ROYAL PEACE SUMMIT GOES NOWHERE

■ Charles and William finally hold talks with Harry...but they are 'not productive'

HOPES of a reconciliation between Prince Charles, William and Harry have hit a setback with initial talks described as "not productive".

Wednesday's videocall summit to heal the rift broke up without a breakthrough over resolving the Sussexes' claim of racism in the Royal Family.

The first steps towards ending the monarchy's worst crisis since Princess Diana's death led to Harry chatting to both his brother and father, according to US news host Gayle King.

Palace officials have been desperate to keep a lid on the bust-up that erupted after the Duke and Duchess gave an explosive interview to chat show queen Oprah Winfrey.

King - who has joined Oprah as a close friend of Harry and Meghan - revealed the further blow to the family's shattered relationships, live on air in America.

She said: "I did actually call [the Duke and Duchess] to see how they were feeling and it's true Harry has talked to his brother and has talked to his father too.

"The word I was given was that those conversations were not productive but they are glad that they have at least started a conversation.

"And I think what is still upsetting to them is that the Palace keeps saying they want to work it out privately, but yet they believe these false stories are coming out that are very disparaging against Meghan still.

'frustrating'

"No one in the Royal Family has talked to Meghan yet, at this particular time.

"I think it's frustrating for them to see that it's a racial conversation about the Royal Family when all they wanted all along was for the royals to intervene and tell the press to stop with the unfair, inaccurate, false stories that definitely have a racial slant."

The intervention by King, 66, on CBS This Morning adds fuel to an increasingly toxic briefing war that is being conducted by the respective rival royal camps.

Meghan claims that she and the couple's son Archie were discriminated against because of the colour of their skin.

Ex-Palace staff, meanwhile, have alleged the Duchess bullied staff. One former senior aide said: "It's despicable that she's played the race card."

The Sussexes have accused a royal household member - not the Queen nor the Duke of Edinburgh - of raising concerns about how dark Archie's skin tone would be.

Meghan also claimed she asked for help when she was suicidal, but said the institution gave her no support.

tell all session

King spoke out after Michelle Obama urged Harry and Meghan to heal their rift with Buckingham Palace.

The former US First Lady, who knows Harry well, revealed her thoughts about the SITUATION FROSTY: The gulf between Harry and William remains wide

Oprah interview.

Mrs Obama said on Access Hollywood: "My hope is that, when I think about what they're going through, I think about the importance of family and I just pray that there is forgiveness and there is clarity and love and resolve at some point in time.

"Because there's nothing more important than family."

Harry, 36, and Meghan, 39, opened up about their time as senior royals during their tell-all session with Oprah.

Their bombshell claims included that they had been cut off financially, that Archie was prevented from being made a prince - and that there were "concerns and conversations about how dark [their son's] skin might be".

Mrs Obama had been asked on America's Today show about her time in the White House with her president husband Barack.

Jenna Bush Hager said to her: "I wonder, when you watched Meghan Markle speak out the other night, what went through your mind?"

The 57-year-old replied: "Public service, it's a bright, sharp, hot spotlight and most people don't understand it, and nor should they.

"The thing that I always keep in mind is that none of this is about us in public service. It's about the people that we serve."

Yard chief back vigil arrests and vows: I won't quit

■ London vigil for slain woman posed 'considerable risk' to public health, says London's top cop

POLICE chief Cressida Dick has defended her officers over their response to the "illegal" London vigil in memory of Sarah Everard and refused to heed a call to quit.

The Metropolitan Police Commissioner said the event posed a "considerable risk" to health after large crowds gathered at the weekend event on London's Clapham Common, dismissing "armchair" critics.

Liberal Democrat leader Sir Ed Davey had called on her to consider resigning.

But at the Yard, asked if she was considering her position, Dame Cressida replied: "No I am not."

Labour leader Sir Keir Starmer insisted the police action was "wrong" and said he was "very disturbed" by the scenes. But he said she should remain in post.

Her defence of the police operation came as thousands of protesters took to the streets of central London.

They staged a "lie-in" in Westminster's Parliament Square, in protest at police tactics on Saturday night when four people were arrested and crowds dispersed.

