SIR ELTON'S LAST GOODBYE

■Veteran rocker headlines Glastonbury in final gig of farewell UK tour

53 years after his first UK concert at the Hampstead Country Club, Elton John said goodbye to live performing in the UK as he headlined Glastonbury Sunday night.

played a two-hour set with a little help from some of his music star mates.

In a gold suit and trademark black glasses, the 76-year-old proved he's still standing, performing at the top of ĥis game.

This was his first gig at the festival and he said: "I never thought I'd ever play Glastonbury and here I am.

"It's a very special and emotional night for me because it might be my last show ever in England, so I had better play well and I had better entertain you, you've been standing there so long and I really appreciate all the outfits and everything."

fans' favorite

"I want to thank you also for 53 years of amazing love and loyalty that you've shown me. It's been an incredible journey, and I've had the best, best time."

The fact he said the performance "may" be his last gave hope that the farewell tour could rumble on further, even Rocket Man though this was to be the final UK show of his Farewell Yellow Brick Road tour.

> There have been suggestions he could do an "intimate" multinight residency, with promoters lining up with huge deals.

> In a reminder of how long the superstar has dominated, Elton, who came on to fireworks, opened his set with the 1975 hit Pinball Wizard. Then he performed a stirring rendition of The Bitch Is Back from 1974, followed by fans' favourite Bennie And The Jets.

> After that Elton went through his favourites like I Guess That's Why They Call It the Blues.

> Observers thought the crowd may be one of the biggest ever at the main Pyramid stage. Thousands tried to get whatever view they could, including some standing on overturned dustbins.

loudest cheer

Those wanting to see the historic show included an array of stars including Paul McCartney. Even Elton's children were spotted at the side of the stage.

The star got up from his piano and did a little jig after the loudest cheer of the night.

Some fans were expecting more star power after last year's Glastonbury, in which Paul McCartney was joined on the Pyramid stage by surprise guests Bruce Springsteen and Dave Grohl.

"As an Elton fan, I thoughthe was great, but maybe the guests could have been bigger," said Bex Whiting, 35, who was wearing a sparkly, rainbow-coloured jacket in tribute to John's trademark appearance.

"I hate to say that, since he championed some real, local people, like Rina Sawayama. But I think there was a lot of talk in the crowd that it's going to be Britney or Eminem or big names."

The flamboyant singer's British performance followed two sun-drenched days at the famous music festival in southwest England, where tens of thousands of fans heard Guns N' Roses, the Arctic Monkeys, the Foo Fighters, Lizzo, Lewis Capaldi and others.

Earlier Sophie Ellis-Bextor was also on the Pyramid stage, while Debbie Harry and Blondie also wowed the crowds along with Yusuf Islam formerly Cat Stevens in the legends slot.

Prolific British hacker jailed for five years

■ Barack Obama, Elon Musk and Joe Biden among the victims of 24-year-old Liverpool computer whiz

AN online fraudster hacked the social media accounts of Barack Obama, Joe Biden and Tesla boss Elon Musk in a massive Bitcoin scam.

Briton Joseph O'Connor, alias PlugWalk Joe, hijacked more than 130 personal profiles in 2020 – including the serving and former US Presidents.

The 24-year-old even threatened to leak nude photos and videos of Hollywood actress Bella Thorne after accessing her phone and Snapchat. She said O'Connor, of Liverpool, made her life "a living hell".

He has now been jailed for five years. His hacking was part of a Bitcoin fraud by a criminal gang.

biggest users

Members generated fake celebrity tweets asking followers to send currency to an account, with the promise of doubling their money.

Around 350 million people saw suspicious tweets from official accounts of some of the platform's biggest users, also including Apple, Uber, Kanye West and Bill Gates.

And thousands were duped into believing the giveaway was real.

JOSEPH O'CONNOR, aka PlugWalkJoe

One hacker, who took over Musk's account, posted: "I'm feeling generous because of Covid-19. I'll double any BTC [Bitcoin] payment sent to my BTC address for the next hour. Good luck and stay safe out there!"

Victims of the swindle sent about $100,000 to the crooks' Bitcoin wallet.

After O'Connor hacked Thorne's mobile, one of his associates texted her and threatened to release the images unless she promoted the crook on social media.

