Stormont finally back in business

■ Northern Ireland's parties settle their differences to reopen assembly - with a Sinn Féin member as First Minister

The Northern Ireland Assembly is finally set to re-open this weekend after the Democratic Unionist Party (DUP) ended its boycott of the power-sharing institutions.

And in a dramatic first for the province, the First Minister is set to be Sinn Féin's Michelle O'Neill, a Republican whose ultimate goal is the reunification of the north with the Irish republic.

The assembly leader of the largest party automatically becomes the first minister, and Sinn Féin won more seats than any other party - for the first time - in the devolved elections in Northern Ireland in May 2022. It will be a moment heavy with history as O'Neill takes up her post.

The DUP leader Sir Jeffrey Donaldson wrote to the Speaker following the passage of legislation in the House of Commons on Thursday.

The legislation will mean no routine checks on British goods being sold to consumers in Northern Ireland.

Saturday marks two years to the day since the DUP collapsed the executive.

The party's boycott was in protest over trade arrangements after Brexit.

It had demanded changes to the way goods are traded between Northern Ireland and Great Britain in order for it to end its Stormont standoff.

'strong government'

On Thursday evening, Speaker Alex Maskey wrote to all assembly members, summoning them to a sitting at 13:00 GMT on Saturday.

Secretary of State Chris Heaton-Harris said he was delighted that the DUP have "taken this next step to work with the other Northern Ireland parties to recall the assembly".

He added: "I look forward to working with the new first minister, deputy first minister, and all the ministers in a returned Northern Ireland Executive, alongside Northern Ireland assembly members, to improve the lives of people living here."

On Monday night, the DUP's 120-strong executive agreed to endorse a deal to return to Stormont pending the passage of legislation at Westminster.

"Following the completion of detailed internal party processes with my party officers, all our elected members and DUP peers in the Lords, as well as the government having taken the legislative steps required of it, we are now able to re-establish the Northern Ireland Assembly and the Northern Ireland Executive", Sir Jeffrey said on Thursday.

Speaking earlier during Thursday's debate in the House of Commons, Mr Chris Heaton-Harris said that when Stormont is up and running Northern Ireland politicians "will be able to deliver strong government, make the right decisions for Northern Ireland and make Northern Ireland a much more prosperous place".

Of the deal agreed earlier this week, he said: "Crucially, this legislation will also change the law so that new regulatory borders between Great Britain and Northern Ireland cannot emerge through future agreements with the European Union.

"This is an important new safeguard to futureproof Northern Ireland's constitutional status."

Sir Jeffrey told the Commons that the NI Protocol "undermined the principle of consent" in the eyes of unionists, which he said was "at the heart of the Good Friday Agreement".

He added: "The new measures and legislation reset the balance so it is the principle of consent and the will of the people of Northern Ireland alone that will determine the future of our country as part of the United Kingdom."

Steve Baker, minister of state for Northern Ireland, said the institutional arrangements for Stormont and the government's £3.3bn financial package represented a big opportunity for Northern Ireland.

"If Northern Ireland politicians reach out and grasp the opportunity before them - my goodness, they can make Northern Ireland a beacon before the world, a beacon of prosperity, I hope a beacon of reconciliation, and these regulations today are part of that process," he said.

Migration surge will help boost UK population by 10% in 12 years, claims new study

The UK population could reach nearly 74 million by 2036 with net migration fuelling the rise, figures suggest.

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) projects the population will increase by 6.6 million people (9.9%) between 2021 and 2036.

This includes a net migration of 6.1 million people and about 500,000 more births than deaths.

The figures say there could be an additional one million people aged 85 and over in the UK by 2036.

A Number 10 spokesman said Prime Minister Rishi Sunak thought legal migration had been too high and that it "must come down quickly."

The projected population growth to about 73.7 million, from the latest estimate of 67 million, is faster than the previous calculation and comes after net migration to the UK hit a record 745,000 in 2022.

