Commons in uproar over move to suspend Parliament

- Johnson stuns opponents with plans to shorten debate on Brexit
- Critics term move 'a coup' and vow to keep fighting No-Deal exit
 - Scottish Conservative leader quits over PM's announcement

BORIS Johnson left Westminster stunned this week as he revealed bombshell plans to suspend Parliament – a move widely viewed as a blatant bid to kill off anti-Brexit measures from Remainer MPs.

The Prime Minister schocked MPs by announcing he will close down the Commons for up to five weeks. It means Remainers will have potentially just three days to launch their plans to block a nodeal exit.

Mr Johnson said he wanted the temporary shutdown – known as prorogation – to allow him to introduce "exciting" plans to "take this country forward", including a crackdown on violent crime, investment in the NHS and education reforms.

But this was widely considered a transparent smokescreen for his real motivation — to curb MPs attempting to block Britain's departure from the EU on October 31 if a new exit deal has not been struck. Europhile MPS tried to drag the Queen into the political arena by demanding a meeting with her to discuss the move, but the monarch has indicated privately that she will not be drawn into the row.

Some of the PM's critics at home and abroad have described his move a 'a coup', but Johnson himself insisted it was "completely untrue" to suggest that Brexit was behind his decision to suspend Parliament. He

WHY SO SERIOUS?: "We need to get on with our domestic agenda," insisted Johnson this week said: "We need to get on with our domestic agenda and that's why we're announcing a Queen's Speech for October 14."

'ample time'

But the Prime Minister said prorogation would allow him to bring forward legislation for a new EU withdrawal agreement if a deal can be done with Brussels around the time of the European Council summit on October 17.

"There will be ample time on both sides of that crucial October 17 summit, ample time in Parliament for MPs to debate the EU, to debate Brexit, and all the other issues," he said.

The Commons had been expected to sit in the first two weeks of September and then break for three weeks while the parties hold their autumn conferences. Some MPs had been preparing to vote to stop the recess to allow more time to consider Brexit, but Mr Johnson's move torpedoes their plan and, some believe, dramatically increases the chances of a general election.

Brexit Party leader Nigel Farage said the move made a Commons confidence motion in the Government now "certain". Were it to lose, an election would be almost inevitable. In a message to MPs, the Prime Minister said EU leaders were watching their actions and "it is only by showing unity and resolve that we stand a chance of securing a new deal that can be passed by Parliament".

The Queen approved the order to prorogue Parliament after meeting Leader of the House Jacob Rees-Mogg at Balmoral on Sunday afternoon. The suspension will take place no earlier than September 9 and no later than September 12, and last until October 14.

'crucial time'

Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn said he had "protested in the strongest possible terms on behalf of my party" in a letter to the monarch. He called for a meeting with her alongside other opposition members of the Privy Council. The Labour leader said: "This is an outrage and a threat to our democracy."

The view from Europe: foreign leaders unite in condemnation of PM's suspension plan politicians European have reacted with dismay Boris Johnson's decision to shut down Parliament for five weeks while newspapers on the continent declared the move a "coup".

The Houses Commons and Lords could be dissolved as soon as Tuesday September 10 after Mr Johnson said a Queen's Speech was required for him to pursue his domestic agenda.

Ireland's deputy prime minister has accused the British government of "wiping the slate clean" regarding promises made over Brexit.

Simon Coveney was speaking at a gathering of business leaders in Paris after the Queen agreed to a request from Boris Johnson to suspend parliament for five weeks.

And several European parliamentarians accused the prime minister of flouting parliamentary procedures to force through a no-deal Brexit.

However, speaking at the same event in Paris as Mr Coveney, Brexit Secretary Steve Barclay rejected those claims.

He said: "The British Government are aiming for a deal.

"A deal that honours the Belfast Good Friday Agreement but without the backstop, as the UK Parliament has made clear."

Mr Coveney, is also the Minister for Foreign Affairs, said that the British government's stance was asking the EU to disregard the proposed backstop arrangement on "the back of a promise".

"We must ensure that the commitments that took two years to negotiate to deal with the complexity of those issues on the island of Ireland are actually followed through on."

Verhofstadt, a Guy former prime minister of Belgium who is the European Parliament's Brexit coordinator, warned that suspending parliament could make it harder for the UK to get a trade deal in the future. He said on Twitter: "Suppressing debate on profound choices is unlikely to help deliver a stable future EU-UK relationship.

"Taking back control has never looked so sinister. As a fellow parliamentarian, my solidarity with those fighting for their voices to be heard."

