Starmmer: we'll deliver 'national renewal'

■ Labour leader addresses packed house in debut speech as PM

In his first speech to the nation as prime minister, Keir Starmer said that Britain had "voted decisively for change, for national renewal," and promised to lead a pragmatic government that would restore hope and the nation's faith in politics and public service.

"We need to move forward together," Mr. Starmer said. He acknowledged the challenges ahead, nodding to the fractured vote that delivered Labour its biggest parliamentary majority in decades, but a low voter turnout that reflected disillusionment with Britain's politics and economic problems.

"Have no doubt that the work of change begins immediately," he said.

On Monday Sir Keir addressed the House of Commons for the first time, in a chamber packed to the rafters as it struggled to accommodate all of its new members.

Apart from being sworn in - a process which takes several days - they were also there to re-elect Sir Lindsay Hoyle as Speaker - as is tradition at the beginning of a new Parliament.

Sir Lindsay vowed he would continue to be "fair, impartial and independent" as he addressed almost all the 650 MPs in the Commons.

He has served as Speaker since November 2019 when he replaced John Bercow shortly before the 2019 General Election.

The Speaker election marks the first day of the new Parliament, which welcomed 335 new MPs, including Nigel Farage, to the chamber.

'most diverse'

After MPs approved the motion to elect Sir Lindsay, he was dragged to the Speaker's chair, as is tradition, by Labour MP Cat Smith and Tory Sir David Davis.

In his first remarks in

STANDING ROOM ONLY: the scene in the House of Commons on Monday

the Commons since becoming Prime Minister, Sir Keir Starmer said: "Mr Speaker-elect you preside over a new Parliament, the most diverse Parliament by race and gender this country has ever seen."

He also vowed to "put an end to a politics that has too often seemed self-serving" and replace it with "the politics of service".

Rishi Sunak, in his first speech as Opposition leader, said: "The last few years in this House have been, at times, difficult and you have always brought this House together."

He added: "It is a privilege to be in this House, our democracy is powerful and, as we have witnessed, it can be definitive.

"But I know that this House will, true to its best traditions, hold the executive to account."

Mr Farage, the Reform UK leader, hailed his party as the "new kids on the block". Reform UK, formerly the Brexit Party, was founded in 2018.

Prior to last week's election, the party had only one MP, Lee Anderson, who defected from the Conservative Party.

Reform returned five MPs, including Mr Farage, who was successfully elected for Clacton in his eighth run at the Commons. He told MPs: "We have no experience in this Parliament whatsoever, even though some of us have tried many times over the years previously."

New PM abolishes Rishi's Rwanda policy

"Everyone has worked out, particularly the gangs that run this, that the chance of ever going to Rwanda was so slim – less than 1 percent."

British Prime Minister Keir Starmer has said he will not continue with the previous Conservative government's policy to deport asylum seekers to Rwanda, in a move welcomed by rights advocates as long overdue.

"The Rwanda scheme was dead and buried before it started. It's never been a deterrent," Starmer told his first news conference on Saturday, after his Labour Party won a landslide in the general election.

"I'm not prepared to continue with gimmicks that don't act as a deterrent," he told reporters after a cabinet meeting, describing the plan as a "problem that we are inheriting".

Parliament approved the contentious law in April, declaring Rwanda a safe third country, which bypassed an earlier UK Supreme Court ruling that said the scheme was unlawful on human rights grounds.

The authorities started detaining asylum seekers in May.

Then-Prime Minister Rishi Sunak, who promised to stop migrants and asylum seekers arriving on small boats from mainland Europe, had pushed for the policy.

On July 8, Rwanda said it has taken note of the intention of the UK government to terminate the Migration and Economic Development Partnership Agreement, calling it "a problem of the UK, not Rwanda".

human rights

"Rwanda has fully upheld its side of the agreement, including with regard to finances, and remains committed to finding solutions to the global migration crisis, including providing safety, dignity and opportunity to refugees and migrants who come to our country," it said in a statement.

Rights activists and critics of Sunak's government had slammed the plan to deport people to Rwanda rather than handle asylum claims at home as inhumane.

