Boris: I did not lie to Her Majesty!

■ Embattled PM plays down Scottish court ruling and significance of Yellowhammer release

Boris Johnson has denied lying to the Queen over the advice he gave her over the five-week suspension of Parliament.

speaking after Scotland's highest civil court ruled on Wednesday shutdown was unlawful.

Asked whether he about his reasons for the suspension, he replied: "Absolutely not."

He added: "The High Court in England plainly agrees with us, but the Supreme Court will have to decide."

The power to suspend or prorogue - Parliament lies with the Queen, who conventionally acts on the advice of the prime minister.

The current fiveweek suspension began in the early hours of Tuesday, and MPs are not scheduled to return until 14 October.

In a unanimous ruling on Wednesday, the Court of Session in Edinburgh said Mr Johnson's decision to

The prime minister was order the suspension was motivated by the "improper purpose of stymieing Parliament".

It came after a legal challenge launched by had lied to the monarch more than 70 largely pro-Remain MPs and peers, headed by SNP MP Joanna Cherry.

But a ruling last week from the High Court in London had dismissed a similar challenge brought by businesswoman and campaigner Gina Miller.

In their rejection of her claim, the judges argued the suspension of Parliament was a "purely political" move and was therefore "not a matter for the courts".

Mr Johnson has suggested it was "nonsense" to suggest the move was an attempt to undermine democracy, insisting it is normal practice for a

SHAKEY RELATIONSHIP? Johnson is accused of misleading the Queen over his motives for proroguing Parliament

Prorogation normally takes place every year, but the length and timing of the current suspension - in the run-up to Brexit - has attracted controversy.

Opposition parties have accused the prime minister of ordering it to prevent criticism of its Brexit strategy and contingency plans for a no-deal exit.

They backed a move to order the release communications between No 10 aides about the decision to order the suspension.

But the government blocked their release, saying the request to see e-mails, texts and WhatsApp messages from Dominic Cummings, Boris Johnson's chief aide, and eight other advisers in Downing Street was "unreasonable disproportionate".

BoJo dismisses Farage's 'non-aggression' offer

■ Brexit Party leader "not a fit and proper person" sniffs Tory spokesman

BORIS Johnson this week flatly rejected Nigel Farage's offer of an alliance at the next election to unite Leave voters.

The Brexit Party leader had suggested a "non-aggression" pact between his anti-EU force and the Tories to turf Remainer MPs out of Parliament and get a Commons majority of up to 100 for the Prime Minister.

He indicated his party could stand aside in Tory-held seats and key Conservative target constituencies in return for a free run in Labour's heartlands in the North, the Midlands and South Wales.

But in response to the overture, a spokesman for Mr Johnson said: "The Prime Minister will not be doing a deal with Nigel Farage."

A senior Tory source claimed the Brexit Party leader was "not a fit and proper person" and should not be "anywhere near government".

Mr Farage made his offer of a pact in a frontpage advertisement in Tuesday's Daily Express. Speaking in Westminster later, he claimed the alliance to rout the Remainers could hand the PM a big Commons majority. He went on: "We think the time has come for the Leavers to get together and to work together.

"Together, with a nonaggression pact done intelligently across the seats we would probably have ended up with Boris having a majority of 60-100 seats."

He added: "It's up to them, they will have to decide. Clearly, if Boris Johnson wanted to have a nonaggression pact with us that would be a significant realignment of the centre-Right of British politics

"He would be saying the broad church of the Conservative Party is over, it is finished, there's no room for the One Nationers.

"It's a massive decision for him but if he wants to win the election with a workable majority I don't think he's got any other option."

An opinion poll showed overwhelming backing among supporters of both parties for a pact. The YouGov survey found 60 per cent of Tory voters and 70 per cent of Brexit Party backers were keen on the idea.

Mr Farage said the Brexit Party, currently supported by about 14-15 per cent of voters, had the potential to seriously harm the Tories at the next election if a pact was not agreed.

He claimed: "They know they've got a very major problem with us."

'let's grow up'

Mr Farage said his party wanted a clear run to take on "keen Remainer Labour MPs" in Leave voting areas but the number of such constituencies was a matter for negotiation. Responding to reports his party wanted the Tories to stand down in 80 to 90 seats, he said: "That's all to be sat down and talked about. "Given that we think the Conservatives will take a kicking from November 1 and that a general election is unavoidable there is an obvious deal to be done."

Mr Farage said he believed he could help get Tory candidates "over the line" in key marginals.