But instead of agreeing to the gang's demands, she decided to share her own nude photographs to Twitter to "take her power back".

In April O'Connor was extradited to the US from Spain. He pleaded with the judge not to jail him, saying he was "deeply ashamed".

He insisted he was unaware his threats were an act of "serious criminal conduct" until after his arrest.

'lonely, reclusive life'

A gaming obsession meant he "ate himself fat", he claimed. He had never had an intimate relationship and lived "a lonely, reclusive life".

Three other men have been charged over the scam. US teen Graham Clark—the "mastermind" — admitted his part in the con in 2021 and was sentenced to three years in juvenile jail.

The court was told the hackers accessed Twitter's admin tools after convincing a small number of unwitting employees to hand over their login details.

US Assistant Attorney-General Kenneth Polite Jr said O'Connor's actions were "malicious", adding he had "harassed, threatened and extorted his victims, causing substantial emotional harm".

The defendant was ordered to pay more than £600,000.

BEN ELTON: astonishing rant aimed at Rishi Sunak

BBC blasted after comic dubs PM "a mendacious, narcissistic sociopath" on top politics show

Ben Elton has dubbed Rishi Sunak a "mendacious n a r c i s s i s t i c sociopath" during an "extraordinary" rant on the BBC's flagship politics show.

The left-wing comedian launched his one-minute and 40-second tirade on Sunday With Laura Kuenssberg.

MPs blasted the BBC for not halting the onslaught.

'word salad'

Elton let loose in response to an interview with the PM, in which Mr Sunak urged Britons to hold their nerve on interest rate rises and defended his record while Boris Johnson's chancellor.

The comedian branded the PM's responses an "extraordinary Orwellian, meaningless, evasive word salad". He added: "I sort of believed maybe he's kind of a bit more decent, and it turns out, he's as much of a mendacious, narcissistic sociopath as his previous boss. He seemed to be making a principle of the fact that he resigned from a government that he'd served loyally and tried to keep propped up for numerous years.

'evasion and vanity'

"He's trying to boast about having worried about inflation while he was chancellor under Johnson."

The 64-year-old went on: "He's the Prime Minister. He owes us honesty but we got nothing but mendacity, evasion and vanity, just dripping with vanity."

Tory MP Peter Bone said he "didn't understand why Laura Kuenssberg didn't interrupt".

He added: "To say it was extreme and unjustified and rude is mild. But where was the balance from the BBC?

"Where was somebody jumping in and putting the other side of the coin? It was extraordinary."

Mr Bone said: "Giving these people a platform when they just have extreme political views but don't run a campaign, aren't representative of a party and haven't been elected to anything seems to me making a mockery of what's supposed to be perhaps the BBC's premier politics programme."

A Tory source said: "It's no surprise people are switching off the BBC. The Beeb should reread its own impartiality guidelines and stop stitching up its political panels."

The BBC said: "We feature a wide range of guests and opinions across the series and ensure we meet our due impartiality commitments."

Actor Julian Sands confirmed dead

■ Remains found by hikers near Mount Baldy positively identified as those of 65-year-old British star, who went missing in January

Human remains found in the local mountains have been confirmed to be those of British actor Julian Sands, who went missing on a hike in January.

Walkers found the remains on Saturday, police said, and by Monday they had been formally identified.

Sands, 65, was best known for his roles in the Oscar-winning film A Room With A View and TV dramas 24 and Smallville.

His other credits included 2011's The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo, in which he appeared opposite Daniel Craig.

Sands disappeared on 13 January during bad weather in the Baldy Bowl area of the San Gabriel Mountains.

Air and ground searches were hampered as California was battered by deadly storms, as well as icy conditions and a threat of avalanches.

The San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department Said the remains found in the Mount Baldy area at the weekend had been positively identified as the missing actor.

"The manner of death is still under investigation, pending further test results.

"We would like to extend our gratitude to all the volunteers that worked tirelessly to try to locate Mr Sands," they said in a statement.

Last week, the star's family thanked the Californian authorities for their efforts in trying to locate him.

true passion

"We are deeply grateful to the search teams and coordinators who have worked tirelessly to find Julian," they said.

"We continue to hold Julian in our hearts with bright memories of him as a wonderful father, husband, explorer, lover of the natural world and the arts, and as an original and collaborative performer."

