IT WAS A VERY BAD WEEK FOR BORIS!

■ PM loses Commons majority - and control of Brexit legislation - as even his own brother turns against him

JUST A FEW short weeks after winning the biggest political prize in UK politics, Boris Johnson looked defeated and shattered on Thursday after a week that saw him lose his parlimentary majority, suffer a humiliating reverse at the hands of Parliament and fail to secure the snap general election he'd been threatening to call.

More than 20 of his MPs rebelled against him, and were then kicked out of his party, prompting a backlash from those who remained. And then on Thursday, to cap it all, Jo Johnson – his own brother – resigned out of the blue as one of his ministers.

Johnson's terrible week began on Tuesday as Philip Lee defected to the Lib Dems ahead of an acrimonious debate as MPs sought to prevent the Prime Minister from taking the UK out of the European Union without a deal.

Lee sat on the opposition benches and accused the Tories of deliberately using "political manipulation, bullying and lies" to push through its plans on

Brevit

The House responded to what many also considered bullying by inflicting a humiliating defeat on Johnson, voting by 328 to 301 to take control of Parliament away from the government and followed that up barely 24 hours later by passing a bill that would outlaw the government from passing a no-deal Brexit. The legislation would force the prime minister to delay Brexit until January 2020, unless MPs approve either a new deal or a no-deal exit by 19 October.

The bill was expected to complete its passage through the Lords on Friday, after the BW went to press.

And the bad news kept coming on Thursday, as the prime minister's younger brother, Jo Johnson, announced that he was standing down as a minister and MP. The MP for Orpington, southeast London, said he had been "torn between family loyalty and the national interest".

Speaking in West Yorkshire, Boris Johnson said his brother, who backed Remain in the 2016 referendum, was a "fantastic guy" but they had had "differences" over the EU.

During his speech at a police training centre in Wakefield, the prime minister reiterated his call for an election, which he wants to take place on 15 October.

FAMILY ISSUES: Boris Johnson and (right) brother Jo Johnson

He argued it was "the only way to get this thing [Brexit] moving".

"We either go forward with our plan to get a deal, take the country out on 31 October which we can or else somebody else should be allowed to see if they can keep us in beyond 31 October," Mr Johnson said.

He told the audience he hated "banging on about Brexit" but accused MPs of having "torpedoed" the UK's negotiating position with the EU by voting for the Labourbacked bill to block a nodeal exit on 31 October.

Tory MPs: We don't blame Boris, we blame Cummings

Disgruntled Tories point the finger at "Vote Leave" mastermind

He was the architect of Vote Leave's "take back control" slogan, hitting the ceiling when the Brexit campaign won the referendum.

with Boris But Johnson's "do or die" pledge to deliver Brexit on Oct 31 "with or without a deal" now hanging in the balance, some are starting question whether Cummings, Dominic his chief strategist has been punching above his weight. For it was not long ago that the 47-yearold political Svengali insisted that there was "nothing" Remain MPs could do to stop a no-deal Brexit. "Politicians don't get to choose which votes they respect," he told Sky News.

Fast forward six weeks into Mr Johnson's fledgling premiership and Tory rebels, with the aid of opposition MPs, have done exactly that.

The Prime Minister now faces the humiliation of having to seek a threemonth extension to Article 50 if he cannot agree a deal with Brussels by Oct 19 – days after the EU Summit.

This, coupled with unease over the decision to strip 21 rebel Tories of the whip – including Ken Clarke, Father of the House, and Sir Nicholas Soames, Sir Winston Churchill's grandson – has called his judgment into question.

Yet interestingly, it is not the Prime Minister many are blaming for the party's civil war, but Cummings – a man who has made no secret of his dislike for elected politicians and who once remarked: "The Tory Party is run by people who basically don't care about people like me."

Summing up the mood, expelled rebel Margot James said: "The great lady [Margaret Thatcher] ... once said, 'Advisers advise, ministers decide'. Can I ask the Prime Minister to bear that statement closely in mind in relation to his own chief adviser, Dominic Cummings?" She later revealed that it was a report by The Telegraph's Peter Foster – claiming that Cummings described the Brexit negotiations as a "sham" and that Government's policy was to "run down the clock" that had convinced her to rebel

Sir John Major, the former Prime Minister, on Thursday called for Cummings to be sacked before he "poisons" Government beyond repair.

It followed reports of Cummings "berating" the rebels while they waited to meet the Prime Minister before Tuesday's crunch votes, saying: "I don't know who any of you are."

Downing Street has subsequently refuted claims he told Greg Clark, the former business secretary: "When are you f----- MPs going to realise we are leaving on October 31? We are going to purge you," and insisted that he didn't use any foul language.

Describing Cummings as "the perfect foil" to Sir Eddie Lister, Mr Johnson's "calm and considered" co-chief of staff, the source added: "I've not heard Dom raise his voice but he does do a lot of his business standing up and pacing around. He inherited a lethargic, undynamic government and made it much more responsive. The easiest thing to do is to love the PM and hate the adviser but every decision that's been taken is because Boris has decided to take it. You do need a complete f---- behind the scenes getting this stuff done".