The figures suggest the UK population could hit 70 million by the middle of 2026 - a decade sooner than projections published in 2022.

During the period between mid-2021 and mid-2036, the ONS's projections suggest:

- 10.8 million people will be born
- 10.3 million people will die
- 13.7 million people will immigrate long term to the UK

• 7.6 million people will emigrate long term from the UK

ONS projections are used to calculate the likely demand for housing and public services.

Statisticians are now working on the assumption that from 2028 net migration will contribute 315,000 extra people to the UK per year, an increase greater than the population of Doncaster.

Home Secretary James Cleverly has announced that planned restrictions on foreign care workers bringing dependants to the UK will come into force on 11 March.

Additionally, the

CROWDED ISLAND: the UK's population is expected to reach 74m by 2036 minimum salary required for those arriving on skilled worker visas will rise from £26,200 to £38,700 on 4 April.

Mr Cleverly said: "I've been clear that migration is too high and we must get back to sustainable levels.

"Last year I set out robust measures to reduce the numbers coming into our country, tightening the rules on care workers, skilled workers and making sure that people can support their family members that they bring over."

Tom Pursglove, minister for legal migration, said the measures would make a "tangible difference" and showed the government was "already acting in response to these sorts of figures".

But Stephen Kinnock, Labour's shadow immigration minister, said the latest figures reflected "14 years of Conservative failure on the economy and immigration".

"Labour would reform the points-based immigration system to boost training and better link it to the needs of the economy," he added.

Hunt defiant as IMF tells UK it can't afford tax cuts

Jeremy Hunt has vowed to forge ahead with tax cuts, in the face of warnings Britain's growing debt pile and ageing population makes them unaffordable.

The Chancellor insisted "smart reductions" in the spring would fire up the economy and boost

But he was forced to defend his tax-cutting plans after the International Monetary Fund warned the UK would need to generate higher revenues to meet escalating spending demands on public services.

In an intervention just six weeks before Mr Hunt's pre-election budget, an IMF spokesman said: "It is in this context that staff advise against further tax cuts."

The Chancellor and PM Rishi Sunak have dropped strong hints of tax cut announcements on March 6. Mr Hunt is said to have around £14billion "headroom" - some analysts predict it could be as much as £20billion - to play with.

But IMF officials describe spending plans after 2024-25 as "very challenging" because of the "well known demands in health and social care".

The body believes the UK economy will grow by 0.6% this year, the second slowest in the G7 after Germany.

Growth in 2025 is expected to rise to 1.6% - a downgrade from the October forecast of 2%.

Mr Hunt said: "The IMF expects growth to strengthen over the next few years, supported by our introduction of the biggest capital investment tax reliefs anywhere in the world, alongside national insurance cuts to improve work incentives.

"It is too early to know whether further reductions in tax will be affordable in the Budget, but we continue to believe that smart tax reductions can make a big difference in boosting growth."

Last year the IMF faced humiliation after misjudging its forecast that Britain would go into recession.

Meanwhile, independent economist Julian Jessop said Mr Hunt should "ignore" its latest predictions.

He added: "Tax cuts that encourage work, entrepreneurship and investment could be just what the economy needs."

Former Tory Cabinet minister Jacob Rees-Mogg said: "The IMF's forecasts of the UK economy are woefully inaccurate, so it is often best to do the reverse of its advice."

The IMF has also predicted the Bank of England will start cutting interest rates from its current level of 5.25% in the second half of the year - later than many other forecasts.

Rates are expected to fall to 4.75% by the end of 2024.

It added UK inflation was likely to keep falling to around 2.3% in the second quarter, from 4% in December amid a "soft landing" for the global economy.

Charles out of hospital - but no work for now

■ King will carry out no royal engagements for at least a month as he recovers from surgery

THE King will not carry out royal engagements for at least a month as he continues to recover from surgery in hospital.