At the end of January, brother Nick Sands, who lives in North Yorkshire, where he, Julian and their three other brothers grew up, said he had already said his "goodbyes".

"I have come to terms with the fact he's gone and for me that's how I've dealt with it," he said.

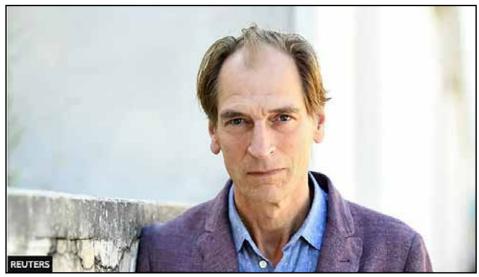

Sands was a keen hiker. His friend and hiking partner Kevin Ryan has previously said that it was a true passion of his, and that "he was the most advanced hiker I know".

Born in Otley, Yorkshire, and educated at Lord Wandsworth College in Hampshire, Sands started his acting career with roles in such films as the The Killing Fields.

That brought him to the attention of director James Ivory, who cast him, ahead of the likes of Rupert Everett, in the 1985 film adaptation of EM Forster's novel A Room With A View.

Set in Edwardian-era England and Italy, the film centred around Helena Bonham Carter's character Lucy Honeychurch and her ever-growing love for Sands' free-spirited George Emerson.

The film, which also featured Dame Maggie Smith, Daniel Day-Lewis

SANDS: described by his family as 'a wonderful father, husband, explorer, lover of the natural world and the arts..."

and Dame Judi Dench, was a box office hit and won Oscar, Bafta and Golden Globe awards. The British Film Institute has named it one of its top 100 British films.

Later, Sands played the English Romantic poet Percy Bysshe Shelley in Ken Russell's psychological thriller Gothic, before moving to Hollywood.

He played the title role in the 1989 horror film Warlock and its sequel, and his other big screen credits included prominent parts in Arachnophobia, Boxing Helena and Leaving Las Vegas, as well as starring opposite Jackie Chan in the action-comedy film The Medallion in 2003.

His TV roles included a Russian terrorist in Kiefer Sutherland's TV drama 24 in 2006, and Superman's biological father Jor-El in Smallville in 2009.

Friend and fellow actor John Malkovich introduced Sands to his wife, the writer Evgenia Citkowitz. The couple, who had two children, lived in North Hollywood.

Sands was previously married to Sarah Sands, former editor of BBC Radio 4's Today programme, with whom he also had a son.

When asked by The Guardian in 2020 how he'd like to be remembered, he replied: "As amusing and interesting father, by my children."

Students warned over 'bloody' Macbeth

FOR more than 400 years audiences have revelled in the blood and gore Shakespeare's most violent offering Macbeth.

But now students looking to delve into the grisly murder saga have been given a warning.

Queen's University, told Belfast, those studying Further Adventures in Shakespeare on its BA English course that they might be upset as the story includes a stabbing, strangulation and beheading.

It said: "You are advised that this play could cause offence as it references and/or deals with issues and depictions relating to bloodshed."

The university also applied similar warnings to the Bard's Richard III, Twelfth Night and Titus Andronicus. But some of the brightest theatrical stars point out that Macbeth, which was first performed in 1606, is particularly popular with schoolchildren.

Sir Ian McKellen, who starred in Sir Trevor Nunn's 1976 RSC production, believes warnings could undermine the dramatic impact. He said: "My teacher sister used to show Trevor Nunn's version to teenage students.

"She'd pull down the blinds, start the video and then leave the classroom and count the minutes till she heard the first scream from within. Had the youngsters had trigger warnings, the effect of the play would have been considerably diminished."

Director Sir Richard added: Evre, completely fatuous and totalitarian to try to police people's minds these with absurd warnings. Ridiculous, contemptible, infantilising."

Call The Midwife star Jenny Agutter, said: "I don't understand why they are necessary, unless we need to be warned that depicting human nature might cause offence." Queen's University declined to comment.

Ford bids emotional goodbye to beloved Indy at London premiere

AN emotional Harrison Ford bid farewell to Indiana Jones – the action character he has played for 42 years - in London this week.

The actor, 80, said it was "bittersweet" to leave a "family" at the premiere of Indiana Jones And The Dial Of Destiny, the final instalment of the franchise.