They had raised concerns about the East African country's own human rights record and said asylum seekers faced the risk of being sent back to countries where they would be in danger.

But when faced with opposition in parliament, Sunak said in April, "No ifs, no buts. These flights are going to Rwanda."

Tens of thousands of asylum seekers – many fleeing wars and poverty in Africa, the Middle East and Asia – have reached Britain in recent years by crossing the English Channel in small boats on risky journeys organised by people-smuggling gangs.

During his Saturday news conference, Starmer said the Rwanda scheme was widely expected to fail.

"Everyone has worked out, particularly the gangs that run this, that the chance of ever going to Rwanda was so slim – less than 1 percent," he told reporters.

"The chances were of not going, and not being processed, and staying here therefore in paid-for accommodation for a very, very long time."

STARMER: I'm not prepared to continue with gimmicks that don't act as a deterrent"

As Tories vie to replace Sunak, Reform UK seen as mortal threat

Potential Tory leadership contender Suella Braverman has said her party must win back Reform UK voters if it is to recover from its crushing election defeat.

The former home secretary, tipped to run in the contest to replace Rishi Sunak, said Nigel Farage's party posed an "existential threat" to the Tories.

Warning that her party no longer had the "luxury of a monopoly" over right-wing voters, she added it needed to do more focus on "core Conservative policies".

But other senior Tories have cautioned against moving to the right, as the party seeks to recover from its lowest-ever base of MPs.

Tory Tees Valley Mayor Ben Houchen said that embracing Reform UK could prolong the party's stretch in opposition by "many, many years".

"Nobody in the Conservative Party that I've personally spoken to thinks that's a good idea," he added.

The Conservatives now have only 121 MPs, down 251, after an election drubbing that has posed big questions for the future direction of the party.

The Conservative vote dropped from 13.9m at the last election in 2019 to just 6.8m.

Braverman called for "core Conservative policies"

Reform UK, whose platform included a freeze on "non-essential immigration" and scrapping the pro-environment net zero rules, won 4.1m votes and five MPs.

Shadow home secretary Mr Cleverly has called for the party to "unite" and "get our act together".

In an article for the Times newspaper, he said the Tories had "lost our well-deserved reputation for competence and good government" as the party was "too often preoccupied with infighting". He said the party "has always been at its best when it embraces being a broad church".

"We lost voters to the left and the right, and we won't win them all back if we narrow our offer," he added.

The Conservative post-mortem began at a Westminster conference of Popular Conservatism, the right-wing faction launched earlier this year by former PM Liz Truss, who lost her seat at last week's election.

Speaking via video link from another right-wing conference in the US, Mrs Braverman urged the party to take a tougher line on immigration, cutting regulations and insulating government bodies from the "lunatic woke virus".

She said the rise of Reform UK was "all our own fault", as the Conservatives had failed to address "out of control population growth" in recent years.

She added that the party should also leave the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR), arguing it had prevented ministers from tackling illegal migration.

She said Mr Farage's party, which began life less than five years ago as the Brexit Party, had

Through to the final! the nation erupts in delight

WHOOOPS, THERE IT IS: The scene at a viewing party in a London bar

JUBILANT England fans were celebrating Wednesday night after a large dose of Dutch courage saw the Three Lions roar into the Euro 2024 final.

The dramatic, last-gasp 2-1 win over Holland set up a mouth-watering Sunday night showdown with Spain – and a chance to finally bring some football silverware home.

After a shaky passage through the group and knockout stages in Germany, England finally found their feet, helped on by fans who have been in good voice throughout the tournament.

In the end, goals from Harry Kane and Ollie Watkins fired Gareth Southgate's side into their second successive Euro final. It was pure delight for England, with substitute striker Watkins smashing home as the game entered stoppage time.

They are now 90 minutes from glory, with the squad poised to take a place in English footballing folklore alongside the World Cup winning heroes of 1966.

Southgate's brave soldiers were bolstered by the arrival of some 60,000 boisterous but impeccably behaved fans, who descended on Dortmund ahead of the match – 20,000 without tickets – turning the city red, white and blue, and creating a cacophony of noise and a carnival atmosphere.

