

UK Covid Response: the good, the bad and the ugly

■ But the drive to develop and deploy the jabs was world-leading, MPs' report concludes

THE Covid vaccine programme was "one of most effective initiatives in UK history", but the first lockdown came too late, a major inquiry into the UK pandemic response found.

Britain's drive to develop and deploy the jabs was world-leading, MPs on the Commons health and science committees concluded.

However, they found scientific advisers initially took the wrong approach to the virus, costing lives.

In a joint statement responding to the findings, Jeremy Hunt, chair of the health and social care committee, and Greg Clark, chair of the science and technology committee, said: "The UK response has combined some big achievements with some big mistakes."

"It is vital to learn from both to ensure that we perform as best as we can during the remainder of the pandemic and in the future."

The year-long inquiry investigated why the UK was worse-affected than many other countries, reporting more than 160,000 fatalities with Covid on a death certificate.

After evidence from more than 50 witnesses and 400 written submissions, the "Coronavirus: lessons learned to date" report concluded the vaccine drive was the most successful part of the response.

'uncertainty'

The jab rollout paved the way for "a resumption of much of normal life", the report said. It added: "Millions of lives will ultimately be saved as a result of the global vaccine effort, in which the UK played a leading part."

But the inquiry identified serious flaws in leaders' actions between January and late March 2020.

It acknowledged there was a "fog of uncertainty" hanging over early 2020, but said the "veil of ignorance through which the UK viewed the initial weeks of the pandemic" was "self-inflicted" due to delays with the testing system. And while the Scientific Advisory Group for Emergencies (Sage) had recommended the gradual introduction of restrictions, the inquiry found this only aimed to slow rather than stop the spread. There was also an incorrect belief that the public would not tolerate a prolonged lockdown.

MPs ruled that was "the wrong policy" and that the death toll would have been lower if stronger measures had been implemented sooner.

recommendations

The report said: "Decisions on lockdowns and social distancing... and the advice that led to them, rank as one of the most important public health failures the UK has ever experienced."

Mr Hunt and Mr Clark added: "The Government took seriously scientific advice but there should have been more challenges to the early UK consensus that delayed a more comprehensive lockdown when countries like South Korea showed a different approach was possible."

MUST DO BETTER: an earlier and more comprehensive lockdown would have saved many thousands of lives, the report concluded

The report also said the discharge of untested patients from hospitals into care homes fuelled the spread.

Shortages of staff, testing and PPE meant it was hard to isolate cases and keep the virus at bay.

Additionally, pre-pandemic planning was "narrowly and inflexibly based on a flu model" that failed to learn from SARS, MERS and Ebola.

In total, MPs made 38 related recommendations to the Government and public bodies.

Mark Woolhouse, a Sage member and professor of infectious disease epidemiology at the University of Edinburgh, thinks the conclusion about delaying lockdown is "too simplistic".

He said: "There is disagreement as to how many lives would have been saved. Lockdowns are harmful in their own right."

Prof Trish Greenhalgh, of Oxford University, said the report "hints at a less-than-healthy relationship between the Government and its formal scientific advisory bodies".

But a Government spokesman said: "We have been guided by scientific and medical experts and we never shied away from taking quick and decisive action to save lives and protect our NHS. We have committed to holding a full public inquiry in spring."

It comes as a third of fully vaccinated over-80s in England – around 923,000 people – are reported to have had a booster.

News From Britain

As growth soars again, Chancellor heaps praise on 'strong economy'

BRITAIN'S remarkable economic recovery is almost complete after another surge in growth – and it could end the call for tax rises say experts.

GDP went up by 0.4 per cent in August, fuelled by a recreation and entertainment boom, in the first full month after Covid-19 restrictions were lifted.

It means the economy is now only 0.8 per cent smaller than it was before the pandemic began.

Forecasts suggest further increases in September as the bounceback continues with the UK economy now the fastest growing in the G7.

But experts have warned that the recovery will have been stifled in recent weeks as global supply chain woes take their toll.

