William and Kate celebrate tenth wedding anniversary

■ Royal Couple release official portrait to mark their special day

THE prince gazes adoringly at his beautiful wife in a romantic photo to mark a fairytale 10 years together.

It was a decade ago that more than 300 million people around the world watched William and Kate's wedding in Westminster Abbey.

Much has changed since April 29, 2011, but the same shared joy they portrayed on that day shines through in today's two official portraits, taken by celebrity photographer Chris Floyd at Kensington Palace this week.

bigger burden

Kate, 39, wears a £195 flowery Ghost Avery wrap dress, which she previously wore at a British High Commission reception on the couple's tour of Pakistan in 2019.

William, 38, and Kate, now pivotal figures for the future of the British monarchy, find themselves sharing a bigger burden of royal duties after years in which they tried to delay the inevitable.

But they have still managed to retain a degree of normality for themselves and their children – George, seven, Charlotte, five, and Louis, three – that the Queen and perhaps Prince Charles can only dream of.

country hideaway

Only last weekend, the couple and their youngsters enjoyed a Sunday lunch in the garden of the Rose & Crown at Snettisham in Norfolk, close to their country hideaway, Anmer Hall.

As William and Kate reach their 10-year milestone, a YouGov poll shows that the nation's love for them is growing with a net approval rating of 68 per cent for Prince William and 67 per cent for Kate. Only the Queen on 76 per cent is higher.

Wills and Kate's wedding is widely recalled as a day that made the UK proud but it was not without its hitches.

BBC new documentary, Royal Wedding: A Day To Remember, Fiona Cairns and Rachel Eardley, who led the team that designed the cake, tell how the Queen discovered they had removed a door at Buckingham Palace because the cake was too big. The Queen surprised them and said: "I understand you've been dismantling my house."

handbrake on

Later, William had to be rescued by his brother Harry when he started to drive Kate out of the palace in Prince Charles's Aston Martin Volante sports car.

Former rugby ace Sir Clive Woodward tells the show that it did not go smoothly.

"They drove off and he struggled and he's chugging out – this is at the back of Buckingham Palace – and Harry goes running after him," says Sir Clive, laughing.

"He had the handbrake

Boris bites back as 'Flatgate' scandal continues to grow

■ PM and Labour leader exchange angry words at PMQ

BORIS Johnson went on the counter-attack this week as claims that financing for a renovation of his Downing Street flat broke the law became impossible to ignore.

In a heated Commons with Labour leader Sir Keir Starmer. at Prime Minister's Ouestions. Johnson insisted repeatedly that he personally paid the overages for the £58,000 redecoration. The bill was way above a £30,000 taxpaver-funded annual maintenance allowance for the premier's official residence.

But Mr Johnson told MPs: "I have covered the costs." He maintained his cash arrangements did not break ministerial conduct rules or the law.

The Prime Minister spoke out after the Electoral Commission launched an inquiry into reports Conservative Party chiefs arranged a loan from donors to initially foot the bill.

However, Mr Johnson was said to be furious the probe was announced an hour before an ill-tempered Prime Minister's Questions clash with Sir Keir.

The Labour leader claimed the Government was "mired in sleaze, cronyism and scandal", prompting Mr Johnson to say around £350,000 of taxpayers' money was spent redecorating the Downing Street accommodation during Tony Blair's term in office.

He told Sir Keir: "The answer is that I have covered the costs.

'Dodgy contracts'

"Of course, the Electoral Commission is investigating this and I can tell him that I have conformed in full with the code of conduct and the ministerial code, and officials have been advising me throughout this whole thing.

Taunting Mr Johnson with the nickname "Major Sleaze", Sir Keir said: "This is a Prime Minister who during the pandemic was nipping out of meetings to choose wallpaper at £840 a roll.

"What do we get from this Prime Minister and this Conservative Government? Dodgy contracts, jobs for their mates and cash for access. And who is at the heart of it? The Prime Minister – Major Sleaze, sitting there. "Do not the British people deserve a Prime Minister they can trust, not a Government who are mired in sleaze, cronyism and scandal?"

