Tributes flow as legendary BBC DJ Steve Wright dies

■ Long serving radio personality enjoyed huge success with 'Steve Wright in the Afternoon'

TRIBUTES poured in this week following the shock death of broadcasting giant Steve Wright at the age of 69.

His heartbroken family made the announcement in a statement that stunned the entertainment world as well as millions of radio listeners.

Wright shot to national fame in the early 1980s with his groundbreaking BBC One show 'Steve Wright In the Afternoon', and remained a fixture at the broadcaster for almost 40 years.

Wright's family said: "It is with deep sorrow and profound regret we announce the passing of our beloved Steve Wright.

"In addition to his son Tom and daughter Lucy, Steve leaves behind his brother Laurence and his father Richard.

"Also, much-loved close friends and colleagues, and millions of devoted radio listeners who had the good fortune and great pleasure of allowing Steve into their daily lives as one of the UK's most enduring and popular radio personalities."

Several BBC colleagues were left in tears by the announcement.

Radio 2 travel presenter Bobbie Pryor – part of Wright's "posse" on his afternoon show – started sobbing and had to stop her report after DJ Sara Cox announced his death just after 5pm.

An emotional Sara said: "It's really hard to know what to say about the news of Steve Wright's passing, except we are all shocked and devastated and blindsided by this news. Steve was an extraordinary broadcaster, a really kind person, he was witty, he was warm, and he was a huge, huge part of the Radio 2 family, and I know my fellow DJs will all be absolutely shattered too.

devoted to radio

"We've all lost a lovely friend who has been a big part of our lives for so many years."

Steve spent the last 40 years on BBC Radio, starting on Radio 1 where he hosted 'Steve Wright in the Afternoon' from 1981. In 1996 he began presenting a Saturday programme and Sunday Love Songs on Radio 2, before being given the afternoon show on the station in 1999 – a slot he would keep until 2022.

His last two shows were broadcast at the weekend when he hosted 'Pick Of The Pops' on Saturday and 'Steve Wright's Sunday Love Songs'.

He signed off on the latter, pre-recorded show with: "That's it for today...I'm back for more love songs next Sunday. Ta-da then."

Born in Greenwich, south-east London, in 1954 Steve started at the BBC as a clerk. His broadcasting career was launched in 1976 when he joined Thames Valley Radio. He went back to the BBC in 1980 and fronted radio and television programmes, including 'Top of the Pops', meeting many singing legends along the way.

Little was known about his private life, although he was married to Cyndi Robinson until their divorce in 1999.

He claimed he did not have time to look for a new partner because he was so devoted to radio,

In 2022 Wright quit his popular mid-afternoon Radio 2 show live on air, claiming he was forced out by BBC bosses after 24

He told his loyal listeners: "That's the way it goes. You know, sometimes people want you, sometimes they don't."

Following this death the station played Steve's favourite songs as listeners sent in their tributes.

'creative whirlwind'

DJ Jo Whiley wrote on X: "What a man. What a legend. The broadcaster's one of the kindest, loveliest people I've had the pleasure to work with...Can't believe we won't meet in the bowels of MV for our weekly catch up. Love ya Wrighty."

On her Radio 2 show at 7pm she said it was "very strange" to be talking about his death given she had seen him "days ago".

She added: "I mean, Steve was the soundtrack to our lives wasn't he?"

Scott Mills, who replaced Wright in the afternoons, wrote on X: "Steve, you're the best to ever do it."

Former Radio 2 presenter Simon Mayo said: "Just watching his show was breathtaking. A fabulous creative whirlwind of a presenter."

Ken Bruce, who left Radio 2 last year for a commercial station, said he was "totally shocked. We were planning lunch to celebrate the award of his richly deserved MBE. An outstanding and innovative broadcaster whose listeners loved him. What a loss to the world of radio."

Paul Gambaccini said: "He was not only the best at what he did, he was basically the only at what he did." Tony Blackburn said: "I will miss him terribly."

Dame Esther Rantzen, who was a guest on Steve's shows, said: "He created a kind of club which whether he was interviewing you or whether you were enjoying it as a listener, you looked forward to joining every day. It is a very rare quality, and he made it sound easy. It was frequently very funny, and when he left his daily afternoon show he really knocked a hole in the day for many of us who relied on his company."

Piers Morgan wrote on X that Wright was a "master of his craft" and added: "I absolutely loved him, on and off air. Thanks for all the wonderful entertainment, Steve."

Labour dumps by-election candidate following his controversial Israel claims

LABOUR has withdrawn its support a controversial candidate in a by-election following an uproar over his remarks about Israel and its campaign in Gaza.

