ANOTHER ROYAL DIVORCE!

“The Earl and Countess of Snowdon have amicably agreed that their marriage has come to an end and that they shall be divorced.”

The Queen’s nephew the Earl of Snowdon and his wife the Countess of Snowdon have “amicably agreed” to divorce, a spokesman for the couple has said.

The earl, David Armstrong-Jones, is the son of the late Princess Margaret and photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones.

He has been married to wife Serena for 26 years. They have two children.

The announcement comes less than a week after the Queen’s grandson Peter Phillips and his wife Autumn also revealed they are to split.

In a statement on Monday, a spokesman for the Snowdons said: “The Earl and Countess of Snowdon have amicably agreed that their marriage has come to an end and that they shall be divorced.

“They ask that the press respect their privacy and that of their family.”

‘big disappointment’

The couple married in October 1993 and have two children - Viscount Linley, Charles Armstrong-Jones and Lady Margarita Armstrong-Jones.

The earl’s mother, Princess Margaret - the Queen’s sister - died in 2002 and his father, celebrity photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones, died in 2017.

David Armstrong-Jones - who is 21st in line to the throne - founded his own company making bespoke furniture under his professional name, David Linley, in 1985.

He has written books about furniture and styling the home.

Last week, Mr and Mrs Phillips confirmed in a statement that they had separated and will share custody of their children Savannah, nine, and Isla, seven.

The couple told the Queen and other Royal Family members about their decision last year.

A royal source said the news came as a ‘big disappointment’ to the Queen, 93, who spent Christmas with the couple at Sandringham. Earlier this month ago her eldest grandson Peter Phillips and his wife Autumn revealed they had separated and were planning to divorce.

A spokesman for the Earl – born David Armstrong-Jones – said:

A source revealed: “They have in effect been living separate lives for some time and they have agreed that their marriage has broken down.

difficult time

“They are determined to handle their separation in a civilised manner. There is no blame or acrimony on either side. They have simply reached a point at which they both feel they have to move on.”

David, 58, previously known as Viscount Linley until his father’s death, has been a favourite of the Queen since he was born to her sister at Clarence House. He was educated in his early years at Buckingham Palace alongside Prince Andrew aunt to visiting heads of state. Two months ago he was seen cycling to the palace in a hi-vis jacket. A few days later he and Serena, 49 – who have two children, Charles,

20, and Margarita, 17 – walked to church with other members of the Royal Family during their festive break at Sandringham. Their divorce is expected to be finalised later this year, making 2020 another difficult time for Her Majesty. She admitted in her Christmas broadcast that 2019 had been a “bumpy” year.

Greece asks for Elgin Marbles to be returned in exchange for EU trade deal Britain faces having to return the Elgin Marbles as part of a free trade deal with the European Union after Greece demanded a clause is inserted in the agreement.

A draft negotiating mandate circulated among European governments in Brussels this week hardened EU demands in key traditional trade areas, particularly fishing, but also included the unexpected "return and restitution" line.

"The parties should address issues relating to the return or restitution of unlawfully removed cultural objects to their country of origin," said a newly drafted text that will be signed off by EU governments next week.

The Greek government has said that Brexit will shift the political balance within the EU to force Britain to return the fifth century BC marbles.

Greece insists they were stolen by Lord Elgin, a British diplomat, from the Parthenon temple in Athens over 200 years ago.

One EU ambassador involved in talks on the draft said: "It is a measure of how Brexit has changed the game that the Greeks feel able to use the trade talks to pursue the Elgin Marbles."

BONE OF CONTENTION: Athens has always insisted Lord Elgin stole the famous statues

A senior EU source confirmed that the clause had been inserted at the request of Greece, with the support of Cyprus and Italy, two countries concerned about the present day trade in stolen artefacts, particularly those from the age of antiquity.

"It is not specifically about the Elgin Marbles but of course the claim by Greece is longstanding and the Greek ambassador asked for it," said a source. "London's auction houses are big traders in ancient and historical artefacts and we want to make sure that if they are stolen they can be returned."