Strong

Rishi Sunak welcomed the latest figures, insisting the economy "remains strong". The Chancellor, on his first official visit to the US, said: "Our economic recovery is continuing with more employees on payrolls than ever before and the UK forecast to have the fastest growth in the G7 this year.

"As we rebuild from the pandemic, we are taking action to ensure our economy remains strong by helping people find great work through our Plan for Jobs."

Economists say August's growth, which came after a slight dip in July, slams the door on the prospect of any further tax rises. Julian Jessop, of the Institute of Economic Affairs think tank, said: "The rebound in economic activity will help to repair the public finances without the need for any more tax increases."

But he indicated interest rates would need to rise, with analysts predicting they could hit 0.25 per cent by the end of the year, to cool inflation. He said: "With labour shortages and rising prices now the biggest threat, the focus needs to shift to tackling problems on the supply side.

"The emphasis should be on letting markets work properly, rather than further state intervention and pumping even more money into the economy."

The Office for National Statistics said growth rebounded strongly in the second quarter of the year, with GDP rising by 5.5 per cent.

But the recovery since then has been sluggish, with supply chain problems and the lorry driver crisis holding back the economy.

The ONS data showed that output in the construction sector fell for the second month running, down by 0.2 per cent in August following a 1 per cent decline in July, as supply holdups led to shortages of key materials and rocketing prices.

Having recovered in April to be 0.9 per cent above levels seen before the pandemic, the construction sector is now 1.5 per cent below its pre-Covid level.

The ONS added that July's contraction was also partly due to the difficulties in the car

UPBEAT ASSESSMENT: Chancellor Rishi Sunak accentuated the positive manufacturing industry, which has been affected by a global shortage of microchips.

Samuel Tombs, at Pantheon Macroeconomics, warned it is "implausible" that growth will rise enough in September to remain on track with Bank of England forecasts, particularly given that the full force of the supply crisis is set to be felt from September onwards.

This week Mr Sunak called for "global action" to tackle supply disruption during a meeting of G7 and G20 finance ministers.

It is his first visit to Washington since becoming Chancellor in February 2020, just a month before the first lockdown when the furlough scheme started. He also met the UK's ambassador, Dame Karen Pierce.

Warnings

His trip comes as the UK continues to struggle with an HGV driver shortage that is impacting supermarket and fuel deliveries amid warnings this week there could be a shortage of salt gritter drivers this winter.

Mr Sunak used the meeting to encourage further support for vulnerable countries that are also struggling with supply chain issues.

In a statement before the meetings he said: "Global cooperation is key to addressing our shared challenges as we emerge from the pandemic.

"From global tax reform to global supply chains, we must work together to seek international solutions for the benefit of our citizens at home."

Stop the 'poison', Frost urges EU

WARNING: Lord Frost demanded EU flexibility on the Irish border question

BRITAIN'S Brexit chief has told Brussels the "poison" must stop in a bid to resolve the dispute over Northern Ireland trade.

Unless the EU eases border rules the UK may rip up the Brexit agreement, Lord Frost warned this week.

The Cabinet minister said Boris Johnson would take the "nuclear option" if the bloc refuses to budge.

He added that Britain's plan for an "extremely light touch" trading scheme was "a better cont. on page 3, col. 1

Cops drop Andrew sex probe

BRITISH POLICE have dropped a criminal probe into the alleged sex crimes of Prince Andrew. It comes after reports they had spoken to the woman who claimed that he attacked her.

Met police are said to have approached Virginia Giuffre, 38, in a dramatic move that could have led to a full criminal investigation by the force.

The twist came after Met Commissioner Dame Cressida Dick warned "no one is above the law". It also coincided with claims that the Duke of York's siblings Charles, Anne and Edward, plus Prince William, are determined to prevent him returning to public life. The Metropolitan Police said it would be taking "no further action" over allegations against Prince Andrew and Jeffrey Epstein, it has been revealed.

