Andrew headed for new legal setback

■ Prince left waiting on judge's decision in Giuffre assault case

PRINCE Andrew's bid to have a sexual assault case against him thrown out was looked doomed to failure this week.

Judge Lewis Kaplan told the court that at this stage he "must assume the truth" that Andrew, 61, forced "a child to have sexual intercourse" with him.

The judge promised a quick decision over the Duke of York's attempt to get him to dismiss a civil case for damages brought by Virginia Giuffre.

Ms Giuffre, 38, is suing the prince, claiming he sexually assaulted her when she was 17 and a minor in some US states.

She claims she was trafficked and forced by convicted paedophile Jeffrey Epstein and his sidekick Ghislaine Maxwell to have sex with the Queen's second son three times in 2001, including in London. The duke has consistently denied the allegations.

His lawyer, Andrew Brettler on Monday argued that Ms Giuffre's claim for unspecified damages – that could run into millions of dollars – should be thrown out because she signed a £370,000 settlement in 2009 with Epstein protecting "other potential defendants" from further legal action.

But the judge said it was not clear what was meant by "potential defendants".

He suggested the wording of the previously secret settlement implied only Epstein or Ms Giuffre could enforce the agreement and that it could not be used by a third party such as Andrew to protect themselves from legal action.

key issue

He said the key issue was what Ms Giuffre and Epstein – who was found dead in a Manhattan prison cell in August 2019 while awaiting a sex trafficking trial – intended.

Mr Brettler also argued that Ms Giuffre's claims were too vague and the duke needed to know the details to be able to defend himself.

He said: "Miss Giuffre needs to lock herself into a story. Now – not sometime in the future after she conducts discovery and figures out where the chips may fall, she needs to allege today."

But Judge Lewis Kaplan snapped back: "Mr Brettler, that's not a dog that's going to hunt here."

The judge said he was obliged to accept as true a complaint in part of the motion that stated: "On one occasion, Prince Andrew sexually abused plaintiff in London at Maxwell's home. During this encounter Epstein, Maxwell and Prince Andrew forced plaintiff, a child, to have sexual intercourse with Prince Andrew against her will."

The ninth in line to the throne vehemently denies the allegations and has insisted he has no recollection of ever meeting Ms Giuffre, a mother of three who was previously known as Virginia Roberts.

If the case comes to court, it will be up to a jury to decide if her allegations are true on "the preponderance of the evidence" – whether it is more likely than unlikely.

David Boies, Ms Giuffre's lawyer, insisted there was nothing in the 2009 settlement that covered Andrew: "The only claim that...covered Prince Andrew was the third count, which was to transport somebody for the purpose of illegal sexual activity.

"There is no allegation that Prince Andrew was the person transporting... He was somebody to whom the girls were trafficked."

The hearing went on for about an hour before Judge Kaplan told both parties: "You'll have a decision pretty soon."

Veterans blast 'detested' Blair as 500,000 join protest at gong

"This man is detested by the UK veteran community because of his deliberate actions in the continued appeasement of SinnFein/IRA."

HALF a million people have signed a petition demanding Tony Blair is stripped of the knighthood he received in the New Year's Honours.

As the number has topped 100,000, it could mean MPs debating whether the former Labour prime minister, 68, should have the honour rescinded.

Northern Ireland veterans branded it an "insult", while military mothers threatened to return Elizabeth Crosses – given to bereaved families.

Sir Tony was made a Knight Companion of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, an honour bestowed on all bar one of his predecessors. The exception was Alec Douglas-Home, who got the Order of the Thistle.

The Northern Ireland Veterans Movement called Blair's award a huge insult.

'huge insult'

In a letter, co-spokesman Paul Young said: "He is the architect of the legislation which resulted in terrorists being released from prison, being issued 'letters of comfort' and royal pardons on an industrial scale, whilst at the same time deliberately excluding any protection to our Armed Forces who served in Northern Ireland.

"This man is detested by the UK veteran community because of his deliberate actions in the continued appeasement of SinnFein/IRA."

"It is a huge insult to the relatives of those who perished that this despicable man is now being awarded the highest award that our country can bestow."