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS: "The Tory Party is run by people who basically don't care about people like me," - Doninic Cummings, now a fixture at No. 10

Snoozing Rees-Mogg sparks a meme...

Until Tuesday people had only seen Jacob Rees-Mogg in two positions: sitting bolt upright or standing awkwardly.

The uniformity of the leader of the House of Commons, always dressed in his oversized double-breasted suit and rimless spectacles, was abruptly shattered as pictures emerged of him in repose (above, right), sprawled across two seats of the Westminster front bench like a languorous cat after a tin of Sheba.

Opposition MPs and then Twitter users seized upon the sight as symbolic of a man of entitlement taking his surroundings for granted. Then the fun began.

Mr Rees-Mogg's pose became a meme, blended with other images for comic effect. Among the best was the superimposition over his body of the Conservative Party's majority, starting on his head at 17 before falling to 11, 8, 1, -1 and finally -43 at the laces of his brogues.

A similar image showed him perched upon the declining slope of the value of the pound against the dollar.

Another put him at the tail end of the pop group Madness as seen on the cover of their album One Step Beyond (above) as they lean back upon one another while walking.

Elsewhere he and the front bench were transposed to the sitting room of The Simpsons or to the Ikea catalogue, where he was rebranded Mögg.

Charlotte's big day: one's first day at school...

■ With brother George in tow, nervous four-year-old Princess meets the staff at Thomas's Battersea

Excited, but with an unmistakable air nervousness, Princess Charlotte arrived for her first day at school on Thursday morning, accompanied by her parents, the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge, and her brother Prince George.

She was driven to school in south London by her father in the family's Land Rover Discovery, arriving just after 8.15am.

Her arrival at Thomas's Battersea was in contrast to George's first day at the £6,000-a-term south London school two years ago, when he arrived with his father but not his mother because she was at home suffering from acute morning sickness. She was pregnant at the time with Prince Louis, her third child.

Charlotte arrived wearing what the school the transitional calls uniform of a blue pinafore with a white summer blouse, and black shoes and white socks.

If her parents felt a surge of satisfaction as they arrived, it was because their daughter's arrival was a low-key event, recorded by a small group of journalists, in contrast to the crowds of photographers who turned out for Prince William's first day at school when he was dropped off by Diana, Princess of Wales.

suspicious glance

Charlotte, four, was driven up to a side entrance while other children accompanied by their parents went in through the front.

As the four of them walked from the car, Charlotte - normally much more confident and outgoing than her brother - clung to her mother's hand and held back.

The family was greeted by the head of the lower school, Helen Haslem, shook hands who with both George and Charlotte..

As they walked - Charlotte flicking her ponytail and casting a suspicious glance at the small group of media and Palace press officers - William told Ms Haslem: "First day - very excited."

Kate said: "How are you? Did you have a nice summer?"

William and Kate took Charlotte to her classroom - she is in a class of 21, one of three reception classes in her year - to meet her teacher and settle her in.

The new royal pupil will be known at school as Charlotte Cambridge, just as her six-year-old brother is George Cambridge. There is also another friendly face in the form of her cousin Maud, the daughter of Prince Michael of Kent's son Lord Freddie Windsor, who is in the same year as George.

Charlotte, who has been at Willcocks Nursery, Kensington, since January 2018, will start by doing half-days.

The school, which is set set in a Grade II listed building, the former Sir Walter St John's Grammar School which dates back to 1700, has a policy of "no best friends" and an emphasis on the arts and sport.

Describing itself as a Christian school, open to children of all faiths, it believes in "praise as the greatest motivator".'

Art, ballet, drama, information communications technology, French, music and physical education are all taught by specialist teachers from a child's first day in school.

The Cambridges will be entitled to a discount for having a second sibling at the school, with annual fees reduced from £19,287 to £18.915.

May In O'Malley, the headmaster at Thomas's, said: "We are delighted that the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge have decided that Princess Charlotte will join her elder brother, Prince George, at Thomas's Battersea. We greatly look forward to welcoming her and all of our new pupils to the school in September."

The school is part of a group of independent coeducational preparatory schools in Clapham, Fulham and Kensington.

All I want is to see Archie, gripes Meghan's dad

THE Duchess of Sussex's me a picture of Archie so rift with her family appeared to be widening this week after her father demanded to know why he could not meet his grandson Archie.

Thomas Markle claimed he had been cut out of the baby's life, describing it as "abuse". And he blasted Meghan, 38, and son-in-law Prince Harry, 34, for not even sending him a photo of his grandson. In a move set to further enrage Meghan and Harry, Mr Markle, 75, said the only pictures he had seen of three-month-old Archie were on the internet. Speaking out for the first time since the birth, he echoed criticism of the couple for using private jets while lecturing the world on climate change issues.

The former Hollywood lighting director, who lives in Mexico, said: "I would like them to send

I can frame it and put it on my wall beside the one of Meghan.

"Isn't that what any grandfather would want? I'd love to know if he's got the famous Markle nose."

