Andrew warned: "Don't make us subpoena you"

■ Pressure on Prince grows as accuser repeats claims on BBC's Panorama

■ Lawyer claims witness 'saw Andrew at nightclub' with Virginia Giuffre

PRINCE Andrew has come under yet more pressure over his alleged relationship with a teenage girl as a US lawyer claimed a witness had come forward to say she saw him with his accuser at London nightclub Tramp.

Her version would contradict the Duke of York's claim he was at home with his daughters on the night he is alleged to have had sex with the then 17-year-old.

On Monday night Virginia Giuffre, 35, appeared on Panorama to insist she had been trafficked for sex with the Prince.

And on Tuesday morning a lawyer representing some of the victims of Andrew's paedophile friend Jeffrey Epstein revealed on the This Morning ITV show that she was representing the woman who "vividly" remembers seeing the Prince in Tramp in March 2001.

Attorney Lisa Bloom added that she was taking the witness to the FBI.

Ms Bloom flew into London hoping to speak with the Duke about his friendship with Epstein, warning the royal: "Don't make us subpoena you."

On This Morning, she told viewers: "I'm letting you know now for the first time really, publicly, that I am representing a witness who says she was there that night in 2001."

"She saw Prince Andrew with Virginia, she remembers it vividly because she was told this is a member of The Royal Family. It was a very big thing for her."

"She was shocked, and she saw Virginia there with him, and so I'm going to take her to the FBI, they can investigate her claims, and I call on other witnesses to come forward."

Then in a direct message to the Duke, she added: "You've said that you're going to co-operate, let's do it."

"Don't make us subpoena you. Don't make law enforcement chase you around. Come to the US, sit down with the FBI and with victims' attorneys like myself and answer questions. And yes, not just answers.

"Give us the documents, calendars, journals, all of the information that is customarily turned over in investigations like this and have your staff who travel with you, security who have eyes and ears, have them answer questions as well."

During his interview with BBC Newsnight three weeks ago, Prince Andrew, 59, denied Ms Giuffre's claims they had sex saying he had no memory of ever having met her.

The Duke said that on the night she claims it happened at Ghislaine Maxwell's London home, he had been to Pizza Express in Woking with his daughter Beatrice before then going home. But Ms Giuffre alleges they had been for a Chinese meal and then to Tramp before the sexual encounter at Ms Maxwell's.

father spoke of his fears for his daughter's safety. Appearing on Good Morning Britain, Sky Roberts implored her to "stay safe". Speaking from his home in Florida he said he believed his daughter about having sex with the Prince. "I have no doubt at all she's telling the truth. I've seen interviews with Prince Andrew," said Mr Roberts. "It just shows to me, and I think most of Britain, that he is not telling the truth. She has no reason to not tell the truth about this, and he has every reason to deny it because of him being a royal."

Asked what he would say to his daughter now he replied: "I'd really like to just tell her to stay strong, stay safe to begin with. These are powerful people she's dealing with.

"It's not just Prince Andrew, it's several other people too she has allegations against."

'UK's largest nugget' found in Scottish river

A gold hunter claims to have discovered the UK's largest gold nugget in a Scottish river.

The lump of pure gold, which weighs 121.3g (4.2 oz), was unearthed in a mystery location in May this year.

The two pieces form a doughnut shape and could be worth £80,000. The previous largest find, in 2016, was the 85.7g (3oz) Douglas Nugget.

However, gold panning experts are remaining sceptical until its provenance can be confirmed.

The treasure was discovered in two pieces but fits together perfectly, earning it the name The Reunion Nugget.

The gold-panning community is renowned for its secrecy, and the name of the river where it was found has not been revealed. The lucky finder is also remaining anonymous.

'Remarkable find'

The finder brought the discovery to the attention of author Lee Palmer who was researching his book Gold Occurrences In The UK.

Mr Palmer, 50, said: "This is now the largest nugget in existence in the UK. When you look at it, it's doughnut-shaped.

"There are no impurities in it, it is just pure gold nugget of about 22 carats. It really is a remarkable find."

The nugget was found using the method of "sniping", which sees gold hunters lying face down in a river while wearing a snorkel and dry suit.

The enthusiast unearthed the larger piece first, which weighs 89.6g (3.1oz), before finding the other half, weighing 31.7g (1.1oz) 10 minutes later.

Mr Palmer said: "The man just threw the bigger piece in his bucket with the rest of his stuff - he knew it was big but didn't realise how big.

Identities secret

"He found the second nugget 30cm (12in) away and chucked that in his bucket too.

"It wasn't until a couple of days later that he had a look at them and realised how big they were and that they fitted together."

He added: "The hole in the middle could have been caused by a strike off a rock or glacier.

