Blair blasts Corbyn's 'comic indecision'

■ Former Labour leader in scathing critique after election rout

TONY Blair this week attacked Jeremy Corbyn's "comic indecision" on Brexit as he blamed the Labour leader for his old party's dismal General Election showing.

The former prime minister, who won three elections for Labour, said it has been taken over by a "cult" which has now left it "marooned on fantasy island".

He laid the blame firmly at the door of Mr Corbyn, saying he had pursued a policy of "almost comic indecision" on Brexit which managed to alienate both sides of the debate.

He lashed out after Mr Corbyn said he would quit as leader following the humiliating election result last week, where Labour lost 59 seats – its worst result since 1935.

Mr Blair added: "Labour needs not just a different driver, but a different bus."

Mr Corbyn is expected to stay in his post for another three months while a new leader is found.

There are fears that the party will try to keep their hard-Left ideologies and policies, ignoring the huge scale of their defeat. Key Corbyn ally and frontrunner Rebecca Long-Bailey is seen as the choice of the current leadership.

With Labour engulfed in an increasingly bitter civil war, Mr Blair wasted no time in piling in with a withering assault on Mr Corbyn's leadership.

The former leader, whose old seat of Sedgefield fell to the Tories, said the performance by Labour could lead to "15 years more of Tory government" if Labour could not transform itself into a "serious, progressive" alternative to the Conservatives. If not, he said the party was "finished".

Mr Blair claimed the election defeat was the result of a "Corbyn problem and, secondarily, a Brexit problem. He described Corbyn's leadership errors as "unforgivable" adding: "The choice for Labour is to renew itself as the serious, progressive, non-Conservative competitor for power in British politics, or retreat from such an ambition, in which case over time it will be replaced."

He added this was "no ordinary defeat for Labour".

SHADOW Cabinet Minister Emily Thornberry was accused of sneering at "stupid" Leave voters this week as the party erupted into civil war over last week's election thrashing.

Furious ousted MP Caroline Flint warned Labour would "never win" if it continued to ignore ordinary voters and attacked "ardent Remainers" for putting it on the path to defeat.

Ms Flint also slammed shadow foreign secretary Ms Thornberry for criticising Brexit supporters

"She said to one of my colleagues 'I'm glad my constituents aren't as stupid as yours'. Sorry, it's not acceptable," she told Sky News.

Ms Thornberry insisted the claim was a "total and utter lie" and is said to be consulting lawyers in response to the allegation.

Bitter recriminations engulfed the party as its factions went to war over why Labour went down to its worst defeat since 1935. Leader Jeremy Corbyn insisted he had "won the argument" with his "popular" policies and again blamed the media for his drubbing. But moderates said the party had gone "off to the land of the fairies" and needed to change direction "radically".

Ms Flint said the party leader and his fudged approach to Brexit were "absolutely" behind Labour's collapse. The former frontbencher lost out to the Tories in Leave-supporting Don Valley, South Yorkshire, after having held the seat for 22 years. The Conservatives took a swathe of seats in Labour's northern and Midlands heartlands. Ms Flint said voters did not trust Mr Corbyn and believed Labour had frustrated Brexit.

'land of the fairies'

She said: "I am trying to stem my anger in all of this, but I am emotional because a number of people who have been ardent Remainers in our party, on our front bench, people like Keir Starmer, like Emily Thornberry and many others, Hilary Benn, Yvette Cooper – they have contributed to sacrificing 59 seats."

The ex-minister, who served under Tony Blair and Gordon Brown, said the party had lost its connection with working-class voters and their values. "Labour has got to start building a better relationship otherwise it will never win," she added. And the next leader cannot be "anybody who has had a hand in our Brexit strategy over the last few years", she warned "And I don't think it can be Corbyn without a beard – I think that would be the wrong move as well," she added.

Labour MP Stephen Kinnock said Mr Corbyn's leadership had been "weak and incompetent" and called for him to "resign properly, immediately". He said the party had become the "puppet" of the People's Vote campaign for a second referendum, which had "destroyed" its credibility in Leave areas. The manifesto had been a "Christmas wish list" and the party had gone off "to the land of the fairies".

He told BBC Radio 4: "The message is very clear. We have to reconnect with our Leave-voting areas." He added: "The sect that has taken over the party in the last few years is totally and utterly disconnected from these realities." He said the party could win back seats if it was "absolutely honest" about its failures and "stopped blaming" the media and the weather. Labour former general secretary Lord McNicol said Mr Corbyn must immediately resign.

Claims of anti-semitism 'lies and smears' - Livingstone

KEN Livingstone has denied anti-Semitism is a problem within Labour and claimed "lies and smears" against Jeremy Corbyn contributed to the party's election defeat.