Blair also faced criticism for sending troops into Afghanistan and Iraq, a decision which culminated in a devastating report by Sir John Chilcot in 2016 which found he overplayed evidence about Saddam Hussein's

STILL CONTROVERSIAL: Tony Blair's knighthood has opened old wounds weapons of mass destruction.

A total of 179 Armed Forces personnel and Ministry of Defence civilians died during the Iraq campaign, while 457 were killed in Afghanistan.

Carol Valentine, whose son Simon was killed clearing landmines in Afghanistan in 2009, said Sir Tony's knighthood is the "ultimate insult".

And Hazel Hunt, whose son Richard also died in that country, is thinking of sending back the Elizabeth Cross her family received.

Now he's sorry: anti-vaxxer at death's door undergoes miraculous conversion

AN anti-vaxxer who boasted of being "a hero" for refusing the Covid jab is now begging people not to make the same mistake after fighting for his life in hospital.

Andrew Pugh, 52, admits he "wishes he'd had" the shot after he was struck down with Covid before Christmas.

The father-of-three's family were warned he only had a 50/50 chance of surviving after he was rushed into intensive care.

Doctors at Worcester Royal Hospital desperately battled to keep him alive during the festive period and he can only breathe with an oxygen mask.

Speaking from his hospital bed, binman Andrew pleaded with fellow refuseniks to get inoculated after he fell foul of Facebook conspiracy theorists.

He said: "I didn't get the vaccine, I thought I was being the hero."

"If it wasn't for the nurses and the fact I'm a non-smoker I wouldn't be alive – they saved my life."

"Please people, get your vaccinations – you don't want to end up like me."

"When you're dead and all your family are heartbroken you can't

Andrew was hospitalized over Christmas and told he had a 50/50 chance of survival turn around and say 'I wish I had the vaccine'.

"This is very real and people need to get their jabs."

'do the right thing'

Andrew has now been moved onto a ward but still only has a quarter of his normal breathing capacity. He was admitted to hospital on December 5 and was only allowed one visitor to spend an hour with him on "the worst Christmas Day of my life".

He added: "Do the right thing. I could have been leaving behind a girlfriend, kids, parents all because I'm pig-headed. I've put my family through hell."

"I was being so selfish, it's woken me up."

His partner of 20 years, who asked not to be named, said: "Everyone begged him to have the vaccine. But he believed conspiracy theories."

Andrew spoke out as one of Britain's most prominent anti-vaxxers John O'Looney revealed he had also been hospitalised after refusing the shot.

The Milton Keynes funeral director, 53, had told followers the killer virus was "just a common cold". He was due to help lead a controversial "Let the UK Live" rally last week alongside Piers Corbyn, brother of former Labour leader Jeremy.

But O'Looney caught Covid-two weeks ago and went into hospital. After a spell in intensive care he said: "I was initially sceptical about Covid but I can confirm its validity and it is very nasty."

'Polar Preet' completes solo trek to South Pole

■ British Army captain of Punjabi heritage is first woman of color to complete the epic journey alone

A FEMALE British Army Captain who walked to the South Pole declared "nothing is impossible" this week as she finished her gruelling solo expedition.

Harpreet Chandi was in jubilant mood this week as completed a 700 mile trek across the Antarctic wilderness and into history, skiing up to 11 hours a day in -50C temperatures and 70mph winds.

The 32-year-old physio – nicknamed 'Polar Preet' – arrived at her destination in falling snow, declaring she never wanted to just break the glass ceiling, she wanted to "smash it into a million pieces".

"Who's with me?!" she beamed.

"I'm feeling so many emotions right now. I knew nothing about the polar world three years ago and it feels so surreal to be here.

"It was tough and I want to thank everybody for their support.

"This expedition was always about so much more than me. I want to encourage people to push their boundaries, to believe in themselves – and to be able to do it without being labelled a rebel...we create our own normal."

Earlier Harpreet, a British-born Indian Sikh from Derby, had more traditional matters on her mind.

'role model'

Shortly before setting off on her expedition from Union Glacier on November 24, the endurance athlete got engaged to David Jarman, a reservist with the Honourable Artillery Company.

And as she began the last leg of the 40-day trip she devoted her final daily blog to...her wedding.

She wrote: "I read somewhere that when you ask people to be your bridesmaids it's nice to do it in a special way."