And England fans mixed happily with an orange army of up to 80,000 Dutch supporters.

Supporting England in the stadium were singers Adele and Ed Sheeran.

Back home, everything stopped as the clock struck 8pm with up to 20 million watching in their living rooms, at bars and in fan zones.

17 million pints

The midweek jambo-ree was also one of the biggest ever paydays for the bruised and battered hospitality sector, with 35 million pints downed, helped by a flurry of late licence extensions.

Analysis suggested the big match prompted a £250million spending splurge on food and drink.

Since Saturday's

nervy quarter-final penalty shootout win against Switzerland, breweries have been working around the clock to satisfy demand, with many pubs and bars facing a last-minute scramble to order enough barrels of beer. Some three million fans sank 17 million pints watching the game in 35,000 pubs, while 18 million more were downed at home, according to data from the British Beer and Pub Association. Publi-cans like Jackie Fairburn, who runs the Hare and Hounds in Wakefield, West Yorkshire, were toasting the midweek rush, saying: "We had 440 people in – 400 more than normal."

Fan zones were packed, as they have been throughout the tournament, with Box Park venues in Croydon, Bristol, Brighton, Bournemouth, Blackpool and Liverpool turning people away.

But the party that gripped the country gave bosses at the National Grid the jitters, with a huge half-time power surge caused by a rush to

Ex-soldier held as triple crossbow slaying shocks the country

■ The wife and two daughters of leading BBC radio commentator found dead after horrific attack

A MAN remains in police custody this week suspected of killing the wife and two daughters of a well-known BBC radio commentator near London in an attack involving a crossbow.

Hertfordshire Police said in a statement that 26-year-old Kyle Clifford was found in a cemetery near his family home in Enfield, north London and that he is receiving medical treatment for his injuries, which are believed to be self-inflicted. Police said they had not fired any shots.

Clifford, a former soldier, is the only suspect in the murder of 61-year-old wife Carol Hunt and their daughters Louise and Hannah, aged 25 and 28 respectively. Louise had until recently been involved in a romantic relationship with Mr. Clifford, it was reported. Mr Clifford's brother is currently serving a life sentence for an unrelated murder.

"Following extensive inquiries, the suspect has been located and nobody else is being sought in connection with the investigation at this time," said Detective Inspector

Kyle Clifford remains in hospital after he was found on Wednesday following a manhunt tor Justine Jenkins from the Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire and Hertfordshire Major Crime Unit.

'great upset'

"This continues to be an incredibly difficult time for the victims' family and we would ask that their privacy is respected as they come to terms with what has happened," she added.

Jenkins said the investigation is moving "at pace" and that formal identification of the victims is yet to take place. She also said that the "premature" naming of the victims "caused great upset".

Earlier on Wednesday, Chief Superintendent

Jon Simpson called the incident "horrific", telling reporters a crossbow and possibly other weapons were believed to have been involved. Later reports suggest Mr. Clifford held the three women for several hours at their home before executing them, although it is believed one of them was able to alert the police before her death.

The Mail Online reported that Louise had been left so distraught by the recent split with Clifford that she ended up crashing her car in the week before her tragic death.

A neighbor told the site: "Louise was a very nice girl. She ran a dog grooming business from the house. I heard that she split from a boyfriend last week and was very upset about it. So much so that she was driving home at some point last week and drove into a wooden telegraph pole not far from the house.

'utter horror'

"Another dog groomer - who is a friend of Louise's - told me that her car door had caved in because of the crash. Who the boyfriend was, I don't know, I never saw him."

John Hunt is BBC radio's main horse-racing commentator, his voice known to millions through his coverage of the world-famous Grand National and the Derby.

Tributes to the Hunt family and expressions of support from sports personalities and broadcasters have also been appearing on social media.

After Wednesday's England victory in Euro24, the former England footballer Michael Owen posted on social media: "And while the country celebrates, spare a thought for John Hunt. I can't remember feeling so utterly horrified in years."