But he warned: "There

FARAGE ON JOHNSON: "It's a massive decision for him but if he wants to win the election with a workable majority I don't think he's got any other option."

is one little proviso—we do not want the Withdrawal Agreement, the European treaty, to be revisited. It would appear his tactic is to get the backstop changed.

"We would argue very strongly that it is not satisfactory, it's not Brexit. It isn't worth having." Mr Farage said there was "massive disconnect" in many traditional Labour areas between voters and current MPs.

But he said: "If Boris Johnson thinks he can win in those seats, I don't know what he's smoking."

Reacting to Johnson's dismissal of his proposal,

Mr Farage said he was surprised and disappointed by by the rejection of his "hand of friendship" offer of a pact.

He said: "They seem to be somewhat in the bunker and perhaps not thinking straight. Let's grow up, let's put petty tribal politics aside."

■ Transport, Food and Healthcare all likely to be severely impacted

The government has released an assessment of the possible effects of a no-deal Brexit on the UK, after MPs demanded that it be made public.

The document, marked "Official Sensitive" and dated 2 August 2019, outlines a series of "reasonable worst-case planning assumptions". It was drawn up as part of "Operation . Yellowhammer" name for the government's contingency plan to prepare for leaving the European Union (EU) without a deal.

There follows a summary of the reports findings:

TRANSPORT

Between 50-85% of UK lorries travelling to the EU may not be ready for French customs. Lack of readiness and limited space in French ports could cut HGV traffic by 40-60% and lead to disruption lasting three months. This would lead to significant queues in Kent. In a worst-case scenario, it could take lorries up to two-and-a-half days before being able to cross into France.

What's being done:

To ensure more lorries are ready for customs, the government announced last month that 88,000 companies would be automatically enrolled in a new customs system. The Port of Dover in Kent approximately handles 10,500 lorries a day. To prevent nearby roads from clogging up, the government has a traffic management plan Operation codenamed Brock. If the plan is activated, up to 2,000 lorries will be held in a queue leading to the port. Other traffic will be kept flowing around the queued-up lorries, in what is known as a contraflow system. A fallback option would be to divert lorries to the disused Manston airfield, near Ramsgate - and use it to hold up to 6,000 lorries on the runway at any one time.

FOOD:

Certain types of fresh food supply will decrease and key ingredients may be in shorter supply. Although an overall shortage of food in the UK is not expected to result, there will likely be reduced availability and choice and price increases "which could impact vulnerable groups"

HEALTHCARE:

Supply chains for medicines and medical products are "particularly vulnerable" to disruption at the Channel ports. While some products can be stockpiled, others cannot because they have a short shelf life. It will not be practical to stockpile products to cover expected delays of up to six months.

Prince Harry: Working the phones like a pro!

■ The royal took calls on a trading floor in a benefit honoring victims of 9/11 - and helped close a deal worth over a billion dollars

HAS Prince Harry finally found his calling? The Royal looked a natural as he sealed a £1billion deal on a financial trading floor on Wednesday in a charity day honoring victims of the September 11 attacks.

Armed with three phones as traders barked orders at him, the Duke of Sussex kept his cool and closed the deal, which raised around £50,000 for charities including his Invictus Games Foundation.

joined Harry, stars including model Abbey Clancy and exfootballer hubbie Peter Crouch, singers Beverley Knight and Katherine Jenkins and sports presenters Gabby Logan and Kirsty Gallacher. The annual event staged by BGC Partners brokerage at its offices in London's Docklands to commemorate 658 Cantor Fitzgerald staff and 61 EuroBrokers employees who died in the attack on the World Trade Center in New York on September 11, 2001. At the Gilts desk, which trades in Government debt, Harry completed the huge trade under the watchful eye of Ryder Brown, co-head of the department. Mr Brown was impressed with the way the sixth in line to the throne closed the £1billion trade in 10year gilts.

JK Rowling makes £15.3m charity donation

HARRY POTTER author JK Rowling has donated £15.3 million to support research into the treatment of multiple sclerosis and similar conditions at a centre named after her late mother.

It will also be used to help create new facilities at Edinburgh University's Anne Rowling Regenerative Neurology Clinic, set up after a gift from the writer in 2010 in memory of her mother, who died with the condition aged

Ms Rowling (pictured, above) said: "When the clinic was first founded, none of us could have predicted the incredible #### progress that would be made in the field of regenerative neurology, with the clinic leading the charge.

