Tory rebels may join Labour to oust Boris

■ Leading Conservatives willing to put Jeremy Corbyn into Number 10 in order to head off no-deal Brexit

BORIS JOHNSON'S tenure at No. 10 could be a short one – after it emerged that a group of diehard Europhile Tories were planning to join forces with Jeremy Corbyn to bring down the government.

Former attorney general Dominic Grieve has allied himself with fellow remainder rebels Sir Oliver Letwin, Dame Caroline Spelman and Nick Boles offering to meet the Labour leader “to discuss the different ways” to stop the UK leaving the EU without a deal on October 31.

The four Tories were boosted by surprising support from Liberal Democrat leader Jo Swinson, who on Thursday offered to meet with Mr Corbyn after initially denouncing his plan to build a ‘strictly time-limited’ cross-party coalition to force Boris Johnson from office as “nonsense”.

The Liberal Democrat leader tweeted: “I’ve offered to meet Jeremy Corbyn to discuss how we can work together on a deliverable plan to stop no-deal, including the option of uniting behind an MP who can command a majority in the House.”

Ms Swinson’s climbdown could mean that the Tory rebels remain the last obstacle to Mr Corbyn’s plan after the SNP and Plaid Cymru both signalled their support.

It came as former defence minister Guto Bebb, the Conservative MP for Aberconwy, suggested that he would rather see Mr Corbyn as Prime Minister than a no deal Brexit.

Urging MPs to take Mr Corbyn’s plan “seriously”, he said: “A short-term Jeremy Corbyn government is less damaging than the generational damage that would be caused by a no-deal Brexit”.

On Thursday evening, the Prime Minister tweeted: “The referendum result must be respected. We will leave the EU on 31st October. #LeaveOct31”

Transport Secretary Grant Shapps said it was “absolutely extraordinary that any Conservative MP considered even for one minute installing Jeremy Corbyn in Downing Street.”

He added that even if colleagues threw their weight behind someone else: “The only upshot of that would be that the leader of HM Opposition Jeremy Corbyn would be installed in Downing

The four Tory former ministers were included in a letter sent by Mr Corbyn to opposition leaders on Wednesday calling for them to unite behind a caretaker government, lead by him, to stop no deal by extending Article 50.

He proposed that the alternative government would call a general election in which Labour would campaign for a second referendum.

On Thursday, Mr Grieve, Sir Oliver, who was Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster under David Cameron, former Environment Secretary Dame Caroline, and former skills minister Nick Boles, who resigned the Tory whip in April over Brexit, wrote to Mr Corbyn agreeing to hold talks.

The letter read: “We agree that our common priority should be to work together in Parliament to prevent No Deal Brexit and welcome your invitation to discuss the different ways that this might be achieved. We would be happy to meet with you as well as colleagues from other opposition parties whenever convenient in the weeks cont. on page 2, col. 4

Boris vows to get tough on crime

■ “To ensure confidence in the system, the punishment must truly fit the crime,” says PM

BORIS Johnson has vowed to keep dangerous criminals off the streets with tougher punishments.

The Prime Minister has launched an urgent review of sentencing to see if reforms are needed to lock prisoners up for longer. It will focus on violent and sexual offenders.

In addition, prosecutors will be given an extra £85million to ensure cases are brought to court.

Mr Johnson promised to stop murderers and rapists being let out too soon: “Dangerous criminals must be kept off our streets, serving the sentences they deserve – victims want to see it, the public want to see it and I want to see it.”

“To ensure confidence in the system, the punishment must truly fit the crime. We have all seen examples of rapists and murderers let out too soon or people offending again as soon as they’re released.

“This ends now. We want them caught, locked up, punished and properly rehabilitated.”

Mr Johnson’s girlfriend

Carrie Symonds last year told how she felt let down by the justice system after the Parole Board decided “black cab rapist” John Worboys should be freed. After an appeal by victims, the High Court reversed the ruling.

Worboys, of Enfield, was jailed in 2009 for 12 assaults in London after targeting women who hailed his cab before drugging them in order to sexually assault them. In June, he admitted attacks on four more women and he will be sentenced next month.

sentencing review

Ms Symonds was targeted by the attacker and played a part in securing a judicial review into the Parole Board decision.

“Victims had never done this before,” she wrote afterwards. “But we won.”

She added: “The justice system and the Parole Board let us down. We knew he remained a danger to women and we knew we had to do all we could to prevent anyone else being drugged, assaulted and raped.”

The latest sentencing review, which will report back to the Prime Minister in the autumn, could recommend changes in legislation. This could mean no more early release for prisoners, plus longer sentences for repeat offenders.

Mr Johnson pledged a blitz on criminals when he entered Downing Street last month. The latest announcement comes on top of his promises over the weekend to “come down hard” on crime.

