the flight finally took off, but experienced complications where it dumped fuel mid-air and lowered the landing gear at a high altitude, then diverted to JFK airport in New York. As workers scrambled to fix the plane, the passengers were left to sleep on the ground at Terminal 7 at the airport overnight.

Shocking pictures from the airport display a myriad of strewn about suitcases and tired passengers.

Passenger Craig Brown said: 'We have just been dumped with no help or advise, shame on you @ British_Airways this is beyond a joke now' on Twitter on Friday.

'How about you let us into the lounge while we wait instead of sitting on the floor???' he added.

A British Airways spokesperson responded saying: 'I'm afraid we can't offer what you're asking. We're sending a relief aircraft out to JFK to get customers to London as quickly as possible.'

Finally on Saturday, the airline sent a new aircraft as promised to JFK and the 200 passengers were taken off to their final destination – London, where the plane touched down at 6am Sunday morning – 48 hours later than scheduled.

All of which left Lee Sullivan, his partner Kimberley Millhouse, 30, their daughter Amelia and Kimberley's father, Bob Parsons, who spent the half-term break enjoying Disney World, fuming.

Mr Sullivan, from Slough, told The Sun: 'Finally back at LGW after the worst 3 days. I can't think of strong enough words to describe the disgusting BA customer service we received. My daughter also had to spend her 2nd birthday in JFK airport. Exhausted and angry.

'Disney World was amazing but that holiday now feels like years ago - the journey home has completely ruined the holiday.

'I'm just shattered the whole thing's been a nightmare.'

Spice Girls (almost) reunited, but where's Posh?

THE Spice Girls are hitting the road for the first time in a decade – and Mel B is urging Victoria Beckham to say she'll be there.

Scary Spice Melanie Brown has put her lovehate relationship with Posh Spice Victoria aside. Last week she wore a Posh mask in a Halloween costume with a banner saying: "No, I am not going on tour."

She has now called on fashion designer Victoria to be part of the six-date UK tour next June.

Mel, 43, said on Monday: "It's just the four of us that are fully confirmed, but you know, Vic might join us at some point. I hope so, I think it'd be a shame if she didn't."

When questioned on her cheeky Halloween costume, Mel said: "I think she [Victoria] found it a bit funny, probably hated it at the same time.

"She's got a full-on life with all of her work commitments and her fashion line and her kids, so she's just kind of not committing just yet."

But Victoria, 44, has ruled out an on-stage return. Posting a picture of the other four Spice Girls – Mel B, Baby Spice Emma Bunton, 42, Sporty Spice Melanie Chisholm, 44, and 46-year-old Ginger Spice Geri Horner – on Instagram, Victoria wrote: "Today marks a special day for the girls as they announce the first tour dates since we performed together in 2012!

"I won't be joining my girls on stage again but being in the Spice Girls was a hugely important part of my life and I wish them so much love and fun as they go back on tour next year. I know they will put on an amazing show and the fantastic fans past and present are going to have a wonderful time!" Formed in 1994, the band have not performed together since the London Olympics closing ceremony in 2012 and last toured 10 years ago. They performed as a four-piece for two years after Geri quit the band in 1998 and recorded their third album, Forever, in 2000. They are best known for hits including Wannabe, Say You'll Be There, 2

Become 1 and Spice Up Your Life. In February, the five confirmed their plans and in July Mel B said they would reunite this year – but one group member was holding up proceedings. In a joint statement, the Spice Girls said: "We are beyond excited to be reuniting next year for a stadium tour. "Bringing girl power and our message of friendship and love back to the stage feels more relevant than ever. "We hope everyone can join us for one big Spice Girls

Charles makes the distinction between being heir and sovereign in the BBC show

A meddling king? I'm not that stupid, says Charles

The Prince of Wales has sought to quell concerns that he would be a "meddling" or activist king, saying "I'm not that stupid".

His words, the strongest yet on the subject of his kinghood, were broadcast in a documentary on BBC One on Thursday to mark his 70th birthday.

Declaring the role of sovereign and heir to be different, Prince Charles maintains he is aware of the constraints he will encounter as king, and says his behaviour will change. Acknowledging that some people have accused him of being a meddling prince, he argues that he has always tried to be non-party political.

"It is vital to remember there's only room for one sovereign at a time. Not two," he says.

He also says in the documentary, entitled Prince, Son and Heir, Charles at 70: "You can't be the same as the sovereign if you're the Prince of Wales or the heir. But the idea somehow that I'm going to go on in exactly the same way if I have to succeed, is complete nonsense because the two situations are completely different.

