SUNAK URGED: GET TOUGH ON CHINA!

Shock and recriminations as Chinese spy scandal rocks UK parliament

Rishi Sunak was under growing pressure this week to toughen his stance on Beijing after Westminster was left week reeling by a spy scandal.

It has emerged that a British citizen working as a parliamentary researcher for MPs is under arrest on suspicion of spying for Beijing. Two men, one in his 20s and another in his 30s, were arrested under the Official Secrets Act in March, police confirmed, leading to growing demands for Rishi Sunak to drastically harden his stance towards China.

to senior Conservatives. One parliamentary aide who knows the man - granted anonymity to speak freely for this article - said: "Everyone who had come into contact with him is feeling angry and exposed." Another person involved in Westminster's China policy circle added: "It's hard to trust anyone in the field now. This is a real shock. Everyone wonders what went wrong."

change in his approach toward Beijing, which has seen him pave the way for closer engagement with China than his hawkish predecessor Liz Truss. Sunak said he had been "emphatic" with Chinese Premier Li Qiang during face-to-face talks at the G20 summit in India last weekend that undermining British democracy "will never be tolerated."

The Prime Minister has spent most of his premiership treading a delicate balance on relations with the Asian behemoth, being mindful both of the valuable and growing financial interest the country has in the UK, and the country's security obligations as a leading NATO member.

In a statement released through lawyers, the arrested researcher - who has not been formally named by British police - said he was "completely innocent." He added: "I have spent my career to date trying to educate others about the challenge and threats presented by the Chinese Communist Party."

Cabinet split

But Sunak was careful not to rule out inviting Chinese officials to the U.K.'s AI safety summit in November, despite pressure from members of his own party to adopt a tougher stance. "AI knows no borders," a Downing Street spokesperson said.

the U.K.'s treatment of Beijing, given Sunak has resisted calls to formally designate China a threat. "Are they a threat or not?" Duncan Smith asked the Commons.

Tim Loughton, another sanctioned Tory MP, urged ministers to add China to the "enhanced" tier of Britain's foreign lobbying register, which would give the U.K. home secretary extra powers to monitor agents working on behalf of the Beijing government.

Sunak now faces a split in his Cabinet, with Home Office ministers Suella Braverman and Tom Tugendhat both urging Sunak to adopt a tougher approach.

In contrast, Business Secretary Kemi Badenoch said Monday that declaring China a threat would "escalate things" further. Officials in both the Treasury and Department for Business and Trade have long balked at the idea, arguing it would cripple the U.K.'s economic ties with Beijing.

The scandal has also raised questions about the vetting process for people working in the U.K. parliament, given the arrested researcher held a pass giving him access to much of the estate.

Luke de Pulford, executive director of the Inter-Parliamentary Alliance on China, said it was "bizarre" to have the same clearance process for all employees in Westminster, suggesting there should be enhanced vetting for people working chiefly on security matters.

A House of Commons spokesperson responded: "Our vetting is in line with government policy, and follows the national security vetting policy that is set by government. We do not and will not comment on specific cases."

Top Tory: Labour leader has 'zero balls'

■ Penny Mordaunt makes headlines again with bizarre Commons outburst against Starmer

Penny Mordaunt has accused Keir Starmer of having "zero balls" in a bizarre Commons outburst.

She took aim at the Labour leader after he called Rishi Sunak "inaction man" during Wednesday's prime minister's questions.

Mordaunt, who is leader of the Commons, retaliated by comparing Starmer to "Beach Ken" from the hit movie Barbie.

Referring to Starmer's dig at the PM, she said: "I don't think that line will survive contact with the prime minister's work rate, but let me rise to the bait and return the "Beach Ken stands for nothing on shifting sands, in his flip-flops staring out to sea, doing nothing constructive to stop small boats or grow the economy.

"When we examine his weak record on union demands, on border control, on protecting the public and stopping small boats, we discover that like Beach Ken he has zero balls."

It echoed a 2013 speech Mordaunt made in the Commons in which she repeatedly said the word "cock" to win a bet with Naval colleagues.

Mordaunt's latest outburst also brought back memories her embarrassing attack on Gary Lineker in the Commons in March.

cringey speech

The former England striker was at the centre of controversy after he said some of the language used by the government to promote its latest immigration crackdown was "not dissimilar to that used by Germany in the 30s".