They include a £2.5billion programme to create 10,000 additional prison places and the extension of enhanced police stop-and-search powers across England and Wales.

The PM’s plan also includes raising prison standards, rehabilitating offenders and reducing re-offending. It will fuel speculation he is preparing for a general election amid deadlock in Parliament over Brexit.

Currently, many offenders sentenced to 12 months or more serve the first half in prison and the second half ‘on licence’ in the

The move prompted outrage in Mr Grieve’s Beaconsfield constituency where chairman Jackson Ng telling reporters he had been “inundated with irate emails”. Mr Grieve lost a local motion of confidence in March after repeatedly rebelling against the government over Brexit.

Mr Ng said: “The continuous and thoroughly un-Conservative behaviour being exhibited by Dominic Grieve and his behavior towards the government has become more worrying.”

“Should he entertain the idea of siding with Jeremy Corbyn or any other Government other than the existing Conservative Government currently being led by Boris Johnson, he will leave us with no choice at all as an Association.”

A source at Sir Oliver’s West Dorset Conservative Association said: “We are completely at odds with our MP over this.

This is the latest of many red lines he has crossed”.

On Thursday, Dame Caroline appeared to backtrack on the letter, saying: “I could not support a Corbyn Government, end of. I am not going to vote against my own government in a vote of no confidence.”

Initially rejecting the idea on Thursday as she gained her 14th MP in Sarah Wollaston, Ms Swinson said there was ‘no way’ Mr Corbyn could unite Labour MPs, let alone rebel Conservatives and independents.

She instead suggested veteran MPs Ken Clarke or Harriet Harman for the role because they are “respected on both sides of the House”.

Mr Clarke has so far declined to comment while Ms Harman tweeted: “We will all work together to enable Parliament to prevent the deep damage a No Deal Brexit would do to our country!”

Anna Soubry, leader of the Independent Group for Change, which has five MPs, said Mr Corbyn “is not the person given he struggles to maintain the confidence of his own backbenchers”.

But SNP leader Nicola Sturgeon did not rule out the backing of her party’s 35 MPs.

“It’s no secret, I’m not the greatest fan of Jeremy Corbyn, but we won’t rule out any option if it helps avert what is a looming catastrophe of a no-deal Brexit,” she said.

Ms Sturgeon appealed for Ms Swinson to “rethink” her dismissal, as did Green MP Caroline Lucas.

Plaid Cymru’s Westminster leader Liz Saville Roberts offered her cautious support, saying the party is open to a unity government regardless of who leads it.

Mr Corbyn and shadow chancellor John McDonnell last night claimed some Conservative MPs had “responded positively” to meet over the plan.

And Mr Corbyn appeared to have convinced some of his opponents within his party on the basis of blocking no-deal.

Backbench MP Wes Streeting said the Lib Dems were “wrong to reject” Mr Corbyn’s offer, saying it should be “treated seriously” by everyone trying to stop a no-deal Brexit.

Gangs 'recruit kids with food'

CRIMINAL gangs are recruiting children to deal drugs with the offer of free food, MPs have been told.

The tactic, dubbed "chicken shop grooming", was highlighted in written evidence to the Commons Youth Select Committee as part of its investigation into the UK's knife crime epidemic. It warned children excluded from school were particularly vulnerable to exploitation.

'vulnerable children'

"Some shared that their peers had been targeted by gangs outside of Pupil Referral Units, as well as outside sports centres," evidence from the Youth Justice Board of England and Wales said.

"They also said that sometimes children are recruited through an offer of food (referred to as chicken shop gangs) and they felt that schools could do more to keep children in school as it could be a protective factor from gang involvement."

Barnardo's chief executive Javed Khan said: "Criminal gangs use a variety of methods to groom, coerce and control vulnerable children.

"Children are offered money, 'gifts' such as food and alcohol, or simply friendship, and then use sexual exploitation and violence as methods of control.

"Barnardo's raises awareness among night-time workers, including those that work at fast-food outlets, to identify children who may be vulnerable."

Epstein death does little to ease Palace worries

Does disgraced financier's diary contain damaging details about Prince Andrew?

THE SUDDEN death of billionaire financier and accused pedophile Jeffrey Epstein has caused some alarm in royal circles, according to sources close to Buckingham Palace.

Prince Andrew was known to be a friend of Epstein and attended several parties at his lavish East Coast mansion.

Epstein was found dead on Saturday after reportedly committing suicide in jail. But it has emerged the US financier kept a diary, written in "meticulous detail", chronicling his interactions with the world's rich and famous, including the Duke of York.

Its existence was revealed as lawyers for his victims looked to obtain a statement from the Prince as part of investigations by various US law enforcement authorities.

Four years ago, an attempt to ask Andrew to testify under oath about his time with Epstein failed.

Following the billionaire's apparent jail suicide at 66, it was claimed Epstein's old associates were now "breathing a huge sigh of relief".