The former Labour MP and Mayor of London said "not one" of his Jewish friends in the party could remember an anti-Semitic incident. Defending Mr Corbyn, Mr Livingstone told Good Morning Britain: "I've known Jeremy for 45 years. He's been side by side with everyone who's campaigned against racism, homophobia, anti-Semitism, and yet the media was filled with all these lies about the Labour Party as an institutionally anti-Semitic body."

Under Mr Corbyn Labour has been beset by allegations of anti-Semitism, with several MPs quitting in protest and the Chief Rabbi urging people to "vote with their conscience".

Mr Livingstone was originally suspended from the party in 2016.

"That April John Mann, then a Labour MP, with a camera crew in tow, started shouting in my face that I was a Nazi apologist, then went on air and claimed I'd said Hitler was a Zionist.

"I quit the Labour Party in 2018 because this was being dragged out to undermine Jeremy.

"But If I'd said Hitler was a Zionist I wouldn't just have apologized, I'd have been off to my doctor to check I wasn't in the first stage of dementia."

On Friday, he called "the Jewish vote" a factor in Labour's defeat. "Jeremy should have tackled that issue far earlier than he did."

Young ones shine in Christmas card from the Cambridges

George, Charlotte and Louis star in festive family portrait

Prince George, Princess Charlotte, and Prince Louis don't go out much, but royal watchers this week we got two new glimpses of the beautiful siblings.

First they were photographed arriving at the Queen's Christmas lunch at Buckingham Palace. And the second time was in the Cambridges' annual Christmas card which was shared by a lucky recipient on Twitter. It's a new family portrait, one where the family posed in matching blue outfits.

the handlebars of a vintage khaki-coloured motorbike, while dad William sits on the seat with a bemused Prince Louis, on his lap.

Princess Charlotte is photographed standing in the sidecar next to them, while Prince George, clad in a pair of red and blue checked shorts, appears to be rubbing his ear at the back of the shot.

Their Christmas card included a sweet message from the family, which reads: "Wishing you a very Happy Christmas and NewYear' - and is signed in black pen by

'Catherine."

The Twitter user penned: "A Christmas card from our Royal Patron, HRH The Duchess of Cambridge, which I share with all members of the air cadets.

"We send HRH and her family all best wishes for Christmas and hope to see her again in 2020."

George, Charlotte and Louis will spend Christmas this year in Sandringham with the Queen. For the first time Prince George and Princess Charlotte will also attend the Royal Family Christmas church service this year, according to reports. The two will also join their parents, the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge, for the traditional walk to church from the Sandringham estate.

SIMPLY ADORBS: the Duke and Duchess with their three young children

"It will be so sweet. George and Charlotte will make their Christmas debut, as long as they're both on good form on the day," a royal source shared.

British Airways sinks to new low, says consumer watchdog

BRITISH Airways has been branded one of the worst airlines just four years after claiming the prize for being the best, a consumer watchdog report revealed.

It came second from last for its long-haul flights and third bottom for its short-haul services. Passengers criticized the quality of food and drink, the comfort of its seats and value for money. Just over half of fliers (55 per cent) said they were satisfied with BA, according to the survey.

Which? asked more than 6,500 holidaymakers to rate their experiences of flights taken over the course of 12 months. Passengers were asked to describe their experiences of customer service, boarding and cabin environment. In 2015 the British flag carrier was awarded the best short-haul airline in the Which? Travel survey but IT failures, strikes and mass cancellations have continued to see the airline descend in customers' estimations. Some passengers had such bad experiences they told Which? they would never fly British Airways again with one going as far as to say "BA is, without doubt, the worst airline we've ever used."

Ryanair was voted the worst short-haul airline with a score of 44 per cent. Many Ryanair passengers complained of being treated like "cash cows", while another said the airline had a "cattle-class mentality". Customers gave the airline the lowest possible score of one star out of a possible five in all categories including boarding, customer service and cabin experience, apart from value for money where it managed a two-star rating. Short-haul travellers continued to praise the efforts of Jet2 for its budget prices, with premium service earning a 79 per cent customer score and five stars for customer service.

A consistent high scorer in the long-haul category

was Virgin Atlantic (72 per cent) which has kept standards high. Those surveyed said it was the best option when flying to the US and one went as far as to say "British Airways need to learn from Virgin".

Rory Boland, Which?

Travel editor, said: "Year after year the same culprits continue to sink to new lows, yet for many of us there is a choice. You don't have to keep booking with an airline that has let you down - or one that you loved for years but has slipped in quality."

Boris: hard no on new Scottish vote

BORIS Johnson has slapped down Scottish National Party demands for a second referendum on Scottish independence.

He is also planning a charm offensive to persuade Scottish voters of the benefits of staying in the UK.