Azhar Ali was dumped by the party's executive committee on Tuesday just 24 hours after giving him their backing.

Mr Ali had apologized for the remarks after he was recorded suggesting in a meeting of the Lancashire Labour Party that Israel had taken the October 7 Hamas assault as a pretext to invade Gaza.

The party had at first rallied behind Mr Ali, leading to Tory party chairman Richard Holden putting pressure on Sir Keir Starmer by demanding answers as to why Mr Ali retained his support.

Mr Holden told Labour: "Cllr Azhar Ali is clearly a racist crank who is being protected by Sir Keir."

Labour succumbed with a spokesman saying: "Following new information about further comments made by Azhar Ali coming to light today, the Labour Party has withdrawn its support. Keir Starmer has changed Labour so that it is unrecognisable from the party of 2019.

"We understand that these are highly unusual circumstances, but it is vital that any candidate put forward by Labour fully represents its aims and values.

"Given that nominations have now closed, Azhar Ali cannot be replaced as the candidate."

'deeply offensive'

Labour had come under serious pressure after the previous remarks emerged – with the comments condemned by figures inside the party as well as political opponents.

Sir Keir has sought to move his party on from the Jeremy Corbyn era, which was overshadowed by controversies over anti-Semitism.

But the party leadership had been pressed on why Mr Ali had not been immediately suspended after the comments emerged.

Labour suspended MP Kate Osamor after she appeared to say, on Holocaust Memorial Day, the Gaza war should be remembered as genocide.

It is understood Mr Ali has now been suspended from Labour pending a party investigation.

The decision to withdraw backing for the candidate will come as a blow to Sir Keir, who had hoped to retain the seat following the death last month of sitting MP Sir Tony Lloyd.

Mr Ali, who is also a Lancashire county councillor, has apologised to the Jewish community and retracted his remarks, which he described as "deeply offensive, ignorant and false".

Frontbenchers Lisa Nandy and Anneliese Dodds had been out campaigning for him in the constituency at the weekend. Earlier shadow minister Nick Thomas-Symonds said he believed Mr Ali, had fallen "for an online conspiracy theory".

Labour's decision will add considerable uncertainty to the outcome of the by-election when voters go to the polls on February 29.

Also running in Rochdale are Simon

PERSONA NON GRATA: Azhar Ali suggested Israel knew in advance about the October 7th Hamas attack and used it as a pretext to invade Gaza Danczuk, the Reform Party candidate, and George Galloway.

The Workers Party of Britain candidate is campaigning against Labour's stance on Gaza, with Mr Galloway saying: "It doesn't make much difference on the ground because I'm going to beat them anyway."

Mr Danczuk, who used to be the town's Labour MP, said Mr Ali only decided the comments were wrong "after he got caught out" and said his apology was "wholly inadequate".

Home Secretary James Cleverly had ridiculed Labour in saying: "I'm not sure 'our candidate believed and repeated a vile and clearly anti-Semitic smear that he saw on the internet' is quite the defence that Labour thinks it is."

Anti-Jewish incidents at record level in UK

MORE than 4,000 anti-Semitic incidents were recorded in the UK by a Jewish charity in 2023 – a new high after a surge following the Hamas attacks on Israel.

The total was almost double the previous record of 2021, said the The Community Security Trust.

Chief executive Mark Gardner said: "The explosion in hatred is an absolute disgrace.

"It occurs in schools, universities, workplaces, on the streets and all over social media.

"We condemn the stony silence from those sections of society that eagerly call out racism in every other case, except when it comes to Jew hate."

The charity's report said: "Of the 4,103 instances of anti-Jewish hate reported, 2,699 – 66% – occurred on or after October 7.

"The speed at which anti-Semites mobilised in the UK on and immediately after October 7 suggests that, initially at least, this increase in anti-Jewish hate was a celebration of the Hamas attack on Israel, rather than anger at Israel's military response in Gaza."

Incidents included the defacing with swastikas of a poster in London of a baby kidnapped by Hamas and a Jewish man being verbally abused and threatened by people who were attending a pro-Palestinian demonstration.

The charity said that it had, for the first time, recorded at least one anti-Semitic incident in every single police region in the UK across 2023.

CST said it had recorded 3,328 incidents of abusive behaviour, 266 of assault, 305 of threats and 182 of damage and desecration.

Almost a fifth of incidents where the offender or offenders' approximate age was provided involved perpetrators thought to be under 18.

Home Secretary James Cleverly described the rise in anti-Semitism in recent months as "utterly deplorable" and said he "will do everything in my power" to ensure the Jewish community is safe and feels safe.

