HELP THE FBI, EPSTEIN FOUR URGE ANDREW

■ Prince urged to help end the "suffering, shame and humiliation" of victims

FOUR of Jeffrey Epstein's alleged victims have pleaded with Prince Andrew to assist with the FBI inquiry for the sake of "his daughters".

They made an emotional appeal to help end the "suffering, shame and humiliation" of victims of the paedophile financier, who was a friend of the Duke of York

The powerful message came in an open letter by a former model, known only as Kiki, and signed by three unnamed "Jane Doe" victims.

The women accuse Andrew, 59, of "hiding" to protect himself and said it was his "chance to be on the right side of history", warning that "the world is watching".

'make things better'

Kiki addressed Andrew directly in writing: "You have been blessed with a privileged life and with the ability to influence positive change.

"Please help US authorities with anything you may have observed in your time spent with Jeffrey Epstein.

"Do it for the victims

FRIENDS IN LOW PLACES: the fallout continues from Andrew's friendship with the late Jeffrey Epstein who have lived a life of suffering, shame and humiliation. Do it for your family, so that they may be proud that you have taken the decent and moral path.

"You can make things better for us with your co-operation. Do it for your daughters and their children."

The plea comes days after US lawyer Geoffrey Berman accused the Queen's second son of providing "zero cooperation" with their investigation into Epstein's offending.

Andrew insists he has been prepared to co-operate but has received no request from investigators and denies having any relationships with any women who allege they are victims of Epstein.

The letter also told the Duke: "The dilemma we face as victims is not so different from your choice to hide in order to protect yourself. The difference is we are trying to right wrongs, despite crippling fears. You are perpetuating them through apathy, inaction and denial."

'incredible trauma'

Kiki broke down in tears on a US talk show last year as she described being assaulted by Epstein at his mansion in Palm Beach, Florida. She told how she was approached by a "female recruiter" when working in a New York restaurant in 2004. Kiki said she was 19 at the time but was told to pretend she was younger because Epstein "likes young pretty girls". She said Epstein had put her through an "incredible trauma".

All four women are clients of Los Angelesbased lawyer Lisa Bloom. She said they were "outraged and disappointed" at the behaviour of the Duke.

Andrew has come under fire for his friendship with the in jail last year while convicted sex offender awaiting trial on sex who took his own life trafficking charges.

Rising Scottish pol quits over texts to 'cute' teenage boy

Scotland's finance secretary has quit hours before delivering his budget amid reports that he messaged a 16-year-old boy on social media.

The Scottish Sun said that Derek Mackay contacted the schoolboy over a sixmonth period, and told him that he was "cute".

Mr Mackay said he had "behaved foolishly" and took full responsibility for his actions.

He also apologised "unreservedly" to the boy and his family.

First Minister Nicola Sturgeon said she did not know about Mr Mackay's "unacceptable" behaviour until Wednesday evening, and is "not aware of any further allegations" against him.

In a statement to the Scottish Parliament, she confirmed that he has been suspended by the SNP while further investigations are carried out.

Police Scotland said it had not received any complaint of criminality, but was "assessing available information from media information". The force also asked for anyone with any information to contact them.

Interim Scottish
Conservative leader
Jackson Carlaw called on Mr Mackay to also stand down from the Scottish Parliament, saying his behaviour could "constitute the grooming of a young individual".

And Scottish Labour leader Richard Leonard said Mr Mackay's actions had been "an abuse of power" and "nothing short of predatory".

'truly sorry'

The newspaper detailed allegations that the 42-year-old politician contacted the boy "out of the blue" in August of last year and sent about 270 messages on Instagram and through Facebook.

It has published a list of messages - the most recent of which is from earlier this week - involving Mr Mackay and the boy, in which its says the MSP invited him to dinner and to attend a rugby event.

The newspaper also reported that Mr Mackay contacted the boy several times on Christmas Day, and told him on another occasion that he was "looking good with that new haircut".

In one of the exchanges, Mr Mackay

Scottish is said to have told the leader teenager he was "cute". In another the boy to also confirmed he was 16 and om the tells Mr Mackay "not to liament, try anything".

The paper also quotes the boy's mother calling for Mr Mackay to be removed from his post.

In a statement released on Thursday morning, Mr Mackay said: "I take full responsibility for my actions. I have behaved foolishly and I am truly sorry. I apologise unreservedly to the individual involved and his family.

resignation

"I spoke last night with the first minister and tendered my resignation with immediate effect.