"You only have to look at Shakespeare plays, Henry V or Henry IV part I and 2, to see the change that can take place. Because if you become the sovereign then you play the role in the way that it is expected.

"So, clearly I won't be able to do the same things I've done as heir. So, of course, you operate within the constitutional parameters. But it's a different function. I think people have forgotten that the two are very different."

Charles has faced criticism for decades over his campaigning on issues such as GM crops, architecture, integrated medicine, and climate change. When told people have expressed worries that this would continue in the same way, Charles responds: "No. It won't. I'm not that stupid. I do realise that it is a separate exercise being sovereign. So, of course, you know, I understand entirely how that should operate."

Asked if he could continue, as king, to use his "convening power", he replies: "Well, you never know. But you could only do it with the agreement of ministers. That's how it works."

The Duchess of Cornwall says that Charles knows "his destiny" so, she says: "I don't think it does weigh on his shoulders at all." It was not something her husband talked about very much, she says. "It's just something that's going to happen."

In the show the Duke of Cambridge implores his father to spend more time with his grandchildren, George, five, Princess Charlotte, three, and Prince Louis, six months. Appealing to Charles to slow down, he says: "I would like him to have more time with the children."

Prince William adds: "Having more time with him at home would be lovely, and being able to play around with the grandchildren. Because when he's there, he's brilliant. But we need him there as much as possible."

William, 36, has done little to dispel stories that his father - said to work seven days a week, from just after breakfast until midnight - is absent too often. Asked if Charles had time to be a grandfather on top of everything else, William replied: "It's something I'm working more heavily on. I would like him to have more time with the children. Now he's reached his 70th year it's a perfect time to consolidate a little bit, because as most families would do, you are worried about having them around and making sure their health's OK.

"He's the fittest man I know but I want him to be fit until he's 95. So, having more time with him at home would be lovely, and being able to play around with the grandchildren."

72,396 missing victims of the Somme honored at Olympic Park

IT is the picture that graphically shows the unimaginable scale and futility of the First World War's bloodiest battle.

London's Olympic Park on Monday unveiled a moving tribute in which every one of the 72,396 British and Commonwealth soldiers whose bodies were never found after the Battle of the Somme were honored. It features footlong figures to represent each of them, laid out shoulder to shoulder in London's Olympic Park. Each wears a calico shroud hand-sewn by Somerset artist Rob Heard, 53, who spent five years creating the art installation based on a list compiled by the Commonwealth War Graves Commission.

He said: "We've chosen to lay these figures out there with a gap between them. "It is an ordered gap, which is so important because they are individuals. They're not a mass and each one is made to a name."

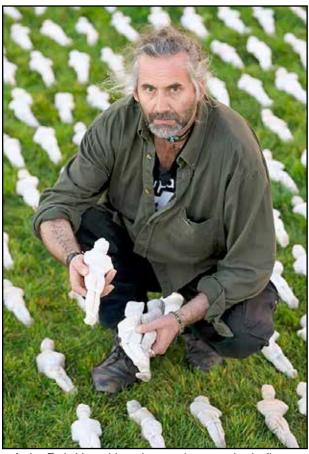

About 420,000 British soldiers, 200,000 French and half a million Germans were killed at the Somme in 1916. Mr Heard began making the figures after he badly injured both hands in a car accident in 2013 and was unable to continue work as a wood carver.

He says: "I was in that dark place that a lot of people go to but it was a time when the lads were coming back from Afghanistan with their arms and legs missing and I just thought, 'This is ridiculous. There are a lot of people worse off'.

"I got thinking about the numbers and then about those in previous wars. I realized how difficult it was to visualize these huge numbers and thought through ways I could physically represent them."

UTTER FUTILITY: each one of the foot-long figures represents an Allied soldier whose body was never found following the 1916 offensive

Artist Rob Heard hand sewed every single figure in the display at London's Olympic Park

Mr Heard made the figures in his shed in Watchet, Somerset, with just two helpers. The Shrouds Of The Somme have been on display in smaller numbers in cities this year but this is the first and only time all the figures have been laid out together. They can be viewed until November 18 and will then be sold in aid of the Armed Forces charity SSAFA and the War Graves Commission.

British actor 'sexiest man alive'

IDRIS Elba this week cemented his status as a Hollywood heart-throb by being named the sexiest man alive.

The British actor and director has set hearts fluttering in screen roles including Luther and The Wire – and was for a time heavily tipped to be the next James Bond, although he has played down the rumors on several occasions.

Hackney-born Elba, 46, is the 33rd winner of the accolade, given yearly by US People magazine. He joins a line-up including Mel Gibson, Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson and David Beckham. The news was revealed on US channel NBC's The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon.