They also protested outside New Scotland Yard yesterday, chanting "Shame on you".

Protesters held banners aloft, saying "Men your silence is deafening" and "Cressida you're a woman too". On Clapham Common well-wishers laid flowers at the bandstand.

Boris Johnson spoke to Dame Cressida after anger grew over the arrests of women who had gathered to remember Ms Everard, who she disappeared walking home to Brixton from Clapham. Police officer Wayne Couzens, 48, from Deal, Kent has been charged with her kidnap and murder.

And Home Secretary Priti Patel backed the Met chief but believes there are still "questions to be answered" about how the event was policed.

CRESSIDA DICK: said officers were often in very difficult situations.

The Commissioner said Sarah's killing made her "more determined" to lead Scotland Yard.

She insisted officers were in an "invidious" position when crowds grew. She said: "They then moved to try to explain to people, to engage with people, to get people to disperse from this unlawful gathering and many, many, many people did. Unfortunately, a small minority did not."

Dame Cressida said officers were often in very difficult situations.

"They have to make these really difficult calls and I don't think anybody should be sitting back in an armchair and saying 'well that was done badly' or 'I would have done it differently' without actually understanding what was going through their minds."

Ms Patel has asked HM's Inspectorate of Constabulary to conduct a "lessons learned" review into how the vigil was policed. Ken Marsh, chairman of the Metropolitan Police Federation, said police were "damned if we do, damned if we don't".

Sarah Everard's death has sparked an outcry

'British society must change' to protect women

BORIS Johnson says a "cultural and social change" in attitudes is needed to stop the abuse of women by men.

The Prime Minister said the reaction to Sarah Everard's death was "justified and understandable" after a wave of anger about safety on British streets.

He backed Labour leader Sir Keir Starmer's "collegiate" approach to finding a solution but slammed the Opposition for trying to block new laws imposing tougher sentences.

He told MPs during Prime Minister's Questions: "Until women feel they are being heard and their complaints are being addressed by society, we will not fix this problem."

"We need a cultural and social change in attitudes. I welcome what he suggests and hope he can bring himself to vote for the tougher sentences we have set out."

Describing Ms Everard's death as a "watershed moment", Sir Keir called for a new offence of street harassment and to toughen up the law on stalking and sentences for rape and sexual violence.

Met Police officer Wayne Couzens, 48, is accused of kidnapping and murdering the 33-year-old marketing executive as she walked home from a friend's flat in Clapham, south London, on March 3. He is due to go on trial in the autumn.

Sir Keir said: "The awful events have lifted a veil on the epidemic of violence against women and girls."

"This must also be a watershed moment to change how we treat women and girls and how we prevent and end sexual violence and harassment."

Charles 'thrilled' as Philip is home after month in hospital

PRINCE Philip was "in good spirits" as he headed home to the Queen on Tuesday after a month in hospital on Wednesday.

Concern for the Duke had heightened because of his age – he turns 100 on June 10 – and the troubles that hit the monarchy while he was having treatment.

Prince Charles said of his father's reunion with the Queen: "It's very good news."

Philip spent 28 nights in two London hospitals, for heart surgery and treatment of an infection. Apart from four days in St Bart's for tests and the operation, he was an in-patient at the private King Edward VII's three miles away.

Charles – who visited his father last month and kept in touch by phone and video chat – was the first member of the Royal Family to react publicly to the Duke's discharge from hospital.

"I am thrilled about it," he said, smiling, on a visit to London's Finsbury Park Mosque.

Asked if he had talked to him yet, Charles, 72, said: "Oh yes, I have spoken to him several times."

Philip, who will be under orders to take it easy after his longest spell in hospital, used a wheelchair as he left hospital.

He was obscured by a screen erected at the rear of the building as he was helped into a chauffeur-driven saloon. Wearing a white shirt and yellow jumper, he turned to look at a waiting crowd before his car headed off to Windsor.

A Buckingham Palace statement said: "His Royal Highness wishes to thank all the medical staff who looked after him at both King Edward VII's Hospital and St Bartholomew's Hospital, and everyone who has sent their good wishes." A source added that he was "in good spirits".