The British Museum welcomed any commitments "to fighting the trade in illicit antiquities across the world".

security treaty

"We work in partnership with law enforcement agencies to identify and help to return objects that come into the UK illegally," it said. "The Parthenon sculptures were legally acquired and help us to tell the story of human history presented at the museum. They are accessible to the six million global visitors the museum receives each year."

If agreed and ratified as part of a future trade and security treaty with the EU, Britain would almost certainly later face a Greek demand for the return of the marbles. The clause does not mean that the return of the marble sculpture would be a precondition for a free trade deal.

The Ethnos newspaper reported Greek diplomatic sources who said the clause did not directly concern the sculptures while noting "Greece's position on the return of the marbles is firm".

The marbles, which are displayed in the British Museum, were originally part of a frieze on the Parthenon but were acquired by Elgin in the early 19th century when Greece was ruled by the Ottoman Empire.

Last month, Lina

Mendonis, the Greek culture minister, said Brexit would strengthen European support for her country's case that the marbles had been taken from Greece as a "blatant act of serial theft" that was "motivated by financial gain".

"I think the right conditions have been created for their permanent return," she told Reuters on January 30.

In another unhelpful development for the government, the Brussels negotiating mandate has been hardened on fishing and, according to the latest text, the EU will now demand that European boats be allowed the same access and catches in British fisheries from the end of the year.

The new demand would "uphold existing reciprocal access conditions, quota shares and traditional activity of the Union fleet" in Britain's coastal waters after the transition period this year.

Michel Barnier, the EU's chief negotiator, has warned the government that concessions of fishing are a condition of a trade deal and continued access to European markets for the City of London.

Johnson and Wheeler married in 1993 and split in 2018

Boris and Marina strike divorce deal

BORIS Johnson and estranged wife Marina Wheeler have struck an agreement on how to divide their cash. A family court judge also gave permission for the final stages of the divorce to go ahead.

The Prime Minister and Ms Wheeler married in 1993. They split in 2018. The settlement comes after records showed that they had been involved in a dispute relating to dividing money or assets. In a private 10-minute hearing at the Central Family Court in London, Judge Sarah Gibbons approved a written consent order and also gave Ms Wheeler the go-ahead to apply for a decree absolute ending the marriage. Neither Mr Johnson, 55, nor Ms Wheeler, 55, were at the hearing.

The Prime Minister has been dating Carrie Symonds, 31, since last year. Mr Johnson was a childhood friend of Ms Wheeler – the daughter of BBC journalist Charles Wheeler – when they were pupils at the European School in Brussels. They have two sons and two daughters.

He met his first wife Allegra Mostyn-Owen while they were students at Oxford. They wed in 1987, but the marriage was annulled in 1993. Judge Gibbons gave Ms Wheeler permission to apply for the decree absolute "out of time". Rules say applications for a decree absolute must be made within 12 months of the granting on an initial divorce decree, a decree nisi. Applicants have to tell a judge why there has been a delay if an application is made outside that period.

Mum of murdered backpacker tells killer: "she died terrified"

■ Grace Millane met her murderer on a Tinder date while travelling in New Zealand

The mother of a woman murdered in New Zealand has told her killer she thinks about "the terror and pain she must have experienced at your hand".

A 28-year-old man, who cannot be named for legal reasons, has been jailed for life for strangling Grace Millane while on a Tinder date in December 2018.

Her mother Gillian Millane told the killer "she died terrified and alone in your room".

The man was sentenced at Auckland High Court to a minimum of 17 years in jail on Monday.

Mrs Millane, speaking to the court via a video-link and next to a picture of her 21-year-old daughter, told the man she had wanted to take her own life because of the pain he had caused her.

"my very best friend"

She said: "Grace wasn't just my daughter. She was my friend. My very best friend.

"I am absolutely heartbroken that you have taken my daughter's future and robbed us of so many memories that we were going to create.

"The tears I shed are never-ending at the thought of never having the chance to kiss my Grace goodbye."

Her daughter's murderer held his head in his hands as he listened to the impact his "barbaric actions" have had on his victim's family.

Sentencing the man, Justice Simon Moore described the murderer's actions after the killing, including searching for pornography, as "conduct that underscores a lack of empathy and sense of self-entitlement and objectification".