The Electoral Commission said on Tuesday: "We have been in contact with the Conservative Party since late March and have conducted an assessment of the information they have provided to us."

"We are now satisfied that there are reasonable grounds to suspect that an offence or offences may have occurred.

"We will therefore continue this work as a formal investigation to establish whether this is the case."

separate inquiry

The watchdog can issue fines of up to £20,000 and can refer investigations to police or prosecutors.

A Tory spokesman said: "We believe all reportable donations have been transparently and correctly declared and published by the Electoral Commission.

"We will continue to work constructively with the Electoral Commission on this matter."

FLAT BROKE? Labour leader Sir Keir Starmer (right), mocked the PM over the affair, referring to him as 'Major Sleaze'

Asked if Mr Johnson would be willing to be questioned in person, his press secretary said: "He and the Government will of course be happy to assist if asked."

have also announced a separate inquiry into the refurbishment payment, headed by crossbench peer and former private secretary to the Queen Christopher Geidt.

The redecoration row Street erupted last week when Mr Johnson's estranged former chief adviser Dominic Cummings claimed any attempt to get donors to "secretly pay" for the work by designer Lulu Lytle would be "unethical, foolish, possibly illegal".

Two veterans in court charged with murder of IRA member in 1972

TWO elderly Northern Ireland veterans this week became the first to be tried over "legacy" killings during The Troubles.

The former paratroopers, known to the court as Soldiers A and C and now in their 70s, both denied murdering Official IRA member Joe McCann in Belfast, in 1972.

The 24 year old was at the time top of the Royal Ulster Constabulary's most wanted list, Belfast Crown Court was told.

The trial is being held before a judge only, because of fears that a jury could be intimidated.

Before the trial opened, demonstrators held banners outside the court expressing opposition to historical prosecution of former British soldiers.

Four other veterans face prosecution over killings in the Troubles but hundreds more could face reinvestigation.

One of the men facing trial later this year, Dennis Hutchings, 79, from Cornwall, is seeking permission to take his case to the European Court of Human Rights, claiming his prosecution is "discriminatory and vexatious".

Among those attending court was MP and former soldier Johnny Mercer – sacked last week as Veterans minister after speaking out about a lack of progress on legislation to protect British Northern Ireland veterans from prosecution.

He said: "In any conflict, it is messy, it is unpleasant, it is a horrible process to go through for both sides.

"What I don't think is – 50 years later – you get a truly accurate picture of what happened."

He added: "They served their country, they did their best. War is messy and we need to find a solution for everybody."

A prosecution lawyer told the court that the shooting on Joy Street took place after an RUC Special Branch officer attempted to arrest Mr McCann, who ran away.

The Crown lawyer said at that point, soldiers A and C, and another now deceased paratrooper, soldier B, opened fire. They had been manning a checkpoint in the area at the time.

The lawyer told the court that Mr McCann was a senior member of the Official IRA who was suspected of involvement in a number of attacks on security forces carried out by the republican group.

The court heard that police intelligence in 1972 assessed Mr McCann as a leading member of the Official IRA in Belfast and that, if encountered, he would likely be armed and resist arrest.

The lawyer said both soldiers believed Mr McCann would have been armed but they said no weapon was found when they searched him as he lay wounded on the ground.

The prosecution lawyer said: "On any view of the facts, the level of force used was unreasonable."

The QC added: "Both soldiers shot Mr McCann in order to stop him from getting away and avoiding being arrested.

"The prosecution case is that in all circumstances that shooting was not legally justified."

The case continues.

COVID: Sixty million booster shots will fight third wave

■ New order will allow every Briton to get third shot to renew protection against virus

SIXTY million extra booster vaccines have been secured to fight off the threat of a third wave of Covid.

Health Secretary Matt Hancock said the stockpile will "keep us safe and free" from a potential virus surge in the autumn.

The new order of Pfizer/BioNTech doses means the NHS will have enough supplies to give every adult a third shot to renew protection against the virus.

It comes as England's deputy chief medical officer Professor Jonathan Van-Tam suggested "we are at or close to the bottom" of levels of coronavirus cases in the UK.