His co-star Phoebe Waller-Bridge, 37, turned heads in a metallic chainmail dress matched with a pair of silver heels when she hit the red carpet with him at Cineworld Leicester Square Monday night.

Harrison looked stylish in a charcoal suit matched with a pale blue shirt, a dark patterned tie and black shoes.

The actor said in an interview with Sky News that he wanted people to watch films in cinemas "away from their lives where they can enjoy the incredible experience with strangers", forget their differences and "feel their common humanity"

SARAH FERGUSON was resting at home this week after undergoing a single mastectomy following a shock cancer diagnosis.

PM praise as England 'keeper refuses to be stumped by activists

PRIME Minister Rishi Sunak has praised England wicketkeeper Jonny Bairstow for not being stumped by Just Stop Oil activists – and instead dragging one of them off the field.

Two eco-zealots ran onto the Lord's outfield and threw orange powder across the grass in front of the England fielders and Australian batsmen as the second Ashes Test began on Wednesday.

To cheers from the packed crowd, Bairstow grabbed one of the protesters and carried him off the field.

England captain Ben Stokes stopped another protester getting on the pitch, assisted by other players.

'guerilla tactics'

The protest failed almost as soon as it had started with Lord's ground staff using a petrol-powered leafblower to clean the powder off the outfield.

Mr Sunak's official spokesman said: "These selfish, guerrilla tactics that target events bringing joy to millions are exactly why the

"The Prime Minister [inset] is pleased play was able to resume quickly and thanks security staff, the swift hands of Jonny Bairstow, and the other England players who stepped in."

Three people were arrested at the scene on suspicion of aggravated trespass, the Metropolitan Police said.

Bairstow briefly left the field to change his shirt, after it was covered in orange powder.

The incident follows

'desperate people'

Speaking on BBC's Test Match Special, commentator Jonathan Agnew said: "Oh no, I don't like the look of this. We've got people running on. This is terrible.

"Bairstow's there. Orange smoke and dust. They're trying to keep them off the pitch, protesters two of them.

"Jonny Bairstow is taking one the protesters off, carrying him towards the grandstand. Another one is prostrate on the ground. They haven't managed to damage the pitch but they've thrown some orange stuff around."

Guy Lavender, chief executive of the Marylebone Cricket Club, which owns Lord's, condemned the pitch incursion.

He said: "Their actions not only endanger themselves and those who work at the ground, but they have consistently shown complete disregard for the people who pay to attend events, not just here at Lord's but around the country at other sporting venues."

A grandmother, 69, called Judit, from Epsom, Surrey, was named by Just Stop Oil as one of the protesters arrested.

She was quoted as saying: "I despair for all the desperate people who have to leave their homes and countries because they are no longer able to feed their families or eke out a livelihood."

The US millionaire who bankrolled Just Stop Oil turned on them this week after slamming the disruption involved in their protests for "not accomplishing anything". Investment boss fund Trevor Neilson accused them "ostracising the of exact people they need to engage" with their

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: BROOKE SMITH MAILE CASE NO. 23STPB06118

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of BROOKE SMITH MAILE.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by STEPHEN AMOS SMITH in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that STEPHEN AMOS SMITH be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 07/11/23 at 8:30AM in Dept. 2D located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Black Mirror Season 6: dystopian drama makes welcome return to Netflix

THE LONG-awaited new season of Black Mirror dropped on Netflix recently and it does not disappoint.

Since its debut in 2011, the completely original and madly compelling series from the brilliant British writer Charlie Brooker, has explored high-tech multiverses and delivered twisty, but disturbing endings to its episodes. The show is an anthology sci-fi series and has featured A-list actors such as Aaron Paul, who is one of the few to star in multiple episodes, Miley Cyrus, Annie Murphy, Daniel Kaluuya and Jon Hamm, among others.

While each episode acts as a completely separate story, the overall theme of Black Mirror centers around technology and how it can impact our lives. In the newest season, Season 6, we see this theme play out in the form of streaming services, paparazzi, VHS films, robotic doppelgangers, and possibly murderous delusions.

