Charles receives the Scottish crown jewels

■ "Mini Coronation' sees pomp, pageantry and prayer on Edinburgh's Royal Mile

THE King was presented with Britain's oldest crown jewels on Wednesday in a symbolic ceremony cementing his ties with Scotland.

It had been dubbed the "mini coronation" as thousands turned out in the sunshine to witness a day of pomp, pageantry and prayer on Edinburgh's Royal Mile.

King Charles, Queen Camilla, Prince William and Princess Kate – who are known as the Duke and Duchess of Rothesay north of the border – joined 700 military personnel and 100 representatives of all facets of Scottish life on parade.

To the skirl of bagpipes, the beat of drums, a 21-gun salute, and a flypast by the Red Arrows, the Scottish capital paid tribute to its new monarch.

The King was presented with the Honours of Scotland – the Crown, the Sceptre and the Sword of State in a service at St Giles' Cathedral.

Charles commissioned five new pieces of music, including one composed in Gaelic and another in Doric, the language of north-east Scotland, to reflect his deep interest in the country's rich cultural heritage. His role as Scottish monarch was celebrated by a soundtrack that was at times haunting but also jaunty.

'beautiful tapestry'

Meanwhile, the King's dedication to green issues was reflected by one church leader with a stark message about the need to safeguard the planet for future generations.

The Right Reverend Sally Foster-Fulton, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, said the nation was "a beautiful tapestry of humanity" and that society will be on the "right track" if we understand "the Heavens and Earth" are not "commodities or possessions".

She added: "Blessed are we when we understand our children do not inherit this Earth from us – we have borrowed it from

"And it is our duty to return it still singing and surging and bathing, not baking to a crisp." The Moderator, who was born and raised in South Carolina but ordained as a Church of Scotland minister in 1999, added: "Your Majesties, you have made it part of your mission to speak alongside creation, advocating for it.

"As we present the Honours of Scotland to you, we commit ourselves to walking that journey with you. We are all a small part of something so much bigger – this beautiful, sacred creation and everyone and everything in it."

It was a service that melded ancient and modern.

Papal gift

Elizabeth II invented the idea of a Scottish celebration on her first trip to Edinburgh after her Coronation in 1953. But the Honours of Scotland, the crown jewels, date back to the 16th century. After the Union in 1707 they were locked in a chest and only rediscovered by Sir Walter Scott in 1818.

Charles received the Crown, the Sceptre and the Sword of State at St. Giles' Cathedral

The crown was made for James V, who first wore it in 1540. This and the sceptre, thought to have been a Papal gift to James IV, were first used together at the coronation of Mary Queen of Scots in 1543.

A new sword, named the Elizabeth Sword and carried by Olympic rower Dame Katherine Grainger, was made for the ceremony as the existing 16th century blade is now too fragile to use.

The King, 74, looked relaxed in his Admiral of the Fleet tailcoat and medals, covered by the Order of the Thistle mantle, collar, and plumed hat. The Queen opted for a long white dress by Bruce Oldfield and her Thistle robes.

Earlier, spectators had lined the streets to watch a People's Procession – comprising 100 representatives from Scottish arts, politics, charities, education, civil society and business – make its way from Edinburgh Castle to St Giles' Cathedral.

And around 650 leading figures from Scottish national life gathered at the cathedral for the service

Scottish Secretary

Alister Jack said: "It was a beautiful service, it had the best of everything Scottish – traditional and modern."

Republican protesters chanting anti-monarchy slogans such as "not my King" were countered by royalists shouting "God Save The King". Police Scotland said two women, aged 20 and 21, were arrested for an alleged breach of the peace after it was reported they tried to climb over barriers.

At the service Scotland's First Minister, Humza Yousaf, who wants to replace the monarchy, gave a Bible reading.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Your boss planet Mars is now in your cousin sign of Leo. With this powerful help backing you up nothing much can stop your forward march.

TAURUS: You are not going to have the holdup you had this time last week This is due to the powerful full moon in Capricorn these past few days.

GEMINI: Your boss Mercury is currently on a go-slow. This will hold up situations somewhat. It's all good - if you stay positive.

CANCER: It's good to make amends to anyone or anything that caused you any upset feelings. This next week or so will bring some peace of mind overall.

LEO: You must get to the bottom of any emotions you may be holding on to This is a time to move forward.

VIRGO: If you feel disappointed or maybe somewhat confused be honest · first to yourself. You probably know deep down what needs to be done to LIBRA: Mercury is in a positive place this week and so whatever has been on hold will soon get moving forward. With this in mind be clear with your intention going forward.

SCORPIO: You have the power to do whatever you decide you can. Be sure to keep a positive attitude in all areas. You are doing better overall.