However, according to a report in the Daily Express, Epstein kept a diary detailing his friendships that sources say was an "insurance policy". A source revealed: "Jeff knew his relationships with the rich and famous also brought him protection. He kept a diary in meticulous detail just in case he ever needed it.

"It ain't over"

"One former congressman said there are a lot of people 'breathing a huge sigh of relief' now Jeff is dead. They should hold their breath for a long time to come. It ain't over."

Epstein apparently hanged himself on Saturday just hours

THE Queen has privately expressed frustration over the "inability to govern" by the political class since the Brexit vote.

Royal sources claim the monarch is "really dismayed" by the failures since the vote to leave in 2016. Over her 67-year reign, the Queen's personal views have rarely been divulged. But MPs are threatening to drag the 93-year-old into the political fray by trying to bring down the Government and trying to install an alternative.

Senior royal sources revealed the monarch was frustrated after the referendum and that had grown further as the crisis has heightened. They said she had commented at a private event shortly after ex-prime minister David Cameron resigned.

"I think she's really dismayed. I've heard her talking about her disappointment in the current political class and its inability to govern correctly," it was reported.

"She expressed her exasperation and frustration about the quality of our political leadership, and that will only have grown."

Tory MP Philip Davies said if the Queen's view was as reported he believed she was "speaking for the overwhelming majority in the country".

"As an MP I despair about what has happened in Parliament over the last years," he said.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS: Jeffrey Epstein numbered Andrew among his friends after the depths of his abuse were laid bare in previously unseen documents.

They revealed that one of Epstein's alleged sex slaves accused Andrew of licking her toes when she was just a teenager, as well as having sex. The manuscript by Virginia Giuffre is among 2,000 items. They detail three alleged sexual encounters with Andrew, one claimed to have taken place in London in 2001. The Royal was pictured with the then 17-year-old with his hands around her waist.

Giuffre has claimed she was "lent out" to Andrew. The Prince has vehemently denied her claims.

A second girl, Johanna

Sjoberg, claimed she was groped by the Duke, 59. Both girls testified they were "lured" into abuse by British socialite Ghislaine Maxwell, daughter of the late tycoon and fraudster Sir Robert Maxwell, who introduced Andrew to Epstein. Jack Scarola, a lawyer for some of Epstein's victims, told the Daily Express: "Other victims who have not yet come forward have information that will help bring Epstein's co-conspirators to justice."

Fury as Farage blasts Royals down under

■ Brexit Party leader describes Queen Mother as “a slightly overweight, chain-smoking gin drinker” and condemns Harry as ‘the prince of wokeness’

NIGEL Farage has sparked anger for an outspoken attack on the Duke and Duchess of Sussex and other members of the Royal Family during a speech in Australia.

The Brexit Party leader told a crowd of 500 people that Prince Harry’s popularity had “fallen off a cliff” since he met Meghan. It was also reported that he described him as “the prince of wokeness”, which is an African-American term that means tuned into social and racial justice issues. And ridiculed the couple’s plan to have no more than two children to help save the planet.

In other remarks at the Conservative Political Action Conference in Sydney, he called the late Queen Mother “a slightly overweight, chain-smoking gin drinker”.

Mr Farage’s comments sparked outrage from his opponents and from some royal fans. Conservative MP Nigel Evans accused him of “trashing” the Royal Family to entertain his audience.

“Doing this while abroad is something that we should avoid at all costs,” he said.

‘off the mark’

“The vast majority of people if given the choice between any politician and a member of the Royal Family would choose the royal every time. Quite frankly, he is off the mark on this.”

Labour MP Stephen Pound said: “He is not speaking for the nation, but is completely out of touch. “Anyone can come up with insults like these but we expect more of someone who affects to be a serious member of the European Parliament.”

Author Matt Haig, who worked with Meghan, 38, when she guestedited an edition of British Vogue magazine earlier this year, labeled the Brexit Party leader a “blustering, cocksure foghorn”.

He said: “So Nigel Farage wants immigrants to assimilate completely and never act ungrateful while he can swan around the world slagging off the British Royal Family and media and political system and that’s not hypocritical at all.”

Mr Farage, 55, who has been a member of the European Parliament since 1999 but has failed seven times to get elected to Westminster, told the audience: “Terrifying! Here was Harry, this young, brave, boisterous, all male, getting into trouble, turning up at stag parties inappropriately dressed, drinking too much and causing all sorts of mayhem. And then, a brave British officer who did his bit in Afghanistan. He was the most popular royal of a younger generation that we’ve seen for 100 years.

‘real problem’

“And then he met Meghan Markle, and it’s fallen off a cliff. We’ve been told in the last week Meghan and Harry will only have two children... and we’re all completely ignoring the real problem the Earth faces, and that is the population of the globe is exploding.