The critics' favorite this time out seems to be the opening episode, "Joan Is Awful", perhaps because of its nerve-wracking relatability to real life. In the episode, Joan, played by Annie Murphy (and Salma Hayek and Kayla Lorette), finds herself the victim of a reality show from the fictional Streamberry corporation (a barely disguised Netflix surrogate which features throughout the latest series). Annie watches in horror as "Joan Is Awful" re-enacts her daily life for viewers to watch. When Joan tries to fight for privacy, it's revealed that she signed over her rights to Streamberry when she signed the terms and conditions to join the streaming service.

Likewise, when the actress portraying her (Hayek) tries to take matters into her own hands, it's also revealed she is stuck in a contract as well. Sure, the plot seems interesting, but while it may not be as cool as a robotic doppelganger, what makes this episode so good is how easy it is to fall victim to something like this in real life. Honestly, if you learn anything from Black Mirror Season 6, it is to always read your terms and conditions when you sign up for anything.

Joan is Awful does at least benefit (spoiler alert) from a happy ending, which is more than you can say for episode two, "Loch Henry," a very dark but hugely compelling tale of a young couple, Davis and Pia (Davis McCardle and Myha'la Herrold) who travel to a sleepy Scottish town to start work on a genteel nature documentary - but find themselves drawn to a juicy local story involving shocking events of the past. When we get a glimpse of the sozzled and foul-mouthed local publican Richard (John Hannah) muttering darkly in his deserted pub, we know things will soon go pear-shaped. And they do. With bells on.

Grotesque history

After Pia pressures Davis to abandon the nature documentary and instead delve deep into the dark death of a local serial killer, they find themselves pulled into a dismal and grotesque history, and the truth they uncover is both unexpected and deadly.

That's just two of the five episodes, but they are all compelling and brilliant in their own way, confirming Brooker's position as one of TV's most original and thought-provoking creators.

Despite what you may think Brooker maintains that Black Mirror is not about the wickedness of Big Tech. Speaking to Esquire magazine recently, he said: "Humans are weak is the story, rather than technology is evil, because I love tech."

FRIGHTENINGLY GOOD: Annie Murphy (above) stars in "Joan is Awful" while Davis and Pia (Davis McCardle and Myha'la Herrold, below) find that digging into a Scottish village's dark secret may not work out so well...

Referring to "Loch Henry" reliance on VHS tapes to build its narrative, instead of a smartphone app or webcam, he said: "It's a weird one, because it is about the archive of the past that people are digging into....but it is also about the way all that stuff is now hoovered up and presented to you on prestige TV platforms that we're mining all these horrible things that happened and turning it into a sumptuous form of entertainment."

Of this season's throwback vibe, Brooker says: "It was a refresher.... there's generally some downers and there's some bitters; there's some bleak and bittersweet and happy endings." He's also very conscious of the time-suck that so much of today's linear television demands, forcing viewers to sink ten or more hours into something that may or may not pay off. How nice, then, that Black Mirror offers - he hopes - a little something for everyone?

GREAT BRITISH TALENT: series creator and head showrunner Charlie Brooker

"There's nothing more frustrating than when you're watching a true crime documentary, and it starts to dawn on you somewhere around Episode Three: They're not going to tell me who did this," Brooker grumbles. "It's going to end with them going, 'Isn't it interesting that no one really knows what the truth is?' Not what I want. I want to see an interview with the killer...."

Bayern to step up chase for Harry Kane

Bavern Munich believe they can sign Tottenham striker Harry Kane and are set to make a new offer to sign the England

German newspaper Bild reported on Tuesday night that the 29-year-old had agreed personal terms with Bavern.

We have been here before of course.

Manchester United wanted him almost a decade ago, after that breakthrough 2014-15 season when Kane scored 31 times and questions were being asked about whether he was a oneseason wonder.

They did not get him. Instead, Kane ended up signing new deals in 2016 and 2018 that confirmed his growing status in the game.

Famously, the latter contract had no getout clause, so when United came back and Manchester City followed summers Tottenham said no. Even when he returned late for pre-season training in the summer of 2021, Kane went nowhere.

The big question is whether, finally, this is the summer when Kane moves on, whether Tottenham chairman Daniel Levy decides now is the time when the numbers add up and he lets his prize asset and his club's record goalscorer, with 280 goals in 435 games, leave.

Manchester United would really like England's all-time top scorer, with 58 strikes for his country, to sign for them this summer.

They are desperate for a striker and Kane is as near a guaranteed source of goals as you can get.