SAGITTARIUS: Your boss planet Jupiter is in your area dealing with communications. Just be sure when put on the spot not to put your foot in it Do not be blunt with words or you could be the one to get burnt.

CAPRICORN: So it seems like time to make big decisions...however not so fast, you have to be sure of what you want. You have had very a powerful planet checking you and so do not rush to complete all until later in the month. AQUARIUS: You have never liked being boring or restrained from doing anything in your life. Times of late have made life difficult for you energetic souls. But nothing lasts forever and soon it will be time to move forward.

PISCES: You could be dealing with family situations at this time... meaning that other things that are important are put on a back burner. By the middle of n ext week you will be back on track. Do take time for rest!

Toon confirm Tonali £60m deal

Newcastle have confirmed the signing of Italy midfielder Sandro Tonali from AC Milan.

The Magpies were looking to bolster in midfield this summer and quickly noved to strike a deal with Milan, though to be worth around £60m.

Tonali (above) has inked an initial five-year contract at St James' Park and becomes the second-most expensive signing in the club's history, behind only striker Alexander Isak.

"First of all, I want to thank Newcastle United because they are giving me a huge opportunity for my career," Tonali said.

"I want to repay the trust on the pitch, giving it my all, as I always have. I'm really excited about playing at St. James' Park, I can't wait to feel the warmth of

Wood makes hay but Third Test remains in the balance

HEADINGLEY: An electric Mark Wood took five wickets for England but the crucial third Ashes Test remains in the balance after an enthralling first day at Headingley.

At press time Wood had helped England dismiss Australia for 263, despite a sensational century from Mitchell Marsh, but the hosts were reduced to 68-3 at the close, trailing by 195. England took advantage england took advantage of winning the toss on a quick pitch to reduce Australia to 85-4 before Marsh came in and and bludgeoned 118 from as many balls.

He dominated a stand of 155 with Travis Head, clubbing 17 fours and four sixes.

England were hurt by dropping four chances, including Marsh on 12 and Head on nine, but roared back into the game after Marsh fell in the final over before tea.

From 240-4, Australia lost their final six wickets for 23 runs with Wood, like Marsh playing his first match of the series, taking 5-34 in a thrilling display of high pace - at one stage reaching 96.5mph.

England were left with 90 minutes to bat in the evening and lost Ben Duckett and Harry Brook to Pat Cummins before Marsh removed Zak Crawley.

Joe Root is 19 not out and Jonny Bairstow unbeaten on one as England attempt to overturn a 2-0 series lead for the first time in Ashes history and prevent the tourists clinching the urn at the earliest opportunity. The build-up to this Test was dominated by the toxic fallout from Bairstow's controversial dismissal at Lord's, with expectations of a hostile atmosphere from the Leeds crowd.

After a smattering of boos following the Australian national anthem, Stuart Broad removed David Warner for the 16th time in his career with the fifth ball of the day.

Wood thrilled the crowd with his rapid opening spell and, once Broad had Steve Smith caught behind off the inside edge for 22 in his 100th Test, the famous Western Terrace was raucous with Australia four down.

But in the afternoon Marsh quietened the England support, bullying the bowling with an imperious knock. He capitalized on the routine drop by Root to crash 113 runs in the second session before nicking the impressive Chris Woakes to second slip.

From there Wood took

Australia		Runs
Warner	c Crawley b Broad	4
Khawaja	b Wood	13
Labuschagne	c Root b Woakes	21
Smith	c Bairstow b Broad	22
Head	c Root b Woakes	39

centre stage again, his pace ramping the crowd up once more. He took four wickets for five runs in 16 balls to blow away the tail and drag his side back into the game.

Still the day was not done. Australia struck three times late on, leaving Bairstow to emerge in the closing moments as England dug in.

Batting generally gets easier throughout a Test at Headingley, but there remains a nagging feeling England have let slip another dominant position with more missed chances.

Wood missed the first two Tests of the series with various niggles. On this evidence, had the 33-year-old he been available, the series could have an entirely different complexion.

Mount given iconic No.7 shirt

ERIK ten Hag has given Manchester United new boy Mason Mount the club's iconic No.7 shirt – after telling him he can handle the pressure that comes with it.

Mount sealed a £60million move from Chelsea this week after signing a five-year contract with the option of an extra year.

The England midfielder will earn £250,000 a week, with Ten Hag's decision to give him the No.7 shirt proof of his firm belief in the 24-year-old. Past wearers of the jersey include legends George Best, Bryan Robson, Eric Cantona, David Beckham and Cristiano Ronaldo.

But Ten Hag has no qualms about Mount following in their footsteps, after it emerged the United manager personally handed him the famous number.

Mount said: "It's never easy leaving the club where you grew up.

"But Manchester United will provide an exciting new challenge for the next phase of my career."