In Belgium, La Libre's front page declared the move a "dangerous coup by Boris Johnson".

ABC in Spain, Liberation in France and De Morgen in Belgium all condemned the Johnson plan, with one paper describing it as 'the death of British democracy'

Echoing that sentiment, DeMorgen main front page headline called it a "very British coup".

De Standaard's headline "Johnson puts everything at stake for hard Brexit".

However, in private, officials suspending parliament was a "massive poker move" that could help Mr Johnson get a revised Brexit deal through the House of Commons.

Other European politicians accused Mr Johnson of being undemocratic.

Norbert Röttgen, a German MP and close ally of Angela Merkel, tweeted: "[Boris] Johnson argues that respect for democracy dictates implementing Brexit 'do or die' on October 31. As a fellow parliamentarian

Liberal Democrat leader Jo Swinson said: "I've written to the Queen to express my concern at Boris Johnson's antidemocratic plan to shut down Parliament, and to request an urgent meeting. This is a crucial time in our country's history, and yet our Prime Minister is arrogantly attempting to force through a nodeal Brexit against the democratic will.

'constituational outrage²

"He is outrageously stifling the voices of both the people and their representatives."

Speaker John Bercow, who was on holiday, also expressed anger. He called the move "a constitutional outrage".

But DUP leader Arlene Foster said she had spoken directly with Mr Johnson about his plans and he was "well within his rights". She added: "All I know is the Prime and democrat I wonder: how does respect for democracy go together with suspending parliament?" Mr Röttgen, a former Minister is entitled to go to Her Majesty the Queen and seek a new Queen's Speech, particularly as a new leader and new Prime Minister he wants to set out his domestic agenda and I don't think there's anything unusual about that."

But was some immediate fall out within the party with Ruth Davidson, leader of the Scottish Conservatives, resigning on Thursday after eight years in the job. In a statement she said it had been the "privilege of my life" to have led the party.

But she added that "much had changed" both politically and personally, which had led her to tender her resignation.

Ms Davidson had a baby last year, and has been a vocal critic of Johnson - particularly over his approach to Brexit.

Scottish Conservatives deputy leader Jackson Carlaw is to be appointed interim leader. He held position during Davidson's recent minister in an earlier Merkel-led government, chairs the influential foreign affairs committee the Bundestag, Germany's lower house.

The 40-year-old, who will continue as the MSP for Edinburgh Central, tweeted her resignation statement shortly before addressing the media at an event in Edinburgh on Thursday morning.

Her deputy, Jackson Carlaw, will become acting leader - a role he filled during Ms Davidson's maternity leave - until a permanent successor is chosen.

Ms Davidson backed Remain ahead of the EU referendum and famously clashed with Mr Johnson in a BBC TV debate at Wembley ahead of the vote - when she accused the Leave side of telling "untruths".

She said she never sought to hide the "conflict" she felt over Brexit, but had attempted to "chart a course for our party which recognises and respects the referendum result, while seeking to maximise opportunities and mitigate risks for key Scottish businesses and sectors."

Summer closes to a samba rhythm at sun-drenched Notting Hill Carnival partied in the sunshine weekend, revelling in the hottest August bank holiday temperatures on record.

Millions flocked to favourites summer including London's Notting Hill Carnival and the Leeds and Reading music festivals.

Heathrow was the the traditional Caribbean carnival's 50-year history. Nearly 12,500 police and 1,000 stewards attended the two-day event to ensure a "safe and spectacular" festival. Scotland Yard has also increased the number of screening arches used to detect knives and other weapons.

JUST LIKE RIO? The London School of Samba were among the participants at the famed Carnival

Music filled streets in west London, as people piled out to mark the long-standing celebration of Caribbean heritage in the capital. Some performers were armed with spray bottles filled with water, and stewards accompanying the bands handed out bottles of water to dancers decked out in colourful feathers. Despite the heat, paraders continued to enjoy the weekend. Jordan Leigh, 29, led the drummers in the London School of Samba in the role of Rainha de Bateria, or Queen of the Drums. A Brazilian dancing tradition, Ms Leigh called it an "honor" and "a dream come true" to be leading the band at her fifth Notting Hill Carnival.

Onlookers lined the streets as the floats passed through, and although some homes and businesses were boarded up, many had set-up stalls selling food and water on front steps.

Meanwhile, organisers planned a 72-second silence on both days to honour the 72 people killed in the 2017 Grenfell Tower fire, less than half a mile from the route.

Temperatures hovered around 86F at the Leeds and Reading festivals.

