WELCOME, BABY ARCHIE!

A BEAMING smile lights up the Queen's face as she gets her first, long-awaited glimpse of two-day-old Archie Harrison Mountbatten-Windsor.

Cradled tenderly in the arms of new mum Meghan, Her Majesty's eighth greatgrandchild meets the head of The Firm in a touching picture that shows just how far the Royal Family has come. The grand trappings of Windsor Castle may form a backdrop borne of a thousand years of history, but little Archie and the five besotted grown-ups gathered around him look like the very essence of modern Britain.

The stiff formality of past Royal portraits – with everyone facing front in line-ups structured in order of precedence – was nowhere to be seen on Wednesday. Grandmother Doria Ragland, a divorced single mother and yoga teacher, seemed to hardly notice she was standing next to a reigning monarch. Prince Harry could not take his eyes off his son, wearing an expression formed from pride, love, and that slightly stunned look common to new fathers everywhere. Greatgrandfather Prince Philip, often rather waspish, was photographed midchuckle. The intimate snapshot of a modern Royal Family, was released in the most modern of ways, on Harry and Meghan's Instagram account. It was accompanied by a statement declaring: "The Duke and Duchess of Sussex are pleased to announce they have named their first born child: Archie Harrison Mountbatten-Windsor. "This afternoon Their Royal Highnesses introduced Her Majesty The Queen to her eighth great-grandchild at Windsor Castle. The Duke of Edinburgh and The Duchess' mother were also present for this special occasion."

Before meeting the Queen, the new parents held a brief photocall with Archie in St George's Hall at Windsor Castle, where a year ago they held their wedding reception. As Harry, 34, cradled the sleeping infant, Meghan, 37, declared: "It's magic, it's pretty amazing. I have the two best guys in the world so I'm really happy." The Duchess said of the new seventh in line to the throne: "He has the sweetest temperament. He's really calm."

She and her husband both laughed as Harry chipped in: "I don't know where he gets that from." Meghan added: "He's just been the dream, so it's cont. on page 2, col. 4

Wills welcomes Harry to yawn of a new era

THE Duke of Cambridge jokingly welcomed his brother to the "sleep deprivation society that is parenting" this week.

William, whose relationship with his brother has been strained in recent months, said he was "thrilled" to hear about the birth of the Duke and Duchess of Sussex's son. He and wife Kate talked about their new nephew outside the Cutty Sark in Greenwich, south-east London, ahead of an official engagement to announce their involvement in a new charity sailing race. When asked how he felt, the 36-year-old future king said: "Obviously thrilled, absolutely thrilled, and obviously looking forward to seeing them in the next few days when things have quietened down.

"I'm very glad to welcome my brother to the sleep deprivation society that is parenting."

Archie Sussex arrived at 5.26am on Monday, weighing 7lb 3oz. Harry and Meghan have so far refused to say where he was born, amid conflicting reports that it was at their home near Windsor Castle or at a private London hospital. But Buckingham Palace has acknowledged they will eventually have to make the location public when they register their son's birth certificate within 42 days. Asked if he had any pearls of wisdom for his younger brother, father-of-three William laughed and said: "Plenty of advice, plenty of advice, but no, I wish him all the best and I hope the next few days they can settle down and enjoy having a newborn in their family and the joys that come with that." The Duchess of Cambridge added: "It's such a special time, with Louis and Charlotte just having had their birthdays. It's such a great time of year to have a baby. Spring is in the air."

Kate, 37, went on: "As William said, we're looking forward to meeting him and finding out what his name's going to be. "It's really exciting for both of them. These next few weeks are always a bit daunting the first time around so we wish them the best."

Archie is the first mixedrace child born to a senior member of the Royal Family in centuries and will be embraced as a reflection of modern Britain with its culturally diverse population.

been a special couple of days."

Asked who the baby takes after, American Meghan said: "We're still trying to figure that out." Harry said: "Everyone says that babies change so much over two weeks. We're basically monitoring how the changing process happens over this next month really. But his looks are changing every single day, so who knows."

The Prince added:

"Parenting is amazing. It's only been two-and a-half days, three days, but we're just so thrilled to have our own little bundle of joy."

Harry said they were looking forward to spending some "precious times with him as he slowly, slowly starts to grow up."

Former actress Meghan gave birth to her 7lb 3oz son, who was just over a week overdue, on Monday at 5.26am. At Wednesday's presentation he wore a white dress by the London-based British-Jamaican designer Grace Wales Bonner. Archie was wrapped in a £105 ivory 'leaves and flowers' shawl from GH Hurt & Sons, the firm the Royal Family has used since the Queen wrapped the infant Prince Charles in one of its blankets 70 years ago. His head was covered in a delicate white knitted hat. Only a small press pool of just one reporter, one photographer, three TV cameramen, their own private photographers and a Royal Household photographer were in St George's Hall, a contrast with other royal births with babies shown to crowds.