Labour's Yvette Cooper, shadow home secretary, said the hate rise was "appalling and intolerable" and a "stain on our society".

Meanwhile, comedian Paul Currie has been banned by London's Soho Theatre after Jewish audience members claimed he demanded they leave his gig there on Saturday night. He allegedly led members of the audience in "discriminatory chanting". Police are investigating.

Charles upbeat after a week convalescing

KING Charles waved to wellwishers as he arrived back in London Tuesday morning for his second bout of cancer treatment.

The monarch, 75, landed at Buckingham Palace in the royal helicopter after spending a week convalescing on his Sandringham estate following his shock diagnosis.

As rain fell the King and Queen were pictured being driven the short journey to Clarence House.

Charles waved to those gathered outside the palace and along the Mall, days after he cheerily smiled and acknowledged royal fans as he attended church in Norfolk on Sunday morning.

The King is being treated as an outpatient at an undisclosed hospital and is expected to remain in London for several days.

While he has postponed all public-facing duties, he is expected to hold face-to-face meetings while in the capital.

Since his cancer diagnosis was revealed last Monday, Charles has continued with his stately duties such as reading his daily Government red boxes and holding his weekly audience with the Prime Minister over the phone.

messages of support

But sources insist he is well enough to hold a limited number of meetings as he is keen to get stuck into work. It is not clear when he will resume his royal engagements, with several staple events such as the annual Commonwealth Day service at Westminster Abbey fast approaching.

If medics decide attending the large-scale event on March 11 is out of the question, he is still expected to attend church on Easter Sunday, March 31.

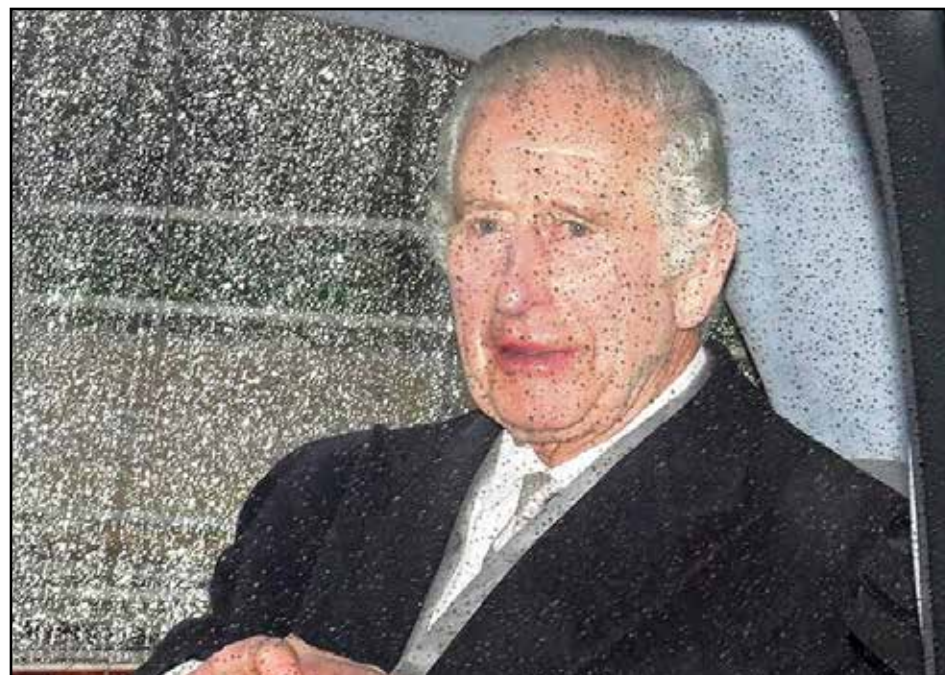

On Saturday the monarch sent his thanks for the messages of support and said he was "heartened" to hear his experience is inspiring others to get themselves checked.

Prince William may step in to represent his father at events and it has been reported he and his family are spending half-term at their Norfolk home Anmer Hall, which is on the King's Sandringham estate.

'incredible supporter'

And Charles' sister Anne has also been helping out by doing investiture ceremonies.

Among those formerly given their awards at

Charles was said to be keen to get back to work after a week at Sandringham

Windsor Castle by the Princess Royal was British Paralympic Association chief executive David Clarke who was made an OBE for his services to paralympic sport.

David, who represented Great Britain's blind football team at the 2012 London Paralympics, said he had a "really good chat" with Anne about the impact of the 2012 Paralympics and the upcoming games in Paris.

He said: "The Princess Royal is well known to be an incredible supporter of Olympic and Paralympic sport and she knows very well what it's like through herself and her daughter to appreciate being in that incredible environment of an Olympics or Paralympics."