The force said after conducting two reviews and examining recent material, they would be dropping their investigation.

damages claim

But officers said that they will continue to liaise with unnamed law enforcement agencies leading the investigation into the convicted paedophile and billionaire financier who hanged himself in prison two years ago as he awaited trial on trafficking charges.

Epstein had been a close friend of the Prince.

Ms Giuffre, who now lives in Australia, has accused Prince Andrew of sexually assaulting her when she was 17 at the home of Epstein's friend Ghislaine Maxwell and at Epstein's Manhattan townhouse and on his private island.

The Queen's second son has strenuously denied all the allegations and claims not to remember meeting Ms Giuffre.

Andrew, 61, still faces a £14million damages claim from her over the allegations.

But his lawyers are seeking to have her lawsuit thrown out and have pledged to

Meanwhile, Charles

and William are said to regard the Prince's comeback as a potential "reputational threat" to the Monarchy, while Edward and Anne are said to have dismissed the idea at a summit.

way forward". Throwing down the gauntlet in a speech in Lisbon, Lord Frost urged EU chiefs to lose the "poison" from the deadlock for good.

He told diplomats: "Let us both be ambitious and agree a better way forward."

"Let's agree arrangements which we will both implement and which can in fact be implemented, because they command acceptance and respect across Northern Ireland."

He continued: "With some effort of will, we could still, despite all the problems, be in a position where the poison is drawn from this issue entirely and it is removed from the diplomatic top table once and for all."

But Lord Frost warned that the UK is willing to trigger Article 16, which allows either side to in effect override much of the Brexit agreement, if both sides cannot find common ground.

"It is this Government, the UK Government, that governs Northern Ireland."

Peace

He added: "Northern Ireland is not EU territory. It is our responsibility to safeguard peace and prosperity and that may include using Article 16."

"We would not go down this route gratuitously or with any particular pleasure but it is our fundamental responsibility to safeguard peace and prosperity in Northern Ireland and that is why we cannot rest until this situation is addressed."

The Government also wants to reverse its previous deal on the oversight role of the European Court of Justice (ECJ) – the highest EU court.

Lord Frost warned that it would be a "historic misjudgment" if the EU did not consider the changes.

The existing protocol has created barriers to trade across the Irish Sea and led to shortages of some goods that are supplied from Great Britain.

Unionist politicians claim it undermines Northern Ireland's constitutional position in the UK.

Lord Frost said that the new proposal would support the Good Friday Agreement.

He continued: "We have a short, but real, opportunity to put in place a new arrangement, to defuse the political crisis that is brewing, both in Northern Ireland and between us."

The peer also accused the EU of being an organisation "that doesn't always look like" it wants the UK to succeed.

The peer called the existing protocol "the biggest source of mistrust" with the EU, with border rules having "completely lost consent in one community in Northern Ireland. There is a widespread feeling in the UK that the EU did try to use Northern Ireland to encourage UK political forces to reverse the referendum result or at least to keep us closely aligned.

"And, moreover, that the protocol represents a moment of EU overreach when the UK's negotiating hand was tied, and therefore cannot reasonably last in its current form."

"The situation has now moved on. We now face a very serious situation. "The protocol is not working."

Simon Coveney, Ireland's Foreign Minister, claimed Lord Frost was setting demands that he knew the EU could not accept:

"This is being seen across the European Union as the same pattern over and over again – the EU tries to solve problems, the UK dismisses the solutions before they're even published and asks for more."

Demand

Leo Varadkar, its Trade Minister, said the UK demand to end the ECJ's role in policing the protocol was "very hard to accept."

"I don't think we could ever have a situation where another court could decide what the rules of the single market are."

Jenny Chapman, Labour's shadow Cabinet Office Minister, said: "Lord Frost has effectively asked to rip up the agreement he negotiated, and the Prime Minister signed, just two years ago."

Steve Aiken, a Unionist member of the Northern Ireland assembly, claimed that the existing trade protocol "does not have the consent of the Unionist and pro-Union population".

