The footie legend, 50, will become a 'Sir' in the King's Birthday Honours list this weekend.

The father of four who played 115 times for England and has made major contributions to charity has struck up a firm friendship with King Charles.

And the monarch dropped a potential hint last month that his wait was coming to an end.

Countryside-loving Becks, who is an ambassador of The King's Foundation, was seen greeting Charles and Queen Camilla at the Chelsea Flower Show.

He shares a passion for horticulture with Charles and sported the King's rose in his lapel.

Charles asked him: "You got it, didn't you?"

Becks replied: "It was incredible, thank you. It was very kind." Letters inviting reminster.

But he was again left waiting for the honour.

And reports from London suggest he also narrowly missed out on a knighthood in the New Year Honours List published in December last year.

Former England football manager Gareth Southgate got the award.

David had been given an OBE in 2003 for services to football.

'personal mission'

He received it from Queen Elizabeth II at Buckingham Palace, watched by proud Victoria, sons Brooklyn and Romeo, and his grandparents.

David and his wife — who shot to fame with the Spice Girls before becoming a successful fashion designer — have an estimated combined net worth of £500million.

Last year, he was formally made a charity ambassador by the King, and beekeeper Becks was buzzing with excitement at teaming up with him.

Charles invited Beckham to Highgrove to learn more about the charity, which focuses on "creating better communities where people, places and the planet can coexist in harmony".

Tours of the grounds help to fund workshops and courses in traditional skills and crafts, and the former footie star met woodworking and embroidery students.

Becks said at the time: "I'm excited to be working with The King's Foundation and to have the opportunity to help raise awareness of the charity's work.

"I've always been keen to help young people to expand their horizons and I'm particularly looking forward to supporting the Foundation's education programmes and its efforts to ensure young people have greater access to nature.

"Having developed a love for the countryside I'm also on a personal mission to learn more about rural skills which is so central to the Foundation's work.

Beckham added: "It was inspiring to hear from The King about the work of His Majesty's Foundation during my recent visit to Highgrove Gardens — and compare beekeeping tips."

Nato needs 'quantum leap' to combat Russian threats

■ You must spend more on defence, Nato Secretary-General tells ministers at key defence summit in London

Nato needs a "quantum leap" in defence to deter threats to the alliance, its secretary general has said, as he called for Western allies to invest more in their armed forces.

In a speech in London, Mark Rutte said Russia could be ready to use military force against Nato within five years.

Rutte said Nato needed a "400% increase in air and missile" to credibly defend itself against attacks.

He said he expected Nato allies to agree to spend 5% of their national income on defence, at a summit in the Netherlands next week.

Rutte's speech at Chatham House comes at a critical time for global security as Russia's fullscale invasion of Ukraine and China's military expansion continues to raise questions about Nato's capabilities and readiness for war.

"The fact is, we need a quantum leap in our collective defence," Rutte said.

"The fact is, we must have more forces and capabilities to implement our defense plans in full."

Rutte, a former Dutch prime minister, is pushing for members of the military alliance to commit 5% towards defence-related spending when leaders week in the Hague.

He has proposed that Nato's 32 members should commit to spending 3.5% on hard defence, and 1.5% on broader security areas, such as cyber.

'defining moment'

But he did not put a date on when he expected Nato allies to hit the spending target.

The proposal is a compromise deal designed to satisfy US President Donald Trump, who has demanded that allies each spend 5% of their economic output on defence, up from a current commitment of 2%.

"It will be a Nato-wide commitment and a defining moment for the alliance," Rutte said.

Russia lambasted Rutte before he had made his speech.

Nato "is demonstrating itself as an instrument of aggression and confrontation", Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov told reporters in Moscow.

Rutte's speech came after he had met Prime Minister Sir Keir Starmer, their second Downing Street talks since last year.

Starmer's government plans to increase military spending from 2.3% to 2.5% of national income by 2027, and has set an ambition to then increase it to 3% by 2034.

The increase will fund plans to move the UK to "war-fighting readiness", as outlined in the government's recent strategic review of defence.

"I know we can count on the United Kingdom as we start the next chapter for Nato," Rutte said.

'eastern flank'

He said the upcoming summit will "transform our alliance".