The football commentator Jacqui Oatley said:

"I couldn't/didn't want to tweet about football yesterday due to the utter horror of hearing about John Hunt's family.

"What a truly lovely, wonderful man he is. He has had so much support. He'll need it."

Jockeys at Kempton Park Racecourse wore black armbands to show support on Wednesday.

The Sky commentator Mike Cattermole said it was "hard to comprehend and process the shock and disgust of what happened to John Hunt and his family".

"John lived for his girls, they were the world to him."

succeeded in winning over "many of our traditional lifelong voters", posing "an existential threat to us electorally".

"It's no good denigrating Reform voters. It's no good smearing the Reform party," she added.

"They are now their voters, and we need to do everything we can to win them back."

put the kettle on - and a dash to the lavatory. All eyes are now on Sunday, with a booking rush expected on flights and accommodation in Berlin as English fans head off for the showpiece final.

The Prince of Wales, PM Sir Keir Starmer and a host of celebrities, including football fanatic Sheeran, are among those expected to watch the match at the Olympiastadion Berlin. It is almost certain that if Southgate's team is victorious he will receive a knighthood, with squad members in line to share a £14million victory bonus.

Supermarkets were set to cancel leave on Friday and Saturday and restock supplies, with fair weather expected to see millions of families stage impromptu parties and barbecues in a final flurry of early summer excitement.

Cameron quits frontline politics

DAVID Cameron has quit frontline politics as leading Tories jockey for positions following the party's General Election defeat.

Former PM Lord Cameron (right) is understood to have decided he had fulfilled his duty by stepping in as Foreign Secretary when asked by Rishi Sunak last November.

It means Andrew Mitchell will be the new Shadow Foreign Secretary. cont. on page 5, col. 1

Tarbuck reveals funeral song pact with Tom Jones

“He is a great friend and is still the best singer of them all today.”

JIMMY Tarbuck and Tom Jones have made a pact: when one of them dies the survivor will sing at the funeral.

The Scouse entertainer and the singing Welsh knight have been great friends for more than 50 years.

But now both are 84, they have decided to plan for their finale.

Tarby revealed: “Tom and I have made a secret pact. If I go first, he’s going to sing at my funeral and if he goes first, then I am going to sing at his.

“He is a great friend and is still the best singer of them all today. I mean he still gets women throwing their knickers at him.

“What will I get thrown at me if I sing at his funeral? Probably bottles of beer. But I’ll say ‘Thank you very much’ and drink them!”

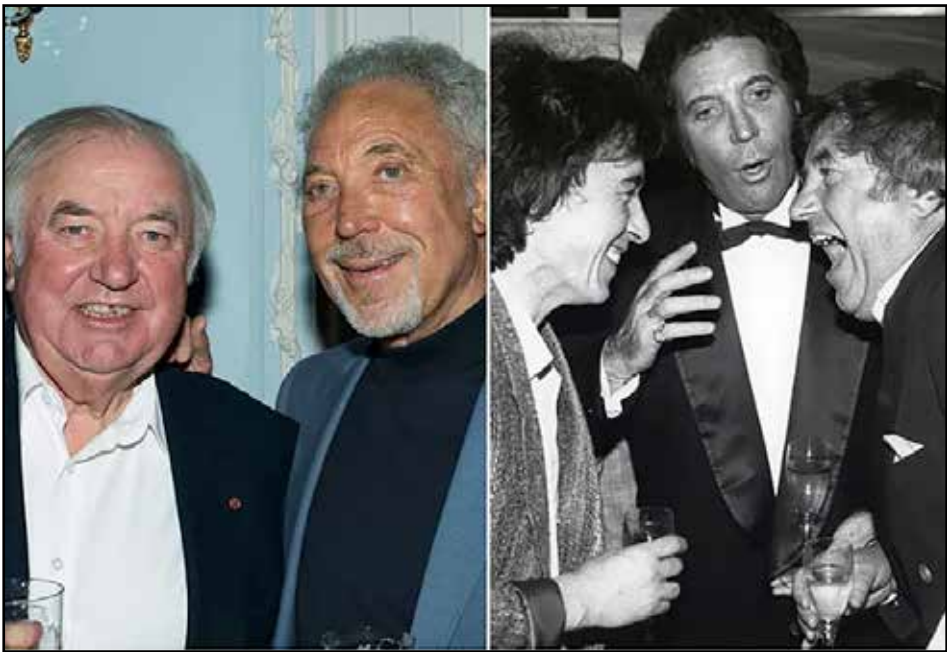

The pair are so close Tarby credits his pal for helping him through a prostate cancer diagnosis four years ago.

