Philip's four children to walk alongside coffin

■ Prince Philip's funeral set for Saturday in Windsor

The Duke of Edinburgh's four children will walk alongside his coffin at his funeral on Saturday.

Princes Charles, Andrew, Edward and Princess Anne, as well as grandsons Princes William and Harry, will follow a Land Rover hearse in a procession to St George's Chapel, Windsor.

The guest list for the service includes 30 people, with three German relatives.

Those attending will wear morning coats with medals, or day dress, but not military uniform.

The congregation will put on masks and socially distance in line with Covid lockdown rules, with the Queen seated alone.

health guidelines

The details of Prince Philip's ceremonial royal funeral at the chapel in the grounds of Windsor Castle at 15:00 BST were released by Buckingham Palace.

A Palace spokesman said the plans have been modified to take into account current public health guidelines, but the ceremonial aspects of the day and the service remain in line with the duke's wishes.

He said the service will be a reflection of Prince Philip's military affiliations and personal elements of his life.

The other guests include the Duchess of Cornwall and the Duchess of Cambridge, all of the duke's grandchildren and their spouses, the children of the Queen's sister Princess Margaret, and Bernhard, the Hereditary Prince of Baden; Donatus, Prince and Landgrave of Hesse; and Prince Philipp of Hohenlohe-Langenburg.

The Countess Mountbatten of Burma, previously known as Lady Romsey and later Lady Brabourne, who was Philip's carriage driving partner and one of his closest friends will also be in attendance.

The 67-year-old countess is the wife of Earl Mountbatten, Norton Knatchbull - the grandson of Prince Philip's uncle the 1st Earl Mountbatten, who was killed by the IRA in

Buckingham Palace said the Queen faced "some very difficult" decisions in selecting the guests permitted under Covid rules, from original plans for a 800-strong congregation, adding she wanted all branches of her husband's family to be represented.

Prince Philip died at Windsor Castle on Friday 9 April aged 99. His body is now resting in the private chapel at the castle.

On the day of the funeral, the coffin will be moved to the State Entrance of Windsor Castle. It will be placed on the modified Jaguar Land Rover, that the duke himself helped design, to be carried the short distance to St George's Chapel.

reduced choir

The procession to the chapel will be headed by the Band of the Grenadier Guards, followed by the Household Division and military service chiefs.

Members of the Royal Family will walk behind the coffin. Princess Anne and Prince Charles will walk in the front row, followed by Prince Edward and Prince Andrew.

In the third row, the Duke of Cambridge and Duke of Sussex will be either side of their cousin Peter Philips.

They will be trailed by the duke's household staff. Vice Admiral Sir Tim Laurence and the Earl of Snowdon will also join the family members on foot.

The Queen will travel with a lady-in-waiting in the state Bentley at the end of the procession, and enter the chapel by a side door.

The duke's association with the Royal Navy will be reflected at the service, with buglers of the Royal Marines sounding Action Stations - a signal that all hands should be

Royal brothers will not walk together at funeral

“This is a funeral and we are not going to be drawn into perceptions of drama,” says Palace spokesman

Prince William and Harry will not walk together at their grandfather Prince Philip's funeral on Saturday.

On Thursday, Buckingham Palace released new details of Prince Philip's upcoming funeral at St. George's Chapel in Windsor Castle, including the attendees and procession order. William, 38, and Harry, 36, will both join family members in walking behind their grandfather's coffin, but their cousin, Peter Phillips (the son of Princess Anne), is set to walk between them.

'practical change'

For the second procession into the chapel, Prince William will walk with Peter. Behind them will be Prince Harry and David Armstrong-Jones, the son of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones.

The procession order was “a practical change rather than sending a signal,” a Buckingham Palace spokesman says. “This is a funeral and we are not going to be drawn into perceptions of drama. The arrangements have been agreed and represent Her Majesty's wishes.”

Once inside the chapel, attendees will be wearing masks and seated six feet apart, per COVID-19 guidelines.

Harry returned to the U.K. from California for the first time in over a year to attend his grandfather's funeral. Meghan — who is expecting their second child, a baby girl — did not accompany her husband. She “has been advised by her physician not to travel,” a royal spokesman said.

In the wake of Meghan and Harry's interview with Oprah Winfrey last month, there are ongoing tensions within the family.