Charles underwent a procedure for an enlarged prostate on Friday at The London Clinic and returned home to recuperate on Monday.

Treatment is understood to have been a success.

Aides have been told he will be available for state matters while in hospital and can attend to red boxes with Government papers when he is discharged.

But they have also removed engagements from his diary until the end of February to allow him to regain full strength before a return to full duties in March.

'doing his best'

Queen Camilla was full of smiles at the hospital in central London on Monday, arriving by car just before midday.

She appeared to be in high spirits as she entered the hospital.

It is the same one where the Princess of Wales, 42, is being cared for following abdominal surgery, and it is understood the Queen visited both patients.

She said the King was "doing well" before leaving at 3.10pm on her first visit. She left at 7.06pm on the second.

At an official engagement later that week, Camilla said Charles was "doing his best" to recuperate.

Her update came as she attended the official launch of Maggie's cancer support centre at London's Royal Free Hospital.

As the Queen toured the new £6m centre,

ALL SMILES: Charles and Camilla leave the London Clinic on Monday. The King stayed there for three nights following his surgery last Friday hospital donor Sir Gerald Ronson asked after the King's health.

Buckingham Palace said: "His Majesty would like to thank all those who have sent their good wishes over the past week."

Referring to increased public awareness of men's prostate problems as a result, the Palace added that the King was "delighted to learn that his diagnosis is having a positive impact on public health awareness".

Brand rejects sexual assault allegations

RUSSELL Brand has said accusations of sexual assault made against him are "very, very hurtful". The actor and comedian has denied allegations of rape, sexual assault and emotional abuse between 2006 and 2013.

In his first interview since the claims emerged six months ago, the 48-year-old gave a rambling 45-minute performance where he referenced the allegations he faces.

The self-confessed former sex addict told American chat host Tucker Carlson in an online conversation: "I reject the allegations in the strongest possible terms."

The former Hollywood ace admitted the sex crimes he is accused of are "appalling" but claimed he was the victim of a "deliberate profound attempt to shut down any dissent in an astonishingly aggressive way". He claimed governments around the globe had conspired to "shut down and destroy" him.

He has been questioned by the Metropolitan Police in relation to nine alleged offences. The Met said last month its inquiries were continuing.

BRAND: "I reject the allegations in the strongest possible terms."

Dad-of-three Brand previously boasted: "It's the scale of my sexual endeavours that causes all the problems. I'm a bloke from Grays with a good job and a terrific haircut who's been given a Wonka ticket to a lovely sex factory cos of the ol' fame."

But he insists despite his promiscuity all encounters were consensual.

During his discussion with Carlson, Brand said the furore erupted last September while his baby boy was in hospital.

He revealed: "My son was born with a heart condition, while this was happening he was undergoing heart surgery at 12 weeks old."

In addition to police inquiries, the BBC is also investigating Brand's behaviour while working for Radio 2.

It emerged last weekend that despite his claims of being cancelled as a result of the sexual assault allegations, he continues to make nearly £5million per year from posting his controversial content online.

Brits lead the pack in Olympic ticket buys

TEAM GB can be sure of a big crowd at the Paris Olympics this summer as British fans lead the way with the most ticket purchases outside of France.

So far Brits have snapped up 480,000 of the 7.6 million tickets already sold for the Games – significantly ahead of runners-up US and Germany.

Paris 2024 chief executive Étienne Thobois attributed the huge interest to the lingering impact of London 2012 and the fact that the French capital is so close.

He added: “We are more than happy to see the Brits come in force to cheer for the athletes of the world in Paris.

“We are looking forward to welcoming them to Paris. There are still tickets for the Olympics and Paralympics. We are waiting for you.”

He expressed sadness that Great Britain had not qualified for the women’s football tournament, given the popularity of the team and the fact there are 2.5 million tickets for the men’s and women’s events.

He added: “The British women’s football team would have been interesting competitors.