"I am confident the research and practical support delivered by Professor Siddharthan Chandran and his team will create a stepchange for people with MS."

Her gift will also fund research on the invisible disabilities of MS, such as cognitive impairment and pain.

Prof Chandran said: "The clinic's vision is to offer everyone with MS or other neurodegenerative diseases, such as motor neuron, the chance to join clinical studies and trials."

'old-style trading'

He said: "He was excellent. It was very nerve-wracking but he handled the pressure well and closed the trade.

"That was the hard bit, to close the trade. He picked the telephone up and managed to do it – it's like old-style trading."

The City traders earn commission for the deals they arrange between clients and on Wednesday a percentage went to good causes including the foundation of the international Invictus Games for injured military personnel.

When Harry arrived on the trading floor he stopped at the Euro Swap desk where traders shouted potential deals at each other. When handed a phone he had to put his finger in his ear to block the noise.

He followed the orders of staff as he closed a £75million deal and at one point said to the client on the phone: "Come on, just one more."

When that deal was done another trade, this time worth £100million, was offered and he asked: "Can you improve your offer?" A round of applause went up when the transaction was completed.

COOL UNDER PRESSURE: Harry impressed regular traders with his composure

CELEBRITY TRADERS: Peter Crouch and wife Abbey Clancy manned the phones

Earlier, Harry had met Invictus Games competitors and he was joined on the trading floor by former Royal Marine Paul Vice, a veteran of the Paralympic-style competition. Mr Vice, who at one point held a phone under Harry's chin while the royal had one in each ear, said: "That was stressful, but it was good fun."

Stars from the sports world manning the phones included cricket star Monty Panesar, former England footballer Sir Trevor Brooking, former Three Lions manager Sam Allardyce and TV commentator John Motson.

On his way out, Bercow vows 'creativity' to block no-deal Brexit

John Bercow has vowed "creativity" in Parliament if Boris Johnson ignores the law designed to stop a nodeal Brexit.

The Commons Speaker also said in a speech that the only possible Brexit was one backed by MPs. A new law, passed before the suspension of Parliament, forces the PM to seek a delay until 31 January 2020, unless a deal or no-deal exit is approved by MPs by 19 October.

The PM has said he would rather be "dead in a ditch" than ask for a delay.

Delivering a lecture in London, Mr Bercow said: "Not obeying the law must surely be a nonstarter. Period."

He said it would be a "terrible example to set to the rest of society".

"The only form of Brexit which we will have, whenever that might be, will be a Brexit that the House of Commons has explicitly endorsed," he said.

"Surely, in 2019, in modern Britain, in a parliamentary democracy, we parliament arians, legislators - cannot in all conscience be conducting a debate as to whether adherence to the law is or isn't required."

He called it "astonishing" that "anyone has even entertained the notion".

If the government comes close to disobeying the Act, the MP said that Parliament "would want to cut off such a possibility and do so forcefully".

"If that demands additional procedural creativity in order to come to pass, it is a racing certainty that this will happen, and that neither the limitations of the existing rule book nor the ticking of the clock will stop it doing so," he added.

He also compared any attempt to shun the law over the extension of Article 50 - the process by which the UK leaves the EU - with a bank robber excusing their crime by giving their stolen cash to charity.

"One should no more refuse to request an extension of Article 50 because of what one might regard as the noble end of departing from the EU as soon as possible, than one could possibly excuse robbing a bank on the basis that the cash stolen would be donated to a charitable cause immediately afterwards," he said.

The law forcing the PM to seek a delay unless MPs vote for a deal or no deal received royal assent on Monday, the final day that MPs sat in this session.

Parliament was prorogued for five weeks in the early hours of Tuesday.

The UK is due to leave the EU on 31 October, but

John Bercow: "Not obeying the law must surely be a non-starter. Period."

the new law passed by MPs could extend that deadline.

'partisan pipsqueak'

As for Bercow, the Speaker has become something of a celebrity in recent months as political observers have watched him presiding over a tumultuous House of Commons. Bercow has announced his intention to stand down before the beginning of the next session, news that was greeted with very different emotions across the political spectrum.

The right-leaning Daily

Mail welcomed the news, with the paper's Richard Littlejohn dismissing the Speaker as "the partisan pipsqueak who disgraced his office". In the Sun's view, he's a "pompous windbag who embodies an illegitimate, antidemocratic establishment long overdue its reckoning".

