Business boom for Brexit Britain?

■ UK economy set to power ahead over next decade, claims influential new report

BORIS Johnson's Brexit Britain will be among the world's leading powerhouse economies throughout the next decade, a major report predicted this week.

The nation's financial, manufacturing and service sectors are so strong that the UK will stay near the top of the international economic league table and dwarf economy. France's The upbeat picture of Britain's future outside the EU comes as the Prime Minister looks to tie up a host of lucrative trade deals after the UK leaves on January 31.

trade deal

Top of the list is a pound multi-trillion super-trade deal with the United States. Mr Johnson and US President Donald Trump are expected to meet within weeks to strike the much-vaunted pact. And as wealth floods in from a massive trade deal with America, the Prime Minister can look forward to spearheading the nation's economy throughout what some have already dubbed the "Roaring Twenties".

The latest data from the influential Centre for Economic and Business (CEBR) Research suggests that despite the uncertainty over Brexit, the French economy failed to overtake the UK economy in 2016-19. It now expects that by 2034 the British economy will be a quarter larger than France's. The details are set out in the CEBR's latest update of the annual World Economic League Table (WELT).

The US tops the table, with Britain coming sixth. Others in the top 10 are China (2), Japan (3), Germany (4), India (5), France (7), Italy (8), Brazil (9) and Canada

'euphoria'

Britain also negotiating its future trading relationship with the EU. Mr Johnson has vowed this will be sewn up by the end of next year. Deals with Australia, Japan and Norway, among others, are also expected to flood in once Britain is free from the uncertainty of Brexit. The CEBR notes this month's decisive election result highlights the need for the Government to "sort out the country's future trading relationships".

'inward investment'

The report "Despite fluctuations around inventories as various deadlines for leaving the EU came and went, UK growth continued during 2019 at close to trend rate.

"The euphoria associated with ending the Brexit paralysis and the decisive defeat of a hard-left Labour Party in the December 2019 election could revive inward investment in 2020."

The CEBR expects Britain's economy to grow annually by 1.9 per cent between now and 2024 and by 1.5 per cent each year between 2024 and 2034. But these figures do not include trade deals which could boost the economy further. CEBR deputy chairman Douglas McWilliams said: "The World Economic League Table 2020 tracks relative economic progress.

"The biggest surprise is how well the US economy has managed to do, reaching its highest share of world GDP for 12 years.

"Though our view is that it has reached its high watermark."

Grateful Boris turns his eyes to the North

■ Large public spending boost expected

The Treasury reportedly planning to rewrite rules governing public spending in a move that may benefit areas in the Midlands and North of England.

The changes, reported by the Times, would make it easier for cash to be allocated to projects outside of London and the South East.

could boost investment in infrastructure, business development projects and schemes like free ports.

The Treasury has not denied the reports.

Current rules require government to allocate cash to projects that promise the biggest economic benefits.

Those projects tend to have most impact in areas with more people and businesses.

But under the new plans. reported on Friday, investment would be decisions made with a focus on reducing inequality between northern and southern England, rather than promoting overall economic across is country.

It will affect decisions made about projects ranging from improvements investment in scientific research.

"A big project in the North will often be stimulating growth, which wouldn't otherwise happen," said Henri Murison from the Northern Powerhouse Partnership, which speaks for business and civic leaders across northern England.

But, in the South, that investment will help a regional economy that is already expected to grow significantly, he told the BBC.

"If the UK is going to succeed post-Brexit, we need to get comparable levels of growth in the North and in the Midlands," he said.

'No evidence' But Tom Forth from the Open Data Institute Leeds said the rules on value for money were not to blame for regional spending disparities.

"For as long as we have records, far more UK government money has been invested in public transport in south-east England than in the cities of north England and the Midlands," he said.

"There is no evidence that this was because investing in London offered better value for money.

"The rules say the Treasury should invest with preference to schemes with higher value for money.

"But there is no evidence that it has done that."

Treasury spokesperson said: "We work across government to ensure investment is focused on where it is needed across the UK and delivers value for money for the taxpayer."

After his election victory, Boris Johnson thanked voters in northern England for "breaking the voting habits of generations" and placing their trust in the Conservatives.

"Everything that we do, everything that I do as your prime minister, will be devoted to repaying that trust," Mr Johnson said.

It was a very bumpy year, admits Queen

■ In annual Christmas message, monarch stresses reconciliation and need for 'small steps'

THE Queen has spoken publicly for the first time about the Royal Family's "bumpy" year. In her Christmas Day message, she admits 2019 has not been a vintage year for them – or the UK.

The monarch, who has repeatedly tried to heal divisions within the royals and the nation, describes "how small steps taken in faith and in hope can overcome long-held differences to bring harmony and understanding".

In the message, which aired on Christmas Day, Her Majesty, 93, added: "The path, of course, is not always smooth, and may at times this year have felt quite bumpy, but small steps can make a world of difference."