Andrew accuser: He knows what he's done

A WOMAN who claims she was forced to sleep with Prince Andrew said this week: "He knows what he's done."

Virginia Giuffre, who alleges she had sex with the Duke of York three times when she was a teenager, added: "I hope he comes clean about it."

She was among dozens of women who spoke out about the abuse they suffered at the hands of disgraced financier Jeffrey Epstein. In a New York court, Ms Giuffre – who went by the surname Roberts at the time of the alleged offence - told how Epstein, 66, and his then-girlfriend Ghislaine Maxwell committed "dark and cruel criminal acts" against her. It is the first time 57-year-old Ms Maxwell has been accused of being complicit in Epstein's abuse in a criminal court. She denies any wrongdoing.

A judge invited Epstein's victims to speak ahead of a ruling to formally dismiss the sex trafficking case against him following his suicide earlier this month. Many of the women – who were preyed on when they were teenagers – called on prosecutors to continue the investigation and bring his co-conspirators to justice. One victim, Sarah Ransome, said: "Please, please finish what you have started. We all know he did not act alone. He showed the world what a cowardly human being he was by taking his own life."

Another added: "They need to be held accountable, all of them."

Investigators allege that Epstein's abuse was abetted by a number of unidentified coconspirators. They are suspected of providing him with a string of young girls to satisfy his cont on page 4, col 1 sexual obsessions. None of the alleged conspirators have been publicly named or charged with any offence. But prosecutor Maureen Comen said: "This dismissal in no way deters the government's resolve in seeking justice for the victims in this case."

Prince Andrew was famously photographed with his arm around Ms Roberts in 2001. Years later, in 2015, she claimed that she was forced to have sex with the Duke of York in London, New York and the US Virgin Islands. However, a judge threw $out \, her \, all egations \, because \,$ they were "immaterial and impertinent". The Prince, who was friends with Epstein, has always strongly denied any "sexual contact or relationship" with Ms Roberts.

On Monday Courtney Wild, one of Epstein's victims, told the court she felt "angry and sad" that justice had not been served in the case. Ms Wild, who was 14 when the billionaire began abusing her, said: "He robbed myself and all the other victims of our day in court to confront him one-by-one, and for that he is a coward."

Another victim, who did not give her name, said many of the victims "will never heal" while another woman told the court that she was "angry he's not alive to have to pay the price for his actions".

The financier was jailed in 2008 after admitting procuring a person under 18 for prostitution and felony solicitation of prostitution. He was jailed for 18 months after a controversial plea deal but served just 13 months of it – much of which was on day release. Before his death in prison on August 10, Epstein was awaiting trial on charges of sex trafficking of a minor and conspiracy to commit sex trafficking.

40 years on, Mountbatten and Narrow Water killings are commemorated

The IRA killings of Lord Mountbatten and 18 soldiers on one of the bloodiest days of the Troubles were commemorated 40 years on on Sunday.

In Mullaghmore,
Co Sligo, a service
was held to remember
Mountbatten - Queen
Elizabeth's second cousin - and three others who were killed when republican paramilitaries blew up their fishing boat.

At Narrow Water, Co Down, veterans gathered at the roadside to remember the soldiers who were killed at the spot by two IRA bombs later on the same day in 1979.

The mother and father of Paul Maxwell, the Co Fermanagh teenager who died in the boat bomb, were among those who attended the outdoor service on a clifftop overlooking the scene of the atrocity.

atrocity

John Maxwell and Mary Hornsey laid a wreath together, while Mr Maxwell also read a Seamus Heaney poem to the crowd of local people who came to show support.

At Narrow Water, more than 200 veterans, politicians and local people were present for the service and wreathlaying ceremony on the banks of the Newry River.

Those in attendance included survivors of the atrocity which took place on August 27 1979 when the IRA detonated the remote control bombs from a firing point on the other side of the river in the Republic.

The former head of the British army General Sir Mike Jackson was among those present.

During the crosscommunity religious service at Mullaghmore, Church of Ireland archdeacon Isaac Hanna said the day offered an opportunity for everyone to rededicate themselves to the goal of reconciliation on the island of Ireland.

'innocence lost'

"The events of 40 years ago are hard to imagine as we look out over this scene," he said, as Paul Maxwell's parents watched from the front row.

"And yet they speak of innocence lost, they speak of a time when horror visited this coastline and this place, they speak of a time of confusion and fear.

"I also want to say they speak of a time when a community rallied around those that had lost loved ones, when this community stood with this family in particular and all those who had been affected in some way, and said: 'This was not done in our name.'