“It will be an exciting tournament. The French, the USA should be there.

“Women’s football is picking up very nicely. But it is a shame the British are not involved too.”

Paris 2024 will take place from July 26 until August 11, and will be followed by the Paralympics from August 28 to September 8. Organisers said supporters from 197 countries have so far secured tickets from the 10 million available.

Dinner party guest? Brits want Sir David on a plate!

IT’S the classic ice breaker question: who would you invite to your dream dinner party?

And it appears that national treasure Sir David Attenborough has come out on top as the nation’s most in-demand guest, a poll reveals.

Family tree company Findmypast asked the public to create a shortlist of ideal dinner guests – dead or alive – and 18% said they’d want the 97-year-old at the table.

Princess Diana was the number two choice, with 17% desperate to meet her, 26 years on from her tragic death in 1997. In joint third place was Queen frontman Freddie Mercury, who died in 1991, the late Queen Elizabeth and US comic and actor Robin Williams, who all polled 13%.

Next up was comedian Peter Kay in sixth place with Stephen Fry in eighth, only Jesus Christ in seventh keeping the funny men apart.

Rock star David Bowie and sex symbol Marilyn Monroe make up the top 10.

The Findmypast survey found that the ideal dinner party guest would be able to keep the conversation flowing (according to 38%) while minding their manners (32%) and bringing fascinating stories to the table (32%).

Having a good anecdote up your sleeve is key too and Sir David (23%), Stephen Fry and Sir Winston Churchill were judged most likely to keep guests enthralled.

Meanwhile, Gordon Ramsay is top choice to prepare the food with Freddie providing the mood music.

Measles: urgent action needed to stop outbreak spreading across towns and cities, say health experts

■ Vaccine hesitancy to blame for loss of herd immunity, say health experts

A WORRYING spike in measles infections in recent months has prompted NHS health chiefs to urge the public to get their children vaccinated with the MMR (measles, mumps, rubella) jab.

Not long ago the disease, which is highly contagious, was considered to no longer be a public health issue in the UK, but in recent years it has reappeared due to falling vaccination rates.

Herd immunity against measles is usually achieved when a baseline of 90% of the population have been inoculated, but due to recent vaccination scares many parts of Britain now falling below that 90% threshold. The West Midlands, where vaccination rates are now below 80%, has been particularly badly hit.

A national incident has been declared by the authorities signalling the

INFECTION HOTSPOT: New figures show 75% of all new measles cases in the past three months have been in the West Midlands growing public health risk, with authorities claiming urgent action is needed to stop further outbreaks of measles across towns and cities.

Official figures show there have been 216 confirmed and 103 probable measles cases in the West Midlands since last October.

Around 80% of cases were identified in Birmingham and about 10% in Coventry, with the majority being in children aged under 10.

Separate data indicated there were 1,603 suspected cases of measles in England and Wales in 2023 - up from 735 in 2022, and just 360 the year before.

Public Health Scotland said there have been “very few” cases north of the border.

Measles spreads very easily among those who are unvaccinated, especially in nurseries and schools.

The most serious cases can lead to hospitalisation and even death.

People in certain vulnerable groups including babies and young children, pregnant women, and people with weakened immunity, are at increased risk of complications from measles.

Safe home: Japanese Macaque AWOL in Cairngorms

A monkey which had been missing in the Highlands for more than five days has been recaptured.

The seven-year-old male Japanese macaque - called Honshu - escaped from the Highland Wildlife Park at Kincaig, near Aviemore, on Sunday.

Stephanie Bunyan, who lives nearby, spotted the monkey in her garden on Thursday morning and contacted the Royal Zoological Society of Scotland (RZSS).

A drone team observed the animal until he was shot with a tranquiliser dart and taken back to the park.

CHEEKY MONKEY: Honshu went walkabout

RZSS, which runs the Highland Wildlife Park, received Ms Bunyan’s call at about 10:00.