"Russia could be ready to use military force against Nato within five years," Rutte said. "Let's not kid ourselves. We are all on the eastern flank now."

After his speech, the Nato secretary general was asked if he believed Chancellor Rachel Reeves should be raising taxes to meet defence spending commitments. He replied: "It's not

Reeves in huge U-turn over winter fuel payments

Millions of pensioners were facing a 'heat or eat' decision next winter

More than three-quarters of pensioners will receive the winter fuel payment this year after Chancellor Rachel Reeves confirmed a major policy U-turn.

Nine million pensioners in England and Wales with an annual income of £35,000 or less will now be eligible.

The payment, worth up to £300 to help with energy bills during the coldest months, was paid only to those on pension credit last year.

The policy was widely blamed for Labour's poor local election results. Reeves said the government had "listened to people's concerns", but Conservative leader Kemi Badenoch called the change a "humiliating U-turn".

The reversal comes ahead of the government's Spending Review, details of which will be announced on Wednesday.

The government said the increased winter fuel payment threshold meant "no lower or middle-income pensioners will miss out".

"It will still be means-tested but at a higher level," Reeves said.

"Because of changes we've made and the stability we've brought back to the economy, we are able to increase that amount."

The chancellor said she would set out how the £1.25bn policy would be paid for in the autumn Budget, but added she would stick to her self-imposed borrowing rules.

The government has arcont. on page 3, col. 1

U-turn:

gued that as the economy is improving, it has more room to increase eligibility for the payments. It has said the policy change will "not lead to permanent additional borrowing".

However, while economic growth was better than expected in the first quarter of the year, most analysts expect it to slow in the months ahead.

The Treasury has said the change will not lead to permanent additional borrowing, but Paul Johnson of the Institute for Fiscal Studies said this implied "it will lead to additional permanent taxes (or just possibly permanent cuts to other bits of welfare)".

households Eligible with a person under 80 automatically receive £200 a year in November or December, while homes with a person over 80 receive £300.

The payments are halved if one household has two pensioners living together. If one of them has an income of more than £35,000 and the other earns less than £35,000, the higher-income pensioner will not receive any payment and the lower-income pensioner will receive half the payment.

Pensioners above the £35,000 annual income threshold, which the Treasury said was "broadly in line with average earnings", will have the payment automatically recovered or be able to opt out. This will apply to about two million people.

Conservative leader Kemi Badenoch said: "This humiliating U-turn will come as scant comfort to the pensioners forced to choose between heating and eating last winter.

"Keir Starmer has scrambled to clear up a mess of his own making," she added. "The prime minister should now apologize for his terrible judgement."

Frederick Forsyth dead at 86

■ Famed author was also a pilot and MI6 agent before penning the life-changing Day of the Jackal

Best-selling author Frederick Forsyth, known for thriller novels including The Day Of The Jackal, has died at the age of 86, his agent has said.

"We mourn the passing of one of the world's greatest thriller writers," Jonathan Lloyd said in a statement.

Forsyth published more than 25 books, also including The Odessa File and The Dogs of War, and sold 75 million books around the world, he said.

His publisher Bill Scott-Kerr said: "Still read by millions across the world, Freddie's thrillers define the genre and are still the benchmark to which contemporary writers aspire. He leaves behind a peerless legacy which will continue to excite and entertain for years to come."

War correspondent

Born in Kent in 1938, Forsyth joined the RAF at the age of 18 before becoming a war correspondent for the BBC and Reuters. He revealed in 2015 he also worked for British intelligence agency MI6 for more than 20 years.

Many of his fictional plots drew on his real-life experiences around the world.

He made his name with his first novel, 1971's The Day Of The Jackal, which he wrote when he was out of work.

"[I was] skint, in debt, no flat, no car, no nothing and I just thought, 'How do I get myself out of this hole?' And I came up with probably the zaniest solution - write a novel," he said.

It is a gripping tale, set in 1963, about an Englishman hired to assassinate the French president at the time, Charles de Gaulle.

The Day Of The Jackal was turned into a 1973 film starring Edward Fox as the Jackal, and then became a TV drama starring Eddie Redmayne last year.

'extraordinary life'

Forsyth died on Monday after a brief illness, a statement said.