Elba told People: "I was like, 'Come on, no way. Really?' Looked in the mirror, I checked myself out. "I was like, 'Yeah, you are kind of sexy today'. But to be honest, it was just a nice feeling, a nice surprise – an ego boost, for sure."

On Twitter, he later expressed his gratitude and made a plea for Americans to get out and vote in the midterm elections. "Who'd have thought it! Thank you People & all the fans for naming me #SexiestManAlive," wrote the star. "I'm honoured & thankful.

Elba, who is currently taking kickboxing in Havana, lessons Cuba, also told how he endured an awkward stage while growing up. The 6ft 3in actor said: "I was very tall and skinny. And my name was Idrissa Akuna Elba, OK? I got picked on a little bit. "But again, as soon as I could grow a moustache, I was the coolest kid on the block. Grew a moustache, had some muscles, bonkers."

Briton admits killing his newlywed wife at sea

■ Lewis Bennett faces a maximum of eight years in prison after admitting involuntary manslaughter of his wife Isabella Hellmann

A man with dual British and Australian citizenship whose newlywed wife went missing at sea as the couple sailed off the Bahamas on a belated honeymoon pleaded guilty on Monday to an involuntary manslaughter charge in federal court.

Lewis Bennett, 41, of Poole, Dorset, entered the plea at a hearing in Miami, Florida. He faces a maximum eight-year prison sentence in the May 2017 disappearance of Isabella Hellmann, his wife of just three months. The US district judge Federico Moreno set a sentencing date of 10 January 2019.

"Although nothing can ever erase the pain and suffering caused by Lewis Bennett's criminal acts, the US attorney's office and our law enforcement partners hope that the defendant's admission of guilt is a step toward justice for the victim," the federal prosecutor Ariana Fajardo Orshan said in a statement.

Bennett, a mining engineer, had told the FBI and British journalists that he and Hellmann, a south Florida real estate agent, took their 37ft catamaran, Surf Into Summer, for a Caribbean cruise. They left their infant daughter, Emelia, with family in Florida.

As the catamaran passed the Bahamas on the return to Florida, Bennett sent out an emergency radio signal. When the coast guard found him on a life raft three hours later, he told rescuers he had left Hellmann on deck as he retired for the night to their cabin. He said he was jolted awake when their craft hit something and that Hellmann was gone when he went outside. He said he abandoned the catamaran in a life raft because it was sinking.

A sworn document signed by Bennett and filed in court says that he could not recall whether he called out for his wife. He did not deploy any flares and did not search for Hellmann in the water with either the catamaran or an attached dinghy. Nor did Bennett immediately activate any emergency equipment or call for help using his satellite phone.

It was not until Bennett boarded the life raft that he called for help and reported his wife missing, about 45 minutes after he was awakened.

Prosecutors said Bennett was an

received a certification
from the Royal Yachting Association in the United Kingdom as a "coastal skipper". The training included instruction on emergency procedures such as man-overboard protocols and night-sailing safety. His wife was not nearly as experienced.

The coast guard eventually located the boat. The FBI says an inspection of the catamaran before it sank showed portholes below the waterline had been opened and damage to the twin hulls appeared to have been caused from the inside, meaning the boat may have been intentionally scuttled.

Investigators found Bennett on the life raft with $100,000 worth of coins stolen from a yacht he had worked onboard in 2016.

Bennett pleaded guilty to the coin theft charge and received a seven-month prison sentence. While serving that sentence, he was charged in February with Hellmann's death and has remained jailed.

Emma Thompson, made a Dame, tries to steal a kiss...

Oscar-winning actress Emma Thompson has been honored with a damehood in London – and told the press how she tried to steal a kiss from Prince William at the ceremony.

The 59-year-old British star was named a dame by the Duke of Cambridge at a ceremony Wednesday at Buckingham Palace. Thompson wore a teal suit and white sneakers to the event, according to Vanity Fair. The Dame Commander of the Order of the British Empire (DBE) is the female equivalent of a knighthood.

Thompson told reporters she joked with William as he presented her with the honor. The actress is a longtime friend of the royal family and cheekily asked the prince for a kiss.

"I love Prince William," Thompson said after the ceremony. "I've known him since he was little, and we just sniggered at each other. I said, 'I can't kiss you, can I?' And he said, 'No don't!"

Brits in LA

Meet A Member: Valerie Byron

Sale, Cheshire, who moved to LA in 1969.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

My mother had come to Los Angeles in 1968 at the urging of her family, and I joined her the following year. I left my brother and lots of relatives behind. Actually I came to the United States twice. The first time was when I was 12 years old and we stayed here for almost five years.

