Huge upgrade for UK armed forces

'By 2035 the UK will be a leading tech-enabled defence power, with an Integrated Force that deters, fights and wins through constant innovation at wartime pace'

THE UK's armed forces are to be given their biggest upgrade in decades, with the defence secretary promising to invest billions to move the country to "war-fighting readiness".

In the face of increased threats from Russia and China and absorbing the lessons from the ever-evolving war in Ukraine, the government has accepted all 62 recommendations set out in a long-awaited Strategic Defence Review (SDR), including building 12 new nuclear-powered submarines, six new munitions factories and embracing technologies drones and artificial intelligence.

Britain's army needs to become "10 times more lethal" to face a "new era of threats", John Healey told MPs on Monday.

daily attacks

The SDR, carried out by former Labour Defence Secretary Lord Robertson, found the UK's armed forces are "not currently equipped" to fight opponents like Russia or China, with inadequate stockpiles of weapons, poor recruitment and crumbling morale.

The report warned the UK is already experiencing daily attacks on its critical national infrastructure, testing the economy's vulnerabilities and "and challenging its social cohesion".

Russia is "an immediate and pressing threat", as the invasion of Ukraine "makes unequivocally clear its willingness to use force to achieve its goals", the report finds.

legacy hardware

Meanwhile, China is a "sophisticated and persistent challenge", the review warns, and is "likely to continue seeking advantage through espionage and cyber attacks" and is expected to have 1,000 nuclear warheads by 2030.

Iran and North Korea are also highlighted and described as regional disruptors.

To fight this, the Ministry of Defence must embrace new technologies such as artificial intelligence, robots and lasers, the review recommends.

The ongoing war in Ukraine has played a vital part in the MoD's thinking, as the use of drones and cutting edge technology has rendered much of Russia's legacy hardware obsolete, a fact underlined by the astonishing success of the Ukrainian drone attack on Russian bombers at the weekend.

In a Commons statement, Healey said: "The threats we face are now more serious and less predictable than at any time since the end of the Cold War.

"We face war in Europe, growing Russian aggression, new nuclear risks, and daily cyber-attacks at home.

"Our adversaries are working more in alliance with one another, while technology is changing

Ten times more lethal? That is what John Healey promised this week the way war is fought. We are in a new era of threat, which demands a new era for UK defence."

Other announcements in the review include:

- A new "hybrid Navy" with Aukus submarines and autonomous vessels that can patrol the North Atlantic

- £15bn to be spent on new nuclear warheads

- Commitment to £1.5bn to build six new factories to enable an "always on" munitions production capacity

- Building up to 7,000 long-range weapons including missiles or drones in the UK, to be used by British forces

- Extra £1.5bn to 2029 to fund repairs to military housing

Some 30,000 highly-skilled jobs would also be created through increased investment in research and weapons manufacturing, Healey said.

The review was drawn up with the expectation that defence spending would rise to 2.5% of national income or GDP by 2027 - up from around 2.3% now.

Ministers say they expect to spend 3% of GDP on defence by 2034 at the latest but have given no guarantees - and the run-up to the review's release has been dominated by a political row over when government will hit the milestone.

The Conservatives say the move - which would hike spending by around £20bn a year - should be met by the end of the decade.

Cartledge said that "without the funding, [the review] is an empty wish list" and the "ships and submarines it talks of are a fantasy fleet".

With Reform rising in polls, party leader quits over burka ban issue

■ Zia Yusuf depature deals a blow to Nigel Farage's efforts to professionalize the upstart party

Zia Yusuf has resigned as the chair of Reform UK after suggesting it was "dumb" of the party's newest MP to ask the prime minister if he would ban the burqa.

Yusuf, a donor and businessman, said he was resigning after less than a year in the job because he did not believe working to get a Reform government elected was a good use of his time.

His departure is a blow to Nigel Farage as he tries to professionalize his rapidly growing party, with political rivals saying it shows the Reform leader cannot work with other senior figures without falling out.

'dumb' question

Yusuf, who is Muslim, quit after a dispute about the party's handling of its position on the burqa. Sarah Pochin, the new Reform MP for Runcorn and Helsby, had pressed Keir Starmer on the issue in parliament on Wednesday, and Farage had also said on GB News that it was time for a debate about the burqa.

