8,000 troops headed to Eastern Europe

British army also deploying tanks in concert with Nato and Joint Expeditionary Force

About 8,000 British army troops will take part in exercises across eastern Europe to combat Russian aggression in one of the largest deployments since the cold war.

Dozens of tanks will be deployed to countries ranging from Finland to North Macedonia this summer under plans that have been enhanced since Russia invaded Ukraine.

Joining them will be tens of thousands of troops from Nato and the Joint Expeditionary Force alliance, which includes Finland and Sweden. The Ministry of Defence said the action had been long planned and had been enhanced in response to Russia's invasion of its neighbour in late February.

Commander Field Army Lt Gen Ralph Wooddisse said: "The UK makes a significant contribution to the defence of Europe and the deterrence of Russian aggression.

"The British army's series of exercises is fundamental to both.

The scale of the deployment, coupled with the professionalism, training and agility of the British army, will deter aggression at a scale not seen in Europe this century."

The UK deployment is expected to build to a peak of about 8,000 personnel operating in mainland Europe between April and June.

The defence secretary, Ben Wallace, said: "The security of Europe has never been more important. These exercises will see our troops join forces with allies and partners across Nato and the Joint Expeditionary Force in a show of solidarity and strength in one of the largest shared deployments since the cold war."

have been deployed and will be embedded in an armoured brigade in Finland, which shares an 830-mile land border with Russia.

Exercises alongside American troops are also taking place in Poland.

'bravest person'

On Thursday the first British volunteer to have died in the Ukraine was identified as Scott Sibley, who was killed fighting Russian troops.

Tributes have been paid to the dad and British armed forces veteran, 36, with former comrades describing him as "the bravest person" they knew.

A second Brit volunteer is missing in Ukraine after travelling to the warzone following the Russian invasion.

"We can confirm that a British national has been killed in Ukraine and are supporting their family," a Foreign, Development and Commonwealth Office spokesperson said.

The spokesperson said about the second man: "We are aware of a British national who is missing in Ukraine and are supporting their family. We are urgently seeking further information."

No further details about the British nationals have been released by the Foreign Office.

Jubilee bash: Sheeran to lead 'national treasures'

POP star Ed Sheeran will lead 100 "national treasures" performing outside Buckingham Palace in a spectacular finale to the Queen's platinum jubilee celebrations this summer.

The musical tribute to Her Majesty, 96, will bring to a close a £15million "People's Pageant" through central London - following a 1.9-mile route similar to her Coronation in 1953.

PM blasts 'misogyny' after Tory sources focus on leggy Labour MP's 'distracting' attributes

BORIS Johnson has condemned "misogyny" against Labour MP Angela Rayner following claims she attempts to distract him in the Commons by crossing and uncrossing her legs.

The Prime Minister spoke out in response to a Sunday newspaper article quoting Tory sources as saying the Labour deputy leader tries to put him "off his stride" during parliamentary clashes.

Left-wing MP Ms Rayner hit out at the anonymous briefings as a bid to spread "desperate, perverted smears".

Mr Johnson said on Twitter: "As much as I disagree with Angela Rayner on almost every political issue, I respect her as a parliamentarian and deplore the misogyny directed at her anonymously today."

Ms Rayner thanked him for his intervention following the report that Tory insiders had claimed Ms Rayner enjoyed attempting to put Mr Johnson off during Prime Minister's Questions.

One Tory MP is said to have told the newspaper: "She knows she can't compete with Boris's Oxford Union debating training, but she has other skills which he lacks.

"She has admitted as much when enjoying drinks with us on the (Commons) terrace."

Ms Rayner often sits next to Labour leader Sir Keir Starmer and opposite the Prime Minister during the weekly clashes.

She has also stood in for Sir Keir at PMQs when he has self-isolated due to Covid.