What was our first impression of Los Angeles - and has it changed?

I thought California was a paradise and loved everything about it. When I immigrated for the second time at age 26,

I still loved Los Angeles and after forty nine years of living here, near the beach, I would not trade it for anything.

What do you miss most from home?

My family, my friends and the British sense of humor.

What do you find the difference biggest is living here versus Cheshire?

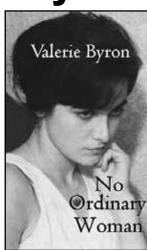

Outdoor living and fabulous weather is the biggest difference for me. The cold North of England in my day was brutal. We didn't have central heating in the homes then, and suffered with a freezing climate.

Do vou have a hidden gem in LA that you want

I am a beach baby. I rarely venture from the South Bay and adore driving down to the ocean and visiting the Terranea Resort in Palos Verdes. The views are stunning and it has a feel of Hawaii about it.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

If you can get here legally, pack your bags and don't look back. I only visit England to see relatives and, to be honest, I kiss the ground when I return to the USA. England's green and pleasant land is not the same to me as it was when I left for the second time in 1969. It has changed enormously in so many ways that I would not want to live there now. Be prepared to embrace this country and assimilate if you really want to be a part of it.

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

England and America are different in many ways. There is good and bad in each country. Try not to have a superior attitude – "Well, England is better because of ..." I used to do that all the time, and it is pointless. If you choose to live here, accept this land with all its beauty and ugliness. Americans are usually generous, open and friendly - willing to accept Brits with open arms.

How can we find out more about you – are you working on anything and retired from a very interesting set of jobs. I worked for Granada Television in Manchester in the 1960s for the Head of Light Entertainment, Johnnie Hamp. He put the Beatles on TV for the first time and discovered basically every pop star of the era. They were When exciting times. I arrived in California, I worked for Universal Studios, and then for a top talent agency, ICM. I mingled with the clients - Raquel Welch, Natalie Wood, Warren Beatty, to name but a few. I then being a mother of two took priority. In 2010 I decided to write my memoirs, No Ordinary Woman, which was accepted by a British publishing house. I went on to write a book of short stories, a novel, and two children's books, all of which can be found on Amazon.com. My daughter had a set of twins when she was 44 years old – and I am their full-time caregiver, while she works. They are two years old and keep me on my toes. Life has been so good to me here in California. I would not wish to live anywhere

THE BRITISH WEEKLY, SAT. NOVEMBER 10, 2018

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: It will be best if you don't make any long-term plans currently as you will find yourself frustrated over delays. But by midweek it will be time to enjoy and relax what your ruler Mars brings up for you, so just go with flow for now.

TAURUS: Write a list of priorities and start with the biggest as your ruler Venus just might be slowing things down while she goes backwards for a few days. The big change you could be waiting for will come next week, especially in finances

GEMINI: Events recently have likely had you feeing unsure of what you should make a priority in your life. You are being prepared to make decisions in key areas, however Mercury is getting ready to slow down, so it's not time for action until later in the month.

CANCER: It's time to make peace or amends with anyone or anything that has caused you upset as chances are you did not really understand the facts. Getting anything achieved in other areas will not be as fast as you would wish as Mercury is soon to slow down until later this month.

LEO: The good news is that whatever has been dragging on for a while in your overall life is getting ready for changes. The good vibes from Jupiter moved into your cousin Sagittarius will accelerate for you to take positive action. You should make a conscious effort to make nice with a family member.

VIRGO: If you find yourself feeling somewhat confused these next few days it's due to your boss Mercury moving backwards. Put your mind into positive mode and try very hard not to worry. By the end of the week you will see a clearer way ahead. All can be resolved with a little patience.

LIBRA: This week is not a good time to be stubborn just so you can prove your point. If you do rest assured you will drag out any situation way longer than is necessary. If you are patient while your boss Venus travels backwards right in the middle of your life, financial situations will improve.

SCORPIO: You should be looking after your self somewhat better now you are in your new year. Attending to any social gathering will be good for you overall and it will be a busy time so be sure to rest up in between, make your own needs a priority as you often put others first. Happy Birthday!

SAGITTARIUS: All that has been happening lately will be an advantage for you overall, even if it does not seem so currently. The best news is that your boss Jupiter is at your service for a full year ahead. You will have advantages in all areas pertaining to finances. It will bring you peace of mind overall.

CAPRICORN: Stress in several areas may be much on your mind this next week. If it is a new situation or something already in motion better be ready and willing to move on it immediately. By the end of the next week will be feeling better about it all.

