"No discussion. No consultation. Millions of lives affected by Whitehall diktat."

Johnson: he's no king of the north!

■ Uroar as PM orders drastic new Covid closures without telling local leaders

Boris Johnson has angered leaders in northern England by deciding to close pubs and restaurants in some areas without telling them.

The prime minister signed off on the lockdown Wednesday night alongside new financial support and a simplified system of restrictions in England, as concern mounts in government about the risk of seeing hospitals overwhelmed by a rising number of coronavirus cases.

The measures will include wage support for employees of businesses that were forced back into lockdown three months after opening. The new system divides England into three tiers of escalating severity.

Merseyside and other parts of northern England will be placed in the highest tier as some hospitals start to run out of dedicated Covid beds and infections rise sharply. Businesses such as pubs, restaurants and cafés in this tier will have to close, with leisure venues and hairdressers also likely to be shut. Schools, universities and other businesses will remain open.

After the news broke leaders in the region attacked the government for allowing it to leak without briefing them first. It is understood that a briefing planned with local health officials last night was cancelled Wednesday afternoon as ministers finalized the plans in Whitehall.

"No discussion. No consultation. Millions of lives affected by Whitehall diktat. It is proving impossible to deal with this government", Andy Burnham, mayor of Greater Manchester, tweeted.

Steve Rotheram, mayor of the Liverpool city region, said in a statement: "It is deeply disappointing to wake up this morning to reports that new Covid-19 affecting restrictions millions of people in our city region, and across the north, could be in place within days, rather than hearing it during a genuine dialogue between ministers and local leaders."

Speaking on Good Morning Britain, Mr Rotheram added that people needed to understand the evidence behind the restrictions. "We are seeing a widening of the north-south divide and the north won't be a petri dish for some kind of experimentation," he cont. on page 3, col 2

ISIS 'Beatles' flown to US

■ British jihadis face life in prison on charges of hostage taking

Two British jihadists known as "the Beatles" and accused of being part of the Islamic State gang that kidnapped and beheaded western hostages were flown to the US from Iraq on Wednesday to face terrorism charges.

Alexanda Kotey, 36, and El Shafee Elsheikh, 32, face eight charges, including hostage-taking resulting in death and conspiracy to murder US citizens overseas. If convicted they could face life in prison.

At a brief initial appearance before a federal court in Alexandria, Elsheikh asked questions about his legal status. Asked if he wanted to hire his own lawyer or have one appointed, he said he didn't know how to answer.

"I don't know. I haven't had time to consult," he said via a videolink from a jail cell nearby. He wore a green T-shirt, handcuffs, long, unruly hair and a blue surgical mask he fiddled with and eventually removed. "Am I under arrest?" he asked Teresa Carroll Buchanan, the magistrate presiding over the hearing. He was informed that he was.

Kotey also asked about his status. "I'm just waiting to be briefed on what's going on," Kotey said. "This is all kind of foreign to me."

A public defender, Ken Troccoli, was appointed by the court to represent both men at the hearing.

Dennis Fitzpatrick, the prosecutor, said that five of the eight charges against the men carry a mandatory life sentence if convicted.

'leading participants'

A detention hearing and arraignment were scheduled for Friday, though Mr Troccoli told the judge he might request a delay so he has time to go over the indictment with his clients.

"These charges are the product of years of hard work in pursuit of justice for our citizens slain by Isis," William Barr, the attorney-general, said. "Although we cannot bring them back, we can and will seek justice for them, their families and for all Americans."

The indictment described the pair as "leading participants in a brutal hostage-taking scheme targeting Alexanda Kotey and El Shafee ElSheikh before their court appearance via video link in the United States Wednesday night. They were allegedly in the Isis gang that kidnapped and beheaded Western hostages including the journalist James Foley American and European citizens" from 2012 to 2015. It said that in July 2014. Elsheikh described to a family member his participation in an Islamic State attack on the Syrian army. He sent photos of decapitated heads and said in a voice message: "There's many heads, this is just a couple." He "was said to have earned a reputation waterboarding, mock executions, and crucifixions serving as an Isis jailer".

Kotey, according to the State Department, acted as an Islamic State recruiter and "likely engaged in the group's executions and exceptionally cruel torture methods, including electronic shock and waterboarding".