She told BBC Scotland News: “I saw a little, sad macaque just looking straight in the window at me.

“I don’t know if he wanted to come in or not.”

Alan Bannon, RZSS head of communications, said it was a relief to finally capture the monkey.

He said: “We got a phone call from a member of the public saying they had spotted the animal in their garden helping himself to a bird feeder.”

Mr Bannon said the monkey had been brought safely back to the park where it would be checked by vets before being given a “good feed”.

Keith Gilchrist, the wildlife park’s living collections operations manager, said Honshu would be reintroduced to other adults within the troop.

He added: “We want to thank everyone who has helped during the process and will continue to share any further updates.”

XL Bully ban comes into effect

■ Thousands of unregistered dogs face being put down if owners resist attempts to seize the animals

THOUSANDS of unregistered XL Bully dogs face being put down if owners resist attempts to seize the animals, a police chief has warned.

Following a registration deadline this week, it is now a criminal offence to own an XL Bully in England and Wales without an exemption certificate.

It is expected around 40,000 of the US bulldog-type breed were registered before Monday's deadline.

However, officials believe tens of thousands – most likely to be in the hands of criminals – have not.

National Police Chiefs' Council lead on dangerous dogs, Mark Hobrough, urged people to report any XL Bully owners who have not followed the rules, so officers can assess the animals.

Seized dogs will be taken to kennels before a court decides if they should be either destroyed or deemed not a danger to public safety.

Gwent Police Assistant Chief Constable Mr Hobrough said: "We

NO MESSING AROUND: the XL Bully is believed to be responsible for at least 20 deaths by mauling in the UK in the past three years didn't create the law, but we do enforce the law.

"We will have to execute warrants and seize dogs and take action towards such dog owners." He added: "I would strongly encourage people to be compliant because one of the very tests [in court] is that the dog is not aggressive, but also that the owner is fit and responsible and not aggressive also.

"So if either of those things were not complied with, there would be no option for a court then but to destroy the dog."

Mr Hobrough admitted the new legislation may spark higher demand for kennels and cause "logistical challenges" for officers.

But he insisted forces were "actively looking to enhance" the numbers they could hold.

There are 137 dog legislation officers across the country, with at least one in every force.

Ministers moved to ban XL Bullies following a series of fatal attacks.

The RSPCA estimates there are between 50,000 and 100,000 of the dogs in the UK.

Tearful Sturgeon talks of Covid regrets

Nicola Sturgeon choked back tears this week as she admitted part of her wishes she had not been Scotland's First Minister during the pandemic.

And the former leader revealed she regrets the loss of life caused by the virus "every single day". She told the UK Covid-19 Inquiry: "I was the First Minister when the pandemic struck.

"There's a large part of me wishes that I hadn't been, but I was, and I wanted to be the best First Minister."

Ms Sturgeon, 53, who quit the top job in March last year, became emotional again as she denied suggestions the Scottish Government had used the pandemic for political purposes.

UK minister Michael Gove has accused the Scottish Government of seeking "political conflict" during the crisis. But a tearful Ms Sturgeon told the inquiry in Edinburgh: "The idea that in those horrendous days, weeks, I was thinking of political opportunity [was] not the case.

"At times...I felt overwhelmed by the scale of what we were dealing with and perhaps more than anything, I felt an overwhelming responsibility to do the best I could...to keep people as safe as possible."

Ms Sturgeon added: "I carry the regret for the loss of life, the loss of opportunity, the loss of education of our young people. I carry that with me every single day."

The inquiry heard Scotland's Government became aware Covid was something to be "very worried about" in late January 2020 and the cabinet first discussed the virus on February 4.

She insisted her Government had been "open, transparent and accountable" in its Covid response.