But influential Westminster blogger Ian Dunt of politics.co.uk saw it differently, gushing: "Very few things have gone right in the Brexit period. But there was some kind of alignment of the political stars to deliver us an activist Speaker in the chair when the government worked actively to dismiss, degrade and eventually suspend parliament.

"He wasn't perfect. There are allegations of bullying against him towards staff. And he did, as his detractors claim, clearly bask in the limelight. But history is weird. It's not composed of saints coming down from on high when needed. Sometimes it just puts the right person in the right place at the right time. And that's what we got."

Boycott and Strauss among those honored in May's resignation list

GEOFFREY Boycott and Andrew Strauss are to be knighted after being recommended for honours by Theresa May, Downing Street announced on Monday.

The former prime minister named the two former England cricketers in her honours resignation list. She also proposed to reward a string of officials and political aides from her time in office. Olly Robbins, who led her team of Civil Service Brexit negotiators, will also receive a knighthood. His honour will irritate Tory Brexiteers who partly blamed him for her proposed EU Withdrawal Agreement that was rejected three times by MPs.

Mrs Ma

recommended her former joint chiefs of staff Nick Timothy and Fiona Hill, who were forced to quit Downing Street following the disastrous 2017 general election campaign, for CBEs. Boycott and Strauss are to receive knighthoods for services to sport.

other honorees

In other appointments the resignation honours list, Sir Kim Darroch, who earlier this summer was forced to resign as ambassador to the US after falling out with the Trump administration, is to be made a life peer. He will sit as a nonparty crossbencher. Gavin Barwell - who succeeded Mr Timothy and Ms Hill as her chief of staff - will become a life peer. Former Tory minister David Lidington, who was effectively deputy prime minister, and ex-No 10 communications chief Robbie Gibb are to be knighted. Former chief whip Julian Smith – who has since been made Northern Ireland Secretary by Boris Johnson – is to be made a CBE.

Another close ally, the former trade minister George Hollingbery - who served as Mrs May's parliamentary private secretary in both Downing Street and the Home Office - will receive a knighthood. Mrs May's former political secretary Stephen Parkinson and special advisers Joanna Penn and Elizabeth Sanderson are to become

Also recommended for CBEs in the list were former Conservative Party chairman Brandon Downing Lewis Street political aides Paul Harrison and Kirsty Buchanan, and Mrs May's official spokesman James Slack, a former Daily Express journalist, who continues in the same role with Mr Johnson.

Jeremy Corbyn also nominated three new Labour life peers this week: ex-National Union of Teachers general secretary Christine Blower, Newport City Council leader Debbie Wilcox and the employment rights lawyer John Hendy QC. Labour MP John Mann, who is to become a government anti-Semitism adviser, was nominated for a nonaffiliated life peerage, while the Green Party nominated former leader Natalie Bennett for a peerage.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Make it a priority to deal with any unresolved situation that has been around for longer than feels comfortable. If you can let go of what the outcome should be and what you expect it to be, it will be resolved once and for all.

TAURUS: Your lovely boss Venus is blessing you currently, which can bring a situation that is unresolved to the surface. If you are having some unexpected happenings be sure not to panic as Uranus is bringing some drama and you can sort it all out - even if it's not on your list of stuff to do.

GEMINI: You are on time to complete what you planned to in the next few days. If you have bills to pay make it your priority and budget accordingly. Your motivations to go in a certain direction can unravel, especially if you are acting impulsively. Step back, relax and give it some more deep thought.

CANCER: Be strong and all the hard work you put in recently will bear fruit this coming week. Saturn the Karma king is moving forward in the next few days and will enhance several areas in your life that may need a little boost. Something you wished for can show up with the Pisces full moon this weekend.

LEO: Financial issues could hold you back from enjoying your life. Do not assume that you can easily resolve the situation. Tackle what you can and stop stressing. On the upside an unexpected small financial gift will help.

VIRGO: As this coming week unfolds you will benefit from Mars, the powerful energy planet visiting to help you gain some energy. However it's not a time to get into any discussions about unfinished some situations. Happy Birthday.

LIBRA: Are you ready to make a decision which has required some deep thought or are you still weighing up the pros and cons? Either way you will see the wood for the trees by midweek. This is a clear sign to surrender and let it go.

SCORPIO: You are probably having a confusing time deciding how to move forward and to make sense of your current impasse. The good news is the full moon in your cousin sign Pisces this weekend will bring several answers to long standing unresolved situations in the next couple of weeks.