He added: "I am personally hopeful that if the vaccine programme continues at pace, the third wave might just be a third upsurge."

The new order brings the number of Pfizer vaccine doses the Government has procured to 100 million – the same as the number of AstraZeneca shots ordered.

In theory, this means people should be able to have a booster shot of the same vaccine they originally had.

Professor Van-Tam also said a study was under way to look at whether it was necessary to use the same vaccine someone had for their first two jabs for their booster.

Mr Hancock confirmed that the latest data, including figures showing seven in 10 adults now have protective Covid-19 antibodies, means the country is on target for lifting further lockdown restrictions next month.

'committment'

He said: "The data shows that we are essentially on track for where we expected to be at this point and that is obviously good news.

Ben Osborn, managing director of Pfizer UK, said: "By more than doubling our supply commitment to the UK, we are delighted to support the ongoing rollout of the UK immunisation programme and help the Government in its efforts to address the pandemic.

"Along with our partner BioNTech, we are working relentlessly to support vaccination campaigns worldwide and, based on current projections, believe we can deliver more than 2.5 billion doses of our vaccine globally by the end of 2021."

Vaccines minister Nadhim Zahawi said: "We are doing everything we can to make sure the most vulnerable are protected from Covid-19 now and in the future.

"Our brilliant Vaccines
Taskforce has secured an extra 60 million doses of the Pfizer/ BioNTech vaccines to support our booster programme, which will be developed in line with the advice of our experts."

Meanwhile, the Health Secretary has hinted there may be "good news" soon for care home residents currently required to isolate for two weeks after a trip out.

The Government has been threatened with legal action over the rule, which campaigners say encourages care homes to act unlawfully by "imprisoning" residents.

Mr Hancock said: "We are working on it right now, and in fact I had a meeting on this yesterday, to make sure we can get the rules right so that people can safely leave a care home and come back without

The UK has secured an extra 60 million doses of the Pfizer/ BioNTech vaccine bringing coronavirus back into the home.

'hopeful'

"And especially now that vaccinations have taken place among residents. The vast majority have now had two doses and, among staff, vaccination rates are rising as well.

"Also, the rates of coronavirus are so much lower in the community. So I hope that we can have some good news for you soon."

"It means we can follow the roadmap – and we look at the data all the time."

Announcing the new Pfizer deal at a Downing Street news conference, the Health Secretary said: "To keep us safe and free here, while we get this disease under control across the whole world, we have been working on a programme of booster shots for over a year now. "And we've backed some of the only clinical trials in the world looking specifically at booster shots.

"I'm delighted to be able to tell you that we've secured a further 60 million doses of the Pfizer/BioNTech vaccine that will be used alongside others as part of our booster shot programme later this year."

Professor Van-Tam warned that a third wave of Covid was likely in the autumn but said he was "hopeful" that the vaccines programme could reduce it to an "upsurge" with much lower levels of hospitalisations and deaths.

He said: "The modelling consensus is clear, we will have what's called a third wave.

"I am fairly hopeful that if the vaccine programme continues at pace and continues to be as successful as it has been the third wave might just be a third upsurge and much less significant because of the delinking of cases to hospitalisations and deaths. But I think it is inconceivable to think we will go from a period of relative calm, which is where we are now, with no further bumps in the road between now and this time next year."

Foster stands down as DUP leader

DUP leader and Northern Ireland's First Minister Arlene Foster has quit after an internal party rebellion over her handling of Brexit.

She will stand down as DUP leader on May 28 and as First Minister at the end of June.

Mrs Foster – who famously propped up Theresa May in Downing Street, but then torpedoed her Brexit deal – said serving the people of Northern Ireland had been the "privilege of my life".

Her decision to resign comes after weeks of violence in the province, partly sparked by the Brexit deal, which the DUP has said splits up the UK.

Mrs Foster, 50, indicated her resignation would mark the end of her career as she prepares to "depart the political stage".

She said she would work with her party's new leader "on transition arrangements".