Kotey and Elsheikh are each charged with conspiracy to commit hostage taking resulting in death; four charges of hostage taking resulting in death; conspiracy to murder US citizens outside America; conspiracy to provide material support to terrorists and conspiracy provide material support to a designated foreign terrorist organisation resulting in death.

The announcement follows a decision by Britain to hand over intelligence assessments and other records to the US to assist their prosecution after a guarantee that the men would not receive the death penalty if convicted.

Kotey and Elsheikh acquired their nicknames, a reference to their British accents, from western hostages they are accused of holding in Isis-held territory in Syria between 2012 and 2014. They both deny killing any hostages.

Nagpaul: 'it's heartbreaking' Front line workers toll reaches 640

AT least 640 NHS and social care workers have died in England and Wales from Covid-19, with the final toll set to be higher.

Office for National Statistics figures show 625 deaths across England and Wales up to July 20. But recent fatalities have pushed that up to at least 640 with further deaths yet to be made public. A breakdown of the figures shows 60 per cent of those lost to the coronavirus were women.

The most recent recorded death was mental health nurse Wilbald Tesha, who worked in the UK for 30 years after moving from Tanzania. Described as "kind, caring and compassionate" and "someone who would do anything to help another", he was based at Eastbourne District General Hospital's department of psychiatry.

Dr Chaand Nagpaul, British Medical Association chair of council, said: "It's heartbreaking so many people who have dedicated lives and careers to caring for others have been lost. "The Government must take action now to guarantee that never again will NHS workers be put in danger because they don't have suitable PPE, risk assessments, shielding arrangements or testing facilities for themselves their or families."

Nottingham has worst Covid rates

Nottingham has the highest Covid-19 infection rate in the UK, according to the latest data.

Public Health England figures show that 689.1 per 100,000 people tested positive for the virus in the city over the past week.

Documents leaked earlier today indicate that new social distancing rules for Nottinghamshire are due to be announced on Monday.

Local politicians have criticised the delay in imposing restrictions.

Nottingham City Council leader David Mellen said the government's lack of action on new measures in Nottingham "makes absolutely no sense" and that "strict interventions are needed urgently".

The Labour politician said: "The delay leaves this weekend open to potential abuse of the existing rules, which could result in yet more Covid cases in our city."

Booze ban for Scots

NICOLA Sturgeon has imposed a booze ban on more than half of Scots in a Covid clampdown.

The First Minister ordered the closure of pubs, bars and restaurants across Scotland's central belt, including Edinburgh and Glasgow, after the country for recorded more than 1,000 cases in a single day for the first time.

The restrictions will cover some 3.3 million people - 60 per cent of Scotland's population while elsewhere outlets will only be able to serve alcohol outdoors.

Ms Sturgeon said "short, sharp" action was needed to prevent a return to the peaks seen in spring by the end of this month. She told MSPs that the rules, which started at 6pm Friday and last for at least 16 days, "will feel like a backward step" but were in the nation's best interests.

The SNP admitted they would "disruptive many businesses" and "unwelcome to many people" as she promised a £40million package for stricken firms.

But Holyrood's opposition parties demanded more detail and questioned the need for blanket closures.

And the Scottish Hospitality Group the accused First Minister of "effectively signing death sentence" for many firms. Spokesman Stephen Montgomery said: "This is not a 'short, sharp shock', rather crippling stranglehold that will result in many Scottish pubs and restaurants unable to reopen in lockdown areas if this becomes indefinite."

39 migrants perished in a 101F sealed 'tomb', Old Bailey jury told

A GANG left 39 Vietnamese migrants to die in a sealed lorry container in heat of 101F after smuggling them into Britain, the Old Bailey has heard.

A jury was told the sealed container became the victims' "tomb" as they perished in "unbearable" heat.

Bill Emlyn Jones, prosecuting, said the migrants, men and women aged from 15 to 44, tried in vain to call for help, with one 28-year-old woman texting: "Maybe going to die in the container, can't breathe any more dear."

The Crown alleged they paid the gang up to £10,000 each to be brought across the Channel to secure a better life in Britain.

