Andrew demands: give me trial by jury

Prince's legal team tries to have New York case thrown out - again

Prince Andrew has sensationally demanded a jury trial in his civil sex case as he denied all accusations by Virginia Giuffre.

The Duke and his legal team are again trying to have the case in New York thrown out. But if that fails again the papers state: "Prince Andrew hereby demands a trial by jury on all causes of action asserted in the complaint".

The Duke of York admits to befriending Epstein but denied he was ever a close friend of convicted sex offender Ghislaine Maxwell.

At one point, Andrew's lawyers write: "Assuming, without admitting, that Giuffre has suffered any injury or damage, Giuffre and/or others, who are not Prince Andrew, contributed in whole or in part to the alleged damage."

They go on to say her "claims are barred by the doctrine of consent" and are "barred in whole or in part by her own wrongful conduct and the doctrine of unclean hands".

claims in 2001, she was trafficked by billionaire Epstein and Maxwell to have sex with the Duke in London when she was 17 - a minor in US law.

Ms Giuffre also alleges she was forced to sleep with the royal at Epstein's home in New York and the US Virgin Islands.

The mother-of-three is suing Andrew for unspecified damages, which US lawyers say could "easily" be in excess of £14million if she is successful.

'factual allegations'

In an 11-page response to her lawsuit, the Duke of York repeatedly states he "lacks sufficient information to admit or deny" most of her allegations.

The Prince refutes her major claim of "sexual abuse" and "rape" when she was "under 18."

And the Royal, 61, said her accusation was not true that he had been "a frequent guest in Epstein's various homes around the world, including New York City where he sexually abused Plaintiff (Giuffre) at Epstein and Maxwell's invitation when she was a minor".

Andrew's legal team want Ms Giuffre's case dismissed claiming she has no right to bring the lawsuit in New York as neither party is resident of the US. The American citizen now lives in Western Australia.

The 12 "factual allegations" detail Epstein and Maxwell's criminal enterprise and how they managed to abuse young girls.

And the Prince's legal team is again trying to have the case dismissed over a 2009 deal Ms Giuffre signed with Epstein saying she would not pursue other "potential defendants".

The Duke of York's motion was filed after ONGOING DENIAL: The Prince is vigorously contesting Virginia Giuffre's claim of sexual abuse and rape when she was under 18.

he failed to dismiss the American's case earlier this month.

Ms Giuffre, 38, has sued Andrew using New York's Child Victims Act that allowed those abused to sue their attackers.

Her lawyer David Boies said his client and legal team were anticipating "confronting" the royal about his denials.

Mr Boies said: "Prince Andrew's answer continues his approach of denying any knowledge or information concerning the claims against him, and purporting to blame the victim of the abuse for somehow bringing it on herself.

"We look forward to confronting Prince Andrew with his denials and attempts to blame Ms Giuffre for her own abuse at his deposition and at trial."

'burden of proof'

The court documents filed last night make it clear that "Prince Andrew, Duke of York, aka Andrew Albert Christian Edward" is defending the claim "in his personal capacity". That echoes a statement from Buckingham Palace, which has tried to distance the monarchy from the fallout of Andrew's troubles.

The document also sets out a series of defences "without assuming the burden of proof, and expressly denying any and all wrongdoing".

Senior royals feared they might get dragged into a case which threatens to cause serious

Andrew's ski chalet sale questioned by lawyer

■ As Prince liquidates £18m Swiss hideaway to fund mounting legal bills, attorney claims it's simply a move to dispose of assets ahead of unfavorable court ruling

A Lawyer has questioned the sale of Prince Andrew's £18million ski chalet, claiming it could shield his cash from his sex abuse accuser.

The move came as US experts cast doubt on reports the Duke of York was looking to offer an early £10million settlement to Virginia Giuffre.

Earlier this month, it was revealed Andrew, 61, had found a buyer for his beloved Swiss retreat, and the purchase was "proceeding".