Mr Markle claimed he sent a card to Meghan via her financial adviser in LA – where she was born and raised - but had no response. In the interview, he said he still loved his daughter and recalled the times he used to carry her around when she was a baby. But he added: "I had hoped becoming a mother would mellow Meghan and she would reach out."

He and the Duchess's mother split up and divorced when Meghan was six. Mr Markle has faced criticism for giving interviews about his row with his daughter and Harry. Days before the royal wedding in May 2018, he was paid for staged paparazzi photos. He then did not attend the ceremony at St George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, saying he had suffered a heart attack. Mr Markle said he was now tired of waiting for the Sussexes to forgive him. He complained he was sick of "the lies" and being "shut out" of their lives.

latest Mr Markle's interview follows a difficult few months for the Duke and Duchess, which has seen them labelled hypocrites over their use of private jets. There have also been high-profile resignations from the couple's personal staff and they recently lost two PR experts, weeks after poaching one of them from the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge. Natalie Campbell left Harry and Meghan's charity Sussex Royal after seven weeks. Communications boss Sara Latham also went.

18m Britons exposed in Facebook data breach

Millions of Britons have been exposed to potential online scams and identity theft after a huge Facebook database containing phone numbers and other personal information was leaked online.

Phone numbers matched to Facebook account details of 18 million Britons were included in the database of records of 420 million users around the world that were "scraped" by unidentified individuals and stored online in a publicly accessible format.

The breach is far larger in scale than that in the Cambridge Analytica scandal, when information on about one million Britons and 86 million Facebook users elsewhere was compromised.

A security researcher discovered the trove of data on an online server that was not password-protected and could be found and searched by anyone. It contained details of Facebook account IDs alongside the owners' phone numbers and details such as their name, gender and country.

It appears that the data was harvested by people who already had access to the phone numbers, possibly from a marketing database. By entering numbers into Facebook's search bar they had been able to find the owners' Facebook accounts. Data from those accounts could be extremely useful to marketers but also to fraudsters and those involved in political campaigning.

The database has now been taken offline by the web hosting companies but researchers were unable to establish who created it. Because it was freely available it may have been accessed by scammers, which could allow them to use this information to dupe or impersonate victims.

Details of the breach, which was found by Sanyam Jain, a security researcher, and first reported by TechCrunch, a technology website, comes after Facebook admitted last April that "malicious actors" could have scraped the data of most of its two billion users without explicit permission owing to a lack of safeguards. It said that it would no longer let people find individual profiles by entering a phone number or email address into the search

In a blog post at the time Mike Schroepfer, Facebook's chief technology officer, admitted: "Malicious actors have abused these features. Given the scale and sophistication of the activity we've seen, we believe most people on Facebook could have had their public profile scraped in this way."

"Malicious actors" normally refers to cyber criminals or states such as China, Russia and Iran that have a history of cyberespionage or cyberwarfare against a record £500,000 by the UK's Information Commissioner's Office last summer for multiple serious breaches of data protection law. The failings enabled a researcher to harvest the data of up to 86 million Facebook users worldwide and to share them with Cambridge Analytica, the disgraced political consultancy.

Facebook was fined

Politicians around the world are working to bring in stricter rules for companies such as Facebook after a series of privacy scandals. A US senator said last week that Facebook's chief executive and co-founder Mark Zuckerberg should face prison for the firm's privacy failings.

Loch Ness monster could be giant eel It is an enduring monster

It is an enduring monster mystery that has pumped millions of pounds into the local Highlands economy. Now a study suggests that what lurks in the depths of Loch Ness is likely to be nothing more than....a large eel.

For decades sightings, and a few dubious photographs, have suggested the existence of a dinosaur-like creature with a long neck and undulating humped back. A team from the University of Otago in New Zealand appear to have finally killed off that myth.

The team analysed DNA collected from water samples to catalogue all living life in the freshwater lake.

Neil Gemmell, who led the project, said: "Sorry, I don't think the plesiosaur idea holds up based on the data that we have obtained. There's no shark DNA based on our sampling. There is also no catfish DNA. We can't find any evidence of sturgeon either.

"Eels are very plentiful in Loch Ness, with eel DNA found at pretty much every location sampled – there are a lot of them. We can't discount the possibility that there may be giant eels in Loch Ness."

Giant eels could be the most logical solution to the Loch Ness puzzle, scientists now say

Professor Gemmell said that a video shot by a tourist in 2007 which shows a 13ft torpedo-like shape seemingly swimming on the Loch's surface supported the giant eel hypothesis.

"Divers have claimed that they've seen eels that are as thick as their legs. Whether they're exaggerating or not I don't know, but there is a possibility that there are very large eels present. Whether they are as big as around four metres as some of these sightings suggest — well, as a geneticist I think about mutations and natural variation a lot, and while an eel that big would be well outside the normal range it seems not impossible."

Thousands of theories have been touted ever since the first sighting in 1933 but none have ever been proven. Since then more than 4,000 reported sightings have been made.