At the weekend senior Tory Michael Gove told Sky's Sophy Ridge On Sunday, the 2014 Scottish referendum was supposed to have been a "once in a generation" vote. He said: "We were told in 2014 that would be a choice for a generation. We are not going to have an independence referendum on Scotland."

Scotland's First Minister, Nicola Sturgeon, declared: "Scotland cannot be imprisoned in the Union against its will." But she was told by the BBC's Andrew Marr: "You want Boris to give Scotland an independence referendum, but there seems to be no way of making him do that."

In last week's General Election the nationalist SNP increased its number of MPs to 48 out of 59 seats, but 55 per cent of the Scottish electorate still voted for other parties. Ms Sturgeon is thought to have pulled in a lot of Remain votes with her last-ditch slogans of Stop Boris and Stop Brexit which struck a chord in Scotland. But analysts believe Mr Johnson will move swiftly to secure Brexit which will quickly weaken it as an issue in Scottish politics.

Ms Sturgeon acknowledged Johnson had refused a new referendum, but she insisted such a vote was "a fundamental point of democracy".

World Cup hero Stokes scoops Sports Personality of the Year

■ BBC gong caps remarkable turnaround for England cricket star

CRICKETER Ben Stokes has been crowned BBC Sports Personality of the Year after helping England win the World Cup.

It was a memorable summer for the all-rounder who starred as England beat New Zealand in a dramatic final at Lord's. Later in the season he steered his side to a memorable Test win over Australia with one of the greatest Ashes innings ever seen.

After he was officially announced as the winner in Aberdeen on Sunday night, Stokes, 28, kissed wife Clare before walking up to the stage to collect the award from Princess Anne. Stokes paid tribute to his England colleagues, who were named team of the year, but saved his biggest thanks for his wife. He said: "To my amazing wife, Clare. Family to me is more important than what I do for a living.

"It puts perspective on everything, after the good and bad days they are there for me no matter what. "Clare, you're a rock. You always have been. You always will be."

The triumph marked a remarkable turnaround for the star whose career was hanging by a thread when he was suspended and fined after a late-night brawl in Bristol in 2017, but went on to be cleared of affray. He put his problems behind him with a heroic man-of-the-match performance in the World Cup final, scoring 84 not out as England secured a tense "super over" victory. A month later he scored an unbeaten 135 to guide England to an unlikely one-wicket third Test win against Australia. Stokes justified his position as red-hot favourite for the award by overcoming a team of top opponents.

Six-time Formula One world champion Lewis Hamilton came second in the voting and athletics golden girl Dina Asher-Smith came third after becoming the first British woman to win a major global sprint title at the World Athletics Championship.

But there will be no resting on his laurels for Stokes, who flew out to South Africa on Monday morning to join his England teammates for a four-match Test series which begins on Boxing Day. On a night of glamour, many of the biggest names from the sporting world gathered to celebrate a memorable 12 months. They were among a 10,000-strong audience packed into the P&J Live arena in Aberdeen for the two-hour programme presented by Gary Lineker, Clare Balding

Piers Morgan loses his rag over 'gender-neutral' Santa

Good Morning Britain's Piers Morgan has raged live on-air at a poll that suggested people wanted to re-brand Santa Claus as female or gender-neutral.

The former journalist clearly took a lot of offence at the poll, where 27% of respondents answered that they believe old Saint Nick himself should be re-branded for the modern age. 'I knew this day would come,' Piers fumed. 'The day that Santa Claus would have to go.'

His long-suffering co-host, Susanna Reid, pointed out to Piers however that only 1 in 4 of the respondents to the poll had actually wanted to re-brand Santa. But Piers was having

"I KNEW THIS DAY WOULD COME": Piers Morgan threw another fit this week over Santa absolutely none of it.

'Who are these people?' the former Britain's Got Talent judge questioned. 'Literally 27% of these people no longer want Santa. Unbelievable!'

This is Good Morning Britain, of course, so this wasn't the only rant that Piers unleashed this week. The breakfast TV anchor yet again raged at leading British bakers Greggs and their vegan sausage roll. Piers has managed to once again muscle his way into the conversation and actually puts the success of the vegan sausage roll down to... himself. 'My tweet [about the vegan sausage roll] broke the internet,' he gloated. 'If you ask Greggs, they have attended marketing conferences worldwide that it was down to me.'

Actor Nicky Henson dead at 74

FAWLTY Towers and EastEnders star Nicky Henson has died aged 74 after a 19-year battle with cancer.