In her cringey speech, Mordaunt said: "Labour are borrowing from the Gary Lineker playbook.

Maxi boost for Mini

■ £600m BMW investment ensures electric versions of classic motor will continue production in two British factories

BMW has given the economy a huge boost after announcing plans to build electric Minis at two factories, ministers said this week.

The German-based manufacturer's £600million investment will secure 4,000 jobs in Oxford and Swindon, backed by a Government subsidy.

Chancellor Jeremy Hunt said BMW's move was a "huge vote of confidence in this country as a global leader in electric vehicles".

Business Secretary Kemi Badenoch said the investment was evidence of the work the Government is doing to "ensure the continued strength of our world-leading automotive sector".

She said: "We are proud to be able to support BMW Group's investment, which will secure high-quality jobs, While Government sources declined to set out the level of taxpayer support offered to BMW, they did not dispute the previously reported figure of £75million.

Ms Badenoch added: "All I can tell you is what we put in the automotive transformation fund, and that's money that goes to many different companies across the sector, not just one. We put in £350million in 2021.

"We do have to do some investment ourselves as Government, that is standard, and we're competing against countries from all around the world as well as the EU, and we are winning."

Prime Minister Rishi Sunak said the Government was securing jobs and growing the economy "by backing our car manufacturing industry".

He added: "BMW's investment is another shining example of how the UK is the best place to build cars of the future."

BMW said it would invest a total of £600million at the site in Oxford and another

Harry and Meghan wow the crowd at Invictus Games

MEGHAN and Harry were swept along with the crowd on Sunday when they arrived hand in hand at the Invictus Games and joined in a Mexican wave.

The Duchess of Sussex got a rapturous welcome on her first visit to this year's event in Dusseldorf, Germany.

She responded to the cheers by punching her hands in the air and giving fans high-fives and hugs.

Just hours earlier Meghan apologized for her late arrival at the Games, which kicked off on Saturday. But all seemed forgiven as the couple sat close together and joined in the wave as they watched a wheelchair basketball match.

The Aussie team kept up a tradition of gifting Harry a pair of "budgie smugglers" and presented the grinning Prince with a pair of tiny trunks printed with colourful flags.

Meghan went for a mix of high street and designer chic, teaming £80 shorts with a £177 blazer by J Crew, a £450 Givenchy belt and £900 Chanel shoes.

One official with the UK team admitted that although Invictus was getting bigger every year, it was felt there could be more support back home, particularly when there had been a notable focus on sport among the Royal family in the past week.

A team insider said: "The athletes find it

Mini factory in Swindon, where vehicle body panels are made.

In Oxford, the work will involve changes to production lines and the creation of an area for installing batteries. Two new Mini models – the electric Mini Cooper and the Mini Aceman – will be assembled at the plant alongside conventionally fuelled cars.

Production of the vehicles will begin in 2026 and the factory will be exclusively electric from 2030.

BMW Group board member Dr Milan Nedeljkovic said the investment was "setting the path for the future" of the Oxford site, which is the home of the Mini. The announcement is the latest boost for the British car industry, with figures recently suggesting production increased by almost a third last month compared with a year ago.

The Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders said it showed that carmakers were continuing their recovery from recent difficulties, including global chip shortages.

Last week, electric vehicle production also began at the Stellantis factory in Ellesmere Port, Cheshire, after a £100million investment. Vans will also be made at the Cheshire site.

CAUGHT UP IN THE WAVE: Harry and Meghan get into the Invictus spirit bizarre but don't want to get caught up in the royal crossfire."

In recent days, as well as attending separate Rugby World Cup matches in France, the Prince and Princess of Wales took part in Mike Tindall's podcast, The Good, the Bad and the Rugby, alongside the Princess Royal.

The Prince and Princess were integrally involved in the early success of the Invictus Games, with their Royal Foundation – then shared with the Duke – pumping significant injections of cash into the event.

At the time, a courtier was quoted as saying: "Prince William and Catherine always supported Harry's efforts to establish Invictus. They are delighted that it has been a success."