There is one pretty solid reason why Kane might think twice before going abroad.

He has scored 213 goals in 320 top-flight games and is currently 48 goals off breaking Alan Shearer's record as the highest scorer in Premier League history.

That is less than two seasons if Kane has a decent year, three if he slips to the lowest level, two 17s and an 18, which represent three of his last five domestic campaigns.

Evidently, barring unexpected injury, Kane could have a spell abroad and still come home and usurp Shearer.

But it more straightforward if he stays where he is.

The counter to that is Kane's trophy cabinet is empty - and a couple of the most successful clubs in the game want him.

Bayern, who have won the Bundesliga 11 times in a row, made the Champions League quarter-finals in most of those seasons and won the tournament twice as well as five German

THE ASHES: Second Test finely poised despite England's carelessness in first innings reply

SCOREBOARD

England came close to wasting a superb fightback with some brainless batting late on the second day of the second Ashes Test against Australia at Lord's on Thursday.

The home side had done much to reverse the damage of a poor opening day, bowling Australia out for 416 and reaching 188-1 in response.

But Ollie Pope, Ben Duckett and Joe Root all gifted their wickets to Australia, Duckett falling for 98 and missing out on a maiden Ashes hundred.

The three wickets fell for 34 runs before Harry Brook, who had several near misses in his 45, and captain Ben Stokes, with a calm 17 from 57 balls, took England to 278-4, 138 behind.

Steve Smith earlier completed his 32nd Test hundred before being dismissed for 110 by Josh Tongue.

That was part of an Australia collapse of five wickets for 65 runs on Thursday morning, with Tongue and Ollie Robinson finishing with three wickets

This was so close to being a magnificent day for England - for more than two sessions they were every bit as good as they were lethargic on Wednesday.

As the pitch quickened

Ben Duckett's cavalier 98 paved the way for England's strong reply at Lords up, the home bowlers found more zip. The catching was sharp and the batting, led by the increasingly dependable Duckett, was grinding Australia down.

Indeed, as the touring bowlers battled in vain to extract any movement from the ball, England's only error came from Zak Crawley, who ran down the pitch and was stumped down the leg side off Lyon for a handsome 48.

Then came eight overs of madness that threatened to derail any chance England have of regaining the Ashes. Their success under Stokes has been built on an attacking style, but the reckless way they allowed Australia back in defied cricketing logic.

At the end of a breathless, action-packed day the Test is deliciously poised, though that does little to shake off the feeling of what might have been.

Duckett has been a revelation since returning to Test cricket in December - his average of 53.58 is the fifth-highest of all men to have done the job in at least 10 matches for England.

He added 91 in less than 18 overs with Crawley and another 97 in just over 20 with Pope, who was able to bat at number three despite the shoulder injury he suffered in the field on day

Duckett cut, clipped and played drives with style, but when Australia went short with as many as six fielders on the boundary, he and Pope took leave of their

Pope, standing baseball style, miscued Cameron Green on 42 and Root only survived gloving behind in the same over because Green overstepped.

Duckett, with a hundred at his mercy, top-edged Josh Hazlewood and, most incredibly for a player of his class, Root flapped at Mitchell Starc. All three wickets were to catches behind square on the leg side.

Brook Even then continued to take the bouncers on, somehow avoiding being bowled when he was outfoxed by a Green slower ball and was dropped at square leg by Marnus Labuschagne when he hooked Pat Cummins.

Stokes, so often England's biggest aggressor, played the situation sensibly, and the skipper has the chance to guide his team to a lead

Maddison inks £40m Spurs deal

Tottenham have signed England midfielder James Maddison on a five-year deal for £40m from Leicester City.

The 26-year-old has won three caps for England and helped the Foxes claim the FA Cup for the first time in their history in 2021.

He made appearances for Leicester after joining from Norwich in 2018 for a fee of around £20m.

Maddison scored 10 Premier League goals last term but was unable to prevent the club from slipping to relegation.

Coventry-born Maddison scored 55 goals and provided 41 assists for the Foxes and his creativity will be a welcome addition to a Spurs squad that has lacked a top-class playmaker since the departure of Christian Eriksen in 2020.

Craig Brown dead at 82 manager Craig Brown has died at the age of 82.