Fiennes: let's put an end to theatre trigger warnings

ACTOR Ralph Fiennes wants a ban on trigger warnings at the theatre, saying people have become "too soft".

The English Patient and Schindler's List film star said audiences should be "shocked and disturbed" at shows, adding that warnings "prepare" viewers for storylines, removing the surprise factor.

Fiennes, 61, is starring in an immersive production of Macbeth, having previously won a Tony award for best actor in Shakespeare's Hamlet in 1995. He has insisted the show does not have trigger warnings.

Speaking to the BBC, Fiennes was asked if he believed viewers had gone "too soft", to which he replied: "I think they have."

"We didn't used to have trigger warnings. There are very disturbing scenes in Macbeth, terrible murders and things, but I think the impact of theatre should be that you're shocked and you should be disturbed.

"I don't think you should be prepared for these things. When I was young we never had trigger warnings.

"Theatre has to be alive and connect in the present. It's this shock, it is the unexpected. That's what makes the act of theatre so exciting."

He believed physical health warnings such as for flashing images should remain.

Trigger warnings, cautioning viewers of potentially disturbing scenes such as suicide, violence, abuse, loud noises and even smoking, have become commonplace before theatre productions or TV shows.

A theatre showing The Sound Of Music warned audiences the performance would depict "the threat of Nazi Germany and the annexation of Austria".

Lord of the Rings star Ian McKellen, 84, last year ridiculed "ludicrous" signs at his own play Frank and Percy at London's The Other Palace.

The theatre's website said the show contained strong language, sexual references and discussions of bereavement and cancer, but McKellen "quite liked to be surprised".

And in 2022 London's The Globe warned viewers of Shakespeare's tragedy Julius Caesar that the centuries-old play contained "depictions of war, self-harm and suicide, stage blood and weapons including knives".

'John Cleese and I haven't spoken in years'

■ Eric Idle reveals depth of rift with his fellow Python

ERIC Idle says he hasn't spoken to fellow Monty Python star John Cleese for seven years.

In a stream of messages on X, formerly Twitter, Eric wrote: "I still love and am proud of what we did as Python. It was a very unique group.

"I think of us as an ex-Liverpool team. We played together well. Way back in the day.

"But it was never very supportive of people's feelings and emotions. Not Brothers. Colleagues."

He also told fans who sent him questions on the social media site that he still had to work for financial reasons.

He revealed he sold his home last year and criticized Holly Gilliam – the TV lawyer daughter of fellow Python Terry Gilliam, 83 – who took over the brand in 2013 as part of HDG Projects Ltd. Eric said: "I don't know why people always assume we're loaded. I have to work for my living.

"I never dreamed that at this age the income streams would tail off so disastrously. I have been working and earning for Pythons since 1995. And now no more."

'it's over'

In a dig at Holly, he added: "I guess if you put a Gilliam child in as your manager you should not be so surprised. One Gilliam is bad enough. Two can take out any company."

He has also fumed: "I don't mind but once they put Gilliam's daughter in as manager and Cleese fires [former manager] Jim Beach, well it's over."

Daughter Lily backed him, writing: "I'm so proud of my dad for finally finally finally starting to share the truth."

In 1969 her dad founded Monty Python with Cleese, Jones, Gilliam, Graham Chapman and Sir Michael Palin. Chapman died in 1989 of tonsil cancer. He was 48.

Idle also created the medieval musical Spamalot, which earned a best musical Tony after being on Broadway, and appeared in Monty Python Live (Mostly) in 2014.

Now based in Los Angeles, he seems

'We always loathed and despised each other' Idle and Cleese in Splitting Heirs (1993) surprised by his downturn in fortunes, writing: "We own everything we ever made in Python." When asked if a Netflix documentary could help, he wrote: "F Netflix and f documentaries."

Days later Cleese hit back at Idle, saying: "We always loathed and despised each other."

Fawlty Towers legend Cleese, 84, also defended Ms Gilliam in a post on X.

He wrote: "I have worked with Holly for the last 10 years, and I find her very efficient, clear-minded, hard-working, and pleasant to have dealings with.

"Michael Palin has asked me to make it clear that he shares this opinion. Terry Gilliam is also in agreement with this." An X user asked Cleese if he had fallen out with Idle. He responded: "We always loathed and despised each other, but it's only recently that the truth has begun to emerge."

Another queried about whether the troupe makes any money from the classic Python episodes, to which Cleese said: "Not what most people assume, no."

"Remember, we did our TV shows for my favourite charity – the BBC."

Tragic Sinead heads Hall of Fame nominees

SINEAD O'Connor has been nominated for the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame alongside Cher, Mariah Carey, Ozzy Osbourne and Oasis.