BAN IT LIKE BECKHAM! ■ Football legend scores six month ban for cellphone use while driving

David Beckham has been given a six-month driving ban for using his mobile phone while behind the wheel.

The former England captain previously pleaded guilty to using the device while driving his Bentley in central London on 21 November last vear.

A court heard he was photographed by a member of the public holding a phone as he drove in "slowly moving" traffic.

Beckham, 44, received six points on his licence to add to the six he already had for previous speeding matters.

He was also fined £750, ordered to pay £100 in prosecution costs and a £75 surcharge fee within seven davs.

District Judge Catherine Moore said she acknowledged the slow pace of the traffic but told him there was "no excuse" under the law.

Bromley Magistrates' Court heard Beckham was seen "operating a handheld device at knee level" while driving along Great Portland Street in the West End.

Prosecutor Matthew Spratt said: "Instead of looking straight forward, paying attention to the road he appeared to be looking at his lap."

Beckham's defence barrister Manchester midfielder had

Mr Tyrrell told the court that Beckham found driving a relaxing pastime.

BBC sack Danny Baker over Baby Archie tweet

The BBC has sacked one of its most prominent radio presenters, saying he showed a "serious error of judgement" over his tweet about the Duke and Duchess of Sussex's baby.

BBC 5 Live presenter Danny Baker was accused of mocking the duchess's racial heritage with a tweet which showed an image of a couple holding hands with a chimpanzee dressed in clothes with the caption: "Royal Baby leaves hospital".

Baker claimed it was a "stupid gag" and deleted the tweet within minutes, but the corporation said the tweet "goes against the values we as a station aim to embody".

It added: "Danny's a brilliant broadcaster but will no longer be presenting a weekly show with us." The 61-year-old presented a Saturday morning show on the network.

After tweeting an apology, in which he called the tweet a "stupid unthinking gag pic", Baker said the BBC's decision "was a masterclass of pompous faux-gravity".

"[It] took a tone that said I actually meant that ridiculous tweet and the BBC must uphold blah blah blah," he added. "Literally threw me under the bus. Could hear the suits' knees knocking."

Harry and Meghan, whose mother Doria Ragland is African American, revealed on Wednesday their new son was named Archie Harrison Mountbatten-Windsor.

After the initial backlash on social media on Wednesday, Baker said: "Sorry my gag pic of the little fella in the posh outfit has whipped some up. Never occurred to me because, well, mind not diseased.

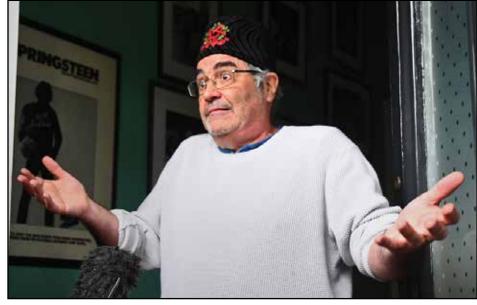

'Enormous mistake'

"Soon as those good enough to point out its possible connotations got in touch, down it came. And that's it."

In a later tweet, he added: "Would have used same stupid pic for any other Royal birth or Boris Johnson kid or even one of my own. It's a funny image. (Though not of course in that context.) Enormous mistake, for sure. Grotesque.

"Anyway, here's to ya Archie, Sorry mate."

Speaking to reporters outside his home, he said of the tweet: "Ill advised, ill thought-out and stupid, but racist? No, I'm aware how delicate that imagery is."

Broadcaster Scarlette Douglas, who works on 5 Live podcast The Sista Collective and The One Show, told the BBC: "I think somebody told him, 'What you've tweeted was incorrect, so you should maybe say something or take it down.'

"Yes, OK, he took it down, but his apology for me wasn't really an apology. I don't think it's right and I think subsequently what's happened is correct."

Ayesha Hazarika, a commentator and former adviser to the Labour Party, told 5 Live she was "genuinely gobsmacked" by the tweet.

"I couldn't believe it," she said. "I thought it was a joke at first. I thought it was a spoof. It was so crass. What was going through his head?

"You can't just say sorry and then carry on like it's business as usual. When you have an incredibly important platform like he does, you do have to think about what you do and the signals that it sends out."

Baker's Saturday Morning show on BBC Radio 5 Live won him a Sony Gold award for Speech Radio Personality of the Year in 2011, 2012 and 2014 and a Gold Award for entertainment show of the year in 2013.