"One mineralogist thought it looked like an entry and exit hole that could've been made with a neolithic antler pick, which were used by farmers in the Iron Age."

Both the finder of the nugget and the owner of the land where it was discovered are keeping their identities secret due to its magnitude.

Mr Palmer hopes it will be purchased by either the National Museum Of Scotland or the Natural History Museum, but legally it may have to be handed over to The Crown Estate.

'Perfect fit'

He believes the fact it is in two pieces should not affect its value.

Mr Palmer said: "From the top you could say it looks like two bits, but when you see it from jigsaw, there's no disputing it.

"Even if you took the largest individual piece, it is still the biggest one in the UK.

"Add together the second piece and the story behind it and you've got something amazing."

The Douglas Nugget holds the current record for the largest gold nugget found in the UK for 500 years.

In a similar story, it was discovered in a Scottish river by a man in his 40s. He kept quiet for two years before publicly revealing his incredible find.

Early release to be reviewed following London Bridge attack

HUNDREDS of extremists were having their cases reviewed this week night amid fears fresh terror attacks could be being planned.

Justice Secretary Robert Buckland said security chiefs are also reassessing those set to leave jail in the next few weeks. Mr Buckland has ordered officials to look into warnings by a terror expert who said there were "widespread, systemic" failures in tackling Islamist extremism in prisons. The Justice Secretary said there are 28 jihadis currently separated from prisoners amid fears they could radicalise others.

He said on Monday: "I want to make sure that we cover this thoroughly and we also look ahead to people who might be released from custody in the next few weeks."

"Public protection has to be the number one priority. There can't be any shilly-shallying about it."

In a related story it emerged that the leader of the terrorist plotters who were jailed with London Bridge attacker Usman Khan has applied for parole. Mohammed Chowdhury, 29, and Khan were among nine members of an Al-Qaeda inspired cell which plotted to blow up the London Stock Exchange and kill London Mayor Boris Johnson.

Chowdhury was set free automatically in 2017 after serving half of his sentence, but recalled to prison for breaching conditions of his release. A Parole Board spokesman said: "We can confirm the review of Mohammed Chowdhury has been referred to the Parole Board and is following standard processes."

The Ministry of Justice would not say when he was recalled to prison but it is thought to have been around two years ago.

British baby carried in two wombs

A BRITISH lesbian couple have welcomed the world's first two-womb baby.

An egg was incubated in one woman's uterus for the first 18 hours after fertilisation, before being transferred to the second partner's womb for the duration of the pregnancy. Experts at the London Women's Clinic, which carried out the pioneering procedure, said the process gives both mothers a practical and emotional stake in the pregnancy while also providing the embryo with important nutrients.

The baby, named Otis, was born to partners Donna and Jasmine Francis-Smith in July. Donna provided the egg and carried the embryo in the early hours of development, before it was transferred to Jasmine for implantation and pregnancy. Jasmine said: "The procedure really made me and Donna feel quite equal in the whole process and has emotionally brought us closer together.

"Now with baby Otis born safe and well, we feel a true family.

"If we had to go through the process again there is nothing we would change."

The fertilised egg was placed into a small capsule, known as AneVivo, while Donna carried it. Dr Giuseppina Lamanna, the consultant gynaecologist who supervised the couple's treatment, paid tribute to Swiss Company Anecova for developing the groundbreaking technology.

She said: "The AneVivo method neatly brings together the contributions of the biological and birthing mothers in creating their baby, a source of tremendous satisfaction to many of the lesbian and heterosexual couples we see at our clinic."

25 to testify against Soldier F in Bloody Sunday trial

A TOTAL of 25 witnesses are being lined up for the prosecution of Army veteran Soldier F over Bloody Sunday, a court was told on Monday.

The former paratrooper is accused of the murders of James Wray and William McKinney and faces five further charges of attempted murder. Relatives of the two men who died during the civil rights march in Londonderry in January 1972 packed the city's magistrates court.

Mark Mulholland QC, defending, said he was ready to challenge any legal ruling to send Soldier F to a crown court for trial. During a brief hearing, a district judge was told 25 prosecution witnesses – all civilians – are being lined up for the complex case. However, it is not yet clear how many will be called to give live evidence at a three week committal hearing.

Soldiers from the Parachute Regiment opened fire during the civil rights march killing 13 people. A further 15 were wounded. Soldier F is charged with the attempted murders of four survivors Joseph Friel, Michael Quinn, Joe Mahon and Patrick O'Donnell. The fifth attempted murder charge relates to "persons unknown".

The veteran, who was not in court, is the only ex-soldier charged over Bloody Sunday. Soldier F also faces action over the ruling to grant him anonymity.