The inquiry continues.

you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. Step three, you must submit a written bid along with the funds constituting the bid payable in lawful money of the United States, in the form of cash, a cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, or savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state so that the trustee receives the bid and the funds no later than 5 p.m. on the 45th day after the trustee's sale. Bids will only be accepted from an eligible tenant buyer or eligible bidder who has submitted a timely NOI in accordance with

Step two above. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. CRICKET/FORMULA ONE

Pope infallible as England stun India

The England cricket team have started the year in the best possible fashion by grinding out a remarkable victory against India in the First Test in Hyderabad.

Their hosts are considered the toughest Test team in the world on home soil, losing only four times in more than a decade in the subcontinent.

And it certainly looked like normal service would continue as India built a sizeable first innings lead of 190.

But Ben Stokes's men refused to back down, and lifted by a heroic 196 from Ollie Pope and a devastating spell from spinner Tom Hartley, they turned that deficit around to clinch an unforgettable 28 run victory.

India, used to having things their own way on their patch and seemingly gripped by a collective malaise, froze in defence as England swarmed to bowl them out for 202.

razor-sharp

Fittingly, Hartley provided the winning moment when Mohammed Siraj was stumped by Ben Foakes on a wild jaunt down the track as he ended with figures of 7-62.

England's fielding was also razor-sharp, Pope following his game-changing knock with two fine close catches off Hartley and captain Stokes pulling off an instinctive run out to pile on the pressure. Starting on 316-6, England added another 104 to finish 420 all out - their highest second-innings score in India since 1961.

Pope was unbeaten on 148 overnight and added another 48 before he was last man out. He perished in fitting style, attempting to reach a deserved double century with an over-the-shoulder ramp, only to lose his off stump to Jasprit Bumrah.

He had earlier enjoyed a vital stand of 80 with Hartley, who made an enterprising 34 to kick off his special day.

England almost had the perfect start to their hunt for 10 wickets, Mark Wood coming close in a solitary over with the new ball when he took Rohit Sharma's edge.

Agonisingly, the catch slipped through Zak Crawley's fingers at slip and skipped through for four.

Stokes still took the seamer off and threw Hartley straight into the action against Yashasvi Jaiswal, the man who had launched his first Test delivery into the stands on Thursday.

Unbowed by his tough start, Hartley found a groove and savoured a moment of redemption when Jaiswal flicked a delivery firmly into Pope's hands at short leg.

underdog tale

Two balls later the pair teamed up again to send Shubman Gill packing for a duck, Hartley tossing it up and Pope staying low to hang on at silly point. England were buzzing but the presence of Sharma gave cause for concern.

top-scorer Ravindra Jadeja for two, it was a hammer blow.

Shreyas Iyer prodded Leach to slip on 13 but at 119-7 with little room for further error, India finally regained their composure through a 57-run stand between Srikar Bharat and Ravi Ashwin.

With stumps just around the corner, Hartley forced his way back into the spotlight, ripping one past Bharat's outside edge and into the top of off stump.

That was enough encouragement for the umpires to grant the extra half-hour, which gave Hartley the stage to complete his underdog tale.

Within seconds Ashwin was stumped charging down the track, a mistake Siraj would replicate with only four balls left in the day to spark joyous celebrations at one of the great England victories.

He swept his way to 39 before Hartley made his biggest impact yet, turning a couple before sliding one straight into the opener's front pad. The Indian called for DRS but threw his head back in horror as the verdict confirmed his fate.

India promoted Axar Patel from number nine to five, steering their way to tea at 95-3, but four balls after the restart Patel fed a low caught-and-bowled straight back to Hartley. KL Rahul, having scratched out 22, stayed back in his crease and was lbw to Joe Root, taking a review with him for good measure.

And when Stokes brilliantly dived and threw down the stumps to run out first-innings

Hamilton in shock move to Ferrari

Lewis Hamilton has shocked Formula One by announcing a dramatic move to Ferrari in 2025.

The English superstar, who will be 40 at the start of next season, made the shock decision only a few weeks after telling reporters he would stay with longtime employers Mercedes for the rest of his racing life.