SAGITTARIUS: We kind souls all deserve the finer things in life, although it is not always possible to indulge ourselves. This week ahead at least treat yourself as though it is. You are likely involved in a family situation that can be overwhelming. Rest as much as you can.

CAPRICORN: You may be feeling downcast recently and some of you may be dealing with family problems, while this is a reflective time, your mood should be upbeat. Stay away from those you know can upset.

AQUARIUS: If you refuse to acknowledge something it does not mean it will disappear. It will probably not be as bad as you think. Instead get going on sorting out the problem. Doing a good turn for another will help you and them. Relax with good friends these next few days.

PISCES: We are all capable of turning our backs on the truth of things in life. Do not move on and ignore the current situation. It's not a good idea for your peace of mind. You have the power this week to transform something into a positive outcome as the full moon in your own sign is on your side.

Downton Abbey - The Movie - and the fever!

eagerly-awaited Downton Abbey movie opens across the USA on September 20th, and Los Angeles seems to have decided that a standard rolling out of the obligatory red carpet is not quite enough to mark this special occasion.

There are celebratory events happening all over town. Ye Olde Kings Head in Santa Monica has two tea parties scheduled, (September 20th and 21st). It costs and includes scones with Devonshire cream, sandwiches, savory bites plus Lord Grantham breakfast tea and a champagne cocktail dedicated to Lady Edith. Visit www,yeoldkingshead. com to book.

One event not to be missed is the Grand High Tea Experience on the Lawn at The Grove hosted by Amazon's Treasure Truck and Focus Features . On Sunday September 15th the Lawn will be transformed into a Downton-themed garden party, reminiscent of a scene from the English countryside in the early 20th century. Welcomed by staff and actors (including some of our very own Brits in LA members!), dressed in their 1920's best, guests will be able to indulge in tea-time including favorites scones, biscuits, elegant tea sandwiches, while playing lawn games such as croquet and quoits, and enjoying live music throughout the day. This event is FREE and runs from 12-6pm. Oddly enough there is no mention of it on the Grove website but you can find more details at eventbrite.com or at www.britsin.la. Tickets aren't required to gain entry so feel free to just head on over.

Downtown giveaways

We will also be giving away lots of Downton merchandise at both our weekly Breakfast Club at Cecconis's and at Brits in LA Pub Pub Quiz at the Cat & Fiddle on Tuesday September 17th. We have posters, umbrellas, bags, mints and tons of other goodies including a Downton cookbook up for grabs. Fancy dress is encouraged but not required.

I know that not everyone is able to get to an event but don't worry we haven't forgotten you completely.... you can still enter to win tickets to see the film. We have three pairs of screening passes to give away! So if you would like a chance to win them email us info@britsin.la winners will be picked at random on September 18th and notified via email. They are valid for The Landmark (10850 W Pico Blvd) starting Mon 9/23/19 through the run of engagement. Between you and me I've never seen an episode of the iconic British TV show, but considering the amount of excitement this is generating it seems that I am really missing out. I might have to have a marathon catch-up session the next time I have a free weekend! I am not sure whether it is a coincidence but Trader Joe's grocery store have started stocking 'British Style' crumpets again. They disappeared off their shelves quite a while back but were obviously sorely missed - if the reaction we got when we shared the news with our Facebook members earlier this week is anything to go by. If you are confident in the kitchen you might prefer to try making your own. I found a fairly simple recipe on Downtown AbbeyCooks.com, which , which is run by Pamela Foster, a Canadian fan who became obsessed with the food featured in the show.

If you have a better crumpet recipe please send it over as I would love to try making my own. You can drop us a line at info@britsin.la. Look forward to hearing from you...

Cheers! Eileen

Meet a Member: Michael Manasseri

Anglophile Meet Michael American Manasseri, who came to Los Angeles to make it in the movie business and is currently enjoying success as a producer with acclaimed new movie Give Me Liberty.

What was your first impression of Los Angeles and has it changed since?

During my freshman year at NYU I came to LA during winter break to visit an actor friend. It was snowing and frigid cold when I left NYC and the next Was there a particular morning I went for a run along Ventura Blvd. in a tank top and shorts. I thought, "Damn, I could get used to this." Three weeks later I dropped out of school to be an actor and eventually made my way west with all the other dreamers.

Sure, there are more people now, crazier traffic and non-stop development.

But that feeling of eternal summer certainly hasn't changed.