AQUARIUS: Working towards security in your life overall is highlighted for you this next few weeks. With your boss Uranus getting nearer to settling in Taurus you can relax and have fun. This is not, however, a time to ignore any one in your life who needs some kind of attention.

PISCES: Best take time out now and as by mid month life gets hectic. Money that is due may take longer than expected, so be patient. The news regarding a family member will be better than you expect.

BRITS IN LA

Getting over your election fever?

DID YOU VOTE?

If so you'll know that polling places are a bit odd here in LA. Unlike in the UK where it's usually a school, library or town hall, you can vote almost anywhere here. I heard of some bizarre reports of people voting at a local swimming pool, in a lifeguard station by the Pacific Ocean, an art gallery in Beverly Hills, Some people even voted in a Laundromat. Only in LA, right?

I was asked this year to volunteer as a clerk at my local polling station, which was in a boring old apartment building in Hollywood. Even though it was a long day (6am -10pm), it was really great saying hello and getting to know some of my neighbors. Political views aside, it was rewarding and nice to see so many people excited and helping those who were voting for the first time. Some had their fingers crossed, others were annoyed at the lack of parking opportunities around the station. A little confusion arose as there were two different precincts voting in the same place. But we were extra diligent to make sure that the right people hit the right section at the booths. If you haven't volunteered to help at the booths yet, I highly recommend it....and not just for the cookies and pizzas and doughnuts and coffee kind voters brought to us as a thank you.

It was a very busy day, but the time flew by as it was reported that there were record numbers of people at the polls this year in California which is awesome and shows that people are exercising their right to be heard at the ballot box. Between the electoral college, mid-terms, voting for congressmen and/or senators, local, county and state initiatives and measures, it can all prove difficult to understand for newcomers, and that's understandable. It took me quite a while to figure it out too. But once you have a handle on the system, you can get see how it works at times and how flawed it can be too, regardless of your party preference.

As most of you already know by now, The Democrats took control of the house while the Republicans maintained power in the senate. Nationwide there were some encouraging firsts... Jared Polis became the first-ever openly gay governor for the state of Colorado and Rashida Tlaib and Ilham Omar became the first Muslim elected women Congress. In Minnesota, representative Omar succeeds US Keith Congressman Ellison, who in 2006 became the first Muslim elected to Congress. He is now stepping down to run for state attorney general.

And in Michigan, Ms Tlaib also has a history of breaking barriers in 2008 she became the first Muslim woman elected to the Michigan Legislature and now moves on to the house of representatives. The oldest of 14 children, Ms Tlaib was born to a family of Palestinian immigrants in Detroit, where her father worked at a Ford Motor Co plant. Speaking to MSN, Ms Tlaib linked her campaign to the surge of female political activism in the US following Trump's stunning 2016 victory, alluding to the millions of women that took to the streets of Washington and major cities across the country after his inauguration.

"Today, women across the country are on the ballot. Yes, we marched outside the Capitol, but now we get to march into the Capitol," she wrote on Twitter on Tuesday. "We are coming!"

The midterms had us not only voting on our officials, representatives and governor, but also on measures. We were voting on subjects as diverse as whether we keep daylight savings time year round whether we should the use of cages in egg production completely by 2022. Both measures passed.

Our minds inevitably are gearing up towards the Presidential election of 2020, but before we do here's a summary of this week's results:

Diane Feinstein kept herseatas California State Senator for California and Democrat Gavin Newsom will be our next Governor after beating Republican John Cox in a landslide. It was a tighter race for Lieutenant Governor as both candidates were Democratic candidates, Eleni Kounalakis pipped Ed Hernandez. Secretary of State stayed blue with Alex Padilla beating Republican Mark P. Meuser. Elsewhere Attorney General and Insurance Commissioner both went to Democrats, Xavier Becerra and Ricardo Lara respectively.

Now on to the measures: Measure 1 - Authorizes bonds to fund specified housing assistance programs. This passed with a 62% YES. Measure 2 - Authorizes bonds to fund existing housing programs for individuals with mental illness. This passed with a 67% yes vote.

Measure 3: Authorizes bonds to fund projects for water supply and quality. This didn't pass - 51.17% of people voted NO.

Measure 4: Authorizes bonds funding construction at hospitals providing children's health care. This passed with a 67% YES

Measure 5 - Changes required for certain property owners to transfer their property tax. This didn't pass by 60%

Measure 6: Eliminates certain road repair and transportation funding. This was rejected by 60%.

