- Brexit Chaos deepens as May wins confidence vote but says she'll quit before next election
- PM left with nowhere to go as MPs demand a better Brexit deal - which the EU refuses to renegotiate

THERESA May was left twisting in the wind on Thursday as European Union leaders firmly rebuffed her bid to renegotiate the Brexit withdrawal agreement.

The Prime Minister, already bloodied from surviving a no-confidence vote in her leadership on Tuesday which saw over a third of her party declining to support her, was told the existing deal – which has no chance of being approved at Westminster - was “not open for renegotiation”.

The Prime Minister wanted legal assurances on the ‘Irish backstop’ to help her deal get through Parliament, after she delayed a Commons vote in anticipation of defeat.

The PM said the deal was “at risk” if MPs’ concerns could not be addressed.

But European Commission president Jean-Claude Juncker said there could be clarifications but no renegotiation.

He urged the UK to set out more clearly what it wants, adding that the commission will publish information on 19 December on its preparations for a no-deal Brexit.

Mrs May returned to Brussels for a summit with EU leaders on Thursday, at the end of a tumultuous week that has seen her first delay the vote on the withdrawal agreement in Parliament, then win a vote of confidence brought by MPs unhappy with it.

A clearly humbled and occasionally tearful Mrs May vowed to listen to the concerns of the 37% of Tory MPs who voted against her and was hoping to “assuage” their concerns about the controversial “backstop” plan in the agreement.

Critics say the backstop - aimed at preventing a hard border in Northern Ireland - would keep the UK tied to EU rules indefinitely and curb its ability to strike trade deals.

Conservative MPs demanded changes to the backstop to make it clear that it could not last forever, and the UK could terminate the arrangement on its own.

At the summit, Mrs May was seeking legal assurances that the backstop, if used, would be temporary.

But if this meeting in Brussels was meant to provide Theresa May with the beginnings of an escape route from her Brexit conundrum, reality soon intervened.

At one of her most vulnerable political moments Number 10 was hopeful at least of an indication of a potential solution to the most intense of a long list of Brexit problems - the controversial so-called backstop designed to guarantee against a hard Irish border.

But right now, that’s simply not on offer.

EU leaders made plain their warnings that their divorce deal with Britain was not up for negotiation were real.

Requests for change to ease the Westminster politics were not fulfilled, with key phrases from a more accommodating draft gone by midnight.

But the rejection gives succour perhaps to those in government who want their critics to accept that the prime minister’s deal

News from Britain

Confused by Brexit? So are we. Here's a little explainer...

WHAT IS BREXIT?

Brexit is short for "British exit" - and is the word people use to talk about the United Kingdom's decision to leave the EU (European Union).

Why is the UK leaving?

A public vote - called a referendum - was held on Thursday 23 June 2016 when voters were asked just one question - whether the UK should leave or remain in the European Union. The Leave side won (by nearly 52% to 48%) but the exit didn't occur straight away. It's due to happen on 29 March 2019, although Mrs May has said it would have to be delayed, or stopped, if there was a Conservative leadership contest.

What has happened so far?

The vote was just the start. Since then, negotiations have been taking place between the UK and the other EU countries. The discussions have been mainly over the "divorce" deal, which sets out exactly how the UK leaves - not what will happen afterwards. This deal is known as the withdrawal agreement.

What has been agreed?

The withdrawal agreement covers some of these key points: How much money the UK will have to pay the EU in order to break the partnership - that's about £39bn. What will happen to UK citizens living elsewhere in the EU, and equally, what will happen to EU citizens living in the UK. How to avoid the return of a physical border between Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland when it becomes the frontier between the UK and the EU

A length of time, called the transition period, has been agreed to allow the UK and EU to make a trade deal and to give businesses the time to adjust.

That means that if the withdrawal agreement gets the green light, there will be no huge changes between 29 March 2019 and 31 December 2020.

Another, much shorter, document has also been drawn up that gives an overview of what the UK and EU's future relationship will be in the longer term.

This is the political declaration. However, neither side has to stick exactly to what it says - it is a set of ambitions for the future talks.

What happens next?

Now that leaders of the other 27 EU countries have signed off the withdrawal agreement and political declaration, UK Prime Minister Theresa May needs to persuade MPs in her own Parliament to back it.

Will the deal get through the UK Parliament?

Well, at the moment it looks like it might not. The vote on it was meant to take place on 11 December, but Mrs May postponed it, admitting the deal didn't have enough support to pass.