Hours before resigning, Yusuf had posted on X saying it was "dumb" for a party to have asked the prime minister to ban the burqa when it was not its own policy.

In a statement on X, Yusuf said: "Eleven months ago I became chairman of Reform.

"I've worked full-time as a volunteer to take the party from 14 to 30%, quadrupled its membership and delivered historic electoral results. I no longer believe working to get a Reform government elected is a good use of my time, and hereby resign the office."

Yusuf has been working on Reform's new Elon Musk-style "department of government efficiency" (Doge) unit looking at cutting spending in councils where the party is in control.

The tech entrepreneur Nathaniel Fried, who was brought in this week with great fanfare to lead the unit, will also be departing alongside Yusuf, leaving the party's plans to slash "waste" in local government in disarray.

The Reform chair has been close to Farage over the last year and the party leader is "upset" about Yusuf going, according to Tim Montgomerie, a Reform supporter and commentator. Yusuf's exit is likely to add to the impression that Farage struggles to retain senior figures in his parties.

In a statement in response, Farage said he was "genuinely sorry that Zia Yusuf has decided to stand down as Reform UK chairman".

'loss to us'

"As I said just last week, he was a huge factor in our success on May 1 and is an enormously talented person. Politics can be a highly pressured and difficult game and Zia has clearly had enough. He is a loss to us and public life," he said.

Revealing that he had 10 minutes warning of the resignation, Farage said: "When people have exceptional strengths in some areas of their life or other areas where perhaps they're not quite so strong. I think, in terms of dealing with staff there was a bit of a Goldman Sachstype mentality. I mean, politics is different," he said. "And I think when you come from the background, he comes from, say, Goldman Sachs, where he worked, it is a really tough, brutal environment. Politics isn't like that. Politics isn't just about creating a financial bottom line, it's about doing things that are thoughtful, creative and different."

The Tories are toast: it's Starmer or me at the next election - Farage

NIGEL Farage says it will be a shoot-out between him and Sir Keir Starmer to be the next Prime Minister.

The Reform UK leader insists his party is the main rival to Labour.

A recent electoral calculus poll-of-polls put the Right-wingers on course to win a majority at the next election with 30% of the vote, securing them at least 362 seats.

In the space of just one year, Mr Farage has led Reform from having one MP - Lee Anderson, who had defected from the Tories - to five now.

Following last month's local election blitz, in which the party won swathes of council seats and two mayoralties, Mr Farage said he is now setting his sights on elections in Wales and Scotland next year.

His raid north of the border could begin with this week's Holyrood-by-election in Hamilton. Mr Farage used a visit to the region to accuse Scottish Labour leader Anas Sarwar of "sectarian politics".

His comments came as he unveiled Councillor Duncan Massey, who had been a Conservative representative on Aberdeen City Council, as the latest defector to his party.

The Hamilton by-election has been dominated by a row over a Reform advert that has been branded racist by its opponents. It claims that Mr Sarwar will "prioritise" the Pakistani community in Scotland.

Asked about this, Mr Farage insisted Reform "don't talk about race at all".

Mr Farage continued: "We think everybody should be treated equally. We object, very strongly, to the segmentation of people into different types."

Adding that the Scottish Labour leader has a "record of obsession on this issue", he went on to reference a speech Mr Sarwar gave in 2020 where he noted that key figures across Scotland, from the judiciary, to council chief executives to head teachers, were all white.

Mr Farage said: "I think that speech he gave was sectarian in its very nature - we are the south Asian community, we are going to take over the country and take over the world."

"We believe what he said was a form of sectarian politics and we don't like it one little bit."

First Minister John Swinney claimed the Reform UK leader "doesn't care about Scotland".

With an opinion poll having suggested Reform could be the second-largest party at Holyrood after next May's Scottish elections, the SNP leader spoke about the "deeply concerning rise in support for Farage".

Last-ditch hunt for new Maddy evidence

Police have begun a last-ditch hunt for Madeleine McCann as their prime suspect nears the end of his jail term.

German officers armed with pickaxes, shovels and chainsaws spent several days painstakingly searching a derelict farmhouse close to Praia da Luz.

The operation took place in the shadow of Rocha Negra – a lookout point where Madeleine's parents sought solace following their child's disappearance.