She then listed those she wanted to ask, adding: "I think at least three hen dos are required. That's normal, right?"

David plans to meet Harpreet in Chile when she returns from the South Pole later this month.

She said the aim of her journey was to inspire future generations.

"There are only a few female adventurers that have completed a solo,

"Nothing is impossible. I've always had this idea that I can achieve something great" unsupported trek on this continent. It is time to add some more names, diversity and to make history.

"Nothing is impossible. I've always had this idea that I can achieve something great, that allows me to be a role model. I want my eight-year-old niece to grow up without boundaries, knowing the possibilities of what you can achieve in life are endless."

A former international tennis junior, Harpreet joined the Army Reserves aged 19 and signed up with the regular Army five years ago, working as a Clinical Training Officer, helping to train military medics.

To prepare for her South Pole expedition, she headed off on a 27-day trip to the ice cap in Greenland – and dragged tyres around the streets of her home town.

But it was still tough going as she endured sickness and diarrhoea.

Throughout her trek she was inspired by listening to audio books by adventurer Ben Fogle and Bhangra music – which, she said, reminds her of her Punjabi roots.

Bowie estate sells rights to star's songs for £186m

David Bowie fans were assured his legacy is Hunky Dory after the singer's back catalogue was sold in a deal reportedly worth £186million this week.

The agreement covers songs from 26 studio albums made during Bowie's life as well as the posthumously released Toy and two with his band Tin Machine.

Among the tracks changing hands were Heroes, Changes, Space Oddity, Fame, Let's Dance and Rebel Rebel.

Guy Moot, chief executive of new owner Warner Chappell Music (WCM), said: "We are looking forward to tending his unparalleled body of songs with passion and care as we strive to build on the legacy of this most extraordinary human being."

News of the deal comes days before the anniversary of Bowie's death from liver cancer on January 10, 2016.

The rock icon (pictured above) turned 69 just two days earlier and celebrations are being planned for what would have been the star's 75th year.

The icon's estate chose to pass the music to WCM – which is the publishing arm of Warner Music Group – after working with Warner since 2013.

Then, the music giant started handling most of Bowie's recordings – and re-releasing them after his death. It renewed that agreement last year, adding songs from 2000 to 2016.

Guy said: "All of us at Warner Chappell are immensely proud that the David Bowie estate has chosen us to be the caretakers of one of the most groundbreaking, influential, and enduring catalogues in music history.

"These are not only extraordinary songs, but milestones that have changed the course of modern music forever. Bowie's vision and creative genius drove him to push the envelope, lyrically and musically – writing songs that challenged convention, changed the conversation, and have become part of the canon of global culture."

Anger as school 'cancels' Rowling

■ Essex academy renames schoolhouse amid lingering row over gender identity

HARRY Potter author JK Rowling has been "cancelled" by a school that claims her views on gender identity "do not align" with its policy.

Rowling, 56, has been accused of transphobia after she mocked an article that used the words "people who menstruate" instead of "women".

She argues that she is standing up for biological women's rights but the Boswells School in Chelmsford, Essex, has now decided to rename a school house previously dedicated to her – infuriating parents and critics.

Olympian Dame Kelly Holmes will now replace Rowling as the house's inspirational British figurehead.

Boswells School: Censorship? Or taking a stand?

One parent said: "This is censorship. JK Rowling is a good example of achievement through adversity."

Not everyone thought she should go. A lot of schools seem to be doing the same thing at the moment sadly."

Commentator Charlotte Gill said: "It's absolutely sickening what's happened to JK Rowling. Proper Salem-style hysteria."

An email sent out by the school said: "Following numerous requests by students and staff we are reviewing the name of our red house 'Rowling' and in light of [her] comments and viewpoints surrounding trans people.

JK ROWLING: the row erupted after the Harry Potter author mocked an article that used the words "people who menstruate" instead of "women".

"Her views on this issue do not align with our school policy and school beliefs – a place where people are free to be."

It comes after the Potter-inspired sports organisation QuidditchUK said it would work with its governing bodies to change the name of the game to disassociate itself from Rowling.