“Whether Prince Harry has two kids is irrelevant given there are now 2.6 billion Chinese and Indians on this Earth.”

Mr Farage, who was introduced to the conference as “quite possibly” Britain’s next prime minister, praised the Queen, describing her as “an amazing, awe-inspiring woman, we’re bloody lucky to have her”.

But he made disparaging remarks about Prince Charles because of his views on climate change and also the late Queen Mother. “When it comes to her son, Charlie Boy, and climate change, oh dear,” he said. “Her Royal Highness the Queen’s mother was a slightly overweight, chain-smoking gin drinker who lived to 101 years old. All I can say is Charlie Boy is now in his 70s ... may the Queen live a very, very long time.”

Asked about women choosing not to have children due to the climate crisis, he commented on Harry and Meghan’s decision to have only two children.

“If I want the Queen to live a long time to stop Charlie Boy becoming king, I want Charlie Boy to live even longer and William to live forever to stop Harry becoming king,” he said.

UK armed forces shrink again

The size of Britain’s armed forces has fallen for the ninth consecutive year, new Ministry of Defence figures show.

The Army, the RAF and the Navy have all seen a decline in the number of fully-trained personnel - with the Army experiencing the biggest fall.

Labour said the government was “running down” the UK military - calling it a “crisis” in recruitment and retention.

The Ministry of Defence said the armed forces continued to meet all their operational requirements.

The latest figures showed the Army was more than 7,000 troops short of the government’s target of 82,000.

In July there were 74,440 full-time and fully-trained troops, down from 76,880 last year.

There were smaller declines for the RAF and Royal Navy but they also failed to meet their target strength.

The RAF total stood at 29,930 of the required 31,840, while the Royal Navy and Royal Marines dropped to 29,090 of the required 30,600.

The MOD said it has been working hard to improve recruitment, adding that applications to join the Army were at a five-year high.

Young Britons lead the way in declining drinking

UNDERAGE drinking has declined more in the UK than in 62 other countries, it was revealed this week.

The proportion of 11 to 15-year-olds in England who drank alcohol once a week fell by 64 per cent among boys and 57 per cent among girls between 2010 and 2014, said the International Alliance for Responsible Drinking. One in 10 boys and nine per cent of girls drank weekly in 2014. There were also decreases of 46 per cent among boys and 54 per cent among girls in Scotland, and 56 and 64 per cent respectively in Wales.

The report also

ONLY FOR OLDIES? drinking is increasingly considered undesirable by the young in the UK revealed 11 million people have been asked for ID when buying alcohol under Britain’s Challenge 21 and Challenge 25 strategies.

Alliance boss Henry Ashworth, said: “Regulation, such as legal drinking-age limits, is the cornerstone for reducing underage drinking. But effective partnerships between industry, the public sector, and civil society are crucial.”

Dr Richard Piper, of Alcohol Change UK, said: “We’re still finding that some young people are getting introduced to alcohol at too young an age so we can’t be too complacent.”

Soldier could face jail after 1972 killing of IRA member deemed 'unjustified'

A former British soldier could face a possible criminal probe into the death of an IRA member 47 years ago after a coroner ruled his killing was "unjustified".

Seamus Bradley, an IRA member, was shot dead in the Creggan area of Londonderry in July 1972 at the age of 19.

Troops from the Royal Scots Regiment had deployed to the area as part of Operation Motorman, an Army attempt to gain control of republican areas across Northern Ireland that had previously been considered no-go zones for the security forces.

The Army had claimed the teenager was shot while he was in a tree, armed with a machine gun, and suffered additional injuries as he fell.

However, his family alleged he was killed later, claiming he was taken away in an Army Saracen vehicle and alleging he sustained fatal injuries while being subjected to interrogation.

Judge Patrick Kinney, who was overseeing the inquest at Belfast Coroner's Court, rejected both those versions of events as he ruled Mr Bradley was killed by a soldier who got out of a Saracen vehicle, dropped to one knee and opened fire.

He also said he was satisfied Mr Bradley was not posing a threat at the time he was killed and that the soldier had breached the Army's "yellow card" rules about when they could open fire.

Declaring that the IRA man could have survived his injuries if he had been properly treated by soldiers at the time, the Coroner said he was going to send a report on the case to Northern Ireland's Director of Public Prosecutions.

Seamus Bradley: shot dead in Londonderry in 1972

Although the Coroner had not been able to confirm the identity of the soldier involved, if he was still alive and could be identified the DPP could decide to press charges.

'honest belief'

A Ministry of Defence spokesperson said: "We acknowledge the outcome delivered by the coroner into the death of Seamus Bradley and will now review the detailed findings".

An original inquest in 1973 returned an open verdict and Northern Ireland's Attorney General ordered a fresh inquest in 2013.

"He was running across an open area of ground. He had no weapon. He was clearly visible and the fact he did not hold a weapon was clearly visible," Judge Kinney told the court.