Henson, once married to actress Una Stubbs, also appeared in Downton Abbey and had stage roles with the National Theatre and Royal Shakespeare Company. His family said on Monday: "Nicky has died after a long disagreement with cancer." It attacked his stomach, colon and prostate.

singer-songwriter

Henson, who found fame in the Sixties, played Mr Johnson in an episode of Fawlty Towers in which Basil Fawlty becomes obsessed with catching his character with a woman in his room. Nicky carried on working long after his diagnosis and played Jack Edwards in EastEnders in 2006 and Charles Grigg in Downton Abbey. He appeared in more than 30 films, including Syria, plus Vera Drake.

Henson was also a talented singer-songwriter, writing for The Shadows and Sir Cliff Richard. In an interview last year, he said: "For the last 18 years, I've regarded myself as being in extra time." He praised his "amazing" wife of 32 years, Marguerite, saying she had "probably saved my life at least five times". He is survived by her, plus three sons and four grandchildren.

KENNY LYNCH: The London-born star had a string of hits in the 1960s

Tributes flow after singer and entertainer Kenny Lynch dies at 81

■ One of Britain's earliest black stars, Lynch enjoyed huge popularity in the 1960s and 70s

TRIBUTES were paid this week to singer and actor Kenny Lynch, who has died at the age of 81. The star, best known for his song Up On The Roof, passed away this week.

A family statement shared on his Twitter account said: "He will be remembered and missed by many. We would like to say a massive thank you to the NHS and the people at Sue Ryder for all their support. Bye Dad, we will love you always."

Long-time friend and collaborator Jimmy Tarbuck remembered Kenny as "a great singer and a wonderful personality, who looked great in a good suit".

The London-born star had a string of hits in the 1960s, including You Can Never Stop Me Loving You and I'll Stay By You, and was one of the few black singers in British pop music at the time.

In 1963, he appeared alongside The Beatles on their first British tour, when both acts were on the bill for a string of dates headed by singer Helen Shapiro.

In the same year, Kenny became the first artist to cover a Fab Four song when he recorded Misery. On the big screen, he appeared in Carry On Loving in 1970, as well as British comedies The Plank and The Alf Garnett Saga. On TV, he starred in the sitcom Curry And Chips, alongside Spike Milligan.

A variety star, Lynch also had success as a comedian, touring with close friend Tarbuck over the years. Veteran entertainer Tarbuck said he had visited the singer at home in the last month, saying he was "ready to die". But he said they ended up roaring with laughter as they reminisced on "so many" good times. He added that he toasted Kenny with Sir Tom Jones on Tuesday night, saying: "Tom was saying he was such a good singer and such a good talent, and that came from the best 80-year-old singer in the world. 'He said, 'Lynch was a good singer', and we raised a glass or two to him."

Radio star Danny

Baker called Kenny "a huge talent, a pioneer and tremendous company".

Sports presenter Gary Lineker tweeted: "Really sorry to hear that Kenny Lynch has passed away. 'Such a delightful, funny, talented man.'"

Ladbaby does it again as novelty charity single nabs Xmas No. 1 spot

IT'S no secret that the British love their Christmas traditions, and in addition to Christmas parties, caroling and two glorious weeks of indolence, one of most enduring is the fierce annual contest to nab the Number One spot in the singles chart.

Well for the second year running the winner is a YouTube prankster named Ladbaby, whose novelty charity single about his favorite snack – I Love Sausage Rolls – has climbed to the top spot — beating serious musicians including Stormzy, Lewis Capaldi and Dua Lipa.

The vlogger, real name Mark Hoyle, will join the Beatles and the Spice Girls as the only artists who have bagged a festive chart-topper in consecutive years.

The track is a cover of Joan Jett's 1981 hit I love Rock 'n' Roll and the money made is being given to foodbank charity The Trussell

A MATTER OF TASTE: Mark Hoyle - aka Ladbaby - has topped the UK charts again this festive season

Trust.

Ladbaby, 31, had sold 77,988 copies of the single this week by Thursday - way ahead of Stormzy and Ed Sheeran's song Own It which shifted 49,252 to reach number two.

At three is Wham!'s Last Christmas and in fourth is Lewis Capaldi's Before You Go, while Mariah Carey's All I Want For Christmas Is You is all the way down in 7th having sold 28,065 copies this week.

Last year his parody We Built This City on Sausage Rolls beat Ava Max and Ariana Grande to the top spot. The track raised enough for 70,000 food packages where were given out to people struggling to afford to eat.

But Stormzy at least was gracious in defeat, tweeting this week: "They've smashed it out the park already! LadBaby good luck guys you got this, it's a beautiful thing you're doing."

HAPPY CHRISTMAS TO ONE AND ALL!

ARIES: Your financial goals will be in reach by late next week. Don't think because it's been dormant for a while that it cannot be resolved. If you can let go of the outcome and what you expect it will manifest quicker than you could hope for.

TAURUS: Lucky Jupiter in your cousin sign of Capricorn will bring a situation that is unresolved to the surface - and this can be in any part of your life. Look forward to this being a more upbeat holiday gathering than for many years.