Bristol statue activists cleared; but not everyone's happy

■ Jury clears defendants after lawyer urges them 'to be on the right side of history'

The acquittal of four activists who pulled down a slave trader's statue has prompted fears other monuments will be targeted.

Campaign group Save Our Statues said of Monday's acquittal: "It is a disgraceful verdict that gives the green light to political vandalism and sets a precedent for anyone to be able to destroy whatever they disagree with. This is not justice."

The toppling of the bronze memorial to 17th-century merchant Edward Colston was the defining image of the Black Lives Matter protests of 2020.

Rhian Graham, 30, Milo Ponsford, 26, and Sage Willoughby, 22, were caught on CCTV passing the ropes around the statue that were used to pull it down.

Jake Skuse, 33, was accused of orchestrating a plan to throw it in the water. But all four were cleared after defence lawyers urged the jury "to be on the right side of history".

'not justice'

The group said: "It is a disgraceful verdict that gives the green light to political vandalism and sets a precedent for anyone to be able to destroy whatever they disagree with."

"This is not justice." The prosecution argued the case was a matter of straightforward criminal damage, and who Colston had been was "irrelevant".

Save Our Statues founder Robert Poll added: "This judgment heralds the legitimization of mob rule and puts all of our heritage at serious risk. With all of British history now tainted by increasingly tenuous associations with slavery, what is safe? What of those who are offended by Churchill?"

Dr Alan Mendoza, of the Henry Jackson Society, said: "If you acquit people for damaging statues, pavements and harbour rails because they found something 'offensive', you'll end up losing control of your streets."

"A democracy where laws do not apply to one and all is in trouble."

Tom Wainwright, for Ponsford, earlier told the court: "You may think that had the prosecution been there when the Berlin Wall was torn down, they would have been standing by with cement and trowel, wringing their hands and muttering about red tape and proper procedures not being followed."

Liam Walker QC, representing Willoughby, warned the jury

their decision would reverberate around the world. He said: "I urge you all to be on the right side of history."

There were loud cheers from the packed public gallery after the not guilty verdicts were returned. The four defendants, three of whom were wearing T-shirts designed by Banksy, laughed and hugged supporters waiting outside. The street artist sold the garments – featuring an empty plinth – to the public to help the four with their legal fees.

All the defendants admitted their involvement but denied their actions were criminal, claiming the statue itself had been a hate crime against the people of Bristol.

Their actions were even mentioned at the funeral of George Floyd, the black American murdered by a white police officer in 2020.

Rev Al Sharpton said at his funeral: "All over the world I've seen grandchildren of slave masters tearing down slave masters' statues – over in England they put it in the river. I pour out my spirit among all flesh."

Claire Foy set for awards glory again after earning rave reviews for performance as the “dirty Duchess” in A Very British Scandal

Claire Foy is set for awards glory again after earning rave reviews for her performance as the “dirty Duchess” in A Very British Scandal.

The three-part dramatization of the scandalous divorce of the Duke and Duchess of Argyle in the 1960s has gripped British TV viewers this Christmas, with more than four million tuning into the first episode on Boxing Day.

And Foy, 37, who won a best actress Golden Globe and two Emmys for her role as the Queen in Netflix’s The Crown, is a shoo-in for more gongs after dazzling critics and fans.

She plays the Duchess (Margaret Campbell), while Paul Bettany, 50, transforms into the Duke (Ian Campbell).

Reviewer Abby Robinson writes in the Radio Times: “Foy and Bettany are on their very best form.”

“Their roles demand a lot from them, scaling the entire spectrum of emotion, from measured constraint to apoplectic rage, but not once do they falter.

“Much has been said of Margaret’s magnetism, which drew the gaze of those around her whenever she entered a room.

“And Foy successfully captures that quality, relaying why the Duchess was such a source of desire and fascination to so many.”

The Guardian’s film critic Peter Bradshaw commended the leads, writing: “Both Claire Foy and Paul Bettany give career-best performances – just brilliant. (Although surely the Duke wouldn’t have been allowed to smoke in court?)”

Veteran journalist Andrew Neil was less impressed, tweeting: “Now seen all three

eps of A Very British Scandal.

“Beautifully produced by BBC. Basically it’s about two upper class, self-entitled, obsessed products of the social system with combined IQ in single figures who never worked day in their lives + no redeeming social value whatsoever.”