"I am satisfied that the soldier who fired the shots could not have held an honest belief that firing on Seamus Bradley was absolutely necessary to protect either himself or others from being killed or seriously injured."

He said there was no evidence the decision to fire was made "in the heat of the moment or under particular pressure," but said there was no evidence to substantiate family claims of torture.

'very happy'

"I am satisfied that the force used was more than absolutely necessary in the circumstances. I therefore conclude that the use of force by the soldier who caused the death of Seamus Bradley was not justified," the coroner said.

Outside the court, Danny Bradley points to a picture of his brother Seamus Outside court Mr Bradley's family welcomed the verdict. His brother Danny, who has long campaigned for a fresh inquest, said he had faced down a threat from the IRA in Londonderry to pursue the inquest.

"I am happy with the verdict, very happy with the verdict," he said.

"As the judge said, it's 47 years [later] but it's a lot better than the last [inquest] verdict. I am happy that I went forward, even with threats from the IRA, and got this situation heard today."

Mr Bradley accused the Republican movement of letting down his brother by not co-operating with the inquest.

"I am disappointed in the Provisional IRA. I was threatened by the IRA not to take this case to court in Creggan and they told me the IRA hasn't gone away," he said.

"The IRA should have been [here] for us, I should have had about 30 [IRA] witnesses up there for my brother, and they let him down. He didn't let them down."

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: This next week or so will be filled with challenges. You thrive on this energy and you can make a lot of headway if you put your energy into it. You always fare well when the Sun is in your cousin sign of Leo and so it's just what you have wanted for some time.

TAURUS: Write a list of priorities and follow through as your ruler is in a positive sign right now. If you feel like reaching out and asking someone for a helping hand in any area this is the time to go for it. This will help you get set for the Autumn season.

GEMINI: Time to deal with what has been on your mind recently, so the faster you take this in hand the better will be the results for yourself and others. With the energy coming from the full Moon in Aquarius these past few days comes new opportunities.

CANCER: A positive beginning of the week would be to make peace or amends with anyone or anything that has caused you problems. Don't waste any energy this week ahead as chances are you will need it for more positive areas. By the middle of next week expect an unexpected visitor.

LEO: Make sure you are taking care of your health this week ahead as you need to keep it good. The next few days are prime for you to plan ahead to set the tone for good events already in process. Start saving a little for a planned vacation - you will be glad you did.

VIRGO: If any area of life currently is not going as smoothly as you expect, you can let go of worry about the outcome, all will be well by end of the month. Be confident when asked for your advice or opinion in a work situation. Just be open and all will be well.

LIBRA: The main lesson from this week is that it's not the time to begin anything you will not have time to finish up by month's end. Do not allow yourself to slack or take chances of any sort. Jupiter is in your creative area so he brings good news.

SCORPIO: Now you have made a decision stick to it and don't retract anything. This is the time for making headway forward, you have been stuck in some areas of life, now is the time to pull yourself up out of the slump and don't look back.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss Jupiter has been resting for a few weeks, however he getting ready to move forward and since he is only visiting you for a few more weeks get down and boogie along with him. He always works for your best good so get ready to assist him.

CAPRICORN: Your boss Saturn has brought a lot of situations up for attention these past few weeks. You now have opportunities to sort things out as never before. Although it has been tough, sometime soon you will see that what has transpired has cleared a lot of space.

AQUARIUS: Now your boss Uranus is in earthy Taurus for the long haul he can solve some problems for you. There are no coincidences and he is always seeking to bring out the truth of situations. With this in mind look at what he is bringing up for healing - it is all positive.

PISCES: This is a time to not take anything for granted. Nothing is worth feeling that you could have done better. By all means take a time away - go for walks in nature if that's what makes you feel better, you will come back refreshed and ready for anything.

BEST OF BRITISH: Matt Goss has been a Las Vegas headliner for ten years

Matt Goss recognized for his charitable work

Brit in America success story Matt Goss has achieved the rare distinction of 10 years at a headliner on the Las Vegas Strip.

But the Bros singer had something else to celebrate during his special anniversary show at the Mirage this week... Matt was presented with two humanitarian awards on stage for all the tireless work he has done for cancer causes and other charities.

Our own Sandro Monetti, no stranger to voluntary service himself, presented the awards on behalf of two organizations he represents, the United Nations Association of America and the Queen's charity, the Royal Society of St George.

Matt Goss was choked up to receive the honors and said: "I am so humbled, grateful, deeply touched and this inspires me to do more."

Sandro Monetti said on stage: "Matt has a heart as big as his voice. In this increasingly cynical age, there is still plenty of room for kindness and compassion and the charity work he quietly does has been noticed and appreciated. Not all superheroes wear capes." Joining Matt at the Mirage for the special occasion were his brother and Bros bandmate Luke Goss and various pop star pals including Debbie Gibson.