"We mourn the passing of one of the world's greatest thriller writers," Mr Lloyd said.

"Only a few weeks ago I sat with him as we watched a new and documentary moving of his life - In My Own Words, to be released later this year on BBC One - and was reminded of an extraordinary life, well lived.

"After serving as one of the youngest ever RAF pilots, he turned to journalism, using his gift for languages in German, French and Russian to become a foreign correspondent in Biafra.

FORSYTH: he was the most professional writer an editor could hope for."

"Appalled at what he saw and using his experience during a stint as a Secret service agent, he wrote his first and perhaps most famous novel, The Day Of The Jackal, and instantly became a global bestselling author." Mr Scott-Kerr said working with Forsyth had been "one of the great pleasures of my professional life".

"The flow of brilliant plots and ideas aside, he was the most professional writer an editor could hope for," he said.

'fabulous wordsmith'

"His journalistic background brought a rigour and a metronomic efficiency to his working practice and his nose for and understanding of a great story kept his novels both thrillingly contemporary and fresh. It was a joy and an education to watch him at work."

Singer Elaine Paige, a friend of Forsyth, said she felt "total sadness" at the news of his death.

"His academic knowledge of places, palaces and geography was bar none," she wrote on X. "He'll be much missed for so many reasons."

English composer Andrew Lloyd Webber, who worked with Forsyth on Love Never Dies, the follow-up to Phantom of the Opera, said: "He really understood the romance and thrills which make the Phantom such an alluring character.

"Thank you Frederick, for creating stories which will live on for generations in your honour."

And Conservative MP Sir David Davis said his "great friend" was a "terrific man" and a "fabulous wordsmith".

"He was a great believer in the old values - he believed in honour and patriotism and courage and directness and straightforwardness and [was] a big defender of our armed forces," he told Sky News.

Forsyth followed The Day Of The Jackal with The Odessa File in 1972, which was adapted for the big screen in a film starring Jon Voight two years later.

The author had written a follow-up, Revenge of Odessa, with fellow thriller writer Tony Kent, which will be published this August.

His other best-selling works included 1984's The Fourth Protocol, which became a film starring starring Michael Caine and Pierce Brosnan.

He was made a CBE for services to literature in 1997

He had two sons with first wife Carole Cunningham. His second wife Sandy Molloy died last October.

British man was sole survivor of Air India crash

A British man is the sole survivor of the London-bound Air India flight carrying 242 people that crashed shortly after takeoff in the north-west Indian city of Ahmedabad.

Vishwash Kumar Ramesh, who was in seat 11A of the flight, said the aircraft crashed almost immediately after takeoff.

It is believed his brother was on the same flight.

"Thirty seconds after takeoff there was a loud noise and then the plane crashed. It all happened so quickly," Ramesh told the Hindustan Times from a general ward in the civil hospital in Asarwa, Ahmedabad.

The 40-year-old British national told the newspaper he was returning to the UK, where he has lived for 20 years, after visiting family in India. Another brother, speaking outside the family home in Leicester, in the East Midlands, said Ramesh had "no idea" how he escaped.

Nayan Kumar Ramesh, 27, added: "We were just shocked as soon as we heard it. I last spoke to him yesterday morning. We're devastated, just devastated. He said: 'I have no idea how I exited the plane.'"

A relative added: "He's doing well I think. It's a big shock. I don't have many words to describe the incident."

Dr Dhaval Gameti, who treated Ramesh, said: "He was disorientated, with multiple injuries all over his body. But he seems to be out of danger."

Initial reports suggested all passengers onboard had died, but local police confirmed they had found one survivor of the flight, which plummeted into a medical college on Thursday, with videos showing cont. on page 4, col. 1

Beckham bust up: Brooklyn goes no contact with his family

■ "Perfect family" under strain as tensions grow; insiders put blame on 'poisonous' influence of the eldest son's wife Nicola Peltz

Brooklyn Beckham has reportedly told his famous family that he wants no contact with them in the latest devastating turn of their ongoing feud.

The wannabe chef, 26, along with wife Nicola Peltz, 30, have been engulfed in the escalating rift, with parents David and Victoria believed to be concerned about the influence the billionaire heiress has over their eldest son.