News from Britain

I'd never make it in today's woke Britain, reveals Billy

TV executives not brave enough to broadcast edgy acts, claims legendary Scottish comic BILLY Connolly claims woke culture would stop him starting out on a career in comedy in modern Britain.

The legendary comedian said he thought that he would be "cancelled", with his "fearless" material deemed too offensive for current audiences.

Sir Billy, 78, found fame as a comic in the 1970s. He upset religious groups with routines such as the Last Supper, in which he imagined the final days of Jesus beginning in a pub on his native Glasgow's Gallowgate.

But he said that political correctness has now gone too far, and claimed that talented comedians were not being given an opportunity to shine because TV executives were not brave enough to broadcast edgy acts.

Asked if he would be shunned today, US-based Sir Billy said: "Absolutely. You can't decide to be fearless, you're either fearless or you're not and you go about it.

"Because of political correctness people have pulled in the horns but I don't know how I feel about that. I couldn't have started today with the talent I had then, certainly not.

"There's a show here in America with all black comedians, men and women, and they are totally ruthless.

"They are totally without political correctness and they have always got me on the floor

Sir Paul: Beatles split 'hardest time of my life'

SIR Paul McCartney has tried to set the record straight about The Beatles' break-up – saying it was one of the toughest moments he has faced.

He says the split was instigated by John Lennon, not him. It had been thought Macca ended the Fab Four by saying he wanted to go solo in 1970.

The supposed evidence was a press release for his album, McCartney, where he revealed he was on a "break" from pop's biggest band.

Now Sir Paul, 79, has spoken out, telling an interviewer: "Stop right there. I didn't instigate the split. That was our Johnny. I am not the person who instigated the split. Oh no, no, no. John walked into a room one day and said I am leaving The Beatles.

"And he said, 'It's quite thrilling, it's rather like a divorce.' And we were left to pick up the pieces."

The Beatles limped on for a few months and Paul eventually sued the other three to keep their music from new manager Allen Klein.

Macca was interviewed for BBC Radio 4 series This Cultural Life. Asked if the band would have continued had John not walked away, Sir Paul replied: "It could have. The point of it was that John was making a new life with Yoko and wanted to lie in bed for a week in Amsterdam for peace. You couldn't argue with that.

"It was the most difficult period of my life. This was my band, my job, this was my life. I wanted it to continue."

This Cultural Life will air BBC Radio 4, October 23rd at 7.15pm GMT and be available on the iPlayer app or the bbc.co.uk website.

howling with laughter.

"It's just the cheek of them and the bravery of it.

"There was a comedian who had a series on television and the suits involved were going to take it off at the first commercial break.

'difficult to write'

"They have got no bravery. We need people who give people time and a chance to develop and all that kind of stuff.

"I think things have changed forever [with political correctness] but you never know."

The film star and musician was speaking to New Zealand radio network Newstalk ZB in an interview to promote his autobiography Windswept & Interesting which was published this week.

He said that writing some parts of the book, such as covering the abuse from his father and his aunts that he suffered as a child, had made him depressed.

Sir Billy, known as the Big Yin, continued: "It was difficult to write, and the trouble with it is when you bring it up it stays for a while and then you get over it and then you bring it up again and you get depressed again.

"I don't know if it helps or not but you are as well to get it off your shoulder and into the open air. It's difficult but you get there."

Sir Billy – married to former Not the Nine O'Clock News star Pamela Stephenson, 71 – announced his retirement from performing stand-up comedy in 2018.

He has carried on making documentaries and is currently filming a series called Billy Connolly Does... for TV channel Gold.

Sir Billy was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease nine years ago after a doctor approached him when he saw him walk with an unusual gait through the lobby of a hotel in Los Angeles.

The couple moved to Florida from their previous home in New York after medics advised him to live in a warmer climate.

UK hate crime figures surge

Figures on racist, disability and sexual gender attacks all spike up

HATE crime has surged to a record level with a 12 per cent rise in racially-motivated offences, official figures reveal.