GEMINI: Time to clarify your current future plans and to initiate whatever you need to do to move forward. You may have unfinished business, so make it your priority, this should be completed by year's end. What you decide now will be to your advantage in the long run.

CANCER: Be strong and all the hard work you put in recently will bear fruit week ahead. Jupiter is in your opposite sign of Capricorn and will enhance several areas in your life that may need a little boost. Take stock of your current financial area and act accordingly.

LEO: Financial issues could hold you back from enjoying your life. Do not assume you can resolve a money problem with ease. But tackle what you can and stop stressing over what you are cannot. A healthy life style is important now.

VIRGO: As this coming month unfolds you will benefit from your boss Mercury going forwards along with higher energy. However, it's not a time to get in any discussions about future situations. If you push too hard your overall health will suffer.

LIBRA: Your plans may not go as planned, however it is true that everything happens for a reason. With this in mind expect something from your past to come forward for the better - possibly! Your lovely boss Venus in Aquarius is on your side.

SCORPIO: There are some things you know and some things you just suspect. Either way you will find out. If you listen to that inner voice you are one of the most intuitive signs and in the next few weeks ahead with Jupiter assisting, you should be ready for empowering changes.

SAGITTARIUS: We all deserve the finer things in life, although it's not always possible to indulge yourself. This week ahead at least treat yourself as though you do. Jupiter is in your money house now so expect good outcomes as his legacy.

CAPRICORN: You may currently be dealing with family situations, however lucky Jupiter in your life now will help. While you could be in a reflective mood this will pass in a few days. Stay away from those who could upset you - it's up to you. Happy Birthday!

AQUARIUS: If you refuse to acknowledge something it does not mean it will disappear! It will probably not be as bad as you think. Instead take the bull by the horns and get going on sorting out the problem. Doing a good turn for others will help you and them.

PISCES: If you don't keep up with the times they move on and that is not a good idea for your life overall. You have the power this week to transform something into a positive outcome for all. Jupiter will be looking for good results for you.

Midge Ure Q&A: From Vienna To L.A.

By Sandro Monetti

Singer-songwriter Midge Ure – best known for his string of hits with Ultravox and for co-writing the landmark Band Aid single Do They Know It's Christmas - will be back in the Southland next month playing The Coach House in San Juan Capistrano on January 17.

Touring in support of his new career retrospective album, Soundtrack 1979-2019, featuring smashes like Vienna and Dancing With Tears in My Eyes, the Scottish pop veteran's show will be called Questions and Answers because he'll be answering fan questions as well as taking requests. In advance of the show, Midge agreed to answer these 15 questions from one of his biggest fans, me...

What have the people and places of the Los Angeles area meant to you over the course of your career?

I have spent quite a bit of time in LA over the years. My first time in 1980 I thought it hysterical that 'new wave punks' were turning up to the clubs we were playing in their muscle cars wearing T shirts with safety pins through them. It was bizarre. I grew to love the place, especially the Tropicana Motel with its black swimming pool... what a place!

When you performed in Los Angeles in 2018 you joked on stage about how long it was taking you to come up with material for a new album. How is that effort going?

I have a wealth of unfinished material which I need to focus on and finish. I am my own worst critic and have to live with new music for quite a while before I release it. All in all it's going well.

What can the audience expect from your January show at the Coach House?

The entire event is driven by the audience. I will have a handful of songs I know I want to play but depending on the questions the audience ask that will guide what is performed and how the evening will unfold. Very scary!

What is the question you are asked most often by fans?

From the Brits it's usually about Joe Dolce and the comedy record which kept Ultravox's Vienna off the number one slot...or Band Aid/Live Aid.

Why did you turn down the chance to become lead singer of The Sex Pistols? Malcom McLaren never asked nor seemed to care what I played or if I could sing...I politely declined!

What are your memories of working with Beatles producer George Martin on Ultravox album Quartet?

George was a wonderful man, a brilliant musical mind and great raconteur. He could command respect from everyone he met and could also recount amazing stories about a variety of incidents from his career. The fact that he chose Bernard Cribbins to perform 'Digging a hole' at his own memorial sums the man up.

What's your favorite Christmas song other than Do They Know It's Christmas, and why?

Too many to list but 'Have yourself a Merry Little Christmas' by Judy Garland or 'Little Drummer Boy' by Bowie and Bing are way up there.

How much truth is there to the rumor that you wrote Do They Know It's Christmas in 15 minutes? If that's wrong, how did you and Bob Geldof write it?

I wrote the theme on a toy synth on my kitchen table in about 15 minutes and Bob arrived with the lyrics scribbled on a scrap of paper then proceeded to sing a different melody to different chords with different lyrics every time he played it for me... there is a moment on the 'making of video' where Bob is trying to teach Paul Weller the song and it bears no resemblance to the finished tune!