However, he did say that Sarah Phelps’s screenplay was “excellent”.

The show follows

the rise and fall of Margaret, who was hung out to dry after a very public divorce battle with Ian. The cast also included Gavin & Stacey star Julia Davis, 55, and Coronation Street’s Olwen May, 58.

Foy – who also played Anne Boleyn in the BBC’s 2015 miniseries Wolf Hall – appeared in 21 episodes of The Crown between 2016 and 2017.

But she told reporters that Lady Margaret was “very different”. She said: “You would look at her and think, she doesn’t look like she’s massively impressive as a person, she just looks like a woman in a dress at a certain period of time.

“There’s a difference in the period, in the sense that at that period of time, she was the height of class, fashion, beauty and interest – everyone was fascinated by her.”

Happy 2022 Everyone!

The new year is traditionally the signal for a fresh start - we all love to make resolutions that are often impossible to stick to, but when that clock strikes midnight we are mostly filled with optimism and determination.

Whilst it appears 2021 ended in a bit of a stalemate and 2022 began much the same way, this time I really do feel there is light at the end of the tunnel. So in the meantime let's celebrate the small victories. Craig touched on a few of the laws that will come into effect in California throughout this year. There were actually 836 proposals put forward and Governor Gavin Newsom signed off on approximately 92% of them.

A couple that caught my eye and will affect many of us are the fact that NDAs (non-disclosure agreements) will now be illegal. Not sure if this was as a result of the many recent high-profile cases that showed NDAs shielded criminal behavior, but either way it is probably a good that they are no longer allowed in CA; although I am not sure what would stop someone implementing an NDA in another state or country?

Waste not, want not?

New trash/rubbish laws; finally! The ambiguous numbered arrow recycling symbol will no longer be allowed on products unless they are actually recyclable. Californians will also be required to start composting - all food waste will soon need to go in the green/yard waste bins. But don't panic as this law is going to be rolled out slowly throughout the year and your local authority will notify you when it is due to be implemented in your area and will also provide you with a compost bin.

There will be a grace period whilst we all get used to it and they won't be handing out any fines until 2024. The new regulations will affect supermarkets and other food sellers too - they will be instructed to keep unused food out the land fill as well as being required to donate surplus edible goods to food banks. Whilst it may be a bit of a nuisance to get the hang of at first, it actually sounds like a new year's resolution that I will want to try and keep.

For those of you who rent your home in Los Angeles - you may be pleased to hear there is a city order that prohibits landlords from raising the rent on rent stabilized units (usually buildings built before October 1978) until 2023 - this isn't great news for landlords though, so if you have a good one make sure to show your appreciation by at least paying your rent on time.

Amongst the proposed laws Governor Newsom vetoed was decriminalizing jaywalking - which means you can still get a ticket if you cross the street outside of a crosswalk - this currently costs the princely sum of $250 including administration fees, and if you are a cyclist it is still against the law to roll/yield at a stop sign - so if you happen to get a ticket for this mov-

New season of All Creatures comes to PBS

FANS OF All Creatures Great and Small will not want to miss Season Two, which premieres on PSB Prime Video Channel on January 9th.

Readers of a certain vintage will remember the classic 1970s BBC series of the same name, which starred Christopher Timothy and Robert Hardy, but this newer version stands up pretty well on its own.

Based on the beloved autobiographical books from James Herriot, "All Creatures Great and Small," tells the exciting adventures of a veterinarian in 1930s Yorkshire. The series takes place in 1937, when James Herriot (Nicholas Ralph), fresh out of Glasgow Veterinary College, follows his dream to become a vet in the magnificent Yorkshire Dales, one of England's most beloved and beautiful landscapes.

He soon discovers that treating the animals is as much about treating their owners, and the Dales' farmers are a tough crowd to please, including the delightfully eccentric Mrs. Pumphrey (Dame Diana Rigg), owner of the overly indulged Pekingese, Tricki Woo. Meanwhile, at Skeldale House, James gets to know his newly formed dysfunctional family: his chaotic and erratic boss Siegfried Farnon (Samuel West) his wayward brother Tristan (Callum Woodhouse) and the shrewd Mrs. Hall (Anna Madeley) who is endlessly steering the ship. And when local beauty Helen Alderson (Rachel Shenton) attracts James's attention, he finds another, more enduring reason to stay in the Dales.