The late Irish singer, who died in July last year at the age of 56, shot to fame in 1990 with Nothing Compares To U.

British acts Osbourne and Oasis were among the 15 global artists on the long list. It will be narrowed down and successful acts told in April if they have made the Rock Hall at Cleveland, Ohio.

Former hellraiser Osbourne, 75, got the nod as a solo artist, having already been included with Black Sabbath.

He said he was "deeply honoured" and the nomination was something he "could never have imagined".

Nominations also went to Foreigner, Peter Dinklage, the Dave Matthews Band plus Kool & the Gang.

Oasis have been nominated for the first time but it is unlikely Liam and Noel Gallagher would attend together having broken up acrimoniously in 2009.

John Sykes, chairman of the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame Foundation, said: "Continuing in the true spirit of rock'n'roll, these artists have created their own sounds that have impacted generations and influenced countless others that have followed in their footsteps."

Cher – the only artist to have a chart-topper in each of the past six decades – has been nominated before but not inducted. The 77-year-old has said she would not join even if paid "a million dollars" after an apparent snub.

Trouble brews over Britain's growing shortage of tea

THE great British cuppa is in peril as one of the biggest sellers warned of a shortage.

Sainsbury's has cautioned parched shoppers in some stores that there are "nationwide" problems which could affect availability of their favourite brew.

But before anyone starts a revolution, bosses said the problems are "temporary" and the impact on customers will be "minimal". A sign in one store read: "We are experiencing supply issues affecting the nationwide supply of black tea. We apologise for any inconvenience and hope to be back in full supply soon."

It is understood that the supply problems – which are linked to disruption of shipments through the Red Sea – are specifically linked to just one tea supplier. Andrew Opie, of the British Retail Consortium, said: "There is temporary disruption to some black tea lines, but the impact on consumers will be minimal."

Tea is largely produced in Asia and East Africa, with China, India, Sri Lanka and Kenya producing around three-quarters of our favourite drink globally. Shipments from these regions have faced major disruption over the past two months due to attacks in the Red Sea by Houthi rebels. Freight has to be sent around the Cape of Good Hope in Africa, adding as many as 14 days to delivery times.

Dorje Teas said: "We sent shipments to Europe two weeks ago but they are still in port and have not been picked up."

One in five NHS staff now not from Britain

The proportion of NHS roles in England filled by non-UK nationals has jumped sharply and now stands at a record one in five, figures show.

Three in 10 nurses and more than a third of doctors are not originally from Britain.

NHS Digital data show that of the 335,763 full-time equivalent nurses and health visitors in England last September whose nationality was known, 30%, or 100,776, were non-UK nationals.

This is up from around 19.7% in September 2020 and is the highest share since records began back in 2009.

The most common non-UK nationality for nurses is Indian, at 10.1%, followed by Filipino (7.7%), Nigerian (2.5%) and Irish (1.1%).

As for hospital and community health service doctors, 36.3% of 136,265 staff were not born in the UK, up from 30.1% in 2020 and 26.6% in 2016.

Indian was again the most common non-UK nationality among this group, accounting for 8% of all doctors – followed by Pakistani (3.7%), Egyptian (2.9%) and Nigerian (2%).

Of the total 1,282,623 full-time equivalent hospital and community health service staff in England in September 2023 whose nationality was known, 20.4% were non-UK nationals – up from 13% in 2016 and 11.9% in 2009.

Climate change leaves UK wineries feeling bubbly

A BRITISH vineyard has become a sensation in the sparkling wine world – after France became too hot to grow grapes.

Stonyfield Wine, in Northamptonshire, has won a string of awards and is now giving Champagne a run for its money.

Its sparkling wines are made in the same style as French bubbly, with Stonyfield growing Pinot Noir and Seyval Blanc grapes.

Its success has seen French producers turn to England to grow grapes as the climate across the Channel becomes too warm.

Stonyfield is run by Belinda Brown, her brother John and sister-in-law Prue Folliott-Vaughan, all in their 60s. They grow their grapes in a field in Blisworth, near Northampton, that has been in their family for generations.

Belinda said: "The site is lovely and it really suits the vines. It's very similar to the Champagne area. We were so nervous when we got that first bottle – we all sat around the kitchen table staring at it and were so pleased when we tasted it.

"We sent it off to Decanter Magazine and they gave us one point off a gold medal. We've won awards every year since, including the National Trophy for the best sparkling blend, gold and bronze Medals from Wine GB and Wine of the Year from the Mercian Vineyards Association.

"It's really taking off, it's a great thing to be part of. And English sparkling wines are even starting to beat French Champagnes in tastings, which shows how lovely it is."