Wearing a cashmere dress by her favourite designer Angela Kelly, the Queen sat at a desk in front of a large Christmas tree, at Windsor Castle, surrounded by photos of her family. She also chose to wear a sapphire and diamond brooch to mark the 200th anniversary of Prince Albert's birth. The Prince Consort gave the bejewelled pin to Queen Victoria on the day before their wedding in E m p h a s i z i n g her message of reconciliation, the monarch recalled that in June, the UK hosted an international event in Portsmouth to mark the 75th anniversary of D-Day. It was attended by world leaders including US President Donald Trump, Canada's Prime Minister Justin Trudeau, German Chancellor Angela Merkel and French President Emmanuel Macron.

peacemaker

The Queen commented: "For the 75th anniversary of that decisive battle, in a true spirit of reconciliation, those who had formerly been sworn enemies came together in friendly commemorations either side of the Channel, putting past differences behind them."

"The path, of course, is not always smooth, and may at times this year have felt quite bumpy..." - The Queen delivered her address from Windsor Castle

The Queen has spent the past few years urging people with opposing views to find a compromise on Brexit. Friends have also said that within her family, she has tried to act as a peacemaker – despite facing some difficult decisions. Last month, she was forced to ask Prince Andrew to step back from public life after a disastrous TV interview about his friendship with paedophile Jeffrey Epstein. She also had to deal with trouble behind the scenes after the Duke and Duchess of Sussex publicly admitted they were struggling in the public eye. The Daily Express revealed in November that the Queen had tried to help the couple, and regularly visits their home when she is staying at Windsor. But sources have claimed Her Majesty has been disappointed by the approach of the Sussexes to their royal duties.

The Queen has also had to face her own controversies this year. In September, she was dragged into a constitutional crisis after approving unlawful suspension of Parliament amid an increasingly toxic national debate over Brexit. The events of this year have prompted comparisons with 1997, when Princess Diana died and the monarchy's popularity plunged. However, it has not come close to the Queen's "annus horribilis" of 1992, when three of her children's marriages collapsed and Windsor Castle went up in flames. She is said to have missed having the Duke of Edinburgh by her side to offer advice for much of this tumultuous year.

At press time Philip, 98, was still hospitalized after undergoing treatment for an undisclosed condition. He officially retired in August 2017. The Christmas Day message – introduced by the Queen's grandfather George V in 1932 – was produced by the BBC.

Charlotte goes walkabout for first time

PRINCESS Charlotte and Prince George made their royal walkabout debut on Wednesday when they attended the Christmas Day church service at Sandringham for the first time.

It was a rite of passage for the six year-old future King and his four-year old sister, who walked the few hundred yards from Sandringham House to St Mary Magdalene Church with their parents William and Kate. On the way back from the church service the royal children, who are third and fourth in line to the throne, delighted the 2,000-strong crowd by hugging well-wishers. They also accepted a gift, and chatting to them with their parents. In an outfit colour co-ordinated with her mother's, Charlotte charmed onlookers when she attempted a curtsey for the Queen. Apart from one-year-old Prince Louis, who remained at home with staff, the one notable royal absence was Prince Andrew who stayed away from the 11am service, choosing to remain with his father Prince Philip. The 98-year-old Duke left hospital in London on Christmas Eve after four days of treatment for an undisclosed condition.

Andrew instead went to a private 9am service Christmas Day before the public were allowed near the church. Andrew walked alongside his brother Prince Charles, who joined with the Queen to force him to stand down last month. His absence later ensured the focus was firmly on George and Charlotte, who were on their best behaviour. There was one slight hiccup when Charlotte proved reluctant to accept help from an aide offering to take flowers off her so that she could be given more presents by well-wishers. The little Princess grimaced and refused to hand them over. In the bright winter sunshine, she and George made the day of one fan, Gemma Clark, who got a hug from both children.

Gemma, 39, who has cerebral palsy and was in a wheelchair, had travelled from Long Sutton in Lincolnshire with her family. She said: "It was amazing. I've been waiting for this day for a long time. I've never seen the Royal Family before."

Family in Costa del Sol pool tragedy 'could not swim'

■ Father and two children drown on Christmas Eve

A British father and his two children who drowned in a pool at a Costa del Sol resort on Christmas Eve could not swim, relatives have told investigators.

Gabriel Diya, 52, and his son Praise-Emmanuel, 16, died in 6ft 6in of water while attempting to save Comfort, nine, after she got into difficulty in the deep end of the resort pool.

Mr Diya's wife Olubunmi, 49, and their eldest daughter, Favour, 14, told police that only Comfort had "some idea" how to swim, according to local reports.

tragic accident

P o s t - m o r t e m examinations found that all three had drowned and pathologists said there was no evidence of poisoning or any sign of external injuries.

Mr Diya, from Charlton, southeast London, was a pentecostal preacher, as is his wife.

A statement released by the Spanish Civil Guard, who are leading the investigation, said their initial findings indicated that the deaths were a tragic accident.