Outback rapist 'made me drive for 5 days with gun at my head'

Backpacker Elisha Greer tells of horrific ordeal through Australia's outback at the hands of vicious rapist Marcus Martin

A BRITISH backpacker who was kidnapped and forced to drive through the Outback by a man who beat and raped her has told how she feared for her life as he held a gun to her head.

Speaking publicly for the first time about her ordeal, Elisha Greer, 23, was taken on the road trip from hell by tattooed Marcus Martin, who she had met at a party in January 2017. Ms Greer, whose disappearance made headlines around the world, was eventually rescued by police after a worker at a petrol station spotted her looking "like a zombie in a state of shock" and raised the alarm.

In an Australian TV interview, Ms Greer, from Liverpool, said Martin, 24, held a gun to her head as they drove 932 miles through the Outback. "I was forced to drive the car with the gun to my head," she said.

Ms Greer said Martin had appeared normal when their relationship began. "He seemed fun, he didn't seem like a psycho," she said. But she said it soon became clear the Australian was "completely and utterly crazy" and that if she refused to comply with his demands, "he'd kill me".

Ms Greer said she met Martin on January 26 2017 in Cairns, Queensland, at an outdoor dance party, known as a "doof". At the time, friends said the backpacker appeared to be under her attacker's spell. Within days, the relationship began to sour, as Martin became "obsessive and clingy".

On March 1, the rapist forced her to begin what turned out to be a horrific five-day ordeal, which ended in the town of Mitchell in Queensland. Ms Greer was driving through Mitchell in a white Mitsubishi Pajero when she stopped at a petrol station to fill up. The service station attendant, Beverley Page, remembered her being in a "state of shock when she came in, almost zombie-like", with tears streaming down her face and unable to pay for the fuel. Ms Page told how she had said she was from England' She said: "She didn't have anyone to contact. "I made the decision to follow her because I thought that if I could get the registration number I'd be able to file a report to the police." Ms Greer drove off without paying and the attendant immediately called police. A dramatic rescue took place hours later when officers pulled the 4x4 over and found the distraught and badlybeaten Ms Greer at the wheel. When the officers searched the Mitsubishi, they found Martin hiding in the back. Ms Greer, who waived her right to anonymity, said she did not want to be seen as a "victim" after her ordeal. She said: "I just want people to know it's OK... that being a victim isn't the end of everything and that everyone can get through something. I want people to know that it's not the end for them." Last October, Martin pleaded guilty to rape and deprivation of liberty. He had earlier admitted supplying dangerous drugs, wilful damage, assault occasioning bodily harm and strangulation. Martin is due to be sentenced on May 28.

Goodbye to a true original...

There was sad news for the local British community this week with the passing of actor, artist, bon vivant and raconteur Clement von Frankenstein,.

Clem suffered a heart attack at his Los Angeles home on Easter Sunday and it was almost 45 minutes before medics revived him. He lingered in a coma at Cedars Sinai medical center until Thursday afternoon, he finally when succumbed, 24 hours after life support was withdrawn.

Clem was an incredibly colourful character and in many ways a throwback to another era. Born in Sunninghill, Buckinghamshire, in 1944 as Clement George Freiherr von und zu Franckenstein, he was the son of Georg Freiherr von und zu Franckenstein, the former Austrian Ambassador to the Court of St. James, who met and married Editha King in 1939, by whom he had Clement George. His parents were killed together in a plane crash on 15 October 1953, after which he was raised by British friends. He was educated at Eton College and served for three years as a lieutenant in the Royal Scots Greys in the Middle East and Germany. He holds both British and Austrian citizenship. Clem studied opera for about three years before taking up acting in his late twenties, and he went to enjoy a long and successful career as a character actor in Hollywood, including television roles in The Love Boat, ER and more recently Californication, and on the big screen, most notably in Hail Caesar from the Cohen Brothers in 2016.

In addition to his work as an actor Clem was an instantly recognizable man-about-town in Hollywood for three decades, who lived a life rich in good food, good wine and good company and he could always be relied upon for an hilarious and offcolor anecdote whenever you met him. Clem who was affectionately known as The Baron was also an avid cricketer with the Beverly Hills and Hollywood Cricket Club who famously kept up his cricket whites with his old Eton school tie. His longtime friend, former British American Business Council President Xan Rufus Isaacs, who was at Clem's bedside in the final hours, told the British Weekly: "Clem's health had not been good in recent years but he continued to soldier on. It's amazing that he made it to 74 given that the life he lived, going out and swinging for the boundaries every day, it was inevitable I suppose that he was going to get caught out. But he lived the life he wanted to lead and the idea of him slowing down, well that was just never going to happen. He was a lovely guy and life just won't be the same without him."