Potty-mouth Margolyes leaves TV hosts speechless

■ Viewers and hosts alike stunned as Harry Potter actress turns the air blue on popular morning show

Popular ITV breakfast show This Morning was pulled off the air this week when beloved Harry Potter star Miriam Margolyes kept swearing on live television.

The incident left many viewers astounded and in hysterics, as the actress and well-known personality gave callers unusual suggestions for their problems.

Miriam took the role of an agony aunt as fans of the show called in but this took a turn when she began using swear words and giving out brash advice, much to the surprise of hosts Holly Willoughby and Josie Gibson.

When one This Morning caller asked whether she should take action against an inconsiderate neighbour constantly parking on her property, the 82-year-old said: "It's a problem with neighbours because - I think you have to go to them and say 'I really need to talk to you about this because my health is being affected. I'm not happy and that's not fair is it?' And then if they're still like that, throw s over the walls".

'strip naked'

Taken aback by the suggestion, Holly Willoughby and Josie apologised for the comment and urged ITV viewers not to resort to violence or vandalism.

Another caller was seeking advice for feeling neglected by her partner, explaining that when he comes home from work, he sits on his phone and largely ignores her and the kids.

Miriam Margolyes responded, suggesting that she strip naked and "show him what she's got".

She added that she should take his phone away and yell at him to put the "fing phone away".

While the actress mouthed the swear word, many viewers subtly heard it with Holly being forced to apologise again.

Miriam defended herself, explaining that she only mouthed the world and didn't

Terror suspect nabbed after four days on the run

ONE OF the biggest manhunts in recent years ended on Saturday with the arrest of terror suspect Daniel Khalife.

The former soldier, 21, sparked alarm after escaping custody, leading to a four day hunt which was brought to an end after security services bugged devices of associates linked to the dangerous escapee.

His capture, by a plain-clothes officer on a canal towpath, came after MI5, MI6 and GCHQ teamed up with undercover and counter-terrorism cops in a major coup.

The interception of sensitive communications led them to raid a house in Richmond, South-west London.

Commander Dominic Murphy, head of the Metropolitan Police's Counter Terrorism Command, said: "He was fully cooperative, handcuffed and arrested."

Asked about the length of time it took to arrest him, the officer added: "I don't recognise 75 hours is a long time to find somebody unlawfully at large from a prison."

The outcome was an initial major success for the new Counter Terrorism Operations Centre, which is based at a multi-million-pound secret location in West London. Mr Murphy said: "This was the first big operation the CTOC did and it shows this is working."

fake bomb hoax

The success came after one of the most audacious breaches of security in British penal history.

Khalife is accused of trying to spy for an enemy state, believed to be Iran, obtaining information likely to be useful to a person committing or preparing an act of terrorism, and plotting a fake bomb hoax.

He was held at Category B Wandsworth Prison in South-west London ahead of a November trial.

His escape is said to have started in the prison kitchens - where he held a job - after he attached himself to the underside of a food delivery lorry on Wednesday.

After the raid in Richmond, the trail briefly went cold but it dramatically sparked into life soon after with sightings of him in nearby Chiswick.

Khalife was then spotted six miles away on a stolen bike alongside the Grand Union Canal. His time on the run ended at 10.41am when a plain-clothes detective hauled him off his bike and detained him at gunpoint. He allegedly screamed: "It's not me. I ain't done anything." He had a sleeping bag plus food and drink.

Footage showed the suspect in a white

T-shirt and dark shorts, handcuffed sitting on a dusty path alongside the water at Greenford, West London, just 12 miles from Wandsworth Prison.

Witnesses claimed he was seen winking and laughing after his arrest. It is understood a warrant for the eavesdropping operation was issued after police made a significant breakthrough on Friday.

Attention will now focus on whether the escape was an inside job involving corrupt guards at the prison.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

Busy schedule ahead for local BABC chapters

The British American Business Councils in both Los Angeles and Orange County have a busy slate of events over the next few months, kicking off this Wednesday, September 20th in Costa Mesa with a special book signing evening with Alana Stott MBE, celebrating the launch of "She Who Dares" Alana's powerful and inspiring memoir. Alana started She Who Dares in 2018, inspired by the motto of the Special Air Service, 'Who Dares Wins.' She wanted to create a brand that represented the idea of being feminine and tough. As her personal website puts it: "at the heart of all of Alana's businesses are her core values of femininity, toughness, integrity, respect, kindness, and always giving back.... "Her mission is to show that women can do it all and that anything is possible when we lead with our strengths and never give up."