The family had their first harvest in 2013 and made their first bottle in 2015, from the very same field where the siblings' grandfather once kept pigs. Hot summers in France have seen grapes grow too quickly and dry out before they can be harvested, with some farmers reportedly losing up to 50% of their crop.

Now, even French brands are buying land in the south of England, which has become a suitable alternative.

Sparkling wines produced outside of the Champagne region of France cannot use that name as it is legally protected.

Ooh, Mr Darcy! Now you really CAN have the shirt off his back

■ Costume from famed TV moment goes up for auction

A shirt worn by Colin Firth when he went for a dip as Mr Darcy in the BBC's adaptation of Pride and Prejudice is expected to fetch up to £10,000 when it goes up for auction next month.

The piece is among more than 60 period-drama costumes to be auctioned in London, including dresses worn by the actors Drew Barrymore and Helena Bonham Carter.

Firth's shirt from the 1995 adaptation of Jane Austen's classic novel is expected to reach a sale price of between £7,000 and £10,000.

The scene of the actor striding across fields while dripping wet after a swim has become a celebrated TV moment: it has been reimaged in the Netflix series Bridgerton and was also referenced in the film Bridget Jones's Diary, which starred Firth as another Mr Darcy.

The live "Lights, Camera, Auction" sale will take place on 5 March, hosted by Kerry Taylor Auctions in London in collaboration with Cosprop, a costume house founded in 1965 by the Oscar and Bafta-winning designer John Bright. The proceeds will benefit his charity, the Bright Foundation.

WHITE HOT: Jennife Ehle as Elizabeth Bennet and Colin Firth as Mr Darcy in the 1995's Pride and Prejudice

The highest-priced items are a vintage 1950s Christian Dior taffeta ball gown, worn by Madonna in 1996's Evita film, which could fetch between £40,000 and £60,000, and Johnny Depp's Sleepy Hollow costume, which is expected to go for between £20,000 and £30,000.

Other items from Evita, such as a pink satin evening coat, lyrics by Sir Tim Rice for Don't Cry for Me Argentina, a Trifari brooch and earrings, and a blue and purple silk dress, are also being sold.

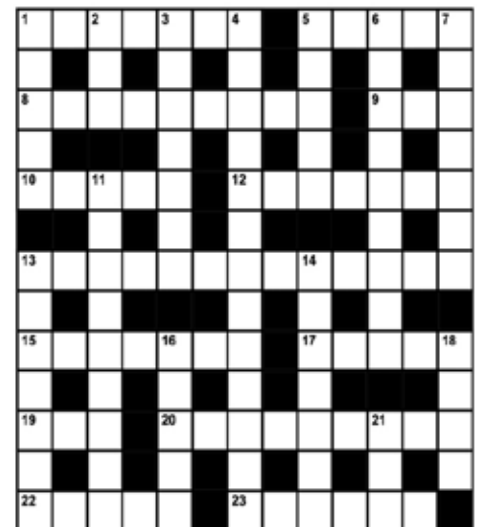

Barrymore's Renaissance-style gown with wings from Ever After: A Cinderella Story – a 1998 reimagining of the fairytale without the fantasy elements – is also for sale.

Additionally, the auction also features costumes worn by Julie Andrews, Judi Dench, Ralph Fiennes, Tom Hardy, Scarlett Johansson, Nicole Kidman, Keira Knightley, Jude Law, Gwyneth Paltrow, Daniel Radcliffe, Eddie Redmayne, Alan Rickman, Margot Robbie, Elizabeth Taylor and Aidan Turner.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property or necessarily a 100% ownership interest in the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off or resolving ownership interest issues, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens as well as the ownership interest(s) that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. Please

Note, the sale may not be final until either 15 or 45 days after the sale date – see Notice to Tenant. Further, no TDUS can be issued until the sale is final. Your bid is subject to being over bid by the Tenant or "eligible bidder" after the sale and if your bid is over bid, your only remedy is to the refund of your actual bid amount without interest or payment of any other costs, expenses or funds of any kind or nature incurred by the initial successful bidder. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, lien holder, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866) 266-7512 or visit this Internet Web site www.elitepostandpub.com using the T.S. number assigned to this case. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. Step one, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (866) 266-7512, or visit this internet website www.elitepostandpub.com using the file number assigned to this case TS# 23-23362 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Step two, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid ("NOI") accompanied by an affidavit or declaration in accordance with Civil Code Section 2924m(c)(2)(A)(B)(C)(D) so that the trustee receives it no later than 5 p.m. on the 15th day after the trustee's sale. Step three, you must submit a written bid along with the funds constituting the bid payable in lawful money of the United States, in the form of cash, a cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, or savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state so that the trustee receives the bid and the funds no later than 5 p.m. on the 45th day after the trustee's sale. Bids will only be accepted from an eligible tenant buyer or eligible bidder who has submitted a timely NOI per Step two above. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a Written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. Opinion still divided as Harry and Meghan launch their new website

PRINCE HARRY and Meghan Markle's ability to bitterly divide public opinion remained undimmed this week as a flurry of commentary, both for and against, flooded the internet amid the unveiling of their new website, Sussex.com.