Ciaran Shiels, solicitor for the McKinney family and the four men who were wounded, said: "We have indicated to the Public Prosecution Service that we intend to challenge the anonymity order that has been granted to the soldier."

"The position of the families is that there is a significant departure from the principles of open justice, that this defendant is being treated more favourably than other people charged with homicide – and indeed murder."

The hearing was adjourned until January 17.

Witnesses hail Polish hero of terror attack

A HERO of the London Bridge attack was stabbed five times as he tackled the knife-wielding killer, it emerged this week.

Armed only with a long stick, Polish kitchen worker Lukasz Koczocik took on Usman Khan after he had killed Jack Merritt and Saskia Jones. His actions saved lives as potential victims were able to flee the carnage at Fishmongers Hall, his boss revealed.

Toby Williamson, the Clerk of Fishmongers' Hall, described how Lukasz was joined by others as the violence spilled out on to London Bridge. Moments later, Khan was shot dead by armed police.

Ex-Royal Navy Commodore Williamson, a former Equerry to the Queen, said: "There's a guy called Lukasz who cleans the glasses in the basement, that's exactly what he was doing when he hears this scream.

"The scream was so loud, as a first aider, he makes a choice and goes towards the trouble.

"He gets there on the first floor and it's pretty clear there's a bad guy who's got two knives in his hands. There's blood, there's screaming, there's chaos. Lukasz pulls off the wall this long stick.

"He charges towards the bad guy and impacts him on the chest. There's clearly something protective and he doesn't make any sort of impact.

"But he's buying time. He allows others to escape to adjacent rooms."

Commodore Williamson added: "At that point, he's got a one minute, one-on-one straight combat. This guy Khan works his way up Lukasz's pole, slashing with this knife. He takes five wounds to his left side. He has done what he needs to do."

Commodore Williamson told how two other men, who were attending a rehabilitation conference run by the Learning Together organisation, joined the fight. One grabbed a fire extinguisher and the other ripped a narwhal whale tusk off the wall of the hall. Lukasz is currently recovering at home.

Concern over Magna Carta 'sale'

A COPY of the Magna Carta – the document which effectively gave birth to democracy in the UK – should not be exported overseas, the Culture Secretary has said.

The manuscript, which dates to 1300, was presented to Faversham in Kent – but the council is thought to be keen to sell it amid claims it is worth more than £20million.

Nicky Morgan said she was "extremely concerned" to hear the council wanted to profit from the artefact – one of seven surviving copies of the charter from that year. She said: "It is one of the most important documents in British history. I, and any future Conservative minister, will do everything we can to block this precious artefact from leaving these shores."

King John first issued the Magna Carta in 1215 after agreeing peace terms with a band of rebel barons. It is now one of the world's most celebrated legal documents. Four original charters are held at the British Library, Lincoln and Salisbury cathedrals, while the Faversham copy was presented to the barons of the town in the early 14th Century.

JOHN RICHARDS: 'ignorance has won'

Campaigner's fight for proper apostrophe use hits a full stop

A MAN who launched The Apostrophe Protection Society almost 20 years ago has brought it to a halt – saying it is a losing a battle and “ignorance has won”.

John Richards, 96, has campaigned for the proper use of punctuation.

His website features examples of both correct and incorrect usage, and he would write to organisations highlighting their apostrophe abuse.

John, of Boston, Lincs, said he has now disbanded the society he formed in 2001. He said: “We have done our best but the ignorance and laziness present in modern times have won.

“The biggest issue I have is not that people get it wrong and put the apostrophe in the wrong place – they just don't use it altogether. In many ways it has been completely abandoned, and people and business just don't use it at all, they leave it out.

“The problem has been speeding up over time and now more often than not the apostrophe is just not used. Look at Waterstones – they used to be Waterstone's. They are a bookseller so you'd think they should know better. I wrote to them to ask why they removed it and they said it was a 'design issue'.

“Lloyds are the same –

they used to be Lloyd's. It's been going on for years and it's just become much worse. It's always been a concern.”

Mr Richards started the society after seeing the “same mistakes over and over again” and hoped he would find half a dozen people who felt the same. He said: “I didn't find half a dozen people. Instead, within a month of my complaint appearing in a national newspaper, I received over 500 letters of support – not only from all corners America, Australia, France, Sweden, Hong Kong and Canada.”

John, a former newspaper reporter and sub-editor, said he was closing the society but its website would stay open. He announced on the site: “With regret I have to announce that I have decided to close the Apostrophe Protection Society.

“There are two reasons for this. One is that at 96 I am cutting back on my commitments and the second is that fewer organisations and individuals are now caring about the correct use of the apostrophe.”

Waterstones changed its logo to remove the apostrophe in 2012.