Had a vaccination? Have a vacation!

■ Brits boosted as EU announces vaccination passport scheme

THE BELOVED British summer holiday abroad were given a shot in the arm this week as EU chiefs agreed plans for Covid vaccine travel passports.

A Digital Green Certificate would see tourists from Britain welcomed abroad once the scheme is up and running in June.

It will include proof of a vaccination, a negative Covid test and medical documents for those who have recovered from the virus in the last 180 days.

Eurocrats also hinted they could soon drop a bloc-wide travel ban on Britons because of the UK's hugely successful jobs rollout.

Holiday hotspots such as Greece, Portugal and Spain could use the certificates in a bid to reboot their tourism industries.

Greek prime minister Kyriakos Mitsotakis said they would "help boost tourism and the economies that rely heavily on it".

A number of countries including Estonia, Romania and Georgia are already waiving quarantine for non-EU arrivals who can prove they are fully vaccinated.

Approved

But other countries – such as France, Germany and Belgium – believe the EU pass is premature as they struggle to control Covid.

The Digital Green Certificate will show whether a person has had a vaccine approved by the European Medicines Agency. However, as yet neither the Russian nor the Chinese jab have been given the green light.

The passes will be in English as well as the language of the issuing member states, and in digital or paper formats.

European Commission vice-president Vera Jourova said: "We all want

ANNUAL RITUAL: British holidaymakers in Magaluf, Spain

the tourist season to start.

"We can't afford to lose another season. We're talking about tens of millions of jobs."

To secure the agreement of all member states, the commission proposed that the Digital Green Certificates would be delivered to EU residents who could prove they had been vaccinated, and also to those who tested negative or had proof they had recovered from the virus.

Under the plans, UK holidaymakers will be allowed to apply for a European vaccines passport to allow a summer trip to the continent.

But in the "medium term", Brussels said that the bloc would work with foreign governments in order to recognise their own job certificates.

The Brussels vaccines passport will be free to EU countries. There is no indication yet that Britons will be charged.

The commission said: "Being vaccinated will not be a pre-condition to travel. All EU citizens have a fundamental right to free movement in the EU and this applies whether they are vaccinated or not. The Digital Green Certificate will make it easier to exercise that right."

Eurocrats are yet to say when Britons can take advantage of the scheme, but it is expected to be in place before the summer. An official said: "The certificates are meant to support free movement within the EU. We will of course need to think about what to do about external borders, but there are no decisions yet.

However, the current UK-EU row over vaccines could see millions of families missing out this summer anyway.

Under-50s due to get jabs from the end of March are now likely to see a delay of a month. By the time they get their second dose the summer season could be over.

Cabinet Office minister Michael Gove is leading a review into plans for the UK to introduce a similar vaccine passport for travel, hospitality and entertainment.

Lineker's dementia test after years of heading footballs

■ 'Statistics are quite worrying,' says MOTD star after raft of former stars diagnosed with brain disease

GARY Lineker says he is going for a brain test, fearing he may one day suffer with dementia because of the link to heading footballs.

He and Match Of The Day co-stars Alan Shearer and Ian Wright believe there is a good chance one of them will be struck by it.

Gary, 60, revealed: "I've thought about it a lot, and especially now with seeing so many footballers seemingly get dementia.

"I mean, the statistics are quite worrying.

"I've had conversations with Alan Shearer and Ian Wright and various others about, you know, the worry that come 10, 15 years it might happen to one of us. In fact, the odds suggest that it probably will happen to one of us, so it is concerning."

The ex-Spurs and Barcelona ace fears he may follow England World Cup heroes Nobby Stiles and brothers Sir Bobby and Jack Charlton.

Sir Bobby's condition was announced last November. The 83-year-old won three league titles, a European Cup and an FA Cup with United during 17 years at Old Trafford.

He was the fifth member of England's 1966 World Cup-winning side to be diagnosed with dementia.

In addition to his brother Jack, and Stiles, who both died last year, Martin Peters and Ray Wilson also had the condition. They died in 2019 and 2018 respectively.

A recent study found that former professional football players had a three-and-a-half times higher rate of death due to dementia than expected.