What do you find is the biggest difference between L.A. and other places you've lived?

yourself in LA?

There's a dichotomy to LA that's unlike anywhere else. It's a paradise built on broken dreams. You can feel it in the air, the tragic beauty of it all. See the film LaLa Land by Damian Chazelle...

Do you have a hidden gem in Los Angeles that you want to share with our readers? Maybe not hidden so much but for me I love Bloom Café on Pico. Great, healthy food but more importantly, every time I go to lunch at Bloom I look around at the clientele and there's just every walk of life in there, a melting pot of humanity that I just love being a part of.

What do you miss most from your home city of Detroit?

The people and the seasons. But I'll take LA in January over a Detroit winter any day!

What would suggest to people who might be thinking of moving to Los Angeles? Take advantage of this incredible city. We all can get mired into our routines, the day to day. But this place has so much to offer, so much to do, so much to see. Get out there and explore it. I sound like I work for the tourism office!

What is the best piece of advice you've been given?

When we were kids my dad used to tell us the make the most of the gifts God had given us. He's more spiritual now than religious and he forwards us weekly Eckhart Tolle emails about living in the now. Then there's my mother who used to tell me to "stop being so dramatic" when I got upset. Simply put, make the most with what you've got, stay present and don't stress out.

What have you been working on lately?

CANNES-DO: Michael Manasseri has been globetrotting to promote his film, Give Me Liberty been traveling I've the world this past "Give year with, Liberty," Me producing that film has been a life changing experience in so many ways – seeing the great reactions at the Sundance Film Festival and Cannes and with it now on release in US theatres and doing very

Any plans to travel to Britain soon?

Give Me Liberty is playing at the BFI London Film Festival in October so I'm hoping to jump across the pond shortly to help promote the film in Britain. I've heard that Christmas in London is pretty unforgettable... so we shall see if I go back again then. Maybe one of my Brits in LA friends could hook me up!?!

How can readers find out more about you and the work you do?

As the kids like to say, you can find me on the Gram @michael manasseri or check out Flux-Cap.com (Flux Capacitor Studios site). And go see Give Me Liberty.

Accrued interest and additional advances, if any, will increase this figure prior to sale. It is possible that at the time of sale the opening bid may be less than the total indebtedness due. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call, (800) 758-8052 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site, www. 09/07/2019, 09/14/2019

SWEET VICTORY: Australia celebrate retaining the Ashes on Sunday

We must rebuild for next Ashes campaign, says Root

Captain Joe Root says England must build towards winning the Ashes in Australia in 2021-22 after failing to regain the urn this summer.

England are 2-1 down and cannot take the Ashes back from the holders even if they win the fifth Test at The Oval, which began on Thursday.

"We have to use the next two and a half years to focus on putting in a winning tour down under," said Root.

"That's real incentive for everyone, to be part of something special there."

England were beaten in the fourth Test at Old Trafford, meaning Australia have unassailable lead and will leave the UK with the urn for the first time since 2001.

Τt also ended England's hopes of adding the Ashes to the World Cup they won earlier this summer.

It can be argued that England's Test cricket has suffered in recent years because of the

But Root, whose position as skipper come under scrutiny since the loss at Old Trafford, says he is clear on how he wants to take his team forward.

"It's about trying to make sure we use this match as a stepping stone, win this game, have a really strong and move

Root. 28, also addressed questions whether being captain affects batting. He averages 40.87 as skipper, as opposed to 52.80 when not leading.

"I've not performed how I would have liked," he said. "I'll continue to keep working hard and trying to improve my game."

He also believes that the World Cup-winning summer should be viewed as a success, even if the Ashes have not been regained.

"To win the World Cup for the first time is a huge achievement," said Root.

had some challenges across the summer. There have been quite a few injuries and the weather has intervened in certain parts of games. The series could have looked different."

England have been forced to rejig the balance of their side because of a shoulder injury to all-rounder Ben Stokes.

With Stokes unable to bowl his usual amount of overs, fellow allrounder Sam Curran comes in for struggling batsman Jason Roy, while Chris Woakes replaces Craig Overton in the pace attack.

Australia captain Tim Paine said the ambition is to win the series and, for that reason, the last Test is a like a "grand final" for the tourists.

"We're very hungry," he said. "We have spoken a lot about it. We came here to win the Ashes, not just retain them.

"Last week's result at Old Trafford was brilliant and we played very well, but all the guys are aware that this Test is bigger than that one. We want this Test as much as any other Test we've played in this series."