The sale would help fund Andrew's mounting legal costs in his civil lawsuit with Ms Giuffre, 38, who claims she was forced to have sex with him by Jeffrey Epstein and Ghislaine Maxwell when she was underage.

But a lawyer for Epstein's victims has claimed the deal appears less about paying her off and more about preventing her from claiming on the Duke's assets.

'unthinkable'

Spencer Kuvin said: "If this went all the way to trial and she received a financial judgment in her favour, she could execute on any properties he has, the most likely being his ski chalet. If Andrew had properties in any companion country that would abide by such jurisdiction of the US, she can execute on those properties."

Asked whether Ms Giuffre could make a claim on Andrew's Royal Lodge home in Windsor Park, which he was given by the Queen and shares with his ex-wife, Sarah Ferguson, Mr Kuvin said it could not be ruled out but would be "very, very difficult".

He added: "A diplomatic conversation would be needed to be had, but I imagine it would be unthinkable that it would come to that."

'premature'

As US courts have no jurisdiction over the UK, if Ms Giuffre were to win her case, she would need to apply in Europe or Britain to have any damages enforced.

In Switzerland, the assets and proceeds of an individual are not protected under law. Giuffre could easily make a claim on the chalet if she obtained a "civil attachment order".

Mr Kuvin described speculation the Prince was preparing to offer a £10million settlement to Ms Giuffre to dismiss her lawsuit as "premature".

Ms Giuffre, 38, is suing Andrew for unspecified damages. He "absolutely and categorically" denies her claims.

UK's top toy? It's the bear necessity

Teddy bears have been named the nation's favourite toy of all time – beating stylish rival Barbie.

The classic cuddly topped a list of the UK's most-loved playthings in a poll, taking 33 per cent of the vote and beating the Rubik's Cube (31 per cent) and Barbie (28 per cent).

Following the revelation about the Duke of York's fondness for his collection of bears at the age of 61, the survey also found as many as 10 per cent of adults still sleep with their childhood teddy nightly.

And some 81 per cent of parents who took part love to see their own little ones playing with the toys they themselves used to enjoy.

In fact, the research suggests almost 45 per cent of mums and dads are hoarding mountains of dusty boxes of their old toys – and while 67 per cent are aiming to donate them to charity, 13 per cent plan to donate them to children's hospitals or schools.

Geoff Sheffield of toy shop chain The Entertainer, which ordered the study as part of its ongoing Big Toy Rehoming campaign, said: "Since 2019 we've rehomed 40,000 toys with The Salvation Army which may otherwise have gone to landfill.

"We encourage everyone to bring toys to local stores."

The Duke's response to Ms Giuffre's claims came as Maxwell's brother, Ian, launched a bitter attack on Andrew's accuser.

Discussing the conviction of his sister, for procuring, grooming and trafficking girls in New York last month, he alleged Ms Giuffre wasn't called to give evidence in his sister's trial although she was available.

Mr Maxwell told Italian newspaper La Repubblica: "Whatever Giuffre is saying, why didn't the police select her, the most vociferous, the most basic accuser, for Ghislaine's trial?

"Giuffre was not selected in the trial because her testimony, whether she has spoken on to oath in defamation hearings or something, has changed, consistently changed about Prince Andrew, about my sister, and so on."

Judge Lewis Kaplan indicated a trial will begin at the earliest in September but before 2023.

Guards want Colonel Kate to replace ousted Duke

The Grenadier Guards are lobbying for the Duchess of Cambridge to replace Prince Andrew as colonel.

The Duke of York lost his honorary position after the Queen stripped him of his military and charitable affiliations and HRH title.

The role of colonel returned to the monarch by default but officials are understood to hope Kate, 40, will take on the position.

If she did so, the Duchess would be the first woman appointed colonel in the regiment's 366-year history.

A senior source in the Grenadier Guards said: "From straw polling through the ranks, they would all love it to be Kate. We all admire the way she has fitted in and behaved. She never seems to put a foot wrong."