Last week former Manchester United and Leeds United defender Gordon McQueen became the latest reported ex-pro to be affected.

Gary, who last year called for a ban on heading in training, said: "I have regular health checks anyway, which includes the brain...so far everything is OK. I think I'll have my triannual test this summer, after the Euros probably, and I will ask them to see if there's anything they can establish around the brain, because I don't see how, given the circumstances, any footballer wouldn't be worried."

Other high profile players hit by the illness include Celtic's Billy McNeill and former Northern Ireland boss Billy Bingham.

Ex-West Brom and

USING HIS NUT: Lineker in his England heyday

England forward Jeff Astle died in January 2002 aged 59 and later that year a landmark inquest ruling said his death was the result of an "industrial disease" resulting from heading footballs.

Football pundit and former Chelsea frontman Chris Sutton said he was considering suing the FA and the PFA after his dad Mike got dementia.

Mike, who like Chris played for Norwich City, died last Christmas aged 76 after his brain was ravaged by the condition.

A month before he died, his wife Josephine revealed they had visited a specialist in 2014 who said he had severe frontal and temporal lobe damage – caused by heading footballs and blows to the head.

Gary expressed his fears in a TalkSport radio documentary Dementia And Football, broadcast on Sunday – days after Parliament began an inquiry into the link between sport and long-term brain injury.

US country star joins Primrose Hillbillies

TAYLOR Swift has moved into a £7million townhouse in one of London's trendiest districts.

The US born multi-Grammy winning country singer (above, left) has found a love nest in Primrose Hill, north-west London, which she shares with British actor Joe Alwyn, 30 (above, right).

The couple spent most of lockdown in his flat in Crouch End, north London.

But the 31-year-old – said to be worth £350million – has upgraded to something a little more exclusive. Her arrival adds to a growing list of stars who migrated to the neighbourhood, including Kate Moss, Ewan McGregor, Sadie Frost and Jude Law.

But it could mean an awkward encounter with her former flames.

Two of her former boyfriends, singer Harry Styles and actor Tom Hiddleston, live close by.

Her permanent home remains the country music capital of the world, Nashville.

Nicola Sturgeon 'must resign': First minister blasted as inquiry finds she 'misled' Holyrood

SCOTTISH TORY leader Douglas Ross has said Nicola Sturgeon 'must resign' after a majority of MSPs on the Alex Salmond committee said the First Minister misled the inquiry.

Mr Ross said his party would wait to read the full findings of the committee, which is expected to be published in a report next Tuesday. But he insisted Ms Sturgeon should step down from her top role in light of the damning conclusion of MSPs. He tweeted: "The Committee will publish its findings in the coming days and we will wait for that report.

It is understood MSPs on the committee voted by five to four that Ms Sturgeon gave them an inaccurate account.

Sturgeon's spokesman insisted that the first minister told the truth during her eight-hour evidence session earlier this month.

AULD ALLIANCES? The committee has been examining the Scottish government's botched investigation of harassment complaints against Alex Salmond (above, left)

He added: "It is clear from past public statements that opposition members of this committee had prejudged the first minister at the outset of the inquiry and before hearing a word of her evidence.

"So this partisan and selective briefing - before the committee has actually published its final report - is hardly surprising."

A spokesman for the Scottish Parliament said the committee was still finalising its report, and it would not make any comment until it was published.

The committee has been examining the Scottish government's botched investigation of harassment complaints against Mr Salmond.

Oscar nominations: another strong showing for British talent

THE OSCAR nominations are in and there was large British presence among them, with Sacha Baron Cohen, Carey Mulligan, Olivia Colman, Daniel Kaluuya and Sir Anthony Hopkins all leading the charge.

Vanessa Kirby, Gary Oldman and Riz Ahmed are among the other UK nominees.

It's also the most diverse Oscars ever, with nine of the 20 acting nominees from ethnic minority backgrounds.

And two women were nominated for best director - the first time more than one woman has been shortlisted for that prize in the awards' 93-year history.

Chloe Zhao is nominated for directing Nomadland, and Britain's Emerald Fennell is recognised for Promising Young Woman.