At close of play in the fifth test on Thursday, England were 271-8 in their first innings, with Buttler unbeaten on 64 and Marsh enjoying figures of 4-35.

THE BRITISH WEEKLY, SAT. SEPTEMBER 14, 2019

James stars again as Welsh edge Belarus

Daniel James' high-class finish gave Wales victory in their friendly against Belarus as Ryan Giggs' team claimed a fourth successive home win.

The winger has made a spectacular start to life at Manchester United after joining from Swansea City in the summer.

And James, 21, reproduced his club form on the international stage to hand Wales a deserved triumph.

In what is swiftly becoming a trademark move, the £15m United signing cut inside on to his right foot before curling the ball inside the far post.

Giggs had urged his players to build some momentum after the hard-earned Euro 2020 qualifying triumph over Azerbaijan on Friday.

They responded with a bright performance which should really have produced a more comfortable win-although just 7,666 fans were there to see it.

In the Cardiff City Stadium's 10-year history, only one game - the 2-1 defeat by Australia in 2011 - has attracted a smaller crowd.

Gareth Bale insisted going into this game that Wales are moving forward under Giggs, who has now won seven of his 15 games in charge.

After criticism of Wales' performance in the win over Azerbaijan, the Real Madrid forward said Giggs is trying to produce a national side who play quick, attacking football.

They struggled on that score last Friday, when Azerbaijan sat deep and Wales made hard work of breaking them down.

Even with the talismanic Bale watching from the bench until the 50th minute, it was a different story against Belarus.

Wales needed only 17 minutes to expose their opponents on the counterattack.

There was a warning for Belarus early on when Joe Allen led a sharp Welsh break and Harry Wilson drove goalwards.

Goalkeeper Maksim Plotnikov made a decent

RISING STAR: Daniel James scored the only goal at the Cardiff City stadium

save, but he was helpless when Joe Morrell fed Jonny Williams and he sent James scampering down the left.

James' shot left the Belarus keeper grasping thin air and his goal was comfortably the most memorable moment of the first half. He made way for Bale as Wales' control of the contest continued, with Wilson going close when a short-corner routine ended with his cross-shot coming back off the far post.

Kieffer Moore then headed wide before Bale missed when he looked certain to score having been picked out by Wilson.

BW SPORT

As Bale pointed out, of course, the key objective is to claim a place at Euro 2020 - and what happened here will have little impact on that front.

But this was a positive performance and a step in the right direction, albeit a small one.

Drinky out after nightclub brawl

Burnley midfielder Danny Drinkwater will be out for two weeks after sustaining ankle ligament damage in a nightclub fight.

The 29-year-old, who is on loan from Chelsea, was reportedly attacked hours after the Clarets' 3-0 defeat by Liverpool on Saturday, 31 August.

Drinkwater is currently unable to train on grass following the incident, according to Burnley boss Sean Dyche.

"They are human beings and people do get in scrapes," Dyche said.

"He's old enough and wise enough to know you do whatever you can to try not to get into scrapes but sometimes it happens

"He is part of us. We have to work with him and help him get realigned to where he was and where he wants to be. We have talked to him and the rest will remain private."

The former Leicester midfielder has been restricted to one appearance this season and was pictured with facial injuries following the incident.

"We've had a chat with him and said: What happened first of all? What was the situation that led to it?

OK, let's move away from that, now where to do we go from here? That's where we're at," Dyche added.

Germany edge battling Northern Ireland

Marcel Halstenberg and Serge Gnabry got on the scoresheet as Germany overcame a battling Northern Ireland team in midweek to deal a heavy blow to their qualifying hopes.

But midfielder Paddy McNair says the team "aren't going to be disheartened".

"We would have taken this position at the start of the campaign," said McNair.

He told his teammates to keep believing they can qualify for Euro 2020, even with two fixtures against the in-form Netherlands and a trip away to Germany to come.

"We'll give them all a tough game," added McNair on Northern Ireland's final three fixtures.

"There are plenty of positives and we move on to next month."

Kevin de Bruyne inspired Belgium to a brutal defeat of hapless Scotland this week to brutal defeat of hapless Scotland this week to all but end hopes of reaching Euro 2020 via their qualification group. The Manchester City man set up Romelu Lukaku, Thomas Vermaelen and Toby Alderweireld and netted the fourth.

Steve Clarke's side must now look to next year's play-offs as their best hope of ending a 22-year wait for an appearance at a major finals.