"Servingingovernment has been a huge privilege and I am sorry to have let colleagues and supporters down."

Mr Mackay, who has been widely tipped as a future first minister, came out as gay when he left his wife in 2013.

His resignation came just hours before he was due to present the Scottish government's spending plans for the next year - a major set piece event in the Scottish Parliament.

Third UK case of Coronavirus confirmed

The third person in the UK to be diagnosed with coronavirus caught it in Singapore, it is understood.

He is thought to have tested positive for the virus in Brighton before being taken to hospital in London.

New Department of Health guidance urges anyone who recently arrived in the UK from mainland China or eight other places to seek help if they are ill.

They are being advised to self-isolate if they have come back from countries including Thailand and Japan.

The countries and territories named by the DoH are: Thailand, Japan, Republic of Korea, Taiwan, Singapore, Malaysia, Hong Kong and Macau.

Anyone returning in the past 14 days from those places, or from mainland China, who has symptoms like a cough, fever, or shortness of breath should stay indoors and call the NHS 111 service.

The DoH said they should do so "even if symptoms are mild", adding: "These countries have been identified because of the volume of air travel from affected areas, understanding of other travel routes and number of reported cases. This list will be kept under review."

The third UK patient is understood to be a middle-aged man who was isolated at home, tested positive and was taken to St Thomas's Hospital in central London, where he is being treated at a specialist infectious diseases unit. It had previously been reported he was at Guy's Hospital in the city.

The NHS was "well prepared" to manage cases, said Prof Chris Whitty, England's chief medical officer. He added: "We are now working quickly to identify any contacts the patient has had."

There have been 28,265 cases worldwide.

Of these, 565 people have died but only two of the deaths have been outside mainland China - one in Hong Kong and one in the Philippines.

Meanwhile, the Chinese ambassador to the UK warned against "panic" and "overreaction" in response to the virus.

DONALD Tusk lik provoked a furious Br backlash for suggesting we that any break-up of "et the United Kingdom for that any break-up of the United Kingdom would have the bonus of allowing Scotland to join the EU.

The former European Council president said Scotland would be welcomed into Europe "enthusiastically" if it won independence. Mr Tusk said he "feels like I'm Scottish" after Brexit, adding Scotland would be treated with "empathy" if it looked for a place in the EU.

Tusk sparks fury with Scotland offer

But Foreign Secretary Dominic Raab called the Polish politician's remarks "irresponsible" and "un-European".

SNP leader Nicola Sturgeon has signalled an intention to rejoin the EU should Scotland leave the UK. However, opponents say there is no guaranteed access to the bloc. Mr Tusk, on BBC One's Andrew Marr Show yesterday, was reluctant to comment on Scotland in Europe, saying he would like to respect the "sovereignty" of the UK. But he then went on to say: "I have no doubt that everyone will be enthusiastic here in Brussels and more cont. on page 3, col. 1

Patel vows to close release loopholes

PRITI Patel this week insisted "we are safe" as ministers scrambled to close loopholes allowing terrorists back on to the street halfway through their sentences, following the Streatham terror attack on Sunday by a convicted terrorist who had been released from jail just days before.

The Home Secretary emergency legislation would put more stringent checks on extremists. She said it was wrong that terrorists are being automatically released halfway through their sentence without first being assessed. It comes as senior Cabinet minister Michael Gove said terrorists should be kept in jail indefinitely if necessary.

Ms Patel said: "We are safe. We're changing the supervision, the licensing of terrorism offenders. We're going to make it much more stringent. "It is a fact we are having to use intensive police resources to monitor and supervise these individuals. We're not going to compromise on that.

"We need to change the regime, what goes on in our prisons, the sentencing regime, the licensing regime.

Patel: 'looking at loopholes'

"We're looking at the loopholes there and that is what we are trying to shut down."

Iustice Secretary Robert Buckland said on Monday that emergency legislation was needed to make sure offenders serve two-thirds of their sentence before they are considered eligible for release. Ms Patel added: "We simply cannot have individuals halfway through their sentence being released in a way that they are not being supervised and not being assessed. "We need people to serve their full sentences. I think the public would expect them to serve their full sentence."

generally in Europe."