The firm said it phased out the apostrophe because it was no longer practical in the age of the internet and email addresses, which do not use the punctuation.

47 years later, 'Oval Four' are cleared after Court of Appeal finds the men were framed

■ Lord chief justice expresses 'regret that it has taken so long for injustice to be remedied'

Three black men convicted of a mugging on the London Underground 47 years ago have been cleared by senior judges after they were found to have been framed by a corrupt police officer.

The Court of Appeal quashed the convictions of Sterling Christie, Winston Trew and George Griffiths after their case was referred by the Criminal Cases Review Commission.

Upholding an appeal against conviction by the three men – who, with Constantine Boucher, were part of the “Oval Four” – the lord chief justice, Lord Burnett, told them: “Our regret is that it has taken so long for this injustice to be remedied.”

The men were arrested in March 1972 by a group of undercover police officers at Oval Underground station and accused of “nicking handbags” on the tube. They were beaten in the police cells and then charged with attempting to steal, theft, and assault of the police.

The men, who were born in Jamaica and moved to Britain as children, were aged between 19 and 23 at the time of the charges. The conviction of Boucher, has not been quashed as the commission has been unable to trace him.

The anti-mugging unit of the British Transport Police which arrested them was led by Detective Sergeant Derek Ridgewell, who had previously been in the Southern Rhodesia police force.

The men signed confessions, written by Ridgewell, in which they

Winston Trew and his wife Hyacinth, outside the Royal Courts of Justice in London following the quashing of his conviction on Thursday admitted attempting to pick a man's pocket and violently resisting arrest. Later that year they pleaded not guilty at an Old Bailey trial, claiming that they had defended themselves when assaulted by plain clothes officers.

The jury was told that they had signed the confessions because they feared further assault by police.

However, all four were convicted. Mr Trew, Mr Christie, and Mr Boucher were jailed for two years and Mr Griffiths, who was younger, was sentenced to borstal training. In July 1973 the Court of Appeal rejected an appeal against conviction but reduced the jail terms.

When the commission referred the case back to appeal judges this year, the court was told that Ridgewell was responsible for a series of cases in the 1970s in which black men were falsely accused of crimes, many on the Tube.

The court was told that Ridgewell's methods were so notorious that in 1973 there were calls for an inquiry. Instead senior officers moved him to a mailbag theft unit. In 1980 Ridgewell pleaded guilty to conspiracy to steal mailbags. He died in prison two years later.

The conviction of the four in 1972 sparked outrage within London's Jamaican population

Mr Trew, now 67, later published a book that detailed Ridgewell's history of falsely accusing suspects.

Jenny Wiltshire, a solicitor with Hickman & Rose, said: “Both the British Transport Police and the Home Office were warned about this police officer's corrupt methods in 1973.

“They did nothing except move him a different unit, where he continued to offend so that by 1980 he was serving a seven-year prison sentence. Even then the police did not think to review his cases. Had they done so, these innocent men's lives would have been very different.”

Drunken mum facing jail after assaulting crew on BA plane

A MOTHER-of-two is facing a jail sentence after lashing out at three British Airways cabin crew members for refusing her alcohol.

Emma Langford, 47, punched the jumbo's crew manager and kicked another in the legs while screaming: "You have a massive ****!"

She then pulled out trays of stowed plates and glasses causing them to shatter and cut an attendant before pummeling another. She had to be restrained with the help of an off-duty police officer before being carried off the plane at Cape Town,

South Africa.

Langford, of Old Basing, Hampshire, was warned on Monday by Ealing magistrates she faces two years in jail. She was due to stand trial after denying three charges of assault but changed her pleas to guilty. Langford had already pleaded guilty to criminal damage, being drunk on an aircraft and behaving in a threatening, abusive, insulting and disorderly manner.

The court heard on the flight from Heathrow in December last year that about 30 minutes after take-off she went to the galley saying she had been on the plane for ages and was thirsty. The manager smelt alcohol and gave her water, but at one point she pushed an attendant into a door and was then seen assaulting a passenger. She then tipped out a tray of plates and some glasses. She struck the manager two more times and the other attendant a number of times before being restrained.

One said: "She kicked me in the back of the legs and said, 'Your * is massive.' I felt humiliated."

Langford was bailed until January 3.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: You are often no stranger to drama, especially when your boss Mars is active. He sits in powerful Scorpio currently so keep a handle on anything in your life that can get out of control, keep a cool head at all times and in all situations. Bear in mind nothing lasts forever.

TAURUS: You need to listen to wiser souls who are directing you to overall change. This can be in any area, however if it is your health and well being in the spotlight it must be at the top of your priority list. Follow the path of least resistance for a while.