How well do you get along with Bob Geldof these days?
Extremely well...we always have despite the press rumours.

When you wrote Dancing With Tears in My Eyes did you think the world was going to be destroyed by nuclear war?

Still do!

Each night you sing Vienna on stage, how does it make you feel?

I have to keep challenging myself to alter the arrangement of it to stop it becoming the audio version of 'painting by numbers' and that seems to keep it fresh.

What position do you take on Brexit and/or Scottish independence?

I am a strict remainer. I have traveled Europe extensively and see the huge benefits young people will get from doing the same. Problems should be tackled from inside an institution not from isolating from it. I don't feel I have a say in the

ROCK OF AGES: Midge Ure

Scottish situation as I haven't lived there since 1977.

who dreamed of having the career I got.

Of all the honours you have received in your career, which one means the most to you?

The OBE for services not just to charity but to music. The music bit is really important to not just me now but the very young me

What would it surprise people most to know about you?
I have a slightly higher i.q. than normal...it surprised me!

What are your hopes for 2020?
To continue waking up.....

Thank you!

James Corden: keeping busy and staying grateful

JOHN HISCOCK meets the Late Late Show host, who is enjoying a 'glorious ride' with his TV talk show and a thriving acting career

When James Corden headed to America to take up his new job as host of the Late Late Show his friends warned him it would put an end to his thriving acting career.

"They said, 'Well, that's it. You'll be done as an actor,'" recalls James, who had starred in the TV series Fat Friends, Gavin and Stacey, The Wrong Mans and appeared on stage in The History Boys, One Man, Two Guvnors and co-starred in several movies.

"They said I wouldn't be able to act in anything anymore, but I thought that if I could build a different talk show as a performer and not as a broadcaster, I would have a chance."

And that is exactly what he did. His Carpool Karaoke, in which he drives around Los Angeles with a celebrity while singing pop songs, has made him a star around the world and led to roles in a string of Hollywood movies.

His breakneck schedule sees him working seven days a week on a variety of projects, including his nightly talk show. Since moving to America, he has appeared in Into the Woods, Ocean's Eight, Cats, Peter Rabbit, hosted the Grammys twice and is currently filming the musical comedy Prom with Nicole Kidman and Meryl Streep, in which he plays an American for the first time.

'very, very grateful'

"It was inconceivable to me that it would be so sort of - easy is the wrong word - but that it wouldn't be an issue," he says of his U.S. acting career so far. "But I'm very, very grateful that it isn't."

"This is an absolute picnic of an existence and I am painfully aware that this won't always be my life. It just won't be, it can't be. So, the worst thing that could happen is that I will look back on this phase of my life and think 'Oh, I wish I had enjoyed it more.'"

We are talking at the Four Seasons Hotel in Beverly Hills during a brief break in James's working day. He had come straight from rehearsing a dance number with Nicole Kidman for The Prom and was going on to a creative conference to discuss future Late Late Shows before filming that night's program with Jamie Lee Curtis. He is also promoting the movie musical Cats in which he plays Bustopher Jones, alongside a starry cast.

"When I look at the names in the cast I think this is ridiculous! It's even more ridiculous when you are with all these people and everyone is pretending to be a cat," he laughs. "We had one day, which was me, Taylor Swift, Rebel Wilson, Idris Elba, Sir Ian McKellen, and Judi Dench, all shooting a scene together. Now, that in itself is quite extraordinary. Then when you add the layer of everybody pretending to be a cat, you really can't help but feel you're on some kind of hallucinogenic."

On Gavin and Stacey

He will be on British television at Christmas in the Gavin and Stacey Christmas special, which he has written with his co-writer and co-star Ruth Jones.

"We always talked about maybe doing a special for Christmas one year and then we decided, 'Well, let's just kind of hunker down and do it and see if there's a story there.' And then after a few arduous weeks of writing it while I was doing the Late Late Show we came up with what we thought was a good story and we were taken aback by the reaction to it. When we announced that we were going to do it, I remember my dad calling me and going 'Mate it's on the news,' which is bizarre to me that bringing back a comedy show on the BBC would be on the news, but we are immensely proud of it. I really hope that people like it on Christmas Day because we really gave it everything.

"This is an absolute picnic of an existence and I am painfully aware that this won't always be my life. - James Corden

"The show will be almost exactly ten years on from where we last saw them and there are a few surprises in there that I think people will like."

Cheerful and friendly, he is bubbling with enthusiasm when he talks about his life today. "It's been the most glorious ride," he says. "I couldn't ever have predicted that it would feel like this. We have been on the air for four years, we are the fastest growing linear show in the history of YouTube, we have the four most viewed clips in the history of late night television and we have won nine Emmys in four years - it's been an absurd run."