There were 124,091 such crimes recorded in England and Wales in the year to March 2021 – an increase of nine per cent on the previous 12 months. A total of 92,052 were racial in nature, according to data from the Home Office. Experts believe the true figure is far higher as offences are likely to be significantly underreported.

Jabeer Butt, of the Race Equality Foundation, said: "The fact that almost three quarters of hate crimes were racially motivated shows how far is left to go towards building a society that is truly tolerant and anti-racist. It is all too clear that too many people still face horrific attacks simply on the basis of who they are."

Disability-related hate crimes rose by nine per cent and those relating to sexual orientation by seven per cent.

Transgender identity-related hate crimes went up three per cent. However, recorded offences linked to religion were down by 18 per cent.

Just over half of the crimes recorded in England and Wales were for public order offences.

Hate crimes include assault, threatening behaviour, robbery, damage to property, graffiti, harassment, online abuse and inciting others to commit such crimes.

Coleen: I've forgiven Wayne for cheating

■ Warts-and-all documentary to air on Amazon Prime

COLEEN Rooney has broken her silence on husband Wayne's extramarital infidelity – saying she forgives him “but it wasn't acceptable”.

The 35-year-old talks openly in a trailer for Rooney, a new documentary that lifts the lid on the life and times of the Liverpool footballer.

Talking about Wayne's well-publicised encounter with three prostitutes back in 2002, Coleen says: “I knew groups Wayne was hanging around with – together with alcohol – not good. I forgive him but it wasn't acceptable.”

Prostitutes

And Wayne himself admits: “People still look at me in a different way. For me it's important that people remember me for who I am rather than what I've done.”

Former Everton striker Rooney, 35, met Coleen at school and the couple wed in Italy in 2008. They have four sons – Kai, 11, Klay, eight, Kit, five, and Cass, three.

But in 2004, after the then 18-year-old Wayne moved to Manchester United, it emerged that two years earlier he had paid £140 for sex with prostitute Charlotte Glover, aged 21 at the time. He was 17.

He also allegedly slept with Gina McCarrick, then 37, and grandmother Patricia Tierney, then 48, at a Liverpool brothel.

In 2010 there were reports the footballer

Then, in 2017, he was said to have enjoyed a “kiss and cuddle” with a woman before being arrested and charged with drink driving while Coleen was pregnant with Cass.

Brits in LA

It's so good to be back home!

Covid tests and petrol shortages can't stop Eileen Lee from feeling the love on a trip back to the UK

It is so surreal to be back in England after 18 months away. It is easily the longest I've not visited since moving to LA 24 years ago!

It wasn't until I landed that I allowed myself to realize just how much I'd missed it. Mostly my family of course - and whilst I will be eternally grateful for video chats it can never replace actually being in the same room as someone. I've not done much socially, as the purpose of this visit is to care for my elderly mum. I have managed to have my fill - and then some - of chocolates and crisps and of course the requisite fish and chips supper.

The petrol shortage is real, as I drove up the M1 I was horrified to see signs saying "No petrol available" at nearly all of the service stations between London and Nottingham. Although, my understanding is that it may have not been so extreme if the media hadn't stirred the pot which then resulted in the ridiculous panic buying. I was shocked to read on the local Nextdoor group that petrol was being stolen from parked cars. Insane! I also read posts from neighbours offering to share petrol with those in need, so it's not all bad.

Testing times

You may remember a few weeks ago I was preparing for this trip. Like many of us I was worrying about the testing requirements and feeling overwhelmed by all of the forms that needed filling out before I was deemed to fit to fly. Thankfully it all worked out just fine, but I couldn't have done it without all the tips and tricks our fellow members had shared on our Facebook page. Of course the rules have changed again since then! If you are planning a trip to the UK you no longer need a test before you fly but you do still need to take one at some point during the first two days of your arrival. This must be booked in advance as you also are required to enter the booking reference number on the UK government locator form, which must be completed before you check in for your flight. I used a company called Randox; it was a fairly easy process - they delivered a self-test kit to the address I was planning to stay at in England, and gave me the option to drop it for free in one of their many collection boxes dotted across the UK, or mail it back to them at my expense. I chose to send it via the Royal Mail 'Special Delivery' overnight service which cost £6.75. I was a bit scared as have read so many horror stories about how unreliable the post office is at the moment, so I was very impressed that they managed to get it from London to Belfast in less than 16 hours! I received my (negative) test result back that same day and then I was good to go. All in it cost roughly £50 including postage.