Measure 7 - Conforms daylight savings time to federal law, allows legislature to change daylight saving's time. Passed with 59%

Measure 8 - regulates amounts outpatients kidney dialysis clinics charge for dialysis treatment - Californians voted sagainsrt this measure with 59%

Measure 10 - Expands local governments authority to enact rent control on residential property. This was a NO in a close race with only 52%

Measure 11 - Requires private sector emergency ambulance employees to remain on call during work breaks. - the people voted yes with a 60% vote.

Measure 12 - Nearly 70% people votes YES on this measure that establishes new standards for the confinement of specified farm animals.

For those that could vote and did thank you, and for those that can't vote yet, you can still get involved and volunteer!

See you next time round!

Scary finances driving Spice Girls reunion?

Is she broke or not?

This week Mel B claimed that she 'needs the money' from the upcoming Spice Girls reunion tour to pay off her divorce....before backtracking and claiming she's 'quite rich' and that she was only joking...

But was she?

Oo-er!

The 43-year-old singer claimed she is in dire need of extra cash following her lengthy dispute with ex-husband Stephen Belafonte. When asked during an interview on Heart radio who needs the money most, Mel – who has daughters Angel, Phoenix and Madison from three previous relationships – instantly put herself forward.

She said: "Me because I'm divorced!"

"Ginger Spice" Geri Horner backed Mel's quip, as she added: "Do you know what, I love her honesty. Don't you just love that? A breath of fresh air! Bulletproof."

Mel swiftly backtracked, and claimed she wasn't fazed by the $3.5million pay cheque each singer would receive because she is "actually quite rich".

She continued: "Actually can I rectify – I actually don't need the money because I'm actually quite rich.

"I'm just doing it because I love you ladies! That's all!"

Mel and Stephen – who married in 2007 – were embroiled in a long and vicious court battle for over a year after their split in December 2016, amid claims the mogul was having an affair with their nanny.

As part of the terms agreed by a Los Angeles judge, Mel had to pay £270,000 legal fees, half of which were demanded at the time, while the other was due when their $9million mansion sold.

The Spice Up Your Life hitmaker was also ordered to pay her ex just under $7,000 a month in child support for their daughter Madison.

Mel and Stephen were also told to pay $1,250,000 to cover taxes they both owe.

That's an awful lot of lolly!

Oo-er!

NONE DIRECTION!

Malix nixes reunion talk

Singer Zayn Malik has accused his former bandmates of being spiteful after he decided to leave the group back in 2015.

The Pillow Talk crooner (pictured, right) has crushed hopes of a One Direction reunion with all five members once and for all.

Oo-bloody-er!

Revealing the true extent of the bitter fallout for the first time, the singer told Vogue magazine's December issue: "I ain't spoke to any of them for a long time.

"There are things that happen and things that were said after I left – snide things, small things that I would never have expected. The relationships had broken apart."

Although Zayn doesn't outwardly mention his fraught relationship with Harry Styles, the interviewer brings it up, saying: "It was no secret that even when touring together, Zayn and Harry had as little to do with one another as possible, and though he was pally enough with the rest of the boys, they are no longer in touch.

"The love lost is minimal."

Zayn added: "That's just the way it is. People move on, people grow apart, people grow up.

"We went from theatres to arenas to stadiums, there was never any sort of bridge between. Just boom, boom, boom.

"I guess that kind of progression affects you a little bit. People take it different ways, especially when there are five personalities."

There is one relationship that Zayn still has intact – the one with his model girlfriend Gigi.

That's one relationship that most definitely has NOT 'Hadid'!

Bournemouth striker Callum Wilson is a £35m target for Chelsea, claims The Sun. The 26-year-old earned his first England call-up on Thursday.

West Ham are considering a move for 31-year-old former Arsenal and Manchester City midfielder Samir Nasri, with the Frenchman a free agent after serving an 18-month drugs ban. (Daily Mirror).

And Athletic Bilbao could make a January move for Tottenham's Spanish striker Fernando Llorente. (Independent) that to win the game but they didn't and we came back. It is a very big step for the group.

"I practise free-kicks a lot and right now I have a lot of confidence when there is one close to the box. "Ronaldo's goal was a beauty - he can always punish you in lots of different ways.

"A victory like this can give a lot of confidence to the team because we were facing a great side."

Former Juve star Paul Pogba was on hand to help force the crucial own-goal and said: "We won, that was the most important thing.

"The fans were very welcoming with me and I really appreciate that. We played against a good team, but the three points were most important.

"I celebrate for the goal. It was strange. It touched a lot of people. We've been playing well together and until the end we've done very well. We had maybe an extra breath or power to push it at the end."

Kane to the rescue for Spurs

Harry Kane was the familiar hero as his two late goals earned Tottenham a 2-1 win over PSV and kept their Champions League hopes alive Tuesday night.