The Diya family were the only witnesses to what happened at Club La Costa World, near Fuengirola, and mother and daughter told investigators that the three children were all in the shallow end of the pool while the parents were sunbathing.

unresponsive

It is believed that Comfort, who had had swimming lessons but only in shallow water, slipped and got out of her depth.

Favour told police that she tried to find a lifebuoy while her brother went to Comfort's aid and also got into difficulty.

Her father then stripped off and jumped in, the Spanish newspaper Diario Sur reported, despite being unable to swim.

All three were pulled from the water unresponsive and attempts to revive them were unsuccessful.

Holidaymakers said that Mrs Diya was praying as her husband and two children received CPR at the poolside.

The police have tested all of the pool's operating equipment, including its motors, and found no anomalies. They did recover a bathing cap belonging to Comfort from the bottom of the pool.

A police source told the Spanish daily newspaper El Pais: "Investigators have been told the three relatives didn't know how to swim or didn't swim very well.

"The information that's now coming from the family goes a long way to explaining this mystery because if you've got three people in a pool who can't swim or can't swim very well, it's very easy to imagine

Gabriel Diya and his wife, Olubunmi. He drowned in 6ft 6in of water trying to save his son and daughter a situation in which one pulls the other down and they all drown."

Relatives have flown out to be with Mrs Diya and Favour.

'devoted' family man Mr Diya was a pastor for the Redeemed Christian Church of God, a Nigerian pentecostal church which has more than 800 places of worship in Britain.

He led the Open Heavens London church in Charlton, where his wife is an assistant pastor.

Lara Akins, 59, a neighbour of the couple, said that Mr Diya was a "devoted" family man.

"The kids are lovely and used to call me grandma," she said. "Everyone around here knew them because they were such a nice family."

Dot Greenwood, 66, said: "Mrs Diya is a lovely lady. Once when I was unwell she came and helped me with my shopping and left her number offering to help anytime.

"I thought she was a nurse because she was so caring, but she said she wasn't."

Jo Marchant, the headteacher of Comfort's school, Windrush primary in Charlton, paid trubute to her on the school website.

"Comfort was the most wonderfully kind, thoughtful caring pupil who was a role model for her peers; she will be greatly missed by the whole school community, adults and children alike," she said

RSPCA investigates after London lawyer kills a fox

■ Jolyon Maugham tweeted image of himself brandishing with a baseball bat while wearing a kimono.

SPCA investigators have taken photographs in the garden of a London lawyer who posted an image of himself after he clubbed a fox to death with a baseball bat while wearing a kimono.

The investigators visited the home of Jolyon Maugham on Thursday night as the debate continued over the Remain supporter's justification for his actions, which he revealed in a Boxing Day tweet that received 10,500 replies and widespread media coverage.

Animal welfare workers expressed sadness at Maugham's killing of the fox, which they said was needless.

"It is absolutely shocking that this wild animal was condemned to such a brutal death," said Isobel Hutchinson, the director of Animal Aid. "It is deeply saddening that anyone should react in this way when coming face to face with a wild animal."

According to tweets and interviews, Maugham woke up on Thursday morning to the sound of a commotion in his back garden. Still nursing a hangover, he pulled on the first garment he could find – his wife's green satin kimono – armed himself with a baseball bat and walked out of the back door.

The fox was trapped in the netting surrounding Maugham's hen house. He has said his violent response was at least in part triggered by the grief of losing chickens to foxes in the past.

Maugham tweeted: "No one should relish killing animals – and I certainly didn't ... Many or most councils in London treat foxes as an urban pest. And at least one recommends clubbing them. To those concerned I have broken the law, I called and spoke to the RSPCA and left my contact details."

Terry Woods, a wildlife consultant with Fox-A-Gon, which helps individuals and businesses with humane fox deterrence, suggested Maugham may have committed an offence under the 1996 Wild Mammals (Protection) The law makes it an offence for anyone to mutilate, kick, beat, nail or otherwise impale, stab, burn, stone, crush, drown, drag or asphyxiate any wild mammal with intent to inflict unnecessary suffering.

George Michael's sister Melanie dies three years to the day after star's death

George Michael's sister died on Christmas Day, it has been announced, three years to the day after the singer passed away.

Melanie Panayiotou, 55, was found by her elder sister, Yioda, at her home in Hampstead, north London. Two days before her death the hairdresser had written in a message posted on Michael's website that her family were looking forward to "swerving the bad and enjoying the good as much as we can" in 2020.

Melanie and Yioda, their father, Jack, and David Austin, the singer's manager, wrote in their Christmas message that they had come to "fully appreciate" the love the public still felt for Michael and his music.

They wrote: "We know how much his lyrics can offer support when things are tough and help celebrate when times are good and life is going well . . . and that is just as powerful now as if he were still with us and as many of you say in your messages, it's a gift."