Hamilton's move to Ferrari has happened quickly. Three weeks ago, the Italian team were in negotiations with Carlos Sainz to extend his contract to continue after this season alongside Charles Leclerc.

But then Ferrari president John Elkann was made aware Hamilton could be available - which, given the seven-time champion had only signed a new two-year Mercedes contract a few months earlier, was news to Elkann.

Talks began soon afterwards and have concluded quickly, leaving Hamilton in the undeniably tricky position of heading into the new season with the world - and his current employers - knowing his heart is now elsewhere.

Hamilton's decision has echoes of Fernando Alonso's choice to join McLaren the first time. That contract was signed in late 2005, for a move in 2007 - Alonso still had a year on his Renault contract to run.

It did not seem to bother either him or his team, with Alonso winning his second consecutive title for the French outfit in 2006 before his departure.

Klopp leaving forces future re-think, says Van Dijk

VIRGIL VAN DIJK admitted he does not know if he will be part of the post-Jürgen Klopp era at Liverpool as he waits on the Reds' next move.

The defender and club captain has just 18 months left on his contract and his future is up in the air.

Manager Klopp dropped the bombshell news on Friday that he is leaving Liverpool this summer after what will be almost nine years in charge.

The Reds are now in the hunt for a successor, with former midfielder Xabi Alonso considered the front runner.

It is set to be a summer

TIGHT BOND: Klopp and Van Dijk share a strong mutual respect of major upheaval with Klopp's assistants Pep Lijnders and Peter Krawietz also heading out the exit door along with the development coach Vitor Matos.

Van Dijk, who turns 33 in July, will enter the last year of his contract in the summer, and is not sure what direction the club will go in.

When it was put to him that he has just 18 months left, he said: "That is correct – good maths. Listen, I don't know. The club will have a big job on their hands to replace not only the manager but the staff, and there are so many things that will change. and I am very curious which direction that will go in. "But we will see our situation when that will be announced. I can't say now."

It could be interpreted that Van Dijk is waiting to see if the club are keen for him to extend as the Reds have recently been reluctant to hand out long-term deals to players in their 30s. Or it could be that Van Dijk is wary of committing, given his bond with Klopp and wants to know who the next man in charge will be.

When asked if he sees himself as part of the new era, Van Dijk said: "That's a big question. Well, I don't know."

Like the Dutchman, Mo Salah and Trent Alexander-Arnold have deals that expire at the end of next season, while Joel Matip, Thiago Alcantara and Adrian are out of contract this summer.

Van Dijk insists the focus remains on providing a glorious finale to the Klopp era. He said: "Obviously it will be the end of Jürgen Klopp's era. I am very glad that I am still part of it. That is my main focus now."

Heavy sesh costs Rashford dearly

Marcus Rashford was left pondering a financial hangover this week after being hit with one of the biggest club fines in Premier League history.

The Manchester United striker was reportedly sanctioned two weeks' wages, totalling £650,000, following an alleged drinking session in Belfast that saw him miss training last Friday.

The England striker, 26, was subsequently dropped by United manager Erik ten Hag for the FA Cup fourth round tie at Newport County on Sunday, which they won 4-2, although he was back in the team for their 4-3 Premier League humdinger against Wolves on Thursday.

Rashford reportedly engaged in a two-day drinking session that led him to miss training.

United said in a statement: "Marcus has taken responsibility for his actions. This has been dealt with as an internal disciplinary matter, which is now closed."

Video footage appears to show the England star partying at Thompson's Garage nightclub in Belfast last Wednesday and Thursday nights.

He is alleged to have downed shots of tequila and was so drunk he passed out fully clothed at 3am on the first night. It is then said he flew home in a private jet at 7am on Friday and reported ill for training that day.

Ten Hag said: "He reported ill. The rest is an internal matter and I will deal with that."

But Rashford – who is managed by his two older brothers Dwaine and Dane – was back at the Carrington training ground on Sunday.