But he also stated the defence should not have been criticised on social media for pursuing a defence that

Grace Millane, a University of Lincoln graduate, was strangled in December 2018

Ms Millane had died during a consensual sex act as, even though the jury found this was not the case, this was the defendant's right.

Ms Millane, from Wickford in Essex, met her killer on the dating app while travelling in Auckland.

The pair spent the evening drinking before returning to the man's room in the CityLife hotel in central Auckland where he killed her.

He then disposed of her body by burying it in a suitcase in the Waitakere Ranges, a mountainous area outside the city.

He was found guilty of murder last year.

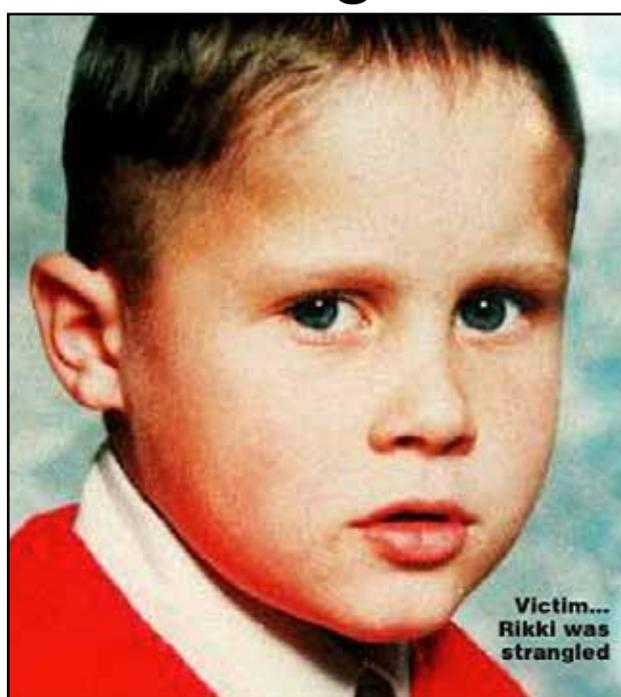

Suspect, 38, charged over 1994 murder of Rikki, six

COLD case detectives probing the killing of a six-year-old boy a quarter of a century ago have charged a man, 38, with murder.

Rikki Neave was found naked and strangled in woods a few minutes' walk from his home on November 29, 1994. He had disappeared after walking to school the previous morning. His uniform was found dumped in a nearby bin. On Monday the Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire and Hertfordshire Major Crime Unit said James Watson, of no fixed address, had been charged with murder. He will appear at Peterborough Magistrates' Court on Thursday.

Rikki's mother Ruth Neave said: "I am overwhelmed and, in truth, totally numb. This has always been about getting justice for my son Rikki. "The news has not yet sunk in. It is welcome but it is only part of a much longer journey that still has some way to run.

"It would be inappropriate to comment further but what I am looking forward to is a good night's sleep. That has been lacking over many, many years."

Ruth, of Peterborough, was originally accused of her son's murder but she was cleared and instead found guilty of child neglect and cruelty, and jailed for seven years. She appealed for new information to catch the killer in 2014, and police began reinvestigating the following year. Chief Crown Prosecutor Chris Long said on Monday: "Following the death of Rikki Neave in Peterborough in November 1994, the Crown Prosecution Service has today authorised Cambridgeshire Constabulary to charge James Watson, 38, with murder. Rikki Neave's family have been informed.

"This decision was made following careful consideration of all the evidence presented to us by Cambridgeshire Constabulary as a result of their cold case review and subsequent lengthy and complex investigation."

Tributes flow for Harry Gregg, hero of Munich disaster

MANCHESTER United legends Sir Bobby Charlton and Sir Alex Ferguson this week led tributes to the club's heroic former goalkeeper Harry Gregg, who has died aged 87.

The star not only survived the Munich air disaster on February 6, 1958, which killed 23 people, but acted with extraordinary courage in its immediate aftermath.

He twice braved the burning fuselage to drag teammates Bobby Charlton and Dennis Viollet to safety, then pregnant mum Vera Lukic and her 20 month-old baby Vesna. Vera was the wife of a Yugoslav diplomat Veljko Lukic, who was not on board.