Another good option is

to get the Day 2 test when you land at the airport. Heathrow has a test centre onsite and I am sure that many other airports do too. Perfect for those of you would rather get it out of the way as soon as you arrive, prices start at £69 so it actually doesn't cost that much more, although if you are a family of 4 it will soon start to add up.

To find out more, visit www.heathrow.com/at-the-airport/fly-safe/covid-19-test

You are still required to take a test before your return to the USA. The CDC's current guidelines for international arrivals are as follows:

- All air passengers coming to the United States, including U.S. citizens and fully vaccinated people, are required to have a negative COVID-19 test result no more than 3 days before travel or documentation of recovery from COVID-19 in the past 3 months before they board a flight to the United States.

After travel:

- Get tested with a viral test 3-5 days after travel.

- Self-monitor for COVID-19 symptoms; isolate and get tested if you develop symptoms.

- Follow all state and local recommendations or requirements after travel. If you are not fully vaccinated follow the guidelines above but you have to quarantine for 7 days after arrival no matter what your test results is.

You can visit CDC.gov for further guidance.

I have booked my UK to USA preflight test with DocHQ (<https://dochq.co.uk>) for £29.75, although I am having second thoughts about this one as it apparently requires me to take the test at home via a video chat with one of their representatives. However, they do get 5 stars on Trustpilot!

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF JOE ALLAN NEWMAN

Case No. 21STPB09671

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of JOE ALLAN NEWMAN

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Lance Luther Newman in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Lance Luther Newman be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Dec. 17, 2021 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 67 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

bidder shall have no further recourse. This sale shall be subject to a right of redemption. The redemption period within which this property interest may be redeemed ends 90 days after the date of the sale.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property or necessarily a 100% ownership interest in the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off or resolving ownership interest issues, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens as well as the ownership interest(s) and salability of the property that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust or lien on the property. Please Note, the sale may not be final until either 15 or 45 days after the sale date - see Notice to Tenant. Further, no TDUS can be issued until the sale is final. Your bid is subject to being over bid by the Tenant or "eligible bidder" after the sale and if your bid is over bid, your only remedy is to the refund of your actual bid amount without interest or payment of any other costs, expenses or funds of any kind or nature incurred by the initial successful bidder.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER:

The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, lien holder, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866) 266-7512 or visit this Internet Web site www.elitepostandpub.com using the T.S. number assigned to this case. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify sale or postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction filed prior to that date. The filing of this statement does not of itself authorize the use in this state of a fictitious business name in violation of the rights of another under federal, state or common law (see Section 14411, et seq., B&P Code.) Fictitious Business Name Statement: 2021217318. The following person(s) is/are doing pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (866) 266-7512, or visit this internet website www.elitepostandpub.com using the file number assigned to this case TS# 21-21048 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a written bid along with the funds constituting the bid payable in lawful money of the United States, by cash, a cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, or savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state so that the trustee receives the bid and the funds no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.

The claimant under said Delinquent Assessment Lien heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. The undersigned caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located and more than three months have elapsed since such recordation.

out performer in any era, for anybody. Tyson sells out any stadium in Britain, easy, big-time. The fans will come out for him.

"Everything is possible and we will just sit down and look at how we do everything.

"I was really proud just to be involved with him tonight because he proved he was a true fighting man and he deserves that hero's homecoming now."

That could be an all-British clash against Dillian Whyte, who faces Swede and former Fury foe Otto Wallin later this month.

The WBC will give Fury 30 days to negotiate an undisputed fight with WBA, IBF and WBO champion Oleksandr Usyk but the Ukrainian has to face Anthony Joshua in a rematch.