Firefighters searched abandoned wells in the Atalaia area, which is less than a mile from prime suspect Christian Brueckner's ramshackle former home.

Searches also took place in another derelict building that is close to a British-owned vineyard.

The two areas are linked by a series of hiking trails popular with locals and tourists visiting the Algarve.

Police cordoned off a 123-acre swathe of barren brush on Sunday evening ahead of the search.

Outhouse

German police arrived shortly after 8.30am Sunday in two minibuses that had blacked-out windows.

They held a 15-minute briefing with their Portuguese counterparts before the search operation began.

Officers at first focused on an abandoned outhouse next to a derelict overgrown farmhouse.

They were seen collecting soil samples and excavating the ground floor of the building using a pickaxe.

Local labourers were then drafted in to cut back vegetation surrounding the main farmhouse, slowly revealing the out-

Young Welshman at Harvard feels the sting of Trump's foreign student ban

"My first year at Harvard was the best year of my life. I don't want to give up on that unless there is no other choice."

A British freshman at Harvard fears he will not be able to return to the US to complete his degree after Donald Trump demanded the university stops teaching international students.

Alfred Williamson, 20, from Cardiff, left Boston when the academic year ended two weeks ago to visit family in Denmark, only to wake up on 23 May to dozens of missed calls and messages from loved ones about the decision to prevent the Ivy League university from enrolling or retaining foreign nationals.

'in shock'

Approximately a quarter of Harvard's 30,000-strong student body comes from abroad. The university filed a lawsuit last week challenging the government order. On Thursday a Boston judge issued a two-week injunction, but the future of thousands of students such as Williamson remain uncertain.

"I was in shock. I had kept a close eye on Trump's threats but I never thought he'd actually do it, I thought it was just a scare tactic," said the physics and government student. "People struggled for years to study somewhere like this only for it to be taken away in a matter of moments and we are being called illegal immigrants and aliens. Things are moving quickly and no one knows what to expect."

The Trump administration has demanded that Harvard's international students transfer to other universities in order to hang on to their visas.

Both Germany and Hong Kong have floated the idea of hosting "exile campuses" for international students unable to return to the school. Harvard has yet to respond to the proposals.

'nice young man'

Since taking office in January, Ivy League and other elite US universities have been in Trump's crosshairs, with the president repeatedly accusing Harvard of kowtowing to "wokism" and "radical left lunatics" as well as fostering violence and antisemitism since the outbreak of the war in Gaza. He has also claimed, without providing evidence, that the university was coordinating with the Chinese Communist party.

Williamson has also wondered whether the US president singled him out during the announcement of the new measures targeting Harvard. "They're taking people from areas of the world that are very radicalized and we don't want them making trouble in our country," Trump said earlier this week. "I saw yesterday that in the middle of the UK, there was a nice young man who wants to go back to school at Harvard and he looked good to me but I want to check."

Williamson said: "The mood on campus after Trump was elected was very difficult, people were scared. Rumors were spread and the international students would all go hide in their dorms."

Alfred Williamson from Cardiff left the US to visit relatives and fears he may not be able to return

He had not yet heard if his visa had been renewed for next year. He was aware that some peers had already faced delays, but said the university had been "very supportive".

While Williamson was unsure whether he would be able to continue his studies at Harvard, for now, he said, he was not entertaining the idea of applying or transferring elsewhere.

He added: "My first year at Harvard was the best year of my life. I don't want to give up on that unless there is no other choice."

Tourists stunned as Glasgow gangsters are gunned down on Costa del Crime

TWO British gangsters have been gunned down in front of horrified tourists in a Costa del Sol resort.

Ross Monaghan and Eddie Lyons Junior, members of a notorious Glasgow crime family, were shot dead in cold blood outside an Irish pub in Fuengirola last weekend.

The savage gangland execution was said to have been carried out by a masked gunman who jumped out of a vehicle before firing shots at the entrance to Monaghan's

Bar.

Monaghan, 43, was reportedly the owner of the pub which overlooks the beachfront.

The terrifying incident happened while tourists and expats enjoyed a drink after watching the Champions League final on Saturday.

The attack took place at around 11pm, when a car screeched to a halt outside the bar. A masked man got out, before opening fire on the two men as they stood outside the venue.