Mr Raab responded by saying: "I think it was frankly un-European and rather irresponsible, given the succession separatist tendencies in Spain, in France, in Italy. "I'm not sure European leaders, let alone leaders in the UK, would actually welcome that kind of language."

Mr Raab's comments come amid reports that Downing Street is set to launch, on Valentine's Day, a £5million ad blitz to persuade Scottish voters of the benefits of being in the Union.

Knife attack terrorist shot dead in South London

■ Sudesh Amman released from jail less than two weeks before attack

A CONVICTED Islamic terrorist was shot dead in a high street knife rampage this week just days after being released from prison.

Sudesh Amman, who was wearing a fake suicide vest, left a man fighting for his life and stabbed a woman in the back. Whitehall sources said the 20-year-old was released just last week from prison for distributing extremist material. An unmarked police car had driven in front of the terrorist's vehicle in Streatham, south London, before he was chased down by officers.

Witnesses told how the attacker grabbed a £3.99 knife from a budget store. He removed the packaging from the blade, shouted "Allahu Akbar" and then launched into the attack on lunchtime shoppers, who fled in terror from the busy high

warnings

The Jihadist, feared to be carrying explosives, was chased by plainclothed officers and shot dead.

Apart from the two stab victims, a second woman suffered cuts from glass sent flying from a shattered window hit by a police bullet.

It was revealed officers shouted warnings at the man before he was cornered outside a branch of the chemist chain Boots. Officers fired up to five times and the suspect was declared dead at the scene. Police confirmed that an active counter-terrorism operation was ongoing when the attack happened.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson said: "My thoughts are with the injured victims and their loved ones. "I want to pay tribute to the speed and bravery of the officers who responded and confronted

under surveillance

Police said the attacker, said to be "motivated by an Islamist terrorist ideology", was known to the security services. Dramatic footage passers-by taken by showed masked officers armed with high-powered weapons approach the suspect's body before backing away amid fears he had explosives. Images also showed what appeared to be a number of silver canisters strapped to the man's chest as he lay spread-eagled on the pavement with a large knife on the pavement close by. The attack bore chilling similarities with the London Bridge atrocities in June 2017 and last November when released terrorist Usman Khan left two people dead before he was shot dead by police. Amman had been jailed for three years and four months in December 2018 after being found with a bombmaking manual. The Old Bailey was told he Fanta sised about carrying out a terror attack.

A Whitehall source said: "He was under surveillance, that is what allowed police to do their job so quickly. It could have been much worse than it was.

"There had been concerns when he was in prison but there were no powers for any authority to keep him behind bars.

"He had served half of his sentence, which was more than three years, so had to be released despite concerns over his conduct.

"The public will look at this case and say why was this individual not kept behind bars – and the Prime Minister shares that view.

"This shines a light on something that clearly needs addressing."

But the PM's plans to crack down on early release which would mean terroists would serve their whole sentence would not have applied to this individual because the current plans only apply to more violent offences.

MP gives cold shoulder to snide dress critics off-the-shoulder jumper dress during a Commons debate has hit back at internet trolls who branded her a "hungover tart".

Labour MP Tracy Brabin launched a furious attack after the 'vitriolic" online abuse. The shadow culture secretary, who replaced her murdered friend Jo Cox as MP for Batley and Spen in West Yorkshire, demanded people pay attention to "what women say, not what we wear" and angrily "everyday slammed sexism".

She revealed her shoulder-baring dress slipped down because she is nursing a broken ankle and had to lean on the despatch box after racing to Parliament from a meeting with executives. music Critics including TV presenter Piers Morgan described the outfit as "inappropriate for the Commons", while hitting

Ms Brabin, 58, said: "I was startled by the vitriolic nature of the messages. They are anonymous people often, keyboard warriors sat in their mum's back bedroom eating Pot Noodles and having a pop at people they don't know anything about."

The rebuke came after Ms Brabin responded on Twitter: "Sorry, I don't have time to reply to all of you commenting on this. Who knew people could get so emotional over a shoulder."

Ms Brabin, who is currently using crutches and has her ankle in a cast after a fall last month, added: "I always show the House respect. If there was a problem, I'm sure Mr Speaker would tell me."

'Greatest Yorkshireman? Not me, says Palin

Sir Michael Palin has dismissed a muchpublicized poll naming him the "Greatest Ever Yorkshireman".