The prime minister said she would try and ask the EU for changes, before bringing the deal back to Parliament by 21 January. However, this move sparked more criticism, and Mrs May faced a vote by Tory MPs over whether she should continue to lead her party. She won by 200 votes to 117.

What do critics of the deal say?

There are a broad range of complaints, many of which centre around a perceived failure to take back full control of UK affairs from the EU. One of the biggest sticking points has been over what happens at the Irish border. Both the EU and UK want to avoid the return of guard posts and checks, so something called the backstop - a sort of safety net - was included in the deal.

However, it would mean that Northern Ireland - but not the rest of the UK - would still follow some EU rules on things such as food products.

The backstop is meant to be a last resort and the prime minister insists that if all goes as planned it will never be used.

But it has annoyed some MPs, who are angry that the UK would not be able to end it without the EU's permission and so EU rules could remain in place for good.

What happens if Parliament rejects the deal?

It's not very clear. The default position would be for the UK to leave the EU without a deal, but the government would have up to 21 days to suggest another way forward to MPs.

Possibilities include the prime minister being allowed to have a second go at getting her deal accepted by Parliament.

So will we definitely leave on 29 March 2019?

It is written into law that the UK will be leaving on that date at 11pm UK time.

MAY:

may be genuinely, as good as it gets.

In comments released by Downing Street on Thursday, Mrs May told EU leaders she firmly believed the deal could get through the Commons and told them: "Let's work together intensively to get this deal over the line in the best interests of all our people."

And she said it was in everyone's interests for the deal to be "delivered in an orderly way and to get it done now" rather than "to run the risk of an accidental 'no deal' with all the disruption that would bring or to allow this to drag on any further".

"There is a majority in my Parliament who want to leave with a deal so with the right assurances this deal can be passed. Indeed it is the only deal capable of getting through my Parliament," she said.

"Over the last two

But if there is no deal, or Parliament rejects the deal, it is impossible to say with any certainty what will happen next.

The deadline of 29 March could be extended - and the European Court of Justice has said the UK could even cancel Brexit altogether without the agreement of other nations.

No deal" means the UK would have failed to agree a withdrawal agreement.

That would mean there would be no transition period after 29 March 2019, and EU laws would stop applying to the UK immediately. The government has started planning for this potential situation.

It has published a series of guides - which cover everything from pet passports to the impact on electricity supplies.

years, I hope that I have shown you that you can trust me to do what is right, not always what is easy, however difficult that might be for me politically."

Mr Juncker urged the UK to tell the EU what it wants in the future relationship.

"Our UK friends need to say what they want, instead of asking us to say what we want and so we would like within a few weeks our UK friends to set out their expectations for us, because this debate is sometimes nebulous and imprecise and I would like clarifications," he said.

The European Council's conclusions on Brexit - published on Thursday evening - say the EU would use its "best endeavours to negotiate and conclude expeditiously a subsequent agreement that would replace the backstop, and would expect the same of the United Kingdom, so that the backstop would only be in place for as long as strictly necessary".

CAMERON: I was right to call referendum

DAVID Cameron has defended his decision to call the Brexit vote but admitted he was concerned at today's chaos.

The former Prime Minister (pictured) spoke out after reporters asked him if he should "apologise to the British people". He said: "Of course I don't regret calling a referendum. I made a promise in the election to call a referendum and I called the referendum.

"Obviously I'm very concerned about what's happening today but I do support the Prime Minister in her efforts to try and have a close partnership with the EU."

Mr Cameron's remarks came hours after Theresa May delayed her crunch Brexit vote. He has been criticised for calling the referendum and then resigning the morning after.

Previously he claimed Brexit would be "an act of economic and political self-harm".

Meanwhile, ex-PM Sir John Major called for Brexit to be scrapped after the European Court of Justice ruled the UK could withdraw its Article 50 exit notice unilaterally.

"Whether you are a Remainer or Leaver, no one can welcome chaos," he told the Institute of International and European Affairs in Dublin. "There is no shred of doubt in my mind that we need to revoke Article 50 with immediate effect."

Pay up to visit Europe, Brits told

Britons will have to pay €7 (£6.30) every three years to travel to EU countries, as a consequence of Brexit.

The European Commission has confirmed that while UK travellers will not need a visa, they will need to apply for and buy another document.

It is called an ETIAS (European Travel Information and Authorisation System) and although not launched yet, is expected to come into force in 2021.

The travel requirement is not just for the UK but for many non-EU countries.

Citizens of EU countries - which currently includes British people - are able to travel anywhere in the EU.