The gunman then fled in the same vehicle driven by an accomplice.

It is thought the shootings are connected to gang warfare between rival Scottish crime families.

Monaghan was a member of the Lyons gang and fled Scotland in 2017 after being shot by a gunman lurking outside a primary school.

He was cleared of the murder of Kevin "Gerbil" Carroll, a leading enforcer for the rival Daniel crime family.

Ross Monaghan, top, and Eddie Lyons Jr were killed at Monaghans Irish bar in Fuengirola of bullets while sitting in his car outside an Asda supermarket in 2010 in one of Scotland's most infamous murders.

Lyons, 46, was the older brother of Steven Lyons, 44, who is said to be the head of the organized crime group which is now based in Dubai and Spain.

Spanish media reported officers from the region's specialist and violent crime unit have launched an investigation.

Drones and helicopters were banned from flying over the site.

There was no sign of radar equipment which the German teams were reported to be using.

It is believed that the searches will be limited to 21 pieces of land or derelict properties in the area.

isolated farmhouse

The hunt, which was due to last until Friday, is being carried out at the request of the German federal police.

Around 30 of the force's officers, including forensic experts, are expected to take part in the operation. They are looking to find evidence that could implicate convicted sex offender Brueckner.

He is nearing the end of a seven-year jail term for raping a pensioner in Praia da Luz in 2005 and could be free as early as this September.

Brueckner was living in an isolated farmhouse in the resort when Madeleine vanished from her parents' holiday apartment. But despite the lengthy police investigation, detectives appear to be no closer to charging him with her disappearance.

He was cleared last October of a string of sex crimes he was accused of carrying out in Portugal. Prosecutors are awaiting an appeal against those verdicts lodged in Germany's Federal Court of Justice.

Brueckner has denied any involvement in Madeleine's disappearance.

The earliest date he can be released from Sehnde prison is September.

France agrees to intercept small boats heading across Channel

■ Current guidelines prevent gendarmes from intervening offshore unless it is to rescue passengers in distress

UNDER increasing pressure from the UK, the French government has announced it is making plans to intercept small boats carrying asylum seekers even if they are already at sea.

In a move which migrant charities have claimed will endanger lives, French officials agreed this week to draw up plans to begin intervening in waters close to beaches and inland canals.

A Home Office source said the plan was intended to clamp down on boats that "taxi" up to French beaches from nearby waterways. "The French have said this week they will intervene to tackle the taxi boats which are operating inland and near to French beaches to help prevent these dangerous crossings," the source said.

Keir Starmer is attempting to fight off a growing challenge from Nigel Farage's Reform UK, and Labour party officials are convinced that rising irregular immigration numbers will be a key issue in future elections.

Yvette Cooper, the home secretary, expressed her concern on Monday that French officials were not intercepting boats at sea "as swiftly as possible" after a record 1,195 people reached the UK in 19 small boats on Saturday. It took the total number of such arrivals so far this year to 14,812, the highest on record.

It was reported that French officials stopped fewer than 200 people from making the journey, but Home Office sources said French authorities had intervened to stop nearly 500 people trying to get into small boats on that day. There was footage of a gendarme looking on from the beach as people attempting to reach the UK ran into the water and climbed onboard small boats.

Current guidelines prevent French police from intervening offshore unless it is to rescue passengers in distress. In practice, the policy means officers can stop boats leaving the beach by puncturing them, but are restricted once they are in the water.

In February, Bruno Retailleau, the French interior minister, said he wanted a change to the rules to enable officers to intervene in the water up to 300 metres from the coast. "We have to review our organisation so that we can board these boats ... arriving to pick up migrants," he said.

Le Figaro newspaper reported earlier this year that ministry officials were still working on what were being termed the "feet in the water" guidelines to implement the policy. However, the French maritime daily newspaper Le Marin said the proposed change of rules had been opposed by local police officers.

King Charge!

King Charles has been spotted in a brand new £170,000 electric vehicle after making changes to his old gas-guzzling fleet.

The monarch was pictured in the back of his new motor, a BMW i7 M70 xDrive, as he was chauffeured to St Mary Magdalene Church on the Sandringham estate in Norfolk on Sunday.

His state-of-the-art vehicle was purchased in February and boasts a 341-mile range on a single charge, and can race from 0 to 60mph in just 3.7 seconds.