During the tell-all interview on CBS, Meghan refuted reports that she made Kate Middleton cry in the lead-up to her 2018 wedding, saying “the reverse happened.”

'not productive'

They also accused the royal family of racism - including “concerns” over their children's skin color - and not getting Meghan help when she felt suicidal.

William hit back at the racism claims, telling a reporter during an outing, “We are very much not a racist family.”

When asked if he had spoken to Harry after the Oprah interview, he added, “No, I haven't spoken to him yet, but I will do.”

Gayle King, who is friends with Oprah and the Duchess of Sussex, revealed that Harry spoke with William and Charles last month.

“The word I was given was that those conversations were not productive. But they are glad that they have at least started a conversation,” she said.

FATHER DAUGHTER TIME: Anne shared a picture of the pair at the 2012 London Olympics

Anne pays tribute to beloved father

THE Princess Royal has paid a moving tribute to her father, describing him as “my teacher, my supporter and my critic”.

In a touching message, Anne said it was her father's example of a “life well lived and service freely given that I most wanted to emulate”.

She chose a photo of herself with the Duke to accompany her words.

They were shown laughing as they sat side by side in the sunshine watching the dressage stage of the eventing competition during the London 2012 Olympics.

Anne, whose daughter Zara Tindall won a silver medal in the team eventing, was wearing sunglasses and a Team GB sun hat and jacket, while Philip was dapper in a straw boater.

The Princess said that although her father's death was not unexpected, she was not really prepared.

She wrote, in the message on the family's social media accounts: “You know it's going to happen but you are never really ready.

“His ability to treat every person as an individual in their own right with their own skills comes through all the organisations with which he was involved. I regard it as an honour and a privilege to have been asked to follow in his footsteps and it has been a pleasure to have kept him in touch with their activities.

“I know how much he meant to them, in the UK, across the Commonwealth and in the wider world.

“I would like to emphasise how much the family appreciate the messages and memories of so many people whose lives he also touched.

“We will miss him but he leaves a legacy which can inspire us all.”

Both he and Anne were known for their “take no prisoners” approach and dedication. Royal author Lady Colin Campbell once wrote: “The key to the Princess is that she is Prince Philip in skirts.”

Stoic Queen speaks of 'huge void' in her life

LOSING her beloved Philip has left a "huge void", the Queen has confided.

Royal Family members have spoken of their admiration for Her Majesty as she mourns the love of her life.

They shared their thoughts as Prince Harry arrived back in the UK to pay his respects and attend his grandfather's funeral.

Prince Andrew revealed his mother's feelings after a church service, where several Royals had said prayers for the Duke of Edinburgh.

He said: "It's a terrible loss. We've lost almost the grandfather of the nation."

Asked how his mother was coping, Andrew said: "The Queen, as you would expect, is an incredibly stoic person."

He agreed she had felt blessed to have had Philip home for the last 24 days of his life after a month in hospital.

Andrew, 61, added: "She described it as having left a huge void in her life."

"But we, the family, the ones that are close, are rallying around to make sure that we are there to support her."

Facing widowhood after 69 years on the throne, the 94-year-old monarch on Sunday said prayers for her husband during a private mass at Windsor Castle.

Affection

It is understood that the mass was not in St George's Chapel, which is currently closed, or her private chapel, where Philip's coffin currently lies.

Her daughter-in-law Sophie, the Countess of Wessex, joined Prince Edward, their daughter Lady Louise Windsor, and Andrew at the Royal Chapel of All Saints at Royal Lodge on the Windsor estate.

She spoke of her admiration for the Queen's response.

Asked how Her Majesty was yesterday, she replied: "Thinking of others before herself. She's amazing."

Edward, 57, thanked the public for their tributes. He said: "It's just that wave of affection for him and those lovely stories."

"They just mean so much and the tributes have been just fantastic. That's really important and we really do appreciate it."

Sophie, 56, described the moment of Philip's death to one member of the congregation, made up mostly of royal estate workers.

She said: "It was right for him. It was so gentle. It was just like somebody took him by the hand and off he went."

"Very peaceful and that's all you want for somebody, isn't it? "So I think it's so much easier for the person that goes than the people that are left behind."

Separately, Princess Anne paid her own tribute, describing her father as "my teacher, my supporter and my critic".

Philip died peacefully at Windsor Castle on Friday morning, two months before his 100th birthday. The Queen has since received regular visits from her children.