"If I could go back and tell my 12-year-old self that this would be my life, his head would explode."

As for the Hammers...

He is just as enthusiastic but not so optimistic when talking about West Ham, the football team he supports and has followed all his life.

Because of the time difference he gets up at 4am on Saturdays to watch when the West Ham game is on television. Otherwise he's tuned in at 7am. "We usually get beaten but I'm used to it," he tells me.

"It's hard to talk about football without talking about West Ham for me. But I am a big sports fan and I will watch anything; I'll even watch curling for a day. All of it matters to me. Baseball is the only one I can't get into because I feel like I am watching a group of people I don't know having a picnic. But everything else, I am all into, win, lose or draw."

"Me and my friends used to say, 'Win or lose, we're on the booze.'" news conference to Friday.

Ljungberg was set to face the media ahead of Saturday's trip to Everton - by which time Arsenal hope to have former club captain Arteta in place.

Sky in Italy reported that Arteta told City's board that he wants to leave to become the Gunners' head coach, but he did travel with his current employers to Oxford for Wednesday's Carabao Cup quarter-final to take his place on the bench alongside Pep Guardiola, before saying his farewells to staff at Manchester City on Thursday morning.

There has been annoyance at City over Arsenal's conduct but they will not stop Arteta, 37, succeeding Unai Emery.

Interim boss Freddie Ljungberg is expected to take charge of the team for the final time at Goodison Park on Saturday, with Arteta watching from the stands.

Firmino late show edges Reds into final

■ Klopp's men overcome jitters to book final date with Flamengo

Roberto Firmino scored a dramatic injury-time winner - five minutes after coming on as a substitute - to give Liverpool victory over Mexican side Monterrey on Wednesday and book their place in the Fifa Club World Cup final.

The Brazilian striker, who replaced Divock Origi in the 85th minute, poked in fellow substitute Trent Alexander-Arnold's cross from close range in Doha.

Liverpool's Naby Keita had opened the scoring in the first half after an excellent Mohamed Salah through ball before Rogelio Funes Mori equalised.

The Reds will take on Brazil's Flamengo in Saturday's final (17:30 GMT kick-off).

Manager Jurgen Klopp, who flew to Qatar with the first-team squad while under-23s boss Neil Critchley took charge of the Liverpool's Carabao Cup quarter-final defeat by Aston Villa on Tuesday evening, named a makeshift starting XI due to injuries and illness in defence.

As a result, Liverpool looked vulnerable at

NOT AMUSED: Jurgen Klopp reacts to Monterrey manager Antonio Mohamed's attempts to get a Liverpool player carded in Wednesday's Club World Cup semi final in Doha

the back end, despite taking the lead early on, could have fallen behind after chances fell to Monterrey's Dorlan Pabon, Funes Mori and Jesus Gallardo either side of the break.

Keita also had more chances to score and was denied twice in the second half by keeper Marcelo Barovero.

Funes Mori - the twin brother of former Everton defender Ramiro - shocked Liverpool fans when he pounced on a rebound to equalise three minutes later but the Premier League leaders were persistent, as they have been so often this season.

Salah kept the ball in play before teeing up Alexander-Arnold, who slid a cross behind the defence for Firmino to poke home, meaning Liverpool avoided extra time and a potential upset in Doha.

Such is the extent of Liverpool's injury list that Jordan Henderson trained in the centre-back position in Qatar and switched from his normal midfield role to play the full 90 minutes there against Monterrey.

Fellow midfielder James Milner also started at right-back as Klopp opted to leave Alexander-Arnold on the bench, while defensive talisman Virgil van Dijk - who has started every Champions League and Premier League game for Liverpool this season - was ruled out through illness.

Centre-backs Joel Matip and Dejan Lovren are also out through injury, as well as defensive midfielder Fabinho, who is not expected to return until the new year.

So it was no surprise Liverpool's back four were tested - Pabon got the better of Henderson on several occasions and Milner was caught napping at the back post when Rodolfo Pizarro almost got a touch on the ball in the second half.

Monterrey had 16 shots in total, including eight on target, and there was a moment of relief when Joe Gomez - Liverpool's only recognised centre-back in the squad - was only shown a yellow card for stopping a dangerous counter-attack.

In the end, Klopp was forced to bring on regular first-teamers Sadio Mane, Firmino and Alexander-Arnold and but was rewarded as his side eventually got the job done.

With Liverpool playing nine games in December, it was crucial Liverpool avoided extra time and they now have the chance to win their second trophy this season in Saturday's final.