The entire first season of "All Creatures Great and Small" is available to binge now on the PBS Masterpiece Prime Video Channel.

The subscription rate for the Prime Video Channel is $5.99 a month.

Beer, banter and brainteasers are all on the menu at the next Brits in LA Pub Quiz.

Join the fun on Tuesday January 11 from 7.30 at the Market Tavern with quizmaster Sandro Monetti.

The top three teams win prizes while the winners of the singing challenge earn a sticky toffee pudding, like team Hot and Hairy (below) did last time.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Time to make way in your head for only positive thoughts. Mars is ready in your life to assist you through any setbacks. He is your boss, so listen to your inner voice.

TAURUS: You may have procrastinated a lot since last month. However, you needed the time to catch up. Still, with Uranus and Venus going backwards in your life you cannot do a lot...yet.

GEMINI: Being unable to move about your life and do everything with ease is not comfortable at the best of times. However, Saturn your cousin in Aquarius is going forward now and some better days are on the way.

CANCER: The recent full moon in Capricorn opposite you has likely brought up anything on hold in the past weeks. Just do what you can and don't stress over what is not possible.

LEO: You are probably planning ahead and already know what you will and will not do after this time is over. While this is good, just go with the flow until then.

VIRGO: Hopefully you have taken this time frame and made changes on several levels. It's also good to not worry about the future. There will be better days later this month.

LIBRA: Venus your boss is resting until the end of the month. With this in mind do not stress over some plans not moving as expected. You can start to plan future social events.

SCORPIO: Best way to make decisions is to surrender them to your higher power and ask to be shown the right way. Life has not been too difficult of late, so do not allow anyone to set you back. Time to let them go.

SAGITTARIUS: Make the most of the change of direction in your life again. It's good to get rid of stuff mentally or physically for better days ahead. Now your boss Jupiter in Pisces is going to help you.

CAPRICORN: The trying times are nearly over and especially for you keeping busy is important. However, like many others just when you thought it was time to move, it's stop and start again for a while. Happy Birthday.

AQUARIUS: You have fully entered into any new situations fairly well. With this in mind try not to live in your head. You will find ways to cope in any area of life.

PISCES: Your money area is currently lit up and ready to work for you. Jupiter is also visiting you and will soon be giving you new opportunities. Keep an open mind and then relax.

The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (844) 477-7869 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.STOXPOSTING.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 070158-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 070158-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. Magpies lay down a marker with signing of 'soldier' Trippier

KIERAN Trippier joined Newcastle this week with orders to become the leader for a new era at St James' Park.

England manager Gareth Southgate regards Trippier as an "absolute soldier" for the international team, a description that shows the quality and character Newcastle have landed.

The Saudis' ownership consortium - led by 10 percent shareholder Amanda Staveley - have gone early and believe luring a significant international player sets a tone.

They want a top-notch centre-back in before the relegation clash with Watford a week on Saturday.

Newcastle will hope that if England's Trippier fancies playing in front of 52,000 Geordies then other elite names will be more likely to follow. United have already been linked with in-demand 21-year-old Lille defender Sven Botman, rated at £30m.

The club's ownership are said to be fully aware that it will likely take the club a few years to be challenging for the top six and medals, but for Trippier there is an immediate chance to make a mark at a revitalised club who want to go places and the club have made clear they want dedicated professionals, not primadonnas or mercenaries.

Versatile Trippier won La Liga in May as the mainstay right-back in Diego Simeone's Atletico Madrid team, but can also play wing-back, right centre-back, right midfield or left-back.

He will face questions about why Newcastle, and a relegation battle that could leave him in at Championship club come May, jeopardising his place in Southgate's squad.

Trippier, a Champions League runner-up with Tottenham, will look at the challenge differently, not just see it as a great pay day over two and a half years.

Southgate described Trippier's attributes on England duty. The manager said: "He's a kid who has given absolutely everything, he's had a huge impact on big matches and, you know, his defending, the grittiness of his defending is a key component."