Victory made it six wins from six for Roberto Martinez's Group I leaders.

In truth, it could have been far worse for Scotland against the world's number one ranked side at Hampden, who played well within themselves.

Scotland, in fifth, now trail Russia by nine points and Belgium by 12 with four games to go.

After the chastening 2-1 loss at home to Russia on Friday came this evisceration by Belgium

- an Eden Hazard-less Belgium at that. Scotland, with Kenny

McLean, Ryan Christie, Robert Snodgrass and Matt Phillips coming in for John McGinn, Ryan Fraser, James Forrest and Oli McBurnie, had a few early minutes of optimism and then a harrowing night thereafter, the horror show beginning when they conceded the first goal after just nine minutes. The Scots got done on the counter attack, with Belgium breaking from the edge of their own area after regaining possession from a Snodgrass free-kick. Dries Mertens peeled away and found De Bruyne who was running free up the left. He had the time and space to pick out Lukaku who had strolled in on goal and the Internazionale striker did the rest.

A second Belgium goal was not long in coming. Once again it was De Bruyne who created it, this time with a cross from the right which was poked home by Vermaelen. Scotland, a disorganised mess at the back, failed to pick him

Phillips tested Thibaut Courtois but a shellshocked Hampden sunk ever deeper into despair when Belgium struck again just after the halfhour mark. It was another avoidable goal, a free header from a De Bruyne Alderweireld corner. got away from Charlie Mulgrew and thumped his effort in off the underside of Marshall's crossbar.

Three goals and three De Bruyne assists. Belgium had scored 10 goals in two-and-a-half games against the Scots in a year. The thing about this latest hiding was they pulled it off without ever having to move out of second or third gear. They did not have to get anywhere near their best.

Eight-goal thriller: 'Mistakes were obvious' says Southgate

■ England impress up front but are leaky at the back against a spirited Kosovo side

England manager Gareth Southgate they showed "devastating attacking play throughout" their 5-3 Euro 2020 qualifying win over Kosovo on Tuesday but added "the mistakes were obvious".

After conceding Valon Berisha's firstminute goal, the hosts scored through Raheem Sterling, Harry Kane and an own goal before a Jadon Sancho double.

But Berisha and Vedat Muriqi scored again before Kane missed a penalty.

game "A bizarre really," Southgate told ITV after the win at Southampton.

"There were obvious poor errors for goals but I'm really pleased with the composure we showed. We used the ball well.

"The errors, have to be better - the players don't need me to tell them that. The outstanding parts of our play were obvious, the errors were obvious."

England are top of Group A with four wins from four games, three points above the Czech Republic, and have scored 19 goals.

Kosovo arrived in Southampton on 15-match unbeaten run and with confidence lifted by victory over the Czechs on Saturday - and when Michael Keane's error gifted Valon Berisha a goal inside the first minute they briefly contemplated a huge upset.

It did not last long

"A bizarre game really," said Southgate

as rampant England, inspired by Raheem magnificent Sterling, responded ruthlessly with five goals inside the first 45 minutes.

Keane swiftly made amends to set up Sterling to head home after a corner then Manchester unstoppable City's attacker set up captain Harry Kane for his 26th goal in 41 England appearances.

England extended their lead when Mergim Vojvoda turned Jadon Sancho's cross into his own net before Borussia Dortmund's 19-year-old got his first two goals for England, both expertly provided by Sterling.

As an occasionally chaotic encounter swung from end to end, Berisha's fine finish reignited Kosovo's the hopes early in second half before more awful defending from Manchester United's Harry Maguire ended with him conceding a penalty, which Vedat Muriqi scored after he was brought down.

Asked if the individual errors were a lack of concentration rather than anything more fundamental, Southgate said: "I think that is something that we have to consider over a period of time because there were obviously mistakes that were concerning, really.

"Whether it was the intensity of the game, whether it was the pressure, I don't know. We have got to reflect on that but they were such basic errors, really, that you have to learn from.

"What I would say is generally as a team, they recovered from those errors, although there is nothing worse than a losing lead for making a team feel uncomfortable.

"I think that generally speaking, they took control back of the game, and even the likes of Mason [Mount] coming on at the end, that is not an easy position for a young player to go in but we know he's got the maturity to play the role really intelligently and [he] took the ball under pressure, pressed intelligently.

"So, actually it was in many ways a better experience than strolling through the game at five, six or whatever, even though we probably all could have done without