And she added: "As First Minister it is important that I complete work on a number of important issues for Northern Ireland alongside other colleagues. There remains more work to be done to steer us through the pandemic."

The end of her five years at the top was widely anticipated after it emerged a significant number of DUP colleagues had signed a letter of no confidence.

It followed growing unease among party members about Mrs Foster and the wider leadership in recent months.

The main concern is the handling of Brexit and the introduction of an Irish Sea border. Critics say Mrs Foster failed to use the DUP's influence at Westminster to ensure Northern Ireland left the EU on the same terms as the rest of the UK.

Ryan Giggs arriving at court this week

Giggs 'headbutted ex' and controlled her for three years

Giggs head butted his girlfriend during three years "controlling" behaviour, a court heard this week.

The Manchester United legend subjected Kate Greville to "degrading treatment" to keep her in the relationship, said prosecutor Andrea Griffiths.

Giggs, denies attacking the PR executive his £1.7million mansion in Worsley, Greater Manchester, November.

The Wales manager also denies controlling and coercive behaviour in relation to Ms Greville. 36, from December 2017 to November 2020.

ʻabuse'

It was alleged at Manchester Magistrates Court that the former Old Trafford winger also hit her younger sister Emma. He denies beating her.

The ex-footballer stood in the glass dock wearing a black suit, white shirt and dark blue tie to enter his three pleas of not guilty.

include that he "repeatedly or continuously engaged in behaviour which was controlling or coercive, namely, used violence, belittling, isolation, humiliation, harassment, degradation and abuse".

The prosecution claimed Giggs "isolated" Kate Greville from "work colleagues and friends" and subjected "degrading her to treatment" to "keep her in the relationship".

Ms Griffiths added: "If she challenged him or tried to break away, there were threats of physical or professional harm."

Giggs She said subjected Kate Greville to a "deliberate head butt".

Giggs, who spoke only to confirm his name, address and to enter his pleas, will next appear at Manchester Crown Court on May 26. He was bailed to his trial, on condition he does not approach either woman or any address where he thinks they are.

Sir Anthony slept through second Oscar win

Snoozing screen legend, 83, knew nothing of his Oscar until agent woke him at 4am

SIR Anthony Hopkins's dream came true when he was awarded Best Actor at the Oscars - but he slept through it all.

A good night's rest meant the legend, 83, had no idea he'd won the final prize of the evening until he received a call from his excited agent at 4am.

Sir Anthony, now the oldest star to win Best Actor, did not make an acceptance speech until Monday morning.

The cream Hollywood, who voted for his win, instead had to make do on the night with a video he'd posted of him visiting his father's grave in South Wales.

Sir Anthony won his second Oscar on Sunday for his heart-breaking performance of a man living with dementia in The Father, alongside Olivia Colman.

After being roused by his agent Jeremy Barber near Port Talbot, Sir Anthony shared a new video - this time of his acceptance speech.

said: "Good He morning, here I am in my homeland of Wales and at 83 years of age I did not expect to get this award. I really didn't.

"I really did not expect this, so I feel very privileged and honoured. Thank you."

In his graveside video shown earlier, the actor said: "Richard Hopkins, my beloved father, resting in eternal peace...". He then tried to recite Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night by Welsh poet Dylan Thomas but was overcome with emotion.

Hopkins paid tribute to fellow nominee Chadwick Boseman (right) saying: "God, I can't do it, it's too painful."

Jeremy said: "Tony was in Wales, where he grew up, and he was asleep at four in the morning when I woke him up to tell him the news. He was so happy and so grateful.

"After a year in quarantine, and being double-vaccinated, was finally able to return to Wales at the age of 83, it was a great relief after such a difficult year.

"But he loved the role in The Father - it's his proudest performance and to be the oldest living actor to win in the category means so much to him."

Chadwick Boseman had been the favourite for the Best Actor Oscar. He was in the running for his role in Ma Rainey's Black Bottom following his death last August from colon cancer aged just 43.

And Sir Anthony paid tribute to him, saying he was "taken from us far too early".

The previous oldest winner of the Best Actor statue was Christopher Plummer. The Sound Of Music star, who died in February, was awarded his aged 82 for 2011's Beginners.