Sir Tom had urged Jimmy to get a check-up as he was not feeling right.

The veteran comic was treated at London’s Royal Marsden Cancer Hospital and still feels healthy enough to stay in showbiz and perform.

He added: “The doctors told me ‘You are not going to die from prostate cancer but you will die with it’.

“Fair enough. Tom has been like a mentor helping me. We have such lovely memories together. I mean he took me over to America all those years ago and I stayed with him in his house in California and it was just lovely.

“He opened many, many doors for me because it was his Las Vegas days.

“Although I have lost so many friends over the years, like Little Ronnie, Brucie and Parky, I still think if anything were to happen to him I’d be very, very distressed.”

Asked who might be left to pay tribute, he said thoughtfully: “There are a few comedians. And I have friends in the footballing and sports world so I’m sure they will say something nice.”

Tarby, married to wife Pauline since 1959, is on tour with one-man show An Evening With Jimmy Tarbuck visiting towns and cities including Leeds, Chester, Blackpool and Exeter – and he already has plans for 2025.

Party chairman Richard Holden has also resigned and is replaced by Richard Fuller. He said: “I am honoured to be asked to act as interim chairman and to be working alongside colleagues in the shadow cabinet.

“United as a party we will be ready and able to hold the new Labour government to account every step of the way.”

Lord Cameron said: “It’s been a huge honour to serve as Foreign Secretary but clearly the Conservative Party in opposition will need to shadow the new Foreign Secretary from the Commons.

“As a committed Conservative I will continue to support the party and help where I can as we rebuild.”

Jeremy Hunt is Shadow Chancellor, James Cleverly is Shadow Home Secretary, Victoria Atkins Shadow Health Secretary and Kemi Badenoch Shadow Secretary for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities.

The leading candidates to replace Rishi Sunak are include Suella Braverman, Robert Jenrick, Priti Patel, Tom Tugendhat, Ms Atkins and Ms Badenoch.

Bob Blackman was also elected as the chair of the Conservative Party’s influential 1922 committee this week.

The backbench committee of MPs voted to elect Blackman – the MP for Harrow East – with 61 votes, while the other candidate Sir Geoffrey Clifton-Brown received 37 votes.

There was some confusion around the voting timings, with a number of Conservative MPs understood to have missed the vote. One MP, Mark Francois, was overheard declaring the election was “bent” after storming out of the committee room.

Football's coming home...to Santa Monica

LOCAL FOOTBALL FANS were out in force this week as Euro 2024 fever gripped Southern California.

As expected the King's Head and Britannia pubs in Santa Monica were jammed to the rafters for England's quarter-final and semi-final matches on Saturday and Wednesday. Early arrival was the order of the day with fans queuing at least two hours before opening for both games. Drinks flowed and songs were belted out as the crowd digested the usual English football diet of near misses, high anxiety, rising tension and, miraculously, a penalty shoot-out win against Switzerland on Saturday and a last-gasp winner from Ollie Watkins in normal time on Wednesday as the team booked their final berth against the mighty Spain in Sunday's final.

As the final whistle sounded in Dortmund on Wednesday, an almighty roar broke out from both pubs on this side of the pond, leaving clueless passers-by more than a little bemused. But the mood inside was euphoric, with joy and relief in equal measure as Gareth Southgate's heroes went where no England team have gone before... the final of a major tournament on foreign soil.

We will have to go through it all again of course, on Sunday, with both pubs planning to show the game to sold-out, standing-room-only, packed to the rafters crowds. Better start queuing early...