Garry Campbell, keeper of the Loch Ness Monster sightings register, said: "Loch Ness is teeming with eels and about 20 years ago a fisherman came to me and said: 'Listen I've got to tell you. We've got a 16ft boat with an outboard and when we were fishing on Loch Ness an eel passed on the surface of the water and it was longer than the boat."

Boy, 15 dies as capital murder toll reaches 100

A PARAMEDIC was left in tears this week after battling in vain to save a stabbed 15-year-old boy who has become the capital's 100th murder victim. The stabbing happened on Tuesday after a fight broke out between two boys on a footpath, which residents say is plagued by drug dealers.

Sadekur Rahman, 41, saw 999 crew conduct CPR on a "young Asian" in Stratford, east London.

"They did try their best to save him," the fatherof-six said after watching from his back garden.

"I overheard that he had been stabbed in the thigh and just below the chest on his right-hand side. None of us could identify him.

"When I saw the victim there were police and paramedics and they were pumping his heart. It was over an hour, they must have been trying very hard.

"My wife saw from the upstairs window that one of the paramedics started crying when he died."

A mother-of-three who lives nearby said a pizza delivery driver, who arrived as the fight erupted at about 6.30pm, locked himself in his van. She said: "He was so scared he got back in his vehicle and locked the door

"There is a lot of drug dealing here but I don't think this was about that. It tends to be men in their 20s and 30s dealing."

London's mayor Sadiq Khan urged anyone with information to call police or Crimestoppers, adding: "There is no honour in staying silent."
A section 60 order, giving police extra stop and search powers, was put in place in the area after the attack. Scotland Yard said no arrests had been made. A man who has lived in the area for 30 years said there had been "numerous stabbings" in recent times.

"It used to be a peaceful area but now it's become a terror to live in," he added.

Knife crime in England and Wales is at a record high, with 43,000 offences last year. In London, 135 people were murdered last year, the highest number since 2008. Campaigner Danny O'Brien, of Anti-Knife UK, said: "We have got into the state where we have allowed knife crime to become the norm."

STREWTH! Aussie scribe charged £55k for a beer

An Australian cricket writer was accidentally charged £55,000 for a bottle of beer in a Manchester bar while covering the Ashes.

Peter Lalor, The Australian's chief cricket reporter, ordered a half pint of Deuchars IPA from The Malmaison, a Manchester hotel often frequented by footballers, on Sunday evening.

The veteran journalist, who regularly covers test cricket for the newspaper, was staying in the luxury facility ahead of the fourth Ashes Test match being played at the Emirates, Old Trafford.

Mr Lalor wanted a taste of "something a little British" so opted for the distinctive light malt brewed in Edinburgh, instead of the Heineken which was suggested by a hotel bar worker.

After finishing the beer, which retails from £1.80 at supermarkets, he used his visa card to pay for it- without putting on his reading glasses.

But to the journalist's shock, he learnt that $99,983.64 (£55,300) had been withdrawn from his account when he asked the bar worker how much he had been charged.

Despite the manager taking the situation seriously, he claims the bartender initially "giggled" in mute horror when they realised the mistake.

He was also charged a transaction fee of $2,499.59 (£1,380), which has since been returned, but he is still waiting for the other sum to be transferred back into his account.

Mr Lalor said it was "baffling" that the transaction had gone through "unquestioned", and while he had been promised a refund in nine working days, in the meantime there is a a "massive hole in his finances".

But he later wrote on Twitter: "Just had a call from the Malmaison, they are being very helpful now."

A spokesperson for Malmaison said: "We are currently carrying out an investigation into what took place. We have been in contact with Peter to apologise and ensure this has been resolved as quickly as possible."

'Great honour' as Elton gets stamp of approval

SIR Elton John has been given the ultimate seal of approval by Royal Mail – a set of his own stamps.

Fans of the Rocket Man singer will be able to collect all 12 stamps released to mark Sir Elton's 50 years in showbusiness. Eight of them feature album covers such as 1973's Goodbye Yellow Brick Road, while four other stamps capture the flamboyant performer in action.

Sir Elton, 72, said: "To say I was surprised when Royal Mail got in touch is an understatement.

"Never did I think I'd appear on a stamp. It's wonderful – a great honour."

Philip Parker, of Royal Mail, said: "Sir Elton is one of the most successful British solo artists of all time. "Our stamps showcase some of his most iconic albums and celebrate his fantastic musical contribution."

Sir Elton, who was knighted in 1998 for his services to music and charity, has sold more than 300 million records during a glittering career. He is the first living music solo artist to feature on a set of official stamps. In 2017, David Bowie was honoured with 10 stamps a year after he died aged 69. The Beatles were also honoured with a dedicated stamp issue in 2010 and Pink Floyd received the tribute in

Boy who lived on sausages, chips and Pringles goes blind and deaf

A TEENAGER who lived on a diet of sausages, chips and Pringles crisps for a decade has gone blind and partially deaf, it was revealed this week.