The singer, whose real name was Georgios Kyriacos Panayiotou, known to close relatives as Yog, rose to fame with Wham! and had a successful solo career but remained close to his family.

In 2006 he played a free concert for NHS nurses in north London to thank them after they cared for his mother.

Michael's estate was

split mostly between his sisters, and left out Fadi Fawaz, his romantic partner. He also left a significant amount to charity, including a piano formerly owned by John Lennon and worth £1.7 million.

Since his death, stories of his generosity have come to light, including an anonymous £15,000 donation to pay for a woman's IVF treatment.

In March 2017 the Oxfordshire coroner ruled that Michael died of heart disease and a damaged liver at the age of 53. A verdict of natural causes was recorded.

A spokesman for the Metropolitan Police confirmed Ms Panayiotou's death. He said: "The death is not being treated as suspicious. A report will be compiled for the coroner." The cause of death is not yet known.

The film Last Christmas, inspired by the Wham! song of the same name, was released last month. His family wrote: "The movie is going to be there to celebrate and remember Yog and his music well into the future."

Apple 'hacker' spared jail over iCloud blackmail

A 22-year-old man has admitted trying to blackmail Apple by claiming he had access to millions of iCloud accounts.

Kerem Albayrak from north London threatened to wipe 319 million accounts unless Apple gave him iTunes gift cards worth $100,000 (£76,000).

But an investigation found that Albayrak had not compromised Apple's systems.

He has been given a two year suspended jail sentence and ordered to do 300 hours of unpaid work.

In March 2017, Albayrak emailed Apple's security team, claiming to have breached millions of iCloud accounts.

He posted a video on YouTube that appeared to show him breaking in to two accounts.

He threatened to sell the account information, dump his database online and reset the accounts, unless Apple paid his iTunes gift card demand.

Albayrak also said he would accept $75,000 worth of crypto-currency, but later increased this to $100,000.

He was arrested at his home in north London about two weeks after sending his threat.

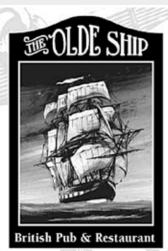

Apple investigated his claims but could not find evidence that its systems had been compromised.

Albayrak told investigators: "When you have power on the internet it's like fame and everyone respects you."

In addition to the 300 hours of unpaid work, he has been given a six month electronic curfew.

"Albayrak wrongly believed he could escape justice after hacking in to two accounts and attempting to blackmail a large multinational corporation," said Anna Smith, a senior investigative officer for the NCA.

WISHING ALL A HAPPY HEALTHY SPLENDID NEW YEAR IN 2020

ARIES: With the sun and moon all visiting your cousin, the earthy Capricorn there is a lot of powerful energy in and around your life now. While this can feel to some overwhelming, it is up to you to figure it all out. You have a golden opportunity to manifest much prosperity in the coming spring.

TAURUS: Your boss planet Venus in Aquarius could bring up powerful emotions in you and around you. With this knowledge be ready to take a deep breath if confronted with any negative feedback. This is your year, beginning March in several areas mostly for spreading your wings, career wise.

GEMINI: You are coming to the end of a months-long chapter which has felt like a roller-coaster. This coming birthday in 2020 ahead will bring resolutions and you will come to terms with a long time situation much to your benefit. Travel is highlighted starting February.

CANCER: You will gradually start to feel much more in control of your overall life this coming year with positive Jupiter in your opposite sign. It's time to let go of what you need to from the past. It's time to lighten up your feelings and you will feel mellow and ready for anything good. March looks good for romance.

LEO: You will be feeling better about family situations. You have had your share of problems this last year. This coming year will seem much easier as Spring comes around in all areas. You would be wise to keep a low profile until then.

VIRGO: Starting this February of the new year ahead you will not be lacking in motivation to complete or indeed start anything productive. This is a perfect time to get your new year resolutions written down. Early 2020 is for out with the old to make ready for what works best for you for the rest of the year.

LIBRA: Your boss Venus is visiting your area of communications. This can bring up long-standing unfinished situations and people from the past. This is the time to put anything not connected to career on the back burner. Between mid-February and May life will be moving forward on a positive path.

SCORPIO: You must be very happy in several areas to see the back of 2019. While you should look at the lessons you learnt it's not good to hold on to any negativity. With Uranus the planets of surprises in your opposite sign life is going to get more interesting so be ready and willing to make 2020 overall a memorable year.

SAGITTARIUS: You could be offered some new work or some other opportunity this coming month. Jupiter in your financial area all through 2020 means nothing can really stop you, only you! With this in mind you can bring any unfinished area to the fore to finally be resolved.

CAPRICORN: Foreign affairs and distant places are calling you. This is all well and good if you can afford to follow the call. If, like most of your sign, you currently are not able to for various reasons bear in mind that this is only on hold. Jupiter is finally in your life and will be especially good in Spring time. Happy Birthday!