At press time funeral arrangements had not been announced.

Meet A Member: Monika Ekiert

Meet MONIKA EKIERT, born in Poland and raised in France, who moved to LA last year to pursue her acting career and now has a particularly iconic role coming up...

Was there a particular reason you chose LA? I always believed in the magic of this city of angels. And now something magical has happened for me. I am soon to act in an LA stage version of classic film The Seven Year Itch playing the part which first made the great Marilyn Monroe an icon. Things like this prove the power of belief. Another of my dreams is to work with Steven Spielberg. I admire so much his vision and work. In magical Los Angeles, you feel such dreams could come true.

What do you miss most from home?

My parents. They are alone in Poland in my hometown. My father is very sick and fills his days watching TV. Their dream is to see their daughter on the big screen before it's too late. When I was in France they couldn't see my work on TV back in Poland. So one of the reasons to come to the USA was because whatever you do here in TV and film it goes everywhere. And I want to make them proud.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since? When I arrived last year it was a shock for me. I had already come to the USA previously but for short periods every time. But when MONIKAI arrived for my newborninlife, armed only withraised intwo suitcases, closingmoved toall the doors behindto pursueme and starting acareer andnew chapter in LAarticularlyI was so afraid. Theculture, the systemand the mentality areparticularvery special and sodifferent from mine.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus your home town in Poland?

Everything is possible in LA, you just must be at the right place in the right moment. The dreams and the positive energy are the tools to attract these opportunities.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us? The view of Los Angeles from Mulholland Drive. It cheers me up and gives me the courage for everything I decide to do. You can see this place in the film La La Land when Emma Stone and Ryan Gosling are dancing there.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

'Find your community. I've made great friends in the French and Polish communities in LA but also through the wonderful Brits in LA community which I was introduced to by Sandro Monetti, who is acting with me and directing the play I mentioned at the start.

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom -

what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

Listen to your heart. Stay true to yourself, always be open to learn and never give up on your dreams, even when nobody believes they else can come true but you. No matter what you do in life to stay focused, work hard always give your best. Show gratitude. Don't complain. Tomorrow is another day and everything can happen.

Lastly, how can we find out more about you ? Are you working on anything at the moment?

Come see our play at the Hollywood Fringe in June! Tickets are on sale now and going fast. Just go to www. hollywoodfringe.org and search The Seven Year Itch. You can also follow me on my instagram @MonikaEkiert and on Facebook/monika. ekiert.35.

ARIES: Now you seem to be in recess time. This does not mean you cannot pay attention to your life overall. You can thrive in this energy and you can make a lot of headway if you put your mind into it. This is just what you have wanted for some time.

TAURUS: So if you feel like reaching out and asking someone for a helping hand in any area this is the time to go for it, because the very powerful (although unpredictable) planet Uranus is living in your life. Just do not panic when things do not go the way you expect. Happy Birthday! GEM INI: Time to deal with what has been on your mind recently, so the faster you take this in hand the better will be the results. With the end of your personal old year come new opportunities to own up to past mistakes and feel good in your own skin.

CANCER: A positive beginning next week would be to make peace or amends with anyone or anything that has caused you upset. You moon children like to hide away in your own space sometimes. Don't indulge yourself this week ahead.

LEO: Any trip taken before the end of this month will not be as planned so take a rain check and a later trip. With this in mind plan for a better time frame. Family matters are in the limelight these next few days. Life is looking better.

VIRGO: If any area of life currently is not going as smoothly as you expect, you can let go of worry about the outcome, all will be well by month's end. Be confident when asked for your advice or opinion in a family situation. You might be feeling restless for a few days.

LIBRA: The main lesson of this month is that it's not the time to begin anything you will not have time to finish up. Your conscience will not allow you to take chances so listen to it well. Expect someone to contact you from your past.

SCORPIO: Now that Uranus is sitting staring at you from your opposite sign Taurus you can expect the unexpected. This should not make you worried, however as you are a creature of habit it may spook you a little. Everything happens for a reason. Trust the process.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss Jupiter is not very proactive in your life just now. Since he is on vacation for a few weeks you should not just act on your intuition. This means go with the flow and do not make any big decisions for a while.

CAPRICORN: Your boss Saturn has brought a lot of the past up for you. Pluto has also been visiting you. This can be difficult or even downright unfair some times, however soon you will see that what has transpired has cleared away a lot of dead wood.