Coutinho and Gerrard: teammates at Liverpool in 2014

Stevie G keeps mum over Villa Coutinho bid

Steven Gerrard says Philippe Coutinho is a "special footballer" but will not say whether Aston Villa are trying to sign his former Liverpool team-mate.

Villa are among a number of Premier League clubs monitoring Coutinho, 29.

The Brazil playmaker played alongside Villa boss Gerrard when Liverpool almost won the Premier League in 2014.

"He is someone I've got an incredible amount of respect for, but I don't want to add to speculation because he belongs to Barcelona," said Gerrard.

"I don't think you get a nickname of 'The Magician' if you're not a special footballer.

"I've got nothing but positive things to say about the player. He's a friend of mine so if I'm asked the questions I can speak for as long as you want. But if you're trying to link it to any speculation or catch me out you're in for a long afternoon."

Blues take a firm grip

■ Chelsea dominate pitiful Spurs in one-sided first leg of Carabao Cup semi final

Chelsea deservedly beat Tottenham 2-0 in the first leg of the Carabao Cup semi-final, but had so many chances they should have already sealed their place at Wembley.

Kai Havertz gave Chelsea an early lead when he ran onto Marcos Alonso's through ball and fired home with Davinson Sanchez unable to keep the shot out on the line.

The Blues' second was a comedy own goal as Japhet Tanganga headed the ball into team-mate Ben Davies' shoulder and it flew into the net.

Romelu Lukaku, back in the team after a one-game exile for comments he made in an interview, had several chances and headed wide from close range.

Spurs, who changed to a back four after a torrid first half, had to wait until the 50th minute for a shot, with Harry Kane's free-kick saved by Kepa.

But the chances continued to come for Chelsea with Hugo Lloris denying Lukaku, Hakim Ziyech and the returning Timo Werner.

Spurs will need to be much better in a week's time in the second leg to have any chance of reaching Wembley.

Liverpool and Arsenal play in the other semi-final, with their games on 13 and 20 January after the first leg was rearranged because of Covid cases in the Liverpool camp.

Tottenham have looked much improved since former Chelsea boss Antonio Conte replaced Nuno Espirito Santo, only losing once in 11 games before this.

But the wait for a first trophy since the 2008 League Cup will surely go on - with many problems of their own making at Stamford Bridge.

Emerson Royal did not control a pass from Tanganga and Alonso nipped in to set up the opener.

And the second saw Ziyech swing in a free-kick with Spurs' defenders doing the rest for him.

Most of the pre-match chat had been about Lukaku, who has apologised for an interview which saw him dropped for Chelsea's draw with Liverpool.

He was involved on plenty of occasions, with

MIND THE GAP: Antonio Conte's men were lucky to lose by only a brace several shots - including an effort straight at Lloris in injury time - and a good pass to Ziyech which the Moroccan should have finished.

Encouraging too was the return of Werner after injury, although he replaced Havertz, who broke his finger while scoring the opening goal, at half-time.

The only real downside for Thomas Tuchel's side, who played 4-4-2 because of a lack of defensive options, is that they did not score with more of their 19 efforts to wrap up the tie.

Covid puts Pep and Dyche out of cup tie

Manchester City manager Pep Guardiola and Burnley boss Sean Dyche will miss their clubs' FA Cup third-round ties after testing positive for Covid-19.

City's 50-year-old Spanish boss and his assistant Juanma Lillo were both found to have the virus on Tuesday.

The pair are among 21 people at City isolating before the cup tie at Swindon Town on Friday.

Dyche will miss Saturday's home tie against Huddersfield as he isolates.

Neither Burnley nor Manchester City gave any indication that their cup games are at risk of being postponed because of the positive Covid cases.

Seven of City's first-team players are among the group of 21 isolating.

Assistant coach Rodolfo Borrell has been put in charge of the Premier League leaders' trip to the County Ground to face League Two side Swindon.

Meanwhile, Burnley have not suggested that an outbreak has affected the club.

The Clarets had three games postponed in December because of Covid cases at other clubs. A total of 17 English top-flight games have been postponed since the start of December because of the impact of the Omicron variant.

The Premier League announced on Monday that 14,250 Covid-19 tests were carried out on players and staff between 27 December and 2 January, with 94 positive results.