Spurs' faltering Group B campaign looked like hitting a new low after Luuk de Jong put the Dutch side ahead after only a minute at Wembley, which left Mauricio Pochettino's men on the brink of being knocked out.

But Kane (pictured, above) stood up when it mattered to rescue his side, equalizing in the 78th minute and then being the beneficiary of an extremely kind deflection 11 minutes later to complete the turnaround.

The win, Spurs' first of the group stage, leaves them in third place, three points behind Inter Milan, who visit Wembley in three weeks.

However, Spurs could not have envisaged having to go on a rescue mission as early as they did as they fell behind with only 62 seconds on the clock.

Their vulnerability from set-pieces was again exposed as De Jong, who scored PSV's late equaliser in Eindhoven a fortnight ago, out-jumped everyone and planted a firm header into the corner from Gaston Pereiro's corner.

The hosts dusted themselves down and the chances soon racked up for them to have turned the game around by the half-hour mark.

Dele Alli had an effort cleared off the line, Christian Eriksen's deflected strike flew just wide before a dynamic run by Lucas Moura yielded three separate shots on goal, the last of which came with the Brazilian on the floor where he hooked over.

PSV were frightened to death of Moura's pace and he created another opening but a smart double save from Jeroen Zoet kept the visitors ahead, first stopping Eriksen and then Alli from the rebound.

Spurs eventually got their reward with 12 minutes of normal time remaining when Kane fired home his third goal of the Champions League campaign after latching on to Fernando Llorente's knock down.

His fourth came in the 89th minute - after goalkeeper Paulo Gazzaniga had saved well from Donyell Malen - came with a huge slice of luck as the England captain's header hit two PSV defenders on the way to wrongfooting the unfortunate Zoet.

Reds lose their mojo

Manager Jurgen
Klopp said Liverpool struggled to "find their mojo" as two early goals
from Milan Pavkov gave Red Star Belgrade
a shock victory in their Champions League
group-stage encounter on Tuesday night.

Victory could have taken Liverpool three points clear at the top of Group C but they dropped to second following Napoli's draw with Paris St-Germain in Italy.

Forward Pavkov headed his side into the lead after 21 minutes and fired home a powerful effort to make it 2-0 shortly afterwards.

"I saw a few games like this already and it is really difficult to find your mojo," Klopp said.

"We made life a bit too easy. I don't say it is already serious if you lose twice but we have to make sure it will not not happen again.

"We had a lot of moments when we could get in control of the game and we didn't do it, we just made the wrong decision." Red Star dominated the first half and came close through Vujadin Savic and El Fardou Ben Nabouhane before Pavkov's opening goal.

Liverpool's Daniel Sturridge squandered a great chance from six yards out in the 17th minute.

Klopp's side had more than 80% of the possession and hit the woodwork twice in the second half but could not score as Red Star recorded their 10th clean sheet in their past 15 home games in Europe.

City six shooters shatter Shakhtar

Manchester City recorded their biggest win in the Champions League in midweek as they thrashed Shakhtar Donetsk - but an injury-time goal in the other Group F match meant they must wait to secure qualification for the last 16.

Pep Guardiola's side are top of the group and were heading into the next phase, until 10-man Hoffenheim came from 2-0 down and scored a 92nd-minute equaliser to draw 2-2 with Lyon.

But City will qualify as group winners with one game to spare if they beat Lyon in France on Tuesday, 27 November.

"Unfortunately we haven't qualified, but we are so close and will try to maintain this level," said Guardiola.

They dominated against the Ukrainians as a hat-trick from Gabriel Jesus, including a bizarre penalty, and goals from David Silva, Riyad Mahrez and Raheem Sterling gave City a 6-0 win, eclipsing their 5-0 away success against Steaua Bucharest in the first leg of a play-off tie in August 2016.

"After the first game against Lyon, we were then down against Hoffenheim, so the situation was so dangerous but since then we have got three wins and we still need more points to get to the next stage," added Guardiola.

Giroud strike sees Blues through

Olivier Giroud's first goal of the season helped Chelsea into the last 32 of the Europa League as they edged to victory over Bate Borisov on Thursday.

The France international headed Emerson's cross in at the near post early in the second period to maintain the Blues' 100% Group L record.

Chelsea are now six points clear of Hungarian side MOL Vidi, who moved up to second in the group with a win over PAOK Salonika.

In a tightly-packed Borisov Arena it was the hosts, who had confirmed their 13th consecutive Belarusian league title on Sunday, who initially went on the offensive.