The following day, September 21st, the BABC hosts a panel discussion entitled "Future of Real Estate" where attendees can join industry leaders and professionals for BRITS in LA are happy to announce the return of their popular Breakfast Club.

We have seemingly found a home that works as well as our old hang out, Cecconi's on Robertson and Melrose, who had kindly hosted us for 10 years. Unfortunately they stopped serving breakfast during the pandemic and have decided to continue with just lunch and dinners. It took us a little while to find the right spot for us, as location seemed most important to members along with a good patio and a great menu - so enter stage left - Great White,

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: It's time to get ready to put your financial goals for Autumn at the top of your to-do list. Mercury heading into your opposite sign of Libra will help out.

TAURUS: You could be feeling worried about your future direction in life at the moment. This is due to your boss planet Venus in Virgo setting you challenges. Do not be tempted to challenge back.

GEMINI: This is a good time to catch up with distant friends and unfinished business of any kind. Your boss Mercury is going forward and will assist you.

CANCER: Your current situation can be draining your energy and your finances. Do not give in to worry now. Venus is in your money area and by month's end you will be flush again.

LEO: You should be starting to feel more upbeat and ready to take the world on. It should be a more settled time in your life of late, however you should still keep a low profile for a while.

VIRGO: Your life may feel like it's not going in any particular direction. This is due in part to Mercury slowing up your general life. It will soon heat up. Happy Birthday

LIBRA: The Sun starting your new year next week will greatly help any plans that have been held up.

By the end of the month life look will look good.

SCORPIO: Life is currently getting more upbeat. This could be due to your effort to be positive and live in the moment. Life is moving forward nicely.

SAGITTARIUS: It's not currently a time to be overspending or to giving resources to others. This is only for a short while and by month's end you will have more energy and be ready to move forward.

CAPRICORN: Life has been throwing you some good opportunities recently. For some it's time to take a break away from family and friends. If you are not able to right now just keep a low profile and practice some self-care.

AQUARIUS: Be honest (as only you can be) to yourself and see what or how you can make your life more peaceful. Your boss in Taurus currently wants you to be more relaxed and less stubborn.

PISCES: Don't look down, just look up at what you can do in the future. You are one of the most sensitive souls and this is a time to be low-key not stressing over what you cannot change.

(This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 10/16/23 at 8:30AM in Dept. 67 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Rory loves Aberg and Co

THE 2023 Ryder Cup is now just two weeks away with golfers and fans the world over licking their lips in anticipation of a contest which in recent times has become one of sport's most compelling spectacles.

For the players themselves the event is frequently a career highlight, with Rory McIlroy this week speaking of his excitement and expectation for the event, which opens in Rome on September 29th.

The world no. 2, who famous wept after a record defeat by the Americans in 2021, believes a new generation of European stars led by Ludvig Aberg are ready to stop the Ryder Cup ending in tears this year.

But a changing of the guard will see Luke Donald's rejuvenated team with four rookies in Rome this month, including super Swede Aberg.

The former amateur world No.1 earned a late wild card by winning the Omega European Masters in only his ninth professional start. Aberg followed up by combining with Viktor Hovland to beat McIlroy and Tommy Fleetwood on a trip to the Italian capital earlier this week.

World No.2 McIlroy said: "It was amazing to be there. There are a few new faces. It was a great exercise in terms of getting to know one another a bit better.

"It's a transitional time for the team – it's exciting.

"I had an opportunity to play with Ludvig for the first time on Monday. I told him, 'I've been looking forward to this for a while'.

"He probably exceeded my expectations. Everyone talks about what a great driver he is.

"But I was really impressed with his wedge play and how he can control his trajectory with shorter clubs. I was on the bandwagon before and certainly at the front of it now."

Ramsey's goal a Page-turner?

AARON RAMSEY claimed a personal milestone as he relieved the pressure on under-fire Red Dragons' manager Rob Page with Monday's win over Latvia.

The Cardiff City playmaker chalked up his 100th career goal as he set his country on their way to a victory that breathed life into their efforts to qualify for Euro 2024.