But they were kept for at least 12 hours

"with no means of escape and no means of communication with the outside world". He said the desperate migrants had no phone signal.

The bodies were found by Maurice Robinson, a lorry driver paid to pick up the container at Purfleet, Essex, and give the migrants some air.

'tomb'

Mr Emlyn Jones said: "Robinson drove out of Purfleet port and almost immediately stopped and opened the doors at the back. What he found must haunt him still. For the 39 men and women inside, that lorry had become their tomb."

Another lorry driver, Eamonn Harrison, is said to have driven them to Zeebrugge, Belgium, for loading on to the Purfleet-bound

39 migrants were found dead inside the lorry last year

Harrison, 23, of Mayobridge, Co Down, and Gheorghe Nica, 43, of Basildon, Essex, deny 39 counts of manslaughter.

Nica has admitted conspiracy to assist unlawful immigration - a charge denied by Harrison, Valentin 37, Calota. of Birmingham, and Christopher Kennedy, 24, of Co Armagh. The court heard Robinson and haulage boss Ronan Hughes had pleaded guilty to the manslaughters and the people-smuggling plot.

Mr Emlyn Jones said the horror unfolded on October 22 last year when the 39 were loaded into the lorry in northern Europe. He said Nica was a "key player" and on the day after the landing was "primed" to meet the cargo.

The trial continues.

Mr Johnson had intended to announce the tiers on Thursday but was delayed by cabinet divisions over the system's thresholds and flexibility. The new date was agreed after Mr Sunak signed off a new version of the furlough scheme.

'locked out'

The prime minister faces a battle with his backbenchers the restrictions. He is already refusing to bow to pressure to modify a 10pm curfew on pubs and restaurants despite intense pressure from Tory MPs and the threat of a Commons defeat next week.

Gwynne, Andrew Labour MP for Denton & Reddish in Greater Manchester, told reporters "absolutely scandalous" that they were not briefed beforehand "given the government made such a fuss that MPs had to be involved in the process of easing or introducing restrictions".

He added: "Worse still, local leaders who have to enforce these rules have been completely locked out of the process and it's a shocking way for businesses, who will be worried, to find out watching the news last night".

Mr Gwynne "not convinced" that any closure of pubs and restaurants would work. "All the evidence from Bolton, where they closed the pubs and restaurants, shows that coronavirus carried on spiralling anyway", he said.

Dan Jarvis, mayor of the Sheffield city region, said it was "recklessly irresponsible" to brief the media but "not leaders in the north who'll somehow have to make this work". Angela Rayner, deputy Labour leader and MP for Ashton-under-Lyne, tweeted that the prime minister was "treating millions of people in the north with contempt".

Robert Jenrick, the housing secretary, said: "None of us want to see local lockdowns for a day longer than necessary but rates are rising rapidly. There are very large differences between areas so it's right that we take a localised, proportionate response."

He acknowledged "frustration" that cases had not fallen as hoped in some restricted areas and insisted: "If we hadn't taken these measures cases would be even higher". But he said he was working with Rishi Sunak, the chancellor, to consider fresh support for the hospitality sector because businesses could be put in a "really difficult, intolerable position".

The wage support for affected workers will be more generous than the successor scheme announced by Sunak last month, which subsidises a fifth of parttime wages, Whitehall sources said.

Wednesday On further 14,162 coronavirus cases and 70 deaths were recorded.

House prices on the up but will lockdown bubble burst?

life-changing impact of lockdown is fuelling a surge in the housing market, experts have said.

People working from home want more space and, as they spend more time in their communities, are seeking to head out of cities to more rural areas.

The housing market has been dubbed the economy's "iron lung" – but experts fear the boom will not last.

Britain's biggest mortgage lender the Halifax this week said pent-up demand for bigger homes, record low interest rates and the stamp duty holiday have fuelled a 7.3 per cent annual jump in values.

The lender's latest property price index also records a monthly rise of 1.6 per cent and a quarterly jump of 3.3 per typical Α threebedroom semi now costs £249,870 – up from £232,806 in September last year and a rise of £17,064.