The appointment is made by both the regiment and the Queen. Prince Andrew lost the role – inherited from his father Prince Philip when the latter retired from public life in 2017 – due to the sex assault lawsuit brought by Virginia Giuffre in the US.

Ms Giuffre claims she was trafficked by convicted paedophile Jeffrey Epstein and Ghislaine Maxwell to have sex with the Prince three times when she was a teenager. The Duke of York denies the allegations. He is fighting the civil suit as a private citizen.

It has also been revealed Andrew could lose his round-the-clock police protection as early as next month following his exile as a frontline royal.

Sources say a full review of his security is being carried out by the Metropolitan Police and Home Office.

Andrew has so far been allowed to keep his taxpayer-funded police bodyguards at a cost to the public purse of up to £3million a year.

It is the security accompanying him away from a royal residence which is under review.

HOLIDAY HOPE: the rules for visitors to the UK will change on February 11

Covid tests for fully vaccinated visitors set to end next month

FULLY vaccinated travellers will no longer be required to take Covid tests to enter the UK, Boris Johnson has announced.

The Prime Minister said the move would signal that Britain is "open for business" as it emerges from the latest wave of infections.

The changes will come into force in time for the February half-term, providing a much-needed boost for the tourism industry.

During a visit to Milton Keynes Hospital, Mr Johnson said: "Although we have to be cautious, we are now moving through the Omicron wave, and you can see the figures are starting to get better.

"So what we're doing on travel, to show this country is open for business, open for travellers, you will see changes so people arriving no longer have to take tests if they have been double vaccinated."

Transport Secretary Grant Shapps said the change would begin at 4am on February 11.

He told MPs in the House of Commons: "After months of pre-departure testing, post-arrival testing, self-isolation and additional expense, all that fully-vaccinated people will now have to do when they travel to the UK is verify their status via a passenger locator form.

"We promised we wouldn't keep these measures in place a day longer than was necessary, and it is obvious to me now that border testing for vaccinated travellers has outlived its usefulness.

"We are therefore scrapping all travel tests for vaccinated people, not only making travel much easier but also saving about £100 per family on visits abroad."

Mr Shapps said people would be considered fully vaccinated if they could prove they had received two doses of an approved Covid jab, or one dose of the single-shot Janssen one.

Vaccine certificates from 16 new countries including China and Mexico will be accepted at the UK border from February 11, bringing the total to more than 180.

Unvaccinated individuals will also no longer be required to self-isolate or take a day-eight test after arrival. Mr Shapps said: "They will still need to fill out a passenger locator form to demonstrate proof of a negative Covid test taken two days before they travel and they must take a post-arrival PCR test.

"This is a proportionate system that moves us a step closer to normality while maintaining vital public health protections."

In a further boost for families planning half-term holidays, the minister announced that 12 to 15-year-olds will be able to prove their vaccination status using the NHS app from February 3.

Mr Shapps added that the Government would retain the option to reinstate the red list if necessary but officials are looking at alternatives to the managed quarantine system.

Paul Charles, CEO of travel consultancy The PC Agency, said testing requirements for fully-vaccinated travellers had been in place for too long and caused "a nightmare for travel firms for most of the pandemic".

He said: "Now confidence to travel can fully return, trips can be less expensive and 2022 can signal the rebirth of the sector."

EasyJet boss Johan Lundgren said: "It is clear travel restrictions did not materially slow the spread of Omicron in the UK and so it is important that there are no more knee-jerk reactions to future variants."

The UK reported a further 88,447 Covid-19 cases and 56 deaths within 28 days of a positive test. The number of daily cases appears to have levelled off in the last few days.

Three ExtraOARdinary Women

Three heroic Brits, one with incurable cancer, smash women's Atlantic rowing record

THREE British women, one with incurable cancer, have shattered the women's world record for rowing the Atlantic by a staggering seven days.

Kat Cordiner, 42, who has secondary ovarian cancer, Abby Johnston, 32, and Charlotte Irving, 31, finished the 3,000-mile crossing in 42 days, seven hours and 17 minutes.

They knocked a week off the female trio record when they reached Antigua from the Canary Islands on Sunday.