Long based London and privately educated in Shropshire at Shrewsbury School, Sheffield-born Palin said this week: "That made me so many enemies, from Geoffrey Boycott down. I can imagine him thinking: 'He doesn't even live in Yorkshire and he talks posh too!""

'My polite lovely boy' was brainwashed to become a killer, weeps mom terrorist Sudesh Amman broke down in tears this week as she described him as a "polite, kind, lovely boy".

Haleema Khan said her son was "brainwashed" by online videos and spending time inside one of Britain's highest security prisons.

The 41-year-old revealed she spoke to Amman just hours before the attack on Sunday afternoon.

Meanwhile, a former friend told how Amman boasted as a schoolboy of his desire to be a terrorist "when I grow up" and threatened to "blow up" classmates.

Amman, 20, was shot dead by plain-clothes police officers after stabbing two people with a 10-inch knife while wearing a fake suicide vest on Streatham High Road on Sunday.

He had been released from Belmarsh prison around a week before, according to Justice Secretary Robert Buckland, after being jailed for more than three years for terrorism offences.

Ms Khan said: "He wasn't even a very devoted Muslim.

"He became more religious inside prison, that's where I think he became radicalised. He was watching and listening to things online which brainwashed him.

"Before he went to prison he was not that religious. After he came out he was really religious.

"He was a polite, kind, lovely boy. He was always smiling. I'm so upset, he was only 20 years old."

Fighting back tears, Ms Khan said: "I regularly took food to him at the hostel and on Thursday, I asked him what he wanted.

"Mum, I would really like a mutton biriyani' - so I cooked one and took it over to him." She said she learned of her son's death on the news.

She said: "I saw that there had been something in Streatham, and I got worried.

"Then I saw the police and what was happening. A short while later they gave his name on the television. The police came to see me yesterday and told me too. I can't believe this has happened to my son. He was a lovely boy. I was very close to him."

A family source added: "Haleema is disgusted by what he has done and his beliefs, but she is a mother and has lost a son so she is very upset and sad.

"But they are relieved that he wasn't able to kill anyone. It has hit them very hard, but now they are trying to get his body from the police as soon as possible and bury him. This is done as quickly as one can for Muslims as is custom and prayers for him will begin shortly."

Meanwhile, a former school friend revealed Amman had boasted of wanting to be a terrorist when he was younger. She said: "He kept on saying, 'I am going to bomb you'. He said, 'I have got a grenade in my pocket and if you take one step closer to me I am going to set it off'.

"We thought he was joking but he kept on saying it.

"He said, 'When I grow up I am going to be a terrorist'."

Boxer auctions medal he won for rescuing Princess Anne

Ronnie Russell punched Ian Ball as he tried to kidnap Princess Anne at gunpoint in London in 1974. He was awarded the George Medal by the Queen

A former heavyweight boxer who thwarted the armed kidnap of the Princess Royal is reluctantly selling the George Medal awarded to him by the Queen as his health fails.

Ronnie Russell, 72, punched Ian Ball twice in the head as he tried to kidnap the princess at gunpoint in central London in March 1974.

For his bravery he was awarded the George Medal by the Queen, who told him: "The medal is from the Queen, but I want to thank you as Anne's mother."

Mr Russell, who now lives in Bristol, has suffered several strokes and wants to be able to pay for his own funeral.

He said that selling the medal was "something I said I would never, ever do" and he was "proud and honoured" to have been involved. "What I would like is whoever does eventually buy the medal, I would hope they might invite me somewhere to tell them an after-dinner story about happened on the night," Mr Russell said.

The medal is to be sold at Dix Noonan Webb in central London next month with an estimate between £15,000 and £20,000. It will be sold with a letter from No 10 informing Mr Russell of the award, a telegram from Princess Anne and a letter from the commissioner of the Metropolitan Police.

former boxer

Ball blocked the princess's car with his own as she was driven along The Mall to Buckingham Palace. He fired a series of shots through the rear window as he tried to kidnap her.

The princess and Captain Mark Phillips, her husband at the time, were unhurt during the late-night ambush. Her personal detective, chauffeur, a police constable and a journalist were all shot and wounded by Ball, who was armed with two revolvers.

The Crown's creator Peter Morgan this week confirmed it will conclude sooner than originally planned after series five reaches the turn turn of the century. But his actress girlfriend Gillian Anderson has already jumped the gun. More than a week before Morgan's official statement, Gillian, who plays Margaret Thatcher in the upcoming series, told BBC TV's The One Show in matter of fact fashion that The Crown would be "finished a long time before today".