GEMINI: With Mercury your boss going forward and Mars moving faster it's very possible you are about to make more of the changes that have been on the back burner for your overall life. Keep some time this next couple of weeks to catch up with or visit someone you should.

CANCER: Venus the love planet visiting your cousin Scorpio and can move you to make some changes that have been long overdue. You might feel like you have been spinning around without any direction to focus on. This is about to change soon. Take a deep breath.

LEO: As the new month begins you could find yourself less restricted in several ways. Your priority should be your own highest good overall. You have been holding on to outdated thoughts and ways for too long. It is time to trust that you will be taken care of now.

VIRGO: Be on the safe side - make family and friends your priority and the reward will be a sense of pride for completing anything in this area and putting things to rest. If someone is resisting do not get upset just let it go for now. It will all look better mid-month.

LIBRA: Saturn is finally going forward in your area of communications and learning. This means for you and your overall life that you will be assisted in making any changes or plans in general - especially in communications. Ask for any assistance that you can get and make the next month a winning one.

SCORPIO: Pressure in several areas may have got you down and feeling blue recently. This is not surprising, especially in your personal financial area and also health. However now you are entering your brand new year you can expect to be back in the mood for anything.

SAGITTARIUS: Whatever way you look at life it's a bit of a balancing act currently. The good news is your boss Jupiter is heading towards your money house for a year and can bring huge positive movement in your life. It is going to balance your life sooner rather than later for you. Happy Birthday!

CAPRICORN: It is time to tell the people in your life to back off and give you some space. Whatever is lurking in the shadows of your mind will not come to the light to be healed or changed if you bury your head in the sand. Be sure that you give yourself some space to do this inner work.

AQUARIUS: Meetings of the minds is started this coming week for you in work areas. There will be the much on your agenda these next few days or so. Be open to what you hear from others' feedback. It will much to your advantage to listen and not react.

PISCES: This month ahead be ready to take a trip at a moment's notice. It may bring the change you have asked for and if nothing else you will feel much more in control and ready for anything. Word of warning: try to not say what is really on your mind!

Are you ready for party season?

Party season has begun... for us at least. If you want to join in with the festivities come along to our Annual Christmas Party, held at Bar Lubitsch in West Hollywood this year, on December 12th. We are still finalizing the details but we can guarantee that there will be lots of fun to be had. It is a great chance to get together with your fellow members and see old friends and make new ones too. We have had a lot of laughs over the years, starting off with our very first holiday bash at Play in Hollywood. That was also where our partnership with Adopt a Letter began. The founder, Kimberly Moore, discovered that letters to Santa mostly went unanswered and took it upon herself to start fulfilling the wants and wishes of the underprivileged children living in and around Los Angeles. It is a very simple format, letters are posted on AdoptALetter.org for us to peruse and then choose the one that tugs at your heart strings. If you don't have the funds to sponsor the entire list there are options to just donate what you can actually afford.

Earlier this week Brits In LA Key Members were invited to the LA launch of the Choose Love POP up store hosted by Dawn O'Porter and Chris O'Dowd. It is a very unique concept; it's the world's first store where you can buy real gifts for refugees. Their stores contains practical items like tents, nappies and sleeping bags. But instead of taking them home, each purchase buys a similar item for someone who truly needs it. If you don't live near one of their locations you can easily make a purchase at their online shop. Parties with a reason or a cause are a sure fire way to get people interested, so it makes absolute sense that we will be celebrating the birthday of our fabulous Pub Quiz host Sandro Monetti on December the 10th at our trivia night at the Cat & Fiddle on Highland, so do try to come along if you can. I hear he may be attending our weekly Breakfast Club at Cecconi's that same day, so if you can't make one try and make the other. Sandro is so supportive and generous to the Brits in LA community and I know many of you appreciate him as much as we do. Please note our Pub Quiz Holiday Schedule Christmas Quiz on December 17th then we have a little break but will be back in 2021 on January 7th.

Visit www.britsin.la and click on our 'EVENTS' tab for updates as well as ticket info for our Christmas Party.

Lots of you have been asking about volunteer opportunities over the Christmas period. I know that Adopt A Letter will need helpers to sort and deliver gifts. Neighbouring Light also need a hand distributing their care parcels to the homeless and lastly Choose Love need shop workers, shifts start at four hours up to a full day. Contact details for each charity are listed at the top of the page.

Helping Abigail

We also received a very sad email this week asking for financial help. Retired nurse Abigail was on a trip of a lifetime. After working 40 years as a nurse at the London Clinic she finally retired in 2015 and started her long life wish of travelling. In October 2019 Abigail suffered multiple strokes in the USA while visiting the Grand Canyon and was treated for meningitis.