It means the winner of Whyte and Wallin will get the mandatory position.

Warren added: "They haven't said anything for sure yet and it will depend when they want it to happen – and we need to see what happens with Whyte and Wallin first because that's not an easy fight."

Warren also believes Joshua will be glad he did not have to get in the ring with Fury. He said: "Look at the comparison between Tyson's and AJ's performances. If Joshua has just watched that it will have frightened the life out of him."

Fury spent his victory night partying at Hakkasan Nightclub at the MGM-Grand Hotel and before jetting home on Tuesday with his wife Paris to see their six children. He insists his only focus is on enjoying his victory and not an undisputed showdown with southpaw Usyk.

The Briton said: "We will see. I have just earned a well-earned break, I have been home for just two weeks in six months, so before I start thinking about fighting other men I'm going to bask in this victory.

"This was one of my greatest wins, I got off the floor to do it and I'm the big dog now."

Unhappy Spurs fans go public

ANGRY Tottenham fans have issued a series of public demands to the club's board after their request for a meeting with the hierarchy was snubbed.

The frustrated Tottenham Hotspur Supporters' Trust, denied a face-to-face meeting with club chairman Daniel Levy, have gone public with the questions they were planning to confront him with.

The THST asked to meet with senior figures at Spurs to discuss the club's strategy and vision for the future, but were turned down last week.

But THST insist fans deserve to know the club's plans, why no players were signed for two consecutive transfer windows, and if the team is a priority for the board.

The fans' group said: "The club board declined to meet with the Trust. That does not mean those questions are no longer relevant.

"We now have to ask in public the questions we would have asked at that meeting.

"Sharing strategic visions is not unusual in football, with several clubs (including Liverpool, Everton, Celtic, Rangers) alongside the FA, having published plans and reports for review.

"As key stakeholders in the club, it is our view that supporters have every right to ask these questions, to expect a level of transparency and to hold directors accountable for their decision making."

Game on for Wales in qualifying hunt

Early Moore strike keeps Wales on Czechs' shoulder

KIEFFER MOORE was the 12th-minute match-winner as Wales kept up the pressure on the Czech Republic in the race for second place in their group with a 1-0 win in Estonia.

But the big striker was later substituted with blurred vision after also collecting a booking that rules him out of Belarus' visit next month.

Moore's early tap-in was enough to secure four points from a double-header of away matches in Prague and Tallinn this month.

The Czechs remain second but Wales could leap above them with four points from their last two games, including Belgium at home to finish with.

Just as in their 2-2 draw in the Czech Republic, Wales showed plenty of enterprise and grit.

But they were forced to hang on in the second half before prevailing to keep alive their qualification hopes.

Estonia came in on the back of their first victory in the group against Belarus.

Welsh boss Rob Page kept to his intention of fielding an attacking line-up to go for the win.

From Dan James' resulting corner, Joe Rodon won an initial header before Aaron Ramsey had a header stopped on the

It left Cardiff striker Moore with an easy right-foot finish as he grabbed his seventh international goal on his 23rd appearance.

Moore might have added another as Hein got down well at his near post to stop the striker's near-post flick. But Wales still needed defender Rodon to clear off the line in the 21st minute after Wilson's poor pass on the edge of the box gave Sergei Zenjov a sight of goal.

Dykes saves Scottish blushes

LYNDON DYKES saved Scotland from humiliation at the hands of the Faroe Islands on Tuesday night.

After beating Israel on Saturday in the 94th minute, this time it took an 87th-minute deflected goal from the QPR man to rescue a win.

Scotland were held and outplayed by a team ranked 114 in the world for much of the game.

But Dykes bundled home in his fourth consecutive game after defender Hordur Askham poked a cross on to his chest.

The Scots are favourites to finish second in Group F and earn a place in the play-offs in March. A win in November against Moldova will be enough.

Clarke's men will need to improve after lacking finishing power and passion in a game that was ebbing away until Nathan Patterson swung in his decisive cross. It took several minutes for VAR to rule Dykes had not handled the ball into the goal.