Kat was diagnosed with cervical cancer in March 2019 and had surgery.

But a year later doctors found a growth on her heart and told her to stop exercising immediately. After exhausting intensive cancer treatment, heart surgery and six months without training, she got back on the water.

She said: "It floored me a bit initially. But when I got back in the boat, I was quite strong – I knew I could do it!"

Woman tricked by Met spy cop into romance wins £230,000

AN eco activist tricked into a relationship with an undercover police officer has been awarded almost £230,000 compensation for breaches of her human rights.

Kate Wilson, 41, began a relationship with Mark Stone in 2003 and had a "whirlwind romance" before they split in 2005 when she moved to Spain.

In 2010, Ms Wilson learned he was actually married officer Mark Kennedy, sent to spy on activists by the Metropolitan Police.

Yesterday, the Investigatory Powers Tribunal ordered the Met and the National Police Chiefs Council pay £229,471 to Ms Wilson for European Convention on Human Rights breaches.

Helen Ball, the Met's Assistant Commissioner for Professionalism, said: "In entering into a sexual relationship, Kennedy's actions went against the training and guidelines undercover officers received at the time."

Kennedy had sex with as many as 10 other women during his undercover deployment.

One relationship lasted for six years before she discovered a passport in his real name.

Ms Wilson said: "Spying on the protest movement is political policing and has no place in a democratic society."

Kat, who is now in remission, added: "The doctors told me I don't have decades, I have years, so I really want to make the most of them."

"I don't want to muck around doing stuff that doesn't matter – I want to do things that are challenging and fun."

And fun it was. Despite scorching heat, enormous night waves, sleep deprivation, blisters and sharks trailing their 25ft boat – called Dolly Parton – the trio made it seem a hoot. As they arrived, the

That's so old hat! out of favor sayings ready for the knacker's yard

Here's a turn-up for the books – using old-time phrases when having a chinwag has gone pear-shaped.

The once-popular saying that most adults never use in a chat now is "casting pearls before swine", according to a poll of 2,000 under-50s.

The phrase – which means wasting time by offering help to someone who does not appreciate it – was a no-no for nearly eight in 10.

The next least-used saying was "nailing your colours to the mast" – declaring one's beliefs openly – which scored 71 per cent.

Ending the conversation with a cheery "pip pip" might bemuse the seven in 10 adults who never include it in their speech. And even those who may think they "know their onions" would find that around two-thirds of people do not use that phrase in conversation or have even heard of it.

It seems the classic "a nod is as good as a wink" – a signal does not need to be blatant if someone is already set up to understand it – has also fallen out of usage with 66 per cent of those asked.

So has "a stitch in time saves nine" – better to fix a small problem sooner before it grows and needs more work. It befuddled 64 per cent.

Other endangered phrases include "keen as mustard", "tickety boo" and "be there or be square". But the delightfully old-fashioned sayings are not yet "dead as a doornail" (55 per cent) or "ready for the knacker's yard" (62 per cent).

Three-quarters of those polled admit it's a shame when conversations stop using such colorful expressions.

Research agency Perspectus Global commissioned the poll. The firm's Ellie Glason said: "Many of the phrases which were once commonplace in Britain, are seldom used nowadays."

Four in five of us also believe that English is the richest and most descriptive language in the world.

FAREWELL TO A GIANT: Pallbearers carry the coffin of Ray Illingworth

Cricket bids adieu to former England, Yorkshire and Leicester legend Illingworth

THE world of cricket has said farewell to "the finest captain England has ever had".

Ray Illingworth, who led the country to an Ashes series victory in Australia in 1970-'71, died on Christmas Day. He was laid to rest in his home village on Tuesday. The 89-year-old had been undergoing radiotherapy for oesophageal cancer.

Legendary umpire Dickie Bird and former Yorkshire stars Martyn Moxon and Geoff Cope were among those at the funeral in Farsley, Leeds.

An emotional Mr Bird said: "I've lost a great friend. He was a great cricketer.