Abigail is currently non-responsive, comatose and sadly we think she did not have travel insurance. Can you spare a few $$ and help bring Abigail back home? A GoFundMe appeal has been started in a desperate bid to raise the funds and get Abigail back home to be with her family. Any help with her medical bills and repatriation would be greatly appreciated.

www.gofundme.com/f/help-abigail-come-back-home

If we all donated $2 her fund would be fulfilled in no time!

It is stories like these that make me realize how lucky I am, I might not have lots of money

DOING GOOD: Chris O'Dowd and Dawn O'Porter

but I am surrounded by great friends as well as our lovely Brits in LA community. But it is also a good reminder to always take out travel insurance. Abigail's situation could have so easily been avoided by taking out an insurance policy. So please don't cut corners, as it could be your friends and family who are put in this difficult situation next time.

If you have any questions or comments drop us a line at info@britsin.la. Hope to see lots of you at one of our events next week...

Cheers!
Eileen

DON'T MISS THE PANTO!

Put everything you have into succeeding, so you can live with failure - Matt Hitchens

Meet a Member: Matt Hitchens

Meet Matt Hitchens from London who moved to LA seven years ago to pursue a music career.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

A friend of mine, who I was in a band with in the UK, just said to me one day that he thought we should try and move to LA. The band we were in had stalled and we weren't playing much music at all at the time, and he thought this is the place to be so why not give it a go? I was in a job I hated and wasn't tied down, so the chance to try something new and making a complete change was exactly what I needed. I thought that if I didn't try, I'd always regret it.

What do you miss most from home?

My family. It's been seven years here now, and I'm starting to miss them more and more. I also have a two-year-old nephew, and seeing the huge changes to him every time I go home gets pretty tough.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

That it was huge, fun, pretty dark in places, and everyone works in entertainment. It hasn't really changed, you can still find something fun to do anytime you want, and everyone still loves to tell you about his or her "project".

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus London?

How spread out it is, and having to drive everywhere. Sometimes, the thought of driving across town for an hour to get somewhere can put you off leaving the house at all. Also, waking up every day and seeing the sun! You take it for granted after a while, but coming from the daily gloom and rain of London, it's easy to underestimate how much good weather improves your mood and general mental well-being.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

The Huntington Gardens in Pasadena are a great place to get away from it all and relax for a few hours, and there's a great dive bar on York Boulevard in Eagle Rock called Johnny's that's always a fun place to grab a drink.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Choose the right immigration lawyer because the visa process is terrible. Having to justify your right to stay every three years really takes its toll. You can do everything right, and tick all the boxes, but ultimately you just have to sit, wait, and hope that your work achievements are enough for some unknown person to decide whether you have to leave your new home. Find a good lawyer with a proven track record for the type of visa you are applying for, it will help remove as much of the stress as possible. I've used Kate Raynor and Associates for three O-1 visas and they've always been great.

And make sure it's really for you. Realistically, everyone is here trying to do the same thing, and there's going to be a lot of disappointment, rejection and uncertainty, and the only chance of getting through it all is to just keep going. Even though it has been a hugely rewarding experience being out here, there have also been some of the toughest times I've ever experienced, so just be sure!

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

Put everything you have into succeeding, so you can live with failure.

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you working on anything at the moment?

I released my debut album and first two music videos at the end of 2019, and will be releasing more throughout 2020. For more information and links to everything, head to: diamondshake.com or soundcloud.com/diamond-shake and @instagram @thediamondshake

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DANJA CORINNA GAZZARA
Case No. 19STPB11047

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of DANJA CORINNA GAZZARA

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Savva Teteriatnikov in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Savva Teteriatnikov be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Dec. 27, 2019 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 5 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Magpies dull Blades

Jonjo Shelvey had a goal awarded by VAR as Newcastle stunned Sheffield United at Bramall Lane Thursday night to climb to 11th in the Premier League.

The controversy arrived in the second half when Andy Carroll was flagged offside after flicking on for Shelvey. The midfielder ran through before slotting past Dean Henderson, whose half-hearted challenge suggested he was expecting the effort to be ruled out.

However, with referee Stuart Attwell having waved play on the goal was checked by VAR, which correctly awarded it after replays showed Carroll was inside when he provided the assist.

Allan Saint-Maximin had earlier opened the scoring with his first goal for Newcastle, heading home Javier Manquillo's cross.

The frustrated hosts dominated much of the game only to find Martin Dubravka in wonderful form, the Newcastle goalkeeper twice saving excellent headers from Oli McBurnie, as well as keeping out a deflected Enda Stevens strike.

The result ends Sheffield United's seven-game unbeaten Premier League run, stretching back to a 1-0 defeat by Liverpool on 28 September.

worst winless run since 1977 - and 10 points off a Champions League spot.