But anyone from a non-EU country has to apply for a visa - unless they are from a special list of 61 countries, which also includes the US, Japan and Australia. Nationals from these 61 countries can travel within the EU's Schengen zone - the area where people can travel without border checks - for up to 90 days without a visa.

However, because of the migrant crisis and security concerns over terrorism, the EU has decided to bring in more controls over the countries on this special list.

So it is introducing the ETIAS - an electronic application form - which is Europe's version of the United States' $14 ESTA, although as the EU Commission points out, it is "way cheaper".

It is not a visa but a travel requirement for anyone on that list of 61 non-EU countries who are coming to the EU for business, tourism, medical or transit-related reasons for up to 90 days.

No. 10 rebuffs second vote call

BREXITEER Cabinet minister Liam Fox was slapped down by No 10 this week after floating the idea of a second referendum. The International Trade Secretary hinted that voters could go back to the polls to settle the stalemate over Britain's exit from the EU. "Let us be very clear: the one thing that will not be on offer in any further referendum, just as it was not in the last one, is the status quo, inside the EU," he wrote in the Daily Telegraph. The comments were seized on by second referendum supporters, who claimed that he was "conceding" that a new poll was "more likely than ever". But a statement from Downing Street swiftly shut down the notion: "The Prime Minister's position is a referendum is not going to be held."

Kiwi PM apologizes for death of British backpacker

"There is this overwhelming sense of hurt and shame that this has happened in our country."

NEW Zealand's Prime Minister this week issued an emotional apology to the heartbroken family of a British backpacker murdered in the country.

The body of Grace Millane, 22, was found in bushes near Auckland on Sunday. Jesse Kempson, 26, appeared in court yesterday over the death. Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern choked back her emotions as she made a public statement. She said: "I cannot imagine the grief of her family and what they would be experiencing and feeling right now.

"My thoughts and prayers are with her father David, who is in the country, her mother Gillian, who cannot be here, and her wider family, friends and loved ones.

"From the Kiwis I have spoken to, there is this overwhelming sense of hurt and shame that this has happened in our country, a place that prides itself on our hospitality, on our manaakitanga [a Maori term for kindness and generosity] especially to those who are visiting our shores.

"So, on behalf of New Zealand, I want to apologise to Grace's family. Your daughter should have been safe here, and she wasn't and I'm sorry for that."

Just hours earlier, Kempson was remanded in custody after a 90-minute court appearance in Auckland. As the suspect was led away from the court, a man in the public gallery shouted "scumbag" at him.

'male companion'

Judge Evangelos Thomas, addressing Grace's family, said: "I don't know what to say to you at this time, but your grief must be desperate.

"We all hope justice will be fair and swift and

GRACE MILLANE: round the world trip

ultimately brings you some peace."

Detectives confirmed on Sunday that Grace's body had been dumped in bushes near a road through countryside 12 miles west of Auckland city centre. She was last seen with a "male companion" at the CityLife hotel in Auckland on Saturday, December 1 – a day before her birthday. Officers are urging anyone who saw a red rental car dumped in Taupo – 186 miles away from Auckland – to contact them. Police believe the alleged killer used the vehicle to move her body.

Court documents stated that Grace was killed between December 1 and 2. They also revealed that Kempson lived on the same street as the backpacker hostel where Grace was staying. His grandmother described him as a "very confused young man". It also emerged that he had posted the message, "beautiful, very radiant" next to one of Grace's Facebook photographs on the day she went missing. He will next appear in court in Auckland on January 23.

Grace, from Wickford, Essex, had been on a round-the-world trip after completing her university studies and was in contact with her family almost every day. She arrived in New Zealand from Peru on November 20 after spending six weeks in South America. Matthew Searle, of the Lucie Blackman Trust, which supports families of those killed abroad, said the 22-year-old's body will most likely be released to her family this week. He said: "They have now done the autopsy so theoretically she may be released today and the family may be able to make arrangements to bring her home tomorrow. What quite often happens in this situation is the family will wait there until Grace is ready to come home and then they will fly on the same plane as her for the repatriation.

"For the parent it is bringing their baby girl home. It's an important thing to do for them."

The Lucie Blackman Trust said the response to Grace's murder had been "unprecedented". Mr Searle added: "It's business people, it's MPs, it's the general public. I have never seen anything like it."

Aggers chides Lineker: Drop the politics and stick to sport

Gary Lineker has come under fire from his BBC colleague, star cricket commentator Jonathan Agnew, for his frequent outbursts against Brexit.