The boy, who was a healthy weight, was 17 when he was diagnosed with a condition usually seen in starving Third World children. The IT student, who had to abandon his studies as a result, is believed to be the first person in the UK with nutritional optic neuropathy - commonly seen in malnourished children in Africa. Since primary school, the boy has only eaten sausages, chips, Pringles, processed ham and white bread. The junk food diet and lack of vitamins - particularly vitamin A – has damaged his optic nerve, which connects the eye to the brain. The patient, now 19, was also diagnosed "fussy disorder, which caused him to suffer hearing loss and bone weakness. His mother said he began going off his meals at the age of seven and would often come home from school with his lunch uneaten.

She said: "I would make him nice sandwiches and put an apple or other fruit in but he wouldn't eat any of it. His teachers became concerned too.

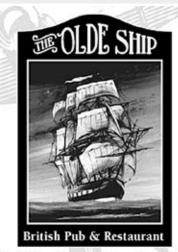

"His brother and sister have never stopped eating – they love everything – but he was just as fit and healthy as them

"You hear about junk food and obesity all the time, but he was as thin as a rake."

The family, from Bristol, first realised something was seriously wrong when the boy's hearing began to deteriorate at 14, followed by his vision. He is now registered blind.

His mother said: "He has no social life to speak of now. After leaving school he got into college to do a course in IT. But he had to give it up because he could not see or hear anything."

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: CLARENCE ALVIN BROWN AKA CLARENCE BROWN AKA BILL BROWN

CASE NO. 19STPB07587
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of CLARENCE ALVIN BROWN AKA CLARENCE BROWN AKA BILL BROWN.
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by STANLEY WILSON in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PRO-BATE requests that STANLEY WILSON be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act with limited authority. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 09/12/19 at 8:30AM in Dept. 5 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Fictitious Business Name Statement: 2019205050. The following person(s) is/are

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Your planet ruler Mars is no stranger to drama as his job is action and to follow that through to completion. But because he is currently visiting quiet, low-key Virgo do not expect instant results. You could do with a little quiet time.

TAURUS: You need to listen to wiser heads who can point you towards a better direction. Uranus visiting you recently might have stirred you up to boiling point. However, if you have the sense to act on good advice, follow the path of least resistance for a while.

GEMINI: It's very possible you have to make the changes that have been on the back burner for too long. Keep some time these next couple of weeks to cast your mind to unfinished business in any area. If you act in haste you could have some time to repent.

CANCER: Venus the love planet could move you to make some changes that have been long overdue. You might feel like you have been spinning around without any direction to focus on. This about to change by mid month.

LEO: As the new month begins you could find yourself less restricted in several ways. Your priority should be your own highest good overall. You have been holding onto old hurts and feelings for too long. It is time to trust that you are on a better, positive path now.

VIRGO: Be on the safe side; if someone is resisting in any area do not get upset, just let it go for now. It will all come together by mid-month. This would be an excellent time to clean out anything old or outdated in your life. Happy Birthday!

LIBRA: Saturn is finally going forward in your area of communications and learning. This means in your overall life you will be assisted in making any changes or plans in general. Your new year is coming up soon so clear out and get ready to begin again.

SCORPIO: If you have not already had some kind of good news then you likely will soon in your personal relationships. Do not look at this in any way but positive. Now your boss Mars is in friendly Virgo you can expect within a few days to be back in a better place.

SAGITTARIUS: Whatever way you look at your life it's a bit of a balancing act currently. The good news is now your boss Jupiter is moving in a positive movement it's going to balance out your life sooner rather than later this coming week. However, do not take any short cuts.

CAPRICORN: It is time to tell the people in your life to back off and give you some space. Whatever is lurking in the shadows of your mind will not come to the light to be healed or changed if you continue to let others overstep your wishes. Seek out positive people to assist you.

AQUARIUS: There will be the much on your agenda these next few days or so. Be open to what you hear from others' feedback, it will much to your advantage to listen and not react. Work situations may not be moving as fast as you wish, however often no news is good news.

PISCES: This next week or so ahead be ready to make a change of heart. It may bring the change you have asked for and if nothing else you will feel much more in control and ready for anything. A beautiful full moon in your own sign on the 13th brings good news.

Fire and Water...and life as a tree

As we continue to see images of the category four Hurricane Dorian battering the Carolinas after bringing devastation to The Bahamas, just days after our news-cycle being dominated by the continuing burning of the Amazon, I can't help wondering what the heck Mother Nature is up to.

She's definitely angry about something. Maybe it's because we as a society are becoming less social less engaged and more insular in living our best lives through social media (guilty) and ordering from Postmates and watching Netflix and Hulu. Going outside is having less of a draw for me and many, I mean after all its a big scary world out there.

As we head into California's fire season, it seems thoughts and prayers don't really do much good. Honestly, my heart bleeds harder for all the animals who are misplaced, abandoned, looking for shelter or just plain lost. And is it all due to climate change, made so much worse by those who deny it?

I don't know but I'm reading an awful lot about it to educate myself.