While a source close to Brooklyn denied the claims, a source close t the family said: 'Brooklyn told his family he wants no contact and he's not responding to those that try to connect.'

Another source close to the family said the eldest Beckham boy has had no communication with his family following father David's knighthood being announced last week and only learned of the news in the media alongside the rest of the world.

Denying he'd asked for no contact, a source close to Brooklyn said: 'Everyone's focus should be David Beckham's great honour'.

Multiple media outlets have reported over the past few weeks on growing tensions in the family that have grown so bitter that youngest brother Cruz is going out of his way to avoid his estranged brother.

'very sad for everyone'

He has taken to contacting the family's favourite hangouts in their adopted hometown of Miami ahead of any visits to confirm that he won't cross paths with his sibling.

Cruz is said to have sent messages to the owners of their haunts specifically asking questions such as, 'Is Brooklyn there?', to make sure the coast was clear.

And he even follows that up with a request to 'let him know' if his brother later turned up, sources

Last month Brooklyn appeared to make his feelings clear in an Instagram video shared in May, in which he pledged his wavering loyalty to Nicola, the daughter of Miami-based billionaire businessman and investor Nelson Peltz.

The influencer whisked his wife off for an early morning motorbike ride and captioned the video: 'My whole world x I will love you forever x I always choose you baby x you're the most amazing person i know xx me and you forever baby.'

A friend of the family, who have made their home at a lavish £70m mansion on Miami's North Bay Road, said: "It might seem like they are the perfect family but just like everyone else they have their issues. And the consensus among those close to them is that Nicola's influence on Brooklyn has been poisonous" one involved, especially David and Victoria who love him very much. This isn't the Brooklyn his family knows and loves.

'This post was like a dagger to their hearts but they will always be there for Brooklyn.'

Hours after the post, Cruz waded in on the row for the first time by writing an Instagram post in support of his parents, showing he does not side with Brooklyn.

He wrote: 'I love my family. I love you guys more than anything, mum and dad you gave us life and cared for us no matter what, I cannot tell you how blessed we are to have you in our lives.'

This latested development prompted one leading authority on Narcissistic Personality Disorder to tell the BBC: "Poor Brooklyn, he's going exactly the same way as Prince Harry.

"He's been seduced, captured and manipulated by a highly narcissistic partner who is now isolating him from his friends and family in a bid to gain total control. Let's hope he finds a way to see the light and reconnect with the family who love him so much."

a huge explosion and thick smoke in the immediate aftermath.

Thex Boeing 787-8 Dreamliner, which was carrying 53 British nationals among its 242 passengers, was engulfed in a huge fireball after crashing into the Meghani Nagar residential area minutes after taking off at 1.38pm local time (09:08 BST) on Thursday.

The Ahmedabad police commissioner, GS Malik, told the news agency ANI there was one survivor who was in seat 11A. The flight manifest shared by authorities said the passenger in that seat was Ramesh. Malik told ANI the survivor "has been in the hospital and is under treatment".

Three teenagers have appeared in court charged with murdering а 14-year-old boy who was stabbed while on his way to play football.

Ibrahima Seck died in hospital from a single stab wound after he was allegedly attacked by the youths in New Moston at about 17:00 BST on Sunday, Manchester Youth Court heard.

The prosecution said Ibrahima had been walking with his brothers and friends to a nearby park. The three accused boys - two aged 14 and the other 16 - have also been charged with murder and possessing a bladed article.

The court heard that, after he had been stabbed, Ibrahima ran to a nearby house.

Despite the efforts of emergency services and staff from an air ambulance, he was pronounced dead in hospital less than an hour later.

Two of the accused boys, one aged 14 and the 16-year-old, appeared in the dock in brief hearings.

Both gave their names and addresses, and the younger boy, wearing a grey tracksuit, had his aunt and uncle in court, sitting alongside lawyers. The older boy, who had his mother and a social worker in court, wore a blue tracksuit.

The third youth, wearing a grey tracksuit, was then brought into the dock. His mother and father also attended the hearing.

The three boys, who cannot be named for legal reasons due to their age, were all remanded into

They will next appear at Manchester Crown Court on Thursday.

Greater Manchester Police said a 37-year-old woman and a 14-year-old girl - both arrested on suspicion of assisting an offender - had been released on bail pending further inquiries.