"We stand with you and there is comfort and strength in knowing that you have this support in this place at this time."

Archdeacon Hanna said the bombers had not succeeded if their goal was to strike fear into people.

'cause of freedom'

"Fear can have a stifling effect on those who are coerced and are intimidated in any way, and perhaps that was the intention that day - but the opposite has been the effect," he said.

The cleric added: "Today is as much about rededicating ourselves to the cause of justice, the cause of reconciliation and the cause of freedom, so that no person should have to go through what you as a group have gone

John Maxwell and Mary Hornsey with their daughter Lisa McKean after leaving a wreath to their son Paul Maxwell who was killed when Lord Mountbatten's boat was blown up, by the IRA, off the coast of Mullaghmore in August 1979 through."

After the service, Mary Hornsey said it had been a privilege to attend.

"I think it was absolutely wonderful that the community came out today and organised this lovely service of remembrance," she said.

'let's move forward'

"I would like to say thank you to all of those people who took part in this. It has helped us enormously because I feel that in this service there was love and support for our family, and we appreciate that."

As well as killing Lord Mountbatten and Paul Maxwell, who worked on the boat, the Mullaghmore blast also claimed the lives of Lady Doreen Brabourne, the 83-year-old mother-in-law of the earl's daughter, and his 14-year-old grandson Nicholas Knatchbull.

As well as the 18 soldiers who died at Narrow Water, there was a 19th victim of the incident when William Michael Hudson, (29), a civilian visiting the Republic from London, was hit by a bullet fired by soldiers across the Newry River to where he was standing with his cousin Barry Hudson, who was injured.

Lord Mountbatten was hosting his mother in-law, Lady Doreen Brabourne, and his grandson Nicholas Knatchbull, who were also killed on the boat

After the service in Co Down, Graham Eve, a former member of the Parachute Regiment who was deployed to secure the scene after the bombs, urged politicians to restore the powersharing government at Stormont.

"What I am bitter at now is the politics of the country and why we still haven't got this sorted out," he said.

"The secretary of state should turn around to the politicians of this country and say, 'Stormont will be open on Monday morning, you turn up you get paid, you don't turn up you get sacked, and let's take it from there and sort this bloody thing out.'

"Why are they still arguing, why is there so much hatred? Put the orange away, put the green away, let's move forward. Sort themselves out - it's terrible and I am so annoyed by the politicians.

"I appreciate the history of the past, that's the problem, it's the past, let's forget about the word 'past' and let's move forward. Please.

"I am not going to die a bitter man, I have no bitterness in me."

Coleen without ring after Wayne brunette mystery

■ Rooney's wife heads to US for showdown talks after booze-fueled latest scandal from former England captain

FUMING Coleen Rooney ditched her wedding ring this week after errant husband Wayne was spotted getting into a hotel lift with a young brunette.

The former England football captain, 33, had laughed and joked with the "glamorous" woman at 5.30am – seven hours after going out with team-mates. Back in the UK Coleen's fingers were bare as braved a crush of reporters as she emerged from her home to run errands. Wearing a fresh pink T-shirt with little make-up, Coleen failed to raise a smile as she picked up groceries for her family.

Rooney had vowed to ditch the drink. But he enjoyed a boozy night out in Vancouver, Canada, with his DC United team-mates while his wife Coleen was at home with their four sons in Cheshire. Friends report that she has "gone ballistic" after Wayne was spotted with his arms draped around a mystery woman inside one of two nightclubs he visited, before joining her in the back of a car.

Later he was seen getting in a lift with different woman, who was dressed in a white jumpsuit, at his team's Vancouver hotel. DC United were in the Canadian city last Sunday to play the Vancouver Whitecaps. They lost 1-0. Friends say her husband's latest antics have infuriated her, and heading out without her ring has thrown fresh question marks over their marriage.

According to Sunday newspaper reports yesterday Rooney, who is joining Derby County in January when his DC contract expires, swigged rum and coke in two nightclubs, chatted to multiple women, and had a dip in a hot tub at a friend's flat.

It came after he vowed to go teetotal and have counselling in a bid to save the 11-year marriage to his childhood sweetheart after numerous scandals.

In his latest rumpus, Rooney had dinner at a cafe at 10.30 pm with teammates before partying in the VIP area of the Twelve West nightclub. Rooney was later spotted chatting "intensely" to a "glamorous woman in her 20s".

He left the club with team-mate Frederic Brillant, two brunettes and a blonde, and they got into a limo together, before reportedly going to another club and then heading to a barman's apartment to party in a hot tub.