President Trump

maintains friendship with another authoritarian leader, Brazilian President Jair Bolsanaro. Bold action is needed to combat climate change but policy makers are refusing to do anything about it. Trump even skipped out of the meeting at the recent G-7 summit on the issue, whereas other world leaders committed to around $40 million to help find solutions to protect the Amazon. Congress must step in and do something about

So what do we know about the Amazon? According to various sources the trees in the forest hold something like 90 billion tons of carbon. If that ends up in the atmosphere, it would be equivalent to a decade's worth of global carbon emissions. incredible This rainforest, dubbed 'the earth's lungs' could end up a wasteland - how convenient for Bolsanaro, who has previously spoken about the need to develop that valuable land or turn it into grazing for cattle or hand it over to mining companies to extract its gold, aluminium and oil deposits.

Deforestation has expanded exponentially since Bolsanaro took office. Just for perspective, an area larger than Los Angeles disappeared in the month of July alone. Gone!

On a brighter note...

A few days before news of Brazil's fires broke, I got to try out a new VR experience simply called "tree" wherein you start out as a little seedling, breaking the earth's soil and growing into a beautiful gorgeous tree, with the wonders of nature all around you, coincidentally, in the Amazon. The sounds of running and plants are all living

ALL YOUR SENSES: parrots, monkeys and yes, waterfalls, are all part of the "Tree" experience things too. And they are a huge part of what keeps us alive.

WHAT CAN YOU DO? trees.

you can plant as tree in someone's honor or in remembrance of a loved one who has passed, or just simply because you care about our environment. Will Smith and Leonardo DiCaprio have just teamed up after Leo donated $5million to the Amazon Forest Fund to create two pairs of sneakers with proceeds going directly to charities dealing with the Amazon. Will said "we've only got one Mother Earth and she's worth protecting".

There's plenty more things we can do to conserve and protect our wildlife and nature in general. "Heal the Bay" are gearing up for their annual beach clean up. Say no to plastic straws. Plant more bushes and plants and even trees, if you have the space. Step away from your tablets and phones and go do something. Before the planet is completely destroyed.

Let's step up together. We can do more, no matter how little. Meat free Mondays is a great way to start. You can always have bacon on Tuesday....try it!

Cheers Craig

Meet A Member: Nik Goldman

Not all Brits in LAMembers live in Los Angeles: in fact a fair number are scattered around the globe. Case in point: this week's Meet a Member subject Nik Goldman, who lives in Leeds, Yorkshire.

Since you don't live in Los Angeles how did you end up joining Brits in LA?

I spend a lot of time in LA due to being in the film business. As an actor and independent producer.

I joined Brits in LA, I think when it first started. It's been one of the best groups out there. I recommend it to fellow Brits moving to LA or spending time there.

What are your impressions of LA?

I love LA. It's one of the best cities out there. This is because you have the sun, the city (downtown), beaches, parks, and you're two hours away from snow and mountains.

I like the vibe of LA and the fact that there are so many British people living there, you feel like you're at home, but with the good weather and much more opportunity. The Brits in LA gives an even better impression of LA, as it helps anyone

their status or purpose

Do you think you could ever see yourself moving to LA, if not tell us what keeps you in Leeds?

Yes, I would move to LA in a heartbeat. This is because all my film contacts are there and it's a better way of life. More opportunities in film and TV, and socially it's the best. Film is a business in America, everywhere else, people look at it as a hobby. I come to LA as much as i can

Do you have a hidden gem that you want to share with us?

I have a couple of favourite joints. One being La Descarga, a hidden away bar/club in East Hollywood.

Also I love Petit Trois, a hole in the wall French bistro on Highland. The burger is to die for!

Why would you recommend other overseas readers joining Brits in LA?

It's the best platform out there when you move to LA or spend time in LA, for British people. It is an amazing resource both for business and socially. There is nothing out there like this group. The kind people who run Brits in LA, give their time and devotion to making the group what it is today.

Without Brits in LA, it would make LA a more lonely place and lessen the opportunities for events, get togethers, meeting and likeminded people. It's like being a in a private club where everyone is welcome. I would 110% recommend people to join Brits in LA. When you arrive in LA, do three things: get a rental car, a mobile phone plan and join Brits in LA!

We hear you have been working on an exciting project. Care to tell us more about it?

I'm working on a few projects right now. The two main ones are The Au Pair, a thriller by Eric Chambers, which I will be producing and acting in. I will also be producing and acting in a drama/thriller called Breckenridge, by fellow British director Lee Basannavar. Both of these are scheduled to be made soon. More info will be available on the internet and imdb.com

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

Well from my pov as

an actor and producer, if your'e moving to LA or spending a lot of time there it's best making sure you're well prepared for the pitfalls of a big city and city in which there is massive competition. Especially in the entertainment world. I was given advise of make sure you have a second source of income, especially if you're acting. As if not, you're going to be in for a big shock. Unless you get very lucky!

In a nutshell, best piece of advice is believe in your dreams, follow them, but do not be blind to reality. It's survival of the fittest, and LA will swallow you up if you allow it to. Don't allow it to do this, be patient, work hard and keep going. Never give up!

Lastly, how can we find you on the Internet?