It comes as the King is looking to swap the royal car fleet for green alternatives in a bid to reduce the Palace's carbon emissions.

The King has long been an environmental champion, campaigning for conservation and organic farming, and has voiced concern on oil pollution and plastic waste.

Teens sentenced for 'wicked' killing of 80 year old man

■ Bhim Kohli remembered as "a loving dad, grandad, brother, uncle, a retired businessman and a close friend to many"

Two teenagers have been sentenced after being convicted of manslaughter over the death of an elderly man in Leicestershire.

A 15-year-old boy was jailed for seven years, while a girl aged 13 was given a three-year rehabilitation order with a six-month curfew and community service.

The pair, who cannot be named because of their ages, were found guilty of manslaughter in April for the killing of Bhim Kohli, 80, in September last year.

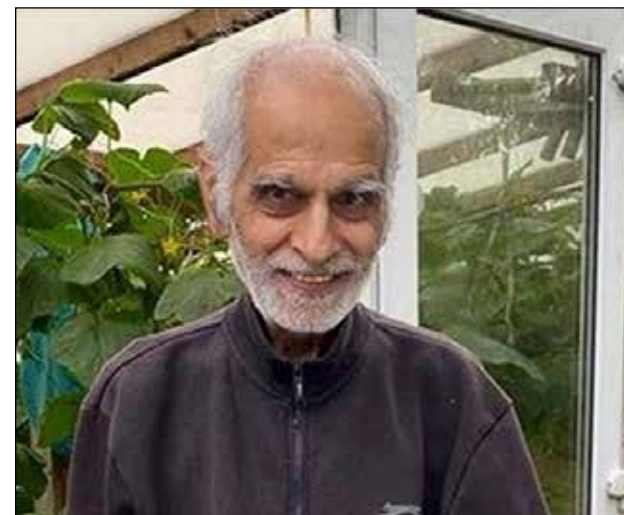

The children were sentenced at Leicester crown court, where the judge, Mr Justice Turner, described the assault on Kohli as "wicked" and "a cowardly and violent attack on an elderly man". He said he was "sure that Mr Kohli did nothing to deserve this" and that the pair had "found this funny, that's why you were laughing as you did it".

During the attack, which was described at trial as gratuitous, the boy hurled racist abuse at Kohli while punching and kicking him.

The girl, who was 12 at the time, filmed the assault on her phone and could be heard laughing and encouraging the boy to attack Kohli.

Kohli, who suffered a broken neck and three broken ribs, had been on his daily dog walk in a park near his home in Braunstone Town when the two children accosted him.

Bhim Kohli was walking his dog when he was attacked

"Our house feels so empty without him and will never be the same," his daughter, Susan Kohli, said in a statement after the teenagers were convicted. "The area we have loved for so many years and called home feels so different now and we will never feel safe. Having happened only a minute's walk of where we live is something we cannot get away from and it is a constant reminder."

She said her father was "a loving dad, grandad, brother, uncle, a retired businessman and a close friend to many", as well as "an amazing man who loved life".

Harry and Meghan ‘considered’ changing last name to Spencer after repeated UK passport delays

■ “There was clear reluctance to issue UK passports for the kids”, couple claim

The Duke and Duchess of Sussex explored the idea of changing their family name to Spencer amid repeated delays by British officials to issue passports for their children, according to reports.

The suggestion was a result of “sheer exasperation” and came during a face-to-face meeting between Prince Harry and his uncle Earl Spencer. He was understood to be enthusiastic and supportive of the name change.

Adopting the birth name of his mother, Diana, would probably have further deepened the rift between the Harry and the royal family, which shows no signs of being healed.

legal threats

However, the discussion became moot because the UK passports for Prince Archie and Princess Lilibet were finally issued almost six months after the initial applications – days after lawyers for the Sussexes sent a letter threatening to pursue a data subject access request.

This could have revealed details of the delays – and the nature of any behind-the-scenes discussions between British officials responsible for issuing the documents.

One source claimed that the duke and duchess had feared that UK officials were dragging their feet because the passport applications included the titles HRH (His/Her Royal Highness) for both children.

The applications also used the surname Sussex, which the family had already started using publicly; until 2023, Archie had vice, only to have their meeting cancelled at the last minute owing to a “systems failure.”