'smears'

In a series of tweets on Monday, the Ashton-under-Lyne MP said: "Boris Johnson's cheerleaders have resorted to spreading desperate, perverted smears in their doomed attempts to save his skin. They know exactly what they are doing." She said

The article claimed Angela Rayner was trying to 'distract' Boris Johnson by crossing and uncrossing her legs in the Chamber

Mr Johnson's backers "clearly have a big problem with women in public life" and that they "should be ashamed of themselves".

She added: "I won't be letting their vile lies deter me. Their attempts to harass and intimidate me will fail."

Sir Keir said the sexism displayed by those briefing the paper was a "disgraceful new low from a party mired in scandal and chaos".

Tulip Siddiq, the shadow economic secretary to the Treasury, told Sky News on Sunday: "To talk about the fact she is using her legs or her posture to manipulate the Prime Minister is ridiculous."

Leading Tories also condemned the remarks. Health Secretary Sajid Javid tweeted: "If an MP or MPs really said this then it's utterly shameful. No woman in politics should have to put up with this."

And Andrea Leadsom tweeted: "Totally unacceptable comments."

And it gets worse...Tory MP accused of watching porn in the Commons

A CHANGE of culture at Westminster was demanded this week after an MP was accused of watching pornography on his mobile phone while sitting in the Commons.

With Parliament already engulfed by allegations of widespread sexism, misogyny and harassment, the latest claim triggered outrage.

Two female MPs complained about the sleazy male Conservative MP, who has not been publicly identified.

One told a meeting on Tuesday called to discuss sexism and misogyny in Parliament she had sat next to him while he brazenly looked at the X-rated images. The other MP corroborated her story.

He was accused of doing the same thing on other occasions and during a Commons committee hearing.

Tory Chief Whip Chris Heaton-Harris has launched a probe into the claim.

A statement from the Conservative whips' office said: "The Chief Whip is looking into this matter. This behaviour is wholly unacceptable and action will be taken."

Tory MP Pauline Latham said the accused MP should quit.

She said: "They should go. That will mean their ministerial career is absolutely shot, and their parliamentary career probably. It's just not excusable in any way. It's totally shocking.

"I just think there's no place for it in any workplace. In Parliament, we are supposed to be leaders, and we should be setting a really good example.

'disgraceful'

"If people get moved on, they move on, out of the way. There are very talented people who can take their place, so it's not a case of not having the talent to replace them.

"It's a case of having the will to replace them, to make sure that we change the culture.

"We don't want this in Parliament, where we are supposed to be leaders of the country."

Veteran Labour MP Harriet Harman, vice-chairman of the Women in Parliament all-party group, said:

"I don't think anyone would think it's appropriate in any place of work for people to be watching porn.

"It shouldn't be necessary to say, 'You're not to watch porn on phones in the House of Commons'.

Fellow Labour MP Anna McMorrin said: "It's absolutely disgraceful. It just shows how far we have to go to tackle what is going on, the sexism and misogyny.

"We need to see more being done to address this. I mean, what can you say about this?"

"This is just an absolute disgrace, that that would actually happen in the House of Commons.

'hate crime'

"But it's symptomatic, I think as well, of the culture. We need to be leading. We are sitting in Parliament, we need to be leading from the top showing the rest of the country how it's meant to be done.

"And things like making misogyny a hate crime would go a long way to doing that.

"We need to see the Government tackling that. This is not about the distraction of freedom of speech.

"This is about making sure that we don't have sexism, misogyny in our society."

Downing Street aides declined to be drawn on separate reports three Cabinet ministers are under investigation over sexual misconduct claims.

The Prime Minister's press secretary added: "On this, we obviously take all such allegations extremely seriously but there is an independent process in place and it is right not to speak on its behalf." Labour chiefs said watching pornography in the House of Commons chamber was a "sackable offence".

Asked if leader Sir Keir Starmer had any views on the matter, a party spokesman said: "Yeah - it's a sackable offence."