In nine years at United, Harry played 247 times, including a 3-0 win over Sheffield Wednesday just 13 days after the Munich tragedy.

Sir Bobby said: "Lady Norma and I are deeply saddened to hear of the passing of Harry Gregg.

"I was proud to call him a teammate. For all the matter-of-fact things Harry said about that night in Munich, for me he will always be a heroic figure.

"A shining light both on and off the pitch, for so many reasons he deserves to be remembered as one of the greatest names in Manchester United's history."

Sir Alex, who took his United team to play in Gregg's testimonial in Belfast in 2012, said: "Harry was a man of great character and a true legend at our club.

"He was always very excited and proud to host our youth team at his boarding house every summer, so he could recount tales of his playing days. I loved his company and the many pieces of advice he gave me."

Harry Gregg played over 200 games for United after the 1958 tragedy

United – who wore black armbands against Chelsea on Tuesday night – also remembered Harry, saying on their website: "He was one of the greatest goalkeepers to play for United and also one of the greatest men.

"His bravery in rushing to the aid of teammates and other passengers will never be forgotten.

"After the disaster, he was integral to the rebuilding of Sir Matt Busby's team and remained a cherished part of the United family."

Harry became the world's most expensive goalkeeper when Sir Matt bought him for £23,000 from Doncaster Rovers in 1957. Playing for Northern Ireland he was voted the best goalkeeper at the World Cup a year later.

But he won just 25 caps for his country as his international career was hampered by injury. He married his first wife Mavis in 1957 and they had two children, Linda and Karen.

Tragically, Mavis died of cancer in 1961. He married Carolyn in 1965 with whom he had four more children, Julie, Jane, Suzanne and John-Henry.

Irish FA president David Martin paid tribute saying: "Harry Gregg was one of the greatest players to come from our country and one of the heroes of Northern Ireland's famous 1958 World Cup squad."

Royal Family give a big swerve to Andy's 60th

PRINCE Andrew celebrated his 60th birthday on Wednesday with his daughters and Fergie – but the rest of the Royal Family were absent from the bash.

His parents and siblings skipped the dinner party at Royal Lodge, the home in Windsor Andrew shares with his former wife, Sarah. Only the Duchess of York and their daughters, Princess Beatrice and Princess Eugenie, attended from the family with Andrew's remaining close friends, according to royal sources. The Queen had been due to attend a grand reception to mark his landmark birthday, for organisations that have Andrew as patron. But that was cancelled in November when he was forced to stand down from official royal duties for the foreseeable future after a furious public backlash to a television interview about his friendship with convicted sex offender Jeffrey Epstein.

Fergie, who has organised the dinner party, had to invite extra guests because of the number of old friends who have discovered they are busy and were unavailable, it was reported. Buckingham Palace refused to comment, saying: "It's a private event. So we are not commenting." Another pal of Andrew's said: "All I know is that it is a small dinner party for close friends and family."

With the FBI and US attorneys wanting to question the Duke about his friendship with Epstein, who was found hanged in August in a New York prison cell awaiting sex trafficking charges, the Government has ruled that its buildings will not be required to fly the Union flag to celebrate Andrew's birthday. Normally they would do but, after a review, Whitehall officials decided it was not necessary for a member of the Royal Family who had stepped back from public duties. Many government buildings fly the Union flag year-round anyway though. However, the bells of Westminster Abbey still rung out to celebrate, as it is a Royal Peculiar – a place of worship that falls under the jurisdiction of the monarch rather than a bishop. The abbey also marks the birthdays of the Queen, Duke of Edinburgh, their children, and the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge and their children.

Basil Brush says final 'boom boom' to old friend Derek Fowlds

BASIL Brush said his last "boom boom" to an old friend this week as he spoke at the funeral of former co-star Mr Derek.

More than 200 people were on hand to pay their last respects to the veteran actor Derek Fowlds, who died last month aged 82. Derek appeared in scores of TV series, but is fondly remembered for his appearances on The Basil Brush Show between 1969 and 1973. And the famous fox puppet was among the mourners at the service, where he "popped up from the pulpit", according to Rev Andrew Evans.