AQUARIUS: You may be struggling with relationship problems with someone in your life. This is not as it appears to be. It is entirely possible you have not been privy to the whole picture. If you are ready to spread your wings in Spring, after your birthday would be the most productive.

PISCES: With Venus in your own sign in late January, it's time to learn to leave the past few weeks behind and with them any confusion. Now is the time to be seen out and about socially and not be a wallflower. Your health should always be a priority, so be sure to look after YOU for a change.

Revisiting DTLA: it's quite the foodie paradise

Now that Christmas is over for another year and LA is still somewhat of a ghost town, I urge you to go visit DTLA (Downtown LA).

Back in the year 2000 I used to live there at Fourth and Main. I guess you could say I was a pioneer. I lived in a gorgeous loft space with great views and was paying about $2000 a month. The trouble back then was it was an ivory tower. The streets were full of drug dealers, prostitutes and of course the homeless. Some might call it characterful. Friends didn't want to visit and I literally spent all my time in my car driving away from the place. There was no supermarket nearby, one coffee shop and a ton of police ready to give you jaywalking tickets. (Never mind the inplain-sight crimes going on around me). I lasted about 9 months. The nail in the coffin was once walking my dog at night among the used needles and empty miniature bottles. Some guy asked me for money, I didn't have any and he became aggressive. Pushing me and threatening to kill my dog the next time he sees me.

Now, depending upon who you ask DT has changed. Gentrified! I've been back a few times but to be honest it always brings back a knot in my stomach. Visibly yes it has changed. There's a Whole Foods and some great restaurants and bars now. But would I live there again? Probably not. Even though it's only 11 Miles from Hollywood on certain times it can still take you a good hour to get back and forth.

But visiting is a must. On Sundays I recommend visiting Grand Central Market - with over 30 vendors. and few lines. It's well worth it. From gourmet burgers, oysters, sushi, vegan ramen, and the best fried chicken (according to them) this side of Kentucky. This is a place you will want to take your foodie outof-town friends for sure. Note to all... go hungry and share with friends so you can taste it all.

Now let's go outside and further into the garment district you will find a market, and food market with some trinket stores - this is Smorgasburg! This event originated in Brooklyn's hip Williamsburg neighborhood, and is an amalgamation of food, drink, crafts and music. Apparently outdoor food market attracts 50,000 over people each weekend. There's live music, a DJ and a beer garden. But the food is the main draw. After stuffing ourselves rotten at Grand Central

SHRIMP ON PINEAPPLE? don't miss Shrimp Daddy!

Market, I definitely needed more. Shrimp Daddy came highly recommend and didn't disappoint- served in a half pineapple - I felt like I had died and gone to heaven. The garlic sauce was finger-licking good. The shrimp comes with the shell on and they encourage you to enjoy the crispy crunch, but I preferred to peel mine off. Next up was a slice of heaven from the incredible Urbn Pizza and then dessert. Being a little shy, we opted for French macaroons. But there's also ice cream, beignets, donuts, cake stores dotted all around.

I hope I got your taste buds moving.... if you are planning a fitness regime starting January 1st, get your stuffing in

Bon appetit! Craig

Brits in LA

Meet A Member: Sarah Maddocks

Meet Sarah Maddocks from Worthing, UK who moved to LA in 2019 to pursue acting.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

LA is the heart of the film and television industry and I have always dreamed of working as an actor in Hollywood - there is so much opportunity here. I have been to LA several times over the years and have always loved the sense of infectious positivity. The open space gives a sense of freedom and the variety of landscape that California has to offer is incredible. I am still amazed that in one day you can be on a beach in the hot sunshine and then later that same day, skiing up in the mountains! And of course the climate and vear-round sunshine is intoxicating. With my 01 Visa, this is the first time I have had the privilege of being able to live and work as an actor in the city I love.

What do you miss most from home?

I miss family and friends, but with Skype and WhatsApp, it's easy to stay in touch. I also miss London theatre. What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus UK?

The positivity and the potential. I find people in LA are generally happier and less judgemental than they are in the UK. Customer service is also much better here – they even pack your shopping bags for you! Also the weather – I love the sunshine and the fabulous sunsets. I prefer warmer climes with less rain.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

My first impression of LA was that anything is possible if you are creative, driven and hardworking. LA radiated positivity, vibrancy and opportunity from the moment I first visited and it still does. But it has become more expensive to live here.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

I was introduced to Miceli's, just off Hollywood Blvd, which is celebrating it's 70th Anniversary this year. It's a wonderful little oasis of authentic Italian cuisine right in the middle of Hollywood. I also love Canter's Deli which is even older – 88 years and still going strong!

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

I recommend visiting LA first as a tourist, if you haven't already been, so you get a general idea of what it's like here and start exploring possible areas to stay in. Make some local contacts – and join Brits in LA, if you haven't already! Then do lots of research, get legal advice and prepare your finances – LA is not a cheap place to live.

knockdowns by the American to earn a draw when they last met, in Los Angeles.