During a 60-second period, Bate twice carved out opportunities with Dmitri Baga's rasping drive hitting the post and Chelsea keeper Kepa Arrizabalaga athletically saving Stanislav Dragun's header from a corner.

But as Chelsea grew more assured, the hosts retreated, and early in the second half Emerson's cross allowed Giroud to nod the ball in at the near post, his first goal since May.

Two goals in a minute gave Spartak Moscow a thrilling win that ends Rangers' 11-game unbeaten run in the Europa League this season on Thursday.

Rangers had taken the lead three times in the first half through Roman Eremenko's own goal and fine strikes by Daniel Candeias and Glenn Middleton.

But they were pegged back by Lorenzo Melgarejo, a Connor Goldson own goal and, after the break, by Luis Adriano.

And Sofiane Hanni's drive deflected off Goldson to give the home side victory.

It means that the Russians, who drew 0-0 at Ibrox last month but whose poor domestic has continued under caretaker boss Raul Riancho, leapfrog Rangers into second place in Group G thanks to a better head-to-head record.

Players behind final Rooney cap

"Wayne was an amazing player for us....we should all embrace it and give him the send-off he deserves." - Harry Kane

HARRY KANE has revealed Gareth Southgate consulted senior England players before he decided to hand Wayne Rooney his 120th and final cap.

And the man who led England to Russia this summer says he has no problem handing over the captain's armband if the former Three Lions skipper is given a late cameo appearance as a substitute as expected in the friendly against the USA at Wembley on Thursday.

The FA have come criticism under "cheapening" the value of an England cap by taking the unprecedented decision to play Rooney at some point in the game against USA, not on merit

as recognition of his service to the country in 15 years as an international player, but Kane said the squad has no problems with giving grace-andfavour awards to senior England players - not least the country's record goalscorer with 53 goals.

"We spoke previously about doing something for the players who have amazing milestones. amazing international careers," he said. "It was me and the gaffer and a couple of players. I didn't know it was going to be this week but I knew it was an idea that Gareth wanted to do.

"Wayne was amazing player for us, one of our greatest-ever players. It will be nice to see him again and train with him again.

"I think the fans will embrace it. We should all embrace it and give him the send-off he deserves."

Rooney will be named the official captain if he is not in the starting line-up. But Kane admitted that once he is on the pitch, it is inevitable he will become the natural leader.

"Would I give him the armband? Yes, of course," said Kane. "He deserves it. He was a great captain for us."

Southgate described criticism of the decision as 'strange'.

"There have been ongoing discussions since Wayne retired about paying tribute to him and his England career," said the manager, who added Rooney had declined an opportunity to be honoured ahead of the World Cup so as not to take the attention away from those going to Russia.

BACK ON DUTY: Wayne Rooney will be capped against the USA

"Those discussions started 12 months ago. We have an opportunity with the game at Wembley to pay tribute.

"I am still able to look to the future with the squad we've picked, but we've talked a lot about the history of the shirt.

"We have brought players former to speak and present shirts. I think all the players respect Wayne's contribution and that he deserves the best possible send-off."

Arsenal through but Welbeck iniured

Arsenal qualified for the last 32 of the Europa League after a match marred by forward Danny Welbeck suffering what appeared to be a serious ankle injury.

The Gunners were held to a goalless draw by Portuguese side Sporting Lisbon at Emirates Stadium Thursday night to join Chelsea in the next phase.

Sporting ended the game with 10 men when ex-Barcelona defender Jeremy Mathieu was shown a straight red card after fouling Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang when he was clean through on goal - although the hosts could not find a winner.

But the fixture was overshadowed the injury to England international Welbeck, who was carried off on a stretcher.

The 27-year-old was hurt in the 25th minute when he jumped for a header and landed badly on his right ankle (above).

He received oxygen and had his leg in a protective brace as he was taken off the pitch, with up to 10 medical staff around him as he received treatment.

Welbeck has scored five goals this season, played for England against Spain in September and had been named in Gareth Southgate's latest squad for the friendly with the United States and the Nations League match against Croatia.

CELTIC scored 14 seconds after conceding to secure a dramatic victory over RB Leipzig to keep their Europa League dreams on track.

Leipzig's Jean-Kevin Augustin equalised with a header on 78 minutes but straight from the restart Odsonne Edouard struck to give Brendan Rodgers' men the win.

Knowing defeat could have eliminated them with two games to go, Kieran Tierney had put the hosts ahead early on.

Celtic sit third in Group B, level with Leipzig, but trail on head-to-head.

The Scottish champions travel to Trondheim to face Rosenborg next on November 29, before finishing at home to Salzburg a fortnight later.