Edward said: "It's been a bit of a shock. However much one tries to prepare oneself for something like this, it's still a dreadful shock and we're still trying to come to terms with that."

The words were echoed by Andrew, who spoke separately from his brother and sister-in-law after the service.

He said the family

LONGEVITY: the royal couple married in 1947

were grateful for all the "amazing tributes" to his father.

Andrew, who stepped down from royal duties in November 2019, said of Philip: "He was a remarkable man. I loved him as a father. He was so calm. If you had a problem, he would think about it."

"That's the great thing that I always think about, that he was always somebody you could go to and he would always listen. So it's a great loss."

"I think the way I would put it is, we've lost almost the grandfather of the nation.

And I feel very sorry and supportive of my mother who's feeling it probably more than everybody else."

Andrew said his father's death had brought home how many people have been bereaved during the coronavirus outbreak.

He said: "My father said to me on the telephone a few months ago, 'We are all in the same boat and we must always remember that, but occasionally we, the family, are asked to stand up and show compassion and leadership.'

"And unfortunately, with my father's death, it has brought it home to me, not just our loss, but actually the loss that everybody else has felt, for so many people who have died and lost loved ones during the pandemic."

Looking sombre and reflective, the royal party spoke to workers from the Windsor estate and the congregation when they arrived at All Saints, which the Queen normally attends outside of lockdown.

Sir Anthony scoops actor Bafta at 83

Sir Anthony Hopkins provided the Baftas shock of the night, becoming the oldest ever Leading Actor winner at 83 at Sunday's awards.

He admitted he hadn't been watching the online ceremony as he hadn't expected to win. His performance in The Father came 24 years after his last award. Normally based in Los Angeles, Sir Anthony is on holiday in his native Wales. He said: "I never expected to get this. We've had our vaccinations so we're taking a long vacation in Wales."

Nomadland was the big winner of the night, with awards for Best Film, Leading Actress, Best Director and Cinematography.

The Baftas were held virtually for the first time, with presenters Hugh Grant, Renée Zellweger, Priyanka Chopra Jonas and Tom Hiddleston at London's Royal Albert Hall, while nominees appeared virtually.

Bridgerton star Phoebe Dynevor added red-carpet glamour, wearing an asymmetric fishtail gown that her character Daphne would be proud of.

Covid deaths dip into single figures

DAILY Covid-19 deaths fell to single figures this week for the first time since mid-September, with seven reported across the UK.

Monday's daily toll was down from 10 last Sunday and has dropped from a peak of more than 1,800 at the height of the second wave in January.

Some 1,730 new cases were confirmed, the first time that count has dropped below 2,000 since early September.

The lowest figures in seven months provided reassurance on the eve of further lockdown easing. However, a senior scientist advising the Government warned that the remaining rules must be abided by to minimise any "rebound" in cases.

Professor Peter Horby, chairman of the New and Emerging Respiratory Virus Threats Advisory Group (Nervtag), said: "The watchword has got to be caution really.

"The modelling, which is now pretty good, does show that we can expect some kind of rebound. It's not clear exactly when or how big it will be, but there is, I think, inevitably going to be a bit of a rebound in the number of cases when things are relaxed."

He told Times Radio: "I think we can be joyful and enjoy the freedoms but we've still got to realise there's still a large number who have not been infected or vaccinated and so they will be at risk."

Meanwhile, reports suggested the single-dose Janssen Covid-19 vaccine could become the fourth approved for use in the UK in around 10 days' time.

NHS website crashing in rush for jabs as Moderna becomes NHS's third vaccine

Site overwhelmed as program opens to those 45 and above

A STAMPEDE for jab appointments crashed the NHS website on Wednesday, as Moderna became England's third Covid vaccine.

The site was overwhelmed by demand for appointments when bookings opened to people aged 45 to 49, as the vaccination programme raced to its second phase.

All adults are expected to be offered a first vaccine dose by the end of July. The Government has already met its goal of inviting all over-50s and those with underlying health conditions for the jab.

Figures this week showed more than 32.2 million first doses had been given in the UK, along with 7.85 million second shots.

The UK has ordered 17 million doses of the Moderna vaccine. The first inoculations were given in Wales last week.

Made by a US biotech company, Moderna can be stored for 30 days at normal fridge temperatures or for up to six months at -20C.