"If you had any doubts or problems he'd say, 'give me a ring' and he used to have a long chat with me." He added: "Ray, to me, was the finest captain England has ever had."

The all-rounder made his Yorkshire debut at 19. He went on to enjoy a 32-year playing career, leading both his native county and Leicestershire to glory.

But it was his record for England as player, captain and coach that made him cricketing royalty.

'Farsley man'

He played 61 Tests between 1958 and 1973, captaining the side for five seasons.

He scored 1,836 runs at an average of 23.24 and claimed 122 wickets at 31.20. He later turned to TV commentary before serving as chairman of selectors and coaching the national team.

A service at St John's church, Farsley, was followed by a wake at the village cricket club.

His son-in-law Ashley Metcalfe, who also played for Yorkshire, told mourners: "He was far more than a cricketer. He was the most caring, generous and supportive person you could ever meet."

A spokesman for Farsley cricket club, where Ray played for the first team at 13, said: "Ray was a Farsley man through and through."

'100 Great British Drawings' on display at the Huntington Library starting June 18

SAN MARINO: "100 Great British Drawings," a major exhibition at The Huntington Library, Art Museum, and Botanical Gardens, will trace the practice of drawing in Britain from the 17th through the mid-20th century, spotlighting The Huntington's important collection of more than 12,000 works that represent the great masters of the medium.

On view June 18 through Sept. 5, 2022, in the MaryLou and George Boone Gallery, the exhibition will feature rarely seen treasures, including works by William Blake, John Constable, Thomas Gainsborough, and J. M. W. Turner, as well as examples by artists associated with the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood and early 20th-century modernism.

The Huntington is the sole venue for the exhibition.

"The Huntington is renowned for its incomparable collection of British art, ranging from 15th-century silver to the graphic art of Henry Moore, with the most famous works being, of course, our grand manner paintings," said Christina Nielsen, Hannah and Russel Kully Director of the Art Museum at The Huntington.

"Thomas Gainsborough's Blue Boy and Thomas Lawrence's Pinkie often serve as the poster boy and poster girl for the whole institution. But what most visitors do not realize is that The Huntington is also home to an extensive and remarkable collection of British drawings. This exhibition and catalog, the first to show the range of our British works on paper on such a scale, seek to fill that knowledge gap."

Most of The Huntington's British drawings collection, with a few notable exceptions, was established after the time of the institution's founders, Henry and Arabella Huntington. Henry was an avid collector of rare books and manuscripts, and his wife, Arabella, was the force behind their collection of paintings and decorative art, but drawings did not factor largely into their art purchases. It was Robert R. Wark, curator of the art collections from 1956 to 1990, who The Huntington as an outstanding repository of drawings made in Britain, where the art form was especially well developed, particularly in the late 18th to mid-19th century.

"Drawing is the most spontaneous and intimate of art forms, revealing the thoughts and mood of the artist through the stroke of a pen or touch of a brush dipped in watercolor," said Melinda McCurdy, curator of British art, and author of the catalog. "It is a practice especially associated with British artists, whose serious engagement with the medium is on vibrant display in the works we highlight in this exhibition."

influx of artists

Organized chronologically, the exhibit will explore portraiture, historical subjects, landscape, still life, botanical illustration, and caricature. The works on view will represent a full range of styles, including quick pencil sketches that candidly reveal artists' creative processes, fluid pen-and-ink studies that approach the quality of finished works, and highly refined watercolor paintings.

JMW Turner's Beaumaris Castle, Anglesey, will be on display

The art of drawing first flourished in Britain in the late 17th century with an influx of artists coming from continental Europe, where the practice was commonly a part of artistic training. British artists also traveled abroad to view and copy the works of Europe's old masters and contemporary artists. While portraiture was the most popular British art form at the time, British artists eventually embraced a wide range of subjects, from landscape painting to history painting, a genre that appealed to such 18th-century titans as Thomas Gainsborough and George Romney.