Russell Galley, managing director at Halifax, said: "Few would dispute that the performance of the housing market has been extremely strong since lockdown restrictions began to ease in May. "There has been a fundamental shift in demand from buyers

brought about by the

structural effects

increased home working and a desire for more space."

Lucy Pendleton, of estate agents James Pendleton, said: "The Halifax index underlines just how much the housing market has become the economy's iron lung of late, while its other vital signs flash amber at best."

But she warned: "The market's rate of climb has been as steep as it has been artificial so don't expect this to last."

And Mr Galley "significant predicts downward pressure" as job support measures are scaled back and the impact of the pandemic

Meet a Member: Rachel Walters

Meet Rachel from Ascot who moved to LA seven years ago to pursue acting.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

I chose LA since it is the headquarters and the heart of the entertainment business.

What do you miss most from home?

I miss the food the most from home. Going to Jack's for fish and chips, Nandos, going to the local pub for pub grub, and my absolute favorite, sausage rolls.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

My first impression of LA was when I visited for a week before I moved and I thought it was so clean. The roads were clean and well maintained and that veil was quickly removed after I moved here and had to drive out of the touristy areas.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus Ascot?
The speed of life.
Everyone out here is constantly working and moving on different life projects and the speed of life is much faster than back at Ascot.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

I am now living in the OC and I love it down here. The Irvine Spectrum is not a hidden gem, but it is my go-to place when I want to meet up with friends.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

I was very lucky to get a group of friends and a support system out here so quickly after I moved. The apartment complex I lived in was very social and it was easy to meet fellow actors and connect with them as friends I would suggest that you find ways to be social and grow your group of friends since LA can be a very isolating and lonely place. It can be hard to find genuine people out here, but when you do, they will be your friends

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

When you feel like you are stuck in a downward cycle and it seems like there's no way out. Imagine this cycle is made up of dominos. All you have to do is remove one domino to stop the next one from being knocked down. When you are feeling overwhelmed just take a step back to remove yourself from knocking the next domino and that will help you to get control over your situation.

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you working on anything at the moment? Right now I have an Etsy shop where I sell cards, posters, and pins of my own design. You can find it at As Long As Life Keeps Pushing Me I will by RachelWaltersDesigns.

Mixed results for the Irish

Northern Ireland beat Bosnia-Herzegovina 4-3 on penalties on Thursday to go through to final of the Euro 2020 play-offs in hugely dramatic fashion.

The visitors the shoot-out after an enthralling match in Sarajevo finished 1-1 after extra-time.

Liam Boyce scored the winning penalty for Ian Baraclough's men after Bailey Peacock-Farrell saved from Haris Hajradinovic and Edin Visca missed.

Niall McGinn equalised for NI after Rade Krunic had opened the scoring.

NI will now play Slovakia in the play-off final in November after they defeated the Republic of Ireland on penalties in Bratislava

 The Republic of Ireland's hopes qualification for the Euro 2020 Finals are over after they lost 4-2 on penalties in the play-off in Slovakia.

The game was goalless following extra-time after the Republic missed a series of glorious opportunities.

Hourihane Conor wasted the best Irish chance late in normal time with sub Alan Browne hitting the woodwork.

Browne then saw his penalty saved by Slovak keeper Marek Rodak before Matt Doherty's miss sealed the home win.

It was a devastating conclusion the to Republic's Euro 2020 qualifying campaign which saw Stephen Kenny taking over the managerial reins from Mick McCarthy heading into the play-off.

Kenny's side undoubtedly deserved to progress to an all-Irish play-off final with Northern Ireland in Belfast on 12 November but were undone by a combination of poor finishing and bad luck.

Ozil omitted from Gunners Europa League squad

Midfielder Mesut Ozil (above) has been left out of Arsenal's Europa League squad for the forthcoming campaign.

31-year-old's The future at the club remains uncertain after being persistently left out of the side by manager Mikel Arteta.

The Germany international has not played for the Gunners since March.

New £45m signing Thomas Partey has been included in the 25-man squad before their first Group B fixture against Rapid Vienna on 22 October.

The former Atletico midfielder Madrid joined the Gunners on deadline day.

There is also no place in Arsenal's squad for defenders Sokratis Papastathopoulos William Saliba.