Speaking before the boys' court appearances, Det Ch Insp Tony Platten said: "The last 48 hours has seen an extensive amount of police work, which has seen multiple officers working to help get the answers Ibrahima's family deserve.

"Ibrahima's family remain at the forefront of our minds and we will be remaining in close contact with them throughout the process."

Ibrahima's parents paid tribute to him as a 'well-liked young boy" who was "funny, caring and hard-working".

Premier League's groundbreaking black ref dies at 65

"We owe so much to those who push open the doors. Uriah (Rennie) should never, ever be forgotten."

Uriah Rennie, the Premier League's first black referee, has died aged 65.

Rennie joined the list of match officials in 1994 and oversaw more than 300 games, including 175 in the Premier League between 1997 and 2008.

Anti-discrimination charity Kick It Out said Rennie was "a trailblazer in every sense", adding: "He will always be a Premier League legend by becoming its first black referee, providing leadership, talent and visibility that proved inspirational to many.

"Uriah played a massive role in shaping the game as we know it today. Football should always be grateful to him." The Premier League said: "Uriah was a pioneering trailblazer whose legacy will live on, continuing to inspire future generations."

Rennie recently revealed he was learning to walk again after a rare condition left him paralysed from the waist down.

His family said he had been "privately battling a recent cancer diagnosis" prior to his death.

'leader in the game'

Born in Jamaica, Rennie moved to Sheffield as a child and grew up in the Wybourn area of the city.

He started refereeing in local football in 1979 before making history in 1997 when he oversaw a top-flight match between Derby County and Wimbledon.

"Incredibly sad news about the passing of Uriah Rennie. A Black pioneering referee and leader in the game," said Leon Mann, co-founder of the Football Black List.

"We owe so much to those who push open the doors. Uriah should never, ever be forgotten."

Rennie had been a magistrate in Sheffield since 1996 and campaigned on issues including improving equality and inclusion in sport, mental health and tackling deprivation.

He had a master's degree in business administration and law and, in November 2023, was

Rennie, who was described as 'the world's fittest ref' was also a magistrate awarded an honorary doctorate by Sheffield Hallam University for his distinguished contributions to sport and his work with South Yorkshire communities.

In May, Rennie was installed as the new chancellor of the university.

The Sheffield & Hallamshire County Football Association described their former chair as a "trailblazing referee" who "broke down barriers, shaped our football community and inspired generations to come".

'stature and presence'

Once described as the "fittest" referee in world football by former Professional Game Match Officials Limited (PGMOL) chief Keith Hackett, Rennie had to abandon his first topflight game when the floodlights failed at Pride Park.

He was added to the Fifa international list in 2000, and the PGMOL's Select Group of professional referees the following year.

Speaking to BBC Sport in 2023, former Arsenal and England forward Ian Wright said: "I always found that when I played with him [as the referee] there was no real interaction.

"With some of the other referees, you could speak to them, have a little banter. And I think that the pressure he probably would have been under - to not have that kind of interaction with the other black players - must have been really intense, simply because of what people might say."

Speaking to BBC Radio 5 Live, Hackett said: "He had stature and presence on the field of play and he was quite a gentleman off it. He was quiet but efficient in what he did.

"He was superbly fit. He had a black belt in one of the martial arts and I often watched him sprint, make a decision, players looking around him trying to have a go at the referee and he'd tap them on the shoulder and say 'look I'm here, I've seen it' and he would get a smile.

"He was a terrific communicator but quietly spoken, hardly ever lost his cool in any situation and understood the game really well."

Scandi-Noir and Scotch: Dept. Q makes a disturbing but compelling cocktail

Netflix's latest crime drama is well worth a binge

IF YOU THINK Scandinavia is dark in winter, you should try Scotland.

At least that's the takeaway from Netflix's latest police procedural, transplanting a story based on the bestselling novels by Danish author Jussi Adler-Olsen to the Scottish capital. This new adaptation is helmed by acclaimed writer-di-American rector Scott Frank (The Queen's Gambit, Out of Sight), and set in Edinburgh, Scotland. With a British cast led by the ever-compelling Matthew Goode, the show boldly merges the Nordic noir aesthetic with traditional British procedural drama - and stirs in a touch of distinctly American flair.