Ramsey – 'Rambo' to his teammates – drew first blood from the penalty spot, and David Brooks' injury-time second left Page to celebrate what was only the country's second win in their past 14 attempts.

That run of form has led to questions being asked of the manager, with the Football Association of Wales confirming that his position was 'under review'.

But this triumph – albeit against opponents ranked 134th in the world – leaves them just three points behind group frontrunners Croatia and Turkey. That should be sufficient for Page to lead his country into next month's fixtures, after a performance that was far more dominant than the scoreline suggests.

That it was still in the balance until the dying seconds was down to a string of missed chances – with Tottenham's £45million signing Brennan Johnson the culprit-in-chief.

He blazed over after just 75 seconds, and that set the tone for a night he will want to forget.

Wales could have been three-up inside the opening 10 minutes. Johnson's miss was compounded by headers that should have been taken by Ethan Ampadu and Ben Davies.

Shots rained down on Latvian goalkeeper Roberts Ozols throughout a one-sided opening half. But he was only beaten after Harry Wilson kept his body between the ball and defender Kaspars Dubra as it bounced up inside the area – the centre-half led with his arm and barged the Fulham man.

Referee Michal Ocenas pointed to the spot, handing Page and Wales the lifeline they so desperately needed. Ramsey took responsibility, sending Ozols the wrong way.

New City deal for Walker

England defender Kyle Walker has signed a two-year contract extension with Manchester City.

The 33-year-old had entered the final year of his previous deal and was linked with a move to Bayern Munich in the summer.

Walker has won 13 major trophies in his six years at City and the new deal means the he will stay until 2026.

"I'm thrilled to sign a new deal. My future is with Manchester City and that is the best thing for me," Walker said.

"I've enjoyed every single moment of the past six years at this fantastic club. I have an amazing coach, great team-mates and staff and our fans are the best. I feel supported on every single level," he added.

The right-back joined City when he arrived from Tottenham in a £45m deal in August 2017.

Walker made 39 appearances in all competitions for City last season but did not start in the side's Champions League final win against Inter Milan.

He also lost his place for a period in the 2022-23 campaign and admitted he was "hurt" by comments made by City boss Pep Guardiola, who said Walker was unable to play in a new defensive system used in the second half of the season as the club completed the Treble of Champions League, Premier League and FA Cup.

England rampant win World Cup opener

England shrugged off their dismal pre-tournament form to produce a magnificent 27-10 World Cup victory over Argentina in their opening match at the weekend, with George Ford kicking 27 points.

To underline England's dominance, the win was achieved despite the fact they were reduced to 14 men after just three minutes.

Tom Curry was sent off by the bunker review system for a clash of heads with Juan Cruz Mallia that took place in the third minute in Marseille.

Fly-half Ford kicked three drop-goals to give England a 12-3 half-time lead.

England controlled the second half and Ford added 15 points as England started Pool D with a morale-boosting win.

Rodrigo Bruni powered over in the 79th minute for the only try of the game

BRUISING ENCOUNTER: despite being a man down for most of the match, England overpowered Argentina in Marseille for hapless Argentina.

There's not exactly a large sample but this was, by a million miles, the biggest win of Steve Borthwick's reign as England coach, a win that he not only wanted but very badly needed to quell the gathering storm around his running of the team.

It was an old school triumph that was in name only similar to the feast of rugby on Friday night when France beat the All Blacks. But if England are to revive themselves, it has to start somewhere – and this was hugely encouraging.

Despite being down in numbers for all bar a few minutes, it was a win orchestrated by the unflappable Ford, who took the game by the scruff of its neck and didn't let go.

Their dominance was then hammered home by England's physicality, which hasn't been spotted so much of late. England beat the Pumas in every facet.

The only fly in the ointment is England's poor discipline and alarming card count, but on this performance, they can't be counted out to have a very good run in the competition.

Wales edge Fiji in World Cup thriller

THE RUGBY World Cup is up and running with some thrilling displays already from a couple of the pre-tournament favorites, most notably Ireland and France, the latter thumping the mighty All Blacks in the tournament's opening fixture on Friday.

But Wales probably starred in the most thrilling game, as they edged the dangerous Fijians to launch their campaign in style.