Sir Anthony won his first Oscar in 1992 for playing Hannibal Lecter in The Silence Of The Lambs.

Pregnant Crown star Emerald Fennell

Daniel Kaluuva were the other British winners. Emerald, 35, took Best Original Screenplay for thriller Promising Young Woman, the first female to win the award in 13 years.

Admitting she failed to prepare a winner's speech, Emerald said: "I didn't think this would happen. I'm going to be in trouble."

Meanwhile, Daniel, 32 named Best Supporting Actor for Judas And The Black Messiah, left his mother mortified as he joked about his parents having sex.

He said: "We're breathing, we're walking. It's incredible. My mum, my dad, they had sex. It's amazing!

Sir Elton raises over £2m at annual Oscar bash

SIR Elton John collected a dazzling £2.1million for charity at his annual Oscars party with a little help from friend Dua Lipa.

The pair were on sparkling form at the partreal, part-virtual bash which beamed around the world from the Rosewood Hotel in London's Grosvenor Square.

Sir Elton and Dua, 25, duetted on his 1973 hit Bennie And the Jets during a set which included her single Levitating.

The megastar, 74, who has been hosting an Oscars bash for his Aids foundation since 1993, said: "We haven't missed a year yet and we certainly weren't going to miss our 29th annual Oscar Party - even if it meant going

"It was so much fun to perform with the gorgeous Dua Lipa and open up our party to supporters all over the world."

Lady Gaga was among the other star backers, while other real-world guests included Liz Hurley, 55, David Walliams, 49, and Sir Elton's husband and coorganiser David Furnish,

Strewth! Cheaper vino! Truss toasts fruits of Aussie trade deal

BRITS will be soon toasting Brexit with cheaper Australian wine following a trade deal with the nation.

International Trade Secretary Liz Truss said the agreement will help UK shoppers by lowering the prices of imports.

And it will fuel growth by creating jobs as the number of exports increase, including in premium items such as cars and Scottish whisky.

Ms Truss dismissed claims that Australia will do five times better out of the deal than the UK as "very defeatist" and "pessimistic".

She said it was based on a "static analysis" of the position now but the world will be "very different in 2030".

Trade Secretary Liz Truss

The minister added: "Of course, what we need to do is encourage more British businesses to export.

"Currently, only one in 10 British businesses export. I want to get more of them doing that. "So, it's not a fixed prediction. We can change the way we do things.

"But actually bringing products in from Australia at more affordable prices is great for British consumers – whether it is wine or other Australian products."

An ambitious free trade agreement could increase UK exports to Australia by up to £900million, according to the Government. And Ms Truss insisted the deal will protect British farmers from unfair competition from Australian counterparts.

She told BBC's The Andrew Marr Show: "I can absolutely promise we are not going to lower our excellent food standards in order to do this trade deal.

"But what we will do through this trade deal is to make sure we get fantastic British products into Australia at a much cheaper price – whether it's whisky or cars – which will drive jobs and growth across Britain.

BIG DOWN UNDER: Australia was the UK's fifth largest trading partner in 2019

"It also gives us access to a fantastic, fast-growing part of the world, the Asia-Pacific. "We're expecting 66 per cent of the world's middle-classes to be there by 2030.

"So this is all about creating new jobs and growth for the future and hitching Britain to the fastest-growing parts of the world."

Ms Truss and Australian trade minister Dan Tehan vowed last Friday to "enter a sprint" to the finish in talks after making significant progress in the latest round of negotiations.

An agreement is expected to be finalised in June and will then need to be signed off by respective parliaments.

Australia was the UK's fifth largest trading partner in 2019, with total trade between the nations that year worth £18.8billion.

Brits in LA

Oscars in the time of COVID

The 93rd Academy Awards took place at Union Station in downtown LA this past weekend and the telecast had very mixed reviews.

It was apparent that COVID definitely impacted the joy of the show. With no host to help keep things going in a fun and uplifting spirited way it ended up feeling more like a wake than a celebration. No disrespect to the quick rapid fire 'in remembrance' segment!