STORMY MONDAY: Coleen Rooney steps out without her wedding ring shortly after news of her husband's latest antics emerged in the press

HOROSCOPE/PUZZLES

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Your boss Mars is feeling powerful currently, which can make your life chaotic for a while. Bear in mind nothing lasts forever and new opportunities will follow next month. Expect busy times ahead so pace yourself.

TAURUS: You need to look long and hard at where you are heading. If it is the right direction with some creative project you should move forward swiftly. But do not waste time if you are unsure if this is right for you. Don't be afraid to take the bull by the horns.

GEM INI: With Saturn the karma maker about to turn in a positive direction it's very possible that any unfinished situation will come to fruition. Keep your mind focused on the expected outcome and do not back away from your goal. You can move forward to a goal that is been uncertain for a while by mid-September.

CAN CER: You may be looking forward to changes. Due to positive energy about to move into your life open up to the possibilities if you can. Either way get ready; you have Saturn opposite to you currently and he will move you in the right direction. LEO: As this month ends you could find yourself feeling stretched beyond your financial limits. So remember: you can only do your best. It's going to get easier before the middle of next week to budget. Keep smiling, you can do this.

VIR GO: Any task you take on will be easier to deal with and will likely be completed by the end of the coming week. Be on the safe side: make it a priority to complete anything outstanding because you will be busier next month. Happy Birthday!

LIBRA: Travel is much on your mind and this can make you stressed or feel limited. The clue is to make an effort to keep busy. Venus in your money area currently is bringing you better cash flow ultimately and will leave some unexpected gifts.

SCORPIO: Pressure in some areas may have got you frazzled. However, now you have a chance to get back on track as the new month will bring some easing of pressure and by midweek it will be lifted. Keep the faith you will get what you need.

SAGITTARIUS: Whatever way you having been trying to move forward is not going to harm your end result now that Jupiter your boss is in a positive light for you. However do not take any short cuts financially as you cannot afford to make a wrong choice.

CAPRICORN: It is time to tell the truth, either for you or someone you know who is not. Saturn your boss can and will stir up your emotions somewhat. Do not let this get to you, especially this weekend. Best to keep a low profile for a while.

Solution to Puzzle #402

PAGE 10 THE BRITISH WEEKLY, SAT. AUGUST 31, 2019

I left my heart in... San Diego?

I'm sure we all have a few bucket list places we want to visit, and for my good friend Lisa Gorgin she has her own set of them in California to visit before her visa runs out. So recently to help celebrate Lisa's 64th birthday we hit a few spots, on a short 24hour jaunt to San Diego. Depending on traffic it could take anywhere between two and a half hours to four hours to get down there. I recommend setting off at around 11am and before 1pm and you should make good time.

Heading south once you clear the urban sprawl past Newport Beach things get a little prettier, and en route there is one detour one must definitely take the beautiful cove at La Jollam with its incredible shoreline and beautiful sky it's a must see. If you have time book a table at George's at The Cove (georgesatthecove.com) for some outstanding California cuisine and sparkling ocean views. Even if you don't have time for some nosh, it's a great spot for cheeky glass of wine - or something soft for the driver!

Pool Time

Arriving in San Diego we checked into the Hotel Lafayette Bungalows and Swim Club which I had booked using the very nifty app HotelTonight to

It's Time For Tea...

Traditional Afternoon Tea is now served Mon-Sat 11.30am-4.00pm in our Tea Room (also available privately for baby showers, bridal showers and special occasions). King's Head Pies now available in our bakery Sausage rolls, pastries & delicious cakes, baked daily snag a last-minute deal. Their rooms regularly run $250 a night but we nabbed one for just $98. Who doesn't love a bargain?

The hotel is ideally located near the city's Balboa Park, and apparently has been locally famous since 1946, as their brochure put it, 'welcoming celebrities and locals to relax in our spacious guestrooms, and suites private bungalows." They flock here for the famed Johnny Weissmuller (of Tarzan fame) Olympic sized Pool.

Even Hollywood has come calling to film movies including Top "You've Lost Gun's that Loving Feeling" bar scene. We found it a playful, fun, unique and historic spot, so really, there's no better place to make your escape. The rooms are a bit drab and definitely in need of an upgrade, but for the price we couldn't really complain.

No so despacito...