Second-half tries from Louis Rees-Zammit and Elliot Dee brought victory in the game of the tournament to strike a seismic blow for quarter-final qualification from Pool C – but they lived on their nerves as Fiji launched a late comeback.

Warren Gatland's men got off to a perfect start with a seventh-minute try from Josh Adams wide on the left after a midfield break by George North.

But Fiji captain Waisea Nayacalevu struck back with a superb individual effort in the 13th minute after picking up a loose ball in midfield and bursting through Dan Biggar and Aaron Wainwright to race in from 40 metres.

Four minutes later, Nayacalevu was the catalyst for an absolute blockbuster, breaking Wales again in his own half before offloading to midfield partner Semi Radradra who put flanker Lekima Tagitagivalu in for the try. Suddenly Wales trailed 14-8.

But Biggar's second long-range penalty reduced the deficit and, after concerted forward pressure, North skipped through the flagging Fiji defence for a converted try just before the half-hour mark.

Louis Rees-Zammit then scampered over in the 48th minute after Vinaya Habosi was unable to hold on to a cross-kick from jack-of-all-trades Jac Morgan.

Wales took an 11-point lead into the final quarter but again had a narrow escape as, after they had been warned for a series of infringements, Fiji replacement Levani Botia this time coughed up possession reaching for the line.

Tagitagivalu was yellow carded for pulling down a maul and Wales made the shorthanded Fijians pay through a 65th minute try by replacement Elliot Dee. But Wales then lost Corey Domachowski to the sin-bin to even the numbers up and Josua Tuisova thundered over with eight minutes left.

When Peni Ravai Kovekalou muscled his way over for Fiji's fourth try with two minutes left they were within sight of a stunning comeback before a handling error let them down as the final seconds ticked away, leaving the Welsh with a priceless win.

Jude stars again as slick England best Auld Enemy

Scotland 1 England 3: Southgate's men end Scotland's good run with impressive win at Hampden

JUDE BELLINGHAM pulled the strings Wednesday night as England continued their modern-day superiority in the 150-year rivalry with Scotland by beating their in-form hosts in a friendly at a raucous Hampden.

The Real Madrid star scored a goal and provided an assist as England bounced back from a disappointing 1-1 draw in Ukraine at the weekend with an assured 3-1 victory.

The Scots last triumphed in this fixture in 1999, but hopes of a 42nd win appeared ominously faint as Phil Foden's opener silenced the national stadium before Bellingham was gifted a second three minutes later.

A shaken Scotland eventually awoke the home crowd as Harry Maguire's lazy leg sent Andy Robertson's cross screeching beyond Aaron Ramsdale.

However, England's classy play and intricate movement would pay once more as Harry Kane slotted home the visitors' third after a mesmeric Bellingham assist.

The first official meeting between these two took place on 30 November 1872 at the West of Scotland Cricket Club.

Six miles and 150 years on, this great rivalry captured the imagination of a Scottish public with a yearning for victory founded in genuine optimism.

Top of their European Championship qualifying group with five wins from five and facing an England team held by Ukraine on Saturday, head coach Steve Clarke spoke pre-match about the desire to see how much his team had narrowed the gap. In the end, a fluid and ruthless first half from Gareth Southgate's team offered a sobering reply.

Maguire: I can handle the boos

Harry Maguire has told the boo boys that he can handle anything they throw at him.

The England centre-back was mercilessly targeted by Scotland fans during the Three Lions' 3-1 win at Hampden Park on Tuesday night, and a social-media pillorying followed his own-goal in the second half.

England manager Gareth Southgate has slammed the abuse as a "joke", but the defender said: "We knew it would be hostile, and in the second half I got most of it. But I am happy to go with that, don't worry about that. I would not say I am a person who struggles with pressure mentally.

"I have been through a lot in the past couple of years and I have been Manchester United captain for nearly four years.

"You take on a huge amount of responsibility and everything that comes with it—a lot of bad as well as good. It was a hostile environment at Hampden and they piled pressure on me. I would not say I am 'used to it' but I can deal with it."

England fans at the match rallied to Maguire's defence, as did his team-mates afterwards – defensive partner Lewis Dunk described the treatment as "unfair" and "very harsh" – but Maguire insisted that he can cope.

He added: "It pretty much takes the pressure away from my team-mates and puts it all on myself. It makes them play better, for sure."