The former professional cricketer publicly chided the Match of The Day host on Twitter, writing: "Gary. You are the face of BBC Sport. Please observe BBC editorial guidelines and keep your political views, whatever they are and whatever the subject, to yourself.

"I'd be sacked if I followed your example. Thanks."

He then followed this up by tweeting a link to the BBC Editorial Guidelines.

The guidelines ask the broadcaster's staff to remain impartial on controversial matters both on TV and radio, as well as in external activities.

The rules say: "The external activities of staff, presenters and others who contribute to our output can also affect the BBC's reputation for impartiality."

Mr Lineker responded to the tweet saying: "Jonathan, I'm the face of my own Twitter account. I'll continue to tweet when I like and if folk disagree with me then so be it. Thank you so much for your concern, which, I imagine, wouldn't be a concern at all if you agreed with me."

The Match of The Day host is well-known for his frequent outbursts against Brexit, Donald Trump and the Conservative Party, and campaigns for a "People's Vote."

On Thursday, Mr Lineker criticised his fellow Leicester City legend Peter Shilton for praising Jacob Rees-Mogg.

The former England footballer, who played alongside Mr Lineker in the 1986 World Cup, said on Twitter: "Have been so impressed with @Jacob_Rees_Mogg @Conservatives @itvnews with interviews in the last few days. He really knows what he is talking about and puts it across in a calm and calculated manner!"

Mr Lineker responded: "What's that old saying? You should never see a tweet from your heroes?"

He also hit out at another 1986 World Cup player, Chris Waddle, who said "let's leave Brexit with no deal, we'll be fine." The BBC presenter told him to "stick to football."

Lineker has been accused of breaking BBC editorial guidelines by Jonathan Agnew

Mr Lineker, who is hosting BBC show Have I Got News For You this Friday, campaigns for Remain or a People's Vote frequently on Twitter.

He has said that blocking Brexit is more important to him than football and backed the campaign for a second referendum this summer.

He said: "I find the whole thing more bewildering and worrying than ever.

"Whether you voted Leave or Remain, did anyone really vote for the mess we seem to be in, let alone the prospect of no deal with all the terrible consequences attached to that?"

PAUL Gascoigne denied sexually assaulting a fellow passenger on a train when he appeared in court on Monday. The former England football star arrived at Peterlee magistrates court dressed in a blue suit, blue shirt and white and tan brogues. The 51-year-old was arrested at Durham station on August 20 by British Transport Police and was District Judge Kristina Harrison told the court: "The allegation is one of sexual assault and the prosecution says it involves kissing a female passenger on a train. Brits in LA

Meet A Member: Rachel Shapiro

Meet Rachael Shapiro from New York who moved to LA 20 years ago to continue her career in entertainment.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

I'd been working in film and TV in New York since the late 80s and used to visit LA on business, for press conferences and other work. Clearly LA is the leading city in the US if you work in film, TV and digital content so it made sense to spend some time working here. In addition, I'd always liked an active lifestyle but living in a metropolitan city, it was a challenge to fit it all in. If you didn't keep a car in the city just getting out for hikes or beach sports took a great deal of coordinating. I'd been to LA enough to realize that I could work and play, the beaches and mountains were very accessible. Seemed like a great way to have a balanced lifestyle.

What do you miss most from home?

For sure, my long-time friends and family, the brisk, fall weather and the bustling streets of Manhattan. Especially now that I have my own family, I do miss the opportunity of easy cousin gatherings and family get-togethers with extended family.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

I'd already been coming to LA on business for a few years so I did know what to expect more or less. But I do recall on those early trips being struck by how many people there seemed to be out and about. I mean, didn't anyone work in an office? No matter where I went, there were tons of people who seemed to be doing anything but work. But then, between the weather and ease with which people were able to do contract work, it started to make sense. Now living here and working in a freelance capacity or as a consultant, I can fully appreciate how great it is to work on your own time and create your own schedule.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus NY?

I had been living in the heart of Manhattan so first thing of course is the transportation! Walking and subways have been replaced by driving and biking. Then there's the weather - of course always the weather! The change of seasons on the East Coast is so much more evident than the mild changes we get here in LA. But, too, it is always nice and feels like a constant vacation here. The life in NY is so much faster, busier, more crowded.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

I live in Venice and our favorite restaurant is 26 Beach. It is not large but the food is fantastic and the service is great. I don't know if many beyond the locals know it but I highly recommend it.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Research the neighborhoods and be sure to pick a spot not too far from work. The traffic has become terrible in the years I've been on the Westside and that shows no sign of letting up. Decide what is more important to you - lifestyle during the week or on weekends. If you like city activities or beach/outdoors and then pick your area based on that. Also, if you don't already have a network of friends or co-workers, be prepared to step out of your comfort zone. Join a sports league or club for your hobby. LA as so many groups and placed where you can find like-minded friends, many also transplants eager to connect and make new friends.