Scotland finished the seven minutes of injury time running down the clock. The Faroes battered them, and looked by far the more coherent team.

It took a brilliant save from Craig Gordon after 24 minutes to stop Ari Jonsson's point blank shot.

Moments later Brandur Hendriksson curled in a cross from an awkward angle and unmarked defender Sonni Nattestad met it with a header that crashed just over.

Then Odmar Faero went close in an unexpectedly even first half.

But Scotland looked increasingly shaky as the game wore on, and were carved apart after 65 minutes, Hallur Hansson pinged a shot just wide. Earlier Dykes was booked to earn a suspension for the Moldova game.

Stubborn Hungary block English progress

■ Honors even as crowd trouble mars World Cup qualifier at Wembley

England's path to the 2022 World Cup hit an unexpected stumbling block when they were held to a 1-1 draw by Hungary on Tuesday in a qualifier Gareth Southgate called a "big disappointment".

The game was marred by crowd violence between Hungary fans and stewards and police.

Southgate's side are still in pole position to reach Qatar but this was a disjointed display despite England taking on the Hungarians with an attacking line-up.

The early stages at Wembley were overshadowed by ugly scenes involving Hungary fans, who jeered England's players while holding up a banner protesting against taking the knee before clashing with police and stewards.

In a subdued atmosphere and after a semblance of order had been restored, Hungary took the lead in the 24th minute when Luke Shaw was penalized for a high challenge on Loic Nego and Roland Sallai sent Jordan Pickford the wrong way from the spot.

England were level before half-time, John Stones turning in at the far post after Tyrone Mings and Declan Rice touched on Phil Foden's free-kick.

Hungary then survived in relative comfort, Harry Kane's struggles for form summed up when England's captain was substituted even though they were searching desperately for a winner.

"I don't think we played at the level we have done and Hungary defended very well. We didn't do enough to win the game," Southgate told BBC Radio 5 Live.

"I don't know if subconsciously we thought this was going to be an easier game because we beat them comfortably [4-0] in September but they've been very good defensively right through the summer.

"In the first few minutes we were taking heavy touches and colliding into tackles. We didn't show the composure and quality that we have done generally."

Foden and Grealish had their moments although Mount was quiet as England lacked the attacking thrust to apply serious pressure and break down a well-organised Hungary defence.

It was a surprise when Grealish was replaced by Bukayo Saka just after the hour. It certainly came as a surprise to many in the Wembley crowd who loudly registered their disapproval, although Saka was given a rapturous welcome.

With Calvin Phillips injured and Jordan Henderson on the bench, England's attack-minded selection left them more open to a counter-attack. Hungary did threaten on occasions but they were not good enough to accept the invitation. Better teams might so Southgate has certainly been given food for thought and will learn lessons from this.

England are still on course to go to Qatar but this was a disappointing performance in what was a largely dull encounter, with most of the attention sadly focusing on the clashes between Hungarian fans and police and stewards moments after the kick-off.

This was a highly unsatisfactory night all round, although Hungary celebrated their hard-earned point after the final whistle.

England are three points above second-placed Poland with two qualifiers to go next month.

"We're in a very strong position in the group but tonight is a big disappointment," said Southgate. "We have to make sure we get it right next month."

England need four points from a home game with Albania and trip to San Marino.

Homecoming fight for Fury?

TYSON FURY could be set for a homecoming stadium fight next year after his brutal demolition of Deontay Wilder on Saturday night.

The Gypsy King retained his WBC heavyweight title with an 11th-round knockout of the American after picking himself up off the canvas twice.

Fury may now return to the UK to end a five-fight run in the US and four-year spell boxing abroad – potentially in April.

Promoter Frank Warren said: "I'd love a homecoming more than anything, for the British fans and everything.

"Fury is the best heavyweight of his generation and he is up there with all of them. Look at his size and chin and his heart to keep getting up off the floor – he gets up. That was the best heavyweight fight I've seen.