It is understood that Ten Hag, football director John Murtough and interim chief executive Patrick Stewart met with the footballer and one of his brothers to discuss his behaviour.

Rashford's visit to Belfast coincided with his friend Ro-Shaun Williams signing for the Northern Ireland club Larne, which publicized Marcus's visit on social media.

PREMIER LEAGUE: Young star grabs late winner as United edge a classic Kobbie Mainoo scored a 97th-minute winner as Manchester United beat Wolverhampton Wanderers 4-3 at Molineux in a Premier League classic on Thursday.

Mainoo curled his first Premier League goal past Jose Sa, just seconds after Pedro Neto appeared to have snatched a point for Wolves.

Wolves pulled themselves level having been 2-0 down at half-time and 3-1 behind on 85 minutes, but United took the three points thanks to 18-year-old Mainoo, who picked the ball up on the left, nutmegged Max Kilman and cut inside before bending the ball into the bottom corner.

Marcus Rashford had opened the scoring five minutes into his United return, having been absent from the FA Cup fourth round with illness amid reports he had missed training following a night out in Belfast, before Rasmus Hojlund doubled the lead.

Pablo Sarabia pulled one back from the penalty spot, before Scott McTominay seemingly made it safe for the visitors by heading in a corner with 15 minutes left shortly after coming on as a second-half substitute.

But that was only the start of the late chaos.

Wolves captain Kilman ensured a grandstand finish by scoring from close range following a corner.

Then, in the sixth of nine added minutes, Neto struck home past the wrong-footed Andre Onana as United were caught on the break.

Wolves celebrated wildly - but it proved premature as Mainoo had the final word in a remarkable game.

Erik ten Hag's side move back into the top seven after ending a run of four away league matches without winning and are now eight points

Marcus Rashford opened the scoring for United against Wolves off the Champions League places, while Wolves stay 11th.

Rashford's connection with Luke Shaw looked refreshed, with the England duo combining in the Wolves area before the left-back set up Hojlund for the second. The striker slid in to finish from close range from Shaw's low cross as the Wolves defence failed to clear.

Indeed, the entire United team was seemingly renewed as they swarmed Wolves in the first 45 minutes. Hojlund was unlucky not to make it three when he charged down a Sa clearance, and both he and Casemiro had goals ruled out by the offside flag.

But United's issues with inconsistency were laid bare after the break as Wolves were allowed to get back in the game - and ultimately they were left to rely on another academy product in Mainoo to bail them out.

Arteta dismisses Barca talk

Mikel Arteta has strongly rebuffed rumours linking him to Barcelona, saying "that's totally fake news."

A Spanish newspaper report claimed that Arteta had told backroom staff that he would be heading to Barcelona in the summer after current head coach Xavi announced he would step down from his role at the end of the season, citing a change in dynamic being needed for the Spanish giants.

This is not the first time Arteta has been linked to the job, but this was the most adamant the Arsenal manager has been in response.

"What you read yesterday, I don't know where it's coming from, and it's totally untrue. I'm really upset about it," he said on Monday.

"I could not believe it. I don't know where it's coming from, it has no source and I think we have to be very cautious when we talk about personal things to put it in the way it was put yesterday.

"I'm in the right place with the right people, and I feel really good about it. As I said many times, I'm on a beautiful journey with this football club: our players, our staff and our people and there is still a lot to do."

Arteta's existing contract at Arsenal expires in 2025, at the end of the next season, and asked whether talks about an extension have begun, he said: "No we haven't, but this is something that would happen naturally when it has to happen.

"I've got a strong relationship with the board, Edu and the ownership. Things come in a natural way. When the time is right, we will have those discussions.

"There is a lot to do here. We all share that ambition and you can feel that we want more, that we're not satisfied and the club wants to take another push in everything we are doing. This is where we are and we need everybody on board to achieve it and I'm certainly on board."