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

Try to create a good work-life balance. Many here get caught up in trying to do everything at the same time and burn out quickly. When I left NY,

I left a very fulfilling job and lots of friends. The job took many hours and included a lot of travel; The friends were and still are life long and we ran around the City taking it all in. But simply put, I was more than just a little burned out. The move served to re-invigorate me and let me engage in new hobbies and sports.

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you working on anything at the moment?

Yes, I am managing a channel on Amazon called Best of British (amazon.com/channels/bestofbritish) so I am constantly looking for ways to reach our potential fans and subscribers on Amazon. We use social media, follow blogs, and try to show the genuine shows from home - comedies, factual, docu-series, reality shows - we have recently added Australia,

BRITS IN LA

First off, a massive thank you to everyone who came out for Sandro's Birthday Pub Quiz this week.

The Cat & Fiddle was jammed to standing room only; we adore Sandro, so it was lovely to see that so many of you appreciate him too. He is off for the holidays so our very own Craig Robert Young will be standing in as quizmaster next week and hosting our last trivia night of 2018. Dig your ugly sweaters out as The Cat & Fiddle will be awarding a bottle of Jamesons Irish Caskmate Stout to the best/worst one!

So join us next Tuesday December 18th - start time is 8pm but we recommend getting there by 7.40 to get settled. Don't be hesitant to come alone as we will find you a team to join. Since Christmas falls on Tuesday this year there are no further Breakfast Clubs or Pub Quizzes until January 8th.

We still have our Brits in LA Christmas Party to look forward to though. Tickets are only $10 and includes a welcome drink from Silent Pool Gin. The bash is scheduled for Monday December 17th at the No More Heroes Cocktail Bar in West Hollywood. Lots of metered street parking available but if you are planning on drinking just take a taxi! We won't be serving food at this one, so suggest you grab a bite to eat before or after. There are lots of great restaurants nearby, including Barrette (owned by our friends who started The Pikey) and the popular fast food joint Astroburger. Get your dancing shoes on as we will be playing all the British Christmas Classics.

It's Time For Tea...

Traditional Afternoon Tea is now served Mon-Sat 11.30am-4.00pm in our Tea Room (also available privately for baby showers, bridal showers and special occasions).

King's Head Pies now available in our bakery. Sausage rolls, pastries & delicious cakes, baked daily Ye Olde King's Head, 116 Santa Monica Blvd.

Santa Monica CA 90401 • Tel: 310 451-1402

For further details visit www.britsin.la or email us at info@britsin.la. Please note this is a 21+ event.

Chrimbo Charity

We are collecting unwrapped toys for local charity Adopt a Letter again this year. Founder Kimberly Moore collects 'Letters to Santa' from underprivileged children who live in the LA area and then tries her best to fulfill their wishes. I've been on delivery runs with Kimberly in the past and it really is the most humbling experience. She will be posting the letters on AdoptALetter.org over the next few days and will be trying to raise money to help fulfill the many requests. So if you have any spare cash please head on over to her website. She will also need volunteers to collect donations and help to pack and deliver them too. If you want to get involved you can email us at BritsinLA@gmail.com and we will put you in touch.

To many Brits Christmas isn't Christmas without a choir. So some of our members have joined forces and formed one. It is currently being led by long-time member Elizabeth Botsford and they finally made their much awaited debut earlier this week at The British Home retirement community in Alta Dena. If you would like to be a part of this send us a message or look for Brits in LA Choir on Facebook @BritsinLA. Don't worry if you are not the best singer as it really is all about the taking part.

Treading the boards

Lastly, if you haven't heard, Craig is currently in a play. I think I have been to see every production he has appeared in since we first met and I have to say this is one of my favourites. It's clever, funny, unique and only two more performances left. So try and catch it if you can. Titled The Black Hole, it is playing at Zombie Joe's Underground

Theatre, 4850 Lankershim Boulevard in North Hollywood. Tickets are available for the final two performances on December 19th and 20th. Visit <https://zombiejoes.tix.com>

Brits in LA member John Mawson is also in a play, coincidentally in a theater just a few doors down.