It was a shame that lighting at Union station, which boasts a gorgeious combination of Spanish Colonial Revival and Art Deco styles, left a lot to be desired and unfortunately washed out all the stars. My husband noted that if you can't even make the beautiful Margot Robbie look good then you messed up. Royally.

The musical performances were a missed opportunity and the general cheer of a crowd was sorely missed.

With a room full of just nominees it felt like a beauty pageant where there are 40 runners up and there can only be one winner. Poor Glenn Close who is always the bridesmaid and never the bride livened things up with her twerking and rapping skills. But unfortunate I felt that's where the fun started and ended.

Not a ton of surprises either for the awards. Perhaps Anthony Hopkins winning Best Actor over Chadwick Boseman. But why mess with the line-up of awards when you know potentially two of your nominees cannot make it. At least end the night with Best Actress (and at the same time make a statement that women are just as important as men). However the biggest mistake was doing Best Picture BEFÖRE the Best Actor and Actresses awards. The Best Picture gong has always been the cherry on the top of the ceremony so it left a huge sense of anticlimax following the announcement. To my mind, this year's telecast was a big dud and I'm not surprised that it lost 50% of its audience from the year

Meanwhile Hollywood my home screening was a heck of a lot more fun. I got to celebrate with some fully-vaccinated and Covid-tested BRITS IN LA friends. It was nice to host something, what with being involved in a film (Mank) which bosted 10 award nominations and which won two Oscars on the night (Best Cinematography and Best Production Design).

Our guests enjoyed fresh delicious sushi from Sugar Fish and champagne galore, my friend Seppi Aghajani made a makeshift red carpet for us, ensuring an unforgettable night for us all. Our afterparty ended with a

Rodgers dismisses Spurs talk

BRENDAN RODGERS has slammed the door shut on any potential advances from managerless Tottenham.

Spurs chariman Daniel Levy is on the lookout for a new boss after firing Jose Mourinho days before Sunday's League Cup final defeat by Manchester City.

The Leicester manager (above) had been widely tipped as the London club's top target but Rodgers says he could not be happier where he is.

He has steered them to third place in the league and to the FA Cup final against Chelsea next month.

Rodgers said: "Tottenham is a great club, one of the biggest clubs in Britain but I'm just in a really happy place in my life.

"I've got a set of players that give me their heart and soul every single day and I can also see a future here in terms of the development of the squad."

But Rodgers will have to finish the season without Harvey Barnes, who has been ruled out of the FA Cup final and England's summer plans for the Euros.

The Leicester winger was dealt the shattering double blow after having to have a second operation on his knee.

Rodgers said: "It's a shame but he's had a second minor operation and it means he won't play for the rest of the season."

Chelsea edge tough Real encounter

CHRISTIAN PULISIC netted a crucial away goal but Chelsea spurned chances to kill off Real Madrid in their Champions semi-final on Tuesday.

The American opened the scoring in Spain as the Blues dominated the opening half of the first leg.

Timo Werner should have scored but his volley was saved by former goalkeeper Chelsea Thibaut Courtois.

Real Madrid striker Karim Benzema's equaliser was their only shot on target. Chelsea are now favourites ahead of next week's return leg at Stamford Bridge.

Chelsea Former Thibaut goalkeeper Courtois had not conceded for six hours and 44 minutes when Pulisic did nothing short of embarrass him.

Winning the foot race to Antonio Rudiger's ball over the top by a distance, the American kept his head and navigated a route around the goalkeeper before picking a gap between the defenders on the line.

Real had struggled to cope with the surprising wing-back system Zinedine Zidane had gone with to mirror Chelsea's line-up, and for the first quarter everything seemed to go the way of the visitors.

But out of nowhere, Karim Benzema turned a half-chance 20 yards out into a wickedly- curling shot that clipped the post.

The France international does not miss many, and sure enough a deep Marcelo delivery, headed back across goal by Casemiro was flicked on and

Benzema casually took the ball on his chest before

Pepe lifeline for Gunners

Nicolas Pepe's secondhalf penalty gave Arsenal renewed hope of reaching the Europa League final despite a 2-1 semi-final first-leg loss at Villarreal Thursday as both sides finished with 10 men.