Jubilee:

The Queen and her family are expected to take to the palace's balcony at the end of the parade, watched by thousands of people in The Mall and an estimated one billion TV viewers around the world.

But, as has been the case with all her recent engagements, Her Majesty's attendance will only be confirmed on the day – Saturday June 4 – due to her health issues.

Rosanna Machado, chief executive of the pageant, said: "We are liaising with the Royal Household about involvement of all members of the Royal Family and details will be released in due course."

celebrities

Ed, 31, who has sold more than 150 million records worldwide, will be among 10,000 celebrities, performers and military personnel taking part in the 50-minute-long parade and two-hour-long concert. Other stars include Sir Cliff Richard, Gary Lineker, Bill Bailey, Alan Titchmarsh, Torvill and Dean, Gok Wan and even Basil Brush.

Pageant master Adrian Evans promised it would be the biggest celebration of Britishness since the opening ceremony of the London 2012 Olympics. He said: "In all our history there has never been an opportunity to celebrate a 70-year reign.

"We aim to make this a most magnificent occasion, one in which the nation can show its affection and appreciation to the monarch.

"We're working hard to make her Platinum Jubilee celebrations relevant to our times, and the most magnificent of them all."

Singer-songwriter Ed said: "I'm proud to be part of the celebration and it's going to be a great opportunity to bring everyone together."

The parade has been paid for by some of Britain's leading companies and wealthy individual benefactors. It will be split into four acts: For Queen and Country, The Time of Our Lives, Let's Celebrate, and Happy and Glorious.

For Queen and Country will feature a military parade with 1,750 personnel and 200 horses – one of the largest military spectacles in modern history, according to organisers.

open top buses

The Time of Our Lives will celebrate seven decades of culture, music and fashion, with Lambeth walkers, jivers, hippies, teddy boys, mods, glam rockers, punks, new romantics, ravers, Britpoppers, junglists and breakbeaters.

Seven open-top buses each depicting a different decade will be packed with performers, artists and sports stars from across Britain and the Commonwealth. Daleks, Sinclair C5s and a fleet of cars from James Bond films will also have starring roles.

The third act, Let's Celebrate, will tell the story of the Queen's life in 12 chapters, with nods to her corgis and her beloved horses.

At one stage, the Queen will be imagined in her younger days with a 20ft puppet of a youthful princess, barefoot and carefree, surrounded by a pack of mischievous puppet corgis, which will create "humorous chaos" along The Mall.

Other highlights will include an aerial artist suspended under a vast helium balloon bearing the image of the Queen.

Her Majesty's 1947 wedding to the Duke of Edinburgh, who died last year, will be highlighted with a giant four-tier wedding cake baked by acrobatic cooks on the move. The segment has been created by Birmingham-based art performance organisation Nukhut.

Cambridge children set to star in Jubilee celebrations

THE children of the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge are set to play a star role at the Queen's Platinum Jubilee celebrations.

Prince George, eight, Princess Charlotte, six, and Prince Louis, four, are reported to be taking a "visible" part in events to mark Her Majesty's 70th year on the throne in a "royal show of force".

The three youngsters may appear in the Trooping the Colour carriage and then on the Buckingham Palace balcony with parents Prince William, 39, and Kate, 40 for the RAF flyover.

But detailed plans for the Royal Family's attendance on the Jubilee weekend are still being finalized.

high profile

William and Kate are likely to follow the pattern they set for the Duke of Edinburgh's Service of Thanksgiving at Westminster Abbey last month in confirming attendance only at the last minute.

The young trio have previously joined the Duchess at her "back to nature" garden in the Chelsea Flower Show and could make a similar appearance for Kate's Superbloom project.

The Duke of Cambridge, when aged four, enjoyed his first public carriage ride alongside Princess Diana and the Queen Mother at 1987's Trooping the Colour.

Traditionally, the Queen heads the procession, inspecting her Household Division at Horse Guards Parade before leading them back to Buckingham Palace.