Basil later wrote on Twitter: "Yesterday, we said a final goodbye to my Mr Derek at his local church in Holt, Wiltshire. "A lovely service with lots of old chums of TV and theatre. Vicar helped me up to the pulpit so I could give a speech and recite a little poem to my dearest friend. RIP Mr Derek."

He later shared a touching poem, which read: "Mr Derek, Mr Derek, Mr Derek, what is a fox to do? 'I've gone and lost my Mister, won't be the same without you. Stars begged to be in our show, that much is not contested. Big names of the 70s, even some who weren't arrested. 'I'll interrupt no more, old chum, the stage is now all yours. That sound we love, it's all for you. For Mr Derek, applause."

Derek, who also appeared in TV classics Yes Minister and Heartbeat, died at the Royal United Hospital in Bath on January 17 surrounded by his family. Rev Evans said people had managed to attend the service on Monday despite the flood waters. And he added of the pint-sized star at the service: "I just announced him as a special guest and Basil delivered a little poem he'd written. "He did some boom booms and even sang one of their songs. It was a very moving service."

UK's oldest woman dies at 111

BRITAIN'S oldest person has died aged 111, it was announced on Tuesday.

Hilda Clulow died peacefully on Christmas Eve with family and friends by her side at her care home. She was born on March 15, 1908, just seven years after the death of Queen Victoria. Hilda lived through 27 prime ministers and five monarchs. Last March, she celebrated her 111th birthday with a 1940s-themed party. She spent more than 50 years of her life retired after working as a dressmaker at a factory in Balsall Heath, Birmingham. She later became a resident at the Bowood Court & Mews Care Home, in Redditch, Worcs.

Care assistant Jackie Hayden said: "Hilda changed everyone's life within the home. I don't feel she truly knew how much she was loved, although we made sure we told her every day.

"After she lost her speech Hilda would play us up by pulling faces at dinner.

"I used to ask her if I was her favourite carer and she would smile and nod. Then I would hear another carer ask her the same and she would respond in the same way. I'd walk in and say that I thought it was me, she'd just wink and grin at me. She was always making us smile."

Also featured is the Lotus Esprit S1 Submarine from 1977's The Spy Who Loved Me, the Little Nellie autogyro from

You Only Live Twice in 1967, Thunderball's BellTextron jet pack from 1965 and the Aston Martin DB5 from Skyfall in 2012.

There are limited edition handstamps too, one of which carries the line: "We've been expecting you."

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DAVID DENISON LAMBERT, IV

Case No. 19STPB11098

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of DAVID DENISON LAMBERT, IV A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Barbara G. Lambert in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Barbara G. Lambert be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Feb. 27, 2020 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 4 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

ARIES: Its would be good to delay making any plans concerning travel till later. Mercury is moving backwards for three weeks and could disrupt your plans.

TAURUS: You have possibly been procrastinating over unfinished business of some kind. You have a couple of weeks to finish up so start soonest. You will be ok by next week.

GEMINI: Your boss Mercury is likely bringing up emotional situations that are better dealt with upfront. If this does not apply to you just keep a low profile until month's end. It will be for your overall peace of mind.

CANCER: Be extra careful exercising and driving. You likely have many things on your mind right now and you should of course take action to resolve them. It's going to get better, regardless.

LEO: Positive thinking is the way to go this week ahead now that your boss the Sun is moving through watery Pisces. Try to up your daily exercise for a while - it will help.

VIRGO: The Sun traveling in your watery opposite sign of Pisces will probably not be a very productive time for you currently. Do what you can and enjoy the down time.

LIBRA: Some people could be over reacting around you. It is probably nothing to do with you, however keep cool and do not get involved. It is all back to normal by midweek.

SCORPIO: It's time to lighten up as Mercury moves backwards in your cousin sign of Pisces. Your finances are on the way up after a long dry period. Expect people from your past to contact you. It will be good for you

SAGITTARIUS: You can expect to have to revisit a recent family problem these next few days. By now you know that it's not easy, however it has to be dealt with head-on. Do not be bullied by anyone.

CAPRICORN: Mercury going backwards can mess with travel plans. If you have no choice but to go then be sure to plan ahead. Do not give more of what you can afford, emotional or physically.