This cross-cultural concoction could have felt disjointed, but thanks to Frank's ambitious vision and Netflix's penchant for globally appealing narratives, Dept. Q mostly succeeds in blending these disparate elements into something cohesive and gripping. The nine-episode season follows Carl Morck (Goode), a disgraced Edinburgh detective demoted to heading a newly created cold case unit located in the literal basement of the police headquarters. Burdened with guilt after a failed raid leaves a colleague paralyzed and another dead, Morck is a caustic, haunted figure - more a liability than a leader at first glance.

reluctant mentor

But Frank, co-writing with British screenwriter Chandni Lakhani, gives Morck a compelling emotional arc. He slowly evolves from a luctant mentor and crusader for justice. The show's plot structure allows the series to delve into Morck's inner torment just as much as it explores the chilling crimes he investigates, giving it a dual emotional and procedural resonance. As Morck builds his department from scratch, he gradually forms a misfit squad: Akram Salim (Alexej Manvelov), a Syrian refugee and former cop with a knack for extracting confessions; Rose (Leah Byrne), a recovering officer with something to prove; and James Hardy (Jamie Sives), Morck's paralyzed former partner, offering support from his hospital bed.

bitter loner into a re-

Central to the series' appeal is the relationship between Morck and Salim. While the series sometimes suffers from overly talky exchanges - an American hallmark that might sit awkwardly with fans of tight-lipped British or Scandinavian drama the chemistry between Goode and Manvelov is palpable. Their dynamic injects the show with humor, tension, and a human touch, grounding even the more lurid elements of the plot.

deeply disturbing

And Dept. Q does lean into those lurid elements. The season's central case - centered around the disappearance of an ambitious young advocate, Merritt Linguard (Chloe Pirrie) - features moments of extreme captivity and psychological manipulation. These baroque flourishes are familiar hallmarks of Nordic noir, where emotional detachment and restrained presentation coexist with deeply disturbing content. The result is a tension-filled narrative that compels as much as it unsettles. While some viewers may find the plot's more convoluted turns or dramatic leaps in logic a bridge too far, others will embrace the genre's embrace of psychological and moral complexity.

Matthew Goode, right, with Jamie Sives, is a damaged cop on the case in Edinburgh in Dept Q, based on the Danish crime novels (Justin Downing/Netflix)

Visually, the move to Scotland is inspired. Swapping the snowy bleakness of Denmark for the granite-gray gloom of Edinburgh proves atmospheric and effective. The gothic undertones of the cityscape complement the noir sensibility, lending the show a unique texture that stands apart from other adaptations of the same source material.

Frank's penchant for genre-hopping is on display once again. Known for dabbling in Westerns (Godless), sci-fi (Minority Report), and literary thrillers, he uses Dept. Q as a sandbox for several storytelling styles. The pacing is deliberate, almost languid in places, which might frustrate viewers expecting constant action. But this choice allows for character development and thematic depth, rewarding patient audiences with an emotionally satisfying payoff.

There are, however, shortcomings. The dialogue, despite being abundant, lacks snap in many places. The banter, which might work in a purely American context, sometimes feels forced and lacking in natural rhythm, especially when delivered by a British cast. Goode, though committed and magnetic, occasionally seems to struggle to humanize dialogue that strains credibility. Only Kelly Macdonald, as Morck's sharp-witted therapist Dr. Irving, and Jamie Sives as Hardy, consistently transcend the limitations of the script, injecting their scenes with real emotional resonance.

societal rot

Yet even with these flaws, Dept. Q remains a compelling watch. It's less a fast-paced thriller and more a slow-burn study of guilt, redemption, and trauma - set against a backdrop of societal rot and institutional decay. The subplot involving the reassignment of cold case funds to active units hints at broader systemic failures, making the series feel timely and politically resonant.

The show's final strength lies in its performances. Goode shines as the emotionally frayed Morck, anchoring the series with a mix of brooding intensity and occasional razor-sharp wit. Manvelov's Akram is a standout as well, playing a man torn between his past and the harsh pragmatism his new role demands. Chloe Pirrie gives a raw and vulnerable performance in flashbacks that depict her character's descent into captivity, and Mark Bonnar provides quiet menace as her manipulative boss.