But for this year's ceremony on June 2, it is understood William will be taking the lead at the high-profile military event.

Kate will help coordinate Superbloom, involving the Tower of London being flooded with hundreds of flowers and a slide.

"determined"

Prince Charles will host a bank holiday concert while the Duchess of Cornwall fronts a Big Lunch.

Other members of the Royal Family – including Prince Edward, Sophie Wessex, Princess Anne, Peter Phillips, Zara Tindall, Princess Beatrice and Princess Eugenie – will make appearances.

Prince Harry is said to be undecided about whether he, Meghan and their children will attend.

Her Majesty, 96, will undergo fewer engagements than at previous jubilees due to her mobility.

It is understood royal aides are "moving Heaven and Earth" for the Queen to be able to cheer her horses on from the royal box at the Epsom Derby on June 4.

This includes changing the route of her official car so it can draw up directly outside The Queen's Stand so that she has to walk only a few yards to get a lift to her seat.

A source said: "She really is absolutely determined to attend."

Boris to failing agencies: I'll privatise the a* off you"

Boris Johnson this week threatened to privatise two leading government agencies after rising public unhappiness with their poor services.

The Prime Minister told a Cabinet meeting that the Passport Office and DVLA (Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency) were both under threat of privatization unless they dramatically improved their services. Johnson reportedly threatened to "privatise the a off" the two public bodies.

He is said to be "horrified" by the backlog at the Passport Office – which has left holidaymakers facing massive waits and £150 surcharges to make fast-track applications.

Mr Johnson vowed to haul in bosses and told TalkTV: "I don't want to think whether an institution is in the private or public sector, I just want it to deliver value and a good service.

"It can cost hundreds of pounds to get your passport. You deserve to have a cheaper, faster service."

The Passport Office has repeatedly breached its new 10-week target for processing applications.

There has been an unprecedented surge in demand after the lifting of Covid restrictions because five million people delayed renewing their passports during the pandemic.

Meanwhile, the DVLA has been condemned for being slow in issuing driving licences, with ministers partly blaming refusal to return to offices.

London ministries are said to be less than half-full despite the efforts of cabinet minister Jacob Rees-Mogg, who has been leaving notes on empty desks saying: "I look forward to seeing you in the office very soon."

Jimmy Savile escaped real justice because of libel laws, claims reporter

■ The Sun tried to expose paedophile but was forced to back down over fears of costly libel case, claims investigative journalist

The Sun attempted to expose Jimmy Savile as a paedophile while he was still alive, only to have to back down because of Britain's tough libel laws, according to one of the journalists who investigated the case.

Meirion Jones said the tabloid was ready to publish the story in 2008, which could have brought the entertainer to justice. The newspaper's reporters had signed affidavits from women who had been abused as children by Savile at the notorious Haut de la Garenne children's home in Jersey.

confidence

Jones said the Sun's journalists and editors had confidence in the evidence that Savile had abused individuals on the island. However, the tabloid's lawyers were worried they would lose any subsequent libel case and be left with a £1m bill, partly because the victims might not be believed in court.

Jones said the newspaper knew Savile was highly litigious and if they published a story they "would be facing the best QCs money could buy, representing a man who could potentially call Prince Charles, Margaret Thatcher, the heads of charities, the head of the BBC and the pope as character witnesses."

vulnerable victims

The journalist, who features in a recent Netflix documentary about Savile, said: "The best guess of the lawyers was that a libel action could cost £1m and the Sun would definitely lose. The story was canned and the journalists and editors were furious. But this wasn't the first or last time that Savile escaped because of our libel laws, which rewarded his deliberate targeting of vulnerable victims."

Instead, the Sun published a carefully worded article about child abuse at the Jersey care home, along with a picture of Savile on the premises – while repeatedly emphasizing that the BBC presenter had no knowledge of what happened there.