Their former websites – Sussexroyal.com and Archewell.com – were initially used to update the public on their philanthropic endeavors. However, now both links automatically redirect visitors to their new website.

'insulted our people'

"The Office of Prince Harry & Meghan The Duke and Duchess of Sussex," is written on the home page, while the coat of arms of the United Kingdom is also included.

Shortly after the new website was launched, several social media users rushed to X to slam Harry, 39, and Meghan, 42, for using their royal titles on the website.

As usual, the detractors outnumbered the supporters with one 'fan' pointing out: "Harry and Meghan are 'still' branding themselves as 'the Sussexes', despite the fact they abandoned their duty to this country, insulted our people and history, mocked our traditions & undermined our monarchy. The brass to keep parasitising off this title!"

But another fired back: "They ARE Prince Harry and Meghan, the Duke and Duchess of Sussex. It's who they are." Another agreed, adding, "Harry is using what belongs to him!"

But the backlash continued as another person wrote, "So, Meghan and Harry have spent the last 6 years dissing and distancing themselves from the Royal Family (who they claim is so horrible), but now are capitalizing on their bestowed (from the Queen) Sussex dukedom titles for their new website? Huh?"

"It is their surname"

"Titles, crest and cypher. Harry and Meghan know they're irrelevant without the royal connection," said another.

And a source close to the couple stated that "Sussex is their name".

They said: "Prince Harry and Meghan are the Duke and Duchess of Sussex."

"That is a fact. It is their surname and family name."

But veteran royal commentator Richard Fitzwilliams said it clearly "emphasises the importance they place on their royal connections".

He also questioned the launch timing, less than a week after Harry rushed

MEGHAN: 'proud' to announce a new deal with Lemonada Media back to the UK following the King's cancer diagnosis.

Harry's biographer Angela Levin accused the couple of "cashing in on their royal connections that they say they hate so much."

"Queen Elizabeth II would be furious because they promised they wouldn't do that."

"They should be stopped from using a title that they spent years insulting."

Harry, 39, and

Meghan's original website "sussexroyal" was launched in January 2020 when they quit official duties and moved to California.

But the pair were not allowed to use it due to the inclusion of the royal moniker.

This week also saw the unofficial relaunching of their podcast brand as they plot their careers four years on from Megxit.

Meghan said she was "proud" to announce she has signed a new deal with Lemonada Media to continue her "love of podcasting."

In 2020, the Duke and Duchess of Sussex signed multi-year deal with Spotify worth about $20 million, which produced the podcast in which the 42-year-old invited guests to "investigate, dissect and subvert the labels that try to hold women back."

Ailing Sven books date with Reds bench

FORMER England football manager Sven-Goran Eriksson will see a lifelong dream come true when he coaches a Liverpool team – weeks after confirming he has terminal cancer.

The Swedish coach, 76, announced in January he has “best case a year” to live after being diagnosed with the illness.

He also revealed he had “always wished to be the manager of Liverpool” and had been a lifelong supporter of the Reds.

Now that dream is to become a reality after the club revealed Eriksson will get to co-manage the Liverpool Legends team for a charity game at Anfield against Ajax Legends on March 23.

The club said Eriksson “will join a dugout of LFC greats, including Ian Rush, John Barnes and John Aldridge”. A statement said: “All connected with the club and LFC Foundation look forward to warmly welcoming LFC fan Sven and his family to Anfield, and seeing him in the dugout on the day for a fantastic fundraising occasion.”

After revealing his illness last month, Eriksson was asked which role in football he wished he had taken. He said: “My father is a Liverpool supporter and I am a Liverpool supporter too, always have been. So I always wished to be the manager of Liverpool and that will not happen, but I’m still a Liverpool fan.”

Reds fans had called on the club to allow Eriksson to manage the Legends team following his health announcement. Anfield boss Jurgen Klopp said: “I heard for the first time about his admiration or love for Liverpool and that he was a fan for his whole life.”

“I heard now about the Legends game and stuff like that. The only thing I can say is absolutely, he’s very welcome to come here and he can sit in my seat in my office and do my job for a day if he wants. That’s no problem.