It is the classic murder thriller Rope by Patrick Hamilton, set in 1920's London, based on a true story. Alfred Hitchcock turned it into the movie of the same name. Rope is playing at the Avery Schreiber Playhouse, December 14, 15 and 16 at 8pm. For tickets visit roboandbash.com.

I find that an evening at the theater is the perfect respite from the mayhem currently going on in the world, even if the break is all too brief.

If you have any questions or comments drop us a line.

Cheers!
Eileen

Rupert Grint: far from skint!

Actor Rupert Grint has said he has no idea how much money he has earned and is not really motivated by money – despite being said to be worth $35m.

The Harry Potter star told the British Radio Times he couldn't even begin to guess, other than knowing he was "comfortable".

The 30-year-old appeared as Ron Weasley in eight full-length Harry Potter feature films as well as accompanying games.

The films' other stars, Daniel Radcliffe and Emma Watson, are thought to have earned similar amounts of money.

He said: "I actually don't know how much I have. I couldn't even really guess.

"It doesn't really motivate me too much. It makes you comfortable, that's the good thing about it, I think.

"I'm glad it's there but I'm not really that focused on it."

Grint has gone on to have a successful career after the last episode of the Potter franchise in 2011, appearing in Sky One's Sick Note and AMC's Snatch reboot in the last few years.

This Christmas he is starring in Agatha Christie's The ABC Murders on BBC One, with John Malkovich as Hercule Poirot.

But after being in the public eye for so long – having been cast in his first Harry Potter film at the age of 11 – he said of fame: "I struggle to remember life before it.

"I think I lost myself a little bit along the way."

"Sometimes you just want to go to B&Q."

He said he took a break after the Harry Potter films ended because he had a feeling he "had missed out on normal things".

The first thing he did when the filming of the movies ended was to have his tonsils removed as Potter producers refused to let him have the operation.

"It was too much recovery time and there was the fear that it would change my voice," he said.

To be Blunt: it was 'daunting' to play iconic Mary Poppins!

British star Emily Blunt loves a challenge, and in the world of movie musicals there's no greater trial than following in the footsteps of veteran actress Dame Julie Andrews to bring one of her most iconic and beloved roles to the screen for the first time in over half a century.

It's only Mary Poppins. No pressure, right?

But the 35-year-old beauty has always been drawn to roles that scare her, and it's proven to be a good strategy. Some of her most memorable parts have been those "impossible" ones, like stealing scenes from Meryl Streep in "The Devil Wears Prada" and doing stunts with Tom Cruise in "The Edge of Tomorrow."

There's no one type of Emily Blunt role, but some roles seem like they could only be for her, and for director and choreographer Rob Marshall, the practically perfect nanny was one of them. When he signed on for "Mary Poppins Returns," which would be a sequel to the 1964 classic, hers was the first name he thought of.

"It was the quickest, fastest idea. I knew in one second who it was," said Marshall. "She had all the requirements."

He knew how big of an ask it was ("It's the climbing of Mount Everest," he said), but he also knew from directing her in Stephen Sondheim's "Into the Woods" that she was the right triple threat for the job.

"She's so fearless," he added. "I just knew that she would make it her own."

And Blunt said yes to Marshall in a single conversation.

"I knew I had my work cut out for me just because of how extraordinary the original was and how beautiful Julie was in the original. But I knew that if I was going to take a big swing and carve out new space for myself, if I do it under Rob's guidance, I'd be all right," Blunt said. "He's kind of a magician. He's a bit of a Mary Poppins himself."

For Blunt, who delights in altering her voice and physicality for every role, her Mary Poppins was going to be "a weird amalgamation" of Rosalind Russell in "His Girl Friday" and Princess Margaret.

"I wanted her to speak very quickly because I wanted her to have that impact where she almost renders people speechless, It's like she gives them no time to think," Blunt said.

The film finds the now-grown Banks children Michael (Ben Whishaw) and Jane (Emily Mortimer) faced with their own troubles, and Mary Poppins steps in to help care for Michael's three children and get their lives back on track.

Mary Poppins flies into screens nationwide on Dec. 19.

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of OLGA MLADENOVIC.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by IVANA MLADENOVIC in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that IVANA MLADENOVIC be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act with limited authority. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 01/09/19 at 8:30AM in Dept. 29 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

“did not learn anything”. The 2-1 defeat Wednesday night saw United miss a chance to top Group H but Mourinho said it was still a “success” to finish second.

United had already secured a last-16 place and made eight changes to their line-up in Valencia.

“Nothing that happened surprised me at all,” said Mourinho when asked if he had learned anything about his players.