This Week's Trivia Winners....

The battle for victory at the Brits in LA Pub Quiz seems to get tighter each Tuesday and the latest trivia showdown at the Cat and Fiddle saw the top four teams divided by only one point.

Jeffrey Epstein's Prison Guards, Brexit Refugees and 30-50 Feral Hugs all tied for second place a whisker behind victors Sh*tting on Frank's Parade, who are pictured here with quizmaster Sandro Monetti and their $75 winnings.

But the runners up, including 30-50 Feral Hugs (right) were consoled by memorabilia prizes from new comedy movie Brittany Runs A Marathon, while several teams drowned their sorrows with cocktails courtesy of trivia sponsors Ketel One.

Join the fun next and every Tuesday at the Cat and maybe you could be a winner. (Photos by Frank L'e Sanford and Sandro Monetti).

Olivia Colman and Helena Bonham Carter prove a royally good fit

FANS of Netflix's acclaimed drama The Crown will probably tell you the show could not possibly get any better.

But according to early glimpses from the latest series, the show has done just that, thanks to the inspired casting of Olivia Colman as The Queen and Helena Bonham Carter as Princess Margaret.

But Colman has revealed that she herself thought she had a very tough act to follow - adding that she spent her first days on the set trying to mimic her predecessor Claire Foy.

The star revealed taking over as the Queen in the third series of the royal drama filled her with nerves. She told US magazine Entertainment Weekly: "It's horrendous. Everyone loves Claire Foy, so I have got the worst job in the world at the moment."

Foy won a Golden Globe for her first series as the Queen and an Emmy Award last year for the Netflix programme's second season. Colman, 45, added: "It's the same as any classical play you do, everyone will have already played that part before. The first week, I did feel myself trying to do Claire impressions."

Colman, known for roles in TV shows Peep Show, Fleabag and Broadchurch, and films The Iron Lady and The Favourite, for which she scooped an Oscar for her portrayal of Queen Anne, said she was "incredibly uncool" about accepting this job. She said: "The producers went, 'So...' (I said,) 'Yes! I'm really excited! Thank you very much!' I loved the first two seasons."

The new series of The Crown, covering 1964 to 1977, will see Tobias Menzies take over the

TO THE MANOR BORN: Oscar-winner Olivia Colman takes over the role of the Duke of Edinburgh from Matt Smith, while Helena Bonham Carter will play Tony Armstrong-Jones - a role previously played by Vanessa Kirby. Ben Daniels will take over as The new series will launch on the streaming service on November 17.

Simon Cowell pleased as punch with his slimline new look

SUPER-SLIM Simon Cowell has every right to look pleased with himself as he shows off his new toned and tanned physique.

Since becoming a vegan this year, Simon - who turns 60 in a couple of months - has shed nearly two stone and lost four inches off his waist line. Dressed in a form-fitting grey sweater and loose black trousers, Simon looked in great shape. He posed for the cameras before heading off to judge performers at the America's Got Talent finals in Hollywood.

The music mogul underwent a major lifestyle change after being hospitalised in October 2017, when plummeting blood pressure caused him to fall down the stairs. Alarmed by the incident he sought medical advice, and was told to avoid red meat, dairy, sugar, bread and gluten. He changed his diet, cutting out favourites such as jam tarts, hamburgers and spaghetti bolognese. He swapped dairy products for almond milk alternatives and said he has not looked back since.

"Once you get into a pattern I've found it quite enjoyable," he said. "It has helped me sleep and I wake up feeling less tired."

"I noticed a massive difference in how I felt in about a week."

"I have more energy and focus and it wasn't difficult."

Now he lives a much healthier lifestyle with his partner of six years Lauren Silverman, 42, and their five-year-old son Eric. One thing that has not shrunk however is his ego. He said: "If I was on a one to 10 scale of being handsome, I was an eight and now I've gone to an 11."

England facing another uphill struggle

ASHES SERIES: Second Test at Lords
 England 1st Innings: 258.
 Burns 53, Bairstow 52, Hazlewood 3-58
 Australia 1st Innings: 30-1.
 Australia trail by 228 runs
 England's fragile batting again buckled on day two of the second Ashes Test against Australia at Lord's on Thursday.

 Opener Rory Burns made a battling 53, only to be part of a collapse of four wickets for 46 runs that left the home side 138-6.
 England partially recovered through a stand of 72 between Jonny Bairstow and Chris Woakes.

 Bairstow was also helped by cameos from debutant Jofra Archer and Stuart Broad, before becoming the last man to fall for 52 to leave England 258 all out.
 Australia lost David Warner, bowled by Broad, to close on 30-1, but will be the happier side after captain Tim Paine won the toss.

was less secure and when he edged a beauty from Hazlewood to depart for 30, the slide began.
 Burns was magnificently caught one-handed by a diving Cameron Bancroft at short leg off Pat Cummins, a worryingly out-of-touch Jos Buttler edged Peter Siddle to wicketkeeper Paine and Ben Stokes was lbw sweeping off-spinner Nathan Lyon.