AQUARIUS: Now you are in your new year get your plans ready to go. Whatever that means to you there is no better time than now to set up for the rest of your year.

PISCES: This is a time of mixed messages to you. While Mercury is going backwards in your own sign it's best to keep a low profile and do not react. Be around loved ones who have your back. Happy Birthday!

Meet a Member: Paul Blanchard

Not all Brits in LA Members live in Los Angeles: in fact, a fair number are scattered around the globe.

This week's Meet a Member is Paul Blanchard who lives in Milton Keynes but visits Los Angeles every two weeks to work with clients of his reputation management business, Right Angles.

Seeing as you don't live in Los Angeles how did you end up joining Brits in LA?

Brits in LA was very helpful to me as I took those first steps towards expanding my business there and dipping my toe in the Hollywood waters. The sense of community is fantastic, it's a warm and welcoming group, also an outward looking one, and I felt accepted right away. Especially at events like Brits in LA Pub Quiz.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

What a great question. My first experience of LA was 17 years ago when I got married. For our honeymoon we did a whirlwind tour of US cities and spent three days in LA, staying in Hollywood. It's a cliché to say it but Hollywood wasn't as glamorous as the movies made it seem, it was a bit grimy. We went downtown naively thinking it might be a five-minute drive and the sheer vastness of LA was a big surprise. My first impression was we should have planned better. I've been back to LA so many times since and now I know it incredibly well and have grown to love the city.

Do you think you could ever see yourself moving to LA, if not tell us what keeps you in Milton Keynes?

I would love to live in LA, and already spend every other week in America, but go where the work is. I look after global leaders and we have nearly 45 of them based all around the world so I go where they are. I maximize my time in LA with six or seven meetings per day, so I don't have time for jet lag.

What do you miss most from home when you're here?

Very easy answer: my dogs Billy and Betty. They are miniature German schnauzers. My wife comes with me on every other work trip and being away so much we feel like part-time doggy parents.

What do you find the biggest difference is between Los Angeles and Milton Keynes?

Apart from the weather it would be the prosperity. I am no fan of President Trump at all but it can't be denied that the US economy is booming whereas in Britain there's much uncertainty around Brexit. I can meet five prospective clients in LA and four will sign but in Britain only two out of five will sign. I'm just as handsome and charismatic in both places so either they understand thought leadership better in the States or the economy is better.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

...in LA, 'yes' doesn't necessarily mean yes."
- Paul Blanchard

I love Neuehouse on Sunset. I'm a member of most of the clubs you'd expect but that one is fantastic because it's not a café it's a creative space but much more work focused than the others and I find it a great place to base myself in LA. The new downtown Neuehouse is great too.

We hear you have been working on an exciting project. Care to tell us more about it?

Lots of people come to LA hoping to reinvent themselves and Right Angles can help them with that. We work with a lot of high net worth individuals who want to crack Hollywood and are excited to take the methodologies we've used with clients in Europe and on the East Coast to make them even more successful amid the bright lights.

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

That in LA, 'yes' doesn't necessarily mean yes. But that doesn't mean everything you hear is bullsh-t.

People in LA are naturally enthusiastic, say yes to so many things and make their promises in the moment. You have to work hard to make sure those promises are delivered.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Do it - there's a lot of prosperity and opportunity in LA and a lot of really nice people doing great work.

It's a lifestyle all of its own and will either charm and seduce you or it won't. But if it does, you can have a great life.

Lastly, how can we find you on the Internet?

Check out the my company website www.right-angles.global, or find me on Instagram at @paulwrbanchard or alternatively you can email me on LosAngeles@right-angles.global

Celtic take home slender lead

Fraser Forster's dramatic late penalty save ensured Celtic's away goal gives them a narrow 1-0 advantage after their Europa League last-32 1-1 stalemate in Copenhagen.

Odsonne Edouard earned Neil Lennon's team a deserved lead in the first leg before the hosts launched a second-half surge on Thursday.

Dame N'Doye levelled before Forster acrobatically denied Jens Stage from the spot after a VAR penalty check.

The return is in Glasgow next Thursday.

Edouard's 24th strike of the season was the first away goal Celtic have scored in the knockout stage of a European competition since Henrik Larsson's winner against Boavista in 2003.