“I didn’t learn anything from this game.”

United, who play Liverpool in the Premier League on Sunday, recalled midfielders Paul Pogba, Fred, Marouane Fellaini and Andreas Pereira, plus defenders Antonio Valencia, Eric Bailly and Marcos Rojo and goalkeeper Sergio Romero.

Three substitutes were involved in United’s late goal, with Ashley Young and Jesse Lingard playing key roles in the build-up to Marcus Rashford scoring. But Valencia were already 2-0 up after Carlos Soler’s low strike and a Phil Jones own goal.

As well as criticising his starting line-up Mourinho expressed his frustration at having to make substitutions he “did not want to make”.

“I expect (better) from my players, especially players that week in, week out, you ask me ‘why don’t they play?’, ‘why they don’t they start?’ the United manager said.

“(It) was a good match to play, a match without any kind of pressure, a match in a competition that everybody likes to play.

“And, in the end, my team improved, really, when I made the changes that I didn’t want to make, which is a little bit of frustration because I didn’t want to play the three players that I played in the second half.”

command in Glasgow.

Olivier Ntcham pulled a goal back at the death, scoring the rebound after missing a penalty, but it was Reginiussen's late strike for the section's bottom side that would prove pivotal.

Celtic lost captain Mikael Lustig and Ryan Christie to injury as they chased the game against last year's semi-finalists.

The Parkhead side finish their group campaign on nine points, and join Salzburg in the last-32 draw at 12:00 GMT on Monday.

Arsenal cruise

Laurent Koscielny played for the first time since May as Arsenal completed their near-perfect Europa League group stage with an easy win over Qarabag.

Unai Emery's side had already qualified for the knockout round and go through as Group E winners, with five victories and one draw from their six matches.

Alexandre Lacazette scored the only goal of a tame match with a slick 16th-minute winner from Mesut Ozil's pass.

After the break, Eddie Nketiah had a headed goal ruled out for offside.

And in the 89th-minute, 17-year-old winger Bukayo Saka missed a chance to become Arsenal's youngest goalscorer in Europe as he smashed a finish into the face of Qarabag goalkeeper Vagner.

Koscielny, 33, ruptured his Achilles in last season's semi-finals defeat by Atletico Madrid.

He had very little work to do against Qarabag, who only went close when Donald Guerrier headed over, before being replaced in the 72nd minute.

Victory extends Arsenal's unbeaten run into a 22nd match. It is their longest run without defeat in all competitions since a 28-game stretch that ended in November 2007.

Morata injury

Chelsea lost striker Alvaro Morata to a knee injury as they drew 2-2 with MOL Vidi in a Europa League dead rubber.

The Blues, who had already won Group L to reach the last 32, made 10 changes although Willian, Morata and Cesc Fabregas were among the starters.

Willian opened the scoring with a free-kick before Chelsea teenager Ethan Ampadu headed into his own net.

Loic Nego put Vidi ahead with a fantastic volley but Olivier Giroud scored a stunning free-kick equaliser.

Morata hurt his knee while shooting from Callum Hudson-Odoi's cross late in the first half and had to be replaced by Giroud - who is now the Blues' only fit striker.

The Blues had won their opening five Europa League games, and are joined in the knockout stages by Bate Borisov, who beat PAOK Salonika in the other game. Vidi could have qualified - but needed to better the Belarusian side's result.

Klopp 'could not be prouder'

Liverpool boss Jurgen Klopp said he "could not be prouder of a team" as Mohamed Salah's goal and Alisson's brilliant late save earned a place in the Champions League knockout stage with victory over Napoli.

The Reds needed to win with a clean sheet or by two clear goals on Tuesday night to make the last 16 - and in-form talisman Salah obliged by beating David Ospina at his near post in the 34th minute.

Liverpool fully deserved their victory as Ospina partially redeemed himself with fine saves from Salah and Sadio Mane, with the latter and Virgil van Dijk also missing clear chances to extend the home side's advantage.

The clean sheet was the key, however, and Liverpool survived a huge scare in injury time when Alisson made his crucial save from Arkadiusz Milik in a rare Napoli opening.

The Brazilian keeper joined the Reds from Roma in July for a world-record fee for a goalkeeper of £66.8m.

"If I knew Alisson was this good I would have paid double," said Klopp. "The goal Mo scored -

"If I knew Alisson was this good I would have paid double," said Klopp of his goalkeeper what a goal, unbelievable - but the save Ali [Alisson] made I have no words for that. That was the lifesaver tonight.