Carabao Cup: Foxes edge Everton on penalties as United cruise

Leicester City survived a second-half Everton comeback Wednesday night to win 4-2 on penalties after a 2-2 draw and set up a Carabao Cup semi-final with Aston Villa.

The Foxes had raced ahead with two goals in three first-half minutes from James Maddison and Jonny Evans.

But Tom Davies got Everton back into it with a volley before Leighton Baines' strike meant a shootout was needed.

Kasper Schmeichel made two saves before Jamie Vardy converted the decisive penalty to send Leicester through.

Victory means the Foxes have reached the League Cup semi-finals for the first time since the 1999-2000 campaign, when they went on to win the trophy.

Leicester will host Aston Villa in the first leg of the semi-final in the week commencing 6 January.

It was a dramatic end to a game that Leicester had looked unlikely to lose for an hour, with the Foxes comfortable at 2-0 up.

The win will have come as a relief for boss Brendan Rodgers, whose team selection suggested he sees this competition as a realistic route to a trophy, despite his side sitting second in the Premier League.

Rodgers made just three changes for the game, despite upcoming league fixtures against Manchester City and leaders Liverpool, and the Foxes came flying out of the traps as they attacked with pace and precision.

Everton's two second-half goals would, on the face of it, suggest a worrying capitulation, particularly after Leicester were held by Norwich at the weekend.

In the end they got the job done with the reliable Vardy coolly despatching his penalty to put Leicester into the last four.

Five-time winners Manchester United set up a Carabao Cup semi-final meeting with city rivals Manchester City after eventually cruising past League Two side Colchester United.

Ole Gunnar Solskjaer's side reached the last four of the competition for the first time since 2017, when they went on to lift the trophy, and progressed by scoring three goals in the space of 10 minutes.

Marcus Rashford wasted numerous chances in a frustrating first-half but brilliantly broke the deadlock early in the second period by cutting in from the left and lashing home.

England international Rashford turned provider for the home side's third which was converted by Anthony Martial, in between Ryan Jackson's own goal.

Ancelotti in at Toffees

■ Coup for Everton as they secure services of multiple trophy-winning Italian manager

Carlo Ancelotti will be in the stands for Everton's clash with Arsenal on Saturday and will start his new role as manager on Monday.

The club confirmed on Thursday that caretaker-manager Duncan Ferguson will be in charge for the game at Goodison Park.

Ancelotti's lawyers were at former club Napoli on Thursday to finalise pay-off terms.

The Toffees' ownership held talks with Ancelotti on Monday in London's Mayfair, where majority shareholder Farhad Moshiri has a house, and the move would go down as the biggest managerial appointment in the club's history, as well as a massive show of ambition.

Moshiri considered a number of options ranging from Vitor Pereira to former manager David Moyes and Bournemouth's Eddie Howe.

But appointing Ancelotti, a three-time Champions League winner, is something Moshiri viewed as a game-changer and the Italian will be rewarded with a long-term contract.

Ancelotti will have his son, Davide, as his assistant on the coaching staff and there will also be a place for Ferguson. The Scot was placed in charge in a caretaker capacity after Marco Silva's sacking on December 5

Everton moved swiftly after Ancelotti, who is one of the most successful coaches in the modern game, was dismissed by Napoli despite guiding them into the tournament's knockout phase.

And now, barring any late hitches, it looks like Ancelotti will become the world-class manager Moshiri has desired since his arrival at Everton in February 2016.

Ferguson has picked up four points from his two Premier League games - a 3-1 home win against Chelsea and a 1-1 draw at Manchester United - and also guided Everton to a 2-2 draw against Leicester in the quarter-finals of the Carabao Cup on Wednesday, although the Foxes won on a penalty shootout to reach the semi-finals.

An Everton club statement, which confirmed Ferguson would be in charge

PEDIGREE: Ancelotti has won the Champions League three times against Arsenal, said he assisted by coaches Jeffers, and goalkeeping the Scot would again John Ebbrell and Francis coach Alan Kelly.

Arteta named new Gunners coach

Mikel Arteta has a broad agreement to become the new Arsenal head coach.

At press time the parties had agreed to a deal but were hammering out final details regarding Manchester City's compensation demands.

Negotiations were ongoing between the two clubs, with City understood to be in no mood for compromise with their Arsenal counterparts as they look to recoup £2m for their assistant manager.

Despite three weeks of speculation linking Arteta with a move to north London, no discussions took place between the two parties when City played at the Emirates last Sunday.

However, Arsenal managing director Vinai Venkatesham and club lawyer Huss Fahmy were City are resigned to losing Arteta and will not stand in his way, but are expected to be less than flexible when it comes to both the amount of compensation and the payment schedules agreed with Arsenal.

The Gunners fuelled speculation Arteta's appointment could be imminent on Thursday after postponing interim boss Freddie Ljungberg's