Most of the works in The Huntington's British drawings collection are from the 18th and 19th centuries, when drawings and watercolors became popular commodities. Watercolors, though less forgiving than oil, allow artists to create luminous effects and are well suited to capturing the misty English climate. J. M. W. Turner was a master of these atmospheric effects. His Beaumaris Castle, Anglesey (ca. 1825-36) uses layered washes of color to create a soft fog that obscures people, horses, buildings, and ships, blending the line between sea and land. In its exploration of artistic techniques, the exhibition will look at the pigments and paper that artists used.

saturation of the paper with wet paint. Then, "he tore ... scratched ... scabbled at it in a kind of frenzy" until the image emerged as if by "magic ... with all its exquisite minutia."

Many of The Huntington's works from the period are by artists from the Slade School of Fine Art in London, where students studied abstraction, French Impressionism, Fauvism, Expressionism, Cubism, and Surrealism.

A highlight of this group is Gwen John's Two Hatted Women in Church (1920s), a work in water-based transparent paint that she made when living in France. John attended church there regularly, where she would draw the congregation, focusing less on the individuals and more on the shapes she saw in their clothing, their varying postures, and the chairs they sat on.

The exhibition includes several other arresting 20th-century works on paper in various styles by such artists as David Bomberg, Paul Nash, and John Piper.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DIANE COLETTA LOCKLEAR

Case No. 22STPB00419

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of DIANE COLETTA LOCKLEAR A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Charlene M. Wells-Kenkel in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Charlene M. Wells-Kenkel be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Feb. 25, 2022 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 2D located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either

(1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Farce on the Mersey as Everton scramble to find Benitez replacement Everton owner Farhad Moshiri will hold a final round of talks on Friday before deciding on a managerial successor to sacked Rafael Benitez.

Moshiri pulled back from appointing favoured choice Vitor Pereira - who remains a serious contender - after an angry reaction from supporters.

That left Frank Lampard to re-emerge as a serious candidate following an initial round of talks.

Caretaker manager Duncan Ferguson is the other name on Moshiri's list.

Pereira was in pole position after impressing Moshiri in his interview, but a toxic reaction from Everton fans to the 53-year-old's proposed appointment appeared to lead to a pause, although he remains very much in Moshiri's thinking.

In a limited field Lampard, who finished fourth and reached the FA Cup final in his one full season at Chelsea before being sacked in January 2021, appears the choice who would at least unite an increasingly disgruntled fanbase, but he must also await Moshiri's final decision.

Pereira tried to placate fans by conducting a lengthy television interview detailing his talks with Everton's powerbrokers and his plans should he be appointed, but it has failed to erase concerns about his credentials from supporters. He is currently out of work having been sacked by Turkish club Fenerbahce in December.

Everton's attempts to find a successor to Benitez have appeared dysfunctional from the moment an ill-fated attempt to appoint Belgium coach and former manager Roberto Martinez - the first of five Goodison bosses sacked by Moshiri in May 2016 after fan protests - was blocked by the country's Football Association, who would not sanction such a move in a World Cup year.

There was a sit-in and protests after Saturday's home defeat by Aston Villa. They have continued this week outside the club's city centre headquarters and also at Goodison Park on Wednesday night, when hundreds of fans gathered at the stadium.

ICC gong is one bright spot for embattled Root

JOE ROOT gained a slight consolation for this winter's Ashes humiliation this week, when he became only the second Englishman to win ICC Test Cricketer of the Year.

Root, 31, followed Sir Alastair Cook on to the ICC roll call for the most prestigious award in the red-ball format in recognition of a stunning personal 12 months. Cook won it in 2011.

Root joins current Australia captain Pat Cummins, Virat Kohli and Steve Smith, the past three winners of an award that since 2004 has recognised the true greats of the game.

Root said: "I'm incredibly proud to receive this award and very humbled to be in the same breath as a number of wonderful players around the world.

"It means a huge amount to have got this award."

Asked to nominate a personal highlight, Root picked out the fourth highest of his five career double centuries [218] in Chennai last February.