Savile: hundreds of victims came forward after the entertainer's death in 2011

Despite this, Savile's lawyers still threatened legal action. Fox Hayes Solicitors, a Leeds business that is now defunct, emphasized the "huge sums" that Savile's charity work had raised for children, and the lawyers demanded the Sun issue a prominent statement "making clear that any visit to the home was entirely innocent", delete the article from its website, and pay Savile compensation "for the injury to his feelings and reputation".

prolific paedophile

The legal firm said child abuse was the "antithesis of everything he [Savile] has worked tirelessly to prevent". They insisted the entertainer did not remember visiting children at the care home in the 1970s and that "any such visit would have been unexceptional save for the pleasure it may have given".

After Savile's death in 2011, hundreds of his victims came forward. The public eventually learned that one of Britain's most famous light entertainment stars was also one of the country's most prolific paedophiles.

Jones is now urging the government to reform Britain's libel laws to make it easier for investigative stories to be published, warning they have been used by people ranging from Savile to major corporations and Russian oligarchs to avoid scrutiny.

York strips Prince Andrew of freedom of the city

PRINCE Andrew will be stripped of his Freedom of the City after York councillors voted for it – and they want his title gone too.

Representatives of all the main parties unanimously backed the motion at York Racecourse on Monday, with members of the public joining in the chorus of condemnation of the Royal.

Many city councillors called on him to relinquish his Duke of York title, with Aisling Musson calling it "his stain of an association with this city". It was also said that if the Duke failed to act, then the Queen or the Government should step in to remove the title.

Gwen Swinburn, who spoke from the public gallery, said: "Mr Andrew Windsor is an utter disgrace. He brings shame and reputational damage everywhere he goes, including to our city."

The motion was brought following the settlement of the 62-year-old's sexual assault civil case with Virginia Giuffre.

Back our campaign for reparations, royal couple urged on Caribbean tour

THE Earl and Countess of Wessex were confronted with demands to help arrange British reparations for slavery on their Caribbean tour yesterday this week.

Antigua and Barbuda's

Prime Minister Gaston Browne said the royal couple could help bring about "reparatory justice" for his island nation by using their "diplomatic influence".

Prince Edward, 58, and Sophie, 57, were last week met with protesters with placards in St Vincent and the Grenadines on their Platinum Jubilee tour.

Mr Browne, 55, told the pair at a meeting: "We have been left bereft of important institutions such as universities and good medicinal facilities."

On a lighter note, the Countess of Wessex played the steel drums with school pupils and met local women who work to promote female empowerment.

Last week, the Wessexes announced they were pulling out of a visit to Grenada after the country decided the pair's eight-hour stop there would be too short to achieve anything.

James Corden set to quit the Late Late Show

British comedian and actor turned US talk show host James Corden has announced he will be leaving The Late Late Show next year.

He made the announcement during a tape recording of the CBS network show in Los Angeles, California on Thursday.

Corden - best known in the UK for TV series Gavin and Stacey - has hosted the US-based talk show since 2015.

In a previous interview with Variety, he said he did not see his stint on the show as "a final destination".

Corden took over the role of hosting the late-night talk show from comedian and actor Craig Ferguson eight years ago.

He has become a household name in the US, presenting notable showbiz awards such as the Tony and Grammy awards.

During his time on The Late Late Show, he introduced segments such as 'Drop the Mic' and 'Carpool Karaoke' - which featured celebrities including singer Adele and Prince Harry. The segments went on to have their own standalone series.

In a statement, George Cheeks, the president and CEO of the CBS network said: "Seven years ago, James Corden came to the US and took television by storm, with huge creative and comedic swings that resonated in a big way with viewers on-air and online.

"From 'Crosswalk the Musical' to the legendary 'Carpool Karaoke,' and every unique comedy segment he introduced, James has truly reimaged many elements of the late night format."

He added: "We wish he could stay longer, but we are very proud he made CBS his American home and that this partnership will extend one more season on The Late Late Show."