The source claimed that “the king hadn’t wanted Archie and Lili to carry the titles, most of all the HRH, and the British passports, once created, would be the first and perhaps the only legal proof of their names”.

The source added: “Harry was at a point where British passports for his children with their updated Sussex surnames (since the death of Queen Elizabeth II) were being blocked with a string of excuses over the course of five months.

“Out of sheer exasperation he went to his uncle to effectively say: ‘My family are supposed to have the same name and they’re stopping that from happening because the kids are legally HRH, so if push comes to shove, if this blows up and they won’t let the kids be called Sussex, then can we use Spencer as a surname?’”

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: SUSAN CAROL BROWN CASE NO. 25STPB05654

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of SUSAN

CAROL BROWN.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by MARIA T. GARCIA in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that MARIA T. GARCIA be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 06/16/25 at 8:30AM in Dept. 9 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012 IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

What does Mel B really, really want? A big 50th birthday bash!

■ Baby and Sporty join Scary for her hometown blow-out - but Ginger and Posh swerve it

THREE decades after the Spice Girls formed, Scary Spice Mel B proved to be a big pussy cat – persuading her doting family and friends to dress in her favourite print for her 50th birthday bash.

The singer and TV personality knocked everyone’s spots off in a leopard-print mini-dress with statement shoulder pads and matching bag. And she wasn’t the only one getting her claws stuck into the theme.

Sporty Spice Mel C, 51, arrived in a long leopard-print dress featuring Adidas-style stripes as she clutched the hand of her mod-

The venue Habbibi, in Mel’s home city of Leeds, was still packed though, with guests including her partner Rory McPhee, mum Andrea Brown and two eldest children – Angel, 18, and Phoenix, 26.

Why you need dental insurance in retirement.

Medicare doesn't pay for dental care.¹

As good as Medicare is, it was never meant to cover everything. If you want protection, you need to purchase individual insurance.

Early detection can prevent small problems from becoming expensive ones.

The best way to avoid large dental bills is preventive care. Experts recommend checkups twice a year.

Previous dental work can wear out.

Your odds of having a dental problem only go up as you age.²

Treatment is expensive — especially the services people over 50 often need.

Unexpected bills, like $190 for a filling, or $1,213 for a crown³ can be a real burden, especially if you're on a fixed income.

When you're comparing plans ...

- Look for coverage that helps pay for major services.
- Look for coverage with no deductibles.
- Shop for coverage with no annual maximum on cash benefits.

Simply put — without dental insurance, there may be an important gap in your healthcare coverage.

LEGAL NOTICES

ested in the will or estate, or both, of LOUIS DE LOS SANTOS

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Eva De Los Santos in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Eva De Los Santos be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 23, 2025 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 4 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Root insists there's more to come after breaking run record

JOE ROOT feels he has "still got a lot to give" after chalking up another milestone in his remarkable career to steer England to a one-day series victory against the West Indies.

Root's heroics came at Cardiff, where England faced a daunting Windies total of 309 in the second One Day International. Their pursuit appeared doomed after lurching to 2-2 and 133-5 at Cardiff, but Root showed his enduring class with an ODI-best 166 not out off 139 balls to seal a three-wicket win.

In helping England

move into a 2-0 lead in the three-match series, Root became his country's most prolific run-scorer with 7,082 from 179 matches, overhauling former captain Eoin Morgan's 6,957.

Root, 34, said with a smile: "It's a sign you're getting old, having played as many games as that."

Root, who is also England's record Test run-scorer, said he is nowhere near winding down and is as hungry as ever.

"I want to give as much as I can for England for as long as I can," he said. "I've still got a lot to give and a lot more runs in there. Hopefully, an innings like that shows that.

"Until that desire, that want to get better every day, want to add to the group and want to be not out at the end of a chase like that, when that's not a burning desire any more, it will be time to stop.

"It doesn't feel like that's anywhere near the case and I'll keep trying to do my part in helping us win games and series down the line."

Root played just 19 ODIs between England's 2019 World Cup win and 2023 flop as priority was given to the Test side, but he wants to help rebuild the 50-over team.

England were ragged in the field, dropping four catches – with Root shell-ing one – and two missed run-outs as Keacy Carty's 103 underpinned the Windies' 308 all out.