The Briton defeated Germany's Schwarz in June, but suffered a cut eye in beating Sweden's Wallin September, which led to concerns a rematch with Wilder could be delayed.

Fury has said he would "love" to take up an offer to spar before the fight with fellow Briton Anthony Joshua, who holds the other three world heavyweight belts - the IBF, WBO and WBA titles.

Joshua made the offer because he felt Fury would be more likely than Wilder to agree to meet him for a unification bout if he won the WBC belt.

No fighter has ever held all four major world titles in the heavyweight division.

struck in extra time to hand Liverpool a first Fifa Club World Cup triumph as Jurgen Klopp's side eventually ended the resistance of Brazilian champions Flamengo in Qatar on Saturday.

Firmino, who scored a dramatic injurytime winner against Monterrey to send Liverpool into the final, produced a composed finish in the 99th minute as the Reds became the second English side to win the tournament, after Manchester United in 2008.

In dramatic a conclusion to normal time, Liverpool had seen an injury-time penalty decision overturned after Sadio Mane went down under a challenge from Rafinha, referee Abdulrahman Al Jassim reversing his initial verdict after checking the pitchside monitor following a consultation with the video assistant referee.

BOXING/FOOTBALL

Brazil forward Firmino squandered the opportunity to put Liverpool ahead inside the opening minute at Khalifa International Stadium. blazing over the bar before Naby Keita and Trent Alexander-Arnold also spurned early chances as the Premier League leaders made a blistering start.

Firmino agonisingly hit the post and Mohamed Salah shot narrowly wide shortly after half-time, but Flamengo responded well to early pressure in both halves and posed Liverpool problems striker Gabriel Barbosa's attempted bicycle-kick typifying the Brazilian side's steadily growing confidence.

Liverpool suffered an injury blow as Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain appeared to fall awkwardly on his ankle, and with the prospect of extra time approaching Jordan Henderson's powerful, curled strike from the edge of the box was superbly tipped over by Flamengo goalkeeper Diego Alves.

Firmino's breakthrough in the first half of extra time delivered huge relief for Klopp's side, and while Salah was denied by Alves soon after, the Premier League side were able to see out the second period unharmed.

Mexican side Monterrey earlier defeated Saudi Arabia's Al Hilal 4-3 on penalties after a 2-2 draw to claim third place.

Another Test, another England batting collapse

FIRST TEST, Day Two: South Africa 284 (De Kock 95, Curran 4-58) & 72-4 (Archer 2-37) England 181 (Denly 50, Philander 4-16, Rabada 3-68) of winning this game.

An England batting collapse gave South Africa the upper hand in the first Test as 15 wickets fell on an entertaining second day in Centurion on Friday.

Having bowled South Africa out for 284, England lost their final seven wickets for just 39 runs as they were bowled out for 181, with the superb Vernon Philander taking 4-16.

South Africa were quickly reduced to 29-3 in their second innings and, although they lost Faf du Plessis late on, they ended on 72-4, a lead of 175.

England m a y have already have squandered their chance Batting collapses have been a feature of England's Test cricket in England's Test cricket in the past two years but, having limited South Africa to 284, the tourists would have been hopeful of building a first-innings lead.

There was some uneven bounce on the pitch but England fell to some poor shots, poor technique and the unerring accuracy of Philander.

Having lost openers Rory Burns and Dom Sibley cheaply, both caught behind off deliveries that bounced, Joe Denly led the way for England with a painstaking half-century. At 142-3, with Denly and Ben Stokes sharing a 72-run partnership, England were well set. But Denly's dismissal, caught behind off an inside edge off debutant Dwaine Pretorius, seemed to break the tourists' concentration.

Jonny Bairstow, recalled because of illness in the squad, was bowled playing back to one from Anrich Nortje that kept low, while Stokes was furious after he drove at the same bowler and was caught behind.

Jos Buttler and Sam Curran shepherded England to tea but a cheap ending always felt inevitable. Curran flicked Kagiso Rabada to short leg, where he fell to a low catch by Zubayr Hamza, Buttler was caught behind off a rising Rabada delivery and Stuart Broad was bounced out.

When Jofra Archer fell, bowled by Philander, England had lost their final seven wickets in 94 balls and had given their bowlers just 53.2 overs of respite after a sweltering opening day.

Both Archer and Broad struggled with illness in the build-up to this Test, while James Anderson is still finding his rhythm after four months out with a calf injury.

Their rustiness showed in the first innings but they bowled with better length and discipline, with Anderson striking in the first over to trap Aiden Markram lbw.

Broad and Archer were more fortuitous, with Broad having Hamza caught down the leg side, before Du Plessis hooked Archer to deep backward square-leg.

It was a good response from England, but they have had to rely on their bowlers to cover up for their batsmen's deficiencies all too often.

Jose calls on fans for help in racism fight

JOSE MOURINHO has urged Tottenham fans to expose the racists who are tarnishing the club's Mourinho was speaking as Spurs continued their investigation into Antonio Rudiger's allegation that monkey gestures were directed at him during the recent 2-0 defeat by Chelsea.