It is now being rolled out to more than 20 sites in England, including Reading's Madejski Stadium and the Sheffield Arena.

Solicitor Emily Sanderson, 28, was among the first people to receive a dose at the Arena. She has an underlying health condition and was due to receive the Oxford/AstraZeneca vaccine before a possible small risk of blood clots sparked new guidance to offer under-30s an alternative. Emily said of the jab: "It didn't hurt at all. I would encourage everyone to have it."

NHS medical director Professor Stephen Powis said: "The Moderna rollout marks another milestone in the vaccination programme.

"We now have a third jab in our armoury and NHS staff will be using it at more than 20 sites from this week, with more coming online as supplies expand."

He urged: "England's vaccination programme is our hope at the end of a year like no other, so please do come forward and get your jab when you're invited."

Prime Minister Boris Johnson said: "It's great that we have managed to achieve the target of getting everyone in the one-to-nine [priority] groups vaccinated by the deadline.

"We are going now to the 45-49 group, they are being asked to come forward."

However, Mr Johnson stressed that the rapid decline in infections, hospital admissions and deaths had been achieved by lockdown, not the vaccination programme.

He warned the nation to expect "inevitably" more cases as we come out of lockdown.

Mr Johnson added: "Sadly, we will see more hospitalisation and deaths. People have just got to understand that."

Meanwhile, a further 23 Covid deaths were confirmed across the UK on Tuesday, with 2,472 new cases.

NHS figures for England showed there were 2,190 virus patients in hospital on Saturday, including 342 in intensive care.

However, the total was down 94 per cent from a peak of 34,336 at the height of the second pandemic wave on January 18.

Health Secretary Matt Hancock said: "Vaccines have already saved more than 10,000 lives and have had a real impact on Covid-19 infection rates and hospitalisations across the UK.

"From today the NHS in England will begin using the Moderna vaccine, following the start of the UK rollout in Wales last week.

"The vaccine has already been used widely in other countries and approved by our medicines regulator as it met the highest standards of safety and effectiveness.

"I encourage everyone who is eligible for a vaccine to book their appointments as soon as possible to ensure they are protected."

Speaking in the House of Commons later, Mr Hancock said: "I can announce formally, that from today, we have opened up invitations to get a vaccine to all aged over 45, and then we will proceed to everyone aged over 40 in line with supplies."

Hot tubs new must-steal item for lockdown thieves

First dogs, now jacuzzis...

HOT tubs are the latest lockdown target for thieves who are exploiting a surge in demand for the trendy accessories.

It follows a 250 per cent rise in dog thefts as a result of more people looking to become pet owners during the pandemic.

Now criminals are going to extraordinary lengths to steal garden equipment, from spas to seating.

In one case, thieves used a wheelie bin to smuggle a 700-litre inflatable pool out of a garden after first emptying it of water.

One theft victim said: "Burglars are simply taking a fence panel out and loading garden contents into a van.

"I've wedged cut wine corks into my panels now to make them harder to lift out – that is the world we live in."

Police in Yorkshire last summer had to urge victims not to "take matters into your own hands" after a spate of hot tub thefts.

Britain's biggest insurer said it had seen a surge in home insurance claims related to the pools.

Sarah Poulter, from insurers Aviva, said: "Put away your hot tub if it's not going to be used for a while – and keep it safe and secure. In spite of their bulk, hot tubs do get

HOT PROPERTY: the UK has seen a surge in jacuzzi larceny stolen."

The insurer said that deflated hot tubs were often stolen from garages and outbuildings but some thieves had taken them directly from customers' gardens – after first draining gallons of water from them.

Demand for tubs surged as lockdown forced people to stay at home.

At one point sales on eBay were up 1,080 per cent year on year and suppliers were struggling to keep up with demand.

Shirley Williams is dead aged 90

Political giant blazed a trail for women

SHIRLEY Williams, who rocked politics as one of Labour's "Gang of Four" and inspired countless women MPs, has died at the age of 90.

The Liberal Democrat peer, who broke away to form the Social Democratic Party, was described as a "trailblazer for women and education" as tributes poured in this week.

In her 52-year political career Baroness Williams, whose mother was feminist Vera Brittain, author of First World War memoir Testament of Youth, rose to become one of Britain's first female Cabinet ministers.

She later backed the SDP's merger with the Liberal Party, creating the Liberal Democrats in 1988.

She led the party in the House of Lords before retiring from political life in 2016.