Other nominated stars include Frances McDormand, Glenn Close, Viola Davis and the late Chadwick Boseman.

Mank, the black-and-white drama starring Oldman as Citizen Kane writer Herman Mankiewicz, leads the overall field with 10 nominations.

This year's winners will be announced on 25 April at a delayed ceremony that will take place at both the Dolby Theatre, the ceremony's normal home, and Los Angeles' main railway hub, Union Station.

The eight British acting nominees range from Ahmed, who receives his first Oscar nomination for playing a drummer who loses his hearing in Sound of Metal, to Sir Anthony,

Sacha Baron Cohen, Carey Mulligan and Riz Ahmed are among the British nominees whose performance as a man who loses his grip on reality in The Father earns him his sixth nomination.

At 83, he is the oldest person ever to be nominated for best actor. Sir Anthony and Ahmed are joined on the award's five-strong shortlist by Oldman, who won the trophy three years ago for playing Winston Churchill in Darkest Hour.

Colman will hope to repeat her 2019 success with The Favourite after being nominated this year for her role in The Father.

Carey Mulligan is nominated for Promising

Young Woman despite being shut out by this year's Baftas. The revenge thriller also earns Fennell - best known for her acting in Call the Midwife and The Crown - nominations for best picture and best original screenplay as well as best director.

Kirby, who also made her name on The Crown, is nominated for playing a traumatised mother in Pieces of a Woman, while Kaluuya and Baron Cohen are up for best supporting actor for Judas and the Black Messiah and The Trial of the Chicago 7 respectively.

Other British nominees include singer Celeste for best song, for her contribution to The Trial of the Chicago 7; and Aardman's A Shaun The Sheep Movie: Farmageddon, which is up for best animated film. Six black actors and actresses are nominated, equalling the record set in 2017. This year, Kaluuya, Boseman and Davis are joined by US stars Andra Day, LaKeith Stanfield and Leslie Odom Jr - who is also up for best original song.

Lockdown: one year later.....

Yes, it has been a whole year!

A year full of historic changes but also a year of setbacks and stagnation. This one-year anniversary of lockdown is not really a milestone to celebrate, but we should still give ourselves a pat on the back for getting through it. Perhaps the clocks changing and bringing us lighter evenings have something to do with it, but I definitely feel like a change is really coming this time. I am planning to take it super slow and enter this new world with trepidation; as although I am delighted that relative normality is in our near future, I am not certain I am ready for it just yet.

But in the meantime I am going to try and get my house in order, both figuratively and literally. Spring has sprung, which is the perfect time to clear the cobwebs and get organized as before we know it we will be back to business as usual. I am feeling very pleased with myself this week as I have already filed my taxes. They are usually due by April 15th but the government just announced they will be extending this for a month. So you now have until May 17th to get yours sorted. If you are not sure whether you need to file a tax return visit this link to the IRS questionnaire which will help you determine your status: <https://tinyurl.com/ykrzvavw>

I did a dummy run and answered all of the questions and I can assure you they don't ask anything that could identify you. I even put in the wrong date of birth, but it didn't matter as the questions they ask are very generic. Visit our Facebook group @ BritsinLA if you have both UK and US taxes to file but don't know where to begin, as lots of other members are sharing advice and recommendations over there. If you are not on Facebook drop us a line at BritsinLA@gmail.com and we will try to help you.

A few people I have spoken to didn't realize that they were eligible for the economic stimulus payments, but as long as you are a U.S. citizen, permanent resident or qualifying resident alien you should be receiving them. I just learned this week that homeless people also qualify, so if you happen to be between addresses and/or didn't have an income or file taxes 2020, don't assume this means you will be denied a cheque. Visit the IRS website to learn more, via the shortened link I created tinyurl.com/BritsinLAIRS.

I didn't realize until afterwards that Brits in LA combined with the word IRS would create the ominous sounding phrase 'Brits in Lairs'!