Referee Anthony Taylor interviewed both Blues defender Rudiger and captain Cesar Azpilicueta after the match while Spurs have been scouring CCTV footage in a bid to find the offenders.

It comes just over a year after one of the club's fans threw a banana skin at Arsenal striker Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang during the north London derby.

Spurs expect complete their current investigation swiftly but Mourinho has called on fans to be vigilant to ensure there are no further breaches.

Speaking ahead of the Boxing Day game against Brighton, the Spurs boss said: "For me, if I have to say something it is to ask my supporters, the Tottenham supporters, to keep doing exactly the same that they are doing with the team, which is supporting the team in a season that has not been easy at all - since the beginning of the season it has been difficult.

"To ask them to be exactly the same and obviously to look to the guy to the left and look to the guy to the right, and listen to the guy behind me and listen to the guy in front, and if anyone has any little manifestation, to try and get in there between them to kill it immediately. That's the only thing I can ask for."

Sunday's game was stopped by Taylor and three announcements were made over the public address system in line with UEFA's threestep protocol.

Mourinho went on: "Society needs help. Then football is a micro-society.

"Do we need help? Yes, but society needs help.

"We need eradicate any form of discrimination. In this case we are speaking about racism and, yes, football needs help but society needs help.

"It has happened before. And what I fear is that it is going to happen again in the future."

I'll only come on permanent basis, Moyes tells Hammers

David Moyes will only consider returning to West Ham United if he is offered the manager's job on a permanent basis.

According to sources, concern over the team's performances under Manuel Pellegrini has prompted the hierarchy at the club to make contact with the 56-yearold Scot.

But Moyes has no interest in another shortterm deal, having taken the job in November 2017 and kept them in the Premier League only for West Ham not to extend his contract beyond the end of that season.

Moyes was dismayed by that decision, given the job he did for the London club. They were in the relegation zone when he took charge but the former Everton manager secured their top-flight status with two games to spare after a 2-0 win away to Leicester City.

West Ham's owners David Sullivan and David Gold chose instead to appoint Pellegrini, but 19 months on and the 66-year-old Chilean is now facing the sack after a Boxing Day defeat by Crystal Palace left his side in 17th place and just one point clear of the bottom three.

A final decision on his future is likely to be based on the outcome of the next two games. West Ham meet Leicester City at the London Stadium this weekend before a trip to Bournemouth next Wednesday.

But the fact that Sullivan and Gold are even thinking in those terms suggests a change is imminent.

If the terms are right, it is expected that Moyes would agree to go back to West Ham. He has not worked in management since leaving the London Stadium in May 2018 and would be keen on a return to the Premier League. This month it seemed that he was poised for a second stint at Everton, only for Farhad Moshiri to appoint Carlo Ancelotti despite telling Moyes the job was his.

At West Ham Moves enjoyed a successful partnership with Stuart Pearce and it is likely the former England full back, who enjoyed two successful seasons as a player at Upton Park, would again be assistant manager should they both now return to the club.

the Champions League qualification places.

In Thursday's early kick-off Harry Kane and Dele Alli scored as Tottenham recovered from going a goal behind to beat Brighton.

Adam Webster had put Graham Potter's side ahead at the interval but Spurs move up to fifth, three points behind fourth-placed Chelsea.

Meanwhile, Michael Obafemi's first Premier League goal in over a year set Southampton on their way to a surprise 2-0

Stamford Bridge.

Nathan Redmond sealed their victory, when he finished off a stunning team goal to help the Saints up to 14th in the table, the highest they have been since September.

Watford moved off the bottom of the Premier League table with a battling 1-1 draw at inform Sheffield United.

The Hornets went ahead in the first half through Gerard Deulofeu's breakaway goal, but Oliver Norwood's penalty pegged them back before the break.

Roy Hodgson's Crystal Palace condemned West Ham to their third win against Chelsea at Premier League defeat in four games thanks to Jordan Ayew's 90thminute winner at Selhurst

West Ham had taken the lead through Robert Snodgrass before Cheikhou Kouyate equalised against his former club, who are now a point above the bottom three.

Hourihane's Conor goal gave Aston Villa three precious points as they halted their fourmatch losing streak against fellow strugglers Norwich.

The result lifts Villa closer to safety and a point behind 17th-placed West Ham, while the Canaries slip to the foot of the table.

Martial brace as United batter Magpies

Anthony Martial scored twice as Manchester United came from behind to hammer Newcastle United and move four points off a Champions League place in the table.

Martial cancelled teenager Matty Longstaff's opener for Newcastle with a near post finish before a deflected shot from outside the penalty area by 18-year-old Mason Greenwood went in off the bar.

Rashford Marcus extended Manchester United's lead further with a header - his 11th Premier League goal of the season - before Martial added the fourth.