Ultimately, Dept. Q is a thoughtful, darkly atmospheric detective series that resists easy classification. It's part psychological thriller, part police procedural, and part character study. While it stumbles on dialogue and leans heavily into exposition over action, it more than makes up for it with richly drawn characters, haunting visuals, and an unflinching look at the shadows we carry. It's a slow-burn, slightly harrowing treat—and one well worth enduring the chill for.

Why you need dental insurance in retirement.

Medicare doesn't pay for dental care.<sup>1</sup> As good as Medicare is, it was never meant to cover everything. If you want protection, you need to purchase individual insurance.

Early detection can prevent small problems from becoming expensive ones. The best way to avoid large dental bills is preventive care. Experts recommend checkups twice a year.

Previous dental work can wear out. Your odds of having a dental problem only go up as you age.<sup>2</sup>

Treatment is expensive — especially the services people over 50 often need.

Unexpected bills, like $190 for a filling, or $1,213 for a crown<sup>3</sup> can be a real burden, especially if you're on a fixed income.

their first major trophy for 17 years.

Justin Cochrane will join Frank at Tottenham as the Dane's assistant, despite efforts from the Bees to keep hold of the England coach.

Frank has also brought head of performance Chris Haslam and firstteam analyst Joe Newton with him from Brentford, while another assistant coach, Andreas Georgson, arrives from Manchester United.

In a statement,, external Brentford said everyone connected with the club «would like to thank Thomas for the incredible impact he has had on the club, shistory».

Bees director of football Phil Giles said: "From the moment he replaced Dean Smith, he understood what we were trying to build and his wisdom, coaching ability and emotional intelligence have helped transform the club.

"But it's not just what you see on the pitch. He forged a special connection with our fans, helped develop and improve players, and was instrumental in implementing the culture that has seen Brentford go from strength to strength.

"We will never forget Thomas, but now it is time to thank him and take the next steps in our journey with a new leader who we believe can be just as successful and influential."

An hour after the appointment of Frank was confirmed, Spurs captain Cristian Romero posted a message to his former boss Postecoglou.

It included the line: "You paved the way despite the many obstacles that always existed and always will exist," which some supporters have viewed as a shot at Spurs owner Daniel Levy, who chose to sack Postecoglou despite winning the Europa League. Jobe Bellingham has completed his big-money move to Borussia Dortmund from Sunderland in time to feature at the Club World Cup.

The Bundesliga club have confirmed the 19-year-old midfielder has signed a fiveyear contract after they agreed a deal with Sunderland which it is understood could amount eventually to almost £32m.

In a statement the club said: "Welcome to Dortmund, Jobe! The 19-year-old England Under-21 international joins on a five-year deal and will wear No 77 at the Fifa Club World Cup."

Bellingham, who joined Sunderland from Birmingham for £1.5m in the summer of 2023, is following in the footsteps of his older brother Jude, the England international who spent three seasons with Dortmund before moving to Real Madrid.

He told the club's official website: "I'm very happy to be a Borussia Dortmund player now and to fight for titles to-

Wales sensationally stormed back from three goals down to level with Belgium in Brussels on Monday night, only for Kevin de Bruyne's late winner to inflict an absurdly dramatic first defeat on Craig Bellamy and knock his team off the top of their World Cup qualifying group.

The freewheeling home side were 3-0 up after just 27 minutes. Romelu Lukaku put them in front from the penalty spot before Youri Tielemans stylishly finished off an incisive team move, and Jeremy Doku feigned, jinked and fired into the bottom corner for the Belgians' third.

Wales were staring into the abyss of a first loss since a 4-0 thrashing by Slovakia exactly one year earlier cost previous manager Rob Page gether with this great club. I want to play my part in celebrating success with these great fans here and will work on myself and with the team every day. And I'm very happy that I'll be wearing the black and yellow jersey at the Fifa Club World Cup."

Sunderland confirmed the fee they will receive is a club record and that they have negotiated sell-on clause understood to be 15%. The sporting director, Kristjaan Speakman, told the club website: "Jobe wanted to create his own story, be part of a new Sunderland, and make a lasting impact. He achieved all of this and, although we are naturally disappointed to lose a player of Jobe's quality, everyone at SAFC wishes him well in this next stage of his journey."