The unsung hero of SW19

THIS WEEK is the height of the British sporting summer, with the European Championship and the British Grand Prix competing for eyeballs with a certain tennis tournament in South West London.

But amid all the competing talent and the celebrity spectators, a certain unsung hero continues to make the event possible...just as he has done for the past 16 years.

Meet Rufus the Hawk, a native of North and South America who definitely rules the roost when it comes to clearing the championship courts of pigeons. Every morning at dawn, Rufus, with his distinctive yellow-hued beak, patrols the skies over the tennis complex, his job: to scare the living daylights out of the pigeons who not so many years ago occasionally interrupted play as they strolled around the courts, searching for food and doing what pigeons do.

For Rufus, pigeons are food, though the bird's handlers and trainers, Wayne Davis, his wife Donna and their daughter Imogen, do their best to keep Rufus's appetite balanced so the hawk will scare the pigeons but not eat them. That is part of the art of falconry as it has been practiced for more than 2,000 years, said Wayne Davis, although he cannot guarantee that Rufus will not occasionally go for the kill.

"Thousands of years of evolution have dictated that's what he should do," Davis said, speaking from the family home in Northamptonshire, about what could happen if Rufus spots a pigeon and is feeling a big peckish.

Rufus has become something of an avian star at Wimbledon, his picture taken by countless photographers and television crews. He even has his own Twitter account @RufusTheHawk.

TOP BIRD: Rufus (above) and (below) Salma Hayek watched Emma Raducanu exit the tournament

But back on the courts, English hopes went out the window at the weekend when Emma Raducanu was unable to add to the weekend of British sporting success, failing to make it to the quarter-finals.

The British No3 had hoped to follow in the footsteps of the Three Lions but went crashing out to world No123 Lulu Sun, 23, of New Zealand, 2-6, 7-5, 2-6 on Centre Court on Sunday.

Following her knock-out at the tournament, there are no British players left in the singles.

Dame Mary Berry, 89, and actress Salma Hayek, 57, were among the VIPs watching the action from the Royal Box.

Raducanu's defeat came after she pulled out of the mixed doubles with Sir Andy Murray, 37, on Saturday night due to stiffness in her wrist.

It was due to be Sir Andy's last ever match at Wimbledon before he retires later this year.

The move appeared to spark criticism from the British tennis legend's mother Judy, who described Raducanu's decision as "astonishing".

But the 64-year-old later said her comment was not directed at Emma.

Yesterday on X/Twitter, she posted: "Not sure anyone understands sarcasm these days. Pretty sure the scheduling (4th match court1 with a singles following day) will have played a major part in any decision making."

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Your boss Mars recently moved into the reserved water sign of Cancer and will bring up unfinished emotional and/or financial issues. There are times when rather than give in, it's best to give up!

TAURUS: You have some decisions to make now. But several big issues are beyond your control, and with this in mind, be patient. Expect marked improvements in several areas by month's end. But beware; you are being stubborn over a moot point.

GEMINI: Mercury your boss is always ready to catch you out, if not exactly trip you up. Not much you can do to speed some things up until later in the month, other than enjoy life.

CANCER: The month so far has not been as mellow as you would expect since the Sun is in house. So next week will push you to make a long-time move of sorts in any area. Happy Birthday!

LEO: You are probably ready to relax after a busy time of late. Do not wait too long to settle anything outstanding in the next few days. This is making space for a move of sorts.

VIRGO: You are getting a powerful vibe from Saturn whose job is to help you decide about something. If not now by the end of the month. With this in mind, just make it soon.

LIBRA: Venus your boss is heading into a positive area for you. So it's time for you to make a decision on something you are perhaps undecided over. Regardless it's best to make it by mid next week.

SCORPIO: You may be feeling out of sorts or indecisive. This is likely coming from some unresolved emotional stuff. You are the only one who can get yourself back on track...and you can do to by next week!

SAGITTARIUS: Now your boss Jupiter is in your opposite sign of Gemini he is willing to show you how to help yourself in a financial area. This is just what you need currently. You can do this!