Lib Dem leader Sir Ed Davey called her a "Liberal lion and a true trailblazer" and said she inspired millions.

He said: "Shirley had a limitless empathy only too rare in politics today. She connected with people, cared about their lives and saw politics as a crucial tool to change lives for the better."

Former Labour premier Tony Blair called Lady Williams "one of the greatest social democrats of the last century, an immense figure of progressive politics through the decades, consistent in her commitment to equality, to social justice, to liberal social democratic values and to internationalism".

He added: "For many of us in the Labour Party and even after she left it, she remained a source of inspiration and someone to look up to and admire – warm, generous, humane, and uplifting."

House of Commons Speaker Sir Lindsay Hoyle said: "She was one of a kind and a character we all shall miss."

Labour leader Sir Keir Starmer called Lady Williams "a tireless champion for the causes she believed in".

Former SDP leader Lord Owen added: "She should have been the first leader of the SDP. But she pulled back from it...and it was a great tragedy.

"She would have beaten Roy Jenkins, she would have beaten me.

SHIRLEY WILLIAMS: "a tireless champion for the causes she believed in"

I wouldn't have actually stood against her."

Lady Williams first entered Parliament in 1964 as MP for Hitchin.

As a Labour minister she served in the governments of Harold Wilson and James Callaghan in the 1970s, rising to become education secretary.

She famously

oversaw the growth of comprehensive schools and was known for her opposition to the selective grammar system.

But by the turbulent years of the early 1980s, Lady Williams became alarmed at the direction Labour was taking under Michael Foot.

She joined David Owen,

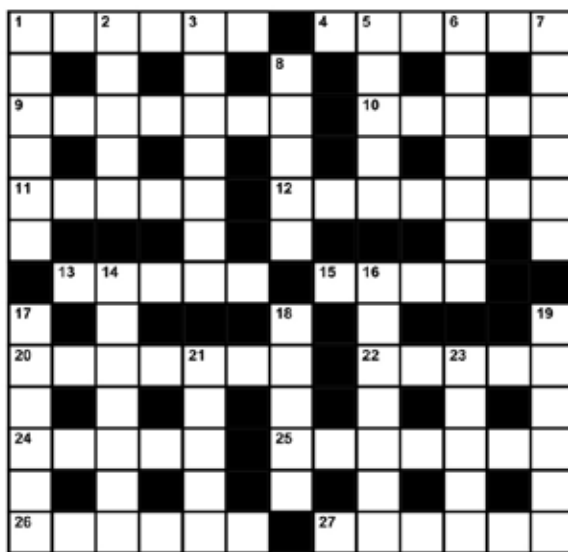

Roy Jenkins and Bill Rodgers in the new SDP in an attempt to "break the mould of British politics".

The party enjoyed some initial success allied with the Liberal Party. Lady Williams won Crosby for the SDP in a by-election, only to lose two years later in the 1983 general election.

Vaccine time: now it's here for all of us

By Eileen Lee

The time has finally come! We can all now get vaccinated, and hopefully get back to our old lives.

I know many of you have already managed to get the jab, but until this week I was either too young (finally!), not willing to blag it or too timid to ask the local pharmacies if they had any leftovers. But this week it is officially "my turn" and yours too, if you want it.

There are of course a few scams doing the rounds so please take note of the following: Most health insurance plans in the United States will provide coverage for COVID-19 vaccines with no cost. Don't have insurance?

Don't worry. COVID-19 vaccines, including their administration, are free. For more details visit the FAQ's at covid19.ca.gov.

If you are one of the millions of undocumented Californians you will still be able to get the vaccine. DHCS has announced that all COVID-19 testing and emergency related treatment will be covered for this population as well. Visit this link for more info: www.dhcs.ca.gov.

he's been jabbed

So now my main issue is now finding an available appointment. I signed up for Dr.B (<https://hidrb.com/>) and MyTurn.ca.gov a few weeks ago but haven't heard a peep from either of them.