But the tourists, having been 205-2, faded as Adil Rashid took 4-63 and Saqib Mahmood 3-37.

Root believes Brook's field placings and game

Root said: "As much as he's an idiot away from cricket, he's very cricket intelligent. He understands the game exceptionally well."

Cunha inks United deal

Manchester United have agreed a deal with Wolves for the signing of Brazil forward Matheus Cunha.

The 26-year-old is set to become United's first signing of the summer after the club activated a £62.5m release clause in Cunha's Wolves contract.

The former Atletico Madrid player will sign a five-year deal at Old Trafford, with the option of a further 12 months.

Cunha was in Manchester over the weekend to complete a medical with the club.

The deal, which is subject to visa approval and registration procedures, is expected to be completed once Cunha returns from international duty with Brazil later this month.

Cunha left the Lowry Hotel in Salford on Sunday morning to join up with the national side.

The forward scored 31 goals in 76 appearances for Wolves after completing a permanent move in 2023.

He joined the club in a £35m deal from Atletico

BW SPORT:

Reijnders completes City switch

■ Dutch midfielder was lone bright spark in dismal season for AC Milan

Manchester City have agreed a 55m euros (£46.3m) deal with AC Milan for Netherlands midfielder Tijjani Reijnders.

The 26-year-old will sign a five-year contract at Etihad Stadium after agreeing personal terms with City.

The deal, which is subject to a medical, includes additional payments if certain clauses are met.

City hope to complete a deal for Reijnders in time for the Club World Cup, which kicks off on 14 June.

His arrival will strengthen an area of the pitch that has been weakened by injury to Mateo Kovacic, who has been ruled out of the 32-team tournament in the United States after undergoing Achilles surgery.

Midfielder Kevin de Bruyne is also expected not to be involved in the tournament, with a move to Serie A champions Napoli looking increasingly likely.

Capped 22 times for the Netherlands, Reijnders is the type of balanced midfielder that City lacked last season.

The Dutchman scored 15 goals in 54 matches across all competitions for Milan last term, helping him to be named Serie A's midfielder of the season.

His performances came against the backdrop of Milan's dismal campaign as the Rossoneri finished eighth and missed out on European qualification.

It was the best

Tijjani Reijnders joined AC Milan in 2023 from AZ Alkmaar

goalscoring season of Reijnders' career, with the 26-year-old hitting double digits for the first time.

But the former AZ Alkmaar midfielder, who made his senior debut for PEC Zwolle in 2018, is far more than just goals.

Capable of playing deep or high in midfield, Reijnders' appeal to a coach like Pep Guardiola is clear.

The midfielder is capable of taking the ball in tight areas and is adept at beating the press either through his passing or ball-carrying.

With Rodri returning from injury towards the end of last season, Reijnders could either play alongside the Spaniard or in a more advanced role.

But the main benefit he will bring is giving Guardiola greater options in midfield.

GRASS CEILING? England's Jack Draper, who exited the French Open this week, has reached the fourth round in each of his last three Grand Slam tournaments

I've some way to go to catch top two, admits Draper

ENGLAND'S two top men's tennis stars fell short at the French Open this week, with the county's top ranked player Jack Draper admitting he remained "a long way behind" after crashing out of the tournament to the world No.62.

Draper then said he could not wait to get home for the grass-court season and Wimbledon.

The world No.5 followed Cam Norrie through the Roland Garros exit doors when he was shocked in four sets by Russian-born Kazakh Alexander Bublik.

Draper had been seeded to face his friend and world No.1 Jannik Sinner in the quarter-finals. Referring to Sinner and the defending champion, world no. 1 Carlos Alcaraz, Draper, said: "I still think I'm a long way behind those boys. I still have lots to learn – they are probably a year, two years ahead of me and have achieved a lot more, have a lot more experience.

"I do have a lot to do to catch up with them.

"My level is getting better all the time but it's the consistency of what they are doing.

"I'm working hard. I'm doing the right things and we'll see."

Draper reached the final of the Madrid Masters last month, losing 7-5 3-6 6-4 to Casper Ruud.

But he responded by winning matches at the French Open for the first time in his career.

The 23-year-old Draper said: "Although I'm gutted to have lost, cont. on page 19, col. 1