“To have him here and show him everything, I think that’s definitely something we will tell him.”

“He can come over and have a few wonderful hours here, I’m sure.”

Eriksson was the first foreign coach to manage England, leading the national team to the quarter-finals of the 2002 and 2006 World Cups. He was boss of Manchester City, Leicester City, Mexico and the Philippines.

He won the Uefa Cup with Gothenburg, and the Cup Winners’ Cup with Lazio, who he also led to the Serie A title.

Crystal Palace say manager Roy Hodgson is stable in hospital after he was “taken ill” during training on Thursday morning.

Palace cancelled a news conference after the 76-year-old became unwell.

It was widely reported on Thursday morning that Palace are set to sack Hodgson, with the club 15th in the Premier League and five points clear of the relegation zone.

Palace face Everton at Goodison Park in the Premier League on Monday.

“Following news that Roy Hodgson was taken ill during today’s training session, we can confirm that he is now stable and is currently undergoing tests in hospital,” the club said on X, formerly known as Twitter.

“Everybody at the club sends their best wishes to Roy for a speedy recovery.”

Multiple reports suggest Hodgson is set to lose his job, with former Eintracht Frankfurt boss Oliver Glasner a strong favourite to replace him.

City resume normal service

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE: De Bruyne stars again as holders brush aside Copenhagen

Manchester City resumed their Champions League title defence with a comfortable 3-1 victory at FC Copenhagen Tuesday night in the first leg of their last-16 tie.

After Kevin de Bruyne gave Pep Guardiola's side an early lead it looked like they would go on to claim a big win as the hosts barely laid a glove on them.

But Ederson gifted the ball straight to Copenhagen with a poor clearance and Magnus Mattsson took full advantage with a fantastic strike.

Bernardo Silva put Manchester City ahead again just before half-time with a clever flick after a ball from De Bruyne deflected through to him.

De Bruyne and Erling

Haaland had further chances to add to the lead after the break and, although City were not quite at their attacking best, they ensured they left with a two-goal cushion thanks to Phil Foden's late strike.

"The biggest players appear on the biggest stages," said Guardiola on TNT Sports. "It's the hour of truth. We started well. We have to do our job and finish it."

"I'm just really pleased for the result."

Manchester City will host Copenhagen in the second leg on Wednesday, 6 March.

This was Copenhagen's first game in two months after football in Denmark was paused for a winter break but Guardiola had warned before the game that they would still not make things easy for his side.

The Danes had beaten Manchester United 4-3 at the Parken Stadium in the Champions League group stage back in November, and also held Manchester City to a goalless draw there in 2022.

Guardiola's side started like a train, but while they failed to sustain that momentum they did have plenty of chances to win by a greater margin.

However, ex-Liverpool goalkeeper Kamil Grabara played a key role in limiting the visitors to two goals, making good saves to deny Ruben Dias early on and Jeremy Doku in the second half.

But in the closing stages, the visitors stepped it up again to ensure they got a

Kevin de Bruyne (right) scored one and had an assist in Tuesday's game healthy advantage for the second leg and secured it when Foden drove in from De Bruyne's cutback.

"Today was perfect," Guardiola added. "They were patient in the right moments. Really good."

"I'm really proud of the team. The third goal helped us a lot. Hopefully we can finish it off at home and go to the next game."

Manchester City's early momentum was clearly disrupted by the early departure of Jack Grealish to injury.

"It looks like a muscular injury," Guardiola said.

"It is a pity. He helped us to play at the right tempo. He felt it when he rolled on the grass."

City return will be weird, says Palmer

Cole Palmer has admitted it will be "a weird feeling" going back to Manchester City with Chelsea.

This weekend's fixture is the first time the 21-year-old (above) will return to Etihad Stadium since moving to west London on the final day of the summer transfer window.

Palmer, who came through the City academy, cost the Blues an initial £40m with an additional £2.5m in possible add-ons.

Despite an inconsistent season from Mauricio Pochettino's side, the England international has consistently stood out and with 12 goals he leads Chelsea's scoring charts.

"I have been surprised by how well it's gone here so quickly, but I always back myself to succeed."

Palmer said on the club's website: "I'm looking forward to going back to the Etihad. It will be strange, a weird feeling, but I'm looking forward to it and the team's looking forward to it. "I'm very excited to be honest, even though it will be strange."

"Obviously I played against them at Stamford Bridge, but I think going back to the Etihad will be even stranger."

When the teams met at Stamford Bridge in November, they produced a remarkable 4-4 draw in which Palmer equalised from the penalty spot in the fifth minute of stoppage time.