He said: "If there was one hundred that really sticks out it would probably be in Chennai against India. With it being my 100th game, it is something that will live long in the memory."

Hodgson makes top flight return at Watford

■ In surprise move, former England, Inter, Finland and Switzerland boss replaces Claudio Ranieri

Roy Hodgson has been appointed as Watford's new manager on a short-term deal until the end of the season, confirming The Athletic's story from earlier on Tuesday.

The 74-year-old replaces Claudio Ranieri, who was sacked on Monday evening after only three-and-a-half months in charge.

He will be assisted by long-time assistant Ray Lewington. The duo met players and took training for the first time on Thursday.

Hodgson left Crystal Palace at the end of the 2020-21 season having ensured Premier League survival in each of his four seasons at the helm.

Watford were looking for their third permanent head coach of the season, after Xisco Munoz was removed by owner Gino Pozzo on October 3, with the Hertfordshire club then 14th in the league. Hodgson worked under the Pozzos at Italian side Udinese briefly in 2001.

Ranieri's dismissal followed Friday night's 3-0 defeat at the hands of relegation rivals Norwich City, which leaves Watford in 18th, just three points off the foot of the table.

He only managed to win seven points during his time in charge, with the highlight being a 4-1 victory over Manchester United at Vicarage Road in November.

Since then, Watford have managed just a single point — a 1-1 draw at fellow strugglers Newcastle on January 15.

Hodgson has previously managed the England and Finland national teams as well as English clubs such as Liverpool, Fulham, West Bromwich Albion, Blackburn Rovers and Bristol City.

He replaced Fabio Capello as England manager in May 2012. Under Hodgson's reign, England reached the Euro 2012 quarter-finals, failed to advance to the knockout stages at the 2014 World Cup and were knocked out by Iceland in the round of 16 at Euro 2016.

OLD HAND: Hodgson has a coaching CV stretching back 46 years

Martial takes pay cut for Sevilla move

MARTIAL: "I want to play more and show what I can do."

Anthony Martial has said his loan move to Sevilla from Manchester United will satisfy his need to enjoy playing football again.

The French star, who was used only sporadically at Old Trafford, took a wage cut so he could join the LaLiga outfit this week.

"It's not just about money," Martial said.

"It's to play and to enjoy it. That's why I chose to come here, to play and to enjoy football again."

Martial, 26, made only 11 appearances in all competitions for United this season.

"I want to play more and show what I can do," he said. "I believe Sevilla is the perfect place to do that. I want to score goals, provide assists and be crucial for this team in the next five months. There are many good players at Sevilla and I want to bring my experience to the side."

Sevilla fought off competition from Juventus for Martial's signature.

"It [negotiation] hasn't been easy," Martial said. "But from the first day, I knew I wanted to come to Sevilla and we all worked for that to happen.

"The coach [Julen Lopetegui] and the sporting director [Monchi] showed a strong interest in me and that's what convinced me to come here.

"They [Sevilla] wanted me in the past and we kept in touch. They contacted me recently and said I could help them."

Sevilla are second in LaLiga and are in contention for their seventh Europa League crown.

"I want to help the club achieve its aims," he said. "We have to be consistent in LaLiga and do the best we can knowing that there are other big clubs that want to win the title."

"I have trained a lot in the past few months. I want to adapt as soon as possible to the team and connect well with my teammates to help them reach the aims for the season. I'm ready to play."

Martial, who has a contract with United until June 2024 with an option for another year, is open to extending his stay in Seville beyond this summer.

"I have joined for five months but you never know what the future holds," the forward said.

Martial becomes the latest Frenchman to arrive in Spain and was asked about his France teammate and Real Madrid star Karim Benzema.

"Karim is a great player, one of the best in the world," he said. "He could have won the Ballon d'Or this year. I'm happy to be playing in the same league as him."

Martial scored 79 goals in 269 games for United since his arrival in 2015 from Monaco. Sevilla are four points adrift of league leaders Real Madrid and resume LaLiga on Feb. 5 at Osasuna.