Securing a slot is not easy, which I suppose is a good thing as it means most people are eager to get it. It doesn't help that I want to err on the side of caution by preparing to take the following day off of work just in case I do have side effects. Prepare for the worst and hope for the best, right?! Anyhow, I was checking my emails this morning and lo and behold there was one from fellow Brit in LA Frank L'e Sanford that included some great info and website links that I was previously unaware of. So I of course asked him if I could share his knowledge with all of you. And I am delighted to say that he said "Yes". Before I hand over to Frank, I have to congratulate him and his team mates collectively known as The Cat Fiddlers, on winning our virtual Pub Quiz for the last 2 weeks - it's still done via video over Zoom, so if you would like to join us next Tuesday night visit www.Britsin.LA or email me at info@britsin.la for details.

Take it away Frank!

Hello, hello, hello:

I'm ECSTATIC to get my 2nd PFIZER jab. The bonus? ZERO Side-Effects!

As of this week all City of L.A. adults are eligible to get the vaccine. You

The Queen and Philip at their happiest...

SURROUNDED by the next generation of Royals, here are the Queen and Prince Philip at their happiest.

The Royal Family opened up its photo albums this week to share cherished snaps of the late Duke of Edinburgh.

at Balmoral Castle in 2018.

It shows a relaxed Queen and Philip, a couple just like any other – proud great-grandparents in their element as heads of a loyal and loving family and swamped by adoring children.

While the Queen tenderly cradles a baby Prince Louis, Prince Philip has his arm protectively wrapped around Isla Phillips, the youngest child of his grandson, Peter Phillips.

Prince George, wearing shorts and a smart white shirt, stands upright and alert while his sister Princess Charlotte holds her baby brother's hand and cheekily waves to the camera while flashing a mischievous grin.

Isla's sister Savannah poses alongside Zara Tindall's daughters Mia and Lena.

The photos have been released to celebrate the remarkable life of the Duke ahead of his funeral on Saturday.

The Duke officially retired from royal duties in 2017. He would have celebrated his 100th birthday on June 10. His funeral will take place at 3pm on Saturday in St George's Chapel, Windsor.

Vaccine:

could book yours now at the carbonhealth.com website. It's the official site, and you'll notice the slightly controversial, but could be useful, 'Health Pass'.

This site works well according to several of my friends (including the publisher of this newspaper), but I think vaccinefinder.org is better at finding open vaccine appointments, and most importantly you can CHOOSE which Vaccine you want!

Based on all the science and personal experience, I'd strongly recommend the Pfizer.

Good News. It seems CALIFORNIA will relax down to 'Yellow Tier' in a week or 2. Then, all being well, most Covid Restrictions, except for Masks, will disappear 15 JUNE, when our Businesses and Schools can fully re-open at Pre-Pandemic capacity, and we'll resume our EVERYDAY ACTIVITIES!

Furthermore, England's had a massive easing of its super strict Lockdown this week. Well done to our National Health Service.

Check out these new chippies! Fish Fish Pop in Koreatown and the Auld Chip Shop in

They both have pick up and delivery option on the majority of the popular food ordering

Please do let us know the verdict if you get to try either of them!

City and Chelsea ease into semi finals

Manchester City are through to the semi-finals of the Champions League for only the second time after sealing victory over Borussia Dortmund in the last eight courtesy of comeback win in Germany.

Holding a 2-1 lead from the first leg, City found themselves needing to chase the tie when 17-year-old England international Jude Bellingham curled in a superb shot from the edge of the box.

Stung by the concession, the visitors threw everything they could muster at the German side, with Kevin de Bruyne smashing an effort off the bar before Riyad Mahrez saw a shot blocked on the line by the brilliant Bellingham.

The crucial breakthrough for City came early in the second half as Emre Can was penalised for handling in the box and Mahrez stepped up to fire his side ahead again in the tie.

Phil Foden sealed it, adding to the late goal he scored at the Etihad to give his side their first-leg lead with a fierce drive that found the Dortmund goal via the post.

City will face Paris St-Germain in the semi-finals, with the French side having eliminated holders Bayern Munich on Tuesday.

It is the first time City have reached the semis under current boss Pep Guardiola, who twice won the competition during his time as manager of Barcelona.

Their previous appearance in the last four came in 2015-16, when they were knocked out by Real Madrid in Manuel Pellegrini's final season in charge.

The defeat likely ends Dortmund's hopes of playing in next season's Champions League, with them fifth in the Bundesliga, seven points behind fourth-placed Eintracht Frankfurt.

• Chelsea survived a spectacular late overhead kick from Mehdi Taremi to overcome Porto and confirm a place in the Champions League semi-finals for the first time in seven years.