Russell, Mr aged 28, was a 6ft 2in, 17-stone former boxer who trained at a club in east London. He was heading home to Kent when he saw the incident unfold and rushed to help. He was shot at and stopped Ball dragging the princess out of the car, before landing a punch on the attacker's chin which allowed police to arrest him. Ball was later sent to a psychiatric hospital.

ARIES: Be extra careful while out and about these next few days as it is a particularly accident-prone time. This period is over by early next week. TAURUS: You are in a good time frame for happy family times and events. However, be careful with overspending as you may be feeling too generous. GEMINI: Whatever you are planning that is important be sure to get it finished by next weekend. Your boss Mercury goes backward soon, which will slow life up.

CANCER: This next week stay away from any drama or negative vibes. You are sensitive enough without the planets in your cousin Pisces that are powerful currently.

LEO: You may be feeling like you need get away for a trip. This is ok if you can afford the time away, otherwise find something positive to get you in a good mood.

VIRGO: Life is good if you look at what matters most to you. Venus in your opposite sign is helping the overall good vibes. You will also get a surprise visitor.

LIBRA: Your boss planet Venus is in watery Pisces currently. This can be very good for your career or work area. With this in mind go out on a limb for what you really desire.

SCORPIO: It may seem as though everything you try to accomplish goes up in a puff of smoke of late. If you are concerned about your financial outlook, don't be - the worst is over.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss Jupiter is keeping busy in your money area. Whatever you need to take care of in this area be sure it's done by end of next CAPRICORN: At the moment you are very involved in the lives of family or friends. Some of it you can help with but most is not your problem. Just know the difference and act accordingly.

AQUARIUS: The ups and downs of the past few weeks have left you indecisive about something. Be sure to give yourself a break and stop worrying about what you cannot change. Happy Birthday.

PISCES: You have lovely Venus visiting your life currently. Time to make decisions that you have put off or thought were not possible. All kind of things can get accomplished at this time. Good Luck!

Presidential primaries: a brief explainer

IT'S AN ELECTION an election year all the year and for many of us Brits the primary process pretty is bewildering.

This week's Iowa caucuses may have you scratching your head. Or asking questions like: what the heck is a caucus? How come Bernie got the most votes but lost to mayor Pete? Why don't they just have one polling day? What the heck is Super Tuesday? And how does one become a delegate?

Basically US politics is an infernal web of arcane rules, strange practices and Kabuki theatre.

But here's what I know: come January in candidates spend most of their time campaign in the snowy small an general

Usually you will see some candidates drop out after these results, as the rest continue on to New Hampshire.

towns of Iowa. Which is the first stomping ground and first place to vote in the primaries (primary elections or often just primaries, are the process by which voters can indicate their preference for their party's candidate, or a candidate in general, upcoming election, local election, or byelection, with the goal of narrowing the field of candidates.)

It's Time For Tea...

Traditional Afternoon Tea is now served Mon-Sat 11.30am-4.00pm in our Tea Room (also available privately for baby showers, bridal showers and special occasions). King's Head Pies now available in our bakery Sausage rolls, pastries & delicious cakes, baked daily

Where the candidates try to impress the delegates with their vision and once again a vote takes place.

But what the heck is a delegate and how are they chosen? A delegate is a person sent or authorized to represent others, in particular an elected representative sent to a conference who pledges to support one particular candidate. Which they usually (but not always) do.

The Caucus

Caucuses are simply meetings, open to all registered voters of the party, at which delegates to the party's national convention are selected. When the caucus begins, the voters in attendance divide themselves into groups according to the candidate they support. The undecided voters congregate into their own group and prepare to be "courted" by supporters of other candidates.

Voters in each group are then invited to give speeches supporting their candidate and trying to persuade others to join their group. At the end of the caucus, party organizers count the voters in each candidate's group and calculate how many delegates to the county convention candidate has won.

As in the primaries, the caucus process can produce both pledged unpledged convention delegates, depending on the party rules of the various states.