Despite the entire first day being lost to rain, bowling England out on this second day leaves the tourists handily placed to go 2-0 up in the series.

Bairstow, on the back of four single-figures scores, and Woakes, previously so successful with bat and ball on this ground, steadied with stout defence and careful accumulation.

Further rain was forecast on Friday and England may have the advantage of bowling last on a pitch showing signs of turn, but that benefit would only come into play if they can restrict Australia's first innings, then bat better at their second attempt.

But when Cummins opted to go short at Woakes, a top edge for six was followed by a blow to the helmet and then a glove behind, leaving Bairstow with brief moments of support before he heaved Lyon to deep square leg.

England's day got off to a horrible start, with Jason Roy playing one of the worst three-ball innings you could ever see from a Test opener. A wild slash at Hazlewood was followed by a play-and-miss, then a poke to be caught behind.

After Joe Root was trapped on the crease to be lbw, Burns and Joe Denly battled to 76-2 at lunch to leave England marginally on top.

Burns showed the grit and patience that brought him a century at Edgbaston, but Denly

Rangers ease through to next round

Alfredo Morelos scored twice as Rangers swept aside Midtjylland Thursday night to set up a Europa League play-off round tie with Legia Warsaw.

Steven Gerrard's Scottish Premiership side were in a strong position after winning 4-2 in Denmark last week, but first-half goals by Morelos and Sheyi Ojo put the tie beyond doubt.

Morelos added his ninth of the term after the break, and although Evander pulled one back, Rangers will travel to Poland next week knowing they are 180 minutes from the group stages.

Gerrard's side are now just two games away from reaching the Europa League group stages after scoring 19 goals and conceding just three in just six qualifying games.

Midtjylland had travelled to Glasgow knowing they needed to score at least three goals and, while it was apparent from their efforts to get the ball up the park, it ultimately played in to Rangers' hands and allowed a front line of Scott Arfield, Ojo and Morelos to counter-attack with purpose.

Ojo came close before swinging in a cross in from the left that allowed Morelos to pounce, cut inside Rasmus Nicolaisen, and knock the ball home.

Any pre-match jitters from the home crowd were quickly dispelled and, with the comfort of a three-goal cushion, Rangers struck again seven minutes from time. After a smart tackle from Ryan Jack in the middle of the park, Arfield then broke against a limited defence, before finding Morelos out wide.

The Colombian miscontrolled but managed to skid the ball to the front post where Ojo arrived to finish.

Jota stunner as Wolves maul Armenians

Diogo Jota scored a stunning acrobatic volley as Wolves beat Armenians Pyunik 4-0 at Molineux and 8-0 on aggregate to set up a Europa League play-off tie with Italian side Torino.

Jota came off the bench late on to power home a sublime finish from Raul Jimenez's excellent lob in an excellent performance from the Midlands side on Thursday.

Pedro Neto opened the scoring with a debut goal before academy graduate Morgan Gibbs-White turned in a cross.

Ruben Vinagre made it 3-0 from close range before Jota struck.

The 8-0 aggregate win is Wolves' biggest in Europe and means they are now just two games away from reaching the Europa League group stage.

But they will face a sterner test in Serie A side Torino, who beat FC Shakhtyor of Belarus 6-1 on aggregate. The two games against the Italians will take place on 22 and 29 August.

Wolves are competing in Europe for the first time since 1980 and recorded their biggest ever continental victory in Armenia last week with a 4-0 win.

Only skipper Conor Coady and Joao Moutinho retained their places from the side that drew with Leicester in their Premier League opener, while Jesus Vallejo, Neto and Patrick Cutrone were all given their full debuts.

The lack of urgency was clear in a first half largely devoid of chances and it was not until early in the second half that Wolves registered their first shot on target, Gibbs-White hitting an effort straight at the Pyunik goalkeeper.

But that chance seemed to stir the hosts into life and any glimmer of hope Pyunik had of staging an unlikely comeback was ended by a devastating 10-minute spell in which the hosts scored three and could have had more.

At 3-0 up, Nuno may have been tempted to tell his players to ease up but instead brought on star forwards Jota and Jimenez.

And the pair combined for a sensational goal as Jimenez scooped the ball up for Jota to dispatch a stunning volley.

We threw it away, laments Lennon

Neil Lennon said his Celtic side "threw away" a place in the Champions League play-off round by conceding four "crazy" goals to CFR Cluj in Glasgow.

The Scottish champions lost 4-3 on the night - and 5-4 on aggregate - despite leading twice against the Romanians.