In addition to Rapid Vienna, the Gunners will also face Irish side Dundalk and Molde from Norway in the group stages.

On Tuesday, Ozil, who joined the club for a then record £42.4m in 2013 and whose contract is set to expire at the end of this season, said he would pay the salary of the man who plays club mascot Gunnersaurus, who was made redundant recently.

Pogba reveals Real dream

Manchester United midfielder Paul Pogba has admitted that it is a dream of his to play for Real Madrid one day.

But the 27-year-old added that he will "do everything" to put United "where the club deserves" to be.

The France player has regularly been linked with a move away from the team he re-joined for £89m in 2016.

Dream debut for DCL

■ Coady and Ings also on the scoresheet as Southgate's boys stroll to victory

International Friendly England.....3 Wales.....0

Dominic Calvert-Lewin marked his England debut with a goal as Gareth Southgate's side eased to victory in the friendly against Wales at Wembley on Thursday.

Everton's in-form striker rose to head his 10th goal of the season after 26 minutes from Jack Grealish, delivering an impressive all-round display until he was substituted just before the hour.

outstanding The Grealish was at the heart of England's best work, drawing the foul that led to England's second goal eight minutes after the break. Kieran Trippier delivered a perfect freekick that was turned in by an ecstatic Conor Coady for his first international England were now in control against a Wales side defending an eightmatch unbeaten run and Danny Ings, making his first start, showed superb athleticism to add a third in the 63rd minutre with a perfectlyexecuted overhead kick after Tyrone Mings had headed down a Kalvin Phillips corner.

Calvert-Lewin was the Premier League's striker in form with nine goals for Everton - so it was no surprise this was an England debut bursting with confidence.

The 23-year-old has matured rapidly and all that development was on show as he delivered further illustration that he has what it takes to become the complete Calvert-Lewin's attitude and workrate have never been in question but his goals output has. Now, with Everton top of the Premier League under manager Carlo Ancelotti, he cannot stop scoring.

Here, he was the beneficiary of brilliant work by Grealish, whose cross from the right was the sort any striker dreams of, Calvert-Lewin soaring to power in the header.

He was taken off just before the hour but his power in the air, close control, hold-up play and strong running made this an impressive bow.

England's other contender for the manof-the-match award was Grealish, who had waited so long for his international debut and finally got on for 14 minutes in the dismal goalless draw against Denmark in Copenhagen in early September.

Here, given his first start. Aston captain ran the show from midfield, drifting into dangerous positions, creating danger and constantly drawing fouls in dangerous positions.

Grealish gave a topclass performance and his contribution, along with that of debutant Calvert-Lewin, will have delighted Southgate.

The added bonus came with all three goalscorers getting off the mark with their first goals for England.

Wales were missing their two big stars, the injured Gareth Bale and the unavailable Aaron Ramsey - who will now join up with the squad. Ramsey missed this game under coronavirus protocols, with Juventus having put their squad in a bubble last Saturday after two non-playing staff tested positive.

Those absences showed as they had a fair amount of possession in the first half but created little - it might have been different had those two been present.

Giggs will have been casting his eyes towards the Uefa Nations League games against the Republic of Ireland and Bulgaria - so one of his biggest concerns would have been the injury that

USING HIS HEAD: Calvert-Lewis puts England ahead in the 26th minute forced off key striker Kieffer Moore in the first

He will have been worried too by Wales' vulnerability to crosses and set-piece deliveries, which brought England's three goals.

Wales have important tests ahead and while this was an experimental night for Giggs, it was still a disappointing outcome.

Scots edge closer to Euro finals

Scotland are one game on 12 November now away from their first major finals since 1998 after a nerve-shredding win on penalties against Israel at Hampden.

Kenny McLean scored the pivotal spot-kick in the depleted Scots' first ever shootout, with only a victory in Serbia separating Steve Clarke's men from Euro 2020.

It was a turgid goalless affair at an empty national stadium between two below-par teams, but five perfect penalties from the hosts have a nation daring to dream of reaching a longawaited tournament.

Scotland, without a clutch of players after call-offs due to Covid-19 protocols and injury, are now on a six-game unbeaten run.

Serbia now lie in wait after they defeated Norway 2-1 in extra time in Oslo.