AQUARIUS: While your boss Uranus was in Aries he caused some problems, not only for you but others he affects in the world. Now he has moved into more mellow Taurus, there is a light at the end of the tunnel.

PISCES: You may be feeling restless these past couple of weeks, however now the sun is in Taurus life should be pleasant. You are in some kind of a rut that is up to you to get out of. Stepping out of your comfort zone will help.

No Texting, No Talking, No Tweeting...Is That Too Much to Ask?

By Guest Columnist Sandro Monetti

Remember when cinemas used to have ushers who would keep order in the aisles in between serving you a choc ice?

Well, I long for a return to those bygone days because going to the movies lately has become a thoroughly dispiriting and unpleasant experience.

With all the texting, talking, tweeting, streaming, scoffing, snogging and so on that happens – not to mention people putting their feet up on the wseats in front – focusing on the film is almost impossible.

In the absence of "Ursuala the usherette," audiences are left to police their own screenings for bad behavior – and we all know how that turns out.

Case in point a recent

LA showing of Shazam where a guy a few rows in front, who had noisily arrived late, kept the flashlight function of his phone on to make sure his son could see all the feast of take away food he was guzzling in his seat.

When the patience of other moviemakers finally snapped and they politely asked him to turn the distracting bright light off they were met with a volley of abuse.

So too was the callow youth from behind the popcorn counter who was summoned to help when one of the audience members went wandering off to the lobby in search of assistance from a staff member.

The next stage was lots of finger pointing and Ye Olde King's Head, 116 Santa Monica Blvd Santa Monica CA 90401 • Tel: 310 451-1402 shouting between the fella with the light and other audience members and soon I'd had enough, left them to their shouting match and went home, figuring I could watch the rest of Shazam there, in comfort, in a couple of months or so.

It's no wonder movie theatres are under threat. Don't be fooled into thinking the huge box office numbers for Avengers: Endgame mean everything with the industry is rosy. More and more cinemas are closing all the time - especially the independent ones. The solution is not just comfier seats and more in-seat dining options, the atmosphere of going to the cinema needs to be improved and that means a zero-tolerance policy for the kind of behavior that ruins the experience for others.

If that means bringing back ushers who will sit in during films and ensure everyone is sharing in a fun, safe experience then great – I'll happily pay an extra couple of dollars for such a nanny state policy. And while we're about it let's make sure standards don't slip at regular theatres either. Before you ask what does it matter seeing as no one goes to plays in Los Angeles, yes they do. Especially at next month's Hollywood Fringe Festival where hundreds of productions are currently being prepared (see hollywoodfringe.org for details and to book tickets).

I'm directing and acting in one of them, a stage version of the Marilyn Monroe movie The Seven Year Itch, and will hope and trust the audiences there put their phones away for the duration of the show to enjoy some good old fashioned live entertainment. After all, the play is set in the 1950s when civility was more common and cellphones hadn't been invented.

Talking of live entertainment, don't forget you can always find me hosting Brits in LA Pub

PAYING HOMAGE: Monika Ekiert and Sandro Monetti at Marilyn Monroe's grave

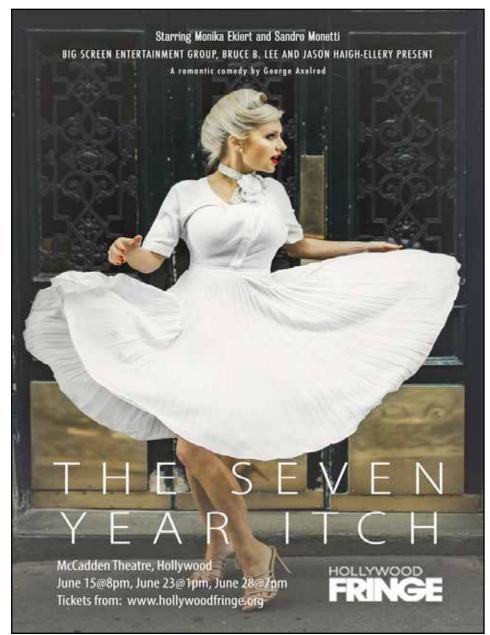

Quiz each Tuesday at the Cat and Fiddle where to prevent cheating there's no phone use allowed during the question rounds.

I do hope this call for fair play and civility hasn't been too much of a rant. It's just that as someone who loves films and shows, it shouldn't be too much to ask that we can enjoy them without a few inconsiderate audience members ruining things for the rest of us.

Finally thanks to Craig and Eileen for letting me guest write the column this week and for all they do for us in the Brits in LA community. And three cheers for the new royal baby....

Holden Your Horses! Amanda set to quit UK for US telly?