How Delegates are Awarded

The Democratic and Republican parties use different methods for determining how many delegates are awarded to, or "pledged" to see some candidates vote for the various candidates at their Democrats use a proportional method. Each candidate is awarded a number of delegates in proportion to their support in the

For example, consider a state with 20 delegates at a democratic convention with three candidates. candidate "A" received 70% of all caucus and primary votes, candidate "B" 20% and candidate "C" 10%, candidate "A" would get 14 delegates, candidate "B" would get 4 delegates and candidate "C" would votes they won.

Are you still with

get two delegates.

Not all states use this method. Some have open or closed primaries.

Help? I hear you say. Okay let's just concentrate California. This where those of us who can get to vote on Super Tuesday (called so because this is where the most states vote and the most delegates are awarded to a candidate). Once again after this day (March 3rd) you may drop out because the California primary is a semi-closed primary, with the state awarding delegates, of which 415 are pledged delegates allocated on the basis of the results of the primary. And you'll tend to know by now who the real contenders are.

Bonus delegates

The 416 pledged delegates to the 2020 Democratic National Convention will allocated he proportionally on the basis of the results of the primary. Of 416 pledged delegates, between 4 and 7 are allocated to each of the state's congressional districts and another 54 are allocated to party leaders and elected officials (PLEO delegates), in addition to 90 at-large pledged delegates. Bonus delegates will be allocated as California shares a primary date with numerous other states on Super Tuesday; these numbers do not yet account for these delegates.

So after we have all voted the contest continues:

The national convention delegation meeting subsequently be held on May 17, 2020 to vote on the 54 pledged at-large and 90 PLEO delegates to send to the Democratic National Convention. The 416 pledged delegates California sends to the national convention will be joined by 79 un-pledged PLEO delegates (30 members of the Democratic National Committee; 48 members of Congress, including two Senators, notably Kamala Harris, as well as 46 U.S. Representatives, notably Eric Swalwell; and the governor).

Hopefully you are still with me. Once the nominee is decided and the party is all untied (hopefully) he/she will go on to compete against Donald Trump in the general election.

So for now if you are a Democratic voter make sure you are registered and vote for whomever speaks more to your values and you think will do best to represent you and the future generations and will be able to beat the sitting president.

Good luck and may the best drag queen win. Oh wait this isn't a reality show!! Or is political Happy season! - Craig Young

Morgan's world champs looking very ring rusty after 1st ODI

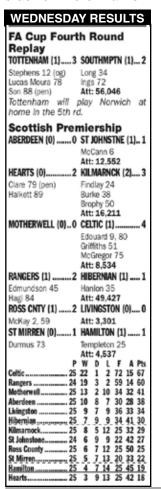

IT WAS back to earth with a bump for England on Tuesday as South Africa put Eoin Morgan's world champions on their backsides at Newlands.

In their first 50over outing since the impossible drama of Lord's last July, England looked rusty and jaded.

Put in by Quinton de Kock, they laboured to a below-par 258-8 and had no answers as the hosts knocked them off comfortably to win by seven wickets with 14 balls to spare.

This poor performance had the feel of how England used to be before they became the best oneday team on the planet.

It was a first competitive outing in blue for more than six

Quinton de Kock scored his 15th ODI hundred and his first as captain as South Africa breezed to victory months and one without half a dozen of the stars who dragged them over the line in July. There was no Ben Stokes, no Jos Buttler, no express pace with Jofra Archer injured and Mark Wood rested and there was no Adil Rashid.

What there was, though, was a lack of combativeness in all three aspects of a performance that was ill-befitting their status as top dogs and which needs to be addressed before the next game in Durban on Friday.

On a pitch that looked twopaced - something South Africa captain De Kock realised at the toss surprisingly putting England in – Jason Roy and Jonny Bairstow struggled to get off to their customary flier. Both were undone by poor timing and when Joe Root ran himself out and Morgan edged to slip, England were in

Joe Denly came to the rescue with a 103-ball 87 that was not exactly electric. Yet it was hard to criticise when wickets kept falling at the other end. And it was not Denly's fault that 258 looked about 50 runs short.

Morgan had talked about resetting their sights on T20 goals, notably the World T20 in Australia in October, insisting results were less important than visible progress. Yet it was hard to see much of the latter in this. Of England's new caps, Tom Banton timed a couple nicely in his 18, while leg-spinner Matt Parkinson struggled initially before coming back stronger late in the day. It was the partnership of 173 by De Kock (107) and Temba Bavuma (98) - a record for the second wicket against England and here at Newlands - that proved the difference. If England make changes to this line-up it smacks of panic, which should ensure the same XI get a run in Durban. But the performance needs to be markedly superior.