CAPRICORN: Life is moving nicely after a long period of trying times. Now it's time to set plans for your future and you should be feeling much more grounded. If you are travelling be well prepared ahead of time.

AQUARIUS: You are usually a busy bee and often live life in a cerebral way. This next week or so get out of your head and be in a more earthy mindset. Life is looking up.

PISCES: Just keeping your feet on the ground of late can be wearying. This is due to a heavy planet Saturn living in house with you. It's best to listen to your intuitive self to make life easier.

Koeman accuses ref of 'breaking football'

Netherlands boss Ronald Koeman criticised the use of video assistant referees (VAR) for "breaking football" after England were awarded a contentious penalty in Wednesday's tense Euro 2024 semi-final.

The Dutch had taken an early lead through Xavi Simons' powerful strike but Gareth Southgate's side were handed a lifeline when Harry Kane was caught on the follow-through by Denzel Dumfries after the England captain had already shot over the bar.

No penalty was given originally but referee Felix Zwayer then pointed to the spot after he was advised to go to the monitor by VAR.

Kane levelled with the spot-kick and substitute

Ollie Watkins struck a 90th-minute winner to send England to Sunday's final, where they will play Spain.

"In my opinion it should not have been a penalty," said Koeman.

"He kicked the ball and the boots touched. I think that we cannot play properly and this is due to VAR. It really breaks football."

Former England defender and ITV pundit Gary Neville felt the Netherlands had every right to feel aggrieved.

"As a defender, I think it's an absolutely disgraceful decision," he said.

"There's no way that was a penalty. He just goes in naturally to block the shot. It's not a penalty for me."

Ex-England striker

Alan Shearer said on BBC Radio 5 live: "There is no doubt that there is contact, but the defender [Dumfries] is trying to block the ball.

"The follow-through from Harry Kane makes the connection and I didn't think it was a howler to be turned over."

Netherlands and Liverpool captain Virgil van Dijk also felt the penalty decision was the turning point in the game.

"I think the penalty moment is a big moment, England had some confidence out of it," he added.

"I think so many decisions didn't go our way, but I don't want to speak about the referee."

Zirkzee close to United switch

Manchester United are close to completing a £33.7m deal to sign Dutch striker Joshua Zirkzee from Bologna.

United sources say the club are set to pay a slight premium on the £33.67m release clause in order to secure an extended payment period for the 23-year-old.

The Premier League

club are determined to comply with Profit and Sustainability Rules (PSR) regards loss limits and accept their present situation is tight and will require discipline in their transfer dealings.

Long-serving forward Anthony Martial left Old Trafford at the end of last season when his contract expired.

home World Cup in 1966.

"Everyone's buzzing," Chelsea midfielder Palmer told the England YouTube channel. "Last night on the bus, tunes were on, [in the] changing room, everyone was just enjoying it.

"But obviously it's a short turnaround and it's a massive, massive game to change our lives, our family's lives, and to make everyone proud. That's what we're trying to do.

"I think if you've got to this final then you have to hopefully finish the job. It's all good getting to the final, and you've got to enjoy it because you don't get many moments to enjoy. But, no, everyone just wants to win so bad."

Gareth Southgate's side have shaken off a slow start to the tournament to reach a second Euros final in as many attempts.

England lost on penalties to Italy at Wembley three years ago but 22-year-old Palmer, who is playing in his first senior tournament, is looking to emulate the Under-21s, who beat Spain in last July's final to win their age-group European Championship.

"In the first few games, we didn't play the best that we could and everyone knew that," added Palmer.

"But now I think as the tournament's gone on, especially yesterday, I think we had our best game in the tournament, and that's what you want going into the later stages.

"It's huge. We played them last year in the Under-21s final, England versus Spain. Even that was a massive game, so I can't imagine this one."

Southgate has used Palmer as a substitute in all four of his appearances in Germany this summer, but the Chelsea midfielder has praised the manager for the environment he has created.

"I just think the togetherness that all the players have, he's created that," he added.

"It's our first tournament and we can see how close the lads are and stuff like that. The amount of time he puts into the lads to make us better and for the matches."