The U.S entertainment market is a tough industry to crack... But that hasn't stopped 48 year-old Amanda Holden, posting Instagram this week to inform fans of her latest exciting venture.

Oo-er!

The ageless Britain's Got Talent judge told her army of followers that she had been on U.S television this reporting about the new royal baby for American magazine Inside Edition.

The post saw the blonde star smiling while on the show, dressed in a stunning yellow lace dress.

As well as impressing fans with her big career venture on the CBS network, Amanda wowed fans with her outfit too.

One fan told her: "Wow you're a busy bee!"

While another exclaimed: "You would be an amazing news reporter."

A third gushed: "The world is yours." Shortly after, the former actress posted another snap showing off her sheer brightly colored fab frock to its full effect.

Glamming-up the ensemble even more,

she rocked smoky dark eyeshadow and a clear gloss.

She captioned the post: "Thanks for all your lovely comments about this frock!"

Amanda certainly knows how to please her fans, that's for sure!

GoT beauty Emilia wasn't always so sure of her beauty!

Game Of Thrones star Emilia Clarke has revealed she couldn't even look at herself in the mirror after having brain surgery to remove two aneurysms.

The British actress credit the life-changing experience to a shift in her view of herself and beauty.

Stunning Emilia, is currently promoting the final season of iconic HBO show Games of Thrones.

Emilia released unseen photographs last month that were taken while she recovered from one the first lifethreatening aneurysm she suffered in 2011.

And speaking to Stylist magazine, Emilia discussed how much of a toll the operations took on not only her health but her self confidence.

"When I looked in the mirror, I just saw pain in my eyes. I found it very, very difficult. I used to put on make-up without looking in the mirror, which probably made me look a lot worse.

"My face didn't change, but my feelings about myself changed. When you can look at yourself in the eyes and feel OK with what's looking back at you, then what more do you need?"

The beauty, who plays dragon queen Daenerys Targaryen, also admitted that never getting to play the character again made her sad as she felt beautiful in the role.

She said: "I will never look as good as I did when I was playing Daenerys. I had the best professionals in the world doing my hair and make-up and costumes, and there is really not much I can do about it.

"I can't ever get my hair to look like Daenerys'. It's a heartbreak, but I've had to come to terms with that."

HOW THEY STAND

Liverpool boss Jurgen Klopp said he was "overwhelmed" and saw his players in tears after they completed the biggest Champions League semi-final comeback to beat Barcelona 4-3 on aggregate.

The Reds lost the first leg 3-0 but doubles from Georginio Wijnaldum and Divock Origi at Anfield took them into a final against Ajax or Tottenham.

"If I have to describe this club then it's a big heart and tonight it was pounding like crazy," he said.

"You could hear it all over the world."

Klopp was almost giddy in his BT Sport interview, checking it was past the watershed before swearing and saying he was happy to pay a fine.

"The whole game was too much," he said. "Winning is difficult but with a clean sheet, I don't know how they did it."

"It means so much to all of us. There are more important things in the world. But creating this emotional atmosphere together is so special. It's all about the players.

"The mix of potential and unbelievable heart is just a mix I never saw before. It shows what's possible in football. It's so nice '

It is the first time since 1986 - when Barcelona knocked out Gothenburg in the old European Cup - that a team have recovered a three-goal first-leg deficit to win a semi-final in this competition.

"I said to the boys before 'I don't think it's possible but because it's you I think we have a chance' - they are really mentality giants. It's Klopp unbelievable," added.

"After the season we played, the games we had, the injuries we had now in this moment, if you go out there and ask who bet a penny on us,

I don't think you would find a lot of people.

Klopp won two Bundesliga titles and a German Cup with Dortmund Borussia but since 2012 has lost two Champions League finals, one Europa League final, two German Cups and a Carabao Cup final. "I know what people say about me and losing finals, that's absolutely right," said Klopp, who guided the five-time European champions to last season's final, which they lost to Real Madrid. "But it's the fourth final in that time as well we are in, that's pretty special already.

"Last year we really felt we have to go back - we cannot let it stand like this, that's not possible. Now we get another chance and we will go for that, of course.

"I'm not sure if it will happen again because it's so special. When I saw the boys after the game and saw the tears in their eyes, that's football. This club touches you like crazy, it's like you feel much more than others in these moments."

Wijnaldum said his team had showed "everything is possible in football".

The midfielder replaced the injured Andy Robertson at halftime and scored twice, with Origi getting the winner.

"After the game in Spain we were confident we could score four and win 4-0," he said.

"People outside doubted us. They thought we couldn't do it. But once again we showed everything is possible in football.