Lennon's side had to grind out large spells of the second half, but he will be frustrated his team only went into half-time just one goal to the good as Edouard had two one-on-one efforts saved by Karl-Johan Johnsson.

A game the visitors had in the palm of their hand was all of a sudden up for grabs. The ebb and flow made for compulsive viewing but still the chances mainly fell Celtic's way. The feeling that things may slip away from Celtic grew when captain Scott Brown went off injured, replaced by Nir Bitton.

It was remarkable, given the first half, that Celtic were now clinging on to a draw. A late chance for Forrest that he squandered from a tight angle could have changed the narrative once more.

So Celtic fail to win a match for the first time this year, despite their numerous chances. They have 90 minutes in Glasgow in front of their home fans to secure safe passage to the last 16.

Martial ensures honors even for United Anthony Martial scored his 14th goal of the season as Manchester United drew 1-1 at Club Bruges in the first leg of their Europa League last-32 tie on Thursday.

The visitors started poorly and fell behind when Emmanuel Dennis lobbed Sergio Romero early in the first half.

United equalised when Martial raced through to beat ex-Liverpool keeper Simon Mignolet one-on-one.

Mignolet tipped a Martial shot onto the post but Odilon Kossounou should have won it for Bruges but bent wide.

January signing Odion Ighalo made his second appearance from the bench in as many games in the closing stages but did not really have an opportunity to show what he could be capable of in a Manchester United shirt.

In the end, the visitors will be the happier of the two sides after securing a potentially crucial away goal despite a largely below-par performance not helped by the difficult conditions created by persistent heavy rain and a strong wind.

The two sides will meet again at Old Trafford on 27 February.

After back-to-back Premier League defeats in January, Manchester United have enjoyed an upturn in form in recent weeks with three wins and a draw in their four games before the trip to Belgium.

An impressive 2-0 win at Chelsea on Monday gave United the ideal platform to build on but six changes to that side threatened to disrupt any momentum they were building and so it proved as the visitors put in a disjointed and uninspiring performance for large periods of this game.

United's three-man defence - particularly in the opening half hour - looked fragile and exposed and Ole Gunnar Solskjaer's side failed to heed an early warning when Nigerian striker Dennis got in on the right before Victor Lindelof scrambled away.

Consequently, they were punished after 15 minutes when Mignolet launched a pass down the pitch and Dennis got in between two defenders before coolly lifting the ball over the onrushing Romero.

From then on Bruges looked certain to add to their lead as United struggled to settle but a mistake at the back was clinically pounced on by Martial as he ran on to a poor throw-in, outpaced a defender before beating Mignolet at his near post.

Martial has often struggled to live up to the high expectations placed upon him when United paid £36m to sign the forward from Monaco in 2015, making him the most expensive teenager in world football.

However, he was the standout United player in this game and was unlucky not to add a second when Mignolet pushed his shot onto the post just before half-time.

Martial has now scored in back-to-back games and, with 14 goals to his name already, he is on course to surpass his previous best tally for a season - the 17 he scored in his debut campaign for United in 2015-16.

Another positive to come from the game was the late cameo from Bruno Fernandes. The Portugal midfielder - signed from Sporting Lisbon in January - was introduced with nine minutes to go but his desire to get the ball and his positive, forward thinking was yet another indication that he can become a key player for United in the coming seasons.

Club Bruges went into this game as a side in form. The Belgians are the runaway leaders in their domestic league and were unbeaten in their 12 previous games in all competitions.

The confidence such a good run provides was evident from the outset as they took the game to United, led by the hugely impressive Dennis.

The Nigeria international has shown he is a player for the big occasions, having scored two goals against Real Madrid in the Champions League this season - before Bruges dropped into the Europa League - and he was unfortunate not to finish with a couple of goals on Thursday.

His quick feet and good close control was a constant menace to the visiting defence and he will be the player Solskjaer's side will need to be the most wary of if they are to avoid an upset in the return leg.

Rangers pull off amazing comeback at Ibrox

Rangers pulled off an astonishing late comeback from 2-0 down to rescue their Europa League hopes with a dramatic victory over Braga at Ibrox on Thursday.