Bellingham is the flag-bearer for Sunderland's policy of investing in young players with potential and leaves having played a key role last season in promotion to the Premier League via the Championship playoffs.

his job, and the scoreline suggested this could become a heavy one.

But Wales are a different team under Bellamy, and they responded brilliantly to a bleak situation as Harry Wilson's penalty moments before half-time gave them a glimmer of hope.

They truly started to believe an improbable comeback was on when Wilson's excellent cross set up Sorba Thomas to fire in his first Wales goal, and then Brennan Johnson headed in an equaliser to spark spectacular celebrations in a raucous away end.

Yet just as Welsh fans were dreaming of another famous result against the nation they so memorably beat in a Euro 2016 quarter-final De Bruyne popped up at the back post to score.

Jobe's a good 'un? Borussia Dortmund are betting £32m he will be

He posted a fond farewell message to the club and its supporters on Instagram.

Bellingham wrote: "Dear Sunderland, it's time for me to say farewell to all the loyal people of Sunderland, who have powered me through two incredible years in Red and White. Your support, on so many occasions, has completely blown me away, especially in the times of adversity

Jeers at bedtime for Tuchel

England slump to defeat in Senegal friendly

England slumped to their first defeat under Thomas Tuchel as Senegal secured a fully deserved 3-1 victory in a friendly at the City Ground on Tuesday night.

Tuchel's side laboured badly throughout and were second best to impressive opposition, who became the first African team to beat England's men.

A frustrating night for the Three Lions actually began well for them as they took the lead after seven minutes when captain Harry Kane pounced for his 73rd England goal.

That came after goalkeeper Edouard Mendy failed to hold Anthony Gordon's shot, but it was as good as it got for England, who were sunk by goals from Ismaila Sarr, Habib Diarra and Cheikh Sabaly.

Dean Henderson, in for regular keeper Jordan Pickford, was kept busy as the hosts struggled away from their usual Wembley base, and Senegal drew level five minutes before the break when Kyle Walker switched off to allow Sarr to steal in at the far post.

It was the first goal England had conceded under Tuchel in four games, and Senegal probed England's defensive vulnerability throughout.

The visitors got the lead their dominance merited when Diarra exploited space behind England's defence to beat Henderson, firing through his legs at the near post just after the hour.

England went in search of an equaliser, with Mendy making amends for his earlier error by producing fine saves from substitute Morgan Gibbs-White and Bukayo Saka.

Tuchel's side also had a late strike from Jude Bellingham ruled out for handball against Levi Colwill after a video assistant referee (VAR) intervention.

But Senegal wrapped up the win in the dying seconds of stoppage time when substitute Curtis Jones lost possession, allowing Sabaly to finish England off with a cool finish, sparking an angry reaction from the home supporters who remained inside the City Ground.

England had 15 wins and six draws from their previous 21 matches against African opponents, but here they were well beaten in the end.

The storm of booing that greeted Tuchel and his England players at the final whistle summed up a miserable night for the German boss.

England had the perfect start with Kane's goal, and while this game came at the end of a gruelling season, it was still a chastening experience to see Tuchel's team so comprehensively outplayed.

Keeper Henderson had kept Senegal at bay in the first half, saving from Everton's Idrissa Gueye and Crystal Palace team-mate Sarr, who took advantage of Walker's defensive lapse for the visitors' leveller.

After that, England subsided and Senegal could

Frank in at Spurs

POISONED CHALICE? Thomas Frank will know soon enough....

Tottenham have appointed Brentford boss Thomas Frank as their head coach on a deal until 2028.

The 51-year-old Dane replaces Ange Postecoglou, who was sacked earlier this month despite leading Spurs to victory in the Europa League final in May. Frank spent seven years in charge of Brentford.

in charge of Brentford, guiding the club from the Championship to the Premier League in 2021.

He is Tottenham's fourth permanent manager since June 2021.

Spurs finished 17th in the top flight last season, losing 22 of their 38 matches and finishing seven places and 18 points below Brentford.

However, they have qualified for next season's Champions League after beating Manchester United in the Europa League final in Bilbao cont. on page 19, col. 1