"I was really angry that the manager put me on the bench. I just tried to help my team, I'm happy I could do that with two goals."

The final is in Madrid on 1 June and will be the first since 2013 without a Spanish side involved - that after a run of seven finalists from that country in the past five seasons.

Aubameyang hat trick eases Gunners into Europa League final Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang's hat-trick propelled Arsenal to a 4-2 win on Thursday night to set up an all-English Europa League final against Chelsea as they won in Valencia for a 7-3 aggregate victory.

The Gunners are now one win away from Champions League qualification, while manager Unai Emery can make history by winning a record fourth Europa League crown.

Trailing 3-1 from the first leg in London, Kevin Gameiro's close-range effort had given the hosts the early impetus on Thursday night.

However, right-Aubameyang's foot volley from 20 yards levelled matters before Alexandre Lacazette put Arsenal ahead with a placed effort into the right corner.

Gameiro, a four-time winner of the competition at Sevilla and Atletico Madrid, tapped in Valencia's second of the night before Aubameyang rounded off the scoring.

The Gabon forward slid in from Ainsley Maitland-Niles' cross and then blasted emphatically into the top corner late on to complete his hat-trick and a 4-2 win.

It means Arsenal, whose first away game of this Europa League campaign was in Azerbaijan against FK Qarabag, will return to the country to face Maurizio Sarri's side in the final on Wednesday, 29 May.

It will be the first all-English affair since Tottenham defeated Wolves over two legs in 1972, when the competition was known as the Uefa Cup - and the first time that all four finalists in Europe's top two club competitions have come from one nation.

Mezut Ozil underlined his position as his team's most maddening talent, managing a 92% passing accuracy - better than any other Arsenal player - when he departed just after the hour mark, while Aubameyang and strike partner Lacazette demonstrated their growing understanding.

Responsible for the Gunners' first-leg lead, the duo again tormented their Spanish opponents throughout. Lacazette's flick-on allowed Aubameyang to race clear and volley in their opening goal, before he swivelled

Hazard the hero again as

Valencia had no answer to the duo f Lacazette and Aubameyang Thursday night on Lucas Torreira's pass when scoring the visitors' second.

Aubameyang's two late goals brought up 48 goals between them this season. with no other Arsenal player contributing more than six. But Emery's next task is to turn his club into winners in Europe.

While his remarkable record now stretches to 19 unbeaten Europa League knockout ties, Arsenal have lost their last three major European finals the Champions League final to Barcelona in 2006, the Uefa Cup final to Galatasaray in 2000 and the Cup Winners' Cup final to Real Zaragoza in 1995.

Moura:

It's the best moment in my career."

Ajax are top of the Dutch Eredvisie, level on points with PSV Eindhoven with two games remaining, but missed out on reaching their first Champions League final since 1996.

Captain Matthijs de Ligt, who scored his side's first goal, said: "It was like the ground disappeared from under our feet. So close. We were so close.

"Naturally it was deathly quiet in the dressing room afterwards. But, how painful it is, we have had a fantastic journey - and we can still become [domestic] champions."

"It was great to see the support our fans gave us; it made us realise how much this campaign has meant for them. If we win the title, I will feel very proud, and it will help soften the blow of standing with one foot in the Champions League final with only seconds to go.

"The game lasted five seconds too long."

Chelsea edge into final Eden Hazard scored the winning penalty Thursday nigiht as Chelsea edged past Eintracht Frankfurt 4-3 on penalties to set up an all-English Europa League final against Arsenal.

Hazard, who could have played his final game for the Blues at Stamford Bridge, converted after goalkeeper Chelsea Arrizabalaga Kepa had saved from both Martin Hinteregger and Goncalo Paciencia. Chelsea will now meet Arsenal in the final in Baku on 29 May and the result means both the Champions League and Europa League final will be played between English clubs this season - the first time all four finalists in Europe's top two competitions have come from one nation.

With the score 1-1 after the first leg, Chelsea took lead in the second when Ruben Loftus-Cheek coolly stroked into the far corner in the 28th minute, but the night was far from straight-forward.

Frankfurt levelled the tie four minutes after half-time when Luka Jovic slotted past Arrizabalaga after being played in by Mijat Gacinovic.

Jovic's goal punished Chelsea for a sloppy start to the second half and the Blues continued to be wasteful as Stamford Bridge became increasingly restless.

In extra-time the Germans twice had efforts cleared off the line with David Luiz first denying Sebastian Haller and then Davide Zappacosta clearing Haller again at a corner.

Chelsea thought they had won it late in extra-time but Cesar Azpilicueta, who later missed first in the penalty shootout, had a goal ruled out when the referee deemed he had bundled the ball out of Frankfurt keeper Kevin Trapp's hands.