TOP JOB: Cardiff-born Bellamy won 78 Wales caps

Bellamy inks four-year deal to manage Wales

Craig Bellamy is the new Wales manager having agreed a four-year deal until 2028.

The 44-year-old succeeds former team-mate Robert Page, who was sacked in June.

Cardiff-born Bellamy won 78 Wales caps and captained the side between 2007-2010.

"It's an incredible honour for me to be given the opportunity to lead my country and it's the proudest moment of my career," said Bellamy.

"It was always my ultimate dream to become the Cymru head coach and I am ready for the challenge.

"I will give my full commitment to develop this team and I am passionate to bring continued success into Welsh football. I can't wait to get started with our Nations League games in September."

Bellamy takes up the role having left Burnley, where she had been acting head coach before Scott Parker's appointment last week.

Parker was keen to work with the Welshman, but Burnley chairman Alan Pace said Bellamy leaves with the blessings of everyone at the club.

"I want to thank Craig for all his hard work during his time at Burnley and wish him the best for his new position as Wales manager," said Pace.

"Craig has been a very important part of our wonderful journey the last two years. I've admired his leadership, knowledge and passion.

"I am certain that he will continue to find success in his new role, and I wish him the very best of luck."

the chance to make up for the bitter disappointment of defeat by Italy on penalties at Wembley in the Euro 2020 final.

Southgate and England have become synonymous with near misses at major tournaments during his eight-year reign but have earned themselves an opportunity to write a new chapter in their history.

For Southgate, another final is vindication in the methods that have come under such scrutiny after England's indifferent earlier performances. Success in Berlin would change the narrative around his tenure forever.

And it was the introduction of Watkins with nine minutes left that was decisive, the Aston Villa striker providing energy and pace to trouble the Dutch defence, his finish on the turn across Verbruggen the piece of quality required to win a tight game.

England have suffered disappointments in the past and will be underdogs against Spain, but there has been a belief about Southgate's team – even when performances have been indifferent – and they will go to Berlin believing they can finally claim the silverware that has eluded them for more than half a century.

Home hero Hamilton flies the flag at British GP

HOME hero Sir Lewis Hamilton flew the flag to win the British Grand Prix on Sunday and make history in front of watching Hollywood royalty.

The Mercedes ace celebrated his first chequered flag in more than two years as he held off reigning F1 champ Max Verstappen at Silverstone to notch a record ninth victory at the circuit.

Sir Lewis, 39, in his last season with Mercedes, appeared to cry as he told his team over the car radio: "This means so much to me."

An extraordinary afternoon of high octane drama was witnessed by a host of celebrities, including Brad Pitt, 60, and his girlfriend

EURO 2024: Ollie's lightning strike puts England into final England will face Spain in the Euro 2024 final in Berlin on Sunday after a last-minute strike from substitute Ollie Watkins sealed victory over the Netherlands in a thrilling encounter on Wednesday in Dortmund.

Gareth Southgate's side looked to be going into extra time for the third successive game after Harry Kane's contentious first-half penalty equalized a thunderous early strike from Xavi Simons until Watkins (pictured, right) struck.

England dominated the first half, with Phil Foden outstanding, hitting the post with one long-range effort and drawing a fine save from Dutch keeper Bart Verbruggen.

The Netherlands, who saw Denzel Dumfries' header hit the bar before the break, took control after the break and it required important interventions from keeper Jordan Pickford to keep England level.

England were facing another extra 30 minutes until a superb late strike on the turn from Watkins, on for Kane, sent England into their second successive European Championship final on a dramatic night in Dortmund.

England's victory left Southgate and his players one game from history and ending the so-called "years of hurt" stretching back 58 years.

The campaign in Germany has been a slow-burner, but the torch was lit on a sultry, stormy night and England now have the opportunity to finish with glory against favourites Spain at the Olympiastadion.

England will contest their first final on foreign soil after the 1966 World Cup final and the Euro 2020 finals were played at Wembley.

They reached it in a manner that has been their trademark in Germany, coming from behind then surviving anxious moments before another late show, this time from Watkins, got them over the line.