Soon after checking in and dropping our bags we set off for San Diego's Old Town for a spot of shopping, margaritas and dancing. Not necessarily in that order. As you walk around the many stores and restaurants one common theme emerges, music and dancing is everywhere. It's a real celebration of the Mexican culture. Old Town San Diego marks the site of the first Spanish settlement on the U.S. West Coast and features 12 acres of Mexican heritage and historical sites, colorful shops, early-California-style restaurants, museums, a theater and the restored Cosmopolitan Hotel. I can only imagine what the cinco de Mayo celebrations are like here... Lisa and I danced to live music in the town square. I'm sure I was was less Despacito and more Desperado though! Hey, I'm a gringo!

ATMOSPHERIC: San Diego's rich Western and Spanish heritage can be found everywhere in Old Town

SOME LIKE IT HOT: the famed Del Coronado hotel

Dinner was spent in Little Italy at the most gorgeous steak restaurant called Born and Raised (bornandraisedsteak. com) which boasts tableside carts and smoking cocktails (and they do have a vegan option for those so inclined) it's a real gem of a restaurant, if a little bit pricey, but well worth it. After dinner drinks were spent at "False Idol" a hidden Tiki Bar at the back of a restaurant called "Craft and Commerce." cont on page 11, col 1

Old Town was superb...our dancing, not so much

This is an amazing spot to surprise the out-oftowners. No photos are allowed but the special effects are not to be missed. Reservations are advised.

Chillin' at the Del...

The next morning to nurse our hangovers, we dipped in the pool, soaked up the sun and drank bloody Marys poolside before venturing off to the number one thing to see and do in San Diego...to visit the famed Hotel Del Coronado and it's beaches.

This historic hostelry is a San Diego icon and is famous worldwide as the backdrop for the classic Billy Wilder comedy "Some Like it Hot". But it's stunning architecture and expansive, vintage interiors are something not to be missed. Lunch on the patio deck of shrimp tacos and chips was well worth it, but watch out for the portion sizes. I'd recommend sharing, as one plate is more than enough for two. We were ready for a nap but the drive home beckoned, so reluctantly, we hit the freeway and headed north.

All in all San Diego is definitely a place worth seeing and exploring, I know for sure I'll be back –next time hopefully for a longer stay.

Meet A Member: Dan Rutstein

Meet Dan Rutstein from London who moved to LA five years ago to pursue a diplomatic career... "and now the real world".

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

When working for the Department for International Trade I was sent here for four years, last year I made the move into the private sector. Because if you are going to get off the Foreign Office merry-go-round there is no better place than here – so much opportunity. When you leave Government, the obvious thing in the UK would be to go and do corporate affairs for a big company. In LA, leading a tech company, sitting on a few boards and becoming a double podcast host seems like an entirely normal next step.

What do you miss most from home?

Northern real ale, proper curry, rugby league, real chips, orange squash and my beloved AFC Wimbledon, whose League One games are never televised.

What was your first has it changed since? On the third day of my diplomatic posting I realized I wanted to stay. The sunny outlook (the people as well as the weather), the vast opportunities, the friendliness, the lack of tall poppy syndrome. None of that has changed. Five years in, I am still as excited about what life here can be as I was when I arrived.

(although I am now much more aware of guns and the cost of healthcare than my first week).

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus London?

It really is the scope of opportunity and how people live their lives. The vast majority of my school and university friends have normal London jobs. Suit on in the dark, don't see the kids, train up to London and back again, kids already asleep.

Here no-one seems to have a proper job. They are all successful and happy but they do so in a much more balanced way.

There are long hours working here but they are around kids, or golf, or long lunches (or all

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us? I am not sure how hidden it is but the Magic Castle is absolutely my favorite place to go. Having joined a couple of years ago, I have probably nearly once a week since. It is a rare, exclusive, dress-code enforced, non-celebrity pocket of amazement and intrigue.

What would vou suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here? Expect it to be expensive and be ready for that. Come with good ideas, enthusiasm and none of the shyness and modesty that Brits excel at. If you are good, positive and also lucky, then Los Angeles can make your dreams come true.

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

Professionally – be like your American hosts. Be positive, don't be shy, tell your story, just ask for help. Personally - use doggie bags. If you are committed to finishing the food on your plate (as I always

MULTI-TASKER: Dan Rutstein runs an immersive tech company and hosts two podcasts

am), you will quickly and visibly regret it here

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you working on anything at the moment?

I run an immersive tech company called Laduma www. thinkladuma.com. We do amazing things in virtual and augmented reality and immersive projection.

I also host two podcasts @RealityShowPod immersive about technology. And, jointly with former Scottish rugby captain Chris Cusiter, The United States of Dramerica (@ USof Dramerica) - a whisky podcast that's not about whisky. Every fortnight we interview someone over a glass of whisky about their life – Brit favorites Nigel Lythgoe and Ross King have already featured.