Arsenal, who are 10th in the table, have now failed to win any of their last nine games in all competitions and fans who stayed for the final whistle booed their team off the pitch after a tepid performance.

Twelve years after his last appearance for Arsenal as a player, Ljungberg was given a chance to show fans inside a far-from-full Emirates he is capable of managing the club where he won two Premier League titles and three FA Cups.

It started well, with the Swede given a decent reception by the crowd, before rapidly going downhill as Brighton, who had lost their previous four away games, took control.

Ljungberg dropped Shkodran Mustafi from his 18 after last Sunday's 2-2 draw with struggling Norwich, yet Arsenal were still a shambles at the back.

Maupay had already forced Bernd Leno into a one-handed save when Webster struck from a corner after lashing home following Dan Burn's downward header.

Arsenal improved with the introduction of club record signing Nicolas Pepe after half-time and France forward Lacazette lifted the mood by climbing above the Brighton defence to head his side level after Mesut Ozil's first Premier League assist since February.

Yet the Gunners were short on confidence and ideas - while Mat Ryan produced a superb save at the end to frustrate the home side further.

The Brighton keeper flung himself across his line to keep out substitute Gabriel Martinelli as Arsenal, who have home games against Manchester City, Chelsea and Manchester United on the horizon, failed to win for the 11th time in 15 top-flight attempts.

England cricket hero Willis dead at 70

Former England captain Bob Willis has been hailed as a "phenomenal" cricketer following his death at the age of 70.

The fast bowler took 325 wickets in 90 Tests from 1971 to 1984, claiming a career-best 8-43 to help England to a famous win over Australia at Headingley in the 1981 Ashes.

David Gower, who succeeded Willis as England captain, said his former team-mate and commentary colleague had a "burning, bright passion for the game".

And ex-England fast bowler Darren Gough said Willis was "hugely admired around the world".

He was a phenomenal cricketer," added Simon Hughes, editor of The Cricketer and former Middlesex bowler.

"I still have that image in my head of him running off the ground at Headingley. He was a man on a mission. The passion and desire to win that game was too much for the Australians."

Willis captained England in 18 Tests and 29 one-day internationals before his retirement from all cricket in 1984.

He subsequently worked as a summariser on BBC TV before joining Sky Sports as a commentator in 1991.

Willis continued to work for Sky and was part of their coverage of this summer's Ashes series.

Gower was in the England side, inspired by Willis and Ian Botham's heroics, that famously fought back to beat the Australians against all odds in 1981.

"Headingley was a brilliant moment, the irony was they tried to drop him before that Test match, so that was him making a point and he was very good at doing that during his career," Gower, 62, told BBC Radio 5 live.

"He has always been making points and he makes them very firmly. Anyone seeing that game would have seen a burning bright passion coming through the eyes.

"There is a huge contrast to Bob, a lot of people have seen him on programmes where his trenchant opinion is put across in great style. He was very forthright on players of the current generation, but behind it all is a very different character. He was multi-faceted.

"He was a huge Bob Dylan fan, in fact he changed his name to Robert George Dylan Willis by deed poll, which tells its own story, and he could tell you any Dylan lyric. He was a bright man, very good

England proud in defeat, insists big-hitting Root

Captain Joe Root says he is proud of the way England "learned lessons quickly" in their Test series defeat in New Zealand.

Beaten by an innings and 65 runs in the first Test, England established a first-innings lead of 101 before the second Test in Hamilton was drawn at the weekend.

Root made 226 and opener Rory Burns 101 in England's 476.

"I feel like we're a more rounded team for being out here," Root, 28, told BBC Test Match Special.

England, under new coach Chris Silverwood, collapsed from 277-4 to 353 all out in the first innings and were bowled out for 197 in the second at Mount Maunganui.

At Seddon Park, they batted for 162.5 overs as they passed 400 in the first innings for the first time since 2017.

Root admitted his string of recent low scores in Test cricket had made him 'hungry' for his record-breaking total in Hamilton.

Root produced an epic innings lasting more than 10 and a half hours, and his run total was a record for a visiting Test skipper in New Zealand. It was his own personal best away from home and as England captain too.

And with a four-Test challenge to come in South Africa, the sight of Root and 21-year-old Ollie Pope adding 193 for the sixth wicket suggests that the captain's message of batting long and big is getting through.

"I found a really good rhythm out there and felt pretty comfortable and just wanted to keep going," he said.

"It's been a while since I've had that amount of time out in the middle and you get really hungry for it sometimes.

"I felt like I got a groove going and wanted to keep it going as long as I could. I had the bit between my teeth and wanted to make it a really big one.

"It's just nice to get back to scoring some big runs and hopefully we can finish the year off well in South Africa and take it on a real upward curve."