"It was wild and there were lots of counter attacks but we were ready for that. That is Anfield live and in colour.

"Wow, what a game. I am not sure a manager could be prouder of a team than I am."

Liverpool go through in second place behind Paris St-Germain - a feat achieved despite losing three away games in their group.

The Reds, who were beaten by Real Madrid in last season's final, will face one of the group winners when the last-16 draw is made on 17 December.

That could lead to Madrid in Kiev.

Reds boss Klopp, perhaps belatedly, acted in the summer when he paid £67m to sign Brazil keeper Alisson from Roma.

Alisson has already added an extra layer of security to Liverpool's defence along with £75m centre-half Virgil van Dijk - but the big players are bought to shape the important moments, and how Alisson delivered at Anfield.

Liverpool had missed a succession of chances but the only real damage to their Champions League aspirations could be inflicted by a Napoli goal and it almost arrived at a time when they would have had no chance to respond.

There was an air of desperation around Anfield as Milik found himself in front of goal eight yards out, deep into four minutes of added time. But as the stadium held its breath Alisson reacted quickly, made the block and Liverpool were through.

Alisson was an expensive, albeit necessary investment and that investment paid off right there.

TOTTENHAM'S home fixture against Manchester United next month will take place at Wembley after yet another delay in the completion of their new stadium.

The grand opening of the new 62,000-seater ground on the site of White Hart Lane was scheduled for the start of the season in August, but a series of delays meant it was pushed back until at least January. Spurs were hopeful of moving into their new venue in time for their league clash against United on January 13. However, testing has not yet been completed for the club to apply for a stadium safety certificate, so it may not be until February that Spurs can move in.

Spurs complete 'mission impossible'

'So happy' Poch hails his team after thrilling night in the Camp Nou

Tottenham achieved "mission impossible" by qualifying for the last 16 of the Champions League, according to manager Mauricio Pochettino.

Lucas Moura's 85th-minute equaliser earned a priceless point at Barcelona Tuesday night as Spurs completed an unlikely turnaround in Group B having collected only one point from their first three games.

They needed to match or better Inter Milan's result at home to PSV Eindhoven and had faced elimination when Mauro Icardi cancelled out PSV's early goal.

Moura's goal swung the advantage back in Spurs' favour but an agonising wait followed before it was confirmed Inter had failed to find a winner against the group's bottom side.

"I am so happy for the fans - this is a massive, massive achievement for the club," said Pochettino.

"We suffered because when we finished the game we did not know the result at Inter. It was two very difficult minutes, but in the end of course we were so happy. It's so important for the club."

The Premier League side had gone behind to Ousmane Dembele's early strike but then peppered Barcelona's defence with wave after wave of attacks, with both Harry Kane and Son Heung-min going close.

They finally made the decisive breakthrough five minutes from the end when substitute Moura, who moments earlier had a header cleared off the line, fired in.

Spurs become only the eighth side to qualify from the group stage after claiming only one point from their first three games.

Had Pochettino's side been eliminated they would have looked back with regret on only beating Barca goalkeeper Jasper Cillessen on one occasion.

The Dutchman, who replaced first-choice Marc-Andre ter Stegen, was exceptional throughout and his clawed save to keep out Moura's earlier effort came after superb

Rangers out; Celtic, Blues and Gunners go through

EUROPA LEAGUE

Rangers have failed to reach the last 32 of the Europa League after Dejan Ljubicic's late winner gave Rapid Vienna victory in Austria Thursday night

Steven Gerrard's side needed a win to qualify, but instead it is their hosts who reach the knock-out stage.

As both sides found it difficult on a rutted pitch, Rangers' Connor Goldson struck the bar with a header.

Home goalkeeper Richard Strebinger saved from James Tavernier before substitute Ljubicic slid in the winner.

That secured a first win in four home games for Rapid, who finish as runners-up to Villarreal after the La Liga side beat Spartak Moscow 2-0 in Spain.

It was Rangers' second defeat in 14 Europa League games and ends a journey that began in the first round of qualifying against Shkupi in July.

CELTIC scraped into the last 32 of the Europa League on a night of astonishing drama thanks to a late Rosenborg goal in Leipzig.

With Celtic two down to Salzburg-and Leipzig ahead - the below-par Scottish champions were heading out, until Tore Reginiussen's shock equaliser four minutes from time for the Norwegian side in Germany.

Goals from Moanes Dabbur and Frederik Gulbrandsen - after a horrible Craig Gordon error - had group winners Salzburg in