In an interview with Variety in December, Corden said of the show and his future on it: "I want it to always be fresh and alive. And in the same token, I never really saw this job as a final destination. I saw it as a stop on a journey.

"These are very difficult jobs to leave, because you work with incredible people and you do something that's really amazing every day."

LAURA Carmichael, Elizabeth McGovern and Michelle Dockery brought some distinctly upstairs glamour to the premiere of the new Downton Abbey film at the weekend.

Laura, 35, who plays Lady Edith Crawley, turned heads in a pink one-shoulder gown with a bow and train at London's Leicester Square for the UK premiere. And Michelle, 40, who portrays Lady Mary, wowed in a silver gown and cape while her on-screen mother Elizabeth, 60, sparkled in a black and silver dress.

They were joined on the red carpet for Downton Abbey: A New Era by fellow stars Hugh Bonneville, 58, Joanne Froggatt, 41, Jim Carter, 73, and his wife and co-star Imelda Staunton, 66.

Downton creator Julian Fellowes said: "We're trying to mark the change – the fact that Crawleys of Downton are nearly in the 1930s, which is merely the beginning of the modern world."

The much-anticipated film is in cinemas from Friday in the UK and from May 18th in the USA.

Guest host Jo steps up in style at the BiLA pub quiz

FILLING in for the traveling Sandro Monetti, guest quiz mistress Jo Duff (right) did an outstanding job at the latest Brits In LA pub quiz, looking stunning in her sequined pink quiz mistress jacket - despite her glamorous shoe breaking during the first round.

But the prize for brainpower went to 'Twitter's Angry Birds' (pictured, below), who fought off some spirited competition to grab this week's first prize. The crowd also celebrated the birthday of regular attendee Prem Goyal.

To add to the fun Robert C Dmitry and his dog, and Sir Christopher Wyndham, both lost a singing contest, hosted by Juliana Zanville.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: No one is more ready to go forward now than you. You might be even tempted to step out of your comfort zone. Just be sure you think hard before you do.

TAURUS: This is a time for you to sort out the mind space you are currently living in. Get it straightened out and you may even resolve some unfinished business. Happy Birthday.

GEMINI: Do take note of what is your priority as you really have plenty you can do on your list. You can put things off for a week or so, however only until mid-month.

CANCER: Your water signs are feeling more deeply this week due to Mars stirring up old stuff. Uncertainty is not something you deal well with, so it's best to resolve things up front now.

LEO: Just don't forget to breathe and relax, its the best way to get through the next week. You are a leader so get your thoughts aligned and lead forward. The reward is peace of mind.

VIRGO: Worry is no stranger in your life. It is actually a normal way for you. Time will go by whether you stress or not. Reach out to someone who needs your wisdom.

LIBRA: Your boss Venus is resting in watery Pisces currently. While it may seem a time of uncertainty it need not be a time for instability. So get ready to move quickly when the time is right.

SCORPIO: This time frame while your boss in cousin Pisces for a while will not feel especially difficult for you. Keep a positive attitude and be ready to be social next week.

SAGITTARIUS: There are some folks who do not have any idea why you are upbeat and in good spirits. This is due to your boss relaxing in watery Pisces. Just do what feels good, no matter what.

CAPRICORN: You are about to get busy planning some trips or events. It's going to be better for you overall. Whatever the situation, make time for restful days this coming week.

AQUARIUS: While current times are uncertain knowing you can help other people can really help you to process this time frame. You should also benefit by working on healthy habits for yourself.

PISCES: While your mysterious boss Neptune is living with you it is likely you will have some enlightening dreams. As one of the most intuitive signs, a lot of these dreams are prophetic. Keep this in mind.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:
JEAN LISETTE AROESTE
CASE NO. 22STPB03504
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of JEAN LISETTE AROESTE.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by CLAUDINE DENISE TUCKER in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that CLAUDINE DENISE TUCKER be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 05/16/22 at 8:30AM in Dept. 9 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Ronaldo rescues a point for United Cristiano Ronaldo scored his 17th goal of the season to earn Manchester United a point on Thursday after David de Gea had frustrated Chelsea with several superb saves in a 1-1 draw.