Thomas Tuchel's side went into this 'home' last-eight second leg on Tuesday - with both games being played in Seville during the current Covid-19 pandemic - protecting a two-goal lead they only briefly threatened to surrender in the dying seconds following Taremi's brilliant finish.

Chelsea, who will now face Real Madrid in the semi-final, played within themselves but it was enough to keep a disappointing Porto at bay, the Portuguese side rarely testing keeper Edouard Mendy with their surprisingly cautious approach, which they only cast aside when it was too late.

Mendy's poor clearance almost offered Jesus Corona a first-half chance but he could not take advantage, while Christian Pulisic and Mason Mount had opportunities after the break.

Taremi's goal was out of character with the rest of Porto's performance and came too late to alter the inevitable course of this quarter-final.

Chelsea manager Tuchel suggested he might have preferred to keep N'Golo Kante on the bench after a recent hamstring problem, until an injury to fellow midfielder Mateo Kovacic forced his hand.

And he was rewarded with yet another masterclass from the France international, who showed supreme positional sense, tireless work-rate and that uncanny ability to spot any rare danger before prompting attacks of his own.

Ole: time for us to take the next step

EUROPA LEAGUE: Solskjaer upbeat as United ease past Granada to book semi final berth

Ole Gunnar Solskjaer said it is time for Manchester United to take the next step and reach a first final since 2017 after they eased past Granada to set up a Europa League last-four meeting with Roma.

United won the Europa League in their last final but have lost all four semi-finals in which they have featured during Solskjaer's reign, including in this competition last season.

Their progress to a fifth was never in doubt after Edinson Cavani provided a smart finish to Paul Pogba's sixth-minute flicked header to extend their aggregate lead to 3-0, after a two-goal win in Spain last week.

United scored a second in stoppage time when Jesus Vallejo turned Alex

Telles' cross into his own net.

"We will relish the chance to go to a final," said Solskjaer, who took over in December 2018.

"We want to use disappointments from the defeats we have had to motivate us to get to the final.

"The next step for this team is to get to a final and win a trophy. That will give this group of players something extra."

As Roma came through a nervy night at the Stadio Olimpico against Ajax, it means a reunion for United old boys Henrikh Mkhitaryan and Chris Smalling, who has been sidelined in recent weeks with a knee injury.

It was a notable night too for Cavani, whose first European goal for United was his 50th

EDINSON CAVANI: opened the scoring for United in the sixth minute in total in continental competition, and ninth of the season overall and will intensify talk about whether the 34-year-old will sign an extension to his contract, which expires at the end of June.

End of the road for Reds

Liverpool's Champions League campaign ended in disappointment Wednesday as Real Madrid set up a semi-final meeting with Chelsea by keeping Jurgen Klopp's side at bay in a goalless draw at Anfield.

Real arrived at Anfield protecting a 3-1 lead from the first leg and while they eventually went through in relative comfort Liverpool will curse themselves for missing several glorious first-half chances.

Mohamed Salah shot straight at Real keeper Thibaut Courtois, who also saved well from James Milner, in the opening moments and shot over when he should have hit the target while Georginio Wijnaldum was also guilty of squandering an opportunity to at least apply pressure to Zinedine Zidane's side.

Real's best chance saw

Benzema drive in a shot that was deflected on to the post, while Courtois was in action again to block Roberto Firmino's angled shot after the break.

Liverpool ran out of steam and ideas as the second half wore on, and Real defended with defiance and resilience to seal the win and set up a meeting with another Premier League side in Thomas Tuchel's Chelsea.

Liverpool were always fighting the odds as they trailed from the first leg but Klopp knew an early goal would have revived memories of previous Anfield comebacks in Europe - albeit they were in front of full houses rather than a deserted stadium.

And Liverpool have only themselves to blame because they certainly created those chances in the first half, the surprise being it was the normally reliable Salah who was guilty of two bad misses that could have rattled Real's nerves.

Around 400 home fans gathered outside in an attempt to fashion some of the old atmosphere but sadly the only impact they made was to create more negative headlines with a disgraceful attack on the Real Madrid team coach that left the bus damaged. The Spanish giants received an apology from their opponents and Merseyside Police announced an investigation to find those responsible.

Liverpool gave it everything for the 90 minutes but it was the lack of cutting edge that has characterised so many of their Anfield displays this season that removed any hopes they had of turning this tie around and proved their undoing.