BEN THE BRILLIANT!

■ Ashes hero Stokes fires England to one of their greatest sporting comebacks

BEN Stokes led England to a sensational, historic victory over Australia on Sunday in what has already been dubbed "the greatest performance of all time".

Stokes was the hero of the hour, scoring an incredible unbeaten 135, which included eight sixes.

Even with Stokes in dominant mood with the bat, when the eleventh man Jack Leached walked out to bat with the score at 286 and England needing another 76 runs with just one wicket left, it looked like mission impossible.

British Weekly SPORT

But then Stokes took over, hammering the ball to all corners of the ground as he chased the most unlikely total while Leach was happy to play the supporting role, nabbing just one of the 76 runs scored by their partnership.

Former England skipper Sir Alastair Cook said simply: "That is the most extraordinary Test innings ever played by an England batsman."

And England legend Geoff Boycott said: "I've seen some remarkable cricket moments in my life, but that is the best I've seen in over 50 years.

"Ben Stokes saved the Ashes and gave a magical inspirational innings."

Prime Minister Boris Johnson last night was also full of praise. He said: "Just caught up with the most extraordinary end of a Test match. What a performance from England – incredible batting from Ben Stokes #Ashes."

It marked a dramatic turnaround for Stokes who just a year ago was acquitted in a crown court after getting involved in a brawl which led to him losing the England vice captaincy. He was cleared of affray and immediately returned to the side. And just 12 months later he powered England to win the world cup and then this dramatic Ashes test. His efforts evoked memories of Ian Botham's famous escape act for England in Headingley back in 1981. The odds on Stokes winning BBC sports personality of the year have been slashed to 4/1 on. And bookies were even starting to take bets on whether he would be awarded a knightood.

There was extraordinary atmosphere inside the ground as a sell-out capacity crowd roared Stokes on. On the famous Western Terrace there was jubilant soccerstyle chanting as England edged ever closer to an epic victory. There were reports of kitchen staff at Headingley in tears. At the G7 summit over in Biarritz, English reporters were scolded by officials for cheering too loudly as they followed the run

On hitting the winning run his partner Jack Leach ran up and kissed him. Stokes joked: "It was the best kiss I've ever had."

It was the first time in 130 years that a team scoring less than 70 in their first innings had gone on to win a Test match. It saw England tie the Ashes series with two games left to play.

Sad end as Bury left dead and buried

Bury have been expelled by the English Football League after a takeover bid from C&N Sporting Risk collapsed.

The League One club had been given until 17:00 BST on Tuesday to complete the deal, having been granted an extension to Friday's initial deadline.

Bury are the first team to drop out of the EFL since Maidstone's liquidation in League One will comprise 23 clubs for the rest of the season, with only three teams to be relegated.

"When the news broke at Gigg Lane, fans instantly let out a huge cry - for help, of disbelief," said BBC Radio Manchester's Mike Minav.

"Fans walked away in instant tears, some crouching down to the floor."

EFL executive chair Debbie Jevans said it was "one of the darkest days" in the league's history, and added: "I understand this will be a deeply upsetting and devastating time for Bury's players, staff, supporters and the wider community.

"There is no doubt today's news will be felt across the entire football family."

Bolton Wanderers, also of League One, have been given 14 days to avoid being expelled themselves, with their prospective takeover Football Ventures (Whites) Limited still yet to go through.

In a statement on Monday, the club's administrators warned they were on the brink of liquidation, saying if they were unable to resurrect the move the club was "not in a position to carry on trading".

However they said on Tuesday they would "continue to work through the night" to complete a deal, adding there would be another update "as soon as possible".

The EFL had suspended each of Bury's first six fixtures this season, requesting evidence the Shakers could pay off creditors and had the funding to make it through the campaign.

In a statement at 23:05 BST on Tuesday, the league said it decided "after a long and detailed discussion" to withdraw Bury's EFL membership "with enormous regret".

"No-one wanted to be in this position but following repeated missed deadlines, the suspension of five league fixtures, in addition to not receiving the evidence we required in regard to financial commitments and a possible takeover not materialising; the EFL board has been forced to take the most difficult of decisions," Jevans said.

Bury were initially given until 23:59 BST on Friday to either provide the required information or find a buyer to take them over.

With the third-tier side effectively an hour from being thrown out of the EFL, owner Steve Dale told BBC Radio Manchester he had sold the club and they were set to survive.