Rent relief news was finally announced this week - and not a moment too soon! I am fortunate enough to still be in a position to pay my rent although I know many of my neighbors aren't. I can't believe it has taken 12 months for California to come up with a relief plan. I know there has been a moratorium on evictions but I don't think that extended to helping the landlords with their mortgage payments. This rent relief program was launched on March 15th and is hoping to help all parties, if for some reason you don't qualify don't despair as local municipalities are expected to set motions soon.

line if you are having trouble navigating the site. Don't forget that our friends at the British Benevolent Society are also offering grants to Brits in need, if you haven't applied for help already visit www.bbsofca.org/get-help/. ARIES: Now you are ready to plan whatever it is you are looking forward to. Just be sure you don't get involved in something you know is a big time consumer - life should be fun now. Happy Birthday!

TAURUS: Some relationships have not been all you desire - especially since new year. If this is on your mind (even occasionally) it's time to resolve it one way or another.

GEMINI: You are ready to tackle any tasks that have been on hold and it's best to start now. By next weekend you will be busy with new and more involved work.

CANCER: You have had an unpredictable time of late. This can be caused by taking life too seriously. Fear is all in the mind and life is looking better now, so do not buy into it.

LEO: You should be feeling more positive in the next few days. Just don't forget to relax. It's a great time to plan a long-awaited trip for later in the year.

VIRGO: Stress is no stranger in your life occasionally. It is likely more of a problem these past couple of months, however Spring is here and it's time for a more upbeat outlook.

LIBRA: Now the Sun is in your opposite sign of Aries it's time to get on with some plans that have been on hold. It is still a time of some uncertainty for many so get ready to move quickly when the time is right.

SCORPIO: It is a somewhat stressful time for you in several areas. The good news is that Spring is here and with it comes a more upbeat feeling overall. Know that there are much better days in the near future.

SAGITTARIUS: You are ready to make some positive changes in several areas. Spring is here and there will be more than one opportunity for your desired changes to come to fruition shortly.

CAPRICORN: All the planets you had surrounding you for several months past have finally moved on. So what is next you may ask? No need to fret, life is getting ready to brighten up in general.

AQUARIUS: This should be a time of anticipating what changes you can make generally. First on your list is to get going on letting go of anything that has passed its best. This leaves space for better things overall.

PISCES: You are now in your new year and it is time to get ready for planning ahead, not a time for laying low. Whatever that means to you. Your energy picks up a lot by month's end.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF GAIL MARIE DICKENS
Case No. 21STPB01228
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of GAIL MARIE DICKENS
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Frederick Dickens in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Frederick Dickens be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on May 10, 2021 at 9:30 AM in Dept. No. 2D located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

THAT'S GONNA STING: Rangers' Kemar Roofe was sent off for this tackle

Rare home loss sends Rangers packing

Slavia Prague inflicted Rangers' first defeat at Ibrox in just over a year to knock the nine-man Scottish champions out of the Europa League on Thursday.

Peter Olayinka's first-half header gave the Czech champions the lead following a 1-1 draw in Prague, and Nicolae Stanciu doubled the advantage after Leon Balogun was shown a second yellow.

Rangers were already down to 10 by then, Kemar Roofe having been sent off within six minutes of coming on for catching goalkeeper Ondrej Kolar in the face with his boot.

There was still time for further tumult in the closing minutes. A strong challenge by Connor Goldson precipitated a melee, and Ondrej Kudela uttered something to Glen Kamara while covering his mouth with a hand.

That enraged Rangers' players, with Kamara, Goldson and Bongani Zungu particularly incensed, and manager Steven Gerrard confirmed afterwards that Kamara told him he was racially abused, with other players also having heard the comments.

While Rangers will feel they could have shown more of themselves over the two legs of this last-16 tie, Slavia proved themselves the more accomplished side as they backed up their win over Leicester City in the previous round.

Gunners edge through

Arsenal were given a scare by Olympiakos Thursday night but had enough from the first leg to beat the Greek side on aggregate and reach the Europa League last eight despite a 1-0 home loss.

Leading 3-1 from the game in Greece, the Gunners were comfortable throughout the first half in London.

But nerves began to show after Youssef El-Arabi's shot found the net via a deflection off Gabriel to give the visitors hope of repeating last season's shock - when they knocked the Gunners out of the Europa League in the last 32.