The result means the Reds are still in the chase for three additional trophies, having already won the Club World Cup and Super Cup.

They have a 22-point lead at the top of the Premier League and are in the last 16 of both the Champions League and FA Cup.

"The lads were excellent and hopefully we will do the same against Chelsea in the next round," said 18-year-old Williams.

"Our aim is to win the FA Cup. I think the [senior] lads will have been extremely proud of us and hopefully us young players will get a chance again."

Aged 19 years and five days, Toxteth-born Curtis Jones became the youngest first-team captain in Liverpool's history.

"All the boys went out there and showed belief, character, showed everything that the manager looks for in his players," said Jones.

"I was grateful to become the youngest captain of the team but most importantly we came away with the win with a great performance.

"The boys showed heart, character and a hard decision for the next game."

Bruce hails 'significant' Cup win for Toon

Newcastle United boss Steve Bruce believes it was a "significant" moment for the club to reach the fifth round of the FA Cup for the first time in 14 years.

The Premier League side survived a huge scare in Tuesday's fourth-round replay against League One Oxford United, who came back from two goals down to draw 2-2 and take the game to extra time.

Neither side could then be separated and it looked like penalties would be needed until Allan Saint-Maximin's spectacular secured the win.

"I know what it means for the city and the supporters, who have come a million miles to get here tonight, a couple of thousand of them," said Bruce.

"We are into the next round. We have made hard work of it against Rochdale and now Oxford but I think we thoroughly deserved to get through.

"I think it is significant for the club to get into the fifth round for the first time since 2006."

Newcastle had looked to be cruising to victory as they protected a two-goal lead given to them before halftime courtesy of Sean Longstaff's rising 15thminute drive and Joelinton's composed finish for only his third goal of the season.

Oxford themselves hope with seven minutes left when Liam Kelly's 20yard free-kick eluded the grasp of Newcastle keeper Karl Darlow before Nathan Holland's crisp volley deep into stoppage time set up the extra 30 minutes and the prospect of a shock.

The unpredictable Saint-Maximin was the difference and a huge threat in extra time, finally winning it for Newcastle and setting up a fifth-round tie at West Bromwich Albion with a magnificent finish that ripped beyond Simon Eastwood into the top corner after 116 minutes.

"It was a hairy cup tie, great for the neutral but awful for myself and the fans," added Bruce.

"It wouldn't be Newcastle without a story and if that's the story let's go to West Bromwich Albion and carry it on.

"When you look back and put your slippers on the FA Cup final is still a huge moment in this country. It was rekindled for me when I got there as manager of Hull City against Arsenal in 2014 and I vowed that I would never play weakened teams.

"A club like Newcastle can win five games and get to Wembley."

Maestro Rooney books emotional United date

WAYNE Rooney ran the show as Derby brushed aside Northampton 4-2 on Tuesday to ensure the Rams will meet Manchester United in the FA Cup fifth round.

"They never had any answer to us," said Derby manager Phillip Cocu. "Playing United will be a special game for Wayne and for us, something to look forward to. We will try and win it - nothing is impossible."

The player-coach was behind all that Derby did well. Rooney, 34, played his last game for the Red Devils in their Europa League final win over Ajax in April 2017. He played 559 times for United, scored 253 goals - and could now knock them out of the cup.

Rooney made his first decisive contribution when his 28th-minute troubled corner goalkeeper David Cornell and Andre Wisdom banged in his first goal for nearly eight years. The Cobblers were hurt again when Duane Holmes got Derby's second 10 minutes before halftime.

Northampton pulled one back through Nicky Adams two minutes into the second half but Jack Marriott's 51st-minute header restored the lead. Then Rooney saw it

Threats and violence cannot be tolerated, says Hammers boss

Threats and violent fan protests against football executives "cannot be tolerated", says West Ham co-chairman David

It comes after the home of Manchester United executive vice-chairman Ed Woodward was attacked by a group chanting that he was 'going to die".

Gold has previously been targeted by fan protests.

"I know exactly what Ed's experienced. I've experienced it four or five times myself," he said.

"What you've got to understand is that it is by a minute percentage, a couple of hundred people."

Gold added: my mind you've got a couple of hundred belligerents who want to, metaphorically, burn your house down. And those 200 will gather people who are listening, or walking by and wonder what it is all about."