Celtic have now exited the competition at this stage in successive seasons, after losing to AEK Athens last term.

"We had the lead and we've let it slip through our own decision making," Lennon told BBC Scotland.

"The goals we conceded are crazy. You've got to do the basics well - you've got to stop crosses, close people down, get your head on things - and it was almost as if we scored and wanted to switch off.

"We've only ourselves to blame. If you don't do the basics defensively well enough then at this level you get punished. We've let it go."

Celtic trailed 2-1 on aggregate at half-time after Cirpian Deac headed Cluj into the lead, but appeared to have turned the tie around with goals from James Forrest and Odsonne Edouard.

However, Billel Omrani converted a penalty after captain Scott Brown handled and, although Ryan Christie restored Celtic's lead again, Omrani and George Tucudean struck to earn Cluj a shock win.

"We didn't compete

FRUSTRATION: Neil Lennon's body language said it all Tuesday night in the first 45 minutes at all," said Lennon. "The second half we really had a lot more urgency but the goals we conceded are crazy. We needed that two-goal cushion really.

"What surprised me was our approach to the game. We've worked hard to get where we are and we've basically thrown it away.

"Now we need to look at the Europa League, make sure we qualify first then take it from there."

Lennon also defended his decision to start midfielder Callum McGregor at left-back in place of summer signing Boli Bolingoli.

"People can point at that but he [McGregor] did set up our equaliser and had a very good game," the manager said. "I don't think the left side was the problem tonight."

If they had held on, then edged past Slavia Prague in the play-off round to reach the Champions League group stage, Celtic would have been guaranteed 15.25m euros (£14.13m). Instead, should they progress past AIK of Sweden in the Europa League play-offs, they will pick up a comparatively paltry 2.92m euros (£2.71m).

Reds' Super Saver!

EUROPEAN SUPER CUP: Adrian saves the day and piles agony on Lamps

Liverpool won the Super Cup for the fourth time in their history by beating Chelsea 5-4 on penalties after a 2-2 draw in Istanbul in midweek.

Goalkeeper Adrian kept out Tammy Abraham's spot kick to secure victory for the Champions League winners.

Chelsea had taken the lead in the first half through Olivier Giroud's clinical strike but Sadio Mane scored twice to give Liverpool the lead.

Jorginho's spot-kick took the game to penalties, where Liverpool triumphed.

The win comes just two months after Jurgen Klopp won his first trophy as Liverpool boss when he led the Reds to a 2-0 win over Tottenham in the Champions League final.

Games between these two sides in Europe have historically been tight affairs, with just one of their 10 previous meetings having been won by a margin of more than one goal.

It was the same again on Wednesday night as the two teams tussled for 120 minutes in a game that did not finish until almost 1am in Istanbul.

In the end, it came down to who could keep their cool in the sweltering heat and after nine excellent penalties, Abraham placed his shot too close to Adrian to hand Liverpool their first silverware of the season.

Two weeks ago Adrian was without a club, having been released by West Ham at the end of last season.

But, following Simon Mignolet's departure to Club Brugge, Klopp snapped up the 32-year-old shot-stopper to provide experienced cover for Alisson.

Adrian had barely had time to get to know his new team-mates when he was called upon earlier than expected as Liverpool's first-choice goalkeeper injured his calf in the 4-1 win against Norwich in the Premier League's season-opener last Friday.

With Alisson facing a spell on the sidelines, Adrian made his full debut against Chelsea. It was his first competitive start since January, but he showed little signs of nerves or rustiness, catching the eye in the first half when he sprung off his line to deny Mateo Kovacic from close range.

There was little he could do about Chelsea's opener, which was a clinical finish by Giroud, although he did give away the penalty deep in extra time when he took the legs of Abraham.

But that gave him the platform to produce his penalty shootout heroics, which will give him and the Liverpool fans confidence he can be an able deputy during Alisson's absence.

Chelsea lost 4-0 at Manchester United on Sunday and while this was another defeat for the Blues and their new manager Frank Lampard, there were plenty of positives to be taken from Wednesday night's performance.

Lampard fielded a young side at Old Trafford but turned to the older heads in his squad for this game. The added bit of experience and quality showed, particularly in a dominant first-half display.

N'Golo Kante was by far the best player on the pitch in the opening 45 minutes as he pulled the strings in midfield, while Giroud showed the clinical finishing that was absent for the Blues at the weekend.

Christian Pulisic also caught the eye on his first competitive start for Chelsea.

The 20-year-old American provided a creative spark, while his movement and vision had more than a hint of Eden Hazard about them.

One moment that caught the eye saw him run onto a through ball in the first half, cut inside before tucking a neat finish inside the near post. However, the goal was ruled out for offside following a VAR check.

If Lampard is able to get the balance of youth and experience right in his first XI, Chelsea could be an exciting team to watch this season.