You can find me on IMDB under Nik Goldman and also Twitter (nikgoldman) and on Instagram (nikgoldmanactor)

Premier League to probe £56.7m Villa Park sale

Aston Villa's sale of Villa Park to the club's owners is to be scrutinised by the Premier League, to establish whether it may have breached financial fair play rules.

The stadium was sold in May for £56.7m to owners Nassef Sawiris and Wes Edens via NSWE Stadium Ltd, a company controlled by the two billionaires.

The deal helped Villa comply with the EFL's profit and sustainability rules.

Villa, promoted to the top flight in May, insist any such review is standard practice, and part of the normal assessments that all clubs face.

Earlier in the summer Villa chief executive

Christian Purslow told supporters that the club had complied with the EFL's regulations.

Meanwhile, English Football League is to conduct independent valuations regarding the sales by Derby County, Sheffield Wednesday and Reading of their own grounds to their owners in similar

In May, the practice was raised by Leeds United owner Andrea Radrizzani, who accused Derby of "cheating" after owner Mel Morris bought Pride Park for £80m and leased it back to the club, helping the Rams achieve a profit of

Earlier this summer, it was reported that some Premier League clubs wanted the apparent loophole closed.

Derby have defended the sale of their stadium, saying they conducted their own independent commercial valuation prior to the deal being completed.

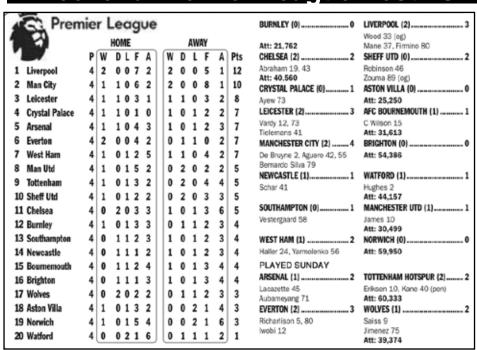

The EFL's profitability and sustainability rules prevent clubs from losing more than £13m per season, monitored across a three-year period.

In March, Birmingham City were deducted nine points by the EFL for breaching profitability and sustainability rules.

EURO 2020: McGoldrick late show keeps Irish in pole position

David McGoldrick's late header secured a crucial draw against Switzerland in Dublin on Thursday to keep the Republic of Ireland unbeaten in Euro 2020 qualifying.

The Swiss dominated and deservedly led when Fabian Schar scored to cap off a good passing move.

But - as they did in Denmark - Mick McCarthy's side fought back.

Glenn Whelan hit the bar from long range and moments later McGoldrick headed home from James McClean's deflected cross to save a point.

Group D is a threeway battle between the Republic, Denmark and Switzerland for two qualifying spots. All three games between those sides so far have ended in draws.

The Irish are three points clear of Denmark, who beat Gibraltar 6-0, with Switzerland another three points back - but both those sides have games in hand.

Mkhitaryan en route to Roma

Roma have signed Arsenal midfielder Henrikh Mkhitaryan on a season-long loan deal.

The Italian club will pay a loan fee and the 30-year-old's wages, but there is no option or obligation to buy the Armenia international.

Mkhitaryan joined the Gunners from Manchester United in January 2018 in a swap deal involving Chile forward Alexis Sanchez.

He has scored nine goals in 59 appearances for Arsenal.

Mkhitaryan featured as a second-half substitute in Sunday's 2-2 north London derby draw with Tottenham, but has been allowed to join the Italian capital side.

His playing time at Emirates Stadium was likely to be limited this season and Arsenal boss Unai Emery plans to use his departure as a chance to give more minutes to young players.

Denmark, McCarthy - who remains unbeaten in his second spell in charge - said he would take a draw.

Just like that game, the Irish fell behind with about 15 minutes to go. And, just like in Copenhagen, they found an 85th-minute equaliser.

In truth, they were fortunate against a side ranked 11th in the world, who reached this summer's Nations League finals.

S w i t z e r l a n d dominated possession and had plenty of chances to score with Denis Zakaria having a shot saved, Schar missing with several efforts from outside the box and Breel Embolo slipping as he was about to shoot from a glorious chance.

Enda Stevens, Seamus Coleman and Alan Judge all needed to pull off last-ditch blocks or headers - and the Irish had to switch formation in the first half to 3-5-2 to try to get a foothold in the game.

With Switzerland's 14th shot of the match, Schar broke the deadline as he swept home from Embolo's lay-off.

But, like Copenhagen away, the boys in green showed great character and rallied. Hearts midfielder Whelan, who has two goals in 86 caps, hit the crossbar with a powerful shot from 25 yards.

Swiss manager Vladimir Petkovic said before the game that the Republic's style was "very unpleasant". And what happened next will have been extremely unpalatable to him.

The crossbar had barely stopped moving from Whelan's piledriver when McGoldrick leapt in the air to power home McClean's cross - only the Republic's second effort on target.

A calamitous own goal by Luxembourg defender Kevin Malget gave Northern Ireland a 1-0 win in a drab friendly on Thursday.

Malget headed into his own net in the first half of a match that was livened up slightly after the break by the introduction of in-form Linfield striker Shayne Lavery.