That news subsequently secured them an extension until Tuesday to complete the deal, but C&N Sporting Risk quickly expressed concern it was still not enough time.

An estimated volunteers turned up at the club's Gigg Lane home on Tuesday to help get the ground ready for Saturday's scheduled game against Doncaster Rovers, but their efforts were in vain.

Reacting to news of the Shakers' expulsion, Bury North MP James Frith was critical of the EFL and claimed there was a lack of consistency in how it has treated the situations at Bury and Bolton allowing Bolton to play games but not Bury, for example.

"I'm angry. My head is in my hands. I feel Bury is the victim... and those left to pick up the pieces are the town and the community. Yes we will rise again and keep the faith but we shouldn't be at this point," he told BBC Radio 5 Live.

problems for their 21man first-team squad this was their ninth game in 36 days - but that is a problem boss Nuno Espirito Santo wants.

The Portuguese who has turned the club around since his appointment 2017 when they were in the Championship - named a strong team, making four changes only from Sunday's draw with Burnley.

They started the game on the back foot, with Torino dominating possession and Wolves playing a counter-attacking game.

But wing-back Traore was lively down the right and forced a save from Salvatore Sirigu after a sensational surging run - before setting up Jimenez for the opener. The Mexican has scored six goals in as many qualifiers this season.

Torino needed three goals at that stage and for about 60 seconds they seemed back in the tie when Italy international Belotti headed in Daniele Baselli's free-kick.

But before television replays of that goal were even shown, Wolves had restored their two-goal advantage aggregate Diogo when Jota's shot was saved and Dendoncker's first-time shot from 16 yards went in via the post.

Torino, who finished seventh in Serie A last season, had a go with Simone Zaza and Soualiho Meite going close. But the Italian side went the way of Northern Ireland's Crusaders and Armenian side Pyunik, Wolves' victims in the previous two rounds.

Champions League Draw: Reds and City given kind draws, Spurs and Blues face tougher test Holders Liverpool will face Napoli, Salzburg and Genk in the Champions League group stage this season.

Premier League Manchester champions City Shakhtar alongside Donetsk, Dinamo Zagreb and Atalanta.

Last year's runners-up Tottenham are in a group with five-time European Cup winners Bayern Munich, plus Olympiakos and Red Star Belgrade.

Chelsea must negotiate a group including 2019 semi-finalists Valencia and Lille.

Europeanheavyweights Paris St-Germain and Real Madrid were drawn together in Group A while former winners Barcelona, Borussia Dortmund and Inter Milan will all meet in Group F.

This year's group stage begins on Tuesday, 17 September while the final is on Saturday, 30 May at the Ataturk Stadium in Istanbul.

Liverpool met Napoli in the group stage of last year's competition, winning at home and losing the away tie in Italy, before going on to win the tournament for a sixth

"Napoli are obviously a very experienced side and their coach Carlo Ancelotti has won the competition," said manager Jurgen

"I will need now to have another, closer look at Genk and Salzburg, but I already know they are very young, very exciting and very fresh, so it will be interesting, 100%."

It will be the third year in a row Manchester City, who lost in the quarterfinal to Spurs last season, will face Shakhtar in the group stage.

"Zagreb and Atalanta are new opponents for us, but both teams play really good football and I think you will see some great games in this group," City director of football Txiki Begiristain said.

Tottenham reached the European Cup final for the first time last season and forward Son Heungmin said they must "remember and learn from" the campaign.

"Bayern will be special because they are one of the biggest teams in Europe, you're always excited to play in this competition against these teams," the South Korea international added.

The evening perhaps most notable for a bizarre appearance from former Manchester United and France striker Cantona, who was given Uefa president's award before the draw.

Dressed in a flat cap and an unbuttoned red shirt, he began by quoting Shakespeare's King Lear saying "as flies to wanton boys we are for the gods" before continuing to reference science, war and crime.

The audience, packed with footballing superstars such as Lionel Messi and Cristiano Ronaldo, watched in stunned silence before sharing puzzled glances as Cantona made his way from the stage before Lucy Bronze and Virgil van Dijk were later named Uefa's players of the year.

Hereistheincomparable Eric's speech in full:

CLASSIC CANTONA: the Frenchman began by quoting King Lear...

"As flies to wanton boys we are for the gods, they kill us for their sport.

"Soon the science will not only be able to slow down the ageing of the cells, soon the science will fix the cells to the state and so we will become eternal.

"Only accidents, crimes, wars, will still kill us but unfortunately, wars, will multiply.

"I love football. Thank