With the Gunners trailing 2-0 and a man down following Dani Ceballos' sending off, Pepe stepped up and fired home a precious away goal from the spot after Bukayo Saka had been tripped in the box.

means Mikel Arteta's side go into next Thursday's second leg with genuine hope of reaching a second Europa League final in three seasons and with the potential of qualifying for next season's Champions League.

They appeared to be sinking without trace when Manu Trigueros fired in an early low, angled drive for the home side before Raul Albiol slammed home at the back post following Gerard Moreno's flick-on from a corner.

Ceballos' red card with 30 minutes left, courtesy of a second booking for standing on the boot of Daniel Parejo, looked to have sealed their fate.

Bernd Leno But produced two good saves to keep the home side at bay before Pepe - playing as a false nine - had his say.

■ City's stunning fightback in Paris puts them in driver's seat

Champions League Semi-Final, 1st leg PSG......1 Man City....2

MANCHESTER CITY are just 90 minutes away from their first Champions League final after a storming second-half display in Paris Wednesday night.

Kevin De Bruyne and Riyad Mahrez struck to give Pep Guardiola's side a priceless lead to take back to the Etihad.

Paris Saint-Germain had dominated before the break as City struggled to contain the hosts following Marquinhos' headed opener. But a turnaround saw De Bruyne's cross deceive everyone before Mahrez fired home from a free-kick.

Idrissa Gueye was sent off for a reckless challenge on Ilkay Gundogan as PSG lost their heads to leave City as firm favourites to finish the job in Tuesday's return leg at the Etihad.

Despite Paris Saint-Germain starting brightest, they went to pieces under pressure from the Premier League champions-elect.

It was De Bruyne who sparked the fightback, firing home just after the hour, and Mahrez who hammered home a free-kick to send City back to the Etihad with a first final almost in their grasp.

Mahrez was brought up a stone's throw from the Parc des Princes and he and his team- mates made themselves right at home.

A stage set with everything but fans produced a gripping spectacle.

PSG boss Mauricio Pochettino named a full-strength side that included Kylian Mbappe, who limped off with a thigh injury at the weekend, and experienced centre-half Marquinhos after his adductor injury. The early exchanges saw City dominate with PSG content to soak up the pressure and strike on counters – and in Neymar and Mbappe they had the tools.

The breakthrough after 15 minutes came from a set piece. The delivery from the right by Angel Di Maria was pinpoint but City really should have done better.

Gundogan failed to track the run of Marquinhos and, once free, he rose to meet the ball unchallenged.

City struggled to get their creative players on the ball and were restricted to half chances until just before half time, with City nicking the ball from PSG on the flank and Bernardo squaring for Foden, whose effort went straight at Keylor Navas.

After the break Cancelo and Kyle

Europa League Semi-Final, 1st leg Man United......6 Roma.....2

Bruno Fernandes and Edinson Cavani both scored twice as Manchester United came from behind on Thursday to take a major step towards sealing a place in next month's Europa League final.

Fernandes gave United a perfect start in their semi-final with Italian side Roma when he swept home Cavani's first-time lay-off. Paul Pogba's handball allowed Lorenzo Pellegrini to equalise before the Roma skipper's pass allowed former Manchester City striker Edin Dzeko to score his sixth goal in five Old Trafford appearances to turn the tie on its head by half-time.

But United rallied after the break. Cavani levelled with a superb first-time effort before tapping the hosts back in front when substitute keeper Antonio Mirante pushed Aaron Wan- Ole Gunnar Solskjaer's men were in no mood to let their advantage slip a second time, although it took a fortunate penalty for what seemed to be an innocuous Chris Smalling tackle on Cavani to give Fernandes the chance add a fourth from the spot.

Pogba then powered home a precise header from Fernandes' cross before Greenwood ran on to Cavani's pass and drove home United's sixth, making them the first side to score six goals in a major European semi-final since Real Madrid in the 1964 European Cup.