The visitors were thoroughly dominant in the first half at Old Trafford but were unable to find a way past De Gea, who made saves from Kai Havertz and N'Golo Kante.

But Chelsea finally broke the deadlock midway through the second half when Marcos Alonso volleyed home from an angle.

The Blues' celebrations had barely finished as Manchester United responded within a minute, Nemanja Matic playing a brilliant ball into the box and Ronaldo taking a touch before thumping a shot into the net.

That brought Old Trafford to life - there had been a subdued atmosphere inside the ground up to that point, while discontent against the club's owners was still clear as protests were held outside for the second home game in succession.

Reece James hit the outside of the post while Ronaldo could have secured all three points for the hosts but his effort from a difficult angle was saved by Edouard Mendy.

But the game ended all square as Chelsea edged closer to securing a top-four finish. Thomas Tuchel's side are third, eight points ahead of fifth-placed Tottenham with five games remaining.

Manchester United

are sixth, five points behind Arsenal in fourth but having played two games more.

Interim manager Ralf Rangnick had challenged his side to finish the season as strongly as possible, even though he had suggested a top-four finish was "unrealistic" following last Saturday's 3-1 defeat at Arsenal.

But for an hour of this game, it looked as if that call had gone unheard as the home side put in yet another disappointing display.

They were lethargic and lacked the drive that Chelsea's players showed, and the visitors should have been out of sight as they peppered De Gea's goal with first-half efforts.

The best of those were by Havertz, who broke clear midway through the first half only to be denied by De Gea, before putting a close-range header straight at the goalkeeper.

When Chelsea scored, an away win seemed inevitable - but not for the first time this season, Ronaldo came to his side's rescue.

His value to the team has often been questioned since his return to Old Trafford but, at the age of 37, he continues to defy the odds as he moved joint-second on the Premier League top scorers list with 17 goals.

Chelsea had won their past eight games on the road in all competitions - and they will wonder how they failed to make it nine as this draw ended that club record run.

Hammers face uphill battle as Frankfurt edge tight semi West Ham will have to come from behind in Germany next week if they are to reach their first European final in 46 years after Eintracht Frankfurt secured a deserved first-leg advantage at London Stadium.

Jarrod Bowen came agonisingly close to snatching a draw for the hosts in stoppage time when his overhead kick from a Declan Rice cross bounced down off the crossbar.

But that would have been harsh on Frankfurt, who were a constant threat on the counter-attack and showed why they had won away at Real Betis and Barcelona already in the knockout stages.

The visitors had the perfect start when Ansgar Knauff scored inside the opening minute.

The Hammers did recover through Michail Antonio's 11th goal of the season - and his first in the Europa League since September - as he bundled home Kurt Zouma's nod down at the far post.

It was Frankfurt who got the winner when Daichi Kamada tapped home after Djibril Sow's low shot was turned into his path.

Until the dramatic finale, a Bowen shot that flicked off the outside of a post and Said Benrahma's dipping second-half effort that flashed narrowly wide were West Ham's most dangerous efforts.

It was a disappointing outcome for David Moyes' men, although having performed brilliantly in Lyon to reach the last four, they do have hope when they travel to Frankfurt for the return.

West Ham manager David Moyes said:

"Disappointing result but there's another game to play. Hopefully we play better in the second-leg. We didn't show enough quality in the final third. We switched off for the goals.

"Tonight was the worst for two years as far as set pieces are concerned. It has been a really strong part of our game but tonight we were really weak. Maybe we don't quite have the quality at times for this level. We have showed it at times.

"We didn't start the first or second half so well. They scored within a minute, which was a terrible start. Sometimes the opposition makes it hard. Tonight our creative players did not do enough when we had opportunities."