Cardiff City defender Ciaron Brown, drafted in from the U21 squad, made his debut in an experimental NI line-up.

NI play Germany in a crucial Euro 2020 qualifier at Windsor Park on Monday.

The 1-0 victory stretches Northern Ireland's winning run to five matches after they won all of their four opening Euro 2020 qualifiers.

Aymeric Laporte made 51 appearances last season for Manchester City

Knee surgery for Laporte

Manchester City defender Aymeric Laporte has had surgery on his right knee in Barcelona after being carried off in the 4-0 win over Brighton at the weekend.

Laporte damaged his cartilage and lateral meniscus in a challenge with Brighton defender Adam Webster.

The operation was successful but City have not yet given an indication of how long the 25-year-old will be out.

Laporte made 35 league appearances last season with Bernardo Silva the only City outfield player to play more.

The injury ruled him out of a possible debut for France after he had been called up by coach Didier Deschamps for the Euro 2020 qualifiers against Albania and Andorra.

Laporte's absence leaves City with just Nicolas Otamendi and John Stones as central defenders following the departure of Vincent Kompany to become player-manager of Anderlecht in the summer.

"It's disappointing. I gave everything for the club and I wanted to stay. I had another couple of years left. But everything happens for a reason. I heard rumours about them selling me and it's not nice. At the time, we were going through the Champions League campaign – Manchester City, Ajax away.

"I spoke to my wife and my brother who I speak to all the time and decided it wasn't the right time and I would pull the manager in pre-season to see what's going on.

"I tried to speak to the chairman about it and when I spoke to the manager about his plans and I didn't get a yes and I didn't get a no. So you get the impression...

"Me and the manager didn't leave on bad terms, he has done a lot for me and I respect him highly." With all those doubts about his future in the second half of the season, Trippier's form took an alarming dip. "I thought I had an OK first half of the season if I'm honest," he said. "Then it was just like a car crash.

It just went 'bang'. Things weren't going my way, I wasn't playing well. "You try to pull yourself out of it and when things are not going right for you week after week, it's difficult. It's emotionally draining. Sometimes I was thinking, 'God, I wish the season was over'. But I kept on going."

Trippier kept his place at Tottenham until the end the season but got the call he was expecting just before the Champions League final when England manager Gareth Southgate rang to say he was surplus to his Nations

League requirements.

"I had a chat with Gareth, 40 minutes on the phone," he said.

"Iwassatinmybedroom. I was devastated. I was expecting it because of my performances. You have seen the competition."

However, following his £20million move to Atletico, Trippier is back in the England squad for the upcoming double-header against Bulgaria and Kosovo with his new club sitting top of La Liga. And in a final dig in the ribs for Tottenham, the 28-year-old says he is benefiting from working with coach Diego Simeone. "I think he can take me to the next level," he said. "For a defender I don't think there's a better place in the world to be."

Smith turns the screw

Aussie batsman in imperious form as Fourth Test slips away from England

ENGLAND saw the Ashes fourth Test drifting away from them on Thursday on the back of an imperious double century from Australia's Steve Smith.

The man dubbed 'the new Bradman' made 211 as Australia declared on 497 for eight at Old Trafford, effectively batting a home win off the agenda - although any such predictions now come with an asterisk after Ben Stokes' heroics at Headingley.

Smith missed that match with a concussion remains dominant figure in the series having scored 144, 142 and 92 in his three previous knocks - totting up a combined 23.7 hours and 906 balls at the crease.

Faced with the prospect of 10 overs before stumps England reached 23 for one - Joe Denly's return to opener yielding just four runs before he turned Pat Cummins to short-leg, where Matthew Wade held one-handed at the second attempt.

England will be ruing their own handiwork - Jofra Archer missing caught-and-bowled chance from Smith in the second over of the day while spinner Jack Leach will have nightmares about the front foot noball that reprieved the right-hander when he edged to slip on 118.

He shelved any notion that the 92mph blow to the neck which forced his absence in Leeds would negatively impact his output and he now boasts 26 Test hundreds, 11 of which have come in the Ashes and three of which have been converted into doubles.

Much of the pre-match hype had focused on the resumption of Smith's battle with Archer but while the former was left toasting another wonderful achievement, the paceman left the field wicketless for the first time in Test cricket and with his worst first-class figures of nought for 97.

Joe Root was Smith's unlike ly downfall, reverse-sweeping one of the England's captain's occasional leg-breaks to short third man after 319 balls in the middle.

England's poor day in the field also saw Tim Paine dropped twice on his way to 58, while their talisman, Stokes, did not bowl again after receiving treatment for shoulder pain midway through his 11th over.

Trippier: Spurs sold me too soon

says Tottenham sold him "too soon" after chairman Daniel Levy refused to speak to him and Mauricio Pochettino avoided giving straight answers wanted.

The Atletico Madrid defender felt he was forced to leave White Hart Lane after his poor form was made worse by the constant rumours saying that he was no longer part of Pochettino's plans. But after admitting to having a poor season after scoring in the World Cup semi-final, Trippier believes that if he had been treated differently,