Brown was in charge from 1993 to 2001 and is the last man to lead Scotland to a World Cup finals – at France 98.

The former schoolteacher also led Scotland to Euro 96 and was involved in a coaching capacity in three other major tournaments.

Brown played for Rangers and Dundee, and managed Clyde, Preston, Motherwell and Aberdeen. He joined the board at Pittodrie retiring from management in 2013.

Sir Alex Ferguson paid tribute to a "thoroughly wonderful man", adding: "Craig and I had been friends since the Scotland schools team in 1957-58, with Craig as captain. He had a great career but his service for his country stands out. Well done Broon!"

Rice costs Arsenal a pretty penny

■ Gunners cough up £105m for West Ham captain

Arsenal have agreed a deal worth £105m to sign West Ham's England midfielder Declan Rice.

Talks are continuing between the clubs over how the deal will be structured for the 24-yearold.

It follows a third bid from the Gunners, having previously had two bids rejected after falling short of the £100m West Ham want.

Manchester

offer for Rice rejected on Tuesday, withdrew from the running.

Hammers captain Rice has been at the club since joining their academy from Chelsea in 2014.

Earlier this month he led them to Europa Conference League victory, their first major trophy in 43 years.

His contract at London Stadium was due to expire in 2024.

Arsenal's bid City, who had a £90m comprised of an initial £100m plus £5m add-ons. The initial fee equals the British record Manchester City paid for midfielder Jack Grealish.

Earlier this month, England midfielder Jude Bellingham signed for Real Madrid for an initial £88.5m, although that deal could reach £115m if addons are activated.

The Premier League's most expensive signing is the 121m euro (£107m) transfer fee that Chelsea paid Benfica for Argentina

PROVEN WINNER: England midfielder Declan Rice led his team to victory in the Europa League Conference Trophy final last month midfielder Fernandez in January.

Following the club's Europa Conference League victory over Fiorentina, chairman David Sullivan said he was "99%" sure Rice would leave West Ham this summer.

Rice has scored 15 goals in 245 games for West Ham, having made his debut in the 2016-17 season after coming through the academy.

He has been capped 43 times by England, playing in all five of their matches at last winter's World Cup.

Arsenal, who finished second in the Premier League last season, signed Kai Havertz from Chelsea in a £65m deal on Wednesday.

Mount seals £55m Red Devils switch

Manchester have agreed a deal to sign England midfielder Mason Mount from Chelsea on a five-year contract for £55m, plus £5m in add-ons.

Mount, 24, will be Erik ten Hag's first signing of the summer as he looks to strengthen his side following United's qualification for next season's Champions League.

Chelsea spent £600m last season and needed to sell before 30 June to ease Financial Fair Play concerns. Mount joined Chelsea aged six.

United finished third in the Premier League and while Ten Hag has prioritized a new striker this summer, Mount's ability to operate in advanced positions is understood to have made him an attractive option for the club.

Mount won Champions League in 2021 with Chelsea and started during the side's 1-0 win over Manchester City in the final.

He also won the Fifa Club World Cup and Uefa Super Cup with the Blues.

He has been capped 36 times by England, scoring

Mount had been with Chelsea since he was six five goals, and was part of Gareth Southgate's squad for the 2022 World Cup in Qatar.

Mount came through Chelsea's academy before joining Vitesse on loan for the 2017-18 season, scoring nine goals in 29 Eredivisie appearances.

The following campaign he was loaned to Derby County, scoring eight goals 35 Championship games under manager Frank Lampard as the Rams suffered a 2-1 defeat to Aston Villa in the playoff final.

Upon his return to Chelsea in 2019, Mount made his breakthrough the newlyunder appointed Lampard and became a key player at Stamford Bridge.

Last month Chelsea appointed former Tottenham boss Mauricio Pochettino as their new replacing manager, interim boss Lampard who had taken over following the sacking of Graham Potter.

The Blues are seeking to reduce their squad size and have sold Kai Havertz to Arsenal and Mateo Kovacic to Manchester City this week, while fellow midfielder Ruben Loftus-Cheek is close to joining AC Milan.

Meanwhile, Edouard Mendy and Kalidou Koulibaly have moved to Saudi Arabia with Al-Ahli, and N'Golo Kante has agreed a deal with fellow Saudi Pro League club Al-Ittihad.