On Thursday was announced that fans who behave in "unacceptable" an manner towards players, supporters, club employees or referees will face a Premier League-wide ban.

The Premier League said anyone banned by a single club will be banned by all 20 clubs.

FA Cup 4th Round

Spurs through as Son goes down

■ Dreams of silverware still alive as Mourinho methods begin to bear fruit

Tottenham battled past Southampton 3-2, in a thrilling FA Cup fourth-round replay on Wednesday to set up a home tie against Norwich City.

Spurs went ahead when Tanguy Ndombele's shot deflected in off visiting defender Jack Stephens, before Shane made it 1-1 after Nathan Redmond's effort had been parried by Hugo Lloris.

Danny Ings curled a shot past Lloris to put the Saints ahead, but Lucas Moura equalised with a strike from 18 yards.

Spurs won the tie when Son Heung-min converted an 87th-minute penalty.

He had been fouled by Southampton goalkeeper Angus Gunn after a fine pass from substitute Dele Alli had created the opportunity.

For the Saints. midfielder James Ward-Prowse was carried off on a stretcher in the first half with a knee injury.

will host Norwich, bottom of the Premier League, in round five in a midweek match to be played on 3, 4 or 5

The FA Cup represents Tottenham's best chance this season of winning their first trophy since 2008 - as they sit fifth in the Premier League, went out of the Carabao Cup at League Two Colchester in September and face a tricky Champions League last-16 tie against an RB Leipzig side second in Germany's Bundesliga.

They had to come from behind in the third round to force a replay against Middlesbrough before going through, and had to dig deep again, with two goals in the final 12 minutes to see off a gallant Southampton side.

Unlike Liverpool - who Shrewsbury 1-0 with their Under-23 side in a fourth-round reply on Tuesday - Tottenham named a strong side for a match taking place during their two-week mid-season Premier League break.

Boss Jose Mourinho was, though, without the injured Giovani lo Celso and Erik Lamela, plus the ineligible Steven Bergwijn, while Alli was only on the bench after he picked up a knock during last Sunday's 2-0 league win over Manchester

Despite having 24 hours less to prepare than Southampton, the hosts went ahead when Ndombele's effort, which appeared to be going wide, took a big deflection off Stephens to wrong-foot Angus Gunn. Mourinho would have been unhappy Lloris as he could only parry the ball into Long's path for him to equalise from eight yards out.

But the France goalkeeper made amends in the second half with an excellent reflex stop to turn Jannik Vestergaard's close-range header over the bar as both sides

Son Heung-min converted the 87th minute penalty which gave Spurs the win pushed for a winner.

The Saints looked as if they had it when Ings scored following a fine run from Nathan Redmond but the lead only lasted six minutes before Moura made it 2-2. Alli's excellent pass released Son - and after he was brought down by Gunn, the South Korean converted the penalty to take Spurs into the last 16 in dramatic fashion.

Klopp 'delighted' as young guns down Shrews

Absent Liverpool manager Jurgen Klopp "delighted" the youngest team in the club's history beat Shrewsbury to reach the FA Cup fifth round.

Klopp decided to miss the fourth-round replay because it fell during the Premier League's winter break.

A Reds side with an average age of 19 years and 102 days set up a tie at Chelsea with a 1-0 win.

"There was a message at half-time and at fulltime [from Klopp]," said under-23s boss Neil Critchley.

"There was a message before the game that Chelsea away could be FA CUP 5TH RD DRAW Sheff Wed v Man City Reading v Sheff Utd Chelsea v Liverpool West Brom v Newcastle Derby v Man Utd Tottenham v Norwich Portsmouth v Arsenal an opportunity for one or two of them and they put in a performance tonight."

There was at least one of Klopp's senior players in the sell-out 52,399 crowd, with James Milner offering his support sat behind the home dugout.

"He trained with us yesterday and he asked whether he could come along," added Critchley, who oversaw the game for Liverpool.

"He was giving words of advice, he was getting right behind the players. He was vocal in the dressing room. He was animated. He was vocal behind me, I could hear

Ro-Shaun Williams' own goal was enough to send a Liverpool side containing seven teenage outfield players through against their League One opponents.

Liverpool right-back Neco Williams, whose long ball forward led to the goal, said it was a night that his teammates would remember for "a long time".