The shootout was Chelsea's first since they lost the Carabao Cup final to Manchester City on penalties in February. That game was overshadowed by Arrizabalaga's refusal to be substituted, but at Stamford Bridge he proved to be the hero.

After Azpilicueta missed first, Arrizabalaga remarkably kept out Eintracht's fourth penalty by trapping the ball under his shin as he stood still when Hinteregger went for power and then dived low to his right to palm away the visitors' fifth.

That left Hazard with the opportunity to complete the win and the Belgian delivered sending Trapp the wrong way, tucking the ball into the corner.

PARTING GIFT?: Eden Hazard, widely tipped to move to Madrid, insists he has not yet made a decision

Hazard has been strongly linked with a move to Real Madrid this summer and if he does depart the game will be his final at Stamford Bridge after seven years at the club.

There were no waves to the crowd or clear indications he will leave in the summer and when asked whether the final would be his last game for the club he said "in my mind I do not know yet".

If he does leave in the summer it would be a fitting way for him to finish in west London.

THE HISTORY MAKERS!

English teams snag all four final spots in Champions and Europa Leagues

English clubs have created European football history by taking all four final spots in the continent's two major competitions. Arsenal won in Valencia and Chelsea beat Eintracht Frankfurt on Thursday to reach the Europa League final.

That followed dramatic wins for Liverpool over Barcelona and Tottenham against Ajax in the Champions League.

It is the first time all four finalists in Europe's top two competitions have come from one nation.

There have only been two all-English finals before, with Tottenham beating Wolves in the 1971-72 Uefa Cup and Manchester United beating Chelsea in the 2007-08 Champions League.

Spain had three teams in the finals of the two competitions in 2015-16, with Real Madrid and Atletico Madrid contesting the Champions League trophy and Unai Emery's Sevilla winning the Europa League.

"In England the level is very high and the Premier League is the best championship in Europe," said Chelsea manager Maurizio Sarri.

Arsenal and Chelsea will meet in Baku, Azerbaijan - 2,468 miles from London - on 29 May, with a Champions League spot at stake for the Gunners, who could become the fifth English side to qualify for next season's competition.

Chelsea are already assured of their place after cementing a topfour finish in the Premier League.

Moura "deserves a statue" - Eriksen

Lucas Moura "deserves a statue" after his hat-trick took Tottenham into an all-English Champions League final, says teammate Christian Eriksen.

Ajax led 3-0 on aggregate in Wednesday's thriller in Amsterdam - but Moura's goals, including a 96th-minute winner, took Tottenham through on away goals to face Liverpool on 1 June.

Moura himself called it "the best moment of my career".

Eriksen said: "It was a ridiculous game; we were really far down, we tried to fight back, we were just lucky."

The Danish playmaker added: "We had to fight. We are relieved.

"Today it was nontactical, more of a fight and heart performance, heart and Lucas Moura - he's how we won the game.

"He deserves it, it has been a rollercoaster of a season, for him to get us in the final, I hope he gets a statue in England after this, we are blown away.

Mauricio Pochettino, who has been Tottenham's manager since 2014, was in tears at the final whistle - and again during an emotional post-match interview on BT Sport.

He said: "The emotion is amazing, thank you to football. My players are heroes - in the last year I was telling everyone this group are heroes - in the second half they were amazing.

"Thank you to everyone who has believed in us. To describe this in words is difficult.

"They are all heroes but [Lucas Moura] was a superhero. It's difficult to compete at this level. I am so grateful to be a coach: to be in football and to live this type of football.

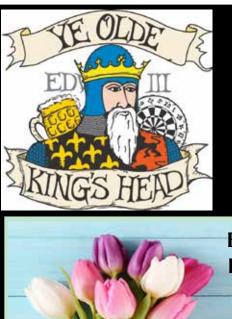

"We showed we love the sport and football. Today was amazing. It was a joy to watch this kind of game."

Tottenham's hat-trick hero Lucas Moura, speaking to BT Sport, said: "It's impossible to explain what I'm feeling. I'm very happy and very proud of my team-mates.

"Always believe in this moment. We gave everything on the pitch and deserved this moment - we are family. It's impossible to explain, a big gift from God I'd like to share with team-mates, friends and family.

"It's about not only me but my team-mates and teamwork. Everyone worked really hard. It's difficult to play here against Ajax but I always believed in my teammates. Even without key players we did really well. We need to fight in every game like this.

"The football is amazing - it gives us a moment like this. We cannot imagine. cont. on page 19, col. 1