The France forward went close to becoming the first Manchester United player to score a Premier League hat-trick since 2013 when his low shot hit a post.

If Manchester United could extend their Boxing Day home record across the entire season, they wouldn't be experiencing the kind of drift that has affected them in the post-Sir Alex Ferguson era.

Their record since a 3-0 defeat by Liverpool on 26 December 1978 now reads an impressive 16 wins and three draws from 19

United have not had a Boxing Day win as big as this one since they put five past Wigan on 26 December 2011 - which, ironically, was the last day Newcastle won a Boxing Day away fixture, at Burnley.

Rising star Greenwood has scored eight goals in all competitions this season - the only teenager with more in Europe's big five leagues is Borussia Dortmund's England forward Jadon Sancho Manchester United manager Ole Gunnar Solskjaer said of his young charge: "We're not going to see the best of Mason [Greenwood] for a couple of years. He's learning, growing as a human being, he'll grow more and more.

"Marcus [Rashford] sprung on the scene the same age and you see more maturity in his game.

"You saw the intent straight away. Newcastle made mistakes but we made them make them by pressing and we made it hard for them."

REDS SIMPLY IMPERIOUS!

■ Klopp's world beaters brush aside Foxes to take iron grip on Premier League title race

Liverpool tightened their grip on the Premier League title race even further on Thursday as they produced a masterclass to overpower challengers nearest Leicester City at The King Power Stadium to extend their lead to an imposing 13 points.

Jurgen Klopp's side started the match 10 points clear of the Foxes with a game in hand - then produced a performance of such stature and dominance it is almost impossible to see how they will not claim their first title in 30 years.

Liverpool's slender half-time lead, courtesy of Roberto Firmino's header from a magnificent Trent Alexander-Arnold cross, did not reflect their superiority - but they turned this into a powerful statement victory after the break.

Leicester were enjoying their best spell when Caglar Soyuncu handled in the 71st minute, and substitute James Milner scored from the spot with his first touch seconds after coming on.

Liverpool added flourishes their magnificent display deserved when Alexander-Arnold up another for Firmino, who scored with a cool finish, before the England defender got his own reward with a thumping right-foot angled finish.

The leaders have now dropped only two points from their first 18 games and, having lost only one league game last season, it would take a collapse of unthinkable proportions from an outstanding team to cast this huge advantage aside.

From the first whistle, despite the flashlights pyrotechnics and designed to whip up the home support and team, Liverpool were in control. They could have scored twice inside the first minute through Alexander-Arnold Sadio Mane.

Leicester, suffering a dip in form, were pressed out of their stride relentlessly in a performance without a flaw from Liverpool.

Virgil van Dijk and Joe Gomez were imperious at the back, while full-backs Alexander-Arnold and Andrew Robertson posed a huge attacking threat while being assured at the Liverpool controlled possession and were always a danger in attack. Leicester may have been in this game until the last 20 minutes, but Klopp's men always had extra gears and went through them to produce a victory of champions.

Leicester City have had their season put into perspective by successive defeats against reigning champions Manchester City and now Liverpool. It will be a bitter disappointment

IS IT ALL OVER? Van Dijk and Firmino celebrate the opening goall but the day belonged to man of the match Trent Alexander Arnold (right), who scored a wonderful fourth hopes were raised just a couple of weeks ago that Brendan Rodgers' team could yet mount a title challenge to rival their miraculous victory in 2015-16.

Rodgers looks like he may have to rebuild some confidence, but there has still been much to admire from Leicester City this season - and still plenty to go for in the months ahead.

Boxing Day results round-up

With

WHATEVER fading hopes Manchester City may have entertained about hauling back Liverpool in the title race were surely extinguished Friday as Wolves fought back from two goals down to beat 10-man City in a memorable and controversial Premier League encounter at Molineux.

City looked as though they would make light of the 12th-minute red card shown to goalkeeper Ederson for a foul on Diogo Jota when Raheem Sterling scored twice.

The first came after two dramatic interventions by the video assistant referee, one to award City a penalty, then to rule a retake, both of which Rui Patricio saved before Sterling tapped the rebound from the second kick into an empty net.

But Wolves, roared on by a passionate crowd, levelled through Adama Traore and Raul Jimenez before Matt Doherty won it with a shot from the edge of the area in the final minute.

Liverpool

dominating secondplaced Leicester on Boxing Day to move 13 points clear at the top of the Premier League, a Dominic Calvert-Lewin's goal was enough to get Carlo Ancelotti's reign up and running with a win at Goodison Park, as Everton claimed a gritty 1-0 victory over Burnley.

Mikel Arteta's first game in management saw his Arsenal side recover to take a point at Bournemouth after Dan Gosling's first-half goal had put the hosts in front.

But Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang's closerange finish ensured a share of the spoils for the Gunners, who are now 11th in the top flight.

Manchester United responded to defeat at Watford by hammering Newcastle 4-1 despite falling behind to Matthew Longstaff's strike.