The slick Portuguese were dominant and cruising in the last-32 first leg after goals from Fransergio and Abel Ruiz.

But Rangers hit back with an Ianis Hagi double either side of Joe Aribo's superb solo goal in a 15-minute flurry.

The Scottish side, though, will be without suspended top scorer Alfredo Morelos in Wednesday's second leg.

The Colombian's first-half booking earned him a ban that could prove costly next week, but there was only jubilation at full-time after a famous and improbable fightback that will live long in the memory.

He added: "I'm not worried with the 1-0 - we can go there and win. What worries me is that these are our players for the next however many matches."

Mourinho also gave his view on Alli throwing a water-bottle down in response to being substituted.

"I think he was angry with his performance," added the Spurs boss. "Not with me. I think he understands why I took him off and the team improved."

■ Reds beaten at last after defensive masterclass from Simeone's men in Wanda Metropolitano cauldron

Liverpool's defence of their Champions League title hangs in the balance after Saul Niguez's early strike gave Atletico Madrid a 1-0 aggregate lead going into the second leg of their last-16 tie at Anfield on Tuesday.

The Reds were given a dose of their own medicine as Atletico harried and hassled throughout, limiting them to just two clear chances and no shots on target.

Those opportunities fell to Mohamed Salah, who headed wide, and Jordan Henderson, whose hooked shot just missed Jan Oblak's far post.

Klopp replaced Sadio Mane and Salah with Divock Origi and Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain but neither made an impact.

Two-time finalists Atletico, who have been on a poor run of form, held on to a fourth-minute lead given to them by Saul.

The Spanish midfielder turned sharply to fire home after a corner came off the boot of Fabinho.

The return leg is on Wednesday, 11 March.

Minutes before kick-off Klopp referred to Atletico having a similar "intense DNA" to his own side - and unfortunately for him they were at their intense best.

What faced the Reds was almost a mirror image - a team that relentlessly pressed and got numbers forward on the counter.

The Reds had large spells of possession in the opposition half, but Diego Simeone's Atletico side are past masters at dealing with teams of that type. They forced Liverpool into several errors when they had possession, and limited them to only two clear chances on goal.

In fact, Liverpool had to wait until the 53rd minute for their first opening - Salah's stooping header drifting comfortably wide.

The German coach, obviously not happy with his attacking threat in the first half, had twisted at half-time when he brought on Origi for the under-par Mane.

However, the Belgium striker - the hero of last year's final - was easily marshalled, bar one moment of quality when he hooked in a cross for captain Henderson, who fired wide.

Klopp's skipper came off injured in the 80th minute to cap a forgettable night.

Liverpool have it in them to turn this tie around at Anfield, but unlike Barcelona in last year's semi-final, Simeone's Atletico will be a tougher nut to crack. Klopp men's will have to be at their very best in three weeks.

Moan-rinho redux as Leipzig leave Spurs chasing shadows

Tottenham playing RB Leipzig in Wednesday's 1-0 loss was like "going to fight with a gun without bullets", said Jose Mourinho as he bemoaned the recent injuries to key players.

Spurs were without potent forward duo Harry Kane and Son Heung-min, and neither substitute Erik Lamela and Tanguy Ndombele was fully fit.

"We are really in trouble," he said.

"If it was just this game I'd say no problem but we have FA Cup and Premier League games."

Mourinho was interviewed by BT

Sport's Des Kelly who he sarcastically thanked, referring to the scheduling of Spurs' next match - against Chelsea on Saturday at 12:30 GMT, which is being shown by the broadcasters.

The London club then play Wolves, Norwich in the cup and Burnley before the return leg in Germany on 10 March.

Tottenham were outplayed by Leipzig, whose goal was scored by Timo Werner, although they improved after Dele Alli and Gedson Fernandes were replaced by Lamela and Ndombele.

Asked whether "the real Spurs" came to life after those changes, the Portuguese boss said: "What do you mean by 'the real Spurs'?"

"Lamela. You know how many training sessions with the team? Zero. Direct from injury to recovery with physios and then direct to 20 minutes in the Champions League.

"I knew Lamela could only give us 20 minutes and I knew Ndombele could not play for 90 minutes. I tried to manage the pieces I had.