However, Olympiakos were unable to build the goal as Arsenal managed the remainder of the tie adequately to progress, helped by a red card shown to Ousseyunou Ba for dissent late on.

Disaster for dismal Spurs

■ Spurs out of Europe after 'diabolical' performance
Zagreb's 3-0 triumph leaves Jose at the brink

Jose Mourinho apologised to the Tottenham fans and said his players failed "at the basics of life" after they threw away a 2-0 lead to be knocked out of the Europa League by Dinamo Zagreb.

Thursday's second-leg display was described as "diabolical" and "a disaster" by their ex-player and manager Glenn Hoddle, who watched Spurs eliminated in the last 16 in Croatia after extra time.

A hat-trick from Mislav Orsic did the damage, reversing the comfortable lead Mourinho's side had built in last week's first leg, prompting Spurs goalkeeper Hugo Lloris to call the performance a "disgrace".

"They [Dinamo] left sweat, energy, blood. In the end they left even tears of happiness," Mourinho told BT Sport. "They were very humble and committed. I have to praise them.

"On the other side, my team - I repeat, my team - didn't look like it was playing an important match. If for any one of them it is not important, for me it is.

"I am disappointed for a difference of attitude of one team to another. I feel sorry that my team is the team that didn't bring to the game not just the basics of football but the basics of life, which is to respect our jobs and to give everything.

"I can only apologise to the Tottenham supporters. I hope they feel the same way I feel. Today is live or die - and in this moment, we die."

Resting on their 2-0 first-leg lead, Tottenham looked relatively comfortable for just over an hour in Zagreb, until Orsic's first goal began to swing the tie away from them.

He levelled the tie with eight minutes of normal time left and then won it for his side early in the second period of extra time.

Tottenham forced two good saves from home goalkeeper Dominik Livakovic late in the game but it was too little, too late.

"For the respect I have for my career and my job, every match is important," Mourinho said. "For every Tottenham fan at home, every match matters. Another attitude is needed. What I feel is much more than sadness.

"I just left the Dinamo dressing room where I went to praise the guys and I feel sorry it is not my team who won the game based on attitude and compromise. I feel more than sad.

"Football is not just about players who think they have more quality than others. The basis of football is attitude. They beat us on that."

France's World Cup-winning goalkeeper Lloris gave a brutally honest assessment of his team's performance and

THE END IS NIGH? Jose Mourinho looks out of ideas, out of luck, and out of patience at Spurs an insight into the issues troubling the club.

"It's a disgrace," he told BT Sport. "I hope everyone in the changing room feels responsible.

The taste of the defeat is more than painful and we are all responsible.

"We are a club full of ambition but the team at the moment is a reflection of what is going on in the club. Lack of basics, lack of fundamentals. Mentally we should be stronger, more competitive."

Happy return for Pogba and United

Paul Pogba returned from injury to send Manchester United into the Europa League quarter-finals and manager Ole Gunnar Solskjaer says the midfielder will continue to make a big impact in the final stages of the season.

The Frenchman scored the winner against AC Milan at the San Siro Thursday night three minutes after being introduced as a half-time substitute in the second leg of an evenly poised last-16 tie.

"The boys have done remarkably well without Paul but we know his qualities," Solskjaer said.

"He makes a very, very big difference to us. Paul has been working really hard, but you could see he couldn't play more than 45 minutes."

The 28-year-old was making his first appearance in the competition this season, after coming back from a thigh injury which has kept him out since 6 February.

Until his intervention, Solskjaer's side had rarely looked like breaking the deadlock against a well-organised Milan team who also appeared capable of adding to the late away goal that had swung the tie in their favour at Old Trafford.

Rade Krunic, Alexis Saelemaekers and Theo Hernandez all threatened the visitors' goal before the break.

Zlatan Ibrahimovic was summoned from the bench to try to rescue the tie, but United goalkeeper Dean Henderson superbly saved to prevent the Swede from scoring against his former team with a back-post header.

Henderson, who was excellent throughout, also brilliantly turned away an earlier effort from Saelemaekers.

United join fellow English side Arsenal in the draw for the quarter and semi-finals, announced on Friday.