Root's third double-hundred of his career also took him into the top 10 England Test run-scorers by moving past Wally Hammond's total of 7,249, and none of those has scored more runs at a better average than Root's 7,282 at 48.54. But such is the expectation, fans and team-mates alike expect him to top the charts in Test cricket and in the one-day game.

"There have been different challenges this year," he admitted. "It's been unique in everything we've had to go through as a team, across the formats.

"Mentally, to be able to finish the year strong, has been quite nice. Ultimately it's about results and I suppose if we win the Ashes, my form probably slips a company and a wine connoisseur.

"He was very civilized and erudite, maybe too erudite for most, he didn't suffer fools gladly. He was very eclectic in all sorts of things. He was passionate about cricket, and the way he talked about it too."

Willis represented Surrey for the first two years of his professional career before spending 12 years at Warwickshire, finishing with 899 wickets from 308 first-class matches at an average of 24.99.

Despite needing surgery on both knees in 1975, he became one of the finest fast bowlers of his generation, playing another nine years and claiming his 325 Test wickets at an impressive average of 25.20.

At the time of Willis' retirement, only Australia fast bowler Dennis Lillee had taken more Test wickets.

James Anderson (575), Stuart Broad (471) and Botham (383) are the only England bowlers to have since surpassed Willis' tally.

little bit under the radar."

Centuries for Kane Williamson and Ross Taylor, and rain on the final afternoon, ensured a draw that gave New Zealand a 1-0 series win.

England took only 21 wickets in the series, although the pitches offered the bowlers little assistance.

They end the year without a Test series victory for the first time since 1999, and have won only two of their past 11 away series.

Silva out as Reds show no Mersey!

■ Duncan Ferguson appointed temporary boss
 ■ Moyes favorite to return to Goodison hot seat

Marco Silva has been relieved of his duties at Everton, with Duncan Ferguson taking over as caretaker manager for the club's match against Chelsea on Saturday.

Farhad Moshiri, the Everton owner, was not at Anfield to witness Everton's 5-2 humiliation against Liverpool Wednesday night, but met Silva in the city Thursday to deliver the news in person.

Silva had become an increasingly isolated after eight defeats in 11 Premier League matches which left the club in the relegation zone. Until now, Everton have had difficulty lining up even an interim replacement for Silva, who reported at the club's Finch Farm training ground as normal today. Everton's players are due to train this afternoon.

Silva had criticised Everton's defensive frailties after the defeat

— it was the first time Liverpool had scored five goals in a Merseyside derby since a 5-0 win at Goodison Park in 1982 — and Everton's susceptibility on their right flank, and also to long balls, was evident from the opening exchanges.

"It was a bad game for us and a really bad night for us as well," said Silva, 42. "They deserved the three points, no doubt, and we were not good enough. At this level you cannot concede the five goals the way we conceded them. We should do better, be more brave and win some challenges."

Everton Football Club can confirm that manager Marco Silva has left the Club," a statement from Everton read.

"Majority Shareholder Farhad Moshiri, Chairman Bill Kenwright and the Board of Directors would like to thank Marco for his service over the last 18 months and wish him well for the future.

"Duncan Ferguson has taken temporary charge of the first team and will manage the side for the game against Chelsea on Saturday.

"The Club aims to confirm a new permanent manager as swiftly as possible."

Former Everton boss David Moyes is the favourite to take over.

Other candidates include Eddie Howe, Mikel Arteta, Leonardo Jardim and Erik ten Hag.

Everton have won just four of their 15 Premier League games so far this season and are only being kept off the bottom of the table by Watford and Norwich.

They are a point adrift of safety ahead of Chelsea's visit to Merseyside and will follow that game up with top-flight fixtures

SILVA: Everton have won just four Premier League games this term under his guidance against Manchester United and Arsenal.

Everton must also take on Leicester in a Carabao Cup quarter-final which completes a daunting run ahead of Burnley's trip to Goodison Park on Boxing Day.

Only two teams have scored fewer than Everton's 16 goals so far this season and results have seen fans calling for change for months.

Dismal Gunners spiked by Seagulls

YOU SHALL NOT PASS: Mat Ryan's dramatic late stop preserved the win for Brighton

Managerless Arsenal's season plummeted to a new low as they were beaten 2-1 by Brighton in interim manager Freddie Ljungberg's first home match in charge on Thursday.

Alexandre Lacazette marked his 100th Gunners appearance by heading his side level after Adam Webster had given the visitors a first-half lead.

With the score 1-1, there was frustration for Ljungberg and Arsenal when David Luiz thought he had made it 2-1 with a volley but it was correctly ruled out following a VAR check for offside.
